

PROSPECTUS/CONSENT SOLICITATION STATEMENT

HOST MARRIOTT, L.P.
HMC MERGER CORPORATION

THE CONSENT SOLICITATION PERIOD EXPIRES AT 5:00 P.M., EASTERN TIME, ON DECEMBER 12, 1998, UNLESS EXTENDED (THE "SOLICITATION PERIOD").

Host Marriott Corporation ("Host") has adopted a plan to restructure its business operations so that it will qualify as a real estate investment trust ("REIT"). As part of this restructuring (the "REIT Conversion"), Host and its consolidated subsidiaries will contribute their full-service hotel properties and certain other businesses and assets to Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Operating Partnership") in exchange for units of limited partnership interest in the Operating Partnership ("OP Units") and the assumption of liabilities. The sole general partner of the Operating Partnership will be HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation" ("Host REIT"), the entity into which Host will merge as part of the REIT Conversion. Host REIT expects to qualify as a REIT beginning with its first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, which Host REIT currently expects to be the year beginning January 1, 1999 (but which might not be until the year beginning January 1, 2000).

As part of the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership is proposing to acquire by merger (the "Mergers") eight limited partnerships (the "Partnerships") that own full-service hotels in which Host or its subsidiaries are general partners. As more fully described in this Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement (the "Consent Solicitation"), limited partners of those Partnerships that participate in the Mergers will receive OP Units in exchange for their partnership interests in such Partnerships (with respect to the Partnerships, those limited partners of the Partnerships who are unaffiliated with Host are referred to herein as the "Limited Partners"). Limited Partners may elect to exchange such OP Units received in connection with the Mergers for either shares of common stock, par value $.01 per share, of Host REIT ("Common Shares") or unsecured 6.56% Callable Notes due December 15, 2005 issued by the Operating Partnership ("Notes"). Beginning one year after the Mergers, Limited Partners who retain OP Units will have the right to redeem their OP Units at any time and receive, at the election of Host REIT, either Common Shares of Host REIT on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment) or cash in an amount equal to the market value of such shares (the "Unit Redemption Right").

SEE "RISK FACTORS" BEGINNING ON PAGE 36 FOR MATERIAL RISKS RELEVANT TO AN INVESTMENT IN THE OP UNITS, COMMON SHARES OR NOTES, INCLUDING:

- . To the extent that the anticipated benefits of the REIT Conversion are reflected in the value of Host's common stock before the Effective Date, such benefits will not be shared with the Limited Partners.
- . No independent representative was retained to negotiate on behalf of the Limited Partners. If one had been, the terms of the Mergers may have been more favorable to the Limited Partners.
- . Other conflicts of interest exist in connection with structuring the Mergers and the REIT Conversion which may result in decisions that do not fully reflect the interests of all Limited Partners.
- . Host's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities, but not the Limited Partners, will benefit from any appreciation in the value of the shares of Crestline common stock distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution (as defined herein).
- . There is no assurance that the value of the OP Units, Common Shares or Notes to be received by the Limited Partners in connection with the Mergers will equal the fair market value of their Partnership Interests.
- . Limited Partners who retain OP Units will not be able to redeem them pursuant to the Unit Redemption Right until one year following the Mergers. Until then, Limited Partners will bear the risk of illiquidity and of not being able to sell in a falling market.
- . There will be no public market for the Notes. The deemed value of the OP Units (or the Common Shares issued in exchange therefor) will exceed the principal amount of the corresponding Notes in all Partnerships.
- . The receipt of Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units will be a fully taxable transaction and will result in "phantom income" for a Limited Partner with a "negative capital account" with respect to his Partnership Interest.
- . The preliminary estimated initial annual cash distributions of the Operating Partnership during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 ($226 million) will exceed its estimated cash available for distribution and cash from contingent rents during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999, which would require borrowings of approximately $9 million (or $0.04 per OP Unit) to make such distributions, and the estimated initial cash distributions to the Limited Partners of MHP and MHP2 following the Mergers will be significantly less than the estimated cash distributions from operations of MHP and MHP2 during 1998.

- . If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce the cash distributions per Common Share, but not the cash distributions per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated.
- . The Mergers involve a fundamental change in the nature of the investment of a Limited Partner from an investment in a finite-life, fixed-portfolio partnership into an investment in an ongoing real estate company which will own and acquire additional hotels.
- . There is uncertainty at the time of voting as to the exact size and leverage of the Operating Partnership and the exact number of OP Units that may be received in the Mergers (which will not be known for approximately 25 trading days following the Mergers).
- . The Operating Partnership will be substantially dependent for its revenue upon the Lessees, Marriott International, Inc. and other companies that manage the Hotels and upon the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, and the Operating Partnership will have limited control over the operations of the Hotels and no control over the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.
- . Approval of the Merger and the related amendments to the partnership agreement by the requisite vote of the Limited Partners in a Partnership will bind all Limited Partners of such Partnership.
- . The inability of Host, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT to obtain one or more third-party consents prior to consummation of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion could have a material adverse effect on the Operating Partnership and Host REIT, and thus could reduce the value of the OP Units and Common Shares.
- . The Mergers will result in the Limited Partners being exposed to the general risks of ownership of hotels, leverage and the lack of restrictions on indebtedness of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT.
- . Actual or constructive ownership of more than 9.8% of the number or value of Host REIT's outstanding Common Shares and of more than 4.9% of the value of the OP Units (other than by Host REIT or The Blackstone Group) is prohibited, subject to waiver or modification by Host REIT or the Operating Partnership, as the case may be, in certain limited circumstances.
- . There are a variety of events and transactions that could cause a Limited Partner to recognize in the future all or a part of the gain that otherwise should be deferred by the retention of OP Units received in the Mergers.
- . Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP are required to sell some of their personal property to an affiliate of the Operating Partnership in the Mergers, which may cause Limited Partners of such Partnerships (except Hanover) to recognize a relatively modest amount of taxable income as a result thereof (which income could be offset with any unused passive loss carryforwards).
- . Taxation of Host REIT as a regular corporation if it fails to qualify as a REIT, or taxation of the Operating Partnership as a corporation if it fails to qualify as a partnership for federal income tax purposes, would, among other things, result in a material decrease in cash available for distribution and a material reduction in the value of the Common Shares and OP Units.
- . No assurance can be provided that new legislation, Treasury Regulations, administrative interpretations or court decisions will not significantly change the tax laws with respect to Host REIT's qualification as a REIT or the federal income tax consequences of such qualification.

THE GENERAL PARTNERS OF THE PARTNERSHIPS BELIEVE THAT THE MERGERS PROVIDE SUBSTANTIAL BENEFITS AND ARE FAIR TO THE LIMITED PARTNERS OF EACH PARTNERSHIP AND RECOMMEND THAT ALL LIMITED PARTNERS VOTE FOR THE MERGERS AND FOR THE RELATED AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. SEE "BACKGROUND AND REASONS FOR THE MERGERS AND THE REIT CONVERSION--REASONS FOR THE MERGERS."

The number of OP Units to be allocated to each Partnership will be based upon (i) its respective Exchange Value (as defined herein) and (ii) the price attributed to an OP Unit following the Mergers, determined as described herein (which, subject to adjustment, will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit) and will not be known at the time of voting. The number of Common Shares a Limited Partner may elect to receive in connection with the Mergers will equal the number of OP Units received. The principal amount of Notes that Limited Partners may elect to receive will be based upon their Partnership's Note Election Amount (as defined herein). See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units." The estimated Exchange Values and Note Election Amounts set forth in this Consent Solicitation may increase or decrease as a result of various adjustments, and will be finally calculated shortly before the closing of the Mergers (the "Effective Date").

NEITHER THIS TRANSACTION NOR THESE SECURITIES HAVE BEEN APPROVED OR DISAPPROVED BY THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION NOR HAS THE SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION PASSED UPON THE ACCURACY OR ADEQUACY OF THIS PROSPECTUS/CONSENT SOLICITATION STATEMENT. ANY REPRESENTATION TO THE CONTRARY IS A CRIMINAL OFFENSE.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK HAS NOT PASSED ON OR ENDORSED THE MERITS OF THIS OFFERING. ANY REPRESENTATION TO THE CONTRARY IS UNLAWFUL.

THIS PROSPECTUS/CONSENT SOLICITATION STATEMENT IS ONLY AUTHORIZED FOR DELIVERY TO LIMITED PARTNERS WHEN ACCOMPANIED BY ONE OR MORE SUPPLEMENTS RELATING TO THE PARTNERSHIPS IN WHICH SUCH LIMITED PARTNERS HOLD INTERESTS. SEE "AVAILABLE INFORMATION."

SUMMARY

This Summary does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by the more detailed information appearing elsewhere in this Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, including the appendices and supplements hereto (this "Consent Solicitation"), and is presented solely to provide an overview of the transactions described in detail in the remainder of this Consent Solicitation and of the business and investment considerations and risks related to the proposed transactions. Prospective investors are advised not to rely on this Summary, but to carefully review this entire Consent Solicitation.

The information contained herein, unless otherwise indicated, assumes the REIT Conversion (including the Blackstone Acquisition) occurs, all Partnerships (as defined herein) participate and no Common Shares or Notes (as defined herein) are issued (the "Full Participation Scenario").

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain matters discussed herein or delivered in connection with this Consent Solicitation are forward-looking statements. Certain, but not necessarily all, of such forward-looking statements can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "believes," "expects," "may," "will," "should," "estimates" or "anticipates" or the negative thereof or other variations thereof or comparable terminology. All forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may cause the actual transactions, results, performance or achievements of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to be materially different from any future transactions, results, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. The cautionary statements set forth under the caption "Risk Factors" and elsewhere in this Consent Solicitation identify important factors with respect to such forward-looking statements, including the following factors that could affect such forward-looking statements: (i) national and local economic and business conditions that will, among other things, affect demand for hotels and other properties, the level of rates and occupancy that can be achieved by such properties and the availability and terms of financing; (ii) the ability to maintain the properties in a first-class manner (including meeting capital expenditure requirements); (iii) the ability of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to compete effectively in areas such as access, location, quality of accommodations and room rate structures; (iv) the ability of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to acquire or develop additional properties and the risk that potential acquisitions or developments may not perform in accordance with expectations; (v) the ability of Host to obtain required consents of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host and its affiliates and of other third parties in connection with the REIT Conversion and to consummate all of the transactions constituting the REIT Conversion (including the Blackstone Acquisition); (vi) changes in travel patterns, taxes and government regulations which influence or determine wages, prices, construction procedures and costs; (vii) governmental approvals, actions and initiatives, including the need for compliance with environmental and safety requirements, and changes in laws and regulations or the interpretation thereof; (viii) the effects of tax legislative action; and (ix) in the case of Host REIT, the timing of Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT and the ability of Host REIT to satisfy complex rules in order to qualify for taxation as a REIT for federal income tax purposes and to operate effectively within the limitations imposed by these rules. Although the Operating Partnership and Host REIT believe the expectations reflected in such forward-looking statements are based upon reasonable assumptions, they can give no assurance that their expectations will be attained or that any deviations will not be material. The Operating Partnership and Host REIT undertake no obligation to publicly release the result of any revisions to these forward-looking statements that may be made to reflect any future events or circumstances.

CERTAIN KEY DEFINITIONS

The following terms have the meanings set forth below. See the "Glossary" at page 292 for the definitions of other capitalized terms used in this Consent Solicitation.

"Host"..... Host Marriott Corporation, a Delaware corporation, and either the general partner or an affiliate of the general partner of each Partnership, or, as the context may require, Host Marriott Corporation together with its subsidiaries or any of such subsidiaries.

"Host REIT"..... HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation, which will be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership and the successor to Host, or, as the context may require, HMC Merger Corporation, together with its subsidiaries or any of such subsidiaries. In connection with the REIT Conversion, HMC Merger Corporation will change its name to "Host Marriott Corporation."

"Operating Partnership"..... Host Marriott, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, or, as the context may require, such entity together with its subsidiaries, including the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries (as defined herein), or any of them; also means Host when used to describe such entity on a pro forma basis before the REIT Conversion.

"Company"..... Host (to the extent of its business and assets to be contributed to the Operating Partnership) with respect to periods prior to the REIT Conversion, and Host REIT and the Operating Partnership collectively with respect to the period after the REIT Conversion.

"Partnership"..... Any of Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("Atlanta Marquis"); Desert Springs Marriott Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("Desert Springs"); Hanover Marriott Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("Hanover"); Marriott Diversified American Hotels, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("MDAH"); Marriott Hotel Properties Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("MHP"); Marriott Hotel Properties II Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("MHP2"); Mutual Benefit Chicago Marriott Suite Hotel Partners, L.P. ("Chicago Suites"), a Rhode Island limited partnership; and Potomac Hotel Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership ("PHLP"); or, as the context may require, any such entity together with its subsidiaries, or any of such subsidiaries.

"General Partner"..... The general partner of a Partnership, each of which general partner is a wholly owned, direct or indirect subsidiary of Host (except in the case of PHLP, in which Host is the general partner).

"Limited Partners"..... The limited partners, excluding those affiliated with Host, of the Partnerships.

"Partnership Interests"..... The interests of the Limited Partners in their respective Partnerships.

"OP Units".....	The limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership.
"Common Shares".....	Shares of common stock, par value $.01 per share, of Host REIT.
"Note".....	An unsecured 6.56% Callable Note due December 15, 2005 of the Operating Partnership with a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of the Limited Partner's Partnership Interest.
"Crestline".....	Crestline Capital Corporation (formerly HMC Senior Communities, Inc.), a Delaware corporation, or, as the context may require, such entity together with the Lessees (as defined herein) and its other subsidiaries or any of them, which currently is a wholly owned subsidiary of Host but will become a separate public company as part of the REIT Conversion.
"Non-Controlled Subsidiaries".....	The one or more taxable corporations in which the Operating Partnership will own 95% of the economic interest but no voting stock and which will hold various assets contributed by Host and its subsidiaries to the Operating Partnership, which assets, if owned directly by the Operating Partnership, could jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT.
"Private Partnership".....	A partnership (other than a Partnership) or limited liability company that owns one or more full-service Hotels and that, prior to the REIT Conversion, is partially but not wholly owned by Host or one of its subsidiaries. The Private Partnerships are not participating in the Mergers.
"Hotel Partnership".....	Any Partnership or Private Partnership.
"Merger".....	The proposed merger of a subsidiary of the Operating Partnership (a "Merger Partnership") into a Partnership pursuant to this Consent Solicitation, in which the Partnership will be the surviving entity and will become a subsidiary of the Operating Partnership.
"Blackstone Acquisition".....	The expected acquisition from The Blackstone Group and a series of funds controlled by Blackstone Real Estate Partners (collectively, the "Blackstone Entities") of ownership of, or controlling interests in, twelve hotels and a mortgage loan secured by a thirteenth hotel in exchange for OP Units, the assumption of certain liabilities and other consideration, including up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock, to the extent such acquisition is consummated.
"Initial E&P Distribution"....	One or more taxable distributions by Host or Host REIT to its shareholders in connection with the REIT Conversion consisting of shares of common stock of Crestline and cash or other consideration in an amount to be determined.

"REIT Conversion"..... (i) The contribution by Host of its wholly owned Hotels, its interests in the Hotel Partnerships and certain other businesses and assets to the Operating Partnership, (ii) the recently completed refinancing and amendment of the debt securities and certain credit facilities of Host substantially in the manner described herein, (iii) the Mergers (if and to the extent consummated), (iv) the acquisition (whether by merger or otherwise) by the Operating Partnership of certain Private Partnerships or interests therein (if and to the extent consummated), (v) the Blackstone Acquisition (if and to the extent consummated), (vi) the creation and capitalization of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, (vii) the merger of Host into Host REIT and the distribution by Host or Host REIT of Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration to its shareholders and the Blackstone Entities in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution (as defined herein), (viii) the leasing of the Hotels to subsidiaries of Crestline or others and (ix) such other related transactions and steps occurring prior to, substantially concurrent with or within a reasonable time after the Effective Date as Host may determine in its sole discretion to be necessary or desirable to complete or facilitate the transactions contemplated herein or otherwise to permit Host REIT to elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes for the first full taxable year commencing after the Mergers.

OVERVIEW

This Consent Solicitation is being furnished to the Limited Partners of each Partnership to solicit their approval of a Merger of their Partnership with a subsidiary of the Operating Partnership, which has been formed primarily to continue and expand the full-service hotel ownership business of Host, operating together with its general partner, Host REIT, as an umbrella partnership REIT (an "UPREIT"). If the requisite Limited Partners of each Partnership consent to a Merger of their respective Partnership and to certain related amendments to the respective Partnership's partnership agreement and the other conditions for consummation of a Merger (including completion of the REIT Conversion) are satisfied or waived, the Operating Partnership will acquire such Partnership (a "Participating Partnership") by merger and the Limited Partners of such Participating Partnership will receive OP Units. The number of OP Units to be received by the Limited Partners in the Mergers will be based upon the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the first 20 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers (but, subject to adjustment, will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit even if such average trading price is less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per Common Share). The maximum and minimum prices per OP Unit will be reduced if the Blackstone Acquisition is not consummated and, as a result thereof, the Initial E&P Distribution exceeds $2.50 per Host or Host REIT common share. Each Limited Partner can elect, at any time prior to the end of the Election Period (as defined herein), to receive either Common Shares or a Note in exchange for all OP Units received in the Mergers.

The General Partners, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT believe that participation in the Mergers will provide the following benefits to Limited Partners:

- . The opportunity to receive regular cash distributions per OP Unit equal to the distributions paid on each Host REIT Common Share;
- . The ability to participate in the operations of a larger, more diverse enterprise with growth opportunities and generally lower leverage;

- . The ability to receive, in exchange for their OP Units, freely tradeable Host REIT Common Shares in connection with the Mergers;
- . The ability of Limited Partners who retain OP Units, at any time beginning one year following the Mergers, to liquidate their investment in the Operating Partnership for cash based upon the price of Host REIT Common Shares or, at the election of Host REIT, Host REIT Common Shares; and
- . The deferral, for Limited Partners who retain OP Units, of recognition of at least a substantial portion of any built-in taxable gain attributable to their Partnership Interests generally until such time as each Limited Partner elects to trigger such gain.

Host and the General Partners are proposing the Mergers in connection with a plan adopted by Host to restructure its business operations so that it will qualify as a real estate investment trust (a "REIT") under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). Host REIT expects to qualify as a REIT beginning with its first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, which currently is expected to be the year commencing January 1, 1999 (but which might not be until the year beginning January 1, 2000). Host's reasons for engaging in the REIT Conversion include the following:

- . Host believes the REIT structure, as a more tax efficient structure, will provide improved operating results through changing economic conditions and all phases of the hotel economic cycle.
- . Host believes the REIT Conversion, which will reduce corporate-level taxes and the need to incur debt to reduce corporate taxes through interest deductions, will improve its financial flexibility and allow it to continue to strengthen its balance sheet by reducing its overall debt to equity ratio over time.
- . As a REIT, Host believes it will be able to compete more effectively with other public lodging real estate companies that already are organized as REITs and to make performance comparisons with its peers more meaningful.
- . By becoming a dividend paying company, Host believes its shareholder base will expand to include investors attracted by yield as well as asset quality.
- . Host believes the adoption of the UPREIT structure will facilitate tax-deferred acquisitions of other hotels (such as in the case of the Blackstone Acquisition and the Mergers).

Host believes that these benefits justify the REIT Conversion even if the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999 (in which event the effectiveness of Host's REIT election could be delayed until January 1, 2000).

The primary business objectives of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT will be to (i) achieve long-term sustainable growth in "Funds From Operations" (defined as net income (or loss) computed in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), excluding gains (or losses) from debt restructuring and sales of properties, plus real estate related depreciation and amortization, and after adjustments for unconsolidated partnerships and joint ventures) and cash flow per OP Unit or Common Share, (ii) increase asset values by improving and expanding the initial Hotels, as appropriate, (iii) acquire additional existing and newly developed upscale and luxury full-service hotels in targeted markets, (iv) develop and construct upscale and luxury full-service hotels and (v) potentially pursue other real estate investments.

If the REIT Conversion is consummated as contemplated (including the Blackstone Acquisition), the Operating Partnership is expected initially to own, or have controlling interests in, approximately 125 full-service hotels, located throughout the United States and Canada containing approximately 58,500 rooms and operating primarily under the Marriott, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Swissotel and Hyatt brand names (the "Hotels").

Because REITs are not permitted under current federal income tax law to derive revenues directly from the operation of hotels, the Operating Partnership will lease the Hotels to lessees (the "Lessees") that will operate the Hotels under the existing management agreements and pay rent to the Operating Partnership, as more fully described herein. The Lessees generally will be wholly owned indirect subsidiaries of Crestline. Crestline, which currently is a wholly owned subsidiary of Host, will become a separate public company when Host or Host REIT distributes the common stock of Crestline and cash or other consideration to its existing shareholders and the Blackstone Entities in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution. Shares of Host REIT and Crestline will become separately traded securities and the companies will operate independently. There will be no overlap between the boards of Host REIT and Crestline. There will be a substantial overlap of shareholders of the two companies initially, but this overlap will diverge over time.

As the first step in a strategy to acquire non-Marriott as well as Marriott branded hotels, Host has entered into an agreement with the Blackstone Entities to acquire from the Blackstone Entities ownership of, or controlling interests in, twelve upscale and luxury full-service hotel properties (the "Blackstone Hotels") and certain other related assets (including a mortgage loan secured by an additional hotel) in exchange for a combination of cash and the assumption of debt totalling $862 million, 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit), and up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock and other consideration. If the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, the interests in the Blackstone Hotels will be contributed by the Blackstone Entities to the Operating Partnership as part of the REIT Conversion. The Blackstone Hotels will be leased to Lessees that are subsidiaries of Crestline and will continue to be managed under their existing management agreements. See "Business and Properties--Blackstone Acquisition."

The following table sets forth certain information as of June 19, 1998 (or, in the case of average daily rate, average occupancy and revenues per available room ("REVPAR")), for the twenty-four weeks then ended ("First Two Quarters 1998")) for the Hotels that are expected to comprise the Operating Partnership's initial full-service lodging portfolio:

- -----
- (1) REVPAR is a commonly used indicator of market performance of hotels. REVPAR measures daily room revenues generated on a per room basis by combining the average daily room rate charged and the average daily occupancy achieved. REVPAR excludes food and beverage and other ancillary revenues generated by the hotel.
- (2) Currently included in Host's consolidated financial statements.
- (3) Atlanta Marquis has an 80% residual interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel.
- (4) Includes Marriott's Harbor Beach Resort, in which MHP owns a 50.5% interest.
- (5) Includes the Santa Clara Marriott, in which MHP2 owns a 50% interest and Host owns the remaining 50% interest.
- (6) Includes the Tampa Westshore Marriott and the Raleigh Crabtree Marriott, which are currently consolidated by Host. A subsidiary of Host provided 100% nonrecourse financing totaling approximately $35 million to PHLP, in which Host owns the sole general partner interest, for the acquisition of these two hotels.
- (7) Includes the hotels owned by Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2.
- (8) Includes the hotels owned by all Hotel Partnerships and the Blackstone Hotels, assuming the Full Participation Scenario.

RISK FACTORS

The following is a summary of the material risks associated with the Mergers. This summary is qualified in its entirety by the detailed discussion in the section entitled "Risk Factors" contained in this Consent Solicitation. Some of the significant matters Limited Partners should consider carefully include:

- . Substantial Benefits to Related Parties. Host REIT and its subsidiaries will realize substantial benefits from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, including savings from a substantial reduction in corporate-level income taxes expected as a result of the REIT Conversion. To the extent that the anticipated benefits of the REIT Conversion are reflected in the value of Host's common stock before the Effective Date, such benefits will not be shared with the Limited Partners. The benefits to Host of the REIT Conversion will be reduced if one or more of the Partnerships do not participate in a Merger, thereby creating a conflict of interest for the General Partners in connection with the Mergers.
- . Absence of Arm's Length Negotiations. No independent representative was retained to negotiate on behalf of the Limited Partners. Although the General Partners have obtained the Appraisals (as defined herein) and the Fairness Opinion (as defined herein) from American Appraisal Associates, Inc., an independent, nationally recognized hotel valuation and financial advisory firm ("AAA"), AAA has not negotiated with the General Partners or Host and has not participated in establishing the terms of the Mergers. Consequently, the terms and conditions of the Mergers may have been more favorable to the Limited Partners if such terms and conditions were the result of arm's length negotiations.
- . Other Conflicts of Interest. The Mergers, the REIT Conversion and the recommendations of the General Partners involve the following conflicts of interest because of the relationships among Host, Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the General Partners and Crestline. The General Partners, which are all subsidiaries of Host (except for PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner), must assess whether a Merger is fair and equitable to and advisable for the Limited Partners of its Partnership. This assessment involves considerations that are different from those relevant to the determination of whether the Mergers and the REIT Conversion are advisable for Host and its shareholders. The considerations relevant to that determination which create a conflict of interest include Host's belief that the REIT Conversion is advisable for its shareholders, the benefits of the REIT Conversion to Host will be greater if the Partnerships participate and Host REIT will benefit if the value of the OP Units received by the Limited Partners in the Mergers is less than the value of their Partnership Interests. In addition, the terms of the Leases of the Hotels, including the Participating Partnerships' Hotels, will be determined by Host and the terms of the Partnership Agreement, including provisions which benefit Host REIT, have been determined by Host. Such conflicts may result in decisions that do not fully reflect the interests of all Limited Partners.
- . Exchange Value May Not Equal Fair Market Value of the Partnerships' Hotels. Each Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who retains OP Units or elects to exchange OP Units for Common Shares will receive consideration with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest. The determination of the Exchange Value of each Partnership involves numerous estimates and assumptions. There is no assurance that the Exchange Value of a Partnership will equal the fair market value of the Hotels and other assets contributed by such Partnership. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."
- . Allocation of OP Units to Host REIT Is Different from Allocation of OP Units to the Partnerships. Following the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will own a number of OP Units equal to the number of shares of Host common stock outstanding on the Effective Date (including the OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other subsidiaries of Host in the Mergers and the OP Units to be acquired from Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers) and, if Host has outstanding shares of preferred stock at the time of the REIT Conversion, a corresponding number of preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership. Host REIT's OP Units, in the aggregate, should fairly represent the market value of Host REIT but may not be equal to the fair market or net asset value of the Hotels and other assets that Host will contribute to the Operating Partnership. The Partnerships will receive OP Units in the Mergers with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Partnership. The different methods of allocating OP Units to Host REIT and the Partnerships may result in Limited Partners not receiving the fair market value of their Partnership Interests and Host REIT receiving a higher percentage of the interests in the Operating Partnership. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

- . Allocations of OP Units to the Blackstone Entities and the Private Partnerships Were Not Determined by the Exchange Value Methodologies. The price and other terms of the acquisitions of certain Private Partnerships and the Blackstone Acquisition (and thus the allocation of OP Units resulting therefrom) were determined by arm's length negotiations. The assets to be acquired in the Blackstone Acquisition did not generate, in the aggregate, pro forma net income for 1997 or the First Two Quarters 1998. If the partners' interests in the Private Partnerships and the assets of the Blackstone Entities had been valued by the same methodologies used to determine the Exchange Values in the Mergers, the value of the OP Units to be allocated to such partners or the Blackstone Entities may have been less than they actually will receive. The different methods of allocating OP Units may result in the Limited Partners receiving relatively less for their Partnership Interests than the partners in the Private Partnerships and the Blackstone Entities.
- . Price of OP Units or Common Shares Might Be Less than the Fair Market Value of the Partnership Interests. The price of an OP Unit for purposes of the Mergers will be equal to the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the first 20 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers (but it will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit). This pricing mechanism has the effect of fixing the minimum and maximum number of OP Units to be issued in the Mergers. It is likely that, either initially or over time, the value of the publicly traded Common Shares of Host REIT (and therefore the value of the OP Units) will diverge from the deemed value of the OP Units used for purposes of the Mergers. This could result in the Limited Partners receiving OP Units or Common Shares with an actual value that is less than either the price of the OP Units for purposes of the Mergers or the fair market value of their Partnership Interests.
- . Inability of Limited Partners Who Retain OP Units to Redeem OP Units for One Year. Limited Partners who retain OP Units received in the Mergers will be unable to redeem such OP Units for one year following the Mergers. Until then, Limited Partners will bear the risk of illiquidity and of not being able to sell in a falling market.
- . Value of the Notes Will be Less than the Exchange Value. In exchange for OP Units received in a Merger, each Limited Partner may elect to receive an unsecured, seven-year Note of the Operating Partnership with a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interest. The deemed value of the OP Units will exceed the principal amount of the corresponding Notes in all Partnerships (because the Exchange Values will be higher than the Note Election Amounts) and there is no assurance that the Note a Limited Partner receives will have a value equal to either (i) the fair market value of the Limited Partner's share of the Hotels and other assets owned by his Partnership or (ii) the principal amount of the Notes. There will be no public market for the Notes. If the Notes are sold, they may sell at prices substantially below their issuance price. Noteholders are likely to receive the full principal amount of a Note only if they hold the Note to maturity, which is December 15, 2005, or if the Operating Partnership repays the Notes prior to maturity. Because the Notes are unsecured obligations of the Operating Partnership, they will be effectively subordinated to all secured debt of the Operating Partnership and all obligations of both the Participating Partnerships and the Operating Partnership's other subsidiaries. See "Description of the Notes." As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership would have had aggregate consolidated debt of approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures related to the Convertible Preferred Securities) to which the Notes were effectively subordinated or which ranks equally with such Notes.

- . Cash Distributions May Exceed Cash Available for Distribution; Reduced Cash Distributions for Certain Limited Partners. The preliminary estimated initial annual cash distributions of the Operating Partnership during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 ($226 million) will exceed its estimated cash available for distribution ($163 million) and cash from contingent rents ($54 million) during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 (totaling $217 million), which would require borrowings of approximately $9 million (or $0.04 per OP Unit) to make such distributions in accordance with the Operating Partnership's distribution policy. Moreover, if estimated cash from contingent rents were less than $54 million, then the Operating Partnership also would be required to borrow any such shortfall in order to make such distributions. In addition, the estimated initial annual cash distributions of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to the Limited Partners of MHP and MHP2 per Partnership Unit ($7,645 and $12,862, respectively) will be less than the estimated cash distributions from operations of MHP and MHP2 per Partnership Unit ($16,000 and $27,164, respectively) during 1998.
- . Timing of the REIT Conversion. Host intends to cause the REIT Conversion to be completed as soon as possible, but there is no assurance that it will be completed during 1998 in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. The deadline for consummation of the Mergers is June 30, 1999, unless extended by mutual agreement of the Operating Partnership and the General Partners to a date no later than December 31, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in 1998, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed to January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce Host REIT's estimated cash distributions per Common Share during 1999 to $0.52 per Common Share, but not the Operating Partnership's estimated cash distributions of $0.84 per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated.
- . Fundamental Change in Nature of Investment; Potential Underperformance. The Mergers and the REIT Conversion involve a fundamental change in the nature of a Limited Partner's investment from holding an interest in one or more Partnerships, some of which were structured as tax shelter or tax credit investments, and each of which is a finite-life entity, has a fixed portfolio of one or more Hotels and distributes the cash flow from the operation of such Hotels to its Limited Partners, to holding a direct or indirect interest in the Operating Partnership, an ongoing real estate company with an expected portfolio of approximately 125 Hotels that (i) collects and distributes to its limited partners rents received from the Lessees (which will bear the risks and receive the direct benefits of the Hotels' operations), (ii) has the ability to acquire additional hotels and (iii) is able to reinvest proceeds from sales or refinancings of existing Hotels in other hotels. In addition, each Limited Partner's investment will change from one that allows a Limited Partner to receive a return of capital in the form of distributions from any net proceeds of a sale or refinancing of a Partnership's assets to an investment in which a Limited Partner who retains OP Units likely would realize a return of capital only through the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right. Those Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will hold an equity interest in a publicly traded REIT that (i) provides immediate liquidity, (ii) intends to make distributions to its shareholders in an amount equal to at least 95% of its taxable income, (iii) allows shareholders to influence management by participation in the election of directors and (iv) realizes substantial corporate tax savings as long as certain requirements are met. A Limited Partner's share of the liquidation proceeds, if any, from the sale of a Partnership's Hotel or Hotels could be higher than the amount realized upon exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, the sale of Common Shares received in connection with the Mergers or payments on any Note received by a Limited Partner who elects to exchange his OP Units for such Note. An investment in the Operating Partnership or Host REIT may not outperform an investment in any individual Partnership. See "Comparison of Ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares."
- . Exposure to Market and Economic Conditions of Other Hotels. As a result of the Mergers, Limited Partners in Participating Partnerships who retain OP Units or elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will own interests in a much larger enterprise with a broader range of assets than any of the Partnerships individually. A material adverse change affecting the Operating Partnership's assets will affect all Limited Partners regardless of whether a particular Limited Partner previously was an investor in such affected assets. Each Partnership owns discrete assets, and the Mergers and the REIT Conversion will significantly diversify the types and geographic locations of the Hotels in which the Limited Partners will have interests. As a result, the Hotels owned by the Operating Partnership may be affected differently by economic and market conditions than those Hotel(s) previously owned by an individual Partnership.

- . Limited Partners Have No Cash Appraisal Rights. Limited Partners of Participating Partnerships who vote against the Merger will not have a right to receive cash based upon an appraisal of their Partnership Interests.
- . Uncertainties as to the Size and Leverage of the Operating Partnership. The Limited Partners cannot know at the time they vote on a Merger the exact size and amount of leverage of the Operating Partnership. Host is an existing operating company that regularly issues and repays debt, acquires additional hotels and disposes of existing hotels. Also, some or all of the Partnerships may elect not to participate in a Merger (a "Non-Participating Partnership"). In addition, outside partners in certain Private Partnerships may not consent to a lease of their partnership's Hotel(s). In either such case, Host will contribute its interests in such Partnerships and Private Partnerships to the Operating Partnership, but the Operating Partnership may, in turn, contribute such interests to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary, which will be subject to corporate-level income taxation. Host also may repurchase outstanding securities or issue new debt or equity securities prior to the consummation of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion.
- . Other Uncertainties at the Time of Voting Include the Number of OP Units to be Received. There are several other uncertainties at the time the Limited Partners must vote on the Mergers, including (i) the exact Exchange Value for each Partnership (which will be adjusted for changes in lender and capital expenditure reserves, deferred maintenance and other items prior to the Effective Date), (ii) the price of the OP Units for purposes of the Mergers, which will be determined by reference to the post-Merger trading prices of Host REIT's Common Shares (but will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit) and which, together with the Exchange Value, will determine the number of OP Units (or Common Shares) the Limited Partners of each Participating Partnership will receive and (iii) the exact principal amount of the Notes that may be received in exchange for OP Units, which cannot be known until after the Note Election Amount is determined. For these reasons, the Limited Partners cannot know at the time they vote on a Merger these important aspects of the Merger and they will not know the number of OP Units received in a Merger until approximately 25 trading days after the Merger.
- . Current Host Common Stock Price Is Not Necessarily Indicative of the Price of Host REIT Common Shares Following the REIT Conversion. Host's current stock price is not necessarily indicative of how the market will value Host REIT Common Shares following the REIT Conversion. The current stock price of Host reflects the current market valuation of Host's current business and assets (including the Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration to be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution) and not solely the business and assets of Host REIT following the REIT Conversion. Host's current stock price also is affected by general market conditions.
- . Lack of Control over Hotel Operations and Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. Due to current federal income tax law restrictions on a REIT's ability to derive revenues directly from the operation of a hotel, the Operating Partnership will lease virtually all of its consolidated Hotels to the Lessees, which will operate the Hotels by continuing to retain the existing managers of the Hotels (the "Managers") pursuant to the existing long-term management agreements (the "Management Agreements"). The Operating Partnership will not operate the Hotels or participate in the decisions affecting the daily operations of the Hotels. The Operating Partnership will have only a limited ability to require the Lessees or the Managers to operate or manage the Hotels in any particular manner and no ability to govern any particular aspect of their day-to-day operation or management. The Operating Partnership also will not own any of the voting stock of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, which may own, in the aggregate, up to 20% by value of the Operating Partnership's assets. Therefore, the Operating Partnership will be dependent for its revenue upon the ability of the Lessees and the Managers to operate and manage the Hotels and the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries to operate and manage their businesses.

- . Dependence upon Crestline. Crestline and its subsidiaries will be the Lessees of substantially all of the Hotels and their rent payments will be the primary source of Host REIT's revenues. Crestline's financial condition and ability to meet its obligations under the Leases will determine the Operating Partnership's ability to make distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders. As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis, after giving effect to the REIT Conversion, Crestline would have had approximately $315 million of indebtedness (including $100 million due to Host REIT to pay for hotel working capital purchased from Host REIT but not including guarantees of obligations of Crestline's subsidiaries under the Leases and the Management Agreements) and Crestline can incur additional indebtedness in the future. There can be no assurance that Crestline will have sufficient assets, income and access to financing to enable it to satisfy its obligations under the Leases. In addition, the credit rating of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT will be affected by the general creditworthiness of Crestline.
- . Expiration of the Leases and Possible Inability to Find Other Lessees. The Leases generally will expire seven to ten years after the Effective Date, and there can be no assurance that the affected Hotels will be relet to the Lessees (or if relet, will be relet on terms as favorable to the Operating Partnership). If the Hotels are not relet to the Lessees, the Operating Partnership will be required to find other lessees, which lessees must meet certain requirements set forth in the Management Agreements and the Code. There can be no assurance that satisfactory lessees could be found or as to the terms and conditions on which the Operating Partnership would be able to relet the Hotels or enter into new leases with such lessees, which could result in a failure of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT or in reduced cash available for distribution.
- . Requisite Vote of Limited Partners of Partnerships Binds All Limited Partners. For each Partnership, approval of a Merger and the related amendments to its partnership agreement by the requisite vote of the Limited Partners, as described in "Voting Procedures--Required Limited Partner Vote and Other Conditions," will cause the Partnership to participate in the Merger and will bind all Limited Partners of such Partnership, including Limited Partners who voted against or abstained from voting with respect to the Merger and the related amendments to its partnership agreement.
- . Inability to Obtain Third-Party Consents May Have a Material Adverse Effect. There are numerous third-party consents which are required to be obtained in order to consummate the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. The inability of Host, the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to obtain one or more such consents could cause a default under cross-default provisions of the Company's principal credit facilities or otherwise have a material adverse effect on the Operating Partnership and Host REIT and thus could reduce the value of the OP Units and Common Shares.
- . Competition in the Lodging Industry. The profitability of the Hotels is subject to general economic conditions, the management abilities of the Managers (including primarily Marriott International), competition, the desirability of particular locations and other factors relating to the operation of the Hotels. The full-service segment of the lodging industry, in which virtually all of the Hotels operate, is highly competitive and the Hotels generally operate in geographical markets that contain numerous competitors. The Hotels' success will be dependent, in large part, upon their ability to compete in such areas as access, location, quality of accommodations, room rate structure, the quality and scope of food and beverage facilities and other services and amenities. The lodging industry, including the Hotels (and thus the Operating Partnership), may be adversely affected in the future by (i) national and regional economic conditions, (ii) changes in travel patterns, (iii) taxes and government regulations which influence or determine wages, prices, interest rates, construction procedures and costs, (iv) the availability of credit and (v) other factors beyond the control of the Operating Partnership.

- . Substantial Indebtedness of the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership will have substantial indebtedness. As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership had outstanding indebtedness totaling approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures related to the Convertible Preferred Securities), which represents an approximately 62% debt-to-total market capitalization ratio on a pro forma basis at such date (based upon a price per Common Share of Host REIT of $12.50). The Operating Partnership's business is capital intensive, and it will have significant capital requirements in the future. The Operating Partnership's leverage level could affect its ability to (i) obtain financing in the future, (ii) undertake refinancings on terms and subject to conditions deemed acceptable by the Operating Partnership, (iii) make distributions to partners (including Host REIT), (iv) pursue its acquisition strategy or (v) compete effectively or operate successfully under adverse economic conditions.
- . No Limitation on Debt. There are no limitations in Host REIT's or the Operating Partnership's organizational documents which limit the amount of indebtedness either may incur, although both the Notes and the Operating Partnership's other debt instruments will contain certain restrictions on the amount of indebtedness that the Operating Partnership may incur.
- . Rental Revenues from Hotels Subject to Prior Rights of Lenders. In accordance with the mortgage loan agreements with respect to outstanding indebtedness of certain Hotel Partnerships, the rental revenues received by such Hotel Partnerships under certain Leases first will be used to satisfy the debt service on such outstanding indebtedness with only the cash flow remaining after debt service being available to satisfy other obligations of the Hotel Partnership (including paying property taxes and insurance, funding the required FF&E reserves for the Hotels and capital improvements and paying debt service with respect to unsecured debt) and to make distributions to holders of OP Units (including Host REIT).
- . Ownership Limitations. No person or persons acting as a group may own, actually or constructively (as determined under the applicable Code provisions), (i) in excess of 9.8% of the number or value of outstanding Common Shares of Host REIT or (ii) in excess of 4.9% of the value of the OP Units (other than Host REIT and The Blackstone Group), subject to waiver or modification by Host REIT or the Operating Partnership, as the case may be, in certain limited circumstances.
- . Anti-Takeover Effect of Certain Provisions of Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws, Maryland Law and the Shareholder Rights Plan. The Articles of Incorporation (the "Charter") and Bylaws of Host REIT to be effective upon completion of the merger of Host with and into Host REIT, as well as provisions of Maryland law, contain certain provisions that could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of Host REIT. These provisions could limit the price that certain investors might be willing to pay in the future for Common Shares. Certain of these provisions provide for a staggered board and allow Host REIT to issue, without shareholder approval, preferred shares or other stock having rights senior to those of the Common Shares. The Board of Directors also is authorized, without a vote of shareholders, to classify or reclassify unissued common or preferred shares into another class or series of shares. Other provisions impose various procedural and other requirements that could make it difficult for shareholders to effect certain corporate actions. The Charter also provides that no person or persons acting as a group may own more than 9.8% (in number or value) of the outstanding shares of any class or series of shares of Host REIT. Host REIT also intends to adopt a Shareholder Rights Plan to replace the existing stockholder rights plan of Host. Host REIT also will become subject to the business combination and control share provisions under Maryland law. Marriott International, Inc. ("Marriott International") has the right to purchase up to 20% of each class of Host's outstanding voting stock at the then fair market value upon the occurrence of certain change of control (or potential change of control) events involving Host, which right will continue in effect after the Mergers until June 2017, subject to certain limitations intended to protect the REIT status of Host REIT. See "Certain Provisions of Maryland Law and Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws."

- . Effect of Subsequent Events upon Recognition of Gain. Even though the Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships (other than those who elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers) generally are not expected to recognize significant taxable gain at the time of the Mergers, there are a variety of events and transactions (including the sale of one or more of the Hotels or the reduction of indebtedness securing one or more of the Hotels or, possibly, with respect to the MHP Limited Partners, the transfer of MHP's interest in the Harbor Beach Resort to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion in the event that certain third-party consents to the MHP Merger and the REIT Conversion are not obtained) that could cause a Limited Partner to recognize all or a part of the gain that otherwise has been deferred through the REIT Conversion. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Effect of Subsequent Events." Certain Hotels (including the Blackstone Hotels) will be covered by agreements with third parties which will restrict the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of those properties or refinance their debt. In addition, if Atlanta Marquis participates in the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to an existing agreement that will restrict its ability to dispose of the Atlanta Marquis Hotel or to refinance the debt secured by such Hotel without compensating certain outside partners for the resulting adverse tax consequences. The partnership agreement of the Operating Partnership, which is substantially in the form attached hereto as Appendix A (the "Partnership Agreement"), does not impose any restrictions on the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of the Hotels or to refinance debt secured by the Hotels (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions). In addition, the Partnership Agreement provides that Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences of the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes that Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions) and the limited partners have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions. See "Description of OP Units--Sales of Assets."
- . Sale of Personal Property May Result in Gain to Limited Partners in Certain Partnerships. In order to facilitate the participation of Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP in the Mergers without adversely affecting Host REIT's qualification as a REIT, the Operating Partnership will require, as part of the Mergers, that Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP sell a portion of the personal property associated with the Hotels owned by such Partnerships to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary. These sales will be taxable transactions and, with the exception of the sale by Hanover, may result in an allocation of a relatively modest amount of ordinary recapture income by each Partnership to its Limited Partners. This income, if any, will be allocated to each Limited Partner in the same proportion and to the same extent that such Limited Partner was allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gains as recapture income. A Limited Partner who receives such an allocation of recapture income would not be entitled to any special distribution from his Partnership in connection with the sale of personal property.
- . Election to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares. A Limited Partner who elects to receive Common Shares in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers (the "Common Share Election") will be treated as having made a fully taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur at the time his right to receive the Common Shares becomes fixed (which would be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). If such Limited Partner has a "negative capital account" with respect to his Partnership Interest, he will recognize "phantom income" (i.e., the income recognized would exceed the value of the Common Shares by the amount of his negative capital account). See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election." Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will not receive the Crestline common stock or any other portion of the Initial E&P Distribution, which will have been distributed before they become shareholders of Host REIT (approximately 25 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers).

- . Election to Exchange OP Units for Notes. A Limited Partner who elects to receive a Note in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers (the "Note Election") will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to occur on December 30, 1998). A Limited Partner who receives a Note may be eligible to defer at least a portion, but not all, of that gain under the "installment sale" rules until principal on the Note is paid. A Limited Partner with a "negative capital account" with respect to his Partnership Interest who elects to receive a Note in connection with the Mergers will recognize "phantom income" in that amount in any event at the time the taxable disposition is deemed to occur. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."
- . Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT for Tax Purposes. Taxation of Host REIT as a corporation if it fails to qualify as a REIT, and Host REIT's subsequent liability for federal, state and local taxes on its income and property, would, among other things, have the effect of reducing cash available for distribution to Host REIT's shareholders and materially reducing the value of the Common Shares and OP Units.
- . Failure of the Operating Partnership to Qualify as a Partnership for Tax Purposes. Taxation of the Operating Partnership as a corporation if it fails to qualify as a partnership and the Operating Partnership's subsequent liability for federal, state and local income taxes would, among other things, have the effect of reducing cash available for distribution to holders of OP Units and Common Shares, would cause Host REIT to fail to qualify as a REIT for tax purposes and would cause the holders of OP Units to recognize substantial taxable gain at the time the Operating Partnership ceases to qualify as a partnership.
- . Failure of the Leases to Qualify as Leases. If one or more of the Leases of the Hotels to the Lessees were to be disregarded for tax purposes (for example, because a Lease was determined to lack economic substance), Host REIT would fail to qualify as a REIT and the Operating Partnership might be treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes, which would have a material adverse impact on the Limited Partners and the value of the OP Units and the Common Shares.
- . Change in Tax Laws. No assurance can be provided that new legislation, Treasury Regulations, administrative interpretations or court decisions will not significantly change the tax laws with respect to Host REIT's qualification as a REIT or the federal income tax consequences of such qualification.
- . Limited Partners Need to Consult with Their Own Tax Advisors. Because the specific tax attributes of a Limited Partner and the facts regarding such Limited Partner's interest in his Partnership could have a material impact on the tax consequences to such Limited Partner of the Mergers (including the decision whether to elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers) and the subsequent ownership and disposition of OP Units, Common Shares or a Note, it is essential that each Limited Partner consult with his own tax advisors regarding the application of federal, foreign, state and local tax laws to such Limited Partner's personal tax situation.
- . Effect of Possible Classification as a Publicly Traded Partnership on Passive Losses. There is a significant possibility that the Operating Partnership could be classified as a "publicly traded partnership," in which event the Limited Partners would not be able to use suspended passive activity losses from other investments (including from the Partnerships) to offset income from the Operating Partnership. It is estimated that each Limited Partner in Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, MDAH and MHP who purchased his Partnership Interest at the time of the original offering of such Interests, has held such Partnership Interest continuously since that time and whose Partnership Interest has been his only investment in a passive activity, would have a passive activity loss carryforward as of December 31, 1998.

- . Host REIT's Substantial Deferred Tax and Contingent Liabilities. Host REIT will have substantial deferred tax liabilities attributable to Host's assets and operations that are likely to be recognized in the next ten years (notwithstanding Host REIT's status as a REIT), and the IRS could assert substantial additional liabilities for taxes against Host for taxable years prior to the time Host REIT qualifies as a REIT. Under the terms of the REIT Conversion and the Partnership Agreement, the Operating Partnership will be responsible for paying (or reimbursing Host REIT for the payment of) all such tax liabilities, as well as any other liabilities (including contingent liabilities and liabilities attributable to litigation that Host REIT may incur), whether such liabilities are incurred by reason of Host's activities prior to the REIT Conversion or the activities of Host REIT subsequent thereto.

THE REIT CONVERSION

The transactions summarized below collectively constitute the REIT Conversion. If the required shareholder and partner approvals for the various transactions are obtained and other conditions to the different steps in the REIT Conversion are satisfied or waived, these transactions are expected to occur at various times prior to the end of 1998 (or as soon thereafter as practicable). The Mergers of the Participating Partnerships are expected to occur at the final stage of the REIT Conversion. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners are seeking the approval of the Mergers and the related partnership agreement amendments at this time, in advance of satisfaction of all other contingencies, in order to determine how the Partnerships will fit into the UPREIT structure following the REIT Conversion, which Host desires to implement during 1998 in order to permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for its 1999 taxable year. Consummation of the Mergers is not conditioned on the REIT Conversion being completed in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce Host REIT's cash distributions per Common Share but not the Operating Partnership's cash distributions per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated. In view of the complexity of the REIT Conversion and the number of transactions that must occur to complete the REIT Conversion, Host and the General Partners believe that it is beneficial both to the Limited Partners and the shareholders of Host to complete the REIT Conversion as soon as practicable, even if the REIT Conversion cannot be completed prior to January 1, 1999. If Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT is not effective on January 1, 1999, Host REIT intends to operate following the REIT Conversion in a manner that would permit it to qualify as a REIT at the earliest time practicable, and it might pursue a merger with another entity or other transaction that would permit it to commence a new taxable year and elect REIT status prior to January 1, 2000. Host REIT in any event would elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes not later than its taxable year commencing January 1, 2000. It is a condition to the Mergers that they be completed by June 30, 1999, unless the General Partners and the Operating Partnership mutually agree to extend that deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

- . Contribution of Host's Lodging Assets to the Operating Partnership. As a preliminary step, at various times during 1998, Host will contribute its wholly owned full-service hotel assets, its interests in the Hotel Partnerships (other than its interests in the General Partners, who will remain in existence as subsidiaries of Host REIT and will receive OP Units in the Mergers) and its other assets (excluding its senior living assets and the cash or other consideration to be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution and certain other de minimis assets that cannot be contributed to the Operating Partnership) to the Operating Partnership in exchange for (i) a number of OP Units equal to the number of outstanding shares of common stock of Host at the time of the REIT Conversion (reduced by the number of OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other subsidiaries of Host in the Mergers), (ii) preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership corresponding to any shares of Host preferred stock outstanding at the time of the REIT Conversion and (iii) the assumption by the Operating Partnership of all liabilities of Host (including past and future contingent liabilities), other than liabilities of Crestline. Following these contributions, the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries will directly or indirectly own all of Host's wholly owned hotels, substantially all of Host's interests in the Hotel Partnerships and all of Host's other assets (excluding its senior living assets and the cash or other consideration to be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution and certain other de minimis assets that cannot be contributed to the Operating Partnership).

- . Debt Refinancing. In August 1998, Host refinanced $1.55 billion of outstanding public bonds (the "Bond Refinancing") through offers to purchase such debt securities for cash and a concurrent solicitation of consents to amend the terms of the debt securities to facilitate the transactions constituting the REIT Conversion. Host obtained the funds for the Bond Refinancing primarily from the issuance of new debt securities and a new $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility"). See "Business and Properties--Indebtedness."
- . Treatment of Convertible Preferred Securities. In the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership will assume primary liability for repayment of the $567 million of convertible subordinated debentures of Host underlying the $550 million of outstanding Quarterly Income Preferred Securities of Host ("Convertible Preferred Securities"). As the successor to Host, Host REIT also will be liable on the debentures and the debentures will become convertible into Common Shares, but the Operating Partnership will have primary responsibility for payment of the debentures, including all costs of conversion. Upon conversion by a Convertible Preferred Securities holder, the Operating Partnership will acquire Common Shares from Host REIT in exchange for an equal number of OP Units and distribute the Common Shares to the Convertible Preferred Securities holder. As a result of the distribution of Crestline common stock and the cash or other consideration to Host REIT shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, the conversion ratio of the Convertible Preferred Securities will be adjusted to take into account certain effects of the REIT Conversion. See "Business and Properties--Indebtedness."
- . The Mergers. On the Effective Date, each Participating Partnership will merge with a Merger Partnership. The Participating Partnerships will be the surviving entities of the Mergers and will continue in existence as indirect subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership. In the Mergers, each Limited Partner will receive a number of OP Units with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of his respective Partnership Interests. If a Limited Partner elects to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers, such Limited Partner will, upon receipt of his OP Units, tender (or be deemed to tender) all of such OP Units to Host REIT in exchange for an equal number of Common Shares or to the Operating Partnership in exchange for a Note with a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interests. The General Partners and other subsidiaries of Host will also receive OP Units in exchange for their interests in the Partnerships and the General Partners will continue as wholly owned direct or indirect subsidiaries of Host REIT. Partnerships that do not participate in a Merger will continue as separate partnerships, but the Operating Partnership would contribute some or all of the interests in certain of these Partnerships (such as Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2) that it receives from Host and its subsidiaries to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary.
- . Restructuring of the Private Partnerships. The Operating Partnership will acquire the partnership interests from unaffiliated partners of four Private Partnerships in exchange for OP Units and, accordingly, will own all of the interests in those Private Partnerships. For the remaining Private Partnerships, (i) the Operating Partnership will be a partner in the partnership if the unaffiliated partners consent to a lease of the partnership's Hotel(s) to a Lessee or (ii) if the requisite consents to enter into a lease are not obtained, the Operating Partnership may transfer its interest in such partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary.

- . The Blackstone Acquisition. Subject to various terms and conditions, the Operating Partnership expects to acquire from the Blackstone Entities ownership of, or controlling interests in, twelve hotels and two mortgage loans, one secured by one of the acquired hotels and one secured by an additional hotel. In addition, Host REIT will acquire a 25% interest in the Swissotel management company from the Blackstone Entities, which Host REIT will transfer to Crestline. If the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, the Operating Partnership expects to issue approximately 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit), assume debt and make cash payments totaling approximately $862 million and distribute up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock and other consideration to the Blackstone Entities.

- . Contribution of Assets to Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. The Operating Partnership will organize the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries to hold various assets (not exceeding, in the aggregate, 20% by value of the assets of the Operating Partnership) contributed by Host and its subsidiaries to the Operating Partnership. The direct ownership of most of these assets by the Operating Partnership could jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT. These assets primarily will consist of partnership or other interests in hotels which are not leased, certain furniture, fixtures and equipment used in the Hotels and certain international hotels in which Host owns interests. In exchange for the contribution of these assets to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Operating Partnership will receive nonvoting common stock representing 95% of the total economic interests of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. In addition, the Operating Partnership and, prior to the Mergers, Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP (assuming they participate in the Mergers) will sell to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary an estimated $200 million in value of personal property associated with certain Hotels for notes or cash that has been contributed or loaned to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary by the Operating Partnership, or a combination thereof. The Operating Partnership could not lease this personal property to the Lessees without potentially jeopardizing Host REIT's qualification as a REIT. The Non-Controlled Subsidiary will lease such personal property to the applicable Lessees. The Host Marriott Employee Statutory Trust, the beneficiaries of which will be certain employees of Host REIT and a designated charity (the "Host Employee Trust"), and possibly certain other investors will acquire all of the voting common stock representing the remaining 5% of the total economic interests, and 100% of the control, of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary. See "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--The REIT Conversion."

- . Leases of Hotels. The Operating Partnership, its subsidiaries and its controlled partnerships, including the Participating Partnerships, will lease virtually all of their Hotels to the Lessees pursuant to leases with initial terms ranging generally from seven to ten years (the "Leases"). See "Business and Properties--The Leases." The leased Hotels will be operated by the Lessees under their existing brand names pursuant to their existing long-term Management Agreements, which will be assigned to the Lessees for the terms of the applicable Leases, but under which the Operating Partnership will remain obligated. See "Business and Properties--The Management Agreements."

- . Host REIT Merger and Initial E&P Distribution. Host will merge into Host REIT upon obtaining shareholder approval of the merger. Pursuant to the merger agreement, Host shareholders will receive, for each share of Host common stock, one Host REIT Common Share. In connection with the REIT Conversion, Host or Host REIT will make the Initial E&P Distribution. The aggregate value of the Crestline common stock and the cash or other consideration to be distributed to Host or Host REIT shareholders and the Blackstone Entities is currently estimated to be approximately $525 million to $625 million (approximately $2.10 to $2.50 per share to the Host or Host REIT shareholders). The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of accumulated earnings and profits of Host as of the last day of its taxable year in which the Host merger into Host REIT is consummated. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions. See "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--The REIT Conversion--Host REIT Merger and Initial E&P Distribution." Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will not receive the Crestline common stock or any other portion of the Initial E&P Distribution, which will have been distributed before they become shareholders of Host REIT (approximately 25 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers). In addition, under the terms of the Blackstone Acquisition, the Blackstone Entities are entitled to receive a pro rata portion of the same consideration received by Host REIT's shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution except to the extent the Blackstone Entities elected to receive additional OP Units in lieu thereof. The payment to the Blackstone Entities of Crestline common stock and other consideration is expected to be approximately $90 million to $110 million if the REIT Conversion and the Blackstone Acquisition are consummated.

Following the REIT Conversion, assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the organizational structure of Host REIT is expected to be as follows:

- (1) Represents Limited Partners and others who retain OP Units and do not elect to receive Common Shares or Notes; excludes Host and its subsidiaries. Percentage ownership in the Operating Partnership assumes all Limited Partners elect to retain OP Units.
- (2) Also will include Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in exchange for the OP Units received in the Mergers. Immediately following the merger of Host into Host REIT and the distribution by Host or Host REIT of Crestline common stock to its shareholders and the Blackstone Entities, the shareholders of Crestline will consist of the shareholders of Host REIT (other than Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers) and the Blackstone Entities. The common ownership of the two public companies, however, will diverge over time.
- (3) Percentage ownership in the Operating Partnership assumes no Limited Partners elect to receive either Common Shares or Notes in connection with the Mergers and that the price per Common Share is $15.50, which is the maximum price per OP Unit for purposes of the Mergers.
- (4) The Operating Partnership will own all or substantially all of the equity interests in the Participating Partnerships, certain Private Partnerships and other Host subsidiaries that own Hotels, both directly and through other direct or indirect, wholly owned subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT. Host will contribute its partial equity interests in the Non-Participating Partnerships and those Private Partnerships whose partners have not elected to exchange their interests for OP Units to the Operating Partnership, and the Operating Partnership will either hold such partial interests or contribute them to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.

Ownership Interests in the Operating Partnership Following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. Following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership is expected to be owned as set forth below:

OWNERSHIP OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP

ENTITY -----	PERCENTAGE INTEREST(1) -----
Host REIT.....	75.8%
Limited Partners of the Partnerships.....	6.9
Private Partnerships.....	1.1
Blackstone Entities.....	16.2
	-----

(1) Assumes that all Partnerships participate in the Mergers, that the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, that all Limited Partners elect to retain OP Units and that the price of an OP Unit is $15.50, which is the maximum price for purposes of the Mergers. The percentage interest of Host REIT will increase, and the percentage interest of the Limited Partners will decrease, if Limited Partners elect to receive Common Shares or Notes in exchange for their OP Units in connection with the Mergers.

THE MERGERS

Issuance of OP Units. If Limited Partners holding the requisite percentage of outstanding Partnership Interests in a Partnership vote to approve a Merger and certain related amendments to the Partnership's partnership agreement, then such Participating Partnership will merge with a Merger Partnership, with the Participating Partnership being the surviving entity. Each Limited Partner of the Participating Partnership will receive OP Units with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interests. Limited Partners who retain OP Units will be issued such OP Units promptly following the twentieth trading day following the Effective Date. The General Partners and other Host subsidiaries that own limited partner interests in the Partnerships also will receive OP Units in exchange for their general and limited partner interests in the Partnerships, respectively. The price attributed to an OP Unit, the Exchange Value of each Partnership and the allocation of OP Units will be established in the manner described in detail under "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

Unit Redemption Right. Beginning one year after the Mergers, Limited Partners who retain OP Units will have the right to redeem their OP Units at any time, upon ten business days' notice to the Operating Partnership, and receive, at the election of Host REIT, either Common Shares of Host REIT on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment) or cash in an amount equal to the market value of such shares (the "Unit Redemption Right"). Limited Partners must redeem at least 1,000 OP Units (or all remaining OP Units owned by the holder of OP Units if less than 1,000 OP Units) each time the Unit Redemption Right is exercised. See "Description of OP Units--Unit Redemption Right."

Right to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares. At any time during the period commencing on the date hereof and ending at 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the fifteenth trading day after the Effective Date (the "Election Period"), Limited Partners can elect (or revoke any such election previously made) to tender all of the OP Units they will receive in a Merger (if their Partnership approves the Merger) to Host REIT in exchange for an equal number of Common Shares. The Common Shares, which will be issued promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers, will be freely tradeable and listed on the NYSE. A Limited Partner who makes the Common Share Election will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur at the time his right to receive the Common Shares becomes fixed (which would be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). See "Description of Capital Stock" and "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

Right to Exchange OP Units for Notes. At any time during the Election Period, Limited Partners can elect (or revoke any such election previously made) to tender all of the OP Units they will receive in a Merger (if their Partnership approves the Merger) to the Operating Partnership in exchange for a Note. The principal amount of the Note received by a Limited Partner will be equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interest, which will be less than the value of the OP Units that such Limited Partner otherwise would have received (because the Note Election Amount will be less than the Exchange Value for all Partnerships). The Notes will be issued promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers. Holders of Notes will receive interest payments on a semi-annual basis on June 15 and December 15 of each year at the rate of 6.56% per annum from and after the Effective Date of the Mergers. A Limited Partner who makes the Note Election will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to occur on December 30, 1998). See "Description of the Notes" and "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

Distribution Policy. The Operating Partnership and Host REIT intend to pay regular quarterly distributions to holders of OP Units and Common Shares, respectively. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership anticipate that distributions will be paid during January, April, July and October of each year, except that the first distribution in 1999 is expected to be paid at the end of February if the REIT Conversion is completed in 1998.

The Operating Partnership intends to distribute an amount that will enable Host REIT to distribute to its shareholders an amount equal to 100% of its taxable income (other than capital gains, which will be addressed on a case-by-case basis) for each year no later than the end of January of the following year. The Operating Partnership anticipates that distributions generally will be paid from cash available for distribution (generally equal to cash from operations less capital expenditures and principal amortization on indebtedness); however, to the extent that cash available for distribution is insufficient to make such distributions, the Operating Partnership intends to borrow funds in order to make distributions consistent with this policy.

Based upon Host's preliminary estimates of Host REIT's taxable income for the twelve months ending December 31, 1999, Host and the Operating Partnership currently estimate that this policy will result in an initial annual distribution by the Operating Partnership of approximately $0.84 per OP Unit ($0.21 per quarter) during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999. If Host's preliminary estimate of $226 million of cash distributions by the Operating Partnership during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 proves accurate but the Operating Partnership's cash available for distribution were only equal to its estimated cash available for distribution ($163 million) and cash from contingent rents ($54 million) during 1999 totaling $217 million, then the Operating Partnership would be required to borrow approximately $9 million (or $0.04 per OP Unit) to make such distributions. Moreover, if estimated cash from contingent rents were less than $54 million, then the Operating Partnership also would be required to borrow any such shortfall in order to make such distributions. While the Operating Partnership does not believe this will be necessary, it believes it would be able to borrow the necessary amounts under the New Credit Facility or from other sources and that any such borrowing would not have a material adverse effect on its financial condition or results of operations.

The distributions to shareholders per Common Share are expected to be in an amount equal to the amount distributed by the Operating Partnership per OP Unit. However, if the REIT Conversion is not completed until after January 1, 1999, then Host REIT's distributions to shareholders in 1999 would be lower than the Operating Partnership's distributions per OP Unit (by the amount of Host REIT's 1999 corporate income tax payments) until its REIT election becomes effective, which would be no later than January 1, 2000. The Operating Partnership intends to make distributions during 1999 at the estimated level of $0.84 per OP Unit even if the REIT election of Host REIT were not effective until January 1, 2000, which would result in estimated distributions by Host REIT (after estimated federal and state income tax payments) of $0.52 per Common Share for the full year 1999.

Distributions will be made in the discretion of the Board of Directors of Host REIT and will be affected by a number of factors, many of which are beyond the control of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership. In order to maintain its qualification as a REIT under the Code, Host REIT is required to distribute (within a certain period after the end of each year) at least 95% of its REIT taxable income for such year. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Distribution Policy." Host REIT and the Operating Partnership intend to establish a dividend reinvestment plan.

1998 Partnership Distributions. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who retain OP Units will receive cash distributions from their respective Partnerships for all of 1998 and, if the Mergers do not occur in 1998, any portion of 1999 prior to the Mergers for which they do not receive a cash distribution from the Operating Partnership. Cash distributions will be made by each Partnership in accordance with its partnership agreement on or before June 1, 1999 in respect of 1998 operations and, if the Mergers do not occur prior to January 1, 1999, within 90 days after the Effective Date of the Mergers in respect of any 1999 operations. The General Partners of Chicago Suites, Hanover, MDAH and PHLP do not expect that these Partnerships will make any distributions in respect of 1998 operations. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive Common Shares in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Common Share Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units and will receive distributions from Host REIT with respect to periods after their Common Shares are issued, which distributions are expected to equal the amount distributed with respect to the OP Units for such periods (although Host REIT's distributions to shareholders would be lower than the Operating Partnership's distributions to holders of OP Units (by the amount of Host REIT's 1999 corporate income tax payments) if the REIT Conversion does not occur in 1998 and Host REIT is unable to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999). Neither the Operating Partnership nor Host REIT anticipates making distributions after the Effective Date of the Mergers and prior to the issuance of Common Shares to those Limited Partners who elect to exchange their OP Units for Common Shares. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive a Note in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Note Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units but will not receive any distributions from the Operating Partnership with respect to periods after the Notes are issued.

Ownership Interests of Host in the Partnerships. The table below sets forth the current ownership interests of Host in the Partnerships. Following the REIT Conversion, assuming all of the Partnerships participate in the Mergers, the Partnerships will be owned by the Operating Partnership.

PARTNERSHIP	LIMITED PARTNER INTERESTS	GENERAL PARTNER INTERESTS
-----	-----	-----
Atlanta Marquis.....	Class A 0.28%	1.00%

PHLP.....	0.06	1.00

Limited Partner Vote Required for the Mergers. In the case of Atlanta Marquis, a majority of Class A limited partner interests must be present in person or by proxy to establish a quorum and must vote to approve the Merger. Host and its affiliates own 0.28% of the outstanding Class A limited partner interests and will vote them in favor of the Merger. In the case of each of Chicago Suites and PHLP, the approval required for each Merger is a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests in such Partnership. Host owns no limited partner interests in Chicago Suites and will vote its 0.06% limited partner interests in PHLP in favor of the Merger. In MDAH, a majority of limited partner interests must vote to approve the Merger. Host is not entitled to vote its 0.60% limited partner interest in MDAH on the Merger. In the case of Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2, a majority of the limited partner interests held by Limited Partners must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and a majority of the limited partner interests actually voting on the Merger must vote for the Merger to approve it. Host is required to vote all of its limited partner interests in Hanover, MHP and MHP2 in the same manner as the majority of the other limited partner interests actually voting on the matter vote. Host or its subsidiaries own a 47.62%, 48.33% and 52.75% limited partner interest in Hanover, MHP and MHP2, respectively. Host does not own any limited partner interests in Desert Springs. The approval of the Merger by the requisite percentage of limited partner interests of a Partnership will cause the Partnership to participate in the Merger so long as the amendments to the partnership agreement are also approved and will bind all Limited Partners of such Partnership, including Limited Partners who voted against or abstained from voting with respect to the Merger. See "Voting Procedures--Limited Partner Required Vote and Other Conditions--Required Limited Partner Vote for the Mergers."

Amendments to the Partnership Agreements. In order to consummate each Merger as currently proposed, there are a number of amendments required to be made to the partnership agreements of the Partnerships. Limited Partners must vote separately on the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement, but the Merger will not be consummated unless both the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement are approved. The effectiveness of such amendments will be conditioned upon the Partnership's participation in a Merger. The required amendments generally include: (i) permitting the Partnership to enter into the Leases with the Lessees; (ii) reducing to one the number of appraisals of the fair market value of a Partnership's Hotel(s) that the Partnership must obtain before the General Partner can cause a Partnership to sell its assets to the General Partner or an affiliate; and (iii) other amendments required to allow the transactions constituting the Mergers or otherwise necessary or desirable to consummate the Mergers or the REIT Conversion.

Limited Partner Vote Required for the Amendments to the Partnership Agreements. In the case of Atlanta Marquis, a majority of Class A limited partner interests must be present in person or by proxy to establish a quorum and must vote to approve the amendments to the partnership agreement. Host and its affiliates own 0.28% of the outstanding Class A limited partner interests and will vote them in favor of the amendments. In the case of each of Chicago Suites and PHLP, the approval required for the amendments to the partnership agreement is a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests in such Partnership. Host owns no limited partner interests in Chicago Suites and will vote its 0.06% limited partner interests in PHLP in favor of the amendments. In MDAH, a majority of limited partner interests must vote to approve the amendments to the partnership agreement. Host is not entitled to vote its 0.60% limited partner interest in MDAH on the amendments. In the case of Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2, a majority of the limited partner interests held by Limited Partners must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and a majority of the limited partner interests actually voting on the amendments to the partnership agreements must vote for the amendments to the partnership agreements to approve them. Host is required to vote all of its limited partner interests in Hanover, MHP and MHP2 in the same manner as the majority of the other limited partner interests actually voting on the matter vote. Host or its subsidiaries own a 47.62%, 48.33% and 52.75% limited partner interest in Hanover, MHP and MHP2, respectively. Host does not own any limited partner interests in Desert Springs. See "Voting Procedures--Required Limited Partner Vote and Other Conditions--Required Limited Partner Vote for the Amendments to the Partnership Agreements."

Effective Time of the Mergers. The effective time of each Merger (the "Effective Time") will be after the merger of Host into Host REIT becomes effective and the shares of Crestline common stock and other consideration are distributed to Host or Host REIT's shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, which is expected to occur during the final stage of the REIT Conversion. The Effective Time currently is expected to occur on or about December 30, 1998, subject to satisfaction or waiver of the conditions to the Mergers, but there is no assurance that it will occur at such time.

Conditions to Consummation of the Mergers. Participation by each Partnership in a Merger is subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain conditions, including, among others:

- . Limited Partner Approvals. Limited Partners holding the requisite percentage of Partnership Interests in such Partnership shall have approved the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement (as described above).

- . Host Shareholder Approval. Shareholders owning 66 2/3% of the outstanding shares of Host's common stock shall have approved the merger of Host into Host REIT and such merger shall have been consummated.
- . REIT Qualification. Host's Board of Directors shall have determined, based upon the advice of counsel, that Host REIT can elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes effective no later than the first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed (which might not be until the year commencing January 1, 2000 if the REIT Conversion is not completed until after December 31, 1998), and Host REIT shall have received an opinion of counsel substantially to such effect.
- . NYSE Listing. The Common Shares shall have been listed on the NYSE.
- . Third-Party Consents. All required governmental and other third-party consents to the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, including consents of lenders, Marriott International and certain of its subsidiaries and ground lessors and consents to transfer material operating licenses and permits and the Management Agreements, shall have been received, except for such consents as would not reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition or results of operations of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and their subsidiaries taken as a whole.
- . No Adverse Tax Legislation. The United States Congress shall not have enacted legislation, or proposed legislation with a reasonable possibility of being enacted, that would have the effect of (i) substantially impairing the ability of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT or the Operating Partnership to qualify as a partnership, (ii) substantially increasing the federal tax liabilities of Host REIT resulting from the REIT Conversion or (iii) substantially reducing the expected benefits to Host REIT resulting from the REIT Conversion. The determination that this condition has been satisfied will be made by Host, in its discretion.
- . Completion of Mergers by June 30, 1999. The Mergers must have been completed by June 30, 1999, unless the Operating Partnership and the General Partners have mutually agreed to extend the deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

The obligation of the Operating Partnership to consummate a Merger is subject to satisfaction or waiver of the same or similar conditions.

Merger Expenses. All costs and expenses incurred in connection with the proposed Mergers (the "Merger Expenses"), whether or not the Mergers are approved by the Partnerships, will be borne by the Operating Partnership, although in certain instances, transfer and recordation taxes and fees are reflected in the Exchange Values and Note Election Amounts. The Operating Partnership also will bear all other costs and expenses incurred by Host and its subsidiaries in connection with the REIT Conversion (the "REIT Conversion Expenses"). See "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Expenses."

REASONS FOR THE MERGERS

The Mergers are being proposed at this time for three principal reasons:

- . First, the General Partners believe that the expected benefits of the Mergers to the Limited Partners, as set forth below, outweigh the risks of the Mergers to the Limited Partners, as set forth in "Risk Factors."
- . Second, the General Partners believe that participation in the REIT Conversion through the Mergers is better for the Limited Partners than the alternatives of continuing each Partnership as a standalone entity, liquidating the Partnership, reorganizing the Partnership into a separate REIT or pursuing a merger of one or more Partnerships with another REIT or UPREIT, especially in light of the opportunity to receive OP Units, Common Shares or Notes in connection with the Mergers. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units" and "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Alternatives to the Mergers."

- . Third, Host is proposing the Mergers at this time to each Partnership because consummation of the Merger as to each Partnership will enable Host to obtain the full benefits of the REIT Conversion with respect to its interests in such Partnership, while also giving the other partners of the Partnership the opportunity to enjoy the benefits of the REIT Conversion. See "Risk Factors--Risks and Effects of the Mergers--Conflicts of Interest--Substantial Benefits to Related Parties."

The expected benefits from the Mergers to the Limited Partners include the following:

- . Liquidity. The REIT Conversion will offer Limited Partners liquidity with respect to their investments in the Partnerships because Limited Partners can receive freely tradeable Host REIT Common Shares by electing to exchange OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers or, for those Limited Partners who retain OP Units, at any time commencing one year following the Mergers, by exercising their Unit Redemption Right, subject to certain limited exceptions. Host has approximately 204 million shares of common stock outstanding and is expected to have a total common equity market capitalization of approximately $3.4 billion after giving effect to the Initial E&P Distribution (based on a price of $12.50 per Host REIT Common Share). The election to exchange OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers or the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, however, generally would result in recognition of taxable income or gain.
- . Regular Quarterly Cash Distributions. The General Partners expect that the Operating Partnership will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of OP Units and that Host REIT will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of Common Shares. Host expects that these distributions will be higher than the estimated cash distributions from operations during 1998 of all Partnerships except MHP and MHP2, and in any event, the ability to receive distributions quarterly and in regular amounts would be enhanced. For additional information regarding historical and estimated future distributions for the Partnerships, see "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers."
- . Substantial Tax Deferral for Limited Partners Not Electing to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares or Notes. The General Partners expect that Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships who do not elect to receive Common Shares or Notes in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers generally should be able to obtain the benefits of the Mergers while continuing to defer recognition for federal income tax purposes of at least a substantial portion, if not all, of the gain with respect to their Partnership Interests that otherwise would be recognized in the event of a liquidation of the Partnership or a sale or other disposition of its assets in a taxable transaction (although Limited Partners in Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP and PHLP may recognize a relatively modest amount of ordinary income as the result of required sales of personal property by each such Partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in order to facilitate Host REIT's qualification as a REIT). Thereafter, such Limited Partners generally should be able to defer at least a substantial portion of such built-in gain until they elect to exercise their Unit Redemption Right or one or more of the Hotels currently owned by their Partnership are sold or otherwise disposed of in a taxable transaction by the Operating Partnership or the debt now secured by such Hotels is repaid, prepaid or substantially reduced. The federal income tax consequences of the Mergers are highly complex and, with respect to each Limited Partner, are dependent upon many variables, including the particular circumstances of such Limited Partner. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers." Each Limited Partner is urged to consult with his own tax advisors as to the consequences of a Merger in light of his particular circumstances.
- . Risk Diversification. Participation in a Merger, as well as future hotel acquisitions by the Operating Partnership, will reduce the dependence upon the performance of, and the exposure to the risks associated with, any particular Hotel or group of Hotels currently owned by an individual Partnership and spread such risk over a broader and more varied portfolio, including more diverse geographic locations and multiple brands. See "Business and Properties--Business Objectives."

- . Reduction in Leverage and Interest Costs. It is expected that the Operating Partnership will have a leverage to value ratio (approximately 62%) that is lower than the leverage to value ratios for five of the Partnerships (Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, Hanover and PHLP), and that is not significantly different than the leverage ratios for MDAH, MHP and MHP2.
- . Growth Potential. The General Partners believe that the Limited Partners, by directly or indirectly owning interests in a publicly traded real estate company focused primarily on a more diverse and growing upscale and luxury full-service hotel portfolio, will be able to participate in growth opportunities that would not otherwise be available to them.
- . Greater Access to Capital. With publicly traded equity securities, a larger base of assets and a substantially greater equity value than any of the Partnerships individually, Host REIT expects to have greater access to the capital necessary to fund the Operating Partnership's operations and to consummate acquisitions on more attractive terms than would be available to any of the Partnerships individually. This greater access to capital should provide greater financial stability to the Operating Partnership and reduce the level of risk associated with refinancing existing loans upon maturity, as compared to the Partnerships individually.
- . Public Market Valuation of Assets. In most instances, the units of limited partnership interest of each Partnership ("Partnership Units") currently trade at a discount to the net asset value of the Partnership's assets. The General Partners believe that by exchanging interests in their existing, non-traded, finite-life limited partnerships with a fixed portfolio for interests in an ongoing real estate company focused primarily on a more diverse and growing full-service hotel portfolio and providing valuation based upon publicly traded Common Shares of Host REIT, the Limited Partners will have the opportunity to participate in the recent trend toward ownership of real estate through a publicly traded entity, which, in many instances (although not currently), has resulted at various times in market valuations of public real estate companies in excess of the estimated net asset values of those companies. There can be no assurance, however, that the Common Shares of Host REIT will trade at a premium to the private market values of the Operating Partnership's assets or that they will not trade at a discount to private market values. Also, the benefit of Host's conversion to a REIT will not be shared by the Limited Partners if and to the extent that such benefit is reflected in the market valuation of Host's common stock prior to the REIT Conversion.

DETERMINATION OF EXCHANGE VALUES AND ALLOCATION OF OP UNITS

Following consummation of the REIT Conversion, OP Units are expected to be owned by the following groups:

- . Host REIT, which will own a number of OP Units equal to the number of outstanding Common Shares of Host REIT. These OP Units will consist of (i) the OP Units to be acquired in exchange for the contribution of Host's full-service hotel assets and other assets (excluding its senior living assets and the cash or other consideration to be distributed to shareholders of Host or Host REIT and certain other de minimis assets), subject to all liabilities of Host (including past and future contingent liabilities), other than liabilities of Crestline, (ii) the OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries with respect to their interests in the Partnerships and (iii) the OP Units to be acquired from Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers. The OP Units received by the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries attributable to their interests in the Partnerships will be valued in the same manner as the OP Units attributable to the Limited Partners and will be determined in accordance with the distribution provisions in the partnership agreements of the Partnerships. On a pro forma basis, as of June 19, 1998, Host REIT would have owned approximately 204 million OP Units, based upon the number of outstanding shares of Host common stock at that time, of which the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries would have owned approximately 17.7 million OP Units received with respect to their interests in the Partnerships. If Host issues any shares of preferred stock prior to the REIT Conversion, Host REIT also will own a number of preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership equal to the number of outstanding shares of preferred stock.

- . The Blackstone Entities, which will receive approximately 43.7 million OP Units in exchange for the contribution of the Blackstone Hotels and certain other related assets, subject to certain liabilities.
- . Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships, who will receive in the Mergers a number of OP Units based upon the Exchange Values of their respective Partnership Interests and the price per OP Unit (other than Limited Partners who elect to exchange such OP Units for Common Shares or Notes).
- . Partners unaffiliated with Host in four Private Partnerships, who have agreed to exchange their interests in their Private Partnerships for OP Units based upon the value of their interests in their Private Partnerships, as determined by negotiation with Host.

In the Mergers, the Limited Partners of each Participating Partnership will receive in exchange for their Partnership Interests a number of OP Units with an aggregate deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of their Partnership Interests. The price of an OP Unit for this purpose will be equal to the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the 20 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers (but, subject to adjustment, will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit). The maximum and minimum prices per OP Unit will be reduced if the Blackstone Acquisition is not consummated and, as a result thereof, the Initial E&P Distribution exceeds $2.50 per Host or Host REIT common share. The Limited Partners will become partners in the Operating Partnership at the Effective Time of the Mergers, but the OP Units will not be issued to the Limited Partners until promptly after the twentieth trading day following the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998).

The Exchange Value of each Partnership is equal to the greatest of its Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value, each of which has been determined as follows:

- . Adjusted Appraised Value. The General Partners have retained AAA to determine the market value of each of the Hotels as of March 1, 1998 (the "Appraised Value"). The "Adjusted Appraised Value" of a Partnership equals the Appraised Value of its Hotels, adjusted as of the Final Valuation Date (as defined herein) for lender reserves, capital expenditure reserves, existing indebtedness (including a "mark to market" adjustment to reflect the fair market value of such indebtedness), certain deferred maintenance costs, deferred management fees and transfer and recordation taxes and fees.
- . Continuation Value. The General Partners have adopted estimates prepared by AAA for each Partnership of the discounted present value, as of January 1, 1998, of the limited partners' share of estimated future cash distributions and estimated net sales proceeds (plus lender reserves) assuming that the Partnership continues as an operating business for twelve years and its assets are sold on December 31, 2009 for their then estimated market value (the "Continuation Value").
- . Liquidation Value. The General Partners have estimated for each Partnership the net proceeds to limited partners resulting from the assumed sale as of December 31, 1998 of the Hotels(s) of the Partnership, each at its Adjusted Appraised Value (after eliminating any "mark to market" adjustment and adding back the deduction for transfer taxes and fees, if any, made in deriving the Adjusted Appraised Value) less (i) estimated liquidation costs, expenses and contingencies equal to 2.5% of Appraised Value and (ii) prepayment penalties or defeasance costs, as applicable (the "Liquidation Value").

For a complete description of the above methodologies, see "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units--Methodology for Determining Exchange Values." Each of the three valuation methodologies is dependent upon a number of estimates, variables and assumptions, including the assumptions used by AAA in preparing the Appraised Values of the Hotels, as well as varying market conditions. No assurance can be given that the estimated values would be accurate under actual conditions. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Alternatives to the Mergers."

The following table sets forth the estimated Exchange Value of each Partnership (based upon the greatest of its estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value), the estimated minimum number of OP Units to be received (based upon the maximum price of $15.50 per OP Unit) and the estimated Note Election Amount for each Partnership, all on a per Partnership Unit basis as of the Initial Valuation Date. The number of Common Shares received in exchange for OP Units by a Limited Partner who elects to receive Common Shares will equal the number of OP Units received by such Limited Partner. The estimated Exchange Values set forth below may increase or decrease as a result of various adjustments, which will be finally calculated immediately prior to the closing of the Mergers but will not change as a result of less than all of the Partnerships participating in the Mergers. The actual number of OP Units to be received by the Limited Partners will be based on the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the 20 trading days after the Effective Date (but will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit) and will not be finally determined until such time.

- (1) A Partnership Unit in all of the Partnerships except Chicago Suites ($35,000) and PHLP ($10,000) represents an original investment of $100,000.
  - (2) Estimated Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value.
  - (3) Assumes the price of an OP Unit is $15.50, which is the maximum price for purposes of the Mergers.
  - (4) The principal amount of Notes is equal to the greater of (i) the Liquidation Value or (ii) 80% of the Exchange Value (the "Note Election Amount").
  - (5) The estimated Adjusted Appraised Value and the estimated Liquidation Value for PHLP are zero because PHLP's outstanding debt is greater than the Appraised Value of the Hotels and the value of other assets, net of liabilities, owned by PHLP.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units with Host REIT for Common Shares must indicate their election on the OP Unit Exchange Election Form and deliver such form to the Operating Partnership at any time prior to the end of the Election Period (which election may be revoked, and if revoked, made again, at any time prior to the end of the Election Period). At their discretion, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT may elect to extend the Election Period. Even if a Limited Partner votes against the Merger, he may still choose to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares in the event the Merger is approved. A Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who fails to timely and properly return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form will receive and retain OP Units. Each Limited Partner in a Participating Partnership who timely and properly elects to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares (and who has not timely revoked such election at any time during the Election Period) will tender (or be deemed to have tendered) all of the OP Units he receives in the Merger to Host REIT for an equal number of Common Shares. The Common Shares will be issued to the Limited Partner promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). The Common Shares are expected to receive quarterly cash distributions in the same amount as the cash distributions with respect to each OP Unit. See "Description of Capital Stock--Common Shares."

DESCRIPTION OF THE NOTE ELECTION

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units with the Operating Partnership for a Note must indicate their election on the OP Unit Exchange Election Form and deliver such form to the Operating Partnership at any time prior to the end of the Election Period (which election may be revoked, and if revoked, made again, at any time prior to the end of the Election Period). Even if a Limited Partner votes against the Merger, he still may choose to exchange his OP Units for a Note in the event the Merger is approved. A Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who fails to timely and properly return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form will receive and retain OP Units. Each Limited Partner in a Participating Partnership who timely and properly elects to exchange his OP Units for a Note (and who has not timely revoked such election at any time during the Election Period) will tender (or be deemed to have tendered) all of the OP Units he receives in the Merger to the Operating Partnership for the Note. The Note will be issued to the Limited Partner promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). The Notes will (i) be unsecured obligations of the Operating Partnership, (ii) have a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of a Limited Partner's Partnership Interests, (iii) mature on December 15, 2005 (approximately seven years after the closing of the Mergers), (iv) bear interest at 6.56% per annum, which was determined based on 120% of the applicable federal rate as of the Record Date (which was 5.47%), payable semi-annually on June 15 and December 15 each year commencing from and after the Effective Date of the Mergers, (v) provide for optional prepayment by the Operating Partnership at any time without penalty and mandatory prepayment of principal from a ratable portion of the net proceeds (after repayment of debt, sales expenses and deferred management fees) realized from any sale of any Hotels formerly owned by the Limited Partner's Partnership and from certain excess refinancing proceeds and (vi) provide for the payment of the remaining principal balance at maturity. See "Description of the Notes."

FAIRNESS ANALYSIS AND OPINION

Fairness Analysis. The General Partners believe that the Mergers provide substantial benefits and are fair to the Limited Partners of each Partnership and recommend that all Limited Partners vote for the Mergers. In arriving at this conclusion, the General Partners have relied primarily on the following factors, as well as other factors described under "Fairness Analysis and Opinion--Fairness Analysis:" (i) their view that the expected benefits of the Mergers for the Limited Partners outweigh the risks and potential detriments of the Mergers to the Limited Partners (see "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers"); (ii) their view that the value of the OP Units allocable to the Limited Partners on the basis of the Exchange Value established for each Partnership represents fair consideration for the interests held by the partners of such Partnership and is fair to the Limited Partners from a financial point of view; and (iii) the fairness opinion of AAA, as described below.

Fairness Opinion. AAA, an independent, nationally recognized hotel valuation and financial advisory firm, has rendered the fairness opinion (the "Fairness Opinion"), attached as Appendix B to this Consent Solicitation, which sets forth the Appraised Values of the Hotels and concludes that: (i) the Exchange Value and the methodologies and underlying assumptions used to determine the Exchange Value, the Adjusted Appraised Value, the Continuation Value and the Liquidation Value of each Partnership (including, without limitation, the assumptions used to determine the various adjustments to the Appraised Values of the Hotels) are fair and reasonable, from a financial point of view, to the Limited Partners of each Partnership; and (ii) the methodologies used to determine the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity interest in the Operating Partnership to be received by the Limited Partners of each Partnership are fair and reasonable to the Limited Partners of each Partnership. See "Fairness Analysis and Opinion--Fairness Opinion."

RECOMMENDATION

FOR THE REASONS STATED HEREIN, THE GENERAL PARTNERS BELIEVE THAT THE MERGERS PROVIDE SUBSTANTIAL BENEFITS AND ARE FAIR TO THE LIMITED PARTNERS OF EACH PARTNERSHIP AND RECOMMEND THAT ALL LIMITED PARTNERS VOTE FOR THE MERGERS AND FOR THE RELATED AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. SEE "FAIRNESS ANALYSIS AND OPINION--FAIRNESS ANALYSIS."

SOLICITATION MATERIALS

This Consent Solicitation (including the accompanying transmittal letter), together with the consent form (the "Consent Form") and the Questions and Answers (the "Q & A") constitute the "Solicitation Materials" being distributed to Limited Partners to obtain their consents to the Mergers and the amendments to the partnership agreements.

The date of first distribution of this Consent Solicitation is October 13, 1998.

VOTING PROCEDURES

The voting procedures applicable to Limited Partners of each Partnership are set forth in this Consent Solicitation under the heading "Voting Procedures--Required Limited Partner Vote and Other Conditions." LIMITED PARTNERS ARE BEING ASKED TO VOTE SEPARATELY ON THE MERGER AND THE PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT OF HIS PARTNERSHIP, BUT A PARTNERSHIP WILL NOT PARTICIPATE IN A MERGER UNLESS BOTH PROPOSALS ARE APPROVED.

A Limited Partner may mark the Consent Form to vote "FOR," "AGAINST" or "ABSTAIN" with respect to participation in a Merger by his Partnership and "FOR," "AGAINST" or "ABSTAIN" with respect to the amendments to the partnership agreement of his Partnership. THE FAILURE OF A LIMITED PARTNER OF ATLANTA MARQUIS, CHICAGO SUITES, MDAH AND PHLP TO VOTE OR AN ABSTENTION WILL HAVE THE SAME EFFECT AS IF SUCH LIMITED PARTNER HAD VOTED HIS PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS "AGAINST" A MERGER AND "AGAINST" THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. THE FAILURE OF A LIMITED PARTNER OF DESERT SPRINGS, HANOVER, MHP AND MHP2 TO VOTE WILL MEAN THAT SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S PARTNERSHIP INTEREST WILL NOT BE COUNTED FOR PURPOSES OF ESTABLISHING THE NUMBER OF LIMITED PARTNER INTERESTS REQUIRED TO RECOGNIZE THE VOTE AND MAY AFFECT THE MANNER IN WHICH HOST IS REQUIRED TO VOTE ITS LIMITED PARTNER INTERESTS. AN ABSTENTION BY A LIMITED PARTNER OF DESERT SPRINGS, HANOVER, MHP AND MHP2 WILL BE COUNTED FOR PURPOSES OF ESTABLISHING THE NUMBER OF LIMITED PARTNER INTERESTS REQUIRED TO HAVE THE VOTE RECOGNIZED BUT WILL EFFECTIVELY BE COUNTED AS A VOTE "AGAINST" A MERGER AND "AGAINST" THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS.

The period during which consents will be solicited pursuant to this Consent Solicitation (the "Solicitation Period") will commence on the date this Consent Solicitation and the other Solicitation Materials are first distributed to the Limited Partners and will continue until the later of (i) December 12, 1998 or (ii) such later date as the General Partners and the Operating Partnership may elect, in their discretion. Any Consent Form RECEIVED by the Operating Partnership (in original or by facsimile) prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the last day of the Solicitation Period will be effective, provided that such Consent Form has been properly signed. FOR ALL OF THE PARTNERSHIPS, A CONSENT FORM THAT IS PROPERLY SIGNED BUT NOT MARKED WILL BE VOTED "FOR" A MERGER AND "FOR" THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT. A Limited Partner who has submitted a Consent Form may withdraw or revoke the Consent Form at any time prior to the expiration of the Solicitation Period.

Investor Lists. Under Rule 14a-7 of the Exchange Act, each Partnership is required, upon the written request of a Limited Partner, to provide to the requesting Limited Partner (i) a statement of the approximate number of Limited Partners in such Limited Partner's Partnership; and (ii) the estimated cost of mailing a proxy statement, form of proxy or other similar communication to such Limited Partners. In addition, a Limited Partner has the right, at his option, either to (a) have his Partnership mail (at such Limited Partner's expense) copies of any proxy statement, proxy form or other soliciting material furnished by the Limited Partner to the Partnership's Limited Partners designated by the Limited Partner; or (b) have the Partnership deliver to the requesting Limited Partner, within five business days of the receipt of the request, a reasonably current list of the names, addresses and class of units held by the Partnership's Limited Partners. The right to receive the list of Limited Partners is subject to the requesting Limited Partner's payment of the cost of mailing and duplication at a rate of $0.15 per page. See "Voting Procedures--Required Limited Partner Vote and Other Conditions--Investor Lists."

OP UNIT EXCHANGE ELECTION PROCEDURES

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units for Common Shares or a Note must timely and properly complete and return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form. A Limited Partner must make such election (or revoke any election previously made) at any time during the Election Period, which will commence on the first day of the Solicitation Period and will continue until 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the fifteenth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998), unless extended. A Limited Partner who has returned an OP Unit Exchange Election Form may withdraw or revoke such election at any time prior to the expiration of the Election Period by either submitting a later dated OP Unit Exchange Election Form or notifying the Operating Partnership in writing that he wishes to withdraw such previous election.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES

Tax Consequences of the Mergers. Based upon certain assumptions and representations of the General Partners, the Operating Partnership, Host and Host REIT, Hogan & Hartson L.L.P., counsel to Host, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, has opined that, except for any gain attributable to the sale of personal property to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary, the Mergers will not result in the recognition of taxable gain or loss at the time of the Mergers to a Limited Partner (i) who does not elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers; (ii) who does not exercise his Unit Redemption Right on a date sooner than the date two years after the date of the consummation of the Mergers; (iii) who does not receive a cash distribution (or a deemed cash distribution resulting from relief from liabilities, including as a result of the prepayment of indebtedness associated with the Limited Partner's Partnership) in connection with the Mergers or the REIT Conversion in excess of such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest at the time of the Mergers; (iv) who is not required to recognize gain by reason of an election by other Limited Partners in his Partnership to receive Common Shares or Notes in exchange for their OP Units in connection with the Mergers (which, in counsel's opinion, described below, should not be the result of such election); and (v) whose "at risk" amount does not fall below zero as a result of the Mergers or the REIT Conversion.

With respect to the foregoing potential exceptions to nonrecognition treatment, Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. has opined as follows: (i) it is more likely than not that a Limited Partner's exercise of the Unit Redemption Right more than one year after the date of consummation of the REIT Conversion but less than two years after such date will not cause the Merger itself to be a taxable transaction for such Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners of such Partnership); (ii) it is more likely than not that a Limited Partner who does not elect to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares or a Note in connection with the Mergers will not be required to recognize gain by reason of another Limited Partner's exercise of either such election; and (iii) a Limited Partner's relief from Partnership liabilities allocable to such Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers or the REIT Conversion (including as a result of the repayment of Partnership indebtedness in connection with the REIT Conversion) will not cause such Limited Partner to recognize taxable gain at the time of the REIT Conversion unless (and only to the extent that) the amount thereof exceeds such Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest at the time of the Mergers. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Summary of Tax Opinions." An opinion of counsel, however, does not bind the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") or the courts, and no assurance can be provided that any such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged. With one exception, neither Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, nor the General Partners have sought any ruling from the IRS with respect to the consequences of the Mergers or the REIT Conversion. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities." The foregoing assumes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election either is not a separate property right for federal income tax purposes or does not have any ascertainable value. The Operating Partnership believes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election is not property and, even if it were property, does not have any independent ascertainable value, given the nature and terms of the OP Units and the terms and limited duration of the election arrangements. If, however, the ability to exercise such elections were considered property and to have an ascertainable value, Limited Partners could recognize gain in an amount up to the amount of such value (whether or not they exercise such elections).

With respect to the Limited Partners' relief from Partnership liabilities in connection with the Mergers and REIT Conversion, the General Partners and the Operating Partnership have determined, based upon the intended allocation of Operating Partnership liabilities following the REIT Conversion and certain information compiled by the General Partners, that no Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is the same as or greater than the basis of a Limited Partner who purchased his Partnership Interest in the original offering by the Partnership of the Partnership Interests and who has held such Partnership Interest at all times since (referred to herein as an "Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis") and who does not elect to exchange the OP Units will recognize taxable gain at the time of the Mergers as a result either of relief from Partnership liabilities allocable to such Limited Partner or a reduction in his "at risk" amount below zero. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution." A Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is less than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for that Partnership, however, could recognize gain, depending upon his particular circumstances.

Even though a Limited Partner who does not elect to exchange his OP Units and whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is the same as or greater than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for that Partnership is not expected to recognize gain at the time of the REIT Conversion, a variety of events and transactions subsequent to the REIT Conversion could cause such a Limited Partner to recognize all or part of the gain that has been deferred through the REIT Conversion. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Effect of Subsequent Events." The Partnership Agreement provides that Host REIT is not required to take into account the tax consequences for the limited partners of the Operating Partnership in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes that Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions) and the limited partners have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions. See "Description of OP Units--Sales of Assets."

The particular tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion for a Limited Partner will depend upon a number of factors related to the tax situation of that individual Limited Partner and the Partnership of which he is a Limited Partner, including, without limitation, such factors as the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest, the extent to which the Limited Partner has unused passive losses with respect to his Partnership Interest or other investments generating passive activity losses that could offset income arising from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the amount of income (if any) required to be recognized by reason of the sale by the Limited Partners' Partnership of personal property to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary, the actual allocation of Operating Partnership liabilities to the Limited Partner following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and the amount of built-in gain with respect to the Hotel(s) contributed to the Operating Partnership by the Partnership in which he is a Limited Partner.

A Limited Partner who elects to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will be treated as having made a fully taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur at the time that the right to receive Common Shares becomes fixed (which the Operating Partnership will treat as occurring on January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). The amount realized in connection with such disposition will equal the sum of the fair market value of the Common Shares received, plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes. To the extent the amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. Such Limited Partner will not be able to defer any portion of the gain realized from the exchange of OP Units for Common Shares under the "installment sale" rules. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

A Limited Partner who elects to exchange his OP Units for a Note in connection with the Mergers will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to occur on December 30, 1998). The amount realized in connection with such disposition will equal the sum of the "issue price" of the Note (i.e., the principal amount of the Note), plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes. To the extent the amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. Such Limited Partner may be eligible to defer at least a portion of that gain under the "installment sale" rules (see "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election") but those rules would not permit the Limited Partner to defer all of the gain (including any gain attributable to the Limited Partner's "negative capital account" and any gain attributable to depreciation recapture) and may require that the Limited Partner who defers gain pay to the IRS interest on a portion of the resulting tax that has been deferred.

The discussion of federal income tax consequences in this Consent Solicitation is not exhaustive of all possible tax consequences. For example, it does not give a detailed discussion of any state, local or foreign tax considerations. In addition, except to the extent discussed under the heading "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Taxation of Non-U.S. Shareholders of Host REIT," it does not purport to deal with tax consequences that might be relevant to foreign corporations and persons who are not citizens or residents of the United States.

The gain, if any, required to be recognized by a Limited Partner as a consequence of the Mergers (including any gain recognized as a result of the sale of personal property by the Limited Partner's Partnership or as a result of making the Common Share Election or the Note Election) can be offset by unused passive activity losses from his Partnership and other investments.

EACH LIMITED PARTNER IS STRONGLY URGED TO CONSULT WITH HIS OWN TAX ADVISOR TO DETERMINE THE IMPACT OF SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S PERSONAL TAX SITUATION ON THE ANTICIPATED TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS AND THE REIT CONVERSION TO SUCH LIMITED PARTNER.

Qualification of Host REIT as a REIT. Host REIT expects to qualify as a REIT for federal income tax purposes effective for its first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, which Host REIT currently expects to be the year beginning January 1, 1999 (but which might not be until the year beginning January 1, 2000). If it so qualifies, Host REIT will be permitted to (i) deduct dividends paid to its shareholders, allowing the income represented by such dividends to avoid taxation at the entity level and to be taxed only at the shareholder level and (ii) treat retained net capital gains in a manner so that such gains are taxed at the Host REIT level but effectively avoid taxation at the shareholder level. Host REIT, however, will be subject to a separate corporate income tax on any gains recognized during the ten years following the REIT Conversion that are attributable to "built-in" gain with respect to the assets that Host owned at the time of the REIT Conversion (which tax would be paid by the Operating Partnership). Host REIT has substantial deferred tax liabilities that are likely to be recognized as "built-in" gain (or by a Non-Controlled Subsidiary) during such period without any corresponding receipt of cash, and the Operating Partnership will be responsible for paying such taxes. Host REIT's ability to qualify as a REIT will depend upon its continuing satisfaction following the REIT Conversion of various requirements related to the nature of its assets, the sources of its income and the distributions to its shareholders, including a requirement that Host REIT distribute to its shareholders at least 95% of its taxable income each year.

Sale of Personal Property. In order to protect Host REIT's ability to qualify as a REIT, the Operating Partnership may require, immediately prior to the Mergers, that certain of the Participating Partnerships (specifically, Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP) sell a portion of the personal property associated with the Hotels owned by such Partnerships to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary. These sales will be taxable transactions and may result in a special allocation of any ordinary recapture income by each such Partnership (other than Hanover) to its Limited Partners. This income, if any, will be allocated to each such Limited Partner in the same proportion and to the same extent that such Limited Partner previously was allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gains as recapture income. A Limited Partner who receives such an allocation of recapture income will not be entitled to any special distribution from his Partnership in connection with the sale of personal property.

SUMMARY FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following table sets forth unaudited pro forma financial and other information for the Company and Host REIT and combined consolidated historical financial information for Host. The following summary financial information should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and notes thereto and Management's Discussion and Analysis of Results of Operations and Financial Condition included elsewhere in this Consent Solicitation.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements as of June 19, 1998 and for the fiscal year ended January 2, 1998 and the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 ("First Two Quarters 1998") for the 100% Participation and Single Partnership presentations are presented as if the REIT Conversion occurred as of June 19, 1998 for the pro forma balance sheets and at the beginning of the fiscal year for the pro forma statements of operations. The unaudited REIT 2000 pro forma information assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000. The pro forma information incorporates certain assumptions that are described in the Notes to the Unaudited Pro Forma Financial Statements included elsewhere in this Consent Solicitation.

The pro forma information does not purport to represent what the Company's or Host REIT's financial position or results of operations would actually have been if these transactions had, in fact, occurred on such date or at the beginning of the period indicated, or to project the Company's or Host REIT's financial position or results of operations at any future date or for any future period.

In addition, the historical information contained in the following table is not comparable to the operations of the Company or Host REIT on a going-forward basis because the historical information relates to an operating entity which owns and operates hotels and senior living communities, while the Company will own the Hotels but will lease them to the Lessees and receive rental payments in connection therewith.

(1) Assumes all Partnerships participate in the Mergers, the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and that Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000.

RISK FACTORS

In considering whether to approve a Merger, Limited Partners should consider carefully, among other factors, the material risks described below.

RISKS AND EFFECTS OF THE MERGERS

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST. The Mergers, the REIT Conversion and the recommendations of the General Partners involve conflicts of interest because of the relationships among Host, Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the General Partners and Crestline.

SUBSTANTIAL BENEFITS TO RELATED PARTIES. To the extent that the anticipated benefits of the REIT Conversion are reflected in the value of Host's common stock prior to the Effective Date, such benefits will not be shared with the Limited Partners. In addition, following the REIT Conversion, current Host shareholders (together with the Blackstone Entities), but not the Limited Partners, will own the common stock of Crestline and will benefit from the terms of the Leases to the extent net revenues exceed rental payments and other expenses. The Mergers will facilitate the consummation, and enable Host to reap the full benefits, of the REIT Conversion. By converting to a REIT, Host expects to benefit from the advantages enjoyed by REITs in raising capital and acquiring additional assets, participating in a larger group of comparable companies and increasing its potential base of shareholders. Also, Host will realize significant savings through the substantial reduction of its future corporate-level income taxes. The benefits to Host of the REIT Conversion will be reduced if one or more of the Partnerships do not participate in a Merger, thereby creating a conflict of interest for the General Partners in connection with the Mergers.

AFFILIATED GENERAL PARTNERS. Host has varying interests in each of the Partnerships and subsidiaries of Host act as General Partner of each of the Partnerships (except for PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner). Each General Partner has an independent obligation to assess whether the Merger is fair and equitable to and advisable for the Limited Partners of its Partnership. This assessment involves considerations that are different from those relevant to the determination of whether the Mergers and the REIT Conversion are advisable for Host and its shareholders. The considerations relevant to that determination which create a conflict of interest include Host's belief that the REIT Conversion is advisable for its shareholders, the benefits of the REIT Conversion to Host will be greater if the Partnerships participate and Host REIT will benefit if the value of the OP Units received by the Limited Partners in the Mergers is less than the value of their Partnership Interests. While each General Partner has sought faithfully to discharge its obligations to its Partnership, there is an inherent conflict of interest in having the General Partners determine the terms on which the Operating Partnership, which is controlled by Host, will acquire the Partnerships, for which Host or its subsidiaries are the General Partners, since no arm's length negotiations are possible because Host is on both sides of the transaction.

LEASING ARRANGEMENTS. Conflicts of interest exist in connection with establishing the terms of the leasing arrangements being entered into as part of the REIT Conversion. The General Partners, all of which are subsidiaries of Host (except in the case of PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner), are recommending the Mergers, and Host is responsible for establishing the terms of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, including the Leases. The common stock of Crestline will be distributed to Host's or Host REIT's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities. Accordingly, Host's or Host REIT's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities, as the initial shareholders of Crestline, will potentially benefit from the terms of the Leases to the extent net revenues exceed rental payments and other expenses but Limited Partners will not because they will not receive shares of Crestline common stock.

POTENTIAL AAA CONFLICTS. A conflict of interest may exist in that AAA has been retained to perform the Appraisals and also provide the Fairness Opinion which, among other things, opines as to the methodologies and underlying assumptions that AAA used in performing the Appraisals. AAA has been retained by the General Partners (consisting of Host and its subsidiaries) to determine the Appraised Values of the Hotels and the Continuation Values of the Partnerships and to render the Fairness Opinion. Host has previously retained AAA to perform appraisals and render fairness and solvency opinions in connection with other transactions, and there is the possibility that Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will retain AAA to perform similar tasks in the future.

DIFFERENT TAX CONSEQUENCES UPON SALE OR REFINANCING OF CERTAIN HOTELS. Certain holders of OP Units may experience different and more adverse tax consequences compared to those experienced by other holders of OP Units or by holders of Common Shares upon the sale of, or the reduction of indebtedness on, any of the Hotels. Therefore, such holders, including Host REIT and its subsidiaries, may have different objectives regarding the appropriate pricing and timing of any sale or refinancing of an individual Hotel. As provided in the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences to the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions) and the limited partners have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions.

PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT. Conflicts of interest exist in connection with establishing the terms of the Partnership Agreement, including provisions which benefit Host REIT, all of which were determined by Host.

RELATIONSHIPS WITH MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL AND CRESTLINE. Marriott International currently serves as manager for all but 16 of Host's Hotels, and will continue to manage those Hotels pursuant to the Management Agreements that will be assigned to the Lessees. In addition, Marriott International acts as manager of hotels that will compete with Host REIT's Hotels. As a result, Marriott International may make decisions regarding competing lodging facilities which it manages that would not necessarily be in the best interests of Host REIT or the Lessees. Further, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott, who are brothers, currently serve as directors of Host and directors (and, in the case of J.W. Marriott, Jr., also an officer ) of Marriott International. After the REIT Conversion, J.W. Marriott, Jr. will serve as a director of Host REIT and will continue to serve as a director of Marriott International, and Richard E. Marriott will serve as Chairman of the Board of Host REIT and continue to serve as a director of Marriott International. J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott also beneficially own (as determined for securities law purposes) approximately 10.6% and 10.2%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of Marriott International, and will beneficially own approximately 5.32% and 5.30%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of Crestline (but neither will serve as an officer or director thereof). As a result, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott may have a potential conflict of interest with respect to their obligations as directors of Host REIT in connection with any decisions regarding Marriott International itself (including decisions relating to the Management Agreements involving the Hotels), Marriott International's management of competing lodging properties and Crestline's leasing and other businesses that would not necessarily be in the best interests of Host REIT.

These conflicts of interest could result in decisions that do not fully reflect the interests of all Limited Partners. For a discussion of the Operating Partnership's policies and agreements designed to minimize any adverse effects from future conflicts of interest, see "Distribution and Other Policies--Conflicts of Interest Policies."

ABSENCE OF ARM'S LENGTH NEGOTIATIONS; NO INDEPENDENT REPRESENTATIVE. No independent representative was retained to negotiate on behalf of the Limited Partners. AAA, which performed the Appraisals and rendered the Fairness Opinion, has not negotiated with the General Partners or Host and has not participated in establishing the terms of the Mergers. Consequently, the terms and conditions of the Mergers may have been more favorable to the Limited Partners if such terms and conditions were the result of arm's length negotiations. In this regard, the Fairness Opinion specifically does not conclude that other methodologies for determining the Exchange Values of the Partnerships and/or the value of the OP Units might not have been more favorable to the Limited Partners.

EXCHANGE VALUE MAY NOT EQUAL FAIR MARKET VALUE OF THE PARTNERSHIPS' HOTELS. Each Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who retains OP Units or elects to exchange OP Units for Common Shares will receive consideration with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Limited Partner's Partnership

Interest. The determination of the Exchange Value of each Partnership involves numerous estimates and assumptions. There is no assurance that the Exchange Value of a Partnership will equal the fair market value of the Hotels and other assets contributed by such Partnership. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

ALLOCATION OF OP UNITS TO HOST REIT IS DIFFERENT FROM ALLOCATION OF OP UNITS TO THE PARTNERSHIPS. Following the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will own a number of OP Units equal to the number of shares of Host common stock outstanding on the Effective Date (including the OP Units to be received by the General Partners and Host subsidiaries in the Mergers and the OP Units to be acquired from the Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers) and, if Host has outstanding shares of preferred stock at the time of the REIT Conversion, a corresponding number of preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership. Host REIT's OP Units, in the aggregate, should fairly represent the market value of Host REIT but may not be equal to the fair market or net asset value of the Hotels and other assets that Host will contribute to the Operating Partnership. The Partnerships will receive OP Units in the Mergers with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Partnership. The different methods of allocating OP Units to Host REIT and the Partnerships may result in Limited Partners not receiving the fair market value of their Partnership Interests and Host REIT receiving a higher percentage of the interests in the Operating Partnership. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

ALLOCATIONS OF OP UNITS TO THE BLACKSTONE ENTITIES AND THE PRIVATE PARTNERSHIPS WERE NOT DETERMINED BY THE EXCHANGE VALUE METHODOLOGIES. The price and other terms of the acquisitions of certain Private Partnerships and the Blackstone Acquisition (and thus the allocation of OP Units resulting therefrom) were determined by arm's length negotiations. The assets to be acquired in the Blackstone Acquisition did not generate, in the aggregate, pro forma net income for 1997 or the First Two Quarters 1998. If the partners' interests in the Private Partnerships and the assets of the Blackstone Entities had been valued by the same methodologies used to determine the Exchange Values in the Mergers, the value of the OP Units to be allocated to such partners or the Blackstone Entities may have been less than they actually will receive. The different methods of allocating OP Units may result in the Limited Partners receiving relatively less for their Partnership Interests than the partners in the Private Partnerships and the Blackstone Entities.

PRICE OF OP UNITS OR COMMON SHARES MIGHT BE LESS THAN THE FAIR MARKET VALUE OF THE PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS. The price of an OP Unit for purposes of the Mergers will be equal to the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the first 20 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers (but it will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit). This pricing mechanism has the effect of fixing the minimum and maximum number of OP Units to be issued in the Mergers. It is likely that, either initially or over time, the value of the publicly traded Common Shares of Host REIT (and therefore the value of the OP Units) will diverge from the deemed value of the OP Units used for purposes of the Mergers. This could result in the Limited Partners receiving OP Units or Common Shares with an actual value that is less than either the price of the OP Units for purposes of the Mergers or the fair market value of their Partnership Interests.

INABILITY OF LIMITED PARTNERS WHO RETAIN OP UNITS TO REDEEM OP UNITS FOR ONE YEAR. Limited Partners who retain OP Units received in the Mergers will be unable to redeem such OP Units for one year following the Mergers. Until then, Limited Partners will bear the risk of illiquidity and of not being able to sell in a falling market.

VALUE OF THE NOTES WILL BE LESS THAN THE EXCHANGE VALUE. In exchange for OP Units received in a Merger, each Limited Partner may elect to receive an unsecured, seven-year Note of the Operating Partnership with a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interest. The determination of the Note Election Amount is based upon numerous assumptions and estimates. The deemed value of the OP Units will exceed the principal amount of the corresponding Notes in all Partnerships (because the Exchange Values will be higher than the Note Election Amounts) and there is no assurance that the Note a Limited Partner receives will have a value equal to either (i) the fair market value of the Limited Partner's share of the Hotels and other assets owned by his Partnership or (ii) the principal amount of the Notes. There will be no public market for the Notes. If the Notes are sold, they may sell at prices substantially below their issuance price. Noteholders are likely to receive the full principal amount of a Note only if they hold the Note to maturity, which is December 15, 2005, or if the Operating Partnership repays the Notes prior to maturity. Because the Notes are unsecured obligations of the Operating Partnership, they will be effectively subordinated to all secured debt of the Operating Partnership and all obligations of both the Participating Partnerships and the Operating Partnership's other subsidiaries. See "Description of the Notes." As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership would have had aggregate consolidated debt of approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures related to the Convertible Preferred Securities) to which the Notes were effectively subordinated or which ranks equally with such Notes.

CASH DISTRIBUTIONS MAY EXCEED CASH AVAILABLE FOR DISTRIBUTION; REDUCED CASH DISTRIBUTIONS FOR CERTAIN LIMITED PARTNERS. Distributions will be made at the discretion of Host REIT's Board of Directors and will be affected by a number of factors, including the rental payments received by the Operating Partnership from the Lessees with respect to the Leases of the Hotels, the operating expenses of the Operating Partnership, the level of borrowings and interest expense incurred in borrowing, the Operating Partnership's financial condition and cash available for distribution, the taxable income of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, the effects of acquisitions and dispositions of assets, unanticipated capital expenditures and distributions required to be made on any preferred units issued by the Operating Partnership. To the extent that cash available for distribution (generally cash from operations less capital expenditures and principal amortization of indebtedness) is insufficient to pay distributions in accordance with the Operating Partnership's distribution policy or to maintain the REIT qualification of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership intends to borrow to make such distributions. The preliminary estimated initial annual cash distributions of the Operating Partnership during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 ($226 million) will exceed its estimated cash available for distribution ($163 million) and cash from contingent rents ($54 million) during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 (totaling $217 million), which would require borrowings of approximately $9 million (or $0.04 per OP Unit) to make such distributions in accordance with the Operating Partnership's distribution policy. Moreover, if estimated cash from contingent rents were less than $54 million, then the Operating Partnership also would be required to borrow any such shortfall in order to make such distributions. Actual results may vary substantially from the estimates and no assurance can be given that the Operating Partnership's estimates will prove accurate or that any level of distributions will be made or sustained. In addition, the estimated initial annual cash distributions of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to the Limited Partners of MHP and MHP2 per Partnership Unit ($7,645 and $12,862, respectively) will be less than the estimated cash distributions from operations of MHP and MHP2 per Partnership Unit ($16,000 and $27,164, respectively) during 1998.

TIMING OF THE REIT CONVERSION. Host currently expects to complete the REIT Conversion during 1998, which would permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for its 1999 taxable year, but it is not a condition to the Mergers that the REIT Conversion be completed in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce Host REIT's estimated cash distributions per Common Share during 1999 to $0.52 per Common Share but not the Operating Partnership's estimated cash distributions of $0.84 per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated. In view of the complexity of the REIT Conversion and the number of transactions that must occur to complete the REIT Conversion, Host and the General Partners believe that it is beneficial both to the Limited Partners and the shareholders of Host to complete the REIT Conversion as soon as practicable, even if the REIT Conversion cannot be completed prior to January 1, 1999. If Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT is not effective on January 1, 1999, Host REIT intends to operate following the REIT Conversion in a manner that would permit it to qualify as a REIT at the earliest time practicable, and it might pursue a merger with another entity or other transaction that would permit it to commence a new taxable year and elect REIT status prior to January 1, 2000. Host REIT in any event would elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes no later than its taxable year commencing January 1, 2000. It is a condition to the Mergers that they be completed by June 30, 1999, unless the General Partners and the Operating Partnership mutually agree to extend that deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

CHANGES IN THE FAIRNESS OPINION. The Fairness Opinion will be updated by AAA only if so requested by the Operating Partnership. If no such request is made, changes may occur from the date of the Fairness Opinion to the Effective Date of the Mergers that might affect the conclusions expressed in the Fairness Opinion, some of which could be material.

FUNDAMENTAL CHANGE IN THE NATURE OF INVESTMENT; POTENTIAL UNDERPERFORMANCE. The Mergers and the REIT Conversion involve a fundamental change in the nature of a Limited Partner's investment from holding an interest in one or more Partnerships, some of which were structured as tax shelter or tax credit investments, and each of which is a finite-life entity that expires between the years 2063 and 2106, own only one or a fixed portfolio of (or controlling interests in) Hotels and distribute the cash flow from the operation of such Hotels to its partners, to holding a direct or indirect interest in the Operating Partnership, an ongoing real estate company, that (i) is expected to initially own interests in up to approximately 125 Hotels, (ii) will distribute to its partners the rents received from the Lessees (which will operate the Hotels and bear the risks and receive the direct benefits of the Hotels), (iii) has the ability to acquire additional hotels (including hotels with additional brands) and (iv) will be able to reinvest proceeds from sales or refinancings of existing Hotels in additional hotels.

Those Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will hold an equity interest in a publicly traded REIT that (i) provides immediate liquidity, (ii) intends to make distributions to its shareholders in an amount equal to at least 95% of its taxable income, (iii) allows shareholders to influence management by participation in the election of directors and (iv) realizes substantial corporate tax savings as long as certain requirements are met.

In addition, the Operating Partnership does not anticipate that it will distribute to its limited partners the proceeds from properties that are sold or refinancings, but instead generally will reinvest such proceeds to repay indebtedness, acquire additional existing properties, develop new properties or fund capital expenditure or other working-capital needs. Thus, in contrast to an investment in the Partnerships, Limited Partners who retain OP Units will not be able to realize a return of capital through distributions of sale and refinancing proceeds. Instead, Limited Partners will be able to realize a return of capital primarily through the exercise of their Unit Redemption Right, thereby receiving cash or, if the OP Units are redeemed for Common Shares, by selling the Common Shares received as a result thereof. A Limited Partner's share of the liquidation proceeds, if any, from the sale of a Partnership's Hotel or Hotels could be higher than the amount realized upon exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, the sale of Common Shares received in connection with the Mergers or payments on any Note received by a Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers. An investment in the Operating Partnership or Host REIT may not outperform an investment in any individual Partnership. See "Comparison of Ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares."

EXPOSURE TO MARKET AND ECONOMIC CONDITIONS OF OTHER HOTELS. As a result of the Mergers, Limited Partners in Participating Partnerships who retain OP Units or elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will own interests in a much larger enterprise with a broader range of assets than any of the Partnerships individually. A material adverse change affecting the Operating Partnership's assets will affect all Limited Partners regardless of whether a particular Limited Partner previously was an investor in such affected assets. Each Partnership owns discrete assets, and the Mergers and the REIT Conversion will significantly diversify the types and geographic locations of the Hotels in which the Limited Partners will have interests. As a result, the Hotels owned by the Operating Partnership may be affected differently by economic and market conditions than those Hotel(s) previously owned by an individual Partnership.

LIMITED PARTNERS HAVE NO CASH APPRAISAL RIGHTS. Limited Partners of Participating Partnerships who vote against the Merger will not have a right to receive cash based upon an appraisal of their Partnership Interests.

UNCERTAINTIES AS TO THE SIZE AND LEVERAGE OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP. The Limited Partners cannot know at the time they vote on a Merger the exact size and amount of leverage of the Operating Partnership. Host is an existing operating company that regularly issues and repays debt, acquires additional hotels and disposes of existing hotels. Also, some or all of the Partnerships may elect not to participate in a Merger. In addition, outside partners in certain Private Partnerships may not consent to a lease of their partnership's Hotel(s). In either such case, Host will contribute its interests in such Partnerships and Private Partnerships to the Operating Partnership but the Operating Partnership may contribute such interests to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary, which will be subject to corporate-level income taxation. Host also may repurchase outstanding securities or issue new debt or equity securities prior to the consummation of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion.

OTHER UNCERTAINTIES AT THE TIME OF VOTING INCLUDE NUMBER OF OP UNITS TO BE RECEIVED. There are several other uncertainties at the time the Limited Partners must vote on the Mergers, including (i) the exact Exchange Value for each Partnership (which will be adjusted for changes in lender and capital expenditure reserves, deferred maintenance and other items prior to the Effective Date), (ii) the price of the OP Units for purposes of the Mergers, which will be determined by reference to the post-Merger trading prices of Host REIT's Common Shares (but will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit) and which, together with the Exchange Value, will determine the number of OP Units (or Common Shares) the Limited Partners of each Participating Partnership will receive and (iii) the exact principal amount of the Notes that may be received in exchange for OP Units, which cannot be known until after the Note Election Amount has been determined. For these reasons, the Limited Partners cannot know at the time they vote on a Merger these important aspects of the Merger and they will not know the number of OP Units received in a Merger until approximately 25 trading days after the Merger.

LACK OF CONTROL OVER HOTEL OPERATIONS. Due to current federal income tax law restrictions on a REIT's ability to derive revenues directly from the operation of a hotel, the Operating Partnership will lease virtually all of its consolidated Hotels to the Lessees, which will operate the Hotels by continuing to retain the Managers pursuant to the Management Agreements. The Operating Partnership will not operate the Hotels or participate in the decisions affecting the daily operations of the Hotels. The Operating Partnership will have only limited ability to require the Lessees or the Managers to operate or manage the Hotels in any particular manner and no ability to govern any particular aspect of their day-to-day operation or management. Even if Host REIT's management believes the Lessees or the Managers are operating or managing the Hotels inefficiently or in a manner that does not result in the maximization of rental payments to the Operating Partnership under the Leases, the Operating Partnership has only a limited ability to require the Lessees or the Managers to change their method of operation or management. Therefore, the Operating Partnership will be dependent for its revenue upon the ability of the Lessees and the Managers to operate and manage the Hotels. The Operating Partnership is limited to seeking redress only if the Lessees violate the terms of the Leases and then only to the extent of the remedies set forth therein. Remedies under the Leases include the Operating Partnership's ability to terminate a Lease upon certain events of default such as the Lessee's failure to pay rent or failure to maintain certain net worth requirements and breaches of other specified obligations under the Leases. See "Business and Properties--The Leases." Termination of a Lease, however, could impair Host REIT's ability to qualify as a REIT for federal income tax purposes unless another suitable lessee could be found.

LACK OF CONTROL OVER NON-CONTROLLED SUBSIDIARIES. The Non-Controlled Subsidiaries will hold various assets (not exceeding, in the aggregate, 20% by value of the assets of the Operating Partnership), consisting primarily of interests in hotels which are not leased, certain furniture, fixtures and equipment used in the Hotels and certain international hotels. The direct ownership or control of most of these assets by the Operating Partnership could jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT. Although the Operating Partnership will own 95% of the total economic interests of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Host Employee Trust and possibly certain other investors will own all of the voting common stock of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries (which will represent the remaining 5% of the total economic interest thereof). As the owner of the voting stock of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Host Employee Trust and possibly certain other investors will select the directors of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, who will be responsible for overseeing the operations of those entities. As a result, the Operating Partnership will have no control over the operation or management of the hotels or other assets owned by the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries even though it will depend upon the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries for a significant portion of its revenues (and the activities of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries could cause the Operating Partnership to be in default under its principal debt facilities).

DEPENDENCE OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP UPON CRESTLINE. Crestline and its subsidiaries will be the Lessees of substantially all of the Hotels and their rent payments will be the primary source of the Operating Partnership's revenues. Crestline's financial condition and ability to meet its obligations under the Leases will determine the Operating Partnership's ability to make distributions to its partners (including Host REIT) and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders. As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis, after giving effect to the REIT Conversion, Crestline would have had approximately $315 million of indebtedness (including $100 million due to Host REIT to pay for hotel working capital purchased from Host REIT but not including guarantees of obligations of Crestline's subsidiaries under the Leases and the Management Agreements) and Crestline can incur additional indebtedness in the future. There can be no assurance that Crestline will have sufficient assets, income and access to financing to enable it to satisfy its obligations under the Leases. In addition, the credit rating of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT will be affected by the general creditworthiness of Crestline.

EXPIRATION OF THE LEASES AND POSSIBLE INABILITY TO FIND OTHER LESSEES. The Leases generally will expire seven to ten years after the Effective Date, and there can be no assurance that the affected Hotels will be relet to the Lessees (or if relet, will be relet on terms as favorable to the Operating Partnership). If the Hotels are not relet to the Lessees, the Operating Partnership will be required to find other lessees, which lessees must meet certain requirements set forth in the Management Agreements and the Code. There can be no assurance that satisfactory lessees could be found or as to the terms and conditions on which the Operating Partnership would be able to relet the Hotels or enter into new leases with such lessees, which could result in a failure of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT or in reduced cash available for distribution.

REQUISITE VOTE OF LIMITED PARTNERS OF PARTNERSHIPS BINDS ALL LIMITED PARTNERS. For each Partnership, approval of a Merger and the related amendments to its partnership agreement by the requisite vote of the Limited Partners, as described in "Voting Procedures--Required Limited Partner Vote and Other Conditions," will cause the Partnership to participate in the Merger and will bind all Limited Partners of such Partnership, including Limited Partners who voted against or abstained from voting with respect to the Merger and the related amendments to its partnership agreement.

INABILITY TO OBTAIN THIRD-PARTY CONSENTS MAY HAVE A MATERIAL ADVERSE EFFECT. There are numerous third-party consents which are required to be obtained in order to consummate the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. These include consents of many hotel project lenders, ground lessors, joint venture partners, Marriott International and others. The inability of Host, the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to obtain one or more such consents could cause a default under the cross-default provisions of the Company's principal credit facilities. Although the Operating Partnership will not consummate any Merger or the REIT Conversion unless it believes that the inability of Host, the Operating Partnership or Host REIT to obtain one or more consents would not reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, financial condition or results of operations, there can be no assurance that such a material adverse effect will not occur, which could reduce the value of the OP Units and Common Shares.

SUBSTANTIAL INDEBTEDNESS OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP. The Operating Partnership will have substantial indebtedness. As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership had outstanding indebtedness totaling approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures relating to the Convertible Preferred Securities), which represents an approximately 62% debt-to-total market capitalization ratio on a pro forma basis at such date (based upon a price per Common Share of Host REIT of $12.50). The Operating Partnership's business is capital intensive and it will have significant capital requirements in the future. The Operating Partnership's leverage level could affect its ability to (i) obtain financing in the future, (ii) undertake refinancings on terms and subject to conditions deemed acceptable by the Operating Partnership, (iii) make distributions to partners (including Host REIT), (iv) pursue its acquisition strategy or (v) compete effectively or operate successfully under adverse economic conditions. In the event that the Operating Partnership's cash flow and working capital are not sufficient to fund the Operating Partnership's expenditures or to service its indebtedness, the Operating Partnership would be required to raise additional funds through capital contributions, the refinancing of all or part of its indebtedness, the incurrence of additional permitted indebtedness or the sale of assets. There can be no assurance that any of these sources of funds would be available, if at all, in amounts sufficient for the Operating Partnership to meet its obligations. Moreover, even if the Operating Partnership were able to meet its obligations, its leveraged capital structure could significantly limit its ability to finance its acquisition program and other capital expenditures, to compete effectively or to operate successfully, especially under adverse economic conditions.

NO LIMITATION ON DEBT. Host REIT will have a policy of incurring debt only if, immediately following such incurrence, its debt-to-total market capitalization ratio on a pro forma basis would be 60% or less. However, there are no limitations in Host REIT's or the Operating Partnership's organizational documents that limit the amount of indebtedness that either entity may incur, although both the Notes and the Operating Partnership's other debt instruments will contain certain restrictions on the amount of indebtedness that the Operating Partnership may incur. Accordingly, the Board of Directors could alter or eliminate this policy from time to time to the extent permitted by its debt agreements. If this policy were changed, the Operating Partnership could become more highly leveraged, resulting in an increase in debt service payments that could adversely affect the Operating Partnership's cash flow and, consequently, the cash available for distribution to holders of OP Units and Common Shares and could increase the risk of default on the Operating Partnership's indebtedness.

INDIVIDUAL ASSETS MAY OUTPERFORM THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP'S PORTFOLIO. If consummated as contemplated, the Mergers and the REIT Conversion will combine into a single entity all of the assets and liabilities associated with the Participating Partnerships, the Private Partnerships and Host, as well as the Blackstone Hotels. Assets of certain Participating Partnerships may, over time, outperform the OP Units, which represent undivided interests in all of the assets of the Operating Partnership. Although the Exchange Values of the Participating Partnerships will be determined in part by the estimated future cash flows of such Partnerships, Limited Partners of a Participating Partnership that would outperform the Operating Partnership if allowed to continue as a separate entity will nonetheless receive the same rate of return per OP Unit as the rest of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership. In addition, the return that such Limited Partners receive on their investment in the Operating Partnership could be lower than the return that their Partnership would have provided if it had not participated in the Merger.

LEASES COULD IMPAIR THE SALE OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP'S HOTELS. Each Lease generally provides for a termination payment if the Lease is terminated by the Operating Partnership prior to the expiration of the term of such Lease (including due to a change in the federal income tax laws that allows the Operating Partnership to operate the Hotels without jeopardizing Host REIT's status as a REIT), except following a default by a Lessee and in certain other circumstances (including in connection with the sale of up to 12 Hotels without a termination payment) or unless the Operating Partnership leases to the Lessee a comparable substitute hotel. The termination fee is equal to the fair market value of the Lessee's leasehold interest in the remaining term of the Lease. The payment of such termination fee under the Leases could have the effect of impairing the ability of the Operating Partnership to sell its Hotels if market conditions otherwise warrant such a sale and would reduce the net proceeds of any such sale. See "Business and Properties--The Leases--Termination of Leases upon Disposition of Hotels."

MANAGEMENT AGREEMENTS COULD IMPAIR THE SALE OR OTHER DISPOSITION OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP'S HOTELS. Marriott International serves as the manager for all but 16 of the Operating Partnership's Hotels and provides various other services to Host and its subsidiaries. Although the Lessees will have primary liability under the Management Agreements as long as the Leases are in effect, the Operating Partnership will remain liable thereunder. The Hotels generally may not be sold or otherwise transferred unless the transferee assumes the Management Agreements relating thereto and meets certain other conditions. The possible desire of the Operating Partnership, from time to time, to finance, refinance or effect a sale of any of the properties managed by Marriott International or another manager may, depending upon the structure of such transactions, result in a need to modify the Management Agreements with Marriott International or such other manager with respect to such property. Any such modification proposed by the Operating Partnership may not be acceptable to Marriott International or such other manager, and the lack of consent from Marriott International or such other manager could adversely affect the Operating Partnership's ability to consummate such financing, refinancing or sale. In addition, certain situations could arise where actions taken by Marriott International or another manager in its capacity as manager of competing lodging properties would not necessarily be in the best interests of the Operating Partnership. Nevertheless, the Operating Partnership believes that there is sufficient mutuality of interest between the Operating Partnership and Marriott International or another manager to result in a mutually productive relationship.

NO CONTROL OVER MAJOR DECISIONS. Currently, Limited Partners of the Partnerships generally have the right to vote on certain major transactions, such as (i) a sale of all or substantially all of a Partnership's assets, (ii) a merger or consolidation of a Partnership with another entity, (iii) incurrence of certain types and amounts of debt, (iv) amendments to the partnership agreement or (v) removal of the General Partner, although all such matters (except removal of the General Partner) also require the approval of the General Partner. In contrast, limited partners of the Operating Partnership generally will have no voting rights as to management (including a change in control of management), debt financing (including reduction of mortgage indebtedness, except in certain limited circumstances), sale or other disposition of one or more Hotels (except with respect to a sale of all or substantially all of the Hotels, although Host REIT's percentage interest in the Operating Partnership and its ability to vote such interests give it the ability to determine the outcome of that vote) or removal of Host REIT as general partner of the Operating Partnership. See "Description of OP Units-- Removal or Withdrawal of Host REIT; Transfer of Host REIT's Interests," "-- Borrowing by the Operating Partnership" and "--Sales of Assets." However, limited partners of the Operating Partnership will have certain voting rights during the first year following the Mergers. See "Description of OP Units-- Certain Voting Rights of Holders of OP Units During the First Year Following the Mergers." After the REIT Conversion, substantially all actions taken by the Operating Partnership will be based upon decisions made by the management and Board of Directors (as constituted from time to time) of Host REIT, in its absolute discretion, as the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership.

FOREGOING POTENTIAL BENEFITS OF ALTERNATIVES TO THE REIT CONVERSION. The alternatives to participation in the REIT Conversion through a Merger include continuation of a Partnership, sale of the Partnership's assets and liquidation, reorganization as a separate REIT or merger of the Partnership with an existing REIT or UPREIT. Continuation of a Partnership in accordance with its existing business plan would not subject the Partnership to the risks associated with a Merger or change the Limited Partners' voting rights or the policy governing their cash distributions. Liquidation of a Partnership would allow Limited Partners to receive the net proceeds from the sale of the Partnership's assets and would permit valuation of the Partnership's assets through negotiations with prospective purchasers (in many cases unrelated third parties), making it unnecessary to rely upon other valuation methods to estimate fair market value. Such a sale and liquidation, however, would result in substantial taxable income for many Limited Partners at the time of liquidation. Reorganization of a Partnership as a separate REIT would allow certain Limited Partners to receive REIT shares immediately and achieve liquidity (but such REIT shares would represent an investment in a substantially smaller company with substantially fewer publicly held shares) and to continue their investment only in their existing Hotel(s) (although Limited Partners with negative capital accounts would be required to recognize gain to the extent thereof upon formation of the separate REIT). Merger of a Partnership with an existing REIT would give Limited Partners liquidity (or in the case of a merger with an UPREIT, tax deferral advantages) but would benefit Limited Partners more than the Mergers only if the consideration received had a value in excess of the value of the OP Units to be received in the Mergers. See "Background and Reasons for Mergers and the REIT Conversion-- Alternatives to the Mergers."

NO PARTNER LIABILITY. The merger agreements pursuant to which subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership will merge with the Partnerships provide that the Operating Partnership will have no recourse against any of the partners in the Participating Partnerships in the event the Operating Partnership suffers a loss as the result of an inaccuracy in any representation or warranty made by the Partnership in such merger agreements.

DILUTION. While currently there are no specific proposals for the Operating Partnership to issue OP Units beyond those to be issued in the REIT Conversion and the Blackstone Acquisition, the Operating Partnership expects to pursue acquisitions of additional hotels. These acquisitions may be financed through the issuance of OP Units or other limited partnership interests directly to property owners or to Host REIT in exchange for cash. Any such OP Units or other limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership may have certain preferences. Additional issuances of equity securities of Host REIT or OP Units in connection with acquisitions of additional hotels or offerings of securities for cash may occur in the discretion of Host REIT's Board of Directors, and would result in proportional reductions of the percentage ownership interests of the limited partners (or other holders of OP Units) of the Operating Partnership. See "Description of OP Units."

RISKS OF OWNERSHIP OF OP UNITS AND COMMON SHARES

INABILITY TO REMOVE HOST REIT AS GENERAL PARTNER OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP. The Partnership Agreement provides that limited partners may not remove Host REIT as general partner of the Operating Partnership with or without cause (unless neither the general partner nor its parent entity is a "public company," in which case the general partner may be removed with or without cause by limited partners holding percentage interests in the Operating Partnership ("Percentage Interests") that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon, including any such interests held by the general partner). The inability to remove Host REIT as general partner may not be in the best interests of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership. See "Description of OP Units--Removal or Withdrawal of Host REIT; Transfer of Host REIT's Interests."

RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFER OF OP UNITS. The Partnership Agreement contains restrictions on the ability of limited partners to transfer their OP Units, except in certain limited circumstances, without the prior written consent of Host REIT. See "Description of OP Units--Restrictions on Transfers of Interests by Limited Partners."

LIMITATIONS ON ACQUISITION OF OP UNITS AND COMMON SHARES AND CHANGE IN CONTROL. Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws, the Partnership Agreement, the Shareholder Rights Plan (to be adopted by Host REIT to replace Host's existing shareholder rights plan) and Maryland law contain a number of provisions that could delay, defer or prevent a transaction or a change of control of Host REIT that might involve a premium price for holders of Common Shares or otherwise be in their best interests, including the following:

OWNERSHIP LIMIT. The 9.8% ownership limit described under "--Possible Adverse Consequences of Limits on Ownership of Common Shares" below may have the effect of precluding a change in control of Host REIT by a third party without the consent of the Board of Directors, even if such change in control would be in the interest of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership or shareholders of Host REIT (and even if such change in control would not reasonably jeopardize the REIT status of Host REIT).

STAGGERED BOARD. The Charter will provide that the Board of Directors initially shall consist of eight members and may be thereafter increased or decreased in accordance with the Bylaws of Host REIT, provided that the total number of directors may not be fewer than three nor more than 13. Pursuant to Host REIT's Bylaws, the number of directors shall be fixed by the Board of Directors within the limits set forth in the Charter. The Board of Directors of Host REIT will be divided into three classes of directors. The terms of the first, second and third classes will expire in 1999, 2000 and 2001, respectively. Directors for each class will be chosen for a three-year term upon the expiration of the then current class' term, beginning in 1999. The staggered terms for directors may affect the shareholders' ability to effect a change in control of Host REIT, even if a change in control would be in the interest of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership or shareholders of Host REIT.

REMOVAL OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS. Host REIT's Charter will provide that, except for any directors who may be elected by holders of a class or series of shares of capital stock other than the Common Shares, directors may be removed only for cause and only by the affirmative vote of shareholders holding at least two-thirds of the shares then outstanding and entitled to be cast for the election of directors. Vacancies on the Board of Directors may be filled by the concurring vote of a majority of the remaining directors and, in the case of a vacancy resulting from the removal of a director by the shareholders by at least two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast in the election of directors.

PREFERRED SHARES; CLASSIFICATION OR RECLASSIFICATION OF UNISSUED SHARES OF CAPITAL STOCK WITHOUT SHAREHOLDER APPROVAL. Host REIT's Charter provides that the total number of shares of stock of all classes which Host REIT has authority to issue is 800,000,000 shares of stock, initially consisting of 750,000,000 Common Shares and 50,000,000 shares of preferred stock. The Board of Directors is authorized, without a vote of shareholders, to classify or reclassify any unissued shares of stock, including Common Shares into preferred shares or vice versa, and to establish the preferences and rights of any preferred or other class or series of shares to be issued. The issuance of preferred shares or other shares having special preferences or rights could have the effect of delaying or preventing a change in control of Host REIT even if a change in control would be in the interest of the shareholders of Host REIT or limited partners of the Operating Partnership. Because the Board of Directors will have the power to establish the preferences and rights of additional classes or series of shares without a shareholder vote, the Board of Directors may afford the holders of any such class or series preferences, powers and rights, including voting rights, senior to the rights of holders of the Common Shares.

CONSENT RIGHTS OF THE LIMITED PARTNERS. Under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT generally will be able to merge or consolidate with another entity with the consent of partners holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding partnership interests entitled to vote thereon (including any such partnership interests held by Host REIT) as long as the holders of OP Units either will receive or will have the right to receive the same consideration as the holders of Common Shares. Host REIT, as holder of a majority of the OP Units, would be able to control the outcome of such vote. Under the Charter, the approval of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding Host REIT Common Shares generally is necessary to effectuate such merger or consolidation.

MARYLAND BUSINESS COMBINATION LAW. Under the Maryland General Corporation Law (the "MGCL"), certain "business combinations" (including certain issuances of equity securities) between a Maryland corporation and any person who owns 10% or more of the voting power of the corporation's then outstanding shares (an "Interested Shareholder") or an affiliate of the Interested Shareholder are prohibited for five years after the most recent date in which the Interested Shareholder becomes an Interested Shareholder. Thereafter, any such business combination must be approved by a supermajority (80%) of outstanding voting shares, and by two-thirds of voting shares other than voting shares held by an Interested Shareholder unless, among other conditions, the corporation's common shareholders receive a minimum price (as defined in the MGCL) for their shares and the consideration is received in cash or in the same form as previously paid by the Interested Shareholder. Host REIT will be subject to the Maryland business combination statute.

MARYLAND CONTROL SHARE ACQUISITION LAW. Under the MGCL, "control shares" acquired in a "control share acquisition" have no voting rights except to the extent approved by a vote of two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter, excluding shares owned by the acquiror and by officers or directors who are employees of the corporation. "Control shares" are voting shares which, if aggregated with all other such shares previously acquired by the acquiror or in respect of which the acquiror is able to exercise or direct the exercise of voting power (except solely by virtue of a revocable proxy), would entitle the acquiror to exercise voting power in electing directors within one of the following ranges of voting power: (i) one-fifth or more but less than one-third, (ii) one-third or more but less than a majority or (iii) a majority or more of the voting power. Control shares do not include shares the acquiring person is then entitled to vote as a result of having previously obtained shareholder approval. A "control share acquisition" means the acquisition of control shares, subject to certain exceptions. Host REIT will be subject to these control share provisions of Maryland law.

ADVANCE NOTICE OF DIRECTOR NOMINATIONS AND NEW BUSINESS. The Bylaws of Host REIT impose certain advance notice requirements that must be met for nominations of persons for election to the Board of Directors and the proposal of business to be considered by shareholders. The advance notice provisions contained in the Bylaws generally require nominations and new business proposals by shareholders to be delivered to the Secretary of Host REIT not later than the close of business on the 60th day nor earlier than the close of business on the 90th day before the date on which Host REIT mailed its proxy materials for the prior year's annual meeting of shareholders.

MEETINGS OF SHAREHOLDERS; CALL OF SPECIAL MEETINGS; SHAREHOLDER ACTION IN LIEU OF MEETING BY UNANIMOUS CONSENT. Host REIT's Bylaws provide that annual meetings of shareholders shall be held on a date and at the time set by the Board of Directors during the month of May each year (commencing in May 1999). Special meetings of the shareholders may be called by the President or the Board of Directors or on the written request of shareholders entitled to cast a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast at the meeting. Any action required or permitted to be taken by the shareholders must be effected at a duly called annual or special meeting of shareholders or by unanimous written consent.

MERGER, CONSOLIDATION, SHARE EXCHANGE AND TRANSFER OF ASSETS OF HOST REIT. Pursuant to Host REIT's Charter, subject to the terms of any class or series of capital stock at the time outstanding, Host REIT may merge with or into another entity, may consolidate with one or more other entities, may participate in a share exchange or may transfer its assets within the meaning of the MGCL if approved (i) by the Board of Directors in the manner provided in the MGCL and (ii) by shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter (except that any merger of Host REIT with or into a trust organized for the purpose of changing Host REIT's form of organization from a corporation to a trust will require the approval of shareholders of Host REIT by the affirmative vote only of a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter). Under the MGCL, certain mergers may be accomplished without a vote of shareholders and a share exchange need be approved by a Maryland successor only by its Board of Directors. A voluntary dissolution of Host REIT also would require the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

AMENDMENTS TO HOST REIT'S CHARTER AND BYLAWS. The provisions contained in Host REIT's Charter relating to restrictions on transferability of the Common Shares, the classified Board and fixing the size of the Board within the range set forth in the Charter, as well as the provisions relating to removal of directors and the filling of Board vacancies may be amended only by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors and approved by shareholders by the affirmative vote of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. As permitted under the MGCL, the Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT provide that directors have the exclusive right to amend the Bylaws. Amendments of this provision of the Charter also would require Board action and approval by two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL PURCHASE RIGHT. In connection with Host's spinoff of Marriott International in 1993, Marriott International obtained the right to purchase up to 20% of each class of Host's outstanding voting shares at the then fair market value upon the occurrence of certain change of control events involving Host (the "Marriott International Purchase Right"). The Marriott International Purchase Right will continue in effect after the Mergers (until June 2017), subject to certain limitations intended to protect the REIT status of Host REIT. The Marriott International Purchase Right may have the effect of discouraging a takeover of Host REIT, because any person considering acquiring a substantial or controlling block of Host REIT Common Shares will face the possibility that its ability to obtain or exercise control would be impaired or made more expensive by the exercise of the Marriott International Purchase Right.

SHAREHOLDER RIGHTS PLAN. Host REIT intends to adopt a Shareholder Rights Plan to replace the existing Host shareholder rights plan. The new Shareholder Rights Plan is expected to provide, among other things, that upon the occurrence of certain events, shareholders will be entitled to purchase from Host REIT a newly created series of junior preferred shares, subject to Host REIT's Ownership Limit. The preferred share purchase rights will be triggered by the earlier to occur of (i) ten days following the date of a public announcement that a person or group acting in concert has acquired, or obtained the right to acquire, beneficial ownership of 20% or more of the outstanding Common Shares or (ii) ten business days following the commencement of or announcement of an intention to make a tender or exchange offer, the consummation of which would result in the acquiring person becoming the beneficial owner of 20% or more of such outstanding Common Shares. The preferred share purchase rights would cause substantial dilution to a person or group that attempts to acquire Host REIT on terms not approved by the Board of Directors. See "Description of Capital Stock" and "Certain Provisions of Maryland Law and Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws."

POSSIBLE ADVERSE CONSEQUENCES OF LIMITS ON OWNERSHIP OF COMMON SHARES. To maintain its qualification as a REIT for federal income tax purposes, not more than 50% in value of the outstanding shares of capital stock of Host REIT may be owned, directly or indirectly, by five or fewer individuals (as defined in the Code to include certain entities). See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Requirements for Qualification." In addition, a person who owns, directly or by attribution, 10% or more of an interest in a tenant of Host REIT (or a tenant of any partnership in which Host REIT is a partner) cannot own, directly or by attribution, 10% or more of the shares of Host REIT without jeopardizing Host REIT's qualification as a REIT. Primarily to facilitate maintenance of its qualification as a REIT for federal income tax purposes, the ownership limit under the Host REIT Charter will prohibit ownership, directly or by virtue of the attribution provisions of the Code, by any person or persons acting as a group of more than 9.8% of the issued and outstanding Common Shares (subject to an exception for Common Shares held prior to the REIT Conversion so long as the holder thereof would not own more than 9.9% in value of the outstanding shares of Host REIT) and will prohibit ownership, directly or by virtue of the attribution provisions of the Code, by any person or persons acting as a group of more than 9.8% of the issued and outstanding shares of any class or series of Host REIT's preferred shares (collectively, the "Ownership Limit"). The Board of Directors, in its sole and absolute discretion, may waive or modify the Ownership Limit with respect to one or more persons who would not be treated as "individuals" for purposes of the Code if it is satisfied, based upon information required to be provided by the party seeking the waiver and upon an opinion of counsel satisfactory to the Board of Directors, that ownership in excess of this limit will not cause a person who is an individual to be treated as owning shares in excess of the Ownership Limit, applying the applicable constructive ownership rules, and will not otherwise jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT for federal income tax purposes (for example, by causing any tenant of the Operating Partnership or any of the Hotel Partnerships (including, but not limited to, Crestline and the Lessees) to be considered a "related party tenant" for purposes of the REIT qualification rules). Common Shares acquired or held in violation of the Ownership Limit will be transferred automatically to a trust for the benefit of a designated charitable beneficiary, and the person who acquired such Common Shares in violation of the Ownership Limit will not be entitled to any distributions thereon, to vote such Common Shares or to receive any proceeds from the subsequent sale thereof in excess of the lesser of the price paid therefor or the amount realized from such sale. A transfer of Common Shares to a person who, as a result of the transfer, violates the Ownership Limit may be void under certain circumstances, and, in any event, would deny the transferee any of the economic benefits of owning Common Shares in excess of the Ownership Limit. See "Description of Capital Stock--Restrictions on Ownership and Transfer." The Ownership Limit may have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control and, therefore, could adversely affect the shareholders' ability to realize a premium over the then-prevailing market price for the Common Shares in connection with such transaction.

POSSIBLE DIFFERING FIDUCIARY DUTIES OF GENERAL PARTNERS AND HOST REIT. The General Partners, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, and the Board of Directors of Host REIT, respectively, owe fiduciary duties to their constituent owners. Although some courts have interpreted the fiduciary duties of the Board of Directors in the same way as the duties of a general partner in a limited partnership, it is unclear whether, or to what extent, there are differences in such fiduciary duties. It is possible that the fiduciary duties of the directors of Host REIT to the shareholders may be less than those of the General Partners to their respective limited partners or Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, to the limited partners of the Operating Partnership. The Partnership Agreement contains a specific provision to the effect that Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is under no obligation to consider the separate interests of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership in taking partnership action and also contains broad exculpatory language. Since the partnership agreements of the Partnerships do not contain the same provisions, the fiduciary duties of Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, to the limited partners of the Operating Partnership may be less than those of the General Partners to their respective Limited Partners. See "Comparison of Ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares--Fiduciary Duties."

EFFECT ON COMMON SHARE PRICE OF SHARES AVAILABLE FOR FUTURE SALE. Sales of a substantial number of Common Shares, or the perception that such sales could occur, could adversely affect prevailing market prices for Common Shares. Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will be able to sell such shares at any time after they are received (unless held by an affiliate of Host REIT). Beginning July 1, 1999, half of the approximately 43.7 million OP Units expected to be issued in the Blackstone Acquisition will become redeemable pursuant to their Unit Redemption Right, an additional 25% will be redeemable on October 1, 1999, and the balance will be redeemable on January 1, 2000, which means it is possible for the Blackstone Entities to convert all of their OP Units into Common Shares prior to, or concurrently with, the first time the Limited Partners who retain OP Units would be able to exercise their Unit Redemption Right and possibly causing the price of the Common Shares to decrease prior to such Limited Partners being able to sell their Common Shares. In addition, beginning at least one year after the Effective Date (or after a lesser period in certain circumstances), other holders of OP Units, including Limited Partners who retain OP Units received in the Mergers, may be able to sell Common Shares received upon exercise of their Unit Redemption Right in the public market pursuant to registration or exemptions from registration. Further, a substantial number of Common Shares would, pursuant to employee benefit plans, be issued or reserved for issuance from time to time, including Common Shares reserved for issuance pursuant to options granted prior to the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, and these Common Shares would be available for sale in the public markets from time to time pursuant to exemptions from registration or upon registration. Moreover, the issuance of additional Common Shares by Host or Host REIT in the future (including any Common Shares that may be issued in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution) would be available for sale in the public markets. Although not yet certain, it is currently contemplated that the Initial E&P Distribution will include a nontransferable right entitling Host shareholders who receive the Initial E&P Distribution and the Blackstone Entities to elect to receive either a specified dollar amount of cash or a specified fraction of a share of Host common stock (or a Host REIT Common Share if the merger of Host into Host REIT has occurred). No prediction can be made about the effect that future sales of Common Shares would have on the market price of the Common Shares.

CURRENT HOST COMMON STOCK PRICE IS NOT NECESSARILY INDICATIVE OF THE PRICE OF HOST REIT COMMON SHARES FOLLOWING THE REIT CONVERSION. Host's current stock price is not necessarily indicative of how the market will value Host REIT Common Shares following the REIT Conversion, because of the effect of the distribution of the Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, the acquisition of additional assets in connection with the REIT Conversion, including the Blackstone Acquisition, and the change in Host's organization from a taxable corporation to a REIT. The current stock price of Host reflects the current market valuation of Host's current business and assets (including the Crestline common stock and the cash or other consideration that may be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution), a significant portion of which (except for the Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration to be distributed and certain other de minimis assets) will be contributed directly or indirectly to the Operating Partnership and will comprise the core of the Operating Partnership's business and assets following the REIT Conversion. Host's common stock price is also affected by general market conditions.

EFFECT ON COMMON SHARE PRICE OF MARKET CONDITIONS. As with other publicly traded equity securities, the value of the Common Shares will depend upon various market conditions, which may change from time to time. Among the market conditions that may affect the value of the Common Shares are the following: (i) the extent of institutional investor interest in Host REIT, (ii) the general market perception of REITs in general and hotel REITs in particular and the attractiveness of their equity securities in comparison to other equity securities (including securities issued by other real estate-based companies), (iii) Host REIT's financial performance, (iv) changes in the tax laws affecting REITs (particularly REITs that primarily own hotels) and (v) general stock and bond market conditions. Although the Limited Partners of a Participating Partnership will receive OP Units with an aggregate deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of their Partnership Interests in the Merger, there can be no assurance that the Common Shares would not trade at prices below this deemed value at the time of or after the REIT Conversion, thereby reducing the value of such OP Units below the Exchange Value, or that the Common Shares will not trade at prices below the value of Host REIT's business and assets.

EFFECT ON COMMON SHARE PRICE OF EARNINGS AND CASH DISTRIBUTIONS. It is generally believed that the market value of the equity securities of a REIT is primarily based upon the market's perception of the REIT's growth potential for its core portfolio, the value of its real estate portfolio and its prospects for accretive acquisitions and development. The combination of these factors creates a market perception of a REIT's current and potential future cash distributions, whether from operations, sales, acquisitions, development or refinancings, and is secondarily based upon the value of the underlying assets. For that reason, Common Shares may trade at prices that are higher or lower than the net asset value per Common Share or per OP Unit. To the extent Host REIT retains operating cash flow for investment purposes, working capital reserves or other purposes rather than distributing such cash flow to shareholders, these retained funds, while increasing the value of Host REIT's underlying assets, may not correspondingly increase the market price of the Common Shares. The failure of Host REIT to meet the market's expectation with regard to future earnings and cash distributions would likely adversely affect the market price of the Common Shares.

EFFECT ON COMMON SHARE PRICE OF MARKET INTEREST RATES. One of the factors that will influence the price of the Common Shares will be the dividend yield on the Common Shares (as a percentage of the price of the Common Shares) relative to market interest rates. Thus, an increase in market interest rates may lead prospective purchasers of Common Shares to expect a higher dividend yield, which would adversely affect the market price of the Common Shares.

EFFECT ON COMMON SHARE PRICE OF UNRELATED EVENTS. As with other publicly traded equity securities, the value of the Common Shares will depend upon various market conditions, including conditions unrelated to real estate investments generally. Thus, events which depress equity market prices may not have any effect on real estate market values, with the result that the Common Shares may trade at prices below Host REIT's net asset value.

DEPENDENCE ON EXTERNAL SOURCES OF CAPITAL. As with other REITs, but unlike corporations generally, Host REIT's ability to reduce its debt and finance its growth largely must be funded by external sources of capital because Host REIT generally will have to distribute to its shareholders 95% of its taxable income in order to qualify as a REIT (including taxable income where Host REIT does not receive corresponding cash). Host REIT's access to external capital will depend upon a number of factors, including general market conditions, the market's perception of Host REIT's growth potential, its current and potential future earnings, cash distributions and the market price of the Common Shares.

RISKS OF OWNERSHIP OF THE NOTES

THE NOTES ARE UNSECURED. The Notes, which are prepayable at any time, are unsecured obligations of the Operating Partnership. Thus, the Notes will be effectively subordinated to any secured debt of the Operating Partnership and to all obligations of the Hotel Partnerships and all other subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership. As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries would have had aggregate consolidated debt to which the Notes would be effectively subordinated or which ranks equally with such Notes of approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures relating to the Convertible Preferred Securities).

NO PUBLIC MARKET FOR THE NOTES. There will be no public market for the Notes. If the Notes are sold, they may sell at prices substantially below their issuance price. Noteholders are likely to receive the full principal amount of a Note only if they hold the Note to maturity, which is December 15, 2005, or if the Operating Partnership repays the Notes prior to maturity.

LIMITED PROTECTION FOR NOTEHOLDERS IN THE EVENT OF A RESTRUCTURING OR SIMILAR TRANSACTION. Other than (i) certain restrictions on the incurrence of indebtedness, (ii) a financial covenant requiring the Operating Partnership to maintain certain coverage ratios and (iii) the customary requirements that the surviving entity in any business combination assume the obligations under the Notes and the Indenture and be in full compliance with all of the provisions of the Indenture, the Indenture does not contain any special provisions protecting Noteholders in the event of a restructuring, reorganization or similar transaction involving the Operating Partnership, which could increase the risk that the Notes may not be paid in full at maturity. See "Description of the Notes."

RISKS OF OPERATION

COMPETITION IN THE LODGING INDUSTRY. The profitability of the Hotels is subject to general economic conditions, the management abilities of the Managers (including primarily Marriott International), competition, the desirability of particular locations and other factors relating to the operation of the Hotels. The full-service segment of the lodging industry in which the Hotels primarily operate is highly competitive and the Hotels generally operate in geographical markets that contain numerous competitors. The Hotels' success will be dependent, in large part, upon their ability to compete in such areas as access, location, quality of accommodations, room rate structure, the quality and scope of food and beverage facilities and other services and amenities. Although the competitive position of each of the Company's hotel properties differs from market to market, the Company believes that its properties generally compare favorably to their competitive set in the markets in which they operate on the basis of these factors. Furthermore, the Company's strategy is to affiliate its properties with managers operating under the highest quality brand names in the industry which the Company believes will enhance their competitive position. Nonetheless, there can be no assurance that these managers will maintain the quality of their brand names. Furthermore, competing properties may be built or existing products enhanced such that they offer characteristics more favorable than those offered by the Company's properties. See "Business and Properties--Competition." The lodging industry, including the Hotels (and thus the Operating Partnership), may be adversely affected in the future by (i) national and regional economic conditions, (ii) changes in travel patterns, (iii) taxes and government regulations which influence or determine wages, prices, interest rates, construction procedures and costs, (iv) the availability of credit and (v) other factors beyond the control of the Operating Partnership.

GENERAL REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT RISKS. Partners of the Operating Partnership will continue to bear risks associated with real estate investments. The yields available from equity investments in real estate and the Operating Partnership's ability to service debt depend, in large part, upon the amount of rental revenues generated, expenses incurred and capital expenditures required in the operation of its business. The Operating Partnership's income and ability to make distributions to its partners will be dependent upon the rent payable by the Lessees exceeding the amounts required for debt service, property taxes and other expenses payable by the Operating Partnership (including required FF&E reserves and capital expenditures). The rental payments payable by the Lessees will be affected in part by the sales generated by the Managers from operation of the Hotels. The Lessees' ability to pay rent accrued under the Leases will depend in significant part upon the ability of the Managers to generate gross sales in excess of its requirements to meet operating expenses. The Operating Partnership's rental income from the Hotels may, therefore, directly or indirectly, be adversely affected by a number of factors, including the general economic climate, local real estate conditions, such as an oversupply of, or a reduction in demand for, hotel space, the attractiveness of the Hotels to consumers, the quality, philosophy and performance of management, the ability of the Lessees to maximize rental payments to Host REIT, the ability of the Manager to effectively operate the Hotels, competition from comparable hotels, changes in room rates and increases in operating costs due to inflation and other factors, which increases may not necessarily be passed through fully to guests. In addition, the Operating Partnership's rental income from the Hotels and real estate values also are affected by such factors as the cost of compliance with government regulation, including zoning and tax laws, the potential for liability under applicable laws, interest rate levels and the availability of financing. Certain significant expenditures associated with each equity investment in a Hotel (such as mortgage payments, if any, real estate taxes and maintenance costs) also may not decrease even though circumstances cause a reduction in the Operating Partnership's rental income from the Hotel. If any of the above occurs, the Operating Partnership's ability to make distributions to its partners, including Host REIT, and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders, could be adversely affected.

RENTAL REVENUES FROM HOTELS SUBJECT TO PRIOR RIGHTS OF LENDERS. In accordance with the mortgage loan agreements with respect to outstanding indebtedness of certain Hotel Partnerships, the rental revenues received by such Hotel Partnerships under certain Leases first will be used to satisfy the debt service on such outstanding indebtedness with only the cash flow remaining after debt service being available to satisfy other obligations of the Hotel Partnership (including paying property taxes and insurance, funding the required FF&E reserves for the Hotels and capital improvements and paying debt service with respect to unsecured debt) and to make distributions to the holders of OP Units (including Host REIT).

POSSIBLE UNDERPERFORMANCE OF NEW ACQUISITIONS. In the future, the Operating Partnership expects to pursue acquisitions of additional full-service hotels and other types of real estate. Acquisitions entail the risk that such investments will fail to perform in accordance with expectations. The Operating Partnership anticipates that, in certain circumstances, it may use OP Units as consideration to acquire hotels from tax-sensitive sellers and, in connection with such acquisitions, it may agree to certain restrictions on the Operating Partnership's ability to sell, or reduce the amount of mortgage indebtedness on, such acquired hotels, which may increase the Operating Partnership's leverage and which may impair the Operating Partnership's ability to take actions that would otherwise be in the best interests of its limited partners.

SEASONALITY. The hotel industry is seasonal in nature. The seasonality of the industry may, from time to time, affect either the amount of rent that accrues under the Leases or the ability of the Lessees to make timely rent payments under the Leases. An inability of the Lessees to make timely rent payments to the Operating Partnership could adversely affect the ability of the Operating Partnership to make distributions to partners (including Host REIT) and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders.

ILLIQUIDITY OF REAL ESTATE. Real estate investments are relatively illiquid and, therefore, will tend to limit the ability of the Operating Partnership to sell and purchase hotels promptly in response to changes in economic or other conditions. This could make it difficult for the Operating Partnership to sell any of its Hotels, even if a sale were in the interest of limited partners.

LIMITATIONS ON SALE OR REFINANCING OF CERTAIN HOTELS. For reasons relating to federal income tax considerations, the agreements by which the Operating Partnership will acquire certain Hotels (or obtain consent to lease certain Hotels to the Lessees) will also restrict the ability of the Operating Partnership to dispose of or refinance the debt secured by such Hotels for varying periods from the Effective Date, depending on the Hotel. Similarly, upon acquiring the Blackstone Hotels, the Operating Partnership will agree not to dispose of the Blackstone Hotels for ten years (although the Operating Partnership may dispose of up to 50% of the value of the assets contributed to the Operating Partnership by the Blackstone Entities commencing after five years). In addition, if Atlanta Marquis participates in the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to an existing agreement that will restrict its ability to dispose of the Hotel owned by Atlanta Marquis or to refinance the debt secured by such Hotel without compensating certain outside partners for resulting adverse tax consequences. Thus, even if it were in the best interests of the Operating Partnership and its limited partners to sell or refinance the debt secured by any of these Hotels, it may be difficult or impossible for the Operating Partnership to do so during their respective lock-out periods.

HOTELS SUBJECT TO GROUND LEASES MAY AFFECT THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP'S REVENUES. Of the approximately 125 Hotels in which the Operating Partnership initially is expected to hold an interest, approximately 45 are subject to ground leases. Such ground leases generally require increases in ground rent payments every five years. To the extent that the rents payable under the Leases do not increase at the same rate as the increases under the ground leases, it could affect the Operating Partnership's cash available for distribution and its ability to make distributions to partners, including Host REIT, and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders. In addition, any sale of a Hotel encumbered by a ground lease would be made subject to such ground lease and the value realized by the Operating Partnership in such sale might not be as high if such Hotel were not sold subject to such ground lease.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX RISKS

TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS. The Operating Partnership has received an opinion of Hogan & Hartson L.L.P., counsel to Host, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, based upon certain assumptions and representations of the General Partners, the Operating Partnership, Host and Host REIT, to the effect that, except for any gain attributable to the sale of personal property by a Partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary, the Mergers will not result in the recognition of taxable income or gain by a Limited Partner at the time of the Mergers (i) who does not elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers; (ii) who does not exercise his Unit Redemption Right on a date sooner than the date two years after the date of the consummation of the Mergers; (iii) who does not receive a cash distribution (or deemed cash distribution resulting from relief from liabilities, including as a result of the prepayment of indebtedness associated with the Limited Partner's Partnership) in excess of such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest at the time of the Mergers; (iv) who is not required to recognize gain by reason of the election by another Limited Partner in his Partnership to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers (which in counsel's opinion, described below, should not be the result of either such election); and (v) whose "at risk" amount does not fall below zero as a result of the Mergers or the REIT Conversion. The General Partners and the Operating Partnership do not believe, with regard to a Limited Partner who acquired his Partnership Interest in the original offering of such Partnership Interests, who has held that Interest at all times since the offering and who does not elect to exchange the OP Units, that the Mergers will result in such Limited Partner (a) receiving a distribution (or deemed distribution) of cash in excess of such Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest or (b) having his "at risk" amount fall below zero. The adjusted tax basis of a Limited Partner who did not acquire his Partnership Interest in the original offering of such Partnership Interests, however, could vary materially from the adjusted tax basis of a Limited Partner who did. Therefore, depending on the adjusted tax basis of such a Limited Partner in his Partnership Interest, the Mergers could result in the receipt by such Limited Partner of a cash distribution (or deemed cash distribution) in excess of such Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest, and, accordingly, could result in the recognition of taxable income or gain by such Limited Partner. (The foregoing assumes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election either is not a separate property right for federal income tax purposes or does not have any ascertainable value. The Operating Partnership believes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election is not property and, even if it were property, does not have any independent ascertainable value, given the nature and terms of the OP Units and the terms and limited duration of the election arrangements. If, however, the ability to exercise such elections were considered property and to have an ascertainable value, Limited Partners could recognize gain in amount up to the amount of such value (whether or not they exercise such elections)).

Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. is of the opinion that it is more likely than not that a Limited Partner who does not elect to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares or a Note in connection with the Mergers will not be required to recognize gain by reason of another Limited Partner's exercise of either such election. With respect to a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right, Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. is of the opinion that it is more likely than not that a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right more than one year after the date of consummation of the Mergers but less than two years after such date will not cause the Merger itself to be a taxable transaction for the Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners of such Partnership). Opinions of counsel, however, do not bind the IRS or the courts, and no assurance can be provided that such opinions will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

The particular tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion for a Limited Partner will depend upon a number of factors related to the tax situation of that individual Limited Partner and the Partnership of which he is a Limited Partner, including such factors as the Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest, the extent to which the Limited Partner has unused passive activity losses arising in connection with his investment in the Partnership or other investments that could offset income arising from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the amount of income (if any) required to be recognized by reason of the sale by the Limited Partner's Partnership of personal property to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion, the allocation of Operating Partnership liabilities to the Limited Partner following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and the amount of built-in gain with respect to the Hotels owned by the Partnership of which he is a Limited Partner. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Summary of Tax Opinions." The Operating Partnership has consulted with its advisors in connection with structuring the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, but, with one exception, has not sought a ruling from the IRS as to the tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities." EACH LIMITED PARTNER IS URGED TO CONSULT WITH HIS OWN TAX ADVISOR BEFORE DETERMINING WHETHER TO APPROVE OF AND PARTICIPATE IN THE MERGERS IN ORDER TO DETERMINE THE ANTICIPATED TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS FOR SUCH LIMITED PARTNER.

There is a significant possibility that the Operating Partnership will be considered to be a "publicly traded partnership." Host REIT and the Operating Partnership expect to receive an opinion prior to the Effective Date from Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. to the effect that, even if the Operating Partnership were a "publicly traded partnership," it would qualify as a partnership for federal income tax purposes because, based upon factual representations made by Host, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as to the proposed method of operation of the Operating Partnership after the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, at least ninety percent (90%) of its income will consist of "qualifying income," as defined in the Code. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Status of the Operating Partnership." In this regard, the Partnership Agreement will prohibit any person or persons acting as a group (other than Host REIT and The Blackstone Group) from holding in excess of 4.9% of the value of the interests in the Operating Partnership. If the Operating Partnership were a publicly traded partnership that qualifies as a partnership for federal income tax purposes because of the "qualifying income" exception, however, a Limited Partner could be subject to certain special rules applicable to publicly traded partnerships. In particular, a Limited Partner would be unable to use passive activity losses from other passive activities (including his investment in his Partnership) to offset his allocable share of Operating Partnership gain and income, and any Operating Partnership losses allocable to a Limited Partner could be used only as an offset against such Limited Partner's allocable share of future Operating Partnership income and gain and not against income and gain from other passive activities.

EFFECTS OF SUBSEQUENT EVENTS UPON RECOGNITION OF GAIN. In addition to any gain that might be recognized at the time of the Mergers by the Limited Partners who retain OP Units, there are a variety of subsequent events and transactions, including (i) the sale or other taxable disposition of one or more of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships, (ii) the refinancing or repayment of certain liabilities secured by one or more of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships, (iii) the issuance of additional OP Units, including in connection with the issuance of Common Shares or other equity interests by Host REIT and the acquisition of additional properties by the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units or other equity interests in the Operating Partnership, (iv) an increase to the basis of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships resulting from capital expenditures, (v) the elimination over time of the disparity between the current tax basis of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships and the "book basis" of such Hotels (based upon their fair market value at the time of the Mergers) and (vi) with respect to the MHP Limited Partners only, possibly, the transfer of MHP's interest in the Harbor Beach Resort to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion (in the event that certain third-party consents to the REIT Conversion are not obtained) that could cause a Limited Partner who retains OP Units to recognize part or all of the taxable gain that otherwise has been deferred pursuant to the Mergers.

Certain Hotels (including the Blackstone Hotels) will be covered by agreements that will restrict the ability of the Operating Partnership to dispose of such Hotels or refinance the debt secured by them. In addition, if Atlanta Marquis participates in the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to an existing agreement that will restrict its ability to dispose of the Hotel owned by Atlanta Marquis or to refinance the debt secured by such Hotel without compensating certain outside partners for resulting adverse tax consequences. See "--Limitations on Sale or Refinancing of Certain Hotels" above. The Partnership Agreement does not impose any restrictions on the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships, however, or to refinance or repay debt secured by the Hotels owned by the Partnerships (or to direct that a Partnership engage in such a transaction), but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions. In addition, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences to the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes that Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions), and the limited partners generally have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions. See "Description of OP Units--Sales of Assets" and "--Borrowing by the Operating Partnership."

SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY MAY RESULT IN GAIN TO LIMITED PARTNERS IN CERTAIN PARTNERSHIPS. In order to facilitate the participation of Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP in the Mergers without adversely affecting Host REIT's qualification as a REIT, the Operating Partnership will require, as part of the Mergers, that such Partnerships sell a portion of the personal property associated with the Hotels owned by such Partnerships to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary. These sales will be taxable transactions and, with the exception of the sale by Hanover, may result in an allocation of a relatively modest amount of ordinary recapture income by each Partnership to its Limited Partners. This income, if any, will be allocated to each Limited Partner in the same proportion and to the same extent that such Limited Partner was allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gains as recapture income. A Limited Partner who receives such an allocation of recapture income will not be entitled to any special distribution from his Partnership in connection with the sale of personal property.

ELECTION TO EXCHANGE OP UNITS FOR COMMON SHARES. A Limited Partner who elects to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will be treated as having made a fully taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur at the time that the right to receive Common Shares becomes fixed (which the Operating Partnership will treat as occurring on January 22, 1999, if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). The amount realized in connection with such disposition will equal the sum of the fair market value of the Common Shares received, plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes. To the extent the amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. If a Limited Partner has a "negative capital account" with respect to his OP Units, he will recognize "phantom income" (i.e., the income recognized would exceed the value of the Common Shares by the amount of his negative capital account). See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

ELECTION TO EXCHANGE OP UNITS FOR NOTES. A Limited Partner who elects to receive a Note in exchange for his OP Units in connection with the Mergers will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to be December 30, 1998). The amount realized in connection with such disposition will equal the sum of the "issue price" of the Note (i.e., the principal amount of the Note) plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes. To the extent the amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. A Limited Partner may be eligible to defer at least a portion of that gain under the "installment sale" rules until principal on the Note is paid (see "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election") but those rules will not permit a Limited Partner to defer all of the gain recognized (for example, gain attributable to his "negative capital account" and income attributable to "depreciation recapture") and may require that a Limited Partner who defers gain pay to the IRS interest on a portion of the resulting tax that has been deferred. A Limited Partner with a "negative capital account" with respect to his Partnership Interest who elects to receive a Note will recognize "phantom income" in that amount at the time the taxable disposition is deemed to occur in any event.

EXERCISE OF UNIT REDEMPTION RIGHT. The receipt of either cash or Common Shares, as determined by Host REIT, by a Limited Partner in connection with the exercise of such Limited Partner's Unit Redemption Right will be a taxable transaction and likely will result in the recognition by the Limited Partner of substantial gain for federal income tax purposes. The amount realized in connection with a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right will equal the sum of either the amount of cash or the fair market value of the Common Shares received plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the OP Units redeemed for federal income tax purposes. To the extent the amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted basis in the redeemed OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Dissolution of the Operating Partnership" and "--Tax Treatment of Exercise of Unit Redemption Right." State and local income and transfer taxes may apply to such a redemption as well.

LIMITED PARTNERS NEED TO CONSULT WITH THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS. Because the specific tax attributes of a Limited Partner and the facts regarding such Limited Partner's interest in his Partnership could have a material impact on the tax consequences to such Limited Partner of the Mergers (including the decision whether to elect to receive Common Shares or Notes in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers) and the subsequent ownership and disposition of OP Units, Common Shares or Notes, it is essential that each Limited Partner consult with his own tax advisors regarding the application of federal, foreign and state and local tax laws to such Limited Partner's personal tax situation.

FAILURE OF HOST REIT TO QUALIFY AS A REIT.

GENERAL. Host REIT intends to operate so as to qualify as a REIT under the Code effective for Host REIT's first taxable year commencing following the REIT Conversion. A REIT generally is not taxed at the corporate level on income it currently distributes to its shareholders as long as it distributes currently at least 95% of its taxable income (excluding net capital gain). No assurance can be provided, however, that Host REIT will so qualify or be able to remain so qualified or that new legislation, Treasury Regulations, administrative interpretations or court decisions will not significantly change the tax laws with respect to Host REIT's qualification as a REIT or the federal income tax consequences of such qualification. In this regard, Host REIT expects to receive an opinion of Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. prior to the Effective Date to the effect that Host REIT, effective for its first full taxable year commencing following the REIT Conversion, will be organized in conformity with the requirements for qualification as a REIT under the Code, and that Host REIT's proposed method of operation will enable it to satisfy the requirements for qualification and taxation as a REIT. This opinion will be conditioned upon the completion of the REIT Conversion and upon certain factual representations made by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as to matters relating to the organization and operation of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the Hotel Partnerships, the Subsidiary Partnerships, the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Host Employee Trust and Crestline and the Lessees. In addition, this opinion will be based upon the factual representations of Host REIT concerning its business and properties as set forth in this Consent Solicitation and will assume that the actions described in this Consent Solicitation are completed in a timely fashion. Moreover, an opinion of counsel does not bind the IRS or the courts, and no assurance can be provided that such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

REQUIRED DISTRIBUTIONS AND PAYMENTS. In order to qualify as a REIT, Host REIT will be required each year to distribute to its shareholders at least 95% of its net taxable income (excluding any net capital gain). Due to certain transactions entered into in prior years, Host REIT is expected to recognize substantial amounts of "phantom" taxable income in future years that is not matched by cash flow or EBITDA to the Operating Partnership or Host REIT. As discussed below in "--Earnings and Profits Attributable to 'C' Corporation Taxable Years," to qualify as a REIT, Host REIT also will have to distribute to its shareholders not later than the end of its first taxable year as a REIT an amount equal to the earnings and profits ("E&P") accumulated by Host and its subsidiaries and not distributed before or at the time of the REIT Conversion (including any increases thereto resulting from subsequent IRS audits of years prior to Host REIT's first taxable year as a REIT). In addition, Host REIT will be subject to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on the amount, if any, by which certain distributions made by it with respect to the calendar year are less than the sum of (i) 85% of its ordinary income, (ii) 95% of its capital gain net income for that year, and (iii) any undistributed taxable income from prior periods. Host REIT intends to make distributions to its shareholders to comply with the 95% distribution requirement and to avoid the nondeductible excise tax and will rely for this purpose on distributions from the Operating Partnership. However, differences in timing between taxable income and cash available for distribution due to, among other things, the seasonality of the hospitality industry and the fact that some taxable income will be "phantom" income (i.e., taxable income that is not matched by cash flow or EBITDA to the Operating Partnership) could require the Operating Partnership to borrow funds or to issue additional equity to enable Host REIT to meet the 95% distribution requirement (and therefore to maintain its REIT status) and to avoid the nondeductible excise tax. The Operating Partnership also is required to pay (or reimburse Host REIT for) all taxes and other liabilities and expenses that Host REIT incurs, including taxes and liabilities attributable to periods and events prior to the REIT Conversion and any taxes that Host REIT must pay in the event it were to fail to qualify as a REIT. In addition, the Operating Partnership's inability to retain earnings (resulting from Host REIT's 95% and other distribution requirements) will generally require the Operating Partnership to refinance debt that matures with additional debt or equity. There can be no assurance that any of these sources of funds, if available at all, would be available to meet the Operating Partnership's distribution and tax obligations.

CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO QUALIFY AS A REIT. If Host REIT fails to qualify as a REIT, it will be subject to federal income tax (including any applicable alternative minimum tax) on its taxable income at regular corporate rates. In addition, unless entitled to relief under certain statutory provisions, Host REIT will be disqualified from treatment as a REIT for the four taxable years following the year during which REIT qualification is lost. The additional tax would significantly reduce the cash available for distribution by Host REIT to its shareholders. Failure of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT could reduce materially the value of the Common Shares and OP Units and would cause all distributions to shareholders to be taxable as ordinary income to the extent of Host REIT's current and accumulated E&P (although, subject to certain limitations under the Code, corporate distributees may be eligible for the dividends received deduction with respect to these distributions). See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT." Failure of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT also would result in a default under the New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility.

EARNINGS AND PROFITS ATTRIBUTABLE TO "C" CORPORATION TAXABLE YEARS. In order to qualify as a REIT, Host REIT cannot have at the end of any taxable year any undistributed E&P that is attributable to a "C" corporation taxable year. A REIT has until the close of its first taxable year as a REIT in which it has non-REIT E&P to distribute such accumulated E&P. Host REIT will be required to distribute this E&P prior to the end of 1999 (the first taxable year for which the REIT election of Host REIT currently is expected to be effective). Failure to do so would result in disqualification of Host REIT as a REIT at least for taxable year 1999. Host REIT believes that the Initial E&P Distribution, together with any additional distributions of non-REIT E&P made after the REIT Conversion but prior to December 31, 1999, will be sufficient to distribute all of the non-REIT E&P as of December 31, 1999, but there are substantial uncertainties relating to the estimate of Host REIT's non-REIT E&P and the value of noncash consideration to be distributed as part of the Initial E&P Distribution and, thus, there can be no assurance that this requirement will be met. Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. will not provide any opinion as to the amount of Host's undistributed E&P and will rely, for purposes of its opinion as to the qualification of Host REIT as a REIT, upon a representation from Host and Host REIT that Host REIT will not have any undistributed E&P as of the end of 1999. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Requirements for Qualification."

TREATMENT OF LEASES. To qualify as a REIT, a REIT must satisfy two gross income tests. Rent paid pursuant to the Leases will constitute substantially all of the gross income of Host REIT. In order for the rent paid pursuant to the Leases to constitute qualifying income for purposes of the gross income tests, (a) the Leases must be respected as true leases for federal income tax purposes and not be treated as service contracts, joint ventures or some other type of arrangement, and (b) the Lessees must not be regarded as "related party tenants" (as defined in the Code). Host REIT expects that Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. will provide to Host REIT prior to the Effective Date an opinion to the effect that, based upon certain representations of Host REIT regarding the terms of the Leases and the expectations of Host REIT and the Lessees with respect thereto, the Leases will be respected as leases for federal income tax purposes. An opinion of counsel, however, does not bind the IRS or the courts and this determination ultimately will depend upon the accuracy of the factual representations of Host

REIT regarding the Leases. In this regard, if the Leases were not respected as true leases for federal income tax purposes or if the Lessees were regarded as "related party tenants," Host REIT would not be able to satisfy either of the two gross income tests applicable to REITs and, as a result, would lose its REIT status. Accordingly, Host REIT would be subject to corporate level income taxation, which would significantly reduce the cash available for distribution to its shareholders. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Income Tests Applicable to REITs."

OTHER TAX LIABILITIES; HOST REIT'S SUBSTANTIAL DEFERRED AND CONTINGENT TAX LIABILITIES. Even if Host REIT qualifies as a REIT, it will be subject, through the Operating Partnership and the Hotel Partnerships, to certain federal, state and local taxes on its income and property. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences-- Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--General." In addition, Host REIT will be subject to tax at the regular corporate rate (currently 35%) upon its share of any gain recognized as a result of any sale by the Operating Partnership or the Hotel Partnerships (within the 10-year period beginning on the Effective Date) of assets, including the Hotels, in which interests were acquired by the Operating Partnership from Host and its subsidiaries as part of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion to the extent that such gain existed as of the first day of Host REIT's first taxable year as a REIT. Host has substantial deferred tax liabilities that likely will be recognized by Host REIT in the next ten years as "built-in gain" under these rules (or by a Non-Controlled Subsidiary), without any corresponding receipt of cash by Host REIT from the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership is obligated under the Partnership Agreement and the terms of the REIT Conversion to pay all such taxes incurred by Host REIT, as well as any liabilities that the IRS may assert against Host REIT for corporate income taxes for taxable years prior to the time Host REIT qualifies as a REIT. The Non-Controlled Subsidiaries will be taxable "C" corporations and will pay federal and state income tax on their net income at the full applicable corporate rates. Holders of OP Units will be subject to state and local taxation in the jurisdictions in which the Operating Partnership directly or indirectly holds real property and such holders will be required to file periodic tax returns in at least some of those jurisdictions. The Operating Partnership will initially own Hotels located in 28 different states and the District of Columbia.

FAILURE OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP TO QUALIFY AS A PARTNERSHIP. The Operating Partnership and Host REIT have received an opinion of Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. to the effect that the Operating Partnership will be treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. An opinion of counsel, however, does not bind the IRS or the courts, and no assurance can be provided that such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged. If the IRS were to treat successfully the Operating Partnership as an entity that is taxable as a corporation, Host REIT would cease to qualify as a REIT because the value of Host REIT's ownership interest in the Operating Partnership would exceed 5% of Host REIT's assets and because Host REIT would be considered to hold more than 10% of the voting securities of another corporation. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Asset Tests Applicable to REITs." Moreover, the imposition of a corporate tax on the Operating Partnership would reduce significantly the amount of cash available for distribution to its limited partners. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Status of the Operating Partnership" and "--Tax Aspects of Host REIT's Ownership of OP Units."

MISCELLANEOUS RISKS

DEPENDENCE UPON KEY PERSONNEL. The Operating Partnership is dependent upon the efforts of the executive officers of Host REIT. While the Operating Partnership believes that it could find replacements for these key personnel, the loss of their services could have a significant adverse effect on the operations of the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership does not intend to obtain key-man life insurance with respect to any of the executive officers of Host REIT.

POTENTIAL LITIGATION RELATED TO THE REIT CONVERSION. Over the last several years, business reorganizations involving the combination of several partnerships into a single entity occasionally have given rise to investor lawsuits. These lawsuits have involved claims against the general partners of the participating partnerships, the partnerships themselves and related persons involved in the structuring of, or benefiting from, the conversion or reorganization, as well as claims against the surviving entity and its directors and officers. For example, limited partners of five of the six limited partnerships controlled by Host that own limited service and extended-stay hotels have filed a lawsuit against Host and the general partners (which are subsidiaries of Host) of such limited partnerships alleging, among other things, breaches of their fiduciary duties in connection with a potential consolidation transaction. Certain other lawsuits are pending against Host and its affiliates by limited partners in certain Partnerships (specifically, Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP, MHP2 and PHLP). If any lawsuits are filed in connection with any Merger or other part of the REIT Conversion, such lawsuits could delay the closing of such Merger or the REIT Conversion or result in substantial damage claims against the Operating Partnership, Host REIT or the General Partners of the Partnerships. The Partnerships are each obligated to indemnify their General Partner for claims against them arising from their role as general partner other than to the extent they are guilty of negligence, fraud, misconduct or breach of fiduciary duty. Because the Operating Partnership will be acquiring the Participating Partnerships through the Mergers, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership indirectly will be subject to the indemnification obligations of the Partnerships to their general partners and any obligations of the Partnerships to pay damages to the extent not covered by any available insurance. See "Business and Properties--Legal Proceedings." In the event any pending lawsuits or any new lawsuits filed against any of the Partnerships or the General Partners in connection with the REIT Conversion or the Mergers are not resolved by final court action or settled before the Effective Date, the Exchange Values of such Partnerships will be adjusted to account for a litigation reserve and other contingent liabilities.

RISK INVOLVED IN INVESTMENTS THROUGH PARTNERSHIPS OR JOINT VENTURES. Instead of purchasing hotel properties directly, the Operating Partnership may invest as a co-venturer. Joint venturers often have shared control over the operation of the joint venture assets. Therefore, such investments may, under certain circumstances, involve risks such as the possibility that the co-venturer in an investment might become bankrupt, or have economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with the business interests or goals of the Operating Partnership, or be in a position to take action contrary to the instructions or the requests of the Operating Partnership or contrary to the Operating Partnership's policies or objectives. Consequently, actions by a co-venturer might result in subjecting hotel properties owned by the joint venture to additional risk. Although the Operating Partnership generally will seek to maintain sufficient control of any joint venture to permit the Operating Partnership's objectives to be achieved, it may be unable to take action without the approval of its joint venture partners or its joint venture partners could take actions binding on the joint venture without the Operating Partnership's consent. Additionally, should a joint venture partner become bankrupt, the Operating Partnership could become liable for such partner's share of joint venture liabilities.

CHANGES IN LAWS. Increases in real estate or business improvement district taxes will not result in increased rental payments to the Operating Partnership under the Leases, with the result that they may adversely affect the Operating Partnership's cash flow from operations and its ability to maintain the expected level of distributions. Similarly, changes in laws increasing the potential liability for environmental conditions existing at Hotels or increasing the restrictions on discharges or other conditions, as well as changes in laws affecting construction and safety requirements, may result in significant unanticipated capital expenditures, which, to the extent such expenditures must be borne by the Operating Partnership as the lessor of the Hotels, would adversely affect the Operating Partnership's cash flow from operations and its ability to make distributions to limited partners, including Host REIT, and Host REIT's ability, in turn to make distributions to its stockholders.

UNINSURED LOSS. The Operating Partnership will carry comprehensive liability, fire, flood, extended coverage and rental loss (for rental losses extending up to 12 months) insurance with respect to its Hotels with policy specifications and insured limits customarily carried for similar hotels. Certain types of losses (such as from earthquakes and environmental hazards), however, may be either uninsurable or not economically insurable. Should an uninsured loss occur, the Operating Partnership could lose both its capital invested in, and anticipated profits from, one or more of its Hotels.

AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT. The Hotels must comply with Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act (the "ADA") to the extent that such Hotels are "public accommodations" or "commercial facilities" as defined by the ADA. The ADA may require removal of structural barriers to access by persons with disabilities in certain public areas of the Operating Partnership's Hotels where such removal is readily achievable. The Operating Partnership believes that the Hotels will not be required to make substantial non-budgeted capital expenditures to address the requirements of the ADA. However, noncompliance with the ADA could result in substantial capital expenditures to remove structural barriers, as well as the imposition of fines or an award of damages to private litigants which might adversely affect the Operating Partnership's ability to make expected distributions to limited partners, including Host REIT, and Host REIT's ability, in turn, to make distributions to its shareholders. Under the Leases, the Operating Partnership would be required to fund all such expenditures.

OTHER REGULATORY ISSUES. The Operating Partnership's Hotels will be subject to various forms of regulation in addition to the ADA, including building codes, regulations pertaining to fire safety and other regulations which may from time to time be enacted. The Operating Partnership may be required to incur significant costs to comply with any future changes in such regulations.

POSSIBLE ENVIRONMENTAL LIABILITIES. Under various federal, state and local laws, ordinances and regulations, owners or operators of real estate may be required to investigate and clean up certain hazardous substances released at a property, and may be held liable to a governmental entity or to third parties for property damage or personal injuries and for investigation and clean-up costs incurred by the parties in connection with any contamination. In addition, some environmental laws create a lien on a contaminated site in favor of the government for damages and costs it incurs in connection with the contamination. The presence of contamination or the failure to remediate contamination may adversely affect the owner's ability to sell or lease real estate or to borrow using the real estate as collateral. No assurances can be given that (i) a prior owner, operator or occupant, such as a tenant, did not create a material environmental condition not known to the Operating Partnership, (ii) a material environmental condition with respect to any Hotel does not exist or (iii) future uses or conditions (including, without limitation, changes in applicable environmental laws and regulations) will not result in the imposition of environmental liability.

In addition, no assurances can be given that all potential environmental liabilities have been identified or properly quantified. Moreover, no assurances can be given that (i) future laws, ordinances, or regulations will not impose any material environmental liability or (ii) the current environmental condition of the Hotels will not be affected by the condition of land or operations in the vicinity of the Hotels (such as the presence of underground storage tanks) or by third parties unrelated to the Operating Partnership.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Mergers and the REIT Conversion were initiated by Host and are being proposed by Host, Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners, which are Host or its subsidiaries. The terms and conditions of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and the structure of the Operating Partnership also were formulated by Host, Host REIT, the General Partners and the Operating Partnership. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Background of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion."

As discussed below, the establishment of the terms of the Mergers and REIT Conversion, the recommendation by the General Partners with respect to the Mergers and the related amendments to the partnership agreements and the operation of the Operating Partnership involve conflicts of interest. In resolving any conflicts of interest, each of the General Partners must act in accordance with its fiduciary duties to the Limited Partners of its Partnership. The directors of Host REIT, which will be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership, also must act in accordance with their fiduciary duties to the shareholders of Host REIT and, to a certain extent, the limited partners of the Operating Partnership as limited by the Partnership Agreement. See "Comparison of Ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares--Fiduciary Duties" for a general description of these duties.

SUBSTANTIAL BENEFITS TO RELATED PARTIES

To the extent that the anticipated benefits of the REIT Conversion are reflected in the value of Host's common stock prior to the Effective Date, the Limited Partners will not enjoy the effect of such benefits on the value of their investment. In addition, following the REIT Conversion, current Host shareholders (together with the Blackstone Entities), but not the Limited Partners, will own the common stock of Crestline and will benefit from the terms of the Leases to the extent net revenues exceed rental payments and other expenses. The Mergers will facilitate the consummation, and enable Host to reap the full benefits, of the REIT Conversion. By converting to a REIT, Host expects to benefit from the advantages enjoyed by REITs in raising capital and acquiring additional assets, participating in a larger group of comparable companies and increasing its potential base of shareholders. Also, Host will realize significant savings through the substantial reduction of its future corporate-level income taxes. The benefits to Host of the REIT Conversion will be reduced if one or more of the Partnerships do not participate in a Merger, thereby creating a conflict of interest for the General Partners in connection with the Mergers.

AFFILIATED GENERAL PARTNERS

Host has varying interests in each of the Partnerships, and subsidiaries of Host act as General Partner of each of the Partnerships (except for PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner). Each General Partner has an independent obligation to assess whether the Merger is fair and equitable to and advisable for the Limited Partners of its Partnership. This assessment involves considerations that are different from those relevant to the determination of whether the Mergers and the REIT Conversion are advisable for Host and its shareholders. The considerations relevant to such determination which create a conflict of interest include Host's belief that the REIT Conversion is advisable for its shareholders, the benefits of the REIT Conversion to Host will be greater if the Partnerships participate and Host REIT will benefit if the value of the OP Units received by the Limited Partners in the Mergers is less than the value of their Partnership Interests. While each General Partner has sought faithfully to discharge its obligations to its Partnership, there is an inherent conflict of interest in having the General Partners determine the terms on which the Operating Partnership, which is controlled by Host, will acquire the Partnerships, for which Host or its subsidiaries are the General Partners, since no arm's length negotiations are possible because Host is on both sides of the transaction.

LEASING ARRANGEMENTS

Conflicts of interest exist in connection with establishing the terms of the leasing arrangements being entered into as part of the REIT Conversion. The General Partners, all of which are subsidiaries of Host (except in the case of PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner), are recommending the Mergers, and Host is responsible for establishing the terms of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, including the Leases. The common stock of Crestline will be distributed to Host's or Host REIT's shareholders. Accordingly, Host's or Host REIT's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities, as the initial shareholders of Crestline, will potentially benefit from the terms of the Leases to the extent net revenues exceed rental payments and other expenses but Limited Partners will not because they will not receive shares of Crestline common stock.

DIFFERENT TAX CONSEQUENCES UPON SALE OR REFINANCING OF CERTAIN HOTELS

Certain holders of OP Units may experience different and more adverse tax consequences compared to those experienced by other holders of OP Units or by holders of Common Shares upon the sale of, or the reduction of indebtedness encumbering, any of the Hotels. Therefore, such holders, including Host REIT and its subsidiaries, may have different objectives regarding the appropriate pricing and timing of any sale or refinancing of an individual Hotel. As provided in the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions (but the Operating Partnership is obligated to pay any taxes Host REIT incurs as a result of such transactions), and the limited partners have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions.

PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT

Conflicts of interest exist in connection with establishing the terms of the Partnership Agreement, including provisions which benefit Host REIT, all of which were determined by Host.

POTENTIAL CONFLICTS INVOLVING MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL AND CRESTLINE

Marriott International currently serves as manager for all but 16 of Host's Hotels, and will continue to manage those Hotels pursuant to the Management Agreements that will be assigned to the Lessees. In addition, Marriott International acts as manager of hotels that will compete with Host REIT's Hotels. As a result, Marriott International may make decisions regarding competing lodging facilities which it manages that would not necessarily be in the best interests of Host REIT or the Lessees. Further, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott, who are brothers, currently serve as directors of Host and directors (and, in the case of J.W. Marriott, Jr., also an officer) of Marriott International. After the REIT Conversion, J.W. Marriott, Jr. will serve as a director of Host REIT and will continue to serve as a director of Marriott International, and Richard E. Marriott will serve as Chairman of the Board of Host REIT and continue to serve as a director of Marriott International. J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott also beneficially own (as determined for securities law purposes) approximately 10.6% and 10.2%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of Marriott International, and will beneficially own approximately 5.32% and 5.30%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of Crestline (but neither will serve as an officer or director thereof). As a result, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott may have a potential conflict of interest with respect to their obligations as directors of Host REIT in connection with any decisions regarding Marriott International itself (including decisions relating to the Management Agreements involving the Hotels), Marriott International's management of competing lodging properties and Crestline's leasing and other businesses that would not necessarily be in the best interests of Host REIT.

ABSENCE OF ARM'S LENGTH NEGOTIATIONS; NO INDEPENDENT REPRESENTATIVE

No independent representative was retained to negotiate on behalf of the Limited Partners because the Mergers contain both substantive protections for the Limited Partners (the Appraisals and the Fairness Opinion) and procedural protections for the Limited Partners (the vote required in all instances is a majority of limited partner interests and in those Partnerships where Host or its affiliates own significant percentages of limited partner interest, a majority of unaffiliated Limited Partners have the ability to approve or disapprove the Mergers, including the related amendments to the partnership agreements). In addition, none of the partnership agreements or applicable law impose such a requirement. Although the General Partners have obtained the Appraisals and the Fairness Opinion from AAA, AAA has not negotiated with the General Partners or Host and has not participated in establishing the terms of the Mergers. Consequently, the terms and conditions of the Mergers may have been more favorable to the Limited Partners if such terms and conditions were the result of arm's length negotiations. See "Fairness Analysis and Opinion." In this regard, the Fairness Opinion specifically does not conclude that other methodologies for determining the Exchange Values of the Partnerships and/or the value of the OP Units might not have been more favorable to the Limited Partners.

POTENTIAL AAA CONFLICTS

A conflict of interest may exist in that AAA has been retained to perform the Appraisals and also provide the Fairness Opinion which, among other things, opines as to the methodologies and underlying assumptions that AAA used in performing the Appraisals. AAA has been retained by the General Partners (consisting of Host and its subsidiaries) to determine the Appraised Values of the Hotels and to render the Fairness Opinion. Host has previously retained AAA to perform appraisals and give fairness and solvency opinions in connection with other transactions, and there is the possibility that Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will retain AAA to perform similar tasks in the future.

POLICIES WITH RESPECT TO CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Operating Partnership has adopted certain policies and will enter into agreements with Host REIT and its affiliates designed to minimize the adverse effects from these potential conflicts of interest. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Conflicts of Interest Policies" and "Business and Properties--Noncompetition Agreements." There can be no assurance, however, that the policies and agreements always will be successful in eliminating the influence of such conflicts, and if they are not successful, decisions could be made at the Host REIT level that might fail to reflect fully the interests of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership.

BACKGROUND AND REASONS FOR THE MERGERS AND THE REIT CONVERSION

BACKGROUND OF THE PARTNERSHIPS

Formation of the Partnerships. From 1982 through 1990, Host sponsored the eight Partnerships, which were formed to acquire, own and operate full-service hotels operating under the Marriott brand name. Each Partnership is a Delaware limited partnership, except Chicago Suites, which is a Rhode Island limited partnership. The Partnerships raised capital from approximately 5,900 investors in eight offerings. The Partnerships are "public" partnerships within the meaning of the applicable Commission guidelines, and separate wholly owned subsidiaries of Host are the sole general partners of each Partnership (except for PHLP, for which Host itself acts as general partner). The Hotels owned by the Partnerships are managed by Marriott International and its subsidiaries.

The table below sets forth the capital raised in the original offerings, distributions made and number of Hotels owned by each of the Partnerships as of June 19, 1998:

- (1) Includes distributions to the General Partners or their affiliates as holders of Partnership Units (but not distributions to them in their capacities as general partner).
- (2) A Partnership Unit in all of the Partnerships except Chicago Suites ($35,000) and PHLP ($10,000) represents an original investment of $100,000.
- (3) Includes approximately $8,600 per Partnership Unit of payments related to the reallocation of tax losses resulting from the 1990 debt refinancing.
- (4) Atlanta Marquis has an 80% residual interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel.
- (5) Includes distributions to a Limited Partner who is not a holder of any of the 335 Partnership Units.
- (6) Aggregate distributions do not include $8 million ($8,000 per Partnership Unit) distributed in August 1998 and $6.5 million ($6,500 per Partnership Unit) expected to be distributed in November 1998. Also does not include any part of the $8.8 million in retained excess refinancing proceeds that would be distributed if not expended to complete the expansion of the Orlando Hotel. Number of Hotels owned includes Marriott's Harbor Beach Resort, in which MHP owns a 50.5% interest.
- (7) Aggregate Distributions do not include $5 million ($6,700 per Partnership Unit) distributed in August 1998 and $4.2 million ($5,600 per Partnership Unit) expected to be distributed in November 1998. Number of Hotels owned includes the Santa Clara Marriott, in which MHP2 owns a 50% interest and Host owns the remaining 50% interest.

The following paragraphs describe, on a partnership-by-partnership basis, the original investment objectives of each Partnership and the extent to which such objectives have been met.

Atlanta Marquis. The offering of interests in Atlanta Marriott Marquis Limited Partnership (the predecessor of Atlanta Marquis), which was completed in 1985, was intended to provide investors with an opportunity to benefit from investment tax credits, tax losses, expected increasing cash flow from both the lease and operation of the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel as well as potential capital appreciation. Based upon a financial forecast that reflected the General Partner's judgment, in light of the facts and circumstances at the time, with respect to the most likely set of conditions and the most likely course of action (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that tax savings through 1989 would be $76,226 per Partnership Unit for an investor in the 50% tax bracket (including a $7,845 tax credit in 1985), cash flow to the Class A Limited Partners was expected to begin in 1986 and increase through 1994 to an annual level of 12.2% of a Class A Limited Partner's original investment, and it was assumed for the purpose of the forecast that investors would receive a return of all their investment from a sale of the underlying land to the partnership owning the hotel and a distribution from assumed excess refinancing proceeds in 1994. Thereafter, Class A Limited Partners would continue to benefit from ownership of the Hotel. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of Atlanta Marquis' Hotel. Through June 19, 1998, Atlanta Marquis Class A Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $35,127, tax credits of up to $7,500 and allocations of tax losses of approximately $208,700 (which have been offset in part by subsequent allocations of taxable income of approximately $4,600), plus $8,624 of payments per Partnership Unit received with respect to the reallocation of certain tax losses resulting from the 1990 debt refinancing (assuming each Atlanta Marquis Limited Partner classified these amounts as purchase price adjustments as the General Partner advised). Due to changes in the tax law occurring after the date of the original offering (including, in particular, the changes enacted as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986) that, among other things, reduced the marginal tax rates applicable to individuals and limited the use of certain tax losses by individuals, the tax losses allocated to the Atlanta Marquis Limited Partners did not likely result in tax savings of the magnitude originally forecast.

Chicago Suites. The offering, which was completed in 1989, was intended to (i) preserve and protect Chicago Suites Limited Partners' capital, (ii) generate cash distributions to the Chicago Suites Limited Partners that would be sheltered in whole or in part from current federal income taxation and (iii) realize expected increases in both annual cash distributions from operations and potential long-term appreciation in the value of Chicago Suites' Hotel. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that cash flow to the Chicago Suites Limited Partners would commence in 1989 and increase through 1994 to an annual level of 11% of a Limited Partner's original investment and that in 1994 investors would receive a return of all capital invested through an assumed refinancing. Thereafter, through 2003, it was estimated that Chicago Suites Limited Partners would receive cash distributions at an annual level of approximately 4% of their original investment. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of Chicago Suites' Hotel. Through June 19, 1998, Chicago Suites Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $8,342 and no return of capital per Partnership Unit.

Desert Springs. The offering, which was completed in 1987, was intended to provide investors with an opportunity to benefit from substantial cash flow in the early years of the Partnership from the rent to be received under an airline equipment lease and from the Desert Springs' Hotel operating lease with expected increasing cash flow and potential capital appreciation in later years from the operation of Desert Springs' Hotel. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that (i) cash distributions on a tax-sheltered basis to the Desert Springs Limited Partners would commence in 1987 at approximately 12.3% of a Limited Partner's original investment and increase to approximately 14.4% of a Limited Partner's original investment in 1991 and (ii) Desert Springs Limited Partners would receive $50,000 per Partnership Unit on a tax-sheltered basis from assumed excess refinancing proceeds in 1991. Thereafter, Desert Springs Limited Partners would continue to benefit from ownership of Desert Springs' Hotel and the airline equipment. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of Desert Springs' Hotel. Desert Springs Limited Partners received cash distributions in connection with the sale of the airline equipment through 1996 of $19,851 per Partnership Unit. Through June 19, 1998, Desert Springs Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $48,851 and a return of capital of $25,000 per Partnership Unit.

Hanover. The offering, which was completed in 1986, was intended to provide investors with an opportunity to benefit from expected increasing cash flow from the operation of Hanover's Hotel as well as potential capital appreciation and tax benefits. Based upon a financial forecast (which assumed, among other things, rent payable under the operating lease would be sufficient to provide an annual 10% priority return to the Partnership) and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that (i) cash distributions on a tax-free basis to the Hanover Limited Partners would commence in 1987 at approximately 12.7% of a Limited Partner's original investment and increase to approximately 15.5% of a Limited Partner's original investment in 1991 and (ii) Hanover Limited Partners would receive $100,000 per Partnership Unit on a tax-free basis from assumed refinancing proceeds ($50,000 per Partnership Unit in 1991 and $50,000 per Partnership Unit in 1996). Thereafter, Hanover Limited Partners would continue to benefit from ownership of Hanover's Hotel. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of Hanover's Hotel. Through June 19, 1998, Hanover Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $7,405 and no return of capital per Partnership Unit. In April 1997, Host completed a tender offer for Partnership Units of Hanover in which it acquired 40 Partnership Units for an aggregate consideration of $1.6 million or $40,000 per Partnership Unit.

MDAH. The offering, which was completed in 1990, was intended to (i) provide semi-annual cash distributions which were anticipated to be free from significant current federal income taxation through 1999 (assuming tax losses from MDAH were carried forward to offset MDAH income in later years), (ii) allow Limited Partners to participate in the potential long-term appreciation in the value of MDAH's Hotels and (iii) preserve investor capital. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that MDAH Limited Partners could expect cash distributions to be made at an annualized rate of 9.2% of a Limited Partner's original investment for 1990, 11.8% for 1991 and 12.3% for 1992. The average annual cash return was expected to be 15.9% of a Limited Partner's original investment for each of the ten fiscal years ending December 31, 1999. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of MDAH's Hotels. Through June 19, 1998, MDAH Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $23,671 and no return of capital per Partnership Unit.

MHP. The offering, which was completed in 1985, was intended to provide investors with an opportunity to benefit from expected increasing cash flow from the operation of MHP's Hotels as well as potential capital appreciation, investment tax credits and tax losses. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that (i) cash flow to the MHP Limited Partners would commence in 1987 and increase through 1995 to an annual level of 16.9% of a Limited Partner's original investment and (ii) the MHP Limited Partners would receive $100,000 per Partnership Unit on a tax-free basis from assumed refinancing proceeds ($50,000 per Partnership Unit in 1991 and $50,000 per Partnership Unit in 1995). In addition, tax savings through 1990 were forecast to be $79,581 per Partnership Unit for an MHP Limited Partner in the 50% tax bracket (including a $6,197 tax credit in 1986). Tax savings were forecast to continue through 1995 and would total $88,588 per Partnership Unit. Thereafter, MHP Limited Partners would continue to benefit from ownership of MHP's Hotels. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of MHP's Hotels. On November 17, 1993, one of MHP's hotels, the Warner Center Hotel, was foreclosed upon. Through June 19, 1998, MHP Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $52,824, tax credits of $6,010 and allocations of tax losses of approximately $149,600 (which have been offset in part by subsequent allocations of taxable income of approximately $38,200 and capital gains of approximately $26,200) and a return of capital of $7,000 per Partnership Unit. In addition, $8,000 per Partnership Unit was distributed in August 1998 and $6,500 per Partnership Unit is expected to be distributed in November 1998. An additional $8.8 million of retained excess refinancing proceeds also would be distributed to the extent not expended to complete the expansion of the Orlando Hotel. Due to changes in the tax law occurring after the date of the original offering (including, in particular, the changes enacted as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986) that, among other things, reduced the marginal tax rates applicable to individuals and limited the use of certain tax losses by individuals, the tax losses allocated to the MHP Limited Partners did not likely result in tax savings of the magnitude originally forecast. In January 1997, Host completed a tender offer for Partnership Units of MHP in which it acquired 463.75 Partnership Units for an aggregate consideration of $37.1 million or $80,000 per Partnership Unit.

MHP2. The offering, which was completed in 1989, was intended to provide investors with an opportunity to benefit from (i) potential semi-annual cash distributions from operations of MHP2's Hotels, which distributions were anticipated to be free from significant current federal income taxation through 1997 (assuming losses from MHP2 were carried forward to offset MHP2 income in later years), (ii) potential long-term appreciation in the value of MHP2's Hotels and (iii) the preservation of investor capital. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the assumptions, various risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that cash distributions to the MHP2 Limited Partners would commence in 1989 at an annualized rate of approximately 9.6% of a Limited Partner's original investment, which annualized rate was expected to increase to approximately 24% of a Limited Partner's adjusted invested capital for 1998. It was also forecast that the Limited Partners would receive a distribution (which was expected to be free from current federal income taxation) from assumed refinancing proceeds of approximately $60,400 per Partnership Unit in 1993. Thereafter, the MHP2 Limited Partners would continue to benefit from ownership of MHP2's Hotels. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of MHP2's Hotels. Through June 19, 1998, MHP2 Limited Partners have received distributions from cash flow of $161,681 and no return of capital per Partnership Unit. In addition, $6,700 per Partnership Unit was distributed from cash flow in August 1998 and $5,600 per Partnership Unit is expected to be distributed in November 1998. In June 1996, Host completed a tender offer for Partnership Units of MHP2 in which it acquired 377 Partnership Units for an aggregate consideration of $56.6 million or $150,000 per Partnership Unit.

PHLP. The offering, which was completed in 1982, was intended to provide investors with the opportunity for tax benefits, potential cash flow distributions and capital appreciation. Based upon a financial forecast and facts and circumstances at the time (and subject to the various assumptions, risks, qualifications, limitations and other uncertainties described therein and in the related private placement memorandum), it was estimated that cash available for distribution was not expected to be significant for some years, reaching 6.2% of a PHLP Limited Partner's original investment in 1993 and rising to 20.7% of a PHLP Limited Partner's original investment by 1996. The financial forecast did not assume a sale of PHLP's Hotels. On January 31, 1986, PHLP sold the Denver West hotel to Host. In 1993 and 1994, the Raleigh Crabtree, Tampa Westshore and Point Clear hotels were foreclosed upon. In 1994, PHLP repurchased the Raleigh Crabtree and Tampa Westshore hotels using proceeds from two loans advanced by a subsidiary of Host. On August 22, 1995, PHLP sold the Dallas/Fort Worth hotel to a wholly owned subsidiary of Host and used the proceeds to pay down debt. Through June 19, 1998, PHLP Limited Partners have received no distributions from cash flow, tax credits up to $1,588 and allocations of tax losses of approximately $128,000 (which have been offset in part by subsequent allocations of taxable income of approximately $21,300 and capital gains of approximately $49,600) and no return of capital per Partnership Unit. Due to changes in the tax law occurring after the date of the original offering (including, in particular, the changes enacted as part of the Tax Reform Act of 1986) that, among other things, reduced the marginal tax rates applicable to individuals and limited the use of certain tax losses by individuals, the tax losses allocated to the PHLP Limited Partners did not likely result in tax savings of the magnitude originally forecast.

Anticipated Holding Periods. None of the offering documents of the Partnerships indicated any anticipated holding period, although the offering documents included hypothetical assumed sale dates for purposes of providing illustrative financial forecasts. Based upon the disclosure, which contained appropriate cautionary language, limited partners could reasonably have expected that they would receive substantial benefits through distributions from some combination (depending upon the particular Partnership) of operations, tax benefits and refinancing proceeds and, at some indefinite future date when market conditions were favorable, and assuming a sale would be advisable for the partners, from a sale of the Partnership's assets.

Investment Liquidity. Since the Partnership Units of the Partnerships are not listed on any national or regional stock exchange, nor quoted on any automated quotations system, there has been limited liquidity available to Limited Partners. No formal market for such Partnership Units exists and sales activity in the Partnership Units has been limited and sporadic.

The information in the following table shows the highest, lowest and weighted average prices for sales of the Partnership Units in the Partnerships as reported to the General Partners for the twelve months ended April 15, 1998, the date immediately prior to the public announcement of the REIT Conversion. These prices are not indicative of total return to investors in the respective Partnerships because prior cash distributions and tax benefits received by each Limited Partner are not reflected in the price. There can be no assurance that transactions in Partnership Units of any Partnership have not occurred at prices either above the highest price or below the lowest price set forth below.

The estimated Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value. The actual Exchange Values will be determined as of the Final Valuation Date. The amounts in this column represent the estimated Exchange Value that would be allocable to Limited Partners per Partnership Unit.
- (2) The $42,200 highest price per Partnership Unit paid for a Partnership Unit of Desert Springs was determined based on the price paid for one-half of a Partnership Unit prior to a distribution of $25,000 per Partnership Unit of capital proceeds from a refinancing.
- (3) Includes 40 Hanover Partnership Units purchased by Host pursuant to a tender offer at a price of $40,000 per Partnership Unit on April 12, 1997. Excluding the tender offer purchases, there was a single Partnership Unit sold at a price of $20,500.

BACKGROUND OF THE MERGERS AND THE REIT CONVERSION

Host and the other General Partners are proposing the Mergers in connection with a plan adopted by Host to restructure its business operations so that it will qualify as a REIT under the Code. Host REIT expects to qualify as a REIT beginning with its first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, which currently is expected to be the year commencing January 1, 1999. Host's reasons for engaging in the REIT Conversion include the following:

- . Host believes the REIT structure, as a more tax efficient structure, will provide improved operating results through changing economic conditions and all phases of the hotel economic cycle.
- . Host believes the REIT Conversion, which will reduce corporate-level taxes and the need to incur debt to reduce corporate taxes through interest deductions, will improve its financial flexibility and allow it to continue to strengthen its balance sheet by reducing its overall debt to equity ratio over time.
- . As a REIT, Host believes it will be able to compete more effectively with other public lodging real estate companies that already are organized as REITs and to make performance comparisons with its peers more meaningful.
- . By becoming a dividend paying company, Host believes its shareholder base will expand to include investors attracted by yield as well as asset quality.
- . Host believes the adoption of the UPREIT structure will facilitate tax-deferred acquisitions of other hotels (such as in the case of the Blackstone Acquisition and the Mergers).

Host believes that these benefits justify the REIT Conversion even if the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999 (in which event, the effectiveness of Host's REIT election could be delayed until January 1, 2000).

Host explored the possibility of engaging in a business combination with a so-called "paired share" REIT, Santa Anita, in December 1996 and January 1997. Based upon an analysis of potential costs, the pricing of the transaction, the time required to complete such a transaction and the possible legislative risks associated with the "paired share" structure, Host decided not to pursue such a transaction.

During the fourth quarter of 1997, Host began to explore internally the possibility of reorganizing as a REIT on a stand-alone basis. Host analyzed the various consents that would need to be obtained and other requirements that would need to be met in order to restructure its assets and operations (including its indirect interests in the Partnerships and the Private Partnerships) in order to qualify as a REIT. In light of the importance of its relationship with Marriott International as the manager of substantially all of Host's Hotels, Host began preliminary discussions with Marriott International during January 1998 in order to ascertain whether or not Marriott International would cooperate in Host's potential conversion to a REIT. In February 1998, Host tentatively concluded that it would be desirable for the Operating Partnership to use OP Units to acquire the Partnerships and the Private Partnerships, subject to determination of satisfactory terms and conditions for such acquisitions. In order to determine the feasibility of this approach, Host commenced preliminary discussions in February and March 1998 with the outside partners of certain Private Partnerships to determine whether or not they would have an interest in such a transaction. Host went to these partners directly because, unlike with the Partnerships, in each case there were a small number of partners with whom Host could negotiate directly and such negotiations were permissible under applicable securities laws without making a public offering (and, in fact, such negotiations would need to be completed and the Private Partnerships receiving OP Units would need to be under contract before a registration statement could be filed to offer OP Units to the Limited Partners in the Mergers). In February 1998, the General Partners retained AAA to commence work on the Appraisals and to render a fairness opinion if an agreement were reached with Host to acquire the Partnerships (subject to the requisite Limiter Partner approvals) because the General Partners recognized that the Appraisals would be important in determining the terms of any such acquisition by Host and that it was important to get started as soon as possible, even if a transaction did not materialize, due to the lengthy process involved in a public offering of OP Units to the Limited Partners. In March 1998, Host also entered into discussions with the Blackstone Group regarding the potential acquisition of the twelve full-service hotels and certain other assets owned by the Blackstone Entities because Host believed that these hotels represented the premier hotel portfolio on the market and an acquisition would be consistent with its desire to pursue a strategy of owning both Marriott and other upscale and luxury hotel brands. In April 1998, Host and the Operating Partnership entered into agreements with the Blackstone Entities for the Blackstone Acquisition and concurrently reached a decision and publicly announced that it would be advantageous, both for its shareholders and for the outside investors in the Partnerships, as discussed in the following paragraphs, if Host were to convert to a REIT and offer to the Partnerships the opportunity to participate in the REIT Conversion through the Mergers. In May and June 1998, Host and the Operating Partnership entered into agreements to acquire the interests of certain outside partners in four Private Partnerships. Each of these transactions is contingent upon the REIT Conversion. On June 2, 1998, the Operating Partnership filed a registration statement for the OP Units to be issued to the Limited Partners of the Partnerships in the Mergers.

Host decided to propose the Mergers for the Partnerships in connection with its decision to convert to a REIT because (i) the Partnerships have numerous limited partners and therefore Host could not negotiate with the Limited Partners individually and (ii) Host's acquisition policy is to acquire full-service hotels and the Partnerships represented all but one of the widely-held full-service partnerships affiliated with Host that it did not wholly own. In addition, Host believed it would be beneficial to the Limited Partners to provide the tax deferral advantage of OP Units in the Mergers and in order to do so, the offer of such equity securities could be made only through a public offering. Also, the Mergers, by themselves, would still have required the Operating Partnership to lease the Hotels owned by the Partnerships if they were to result in liquidity for the Limited Partners due to the tax rules regarding "publicly traded partnerships." Neither Host nor the General Partners consulted with any investors in the Partnerships regarding the Mergers prior to the April 1998 public announcement of the proposed REIT Conversion.

In deciding to pursue and ultimately recommend a Merger, the General Partner of each Partnership considered and evaluated two principal alternatives: (i) continuation of the Partnership as a separate entity in a manner consistent with its current long-term business strategy and (ii) liquidation of the Partnership. The considerations involved in the analysis of these alternatives are described below in "--Reasons for the Mergers," "--Alternatives to the Mergers" and "Fairness Analysis and Opinion." Each General Partner also recognized that two additional types of transactions, a reorganization of the Partnership as a separate REIT or a merger with another REIT or UPREIT, would be possible alternatives to a Merger. For the reasons described below, however, the General Partners did not pursue either such alternative because each General Partner believed that the speculative theoretical benefits of these alternatives were outweighed by their disadvantages and by the benefits of a Merger.

Each General Partner recognized that its Partnership could be reorganized as a separate independent REIT whose shares could be listed for trading on an exchange. The General Partners do not believe that this alternative would be as beneficial to Limited Partners as the Mergers for the following reasons, among others: (i) each separate REIT, on a standalone basis, would (a) be a relatively small public company, with a substantially smaller capitalization and public float than Host REIT, (b) have relatively high leverage, particularly for a public REIT, (c) likely need to be externally advised rather than internally managed and (d) have only one or a few assets (depending on the Partnership), all of which would likely adversely affect the trading value of the shares of the separate REIT; (ii) the organization of a separate REIT (unless in an UPREIT structure) would be a taxable transaction for all Limited Partners with "negative capital accounts" for tax purposes to the extent of those negative capital accounts; (iii) if the separate REIT were to raise additional capital contemporaneously, this would cause the organization of the separate REIT to be a fully taxable transaction for all Limited Partners (unless in an UPREIT structure); (iv) the organization of a separate REIT for certain Partnerships (including Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP, MHP2 and PHLP) could have a material adverse impact on the tax and/or economic positions of Host and the General Partners in those Partnerships, and, therefore, the General Partners of those Partnerships would not favor this alternative; and (v) the reorganization of a Partnership as a separate REIT would have required the Partnership's Hotel(s) to be leased to a third-party lessee, which would have required the consent and cooperation of Marriott International, and Marriott International was under no obligation to provide such consent or cooperation (and might have affirmatively opposed such arrangements with respect to certain of the Hotels owned by certain Partnerships). The General Partners believe that these disadvantages generally outweigh any speculative advantages of reorganizing one or more of the Partnerships as separate REITs (particularly in light of the General Partners' assessments of the benefits to the Limited Partners of participation in the Mergers and the REIT Conversion), and certain of the disadvantages would make this alternative practically impossible for certain of the Partnerships to attain.

Each General Partner also recognized that its Partnership could pursue a merger with another REIT, particularly another UPREIT (including possibly a merger with one of the "paired share" UPREITs that specializes in lodging properties). The General Partners do not believe that this alternative would be as beneficial to the Limited Partners as the Mergers for the following reasons, among others: (i) such a merger, unless consummated with a REIT organized in the UPREIT format, would be a fully taxable transaction for the Limited Partners, with the result that the Limited Partners would lose the ability to individually plan the timing of the recognition of their taxable gain; (ii) the General Partners believe that the Marriott lodging brands are among the most respected and widely recognized brand names in the lodging industry and that the Limited Partners would derive greater benefit from owning an interest in an UPREIT that specializes in owning Marriott-brand hotels, together with the diversity provided by the Hyatt, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons and Swissotel brand hotels that the Operating Partnership will own; (iii) the acquisition of certain of the Partnerships (including Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP, MHP2 and PHLP) by another REIT specializing in the ownership and operation of lodging properties could have a material adverse impact on the tax and/or economic positions of Host and the General Partners in those Partnerships, and, therefore, the General Partners of those Partnerships would not favor this alternative; and (iv) the merger of a Partnership with another REIT (or UPREIT), including the leasing of a Partnership's Hotel(s) to a third-party lessee, would have required the consent and cooperation of Marriott International, and Marriott International was under no obligation to provide such consent or cooperation (and might have affirmatively opposed such a transaction at least with respect to certain of the Hotels owned by certain of the Partnerships). The General Partners believe that these disadvantages generally outweigh any speculative advantage that might be obtained from pursuing a merger transaction with another REIT or UPREIT (particularly in light of the General Partners' assessments of the benefits to the Limited Partners of participation in the Mergers and the REIT Conversion), and that certain of the disadvantages would make this alternative practically impossible for certain of the Partnerships to attain.

Due to current federal income tax law restrictions on a REIT's ability to derive revenues directly from the operation of a hotel, Host recognized that it would be necessary to lease its hotels to one or more lessees just as other hotel REITs have done. Host desired to have a single lessee (or multiple lessees controlled by a single person) in order to achieve substantial uniformity in its lease terms and avoid protracted negotiations with multiple parties over the terms of the lease arrangements, all of which would have been more complicated as a result of the existing long-term management agreements with Marriott International. Host also did not seriously attempt to restructure the existing Marriott International management agreements as leases (and Marriott International has not offered to do so in any of the negotiations with Host to date) because Host understands that Marriott International's general policy is to manage rather than lease hotels and Host also believed that Marriott International was unlikely to be an acceptable lessee of hotels operating under other brand names. Primarily for these reasons, and in order to give the economic benefit of the lessee's interest in the leases to Host's shareholders at the time of the REIT Conversion, Host decided to enter into leases with Crestline and its subsidiaries and distribute the stock of Crestline to Host's shareholders. Host believed that Crestline was a more appropriate lessee than a newly formed company because Crestline already had an independent business and substantial assets and net worth and, thus, could perform well as a separate publicly traded company. While Host recognized that, as with other REITs that own hotels, there would be additional administrative and operating complexities that would result from leasing its hotels to another party with separate interests and economic objectives, Host believed that the advantages of the REIT Conversion substantially outweighed these disadvantages.

If the required shareholder and partner approvals for the various transactions are obtained and other conditions to the different steps in the REIT Conversion are satisfied or waived, these transactions are expected to occur at various times prior to the end of 1998 (or as soon thereafter as practicable). The Mergers of the Participating Partnerships are expected to occur at the final stage of the REIT Conversion. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners are seeking the approval of the Mergers and the related partnership agreement amendments at this time, in advance of satisfaction of all other contingencies, in order to determine how the Partnerships will fit into the UPREIT structure following the REIT Conversion, which Host desires to implement during 1998 in order to permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for its 1999 taxable year. Consummation of the Mergers is not conditioned on the REIT Conversion being completed in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce Host REIT's cash distributions per Common Share but not the Operating Partnership's cash distributions per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated. In view of the complexity of the REIT Conversion and the number of transactions that must occur to complete the REIT Conversion, Host and the General Partners believe that it is beneficial both to the Limited Partners and the shareholders of Host to complete the REIT Conversion as soon as practicable, even if the REIT Conversion cannot be completed prior to January 1, 1999. If Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT is not effective on January 1, 1999, Host REIT intends to operate following the REIT Conversion in a manner that would permit it to qualify as a REIT at the earliest time practicable, and it might pursue a merger with another entity or other transaction that would permit it to commence a new taxable year and elect REIT status prior to January 1, 2000.

Host REIT in any event would elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes not later than its taxable year commencing January 1, 2000. It is a condition to the Mergers that they be completed by June 30, 1999, unless the General Partners and the Operating Partnership mutually agree to extend that deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

REASONS FOR THE MERGERS

The Mergers are being proposed at this time for three principal reasons:

- . First, the General Partners believe that the expected benefits of the Mergers to the Limited Partners, as set forth below, outweigh the risks of the Mergers to the Limited Partners, as set forth in "Risk Factors."
- . Second, the General Partners believe that participation in the REIT Conversion through the Mergers is better for the Limited Partners than the alternatives of continuing each Partnership as a standalone entity or liquidating the Partnership, reorganizing the Partnership into a separate REIT or pursuing a merger of one or more Partnerships with another REIT or UPREIT because (i) the Limited Partners will have the opportunity to receive OP Units, Common Shares or Notes and to acquire an interest in a larger, more diversified hotel company, (ii) the Exchange Value is equal to the highest estimated value that would be derived by Limited Partners from the three valuation alternatives, (iii) for all but three Partnerships, the estimated Adjusted Appraised Value is substantially higher than either the estimated Continuation Value or the estimated Liquidation Value, (iv) Limited Partners will obtain liquidity by electing to exchange the OP Units they receive for freely tradeable Host REIT Common Shares or, if they elect to retain such OP Units, such OP Units will be redeemable for Common Shares or cash, at Host REIT's option, commencing one year after the Effective Date and (v) Limited Partners will receive regular quarterly cash distributions which, for all Partnerships except for MHP and MHP2, are expected to be significantly greater than estimated cash distributions from operations from their current Partnerships during 1998 and for PHLP will represent the first cash distributions received from their investments. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."
- . Third, Host is proposing the Mergers at this time to each Partnership because consummation of the Merger as to each Partnership will enable Host to obtain the full benefits of the REIT Conversion with respect to its interests in such Partnership, while also giving the other partners of the Partnership the opportunity to enjoy the benefits of the REIT Conversion. See "Risk Factors--Risks and Effects of the Mergers--Conflicts of Interest--Substantial Benefits to Related Parties."

The expected benefits from the Mergers to the Limited Partners include the following:

Liquidity. Limited Partners' Partnership Units currently represent relatively illiquid investments. Although there is a limited resale market for Partnership Units, the trading volume is thin and the recent trading prices of outstanding Partnership Units in each of the Partnerships are less than the estimated Exchange Value of Partnership Units in each Partnership, except for Desert Springs. See "Partnership Unit Prices" above. The REIT Conversion will offer Limited Partners liquidity with respect to their investments in the Partnerships because Limited Partners can receive freely tradeable Host REIT Common Shares by electing to exchange OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers or by exercising their Unit Redemption Right, at any time after one year following the Mergers. Limited Partners thereby would be able to receive, at Host REIT's election, either Common Shares of Host REIT or the cash equivalent thereof. Host has approximately 204 million shares of common stock outstanding and is expected to have a total common equity market capitalization of approximately $3.4 billion after giving effect to the Initial E&P Distribution (based on a price of $12.50 per Host REIT Common Share). The election to exchange OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers or the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, however, generally would result in recognition of taxable income or gain.

Regular Quarterly Cash Distributions. Over each of the last five full calendar years, only MHP2 Limited Partners have received cash distributions in each year. Generally, over the last five full calendar years, Limited Partners in the other Partnerships, except for Chicago Suites, Hanover and PHLP, have received some cash distributions. In contrast, because Host REIT is required to distribute at least 95% of its REIT taxable income, the General Partners expect that the Operating Partnership will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) and that Host REIT will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of Common Shares. Host expects that these distributions will be higher than the estimated cash distributions from operations during 1998 of all Partnerships except MHP and MHP2, and, in any event, the ability to receive distributions quarterly and in regular amounts would be enhanced. The ability to receive regular quarterly cash distributions on a pro rata basis also will mitigate the absence of any preferential distribution rights of the Limited Partners under the partnership agreements of Chicago Suites, Hanover and MHP2 and will further benefit the Limited Partners of Atlanta Marquis due to the absence of the General Partner's preferential distribution rights. Management expects to fund such distributions through cash available for distribution and, if necessary, additional borrowings. Distributions will be made in the discretion of Host REIT's Board of Directors. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Distribution Policy." As a substantial holder of OP Units, Host REIT would also receive regular quarterly cash distributions, with such cash distributions expected to be in an amount at least sufficient to permit Host REIT to make cash distributions with respect to the Common Shares as required by the Code provisions relating to REITs. There can be no assurance that Host REIT will be able to make such cash distributions in the future. Upon exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, Limited Partners who receive Common Shares would be entitled to receive cash distributions with respect to such Common Shares in an amount per Common Share expected to be equal to the amount distributed per OP Unit.

The following table sets forth the cash distributions from operations per Partnership Unit for all of the Partnerships during 1997, actual and expected distributions from operations during 1998 and the expected distributions during 1999 estimated to be paid by the Operating Partnership to the Limited Partners of each Partnership if the Mergers and the REIT Conversion occur (computed assuming the Effective Date is December 30, 1998).

- (1) Represents actual cash distributions made through August 20, 1998 and expected cash to be distributed during the period from August 21, 1998 through December 31, 1998.
- (2) Based upon preliminary estimated annual distributions during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 of $0.84 per OP Unit. Limited Partners are cautioned that this amount may change and the changes may be material. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Distribution Policy." Does not include amounts, if any, to be distributed by the Partnerships from third and fourth quarter 1998 operations which will be distributed before June 1, 1999.
- (3) Represents a distribution of $5,000 per Partnership Unit from excess funds that had been accumulated for refinancing costs.
- (4) Represents a return of capital of approximately $25,000 per Partnership Unit.

Substantial Tax Deferral for Limited Partners Not Electing to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares or Notes. The General Partners expect that Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships who do not elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers generally should be able to obtain the benefits of the Mergers while continuing to defer recognition for federal income tax purposes of at least a substantial portion, if not all, of the gain with respect to their Partnership Interests that otherwise would be recognized in the event of a liquidation of the Partnership or a sale or other disposition of its assets in a taxable transaction (although Limited Partners in Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP and PHLP may recognize a relatively modest amount of ordinary income as the result of required sales of personal property by such Partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary). Thereafter, such Limited Partners generally should be able to defer at least a substantial portion of such built-in gain until they elect to exercise their Unit Redemption Right or one or more of the Hotels currently owned by their Partnership are sold or otherwise disposed of in a taxable transaction by the Operating Partnership or, in certain cases, the debt now secured by such Hotels is repaid, prepaid or substantially reduced. The federal income tax consequences of the Mergers are highly complex and, with respect to each Limited Partner, are dependent upon many variables, including the particular circumstances of such Limited Partner. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers." Each Limited Partner is urged to consult with his own tax advisors as to the consequences of the Mergers in light of his particular circumstances.

Risk Diversification. Upon consummation of the REIT Conversion, each Limited Partner's investment will be converted from an investment in an individual Partnership owning from one to eight hotels into an investment in an enterprise that is expected initially to own or control approximately 125 Hotels and is expected to have a total market capitalization of approximately $3.4 billion. Participation in a Merger, as well as future hotel acquisitions by the Operating Partnership, will reduce the dependence upon the performance of, and the exposure to the risks associated with, any particular Hotel or group of Hotels currently owned by an individual Partnership and spread such risk over a broader and more varied portfolio, including more diverse geographic locations and multiple brands. See "Business and Properties--Business Objectives."

Reduction in Leverage and Interest Costs. It is expected that the Operating Partnership will have a lower leverage to value ratio (approximately 62%) than five of the Partnerships (Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, Hanover and PHLP), which have leverage ratios that range from between approximately 65% and 80% (calculated as a percentage of Exchange Value). The Operating Partnership's leverage ratio is not expected to be significantly different than the leverage ratios for MDAH, MHP and MHP2, which have leverage ratios that range from approximately 55% to 60%. The Operating Partnership's leverage level generally will result in interest and debt service savings and greater financial stability.

Growth Potential. The General Partners believe that the conversion of each Limited Partner's investment into an investment in the Operating Partnership or Host REIT will allow Limited Partners to participate in growth opportunities that would not otherwise be available to them. Host REIT will be a publicly traded real estate company focused primarily on a more diverse and growing full-service hotel portfolio. The General Partners believe that substantial opportunities exist to acquire or develop full-service hotel properties at attractive prices and that the Partnerships are not in a position to take advantage of such opportunities because of (i) their lack of access to additional sources of capital on favorable terms, (ii) restrictions on additional acquisitions and development imposed by the partnership agreements of the Partnerships and (iii) the fact that the Partnerships have already committed their capital and generally are not authorized to raise additional funds for (or reinvest net sale or refinancing proceeds in) new investments, absent amendment of the partnership agreements of the Partnerships or approval by a majority of the outstanding Partnership Interests.

The Operating Partnership's structure as part of an UPREIT should provide it with substantial flexibility to structure acquisitions of additional hotels utilizing debt, cash, OP Units or Common Shares (or any combination thereof). In particular, the ability of the Operating Partnership to issue OP Units in the future for the purpose of acquiring additional properties may permit the Operating Partnership to structure acquisitions of hotel properties on a tax-deferred basis to the sellers (i.e., sellers of properties generally will be able to exchange their ownership interests in those properties for OP Units without incurring an immediate income tax liability).

Greater Access to Capital. With publicly traded equity securities, a larger base of assets and a greater equity value than any of the Partnerships individually, Host REIT expects to have greater access to the capital necessary to fund the Operating Partnership's operations and to consummate acquisitions on more attractive terms than would be available to any of the Partnerships individually. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership should have more sources of capital available to it than the Partnerships through access to the public equity and debt capital markets, as well as from more traditional sources of real estate financing. This greater access to capital should provide greater financial stability to the Operating Partnership and reduce the level of risk associated with refinancing existing loans upon maturity, as compared to the Partnerships individually.

Public Market Valuation of Assets. In most instances, the Partnership Units of each Partnership currently trade at a discount to the net asset value of the Partnership's assets. The General Partners believe that by exchanging interests in their existing, non-traded, finite-life limited partnerships with a fixed portfolio for interests in an ongoing real estate company focused primarily on a more diverse and growing full-service hotel portfolio and providing valuation based upon publicly traded Common Shares of Host REIT, the Limited Partners will have the opportunity to participate in the recent trend toward ownership of real estate through a publicly traded entity, which, in many instances (although not currently), has resulted at various times in market valuations of public real estate companies in excess of the estimated net asset values of those companies. Therefore, the REIT Conversion offers Limited Partners the opportunity to obtain OP Units or Common Shares in exchange therefor in connection with the Mergers (and, for Limited Partners who retain OP Units, Common Shares upon the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right at any time commencing one year following the Mergers) whose public market valuation in the future may exceed the fair market value of the underlying assets of the Operating Partnership on a per OP Unit/Common Share basis. There can be no assurance, however, that the Common Shares of Host REIT will trade at a premium to the private market values of the Operating Partnership's assets or that they will not trade at a discount to private market values. Also, the benefit of Host's conversion to a REIT will not be shared by the Limited Partners if and to the extent that such benefit is reflected in the market valuation of Host's common stock prior to the REIT Conversion.

COMPENSATION AND DISTRIBUTIONS TO THE GENERAL PARTNERS AND MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL

Under the partnership agreements of the Partnerships, the General Partners do not receive any fees or compensation for services rendered to the Partnerships as general partner but the General Partners and their affiliates are reimbursed for certain costs and expenses incurred on behalf of the Partnerships. In addition, each General Partner is entitled to distributions related to its respective interests in a Partnership. Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, will be required to conduct all of its business through the Operating Partnership. Following the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will be entitled to receive cash distributions with respect to the OP Units that it owns and the Operating Partnership will pay (or reimburse Host REIT for) all expenses that Host REIT incurs, including taxes (subject to certain limited exceptions). Marriott International and its affiliates receive management fees and other reimbursements from the Partnerships under the Management Agreements.

The following table sets forth the compensation, reimbursements and distributions paid by all of the Partnerships to the General Partners and their affiliates and the payments made to Marriott International and its affiliates on a combined basis for the last three fiscal years and the First Two Quarters 1998 ("Historical") and the estimated reimbursements and distributions that would have been paid by the Partnerships to the General Partners and their affiliates and payments made to Marriott International and its affiliates during the last three fiscal years and the First Two Quarters 1998 if the REIT Conversion had been in effect, assuming the Full Participation Scenario ("Pro Forma"). The Pro Forma estimates assume a distribution per OP Unit of $0.84 per year during 1997 and the First Two Quarters 1998 (based upon the preliminary estimated initial annual cash distributions per OP Unit during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999) and no distributions during 1996 and 1995 (based upon the assumption that the Operating Partnership and Host REIT would not have had any taxable income for such years because Host reported net operating losses of $10 million and $83 million, respectively, on its consolidated federal income tax returns for taxable years 1996 and 1995 and thus would not have made any distributions).

- (1) All expenses will be paid directly by the Operating Partnership; accordingly, there are no expected reimbursements on a pro forma basis.
- (2) The amount of distributions payable to the General Partners and their affiliates on a pro forma basis in 1997 and the First Two Quarters 1998 assumes payment of distributions at a rate of $0.84 per annum per OP Unit (which represents the preliminary estimated initial annual cash distributions per OP Unit during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999) with respect to the estimated minimum number of OP Units that the General Partners and their affiliates will receive with respect to their general and limited partner interests in the Partnerships, assuming all Partnerships participate in the Mergers and the maximum price of $15.50 per OP Unit. Such number does not reflect the aggregate number of OP Units Host REIT will receive in connection with the REIT Conversion. The amount of distributions payable to the General Partner and its affiliates on a pro forma basis in 1996 and 1995 are assumed to be zero (based upon the assumption that the Operating Partnership and Host REIT would not have had any taxable income for such years because Host reported net operating losses of $10 million and $83 million, respectively, on its consolidated federal income tax returns for taxable years 1996 and 1995 and thus would not have made any distributions). The pro forma distributions payable to the General Partner and its affiliates are not necessarily indicative of the amounts that would have been distributed per OP Unit in such periods if the REIT Conversion and the Mergers had been consummated as of the beginning of each period shown.

ALTERNATIVES TO THE MERGERS

In determining whether to propose the Mergers, the General Partners compared the benefits to the Limited Partners of continuing each Partnership with the benefits the Limited Partners could achieve by the participation of their Partnership in the REIT Conversion through a Merger. The General Partners considered the other principal alternative--liquidation of a Partnership--but do not believe that liquidation is appropriate at this time because the expected benefits of the proposed Mergers are greater.

The following paragraphs discuss the advantages and disadvantages of continuing the Partnerships as standalone partnerships and, to assist Limited Partners in evaluating the Mergers, liquidating the Partnerships.

CONTINUATION OF EACH PARTNERSHIP

Benefits of Continuation. Continuing each Partnership without change, in accordance with its existing business plan and pursuant to its current partnership agreement, would have the following effects, some of which effects Limited Partners may perceive as benefits:

- . No Partnership would be subject to the risks associated with the Mergers and REIT Conversion, and instead each Partnership would remain a separate entity, with its own assets and liabilities and would pursue its original investment objectives consistent with the guidelines, restrictions and safeguards contained in its partnership agreement;

- . No Partnership's performance would be affected by the performance of the other Hotel Partnerships or Host REIT, including the investment objectives, interests and intentions of the limited partners of the other Hotel Partnerships or the shareholders of Host REIT;
- . There would be no change in the nature of the Limited Partners' voting rights; and
- . There would be no change in the cash distribution policy of the Partnership.

Disadvantages of Continuation. Maintaining the Partnerships as separate entities would have the following disadvantages, among others:

- . Continued illiquidity of a Limited Partner's investment due to the absence of an established market for interests in the Partnerships that provides full value for such interest;
- . The inability from time to time of the Partnerships to make regular distributions;
- . The inability of the Partnerships to take advantage of public market valuation of their assets, growth opportunities and other potential benefits of the Mergers;
- . Each Partnership will continue to have a leverage to value ratio exceeding 55% and typically averaging between 60% and 80% (calculated as a percentage of Exchange Value);
- . Limited Partners will continue to be subject to the risks inherent in the lack of broad diversity that any individual Partnership's assets represent; and
- . Any realization by the Limited Partners of the full value attributable to their Partnership Units likely would require a liquidation of the Partnership and the sale of its Hotel or Hotels which has the disadvantages set forth below (see "--Liquidation of Each Partnership").

LIQUIDATION OF EACH PARTNERSHIP

Benefits of Liquidation. In lieu of participating in the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, each Partnership could sell its assets (subject to the existing Management Agreements), pay off its existing liabilities not assumed by the buyer and distribute the net sales proceeds to its partners in accordance with the distribution provisions of its partnership agreement. The primary advantage of this alternative would be to provide immediate liquidity to Limited Partners based upon the current market value of the Partnership's real estate assets. See "--Summary of Comparative Valuation Alternatives" for estimates of the net liquidation proceeds that might be available to the Limited Partners upon the liquidation of each Partnership.

Disadvantages of Liquidation. The General Partners do not believe that this alternative would be as beneficial to Limited Partners as the Mergers, for the following reasons, among others: (i) certain existing Partnership debt cannot be defeased or prepaid at the present time (such as certain indebtedness of Atlanta Marquis and MHP2 and Desert Springs' Senior Notes) and when the existing debt can be defeased or prepaid, the costs of defeasance or prepayment (with the exception of Chicago Suites, MDAH and PHLP) would significantly decrease the sales proceeds available to Limited Partners of a Partnership and (ii) a sale and liquidation would be a taxable event for all Limited Partners, who would lose the ability to individually plan the timing of the recognition of their taxable gain. In addition, because of the tax consequences that the General Partners (and thus Host) would incur upon a Partnership's taxable sale of its Hotel or Hotels, this is not an alternative that the General Partners would favor, making it less likely that such an alternative could be implemented.

SUMMARY OF COMPARATIVE VALUATION ALTERNATIVES

To determine the Exchange Values and to assist Limited Partners in comparing alternatives to the Mergers, the General Partners, in conjunction with AAA, have computed for each Partnership the estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, the estimated Continuation Value and the estimated Liquidation Value of the Partnership

Interests of the Limited Partners. Estimated Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value. In addition, the table below sets forth the minimum number of OP Units to be received by the Limited Partners in the Partnerships based upon the estimated Exchange Value and the maximum price per OP Unit of $15.50. For a detailed explanation of the calculation of each value, see "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units." (For the reasons described above in "--Background of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion," the General Partners did not attempt to estimate the value of reorganization of each Partnership as a separate REIT or merger with another REIT or UPREIT but they do not believe that either of these alternatives would result in a higher value for the Limited Partners than the Exchange Value to be received through the receipt of the OP Units in the Mergers.)

The estimated values set forth below may increase or decrease as a result of various adjustments that will be finally calculated as of the Final Valuation Date, but such estimated Exchange Values will not change as a result of less than all of the Partnerships participating in the Mergers. The number of OP Units to be issued to the Limited Partners will not be determined until after the Effective Date.

- (1) A Partnership Unit in all of the Partnerships except Chicago Suites ($35,000) and PHLP ($10,000) represents an original investment of $100,000.
  - (2) Estimated Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value.
  - (3) Assumes the price of an OP Unit is $15.50, which is the maximum price for purposes of the Mergers and thus results in the minimum number of OP Units that may be issued.
  - (4) The estimated Adjusted Appraised Value and the estimated Liquidation Value for PHLP are zero because PHLP's outstanding debt is greater than the Appraised Value of the Hotels and the value of other assets, net of liabilities, owned by PHLP.

RECOMMENDATION OF THE GENERAL PARTNERS

FOR THE REASONS STATED HEREIN, THE GENERAL PARTNERS BELIEVE THAT THE MERGERS PROVIDE SUBSTANTIAL BENEFITS AND ARE FAIR TO THE LIMITED PARTNERS OF EACH PARTNERSHIP AND RECOMMEND THAT ALL LIMITED PARTNERS VOTE FOR THE MERGERS AND FOR THE RELATED AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. SEE "FAIRNESS ANALYSIS AND OPINION--FAIRNESS ANALYSIS."

OVERVIEW

Following consummation of the REIT Conversion, OP Units are expected to be owned by the following groups:

- . Host REIT, which will own a number of OP Units equal to the number of outstanding Common Shares of Host REIT. These OP Units will consist of (i) the OP Units to be acquired in exchange for the contribution of Host's full-service hotel assets and other assets (excluding its senior living assets and the cash or other consideration to be distributed to shareholders of Host or Host REIT and certain other de minimis assets), subject to all liabilities of Host (including past and future contingent liabilities), other than liabilities of Crestline, (ii) the OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries with respect to their interests in the Partnerships and (iii) the OP Units to be acquired from Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers. The OP Units received by the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries attributable to their interests in the Partnerships will be determined in the same manner as the number of OP Units to be received by Limited Partners and will be determined in accordance with the distribution provisions in the partnership agreements of the Partnerships. On a pro forma basis, as of June 19, 1998, Host REIT would have owned approximately 204 million OP Units, based upon the number of outstanding shares of Host common stock at that time, of which the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries would have owned approximately 17.7 million OP Units received with respect to their interests in the Partnerships. If Host issues any shares of preferred stock prior to the REIT Conversion, Host REIT also will own a number of preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership equal to the number of outstanding shares of preferred stock.
- . The Blackstone Entities, which will receive approximately 43.7 million OP Units and other consideration in exchange for the contribution of the Blackstone Hotels and certain other related assets, subject to certain liabilities.
- . Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships, who will receive in the Mergers a number of OP Units based upon the Exchange Values of their respective Partnership Interests and the price per OP Unit (other than Limited Partners who elect to exchange such OP Units for Common Shares or Notes).
- . Partners unaffiliated with Host in four Private Partnerships, who have agreed to exchange their interests in their Private Partnerships for OP Units based upon the value of their interests in their Private Partnerships, as determined by negotiation with Host.

METHODOLOGY FOR DETERMINING EXCHANGE VALUES

SUMMARY. The Exchange Value of each Partnership will be equal to the greatest of its Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value, each of which has been determined as follows:

- . Adjusted Appraised Value. The General Partners have retained AAA to determine the market value of each of the Hotels as of March 1, 1998 (the "Appraised Value"). The "Adjusted Appraised Value" of a Partnership equals the Appraised Value of its Hotels, adjusted as of the Final Valuation Date (as defined below) for lender reserves, capital expenditure reserves, existing indebtedness (including a "mark to market" adjustment to reflect the market value of such indebtedness), certain deferred maintenance costs, deferred management fees and transfer and recordation taxes and fees.
- . Continuation Value. The "Continuation Value" of a Partnership represents AAA's estimate, as adopted by the General Partners, of the discounted present value, as of January 1, 1998, of the limited partners' share of estimated future cash distributions and estimated net sales proceeds (plus lender reserves), assuming that the Partnership continues as an operating business for twelve years and its assets are sold on December 31, 2009 for their then estimated market value.

- . Liquidation Value. The "Liquidation Value" of a Partnership represents the General Partners' estimate of the net proceeds to limited partners resulting from the assumed sale as of December 31, 1998 of the Hotel(s) of the Partnership, each at its Adjusted Appraised Value (after eliminating any "mark to market" adjustment and adding back the deduction for transfer and recordation taxes and fees, if any, made in deriving the Adjusted Appraised Value), less (i) estimated liquidation costs, expenses and contingencies equal to 2.5% of Appraised Value and (ii) prepayment penalties or defeasance costs, as applicable.

Final determination of the Exchange Value of each Partnership will be made as of the end of the four week accounting period ending at least 20 days prior to the Effective Date (the "Final Valuation Date") and will be equal to the greatest of Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value as of such date. Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value will be adjusted as of the Final Valuation Date (i) to reflect the amount of lender and capital expenditure reserves and the amount of deferred management fees as of such date, (ii) to increase the Adjusted Appraised Value by any amounts actually expended by a Partnership after the Initial Valuation Date to perform deferred maintenance that were previously subtracted in determining the estimated Adjusted Appraised Value of such Partnership and (iii) to reflect any changes in the Partnership's other reserves, such as for litigation expenses and indemnification costs and any revised estimates of transfer and recordation taxes and fees. The General Partners do not believe that any adjustments to the Exchange Value will be material; however, if any such changes are deemed to be material, the General Partners will provide the Limited Partners in any Partnership so affected with an opportunity to change their vote on the Merger.

APPRAISED VALUE. The Partnerships' Hotels were appraised as of March 1, 1998 by AAA, an independent, nationally recognized hotel valuation and financial advisory firm experienced in the appraisals of lodging properties such as the Partnerships' Hotels. Each appraisal (an "Appraisal") was reviewed by an MAI (Member Appraisal Institute) appraiser and certified by such MAI appraiser as having been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Standards of Professional Practice of the Appraisal Institute and the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice of the Appraisal Foundation.

The purpose of each Appraisal is to provide an estimate of the "Market Value" of the related Hotel. "Market Value" means the most probable price which a property should bring in a competitive and open market under all conditions requisite to a fair sale, the buyer and seller each acting prudently and knowledgeably and assuming the price is not affected by undue stimuli. Implicit in this definition is the consummation of a sale as of a specified date and the passing of title from seller to buyer under conditions whereby: (i) the buyer and seller are equally motivated; (ii) both parties are well informed or well advised, and each is acting in what he considers his own best interest; (iii) a reasonable time frame is allowed for exposure in the open market; (iv) payment is made in terms of cash in U.S. dollars or in terms of financial arrangements comparable thereto; and (v) the price represents the normal consideration for the property sold unaffected by special or creative financing or sales concessions granted by anyone associated with the sale. AAA made site visits at all of the Hotels except for three Hotels owned by MDAH and one Hotel owned by PHLP for purposes of the Appraisals. Neither AAA nor the General Partners believe that the lack of site visits to these Hotels affects the determination of market value because, as part of the Appraisals, AAA reviewed financial information of the Hotels as well as conducted extensive interviews with the managers of the Hotels. See "Fairness Analysis and Opinion--Fairness Opinion--Summary of Materials Considered and Investigation Undertaken."

In preparing the Appraisals, AAA relied primarily on the income capitalization method of valuation, and then compared the value estimated by this method with recent sales of comparable properties, as a check on the reasonableness of the value determined through the income capitalization method. AAA employed the following procedures for determining the Appraised Value of each Hotel:

- . Historical 1997 and Projected Year's Earnings. AAA reviewed the historical 1997 net operating income (i.e., income before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) ("NOI") prior to incentive management fees and certain capital expenditures for the applicable Hotel. AAA also prepared a projection of the net operating income prior to incentive management fees and certain capital expenditures for the applicable Hotel for the twelve month period ending February 28, 1999 (the "Projected Year"), using historical financial information for the Hotel, budget information, a survey with the manager of the Hotel addressing the physical condition of the Hotel, local market conditions (including business mix, demand generators, future trends and predictability of business), changes in the competitive environment, comparison with direct competitors of the Hotel and risk factors relating to the particular Hotel. The resulting gross margin (ratio of total revenues to net operating income prior to incentive management fees) was checked against AAA's database of the gross margins for similar hotels for reasonableness.

- . Impact of Incentive Management Fees. AAA estimated a normalized annual amount of incentive management fees payable under the applicable management agreement and subtracted this amount from the net operating income prior to incentive management fees and certain capital expenditures for 1997 and the Projected Year.
- . Impact of Owner Funded Capital Expenditures. AAA estimated normalized annual amounts of owner funded capital expenditures (over and above the FF&E reserve) based in part on projected owner funded capital expenditures estimated in the Engineering Study, including in the case of three Hotels (Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs and Hanover) certain identified 1998 capital expenditures for which reserves have been set aside. The normalized amounts were then subtracted from the NOI prior to owner funded capital expenditures for 1997 and the Projected Year.
- . Capitalization of Adjusted NOI. AAA then capitalized the amount resulting from the foregoing adjustments ("Adjusted NOI") for 1997 and the Projected Year by dividing such amounts by capitalization rates that AAA determined to be appropriate. A capitalization rate represents the relationship between net operating income and sales prices of income producing property. AAA selected the capitalization rates based upon its review of current published surveys reflecting the opinions of investors and participants such as REITs, hotel acquisition/management companies and pension funds, lenders, brokers and consultants as to current capitalization rates, and its own database of capitalization rates reflected in recent transactions, adjusted for factors specific to the individual Hotel, such as location, physical condition, reserve policies, local market volatility and competition, guest mix, renovation influences and other income characteristics. AAA used separate capitalization rates that it deemed appropriate to capitalize 1997 historical Adjusted NOI and estimated Projected Year's Adjusted NOI. AAA then estimated the value of each Hotel based upon each of the values estimated by capitalizing 1997 and Projected Year's Adjusted NOI and its professional judgment.

The following table sets forth the resulting Appraised Values of the Hotels of each Partnership, as estimated by AAA.

- . Comparison with Comparable Sales. AAA checked the Appraised Value of each Hotel derived by the foregoing procedures against its database of comparable sale transactions for reasonableness.

In the case of a Hotel that is only partly owned by a Partnership, the Appraised Value of such Hotel was reduced proportionately to the amount attributable to such Partnership's ownership interest therein (but no adjustment was made to reflect the effect that the outside interest might have on decisions with respect to sales, refinancings or other major operational matters). With respect to the Partnerships' Hotels, eleven properties were encumbered by ground leases as of the date of the Appraisal: one owned by each of Chicago Suites, MDAH and MHP, three owned by MHP2 and five owned by PHLP. Accordingly, the Appraised Values of these Partnerships' Hotels have been decreased to reflect the encumbrance of the ground leases and the interest of the ground lessor in the operating cash flows of such Hotels. The Appraised Value of MHP's Orlando World Center Hotel also includes AAA's estimate of the present value of a planned expansion of the Hotel. The Appraised Values assume all contractual provisions for FF&E reserves are adequate and have not been reduced to reflect deferred maintenance or environmental remediation costs with respect to the Partnerships' Hotels (but estimated deferred maintenance costs have been deducted in estimating the Adjusted Appraised Value of each Hotel). The Appraised Values did not take into account the costs that might be incurred in selling a Hotel (but estimated costs for transfer and recordation taxes and fees have been deducted in estimating the Adjusted Appraised Value of each Hotel).

The Appraisals are not guarantees of present or future values and no assurance can be given as to the actual value of the Partnerships' Hotels. The Appraisals should be read in conjunction with other information, such as, but not limited to, the audited financial statements of the Partnerships.

The Appraised Values, and the assumptions underlying the projections on which the Appraised Values are based, are contingent upon a series of future events, the outcomes of which are not necessarily within the Operating Partnership's control and cannot be determined at this time. There can be no assurance that another appraiser would not have arrived at a different result. Some of the assumptions inevitably will not materialize and unanticipated events and circumstances will occur subsequent to the date of the Appraisals. Furthermore, the actual results achieved from the Hotels will vary from the results projected in the Appraisals and the variations may be material.

ADJUSTED APPRAISED VALUE. The Adjusted Appraised Value of each Partnership was determined by totaling the Appraised Values of all of the Hotels of the Partnership and then making various adjustments to the aggregate Appraised Value, as described below.

- . Lender Reserves. For Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MDAH, MHP and MHP2, debt service reserves are required to be held by third-party lenders. The amount of these lender reserves as of the Initial Valuation Date was added to the Appraised Values of these Hotels. A final determination of the lender reserves of each of these Partnerships will be made on the Final Valuation Date and any changes in such reserves will be reflected in the Adjusted Appraised Value.

- . 1998 Capital Expenditure Reserves. For Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs and Hanover, an amount equal to the capital expenditure reserves which were set aside as of March 1, 1998 for various identified capital improvements in 1998 (which amounts resulted in reductions in the Appraised Value as described above) was added back to the Appraised Value.
- . Mortgage and Other Debt. The estimated principal balance and accrued interest (including participating interest that would accrue as a result of the Mergers) as of the Effective Date (assumed to be December 31, 1998) of all mortgage and other debt of each Partnership has been subtracted from the Appraised Value.
- . Mark to Market Adjustments. The third-party loans of the Partnerships have various interest rates and terms to maturity. In order to reflect the market value of the third-party loans of each Partnership, the estimated Adjusted Appraised Value for each Partnership has been adjusted (increased or decreased) to "mark to market" the interest rate for such loans. This adjustment has been estimated by comparing the interest cost using the applicable interest rates on existing third-party loans over their remaining term to the interest cost using the interest rate that the Operating Partnership believes it would be able to obtain for unsecured debt in the market as of the Final Valuation Date (which would have been 8.0% per annum based on a 350 basis point (3.50%) spread over the yield on seven-year U.S. Treasury securities as of September 29, 1998). The mark to market adjustment for each loan was calculated by determining the difference between the present values, as of December 31, 1998, of the interest payments over the remaining term of the loan from January 1, 1999 to maturity using the actual interest rate as the discount rate as compared to using the assumed market rate as the discount rate. In the case of the mezzanine loan on Desert Springs, the adjustment reflects the prepayment penalty that would be payable because it is less than the mark to market adjustment.
- . Deferred Management Fees. The amount of deferred management fees (management fees earned by the manager pursuant to the Management Agreement and not paid currently) estimated to be payable under the Management Agreement(s) of each Partnership as of December 31, 1998 have been subtracted from the Appraised Value. The amount of such deferred management fees will be recalculated as of the Final Valuation Date.
- . Deferred Maintenance Costs. The estimated cost to complete any deferred maintenance items identified in the Engineering Study relating to the applicable Hotel or Hotels of each Partnership have been subtracted from the Appraised Value. The adjustments for this item will be reduced at the Final Valuation Date to reflect amounts expended after the Initial Valuation Date to perform such deferred maintenance. No adjustments have been made for previously budgeted capital expenditures or deferred maintenance costs estimated in the Engineering Study that are reflected in the cash flow projections used for purposes of estimating Appraised Values.
- . Transfer and Recordation Taxes and Fees. The estimated transfer and recordation taxes and fees required to be paid by each Partnership in connection with the Mergers have been subtracted from the Appraised Value.

The following table sets forth the adjustments to the aggregate Appraised Values made to derive the estimated Adjusted Appraised Value for each Partnership as of the Initial Valuation Date.

CONTINUATION VALUE. AAA estimated the Continuation Value of each Partnership using the following methodology:

- . Estimated Future Cash Distributions. AAA prepared estimates of future partnership cash flow for the Partnership for the 12-year period from January 1, 1998 through December 31, 2009 based upon the estimated 1998 NOI before incentive management fees used in the Appraisals and for each subsequent year applying an assumed annual stabilized growth rate (ranging from 3.40% to 4.50%, depending upon the Partnership, as shown in the table below) developed by AAA for this analysis. For each year in the projection period, AAA estimated the amount of cash available for distribution to limited partners after payment of all management fees, debt service, owner funded capital expenditures based on the Engineering Study and other partnership expenses and after application of the applicable partnership agreement provisions. AAA assumed that each Partnership's FF&E reserves were adequate and understood that Host determined that there were no reserve shortfalls or surpluses.
- . Refinancing Assumptions. For debt that matures during the 12-year period, AAA assumed that the debt would be refinanced with interest rates ranging from 7.25% to 8.60% per annum and a 20 to 30-year amortization schedule, with estimated refinancing costs of 2% of the refinanced amount being paid from operating cash flow (or added to the principal balance of the loan, if cash flow was estimated to be insufficient).

- Determination of Residual Value. To estimate the residual value of the limited partners' interest in the Partnership at the end of the 12-year period, AAA assumed that the Hotel(s) would be sold as of December 31, 2009 at their then market value. AAA estimated the market value of each Hotel as of such date by applying an exit capitalization rate that it deemed appropriate, using the factors described above in connection with the "Appraised Value," which are set forth in the table below, to the estimated Adjusted NOI for 2009 (estimated as described above). AAA then subtracted estimated sales costs of 2% of the estimated market value, added lender reserves, and subtracted the estimated outstanding principal balance of debt as of December 31, 2009 and deferred management fees to arrive at net sales proceeds available for distribution to partners. AAA then determined what portion of such estimated net sales proceeds would be distributable to the Partnership's limited partners under the various partnership and debt agreements.
- Discounting Distributions to Present Value. As a final step, AAA discounted the estimated future cash distributions to the limited partners from operations and estimated net sales proceeds (plus lender reserves) to their present value as of January 1, 1998, using a discount rate of 20% per annum. AAA believes that this discount rate reflects the return on investment that investors expect from leveraged investments of this nature.

While the 12-year period used by AAA is somewhat arbitrary and other firms may have used a different time period, the 12-year period was selected by AAA because it corresponded to the time period used in the Engineering Study to estimate owner funded capital expenditures. AAA and the General Partners believe that such 12-year period is within the accepted range of time periods used in valuations similar to the Continuation Value.

The growth rates and exit capitalization rates used to determine the estimated Continuation Value for each Partnership are as set forth below.

LIQUIDATION VALUE. The Liquidation Value of each Partnership was estimated by the General Partners and represents the estimated value of the Partnership if all of its assets were sold as of December 31, 1998. Such value was based upon the Adjusted Appraised Value of each Partnership, with the following adjustments: (i) the "mark to market" adjustment used to estimate the Adjusted Appraised Value was eliminated and instead prepayment or defeasance costs that would be payable under existing debt agreements (regardless of whether the debt in fact can be prepaid on December 31, 1998) were deducted from the Appraised Value; (ii) the deduction for transfer and recordation taxes and fees used to estimate the Adjusted Appraised Value was eliminated and instead an amount equal to 2.5% of the Appraised Value of each Partnership's Hotel(s) was subtracted from the Appraised Value for estimated liquidation costs, expenses and contingencies; and (iii) the amount of participating interest payable on the Desert Springs subordinated loan held by Host was deducted from the Appraised Value to reflect the net proceeds available to partners of that Partnership. The General Partner then determined the portion of the estimated Liquidation Value that would be distributable to limited partners under the terms of the applicable partnership agreements and other contractual arrangements.

The following table sets forth the adjustments made to Adjusted Appraised Value to estimate the Liquidation Value for each Partnership as of the Initial Valuation Date.

  - (7) Includes limited partner interests held by a General Partner, except as noted.
  - (8) Includes estimated limited partner share of Host subsidiaries (except for Chicago Suites and Desert Springs in which no Host subsidiary owns any limited partner interest).
  - (9) Includes 1% owned by a Limited Partner who is not a holder of any of the 335 outstanding Partnership Units.

ESTIMATED EXCHANGE VALUES. The following table sets forth the estimated Exchange Value of each Partnership (based upon the greatest of its estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value), the estimated minimum number of OP Units to be received (based upon the maximum price of $15.50 per OP Unit) and the estimated Note Election Amount for each Partnership, all on a per Partnership Unit basis as of the Initial Valuation Date. The number of Common Shares received in exchange for OP Units will equal the number of OP Units exchanged. The estimated Note Election Amount for each Partnership (which will be received by Limited Partners electing to receive Notes in exchange for OP Units) is equal to the Liquidation Value (or, if greater, 80% of the Exchange Value) for that Partnership. The estimated values set forth below may increase or decrease as a result of various adjustments, which will be finally calculated as of the Final Valuation Date but will not change as a result of less than all of the Partnerships participating in the Mergers. The actual number of OP Units to be received by the Limited Partners will be based on the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the 20 trading days after the Effective Date (but will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit) and will not be finally determined until such time.

- (1) A Partnership Unit in all of the Partnerships except for Chicago Suites ($35,000) and PHLP ($10,000) represents an original investment of $100,000.
- (2) The estimated Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of estimated Adjusted Appraised Value, estimated Continuation Value and estimated Liquidation Value.
- (3) Assumes the price of an OP Unit is $15.50, which is the maximum price used for purposes of the Mergers and thus results in the minimum number of OP Units that may be issued.
- (4) The principal amount of Notes is equal to the greater of (i) the Liquidation Value or (ii) 80% of the Exchange Value (the "Note Election Amount").
- (5) The estimated Adjusted Appraised Value and the estimated Liquidation Value for PHLP are zero because PHLP's outstanding debt is greater than the Appraised Value of the Hotels and the value of other assets, net of liabilities, owned by PHLP.

PRICE OF OP UNITS TO PAY EXCHANGE VALUES TO LIMITED PARTNERS

Each Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership will receive in exchange for his Partnership Interests a number of OP Units with an aggregate deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interests. The price of an OP Unit for this purpose will be equal to the average closing price on the NYSE of a Host REIT Common Share for the 20 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers (but, subject to adjustment, will not be less than $9.50 or greater than $15.50 per OP Unit). Thus, if the 20-day average trading price is less than $9.50, the price per OP Unit in the Mergers would be $9.50; and if such average trading price is greater than $15.50, the price per OP Unit in the Mergers would be $15.50. The maximum and minimum prices per OP Unit will be reduced if the Blackstone Acquisition is not consummated and, as a result thereof, the Initial E&P Distribution exceeds $2.50 per Host or Host REIT common share. The OP Units will be issued to the Limited Partners promptly after the twentieth trading day following the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998).

Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who retain OP Units will receive cash distributions from their respective Partnerships for all of 1998 and, if the Mergers do not occur in 1998, any portion of 1999 prior to the Mergers for which period they do not receive a cash distribution from the Operating Partnership. Cash distributions will be made by each Partnership in accordance with its partnership agreement on or before June 1, 1999 in respect of 1998 operations and, if the Mergers do not occur prior to January 1, 1999, within 90 days after the Effective Date of the Mergers in respect of any 1999 operations. The General Partners of Chicago Suites, Hanover, MDAH and PHLP do not expect that these Partnerships will make any distributions in respect of 1998 operations. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive Common Shares in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Common Share Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units and will receive distributions from Host REIT with respect to periods after their Common Shares are issued, which distributions are expected to equal the amount distributed with respect to the OP Units for such periods (although Host REIT's distributions to shareholders would be lower than the Operating Partnership's distributions to holders of OP Units (by the amount of Host REIT's 1999 corporate income tax payments) if the REIT Conversion does not occur in 1998 and Host REIT is unable to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999). Neither the Operating Partnership nor Host REIT anticipates making distributions after the Effective Date of the Mergers and prior to the issuance of Common Shares to those Limited Partners who elect to exchange their OP Units for Common Shares. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive Notes in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Note Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units but will not receive any distributions from the Operating Partnership with respect to periods after the Notes are issued.

No fractional OP Units will be issued. Fractional amounts less than 0.50 of an OP Unit will be rounded down to the next whole number and fractional amounts greater than or equal to 0.50 will be rounded up to the next whole number of OP Units.

DETERMINATION OF VALUE OF THE GENERAL PARTNERS' INTERESTS IN THE PARTNERSHIPS AND ALLOCATION OF OP UNITS TO THE GENERAL PARTNERS

The value of each General Partner's interest will be determined in the same manner as the Exchange Value of the Limited Partners' Partnership Interests by the same methodologies set forth above and giving effect to the applicable distribution provisions in each partnership agreement. The number of OP Units that will be received by each General Partner will be equal to the value of its interest in the Partnership divided by the same price per OP Unit used to determine the number of OP Units to be received by the Limited Partners.

The following table sets forth the estimated value of the interest of each General Partner and other Host subsidiaries in each Partnership based upon the estimated aggregate Exchange Value of the Limited Partners' Partnership Interests as of the Initial Valuation Date and the estimated minimum number of OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other Host subsidiaries in respect thereof.

FAIRNESS ANALYSIS

The General Partners believe that the Mergers provide substantial benefits and are fair to the Limited Partners of each Partnership and recommend that all Limited Partners consent to the Mergers and the related amendments to the partnership agreements. The General Partners base this recommendation primarily on (i) their view that the expected benefits of the Mergers for the Limited Partners outweigh the risks and potential detriments of the Mergers to the Limited Partners (see "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers" and "Risk Factors"), (ii) their view that the value of the OP Units allocable to the Limited Partners on the basis of the Exchange Value established for each Partnership represents fair consideration for the Partnership Interests held by the Limited Partners in each Partnership and is fair to the Limited Partners from a financial point of view and (iii) the Appraisals and Fairness Opinion of AAA. See "--Fairness Opinion."

No Merger is conditioned upon the consummation of any other Merger. The General Partners have considered this fact in evaluating the fairness of the Mergers. The General Partners believe that the fairness of the Mergers will not be materially affected by the presence or absence of any individual Partnership or by any particular combination of Partnerships and that the Mergers will be fair to the Limited Partners, individually and as a whole, if they are consummated with any combination of Participating Partnerships. The General Partners base this belief primarily on the fact that the consideration to be paid to the Limited Partners in each individual Partnership has been established based upon such Partnership's Exchange Value, without regard to any possible combination of Partnerships.

In reaching the conclusions implicit in the above recommendation, the General Partners have taken into account the following considerations, placing the greatest weight on the first two considerations:

- . The General Partners have concluded that the Exchange Value for each Partnership represents fair consideration for the Partnership Interests of the Limited Partners in the Mergers in relation to such Partnership because the Exchange Value is equal to the greatest of the Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value, each of which is an acceptable method for determining the fair market value of a Partnership's assets. The General Partners also have concluded that the Exchange Value established for the Limited Partners in each Partnership fairly reflects the value of the assets held by such Partnership.
- . Individual Limited Partners who retain OP Units will be able to defer recognition of gain until such time as they choose to realize such gain based on their own personal circumstances.
- . The General Partners have concluded that the potential benefits of the Mergers to the Limited Partners, as described under "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers," outweigh the potential risks and detriments of the Mergers for the Limited Partners, as described in "Risk Factors."
- . The General Partners considered the maximum and minimum deemed values of OP Units established for purposes of the Mergers. The General Partners noted that the maximum deemed value of the OP Units, which has the effect of establishing a minimum number of OP Units that Limited Partners will receive in any Merger, supports the fairness of the Mergers. With regard to the minimum deemed value of the OP Units, which has the effect of establishing a maximum number of OP Units that Limited Partners will receive in any Merger, the General Partners concluded that such a provision is customary when there is a maximum exchange price and that the levels established for the minimum and maximum deemed values of the OP Units represent a reasonable allocation of the risk of fluctuation in the trading price of Host REIT Common Shares immediately following the Mergers. The minimum value was set at a level that is less than the recent average trading price of Host common stock (after deducting an amount equal to the estimated per share Initial E&P Distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion) and the maximum is higher than such adjusted trading price. The Merger Agreements limit the value of the distributions that Host and Host REIT can make to their shareholders and to the Blackstone Entities (through the Operating Partnership) prior to consummation of the Mergers and provide that, if the Blackstone Acquisition is not consummated and as a result thereof the Initial E&P Distribution exceeds $2.50 per Host or Host REIT common share, then the maximum and minimum prices per OP Unit for purposes of the Mergers will be reduced by an amount equal to such excess distribution per share. Based upon these considerations and others, the General Partners concluded that the maximum and minimum deemed values of the OP Units support the fairness of the Mergers to the Limited Partners.

- . The General Partners considered the method of allocating the OP Units received by each Partnership in the Mergers between its General Partner and its Limited Partners. Because the OP Units are allocated in accordance with the distribution provisions in each Partnership's partnership agreement, the General Partners concluded that this method supports the fairness of the Mergers to the Limited Partners.
- . The General Partners considered the method of allocating the OP Units to be owned by Host REIT and its subsidiaries (including the General Partners) following the REIT Conversion (without taking into account any OP Units that may be acquired in connection with the Common Share Election). The number of OP Units to be owned by Host REIT and its subsidiaries will be equal to the number of shares of Host common stock outstanding at the time. Because the formation of the Operating Partnership is functionally equivalent to the formation of a wholly owned subsidiary and reflects the one-for-one economic equivalence between shares of Host common stock and OP Units, the General Partners concluded that this method supports the fairness of the Mergers to the Limited Partners.
- . The Fairness Opinion, in the view of the General Partners, supports the fairness of the Mergers, even though it includes qualifications, limitations and assumptions relating to its scope and other factors that Limited Partners should consider carefully and does not conclude that the Exchange Value is the best price that could be obtained. The availability of the Fairness Opinion is particularly significant in light of the absence of arm's length negotiations in establishing the terms of the Mergers.
- . The General Partners believe that the economic terms of the leases of the Hotels are fair and reasonable from the standpoint of the Operating Partnership.
- . Host REIT will benefit from the operations of the Operating Partnership only to the extent of the distributions received based upon its percentage interest in the Operating Partnership to the same extent as the other limited partners. The General Partners believe that this is a factor supporting the fairness of the Mergers to the Limited Partners.
- . The General Partners believe that the value of the consideration to be received by the Limited Partners of each Partnership in the Mergers is fair in relation to the value which would be derived by such Limited Partners under any of the alternatives described under "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Alternatives to the Mergers," especially since the Exchange Value of each Partnership is equal to the greatest of the Adjusted Appraised Value, the Continuation Value and the Liquidation Value and the historic prices paid for Partnership Units (except for Desert Springs). The General Partners do not believe that the sale of any Hotel(s) and liquidation of the associated Partnership would obtain for Limited Partners of such Partnership as much value as the value to be received by such Limited Partners following the Mergers. In addition, while the Continuation Values of three of the Partnerships (Atlanta Marquis, MHP and PHLP) are higher than the Adjusted Appraised Values of such Partnerships, the General Partners believe that the Mergers provide substantial benefits to such Limited Partners, including those benefits described under "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers," especially with respect to liquidity and regular quarterly cash distributions. The General Partners believe that the following benefits are of the greatest value and importance to the Limited Partners of all of the Partnerships:
  - . Liquidity. The Mergers and the REIT Conversion will offer Limited Partners liquidity with respect to their investments in the Partnerships because Limited Partners can elect to receive freely tradeable Host REIT Common Shares in connection with the Mergers. In addition, Limited Partners who elect to retain OP Units, at any time commencing one year following the Effective Date, will be able to exercise their Unit Redemption Right, subject to certain limited exceptions.

Host has approximately 204 million shares of common stock outstanding and is expected to have a total common equity market capitalization of approximately $3.4 billion after giving effect to the Initial E&P Distribution (based upon a price per Host REIT Common Share of $12.50). The election to exchange OP Units for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers or the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, however, generally would result in recognition of taxable income or gain.

- . Regular Quarterly Cash Distributions. The General Partners expect that the Operating Partnership will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of OP Units and that Host REIT will make regular quarterly cash distributions to holders of Common Shares. Host expects that these distributions will be higher than the estimated cash distributions from operations during 1998 of all Partnerships except MHP and MHP2, and, in any event, the ability to receive distributions quarterly and in regular amounts would be enhanced. The ability to receive regular quarterly cash distributions on a pro rata basis also will mitigate the absence of any preferential distribution rights of the Limited Partners under the partnership agreements of Chicago Suites, Hanover and MHP2 and will further benefit the Limited Partners of Atlanta Marquis due to the absence of the General Partner's preferential distribution rights.
- . Risk Diversification. Upon consummation of the REIT Conversion, each Limited Partner's investment will be converted from an investment in an individual Partnership owning from one to eight hotels into an investment in an enterprise that is expected initially to own or control approximately 125 Hotels and will have a total market capitalization of approximately $3.4 billion, thereby reducing the dependence upon the performance of, and the exposure to the risks associated with, any particular Hotel or group of Hotels currently owned by an individual Partnership and spreading such risk over a broader and more varied portfolio, including more diverse geographic locations and multiple brands.
- . Reduction in Leverage and Interest Costs. It is expected that the Operating Partnership will have a leverage to value ratio (approximately 62%) that is lower than the leverage to value ratios for five of the Partnerships (Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, Hanover and PHLP) and that is not significantly different than the leverage ratios for MDAH, MHP and MHP2.
- . Substantial Tax Deferral. The General Partners expect that Limited Partners of the Participating Partnerships who do not elect to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers generally should be able to obtain the benefits of the Mergers while continuing to defer recognition for federal income tax purposes of at least a substantial portion, if not all, of the gain with respect to their Partnership Interests that otherwise would be recognized in the event of a liquidation of the Partnership or a sale or other disposition of its assets in a taxable transaction (although Limited Partners in Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP and PHLP may recognize a relatively modest amount of ordinary income as the result of required sales of personal property by each such Partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in order to facilitate Host REIT's qualification as a REIT). The General Partners considered the possibility that the REIT Conversion might not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, in which event Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT could be delayed until January 1, 2000 (and the Blackstone Acquisition might not be consummated). The General Partners believe that the overall benefits of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion for the Limited Partners justify proceeding with the Mergers as promptly as practicable, even if Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT might not be effective until January 1, 2000. The General Partners took into account the complexity of the REIT Conversion, the number of transactions that must occur to complete the REIT Conversion and the benefits to the Limited Partners of positioning Host REIT to qualify as a REIT as soon as practicable. The General Partners also recognized that a delay in the election of REIT status until January 1, 2000 would not reduce the anticipated Operating Partnership cash distributions per OP Unit (but the Host REIT cash distributions per Common Share would be reduced by the amount of corporate income taxes that Host REIT would have to pay for 1999).

The General Partners believe that the factors described above, which support the fairness of the Mergers to the Limited Partners of the Partnerships, when weighed against the factors that may be disadvantageous, taken as a whole, indicate that the Mergers are fair to the Limited Partners of all of the Partnerships.

FAIRNESS OPINION

AAA, an independent financial advisory firm with substantial real estate and partnership transaction experience, was engaged by the General Partners to perform the Appraisals and to render the Fairness Opinion that (i) the Exchange Value and the methodologies and underlying assumptions used to determine the Exchange Value, the Adjusted Appraised Value, the Continuation Value and the Liquidation Value of each Partnership (including, without limitation, the assumptions used to determine the various adjustments to the Appraised Values of the Hotels) are fair and reasonable, from a financial point of view, to the Limited Partners of each Partnership and (ii) the methodologies used to determine the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity interest in the Operating Partnership to be received by the Limited Partners of each Partnership are fair and reasonable to the Limited Partners of each Partnership. The Fairness Opinion is addressed to each Partnership and it may be relied upon by each of the Limited Partners of the Partnerships. The full text of the Fairness Opinion, which contains a description of the assumptions and qualifications applicable to the review and analysis by AAA, is set forth in Appendix B to this Consent Solicitation and should be read in its entirety. The material assumptions and qualifications to the Fairness Opinion are summarized below, although this summary does not purport to be a complete description of the various inquiries and analyses undertaken by AAA in rendering the Fairness Opinion. Arriving at a fairness opinion is a complex analytical process not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or amenable to summary description. For a more complete description of the assumptions and qualifications that limit the scope of the Fairness Opinion, see "--Qualifications to Fairness Opinion" and "--Assumptions" below.

The Fairness Opinion is not limited to any particular combination of Partnerships participating in the Mergers because there is no combination of Partnerships required in order to complete the Mergers. No Merger is conditioned upon the consummation of any other Merger. The Fairness Opinion addresses the fairness of the Exchange Value for each Partnership to the Limited Partners of each Partnership, which Exchange Value has been established for each Partnership without regard to any possible combination of Partnerships. In light of the foregoing, the Fairness Opinion will not be revised to reflect the actual Partnerships which participate in the Mergers.

Although the General Partners advised AAA that certain assumptions were appropriate in their view, the General Partners imposed no conditions or limitations on the scope of the investigation by AAA or the methods and procedures to be followed by AAA in rendering the Fairness Opinion. The fees and expenses of AAA will be treated as a Merger Expense and will be paid by the Operating Partnership. In addition, the General Partners have agreed to indemnify AAA against certain liabilities. See "--Compensation and Material Relationships."

QUALIFICATIONS TO FAIRNESS OPINION. In the Fairness Opinion, AAA specifically states that it did not: (i) specifically consider other methodologies for allocation of the OP Units, (ii) address or conclude that other methodologies for allocation of the OP Units to the Partnerships might not have been more favorable to the Limited Partners in certain of the Partnerships, (iii) negotiate with the General Partners or Host, (iv) participate in establishing the terms of the Mergers, (v) provide an opinion as to the terms and conditions of the Mergers other than those explicitly stated in the Fairness Opinion, (vi) make any independent review of the capital expenditure estimates set forth in the Engineering Study or (vii) make any estimates of the Partnerships' contingent liabilities.

In connection with preparing the Fairness Opinion, AAA was not engaged to, and consequently did not, prepare any written report or compendium of its analysis for internal or external use beyond the analysis set forth in Appendix B. AAA will not deliver any additional written opinion of the analysis, other than to update the written opinion if requested by the Operating Partnership.

EXPERIENCE OF AAA. AAA is the world's largest independent valuation consulting firm and is regularly and continually engaged in the valuation of commercial real estate and businesses and their securities in connection with tender offers, mergers and acquisitions, recapitalizations and reorganizations, divestitures, employee stock ownership plans, leveraged buyout plans, private placements, limited partnerships, estate and corporate matters, other financial advisory matters and other valuation purposes.

AAA was selected because of its experience in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with tender offers, mergers and acquisitions, recapitalizations and reorganizations, including transactions involving hotel partnerships, and the price for its services. The General Partners did not solicit proposals from any other appraisal or investment banking firms for the Appraisals or the Fairness Opinion. Host and its affiliates have previously engaged AAA to provide appraisals and fairness opinions in connection with other transactions.

SUMMARY OF MATERIALS CONSIDERED AND INVESTIGATION UNDERTAKEN. As a basis for rendering the Fairness Opinion, AAA has made such reviews, studies and analyses as it deemed necessary and pertinent in order to provide it with a reasonable basis for the Fairness Opinion, including, but not limited to, the following: (i) reviewed the transaction documents and SEC reporting and/or filing documents, including drafts of the Form S-4 for the Mergers; (ii) provided the Market Value of each Hotel owned by each Partnership in a separate short form appraisal report and each such report was reviewed and certified by an MAI appraiser as to its preparation in accordance with the requirements of the Standards of Professional Practice of the Appraisal Institute and the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice of the Appraisal Foundation; as part of the Appraisals, AAA reviewed historical operating statements, 1998 budget and year-to-date results, and other financial information as it deemed necessary as a basis for the Fairness Opinion and the Appraisals also considered market transactions of similar lodging properties as appropriate as a basis for the Market Value of each Hotel; (iii) reviewed the methodologies used by each of the General Partners in their determination of the Exchange Value of each Partnership, including the nature and amount of all adjustments to the Appraised Values in determining such Exchange Values; AAA reviewed and tested for the fairness and reasonableness of all adjustments as well as for consideration of all adjustments deemed to be appropriate by AAA; (iv) reviewed the methodologies used by each of the General Partners in their determination of the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity interest in the Operating Partnership to be received by the partners of each Partnership, and AAA reviewed and tested for the fairness and reasonableness of the methods and measurements made by the General Partners; (v) reviewed the General Partners' determination of the Liquidation Value of each Partnership, and AAA reviewed and tested for the fairness and reasonableness of all adjustments proposed by the General Partners, as well as for consideration of all adjustments deemed appropriate by AAA; (vi) provided an estimate of the Continuation Value of each Partnership based upon the estimated present value of expected benefits to be received by each limited partner interest as though the Mergers did not occur and each Partnership's assets were sold within a twelve year period; AAA, as part of its analysis and review, determined appropriate rates of growth in house profit or net operating income, as well as reviewed other key variables affecting partnership cash flows and other economic/financial factors affecting the Partnerships' expected operations and results; (vii) reviewed the terms of the ground leases of the Hotels and the partnership agreement of each Partnership; (viii) reviewed audited and unaudited historical income statements, balance sheets and statements of sources and uses of funds of each Partnership and Host and pro forma financial information for Host REIT; (ix) reviewed audited and unaudited historical operating statements of each Hotel, as well as current operating statements and budgets; (x) conducted real estate valuation and financial due diligence with respect to the Partnerships and their underlying assets, liabilities and equity; (xi) reviewed internal Marriott International, Host and Partnership financial analyses and other internally generated data for each Hotel; and (xii) discussed all of the foregoing information, where appropriate, with management of Marriott International, Host and the Partnerships and their respective employees.

ASSUMPTIONS. In rendering its opinion, AAA relied, without independent verification, on the accuracy and completeness in all material respects of certain relevant publicly available information and information provided to AAA by the Host and the Hotels. AAA assumed that all information furnished by Host, the Hotels and the Partnerships and their representatives, upon which AAA relied, presented an accurate description in all material respects of the current and prospective status of the Hotels and the Partnerships from an operational and financial point of view. AAA also noted that the Fairness Opinion was based upon financial, economic, market and other considerations as they existed as of March 1, 1998. AAA did not conduct any subsequent due diligence or valuation procedures, except that AAA reviewed year-to-date net house-profit results through September 11, 1998 as reflected on Marriott International's Format 90 reports for each Partnership and, based upon such review and upon current financial, economic and market conditions and indicated trends therein, AAA concluded that nothing came to AAA's attention that would cause it to be unable to render the Fairness Opinion as of such date.

CONCLUSIONS. AAA concluded that, based upon and subject to its analysis and assumptions and limiting conditions, and as of October 8, 1998, the date of the Fairness Opinion: (i) the Exchange Value and the methodologies and underlying assumptions used to determine the Exchange Value, the Adjusted Appraised Value, the Continuation Value and the Liquidation Value of each Partnership (including, without limitation, the assumptions used to determine the various adjustments to the Appraised Values of the Hotels) are fair and reasonable, from a financial point of view, to the Limited Partners of each Partnership and (ii) the methodologies used to determine the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity interest in the Operating Partnership to be received by the limited partners of each Partnership are fair and reasonable to the Limited Partners of each Partnership. In connection with rendering the Fairness Opinion, AAA considered the possibility that the REIT Conversion would not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. In concluding that such failure would not affect the conclusions in the Fairness Opinion, AAA noted that (i) Host REIT would be structured and would operate as if it were a REIT for the period following the REIT Conversion and until such time as it could elect REIT status and (ii) the methodologies used to determine the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity interest in the Operating Partnership would not be affected by the inability of Host REIT to elect REIT status as of January 1, 1999 because the market price of the Host REIT Common Shares during the 20-trading day period after the Mergers should reflect, among other things, the inability of Host REIT to elect REIT status.

SUMMARY OF METHODOLOGY. AAA evaluated each Partnership's Hotel(s) based upon the income capitalization approach and broadly applied the sales comparison approach. Appraisers typically use up to three approaches in valuing real property: the cost approach, the income capitalization approach and the sales comparison approach. The type and age of a property, market conditions and the quantity and quality of data affect the applicability of each approach in a specific appraisal situation. Since the Hotels are viable, existing, ongoing enterprises with an established market presence, work force and management team, the cost approach was not considered by AAA in the Appraisals. The income capitalization approach estimates a Hotel's capacity to produce income through an analysis of the market, operating expenses and net income. Net income may then be processed into a value through either (or a combination of) two methods: direct capitalization or discounted cash flow analysis. The sales comparison approach looks at similar properties which have recently sold or are currently offered for sale in the market and are analyzed and compared with the Hotel being valued. For further description of the methodology employed by AAA in the Appraisals, see "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

COMPENSATION AND MATERIAL RELATIONSHIPS. AAA has been paid a fee of $335,000 for its services as described herein, including the Appraisals and preparing to deliver the Fairness Opinion. In addition, AAA will be reimbursed for all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses, including legal fees, and will be indemnified against certain liabilities, including certain liabilities under the securities laws. The fee was negotiated between Host, the General Partners and AAA. Payment of the fee to AAA is not dependent upon completion of the Mergers. AAA has been previously engaged by Host and its affiliates to provide appraisals, fairness opinions and solvency opinions in connection with other transactions.

GENERAL

Limited Partners of each Partnership are being asked to approve the acquisition of their Partnership by the Operating Partnership through the merger of their Partnership with a Merger Partnership as part of the REIT Conversion. In each Merger, the Participating Partnership will survive, and each Limited Partner thereof will receive OP Units with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of his Partnership Interests (or, if the Limited Partner elects to tender such OP Units to Host REIT, an equal number of Common Shares or, if the Limited Partner elects to tender such OP Units to the Operating Partnership, a Note in a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interests). If the REIT Conversion, including the Mergers and the Blackstone Acquisition, is consummated as contemplated, the Operating Partnership is expected to acquire and initially own, or have controlling interests in, approximately 125 full-service Hotels located throughout the United States and Canada, containing approximately 58,500 rooms and operating primarily under the Marriott, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Swissotel and Hyatt brand names.

THE REIT CONVERSION

The transactions summarized below collectively constitute the REIT Conversion. If the required corporate (Board and shareholder) and partnership approvals for the various transactions are obtained and other conditions to the different steps in the REIT Conversion are satisfied or waived, these transactions are expected to occur at various times prior to the end of 1998 (or as soon thereafter as practicable). The Mergers of the Participating Partnerships are expected to occur at the final stage of the REIT Conversion. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners are seeking the approval of the Mergers and the related partnership agreement amendments at this time, in advance of satisfaction of all other contingencies, in order to determine how the Partnerships will fit into the UPREIT structure following the REIT Conversion, which Host desires to implement during 1998 in order to permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for its 1999 taxable year. Consummation of the Mergers is not conditioned on the REIT Conversion being completed in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay substantial corporate-level income taxes in 1999 (which would reduce Host REIT's cash distributions per Common Share but not the Operating Partnership's cash distributions per OP Unit) and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated. In view of the complexity of the REIT Conversion and the number of transactions that must occur to complete the REIT Conversion, Host and the General Partners believe that it is beneficial both to the Limited Partners and the shareholders of Host to complete the REIT Conversion as soon as practicable, even if the REIT Conversion cannot be completed prior to January 1, 1999. If Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT is not effective on January 1, 1999, Host REIT intends to operate following the REIT Conversion in a manner that would permit it to qualify as a REIT at the earliest time practicable, and it might pursue a merger with another entity or other transaction that would permit it to commence a new taxable year and elect REIT status prior to January 1, 2000. Host REIT in any event would elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes not later than its taxable year commencing January 1, 2000. It is a condition to the Mergers that they be completed by June 30, 1999, unless the General Partners and the Operating Partnership mutually agree to extend that deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

- Contribution of Host's Lodging Assets to the Operating Partnership. As a preliminary step, at various times during 1998, Host will contribute its wholly owned full-service hotel assets, its interests in the Hotel Partnerships (other than its interests in the General Partners, who will remain in existence as subsidiaries of Host REIT and will receive OP Units in the Mergers) and its other assets (excluding its senior living assets and cash or other consideration to be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution and certain other de minimis assets that cannot be contributed to the Operating Partnership) to the Operating Partnership in exchange for (i) a number of OP Units equal to the number of outstanding shares of common stock of Host at the time of the REIT Conversion (reduced by the number of OP Units to be received by the General Partners and other subsidiaries of Host in the Mergers), (ii) preferred partnership interests in the Operating Partnership corresponding to any shares of Host preferred stock outstanding at the time of the REIT Conversion and (iii) the assumption by the Operating Partnership of all liabilities of Host (including past and future contingent liabilities and liabilities for the Plans in accordance with the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement), other than liabilities of Crestline. Following these contributions, the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries will directly or indirectly own all of Host's wholly owned hotels, substantially all of Host's interests in the Hotel Partnerships and all of Host's other assets (excluding its senior living assets and the cash or other consideration to be distributed in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution and certain other de minimis assets that cannot be contributed to the Operating Partnership).

- . Debt Refinancing. In August 1998, Host refinanced $1.55 billion of outstanding public bonds through offers to purchase such debt securities for cash and a concurrent solicitation of consents to amend the terms of the debt securities to facilitate the transactions constituting the REIT Conversion. Host obtained the funds for this Bond Refinancing primarily from the issuance of new debt securities and the New Credit Facility. See "Business and Properties--Indebtedness."
- . Treatment of Convertible Preferred Securities. In the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership will assume primary liability for repayment of the $567 million of convertible subordinated debentures of Host underlying the $550 million of Convertible Preferred Securities. As the successor to Host, Host REIT also will be liable on the debentures and the debentures will become convertible into Common Shares, but the Operating Partnership will have primary responsibility for payment of the debentures, including all costs of conversion. Upon conversion by a Convertible Preferred Securities holder, the Operating Partnership will acquire Common Shares from Host REIT in exchange for an equal number of OP Units and distribute the Common Shares to the Convertible Preferred Securities holder. As a result of the distribution of Crestline common stock and any cash and other consideration to Host or Host REIT shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, the conversion ratio of the Convertible Preferred Securities will be adjusted to take into account certain effects of the REIT Conversion. See "Business and Properties--Indebtedness."
- . The Mergers. On the Effective Date, each Participating Partnership will merge with a Merger Partnership. The Participating Partnerships will be the surviving entities of the Mergers and will continue in existence as indirect subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership. In the Mergers, each Limited Partner will receive a number of OP Units with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of his respective Partnership Interests. If a Limited Partner elects to receive Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers, such Limited Partner will, upon receipt of his OP Units, tender (or be deemed to tender) all of such OP Units to Host REIT for an equal number of Common Shares or to the Operating Partnership in exchange for a Note with a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interests. The General Partners and other subsidiaries of Host will also receive OP Units in exchange for their interests in the Partnerships and the General Partners will continue as wholly owned direct or indirect subsidiaries of Host REIT. Any Partnership that does not participate in a Merger will continue as a separate partnership with its own assets and liabilities and with its current Limited Partners. There will be no change in its investment objectives, policies or restrictions or the fees or distributions payable to the applicable General Partner or Manager. Each Partnership that does not participate in a Merger will remain subject to the terms of its current partnership agreement. The Operating Partnership would contribute some or all of the interests in certain of these Partnerships (such as Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2) that it receives from Host and its subsidiaries to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary.
- . Restructuring of the Private Partnerships. The Operating Partnership will acquire the partnership interests from unaffiliated partners of four Private Partnerships in exchange for OP Units and, accordingly, will own all of the interests in those Private Partnerships. For the remaining Private Partnerships, (i) the Operating Partnership will be a partner in the partnership if the unaffiliated partners consent to a lease of the partnership's Hotel(s) to a Lessee or (ii) if the requisite consents to enter into a lease are not obtained, the Operating Partnership may transfer its interest in such partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary. The determination of the action to be taken with respect to the Operating Partnership's interest in these Private Partnerships will be based primarily upon the character of the income therefrom under the REIT tax rules.

The partners in the following Private Partnerships will receive the estimated number of OP Units set forth below in connection with the REIT Conversion (assuming a price of $15.50 per OP Unit):

PARTNERSHIP -----	NEGOTIATED VALUE OF OP UNITS		NUMBER OF OP UNITS -----
HMC BN Limited Partnership.....	$20,600,000		1,329,032
Ivy Street Hotel Limited Partnership.....	4,050,000		261,290
Times Square Marquis Hotel, L.P. ....	7,499,000		483,806
HMC/RGI Hartford Limited Partnership.....	10,500,000		677,419

The Blackstone Acquisition. Subject to various terms and conditions, the Operating Partnership expects to acquire from the Blackstone Entities ownership of, or controlling interests in, twelve hotels and two mortgage loans, one secured by one of the acquired hotels and one secured by an additional hotel. In addition, Host REIT will acquire a 25% interest in the Swissotel management company from the Blackstone Entities, which Host REIT will transfer to Crestline. If the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, the Operating Partnership expects to issue approximately 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit), assume debt and make cash payments totaling approximately $862 million and distribute up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock and other consideration to the Blackstone Entities. Fifty percent of the OP Units issued in the Blackstone Acquisition will become redeemable on July 1, 1999, an additional 25% will become redeemable on October 1, 1999 and the balance will become redeemable on January 1, 2000. Holders of OP Units issuable in the Blackstone Acquisition will have registration rights under a shelf registration statement with respect to Host REIT Common Shares received in connection with the exercise of their redemption rights.

In connection with the Blackstone Acquisition, Host agreed to cause a person designated by Blackstone Real Estate Acquisitions L.L.C. ("Blackstone") to be appointed to serve as a director of Host (or a director of Host REIT following the REIT Conversion) and to continue to include a person designated by Blackstone in the slate of directors nominated by the board of directors for so long as Blackstone and its affiliates own at least 5% of the outstanding OP Units. Mr. Schreiber has been appointed to be the initial Blackstone designee. If the Blackstone Acquisition does not close, the Blackstone designee will resign. Host also agreed that, if more than two directors of Crestline also are directors of Host REIT, Blackstone will be entitled to designate a director of Crestline. The Operating Partnership does not expect that there will be any common directors of Crestline and Host REIT.

Host also agreed to certain limitations on sales of the properties acquired in the Blackstone Acquisition lasting for five years after the REIT Conversion for 50% of the properties and for an additional five years for the remaining properties.

Each Blackstone Entity has agreed that, until the earlier of the fifth anniversary of the closing of the Blackstone Acquisition and the date on which the Blackstone Entities do not own, in the aggregate, more than 5% of the outstanding OP Units and Common Shares, such Blackstone Entity will not, and will use its best efforts to cause its affiliates to not, directly or indirectly (i) subject to certain exceptions, acquire or agree to acquire beneficial ownership of any securities or partnership interests of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or Crestline, if after giving effect thereto, such Blackstone Entity and its affiliates (together with the other members of any group (as defined in Section 13d-1 of the Exchange Act) of which any of them is a part) would (A) directly or indirectly own more than 9.8% of any class of voting securities of such entity or more than 19.9% of the aggregate value of all outstanding voting securities of Host REIT and OP Units or (B) violate the ownership limitations or transfer restrictions set forth in the Charter, the Partnership Agreement of the Operating Partnership or the Articles of Incorporation of Crestline, (ii) sell, transfer, pledge or otherwise dispose of any OP Units or any voting securities of Host REIT or Crestline in violation of such ownership limitations or transfer restrictions, (iii) participate in any proxy contest in opposition to the position taken by the directors or general partner, as applicable, of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or Crestline, (iv) seek to cause a disposition (by way of merger, business combination, sale or otherwise) of a material portion of the assets or securities or partnership interests, or a change in the composition of the directors or management, of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or Crestline or (v) initiate or propose to the holders of securities or partnership interests, as applicable, of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or Crestline, or otherwise solicit their approval of, any proposal to be voted by such holders.

- . Contribution of Assets to Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. The Operating Partnership will organize the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries to hold various assets (not exceeding, in the aggregate, 20% by value of the assets of the Operating Partnership) contributed by Host and its subsidiaries to the Operating Partnership. The direct ownership of most of these assets by the Operating Partnership could jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT. These assets primarily will consist of partnership or other interests in hotels which are not leased, certain furniture, fixtures and equipment used in the Hotels and certain international hotels in which Host owns interests. In exchange for the contribution of these assets to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Operating Partnership will receive nonvoting common stock representing 95% of the total economic interests of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. In addition, the Operating Partnership and, prior to the Mergers, Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP (assuming they participate in the Mergers) will sell to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary an estimated $200 million in value of personal property associated with certain Hotels for notes or cash that has been contributed or loaned to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary by the Operating Partnership, or a combination thereof. The Operating Partnership could not lease this personal property to the Lessees without potentially jeopardizing Host REIT's qualification as a REIT. The Non-Controlled Subsidiary will lease such personal property to the applicable Lessees. The Host Employee Trust, a Delaware statutory business trust, and possibly certain other investors will acquire all of the voting common stock representing the remaining 5% of the total economic interests, and 100% of the control, of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary. The income beneficiaries of the Host Employee Trust will be employees of Host REIT eligible to participate in the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan (excluding directors of Host REIT and certain other highly compensated employees). Upon termination of the Host Employee Trust, the residual assets, if any, are to be distributed to a charitable organization designated in its declaration of trust.
- . Leases of Hotels. The Operating Partnership, its subsidiaries and its controlled partnerships, including the Participating Partnerships, will lease virtually all of their Hotels to the Lessees pursuant to the Leases. See "Business and Properties--The Leases." The leased Hotels will be operated by the Lessees under their existing brand names pursuant to their existing long-term Management Agreements, which will be assigned to the Lessees for the terms of the applicable Leases, but under which the Operating Partnership will remain obligated. See "Business and Properties--The Management Agreements."
- . Host REIT Merger and Initial E&P Distribution. Host will merge into Host REIT upon obtaining shareholder approval of the merger. Pursuant to the merger agreement, Host shareholders will receive, for each share of Host common stock, one Host REIT Common Share.

In connection with the REIT Conversion, Host or Host REIT will make the Initial E&P Distribution. The aggregate value of the Crestline common stock and the cash or other consideration to be distributed to Host or Host REIT shareholders and the Blackstone Entities as the Initial E&P Distribution is currently estimated to be approximately $525 million to $625 million (approximately $2.10 to $2.50 per share to the Host or Host REIT shareholders). The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of accumulated earnings and profits of Host as of the last day of its taxable year in which the Host merger into Host REIT is consummated. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions. Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers will not receive the Crestline common stock or any other portion of the Initial E&P Distribution, which will have been distributed before they become shareholders of Host REIT (approximately 25 trading days after the Effective Date of the Mergers). In addition, under the terms of the Blackstone Acquisition, the Blackstone Entities are entitled to receive a pro rata portion of the same consideration received by Host REIT's shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution except to the extent the Blackstone Entities elected to receive additional OP Units in lieu thereof. The payment to the Blackstone Entities of Crestline common stock and other consideration is expected to be approximately $90 million to $110 million if the REIT Conversion and the Blackstone Acquisition are consummated.

Following the distribution, Crestline's principal assets will include the senior living assets of Host, which are expected to consist of 31 senior living communities, a 25% interest in the Swissotel management company acquired from the Blackstone Entities and the Lessees. Certain REITs have spun-off public operating companies to conduct certain activities which REITs are prohibited from conducting and have described such structure as a "paper-clip" structure. There is no established definition of a "paper-clip" structure. While the Operating Partnership and Crestline clearly expect to have a mutually beneficial, long-term relationship, they do not believe that their relationship should be characterized as a "paper-clip" structure because they will operate as separate public companies with independent business plans, there will be no overlap between officers and directors of the two companies (other than one officer of Host who will be a director but not an officer of Crestline), there are no rights of first refusal or other similar arrangements (other than the noncompetition arrangements) with respect to future acquisitions between Host REIT and Crestline and they expect the shareholders of the two companies to diverge over time. Crestline also will be engaged in the businesses of owning senior living communities and asset management of hotels, neither of which will be conducted by Host REIT. Crestline further intends to pursue leasing opportunities for both full-service and limited-service hotels with majority owners other than Host REIT.

Following the REIT Conversion, assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the organizational structure of Host REIT is expected to be as follows:

- (1) Represents Limited Partners and others who retain OP Units and do not elect to receive Common Shares or Notes; excludes Host and its subsidiaries. Percentage ownership in the Operating Partnership assumes all Limited Partners elect to retain OP Units.
- (2) Also will include Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in exchange for the OP Units received in the Mergers. Immediately following the merger of Host into Host REIT and the distribution by Host or Host REIT of Crestline common stock to its shareholders and the Blackstone Entities, the shareholders of Crestline will consist of the shareholders of Host REIT (other than Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares in connection with the Mergers) and the Blackstone Entities. The common ownership of the two public companies, however, will diverge over time.
- (3) Percentage ownership in the Operating Partnership assumes no Limited Partners elect to receive either Common Shares or Notes in connection with the Mergers and that the price per Common Share is $15.50, which is the maximum price per OP Unit for purposes of the Mergers.
- (4) The Operating Partnership will own all or substantially all of the equity interests in the Participating Partnerships, certain Private Partnerships and other Host subsidiaries that own Hotels, both directly and through other direct or indirect, wholly owned subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT. Host will contribute its partial equity interests in the Non-Participating Partnerships and those Private Partnerships whose partners have not elected to exchange their interests for OP Units to the Operating Partnership, and the Operating Partnership will either hold such partial interests or contribute them to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.

Ownership Interests in the Operating Partnership Following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. Following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership is expected to be owned as set forth below:

OWNERSHIP OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP

ENTITY -----	PERCENTAGE INTEREST (1) -----
Host REIT.....	75.8%
Limited Partners of the Partnerships.....	6.9
Private Partnerships.....	1.1
	-----

(1) Assumes that all Partnerships participate in the Mergers, that the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, that all Limited Partners elect to retain OP Units, and that the price of an OP Unit is $15.50, which is the maximum price for purposes of the Mergers. The percentage interest of Host REIT will increase, and the percentage interest of Limited Partners will decrease, if Limited Partners elect to receive Common Shares or Notes in exchange for their OP Units in connection with the Mergers.

THE MERGERS

Issuance of OP Units. If Limited Partners holding the requisite percentage of outstanding Partnership Interests in a Partnership vote to approve a Merger and certain related amendments to the partnership agreements, then such Participating Partnership will merge with a Merger Partnership, with the Participating Partnership being the surviving entity. Each Limited Partner of the Participating Partnership will receive OP Units with a deemed value equal to the Exchange Value of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interests. Limited Partners who retain OP Units will be issued such OP Units promptly following the twentieth trading day following the Effective Date. The General Partners and other Host subsidiaries that own limited partner interests in the Partnerships also will receive OP Units in exchange for their general and limited partner interests in the Partnerships, respectively. The price attributed to an OP Unit, the Exchange Value of each Partnership and the allocation of OP Units will be established in the manner described in detail under "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

Unit Redemption Right. Beginning one year after the Mergers, Limited Partners who retain OP Units will have the right to redeem their OP Units at any time, upon ten business days' notice to the Operating Partnership, and receive, at the election of Host REIT, either Common Shares of Host REIT on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment) or cash in an amount equal to the market value of such shares. Limited Partners must redeem at least 1,000 OP Units (or all remaining OP Units owned by the holder of OP Units if less than 1,000 OP Units) each time the Unit Redemption Right is exercised. See "Description of OP Units--Unit Redemption Right."

Right to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares. At any time during the Election Period, Limited Partners can elect (or revoke any such election previously made) to tender all of the OP Units they will receive in a Merger (if their Partnership approves the Merger) to Host REIT in exchange for an equal number of Common Shares. The Common Shares, which will be issued promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers, will be freely tradeable and listed on the NYSE. A Limited Partner who makes the Common Share Election will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur at the time his right to receive the Common Shares becomes fixed (which would be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). See "Description of Capital Stock--Common Shares" and "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

Right to Exchange OP Units for Notes. At any time during the Election Period, Limited Partners can elect (or revoke any such election previously made) to tender all of the OP Units they will receive in a Merger (if their Partnership approves the Merger) to the Operating Partnership in exchange for a Note. The principal amount of the Note received by a Limited Partner will be equal to the Note Election Amount of his Partnership Interest, which will be less than the value of the OP Units that such Limited Partner otherwise would have received (because the Note Election Amount will be less than the Exchange Value for each Partnership). The Notes will be issued promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers. Holders of Notes will receive interest payments on a semi-annual basis on June 15 and December 15 of each year at the rate of 6.56% per annum from and after the Effective Date of the Mergers. A Limited Partner who makes the Note Election will be treated as having made a taxable disposition of his OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to occur on December 30, 1998). See "Description of the Notes" and "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election."

No fractional OP Units will be issued by the Operating Partnership in the Mergers. In lieu thereof, fractional amounts less than 0.50 of an OP Unit will be rounded down to the next whole number of OP Units and fractional amounts greater than or equal to 0.50 will be rounded up to the next whole number of OP Units.

For a description of the OP Units, including restrictions on transfer and the Unit Redemption Right, see "Description of OP Units."

1998 Partnership Distributions. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who retain OP Units will receive cash distributions from their respective Partnerships for all of 1998 and, if the Mergers do not occur in 1998, any portion of 1999 prior to the Mergers for which they do not receive a cash distribution from the Operating Partnership. Cash distributions will be made by each Partnership in accordance with its partnership agreement on or before June 1, 1999 in respect of 1998 operations and, if the Mergers do not occur prior to January 1, 1999, within 90 days after the Effective Date of the Mergers in respect of any 1999 operations. The General Partners of Chicago Suites, Hanover, MDAH and PHLP do not expect that these Partnerships will make any distributions in respect of 1998 operations. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive Common Shares in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Common Share Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units and will receive distributions from Host REIT with respect to periods after their Common Shares are issued, which distributions are expected to equal the amount distributed with respect to the OP Units for such periods (although Host REIT's distributions to shareholders would be lower than the Operating Partnership's distributions to holders of OP Units (by the amount of Host REIT's 1999 corporate income tax payments) if the REIT Conversion does not occur in 1998 and Host REIT is unable to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999). Neither the Operating Partnership nor Host REIT anticipates making distributions after the Effective Date of the Mergers and prior to the issuance of Common Shares to those Limited Partners who elect to exchange their OP Units for Common Shares. Limited Partners at the Effective Date of the Mergers who receive a Note in exchange for OP Units pursuant to the Note Election will participate in the same distributions from the Partnerships as Limited Partners who retain OP Units but will not receive any distributions from the Operating Partnership with respect to periods after the Notes are issued.

Ownership Interest of Host in the Partnerships. The table below sets forth the current ownership interests of Host in the Partnerships. Following the REIT Conversion, assuming all of the Partnerships participate in the Mergers, the Partnerships will be owned by the Operating Partnership.

PARTNERSHIP	LIMITED PARTNER INTERESTS	GENERAL PARTNER INTERESTS
- - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -
Atlanta Marquis.....	Class A 0.28%	1.00%
	Class B 100.00
Chicago Suites.....	0.00	1.00
Desert Springs.....	0.00	1.00
Hanover.....	47.62	5.00
MDAH.....	0.60	1.00
MHP.....	48.33	1.00
MHP2.....	52.75	1.00
PHLP.....	0.06	1.00

Amendments to the Partnership Agreements. In order to consummate each Merger as currently proposed, there are a number of amendments required to be made to the partnership agreements of the Partnerships. Limited Partners must vote separately on the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement, but the Merger will not be consummated unless both the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement are approved. The effectiveness of such amendments will be conditioned upon the Partnership's participation in a Merger. The required amendments generally include (i) permitting the Partnership to enter into the Leases with the Lessees; (ii) reducing to one the number of appraisals of the fair market value of a Partnership's Hotel(s) that the Partnership must obtain before the General Partner can cause a Partnership to sell its assets to the General Partner or an affiliate; and (iii) other amendments required to allow the transactions constituting the Mergers or otherwise necessary or desirable to consummate the Mergers or the REIT Conversion.

No Partner Liability. Each Partnership will make certain representations and warranties to the Operating Partnership regarding itself and its Hotels in connection with its Merger. The merger agreements in which such representations and warranties are contained will provide that the Operating Partnership will have no recourse against any of the partners in the Participating Partnerships in the event the Operating Partnership suffers a loss as a result of any inaccuracies in such representations and warranties.

Closing Adjustments. The General Partners currently expect that the Adjusted Appraised Value of each Partnership will be greater than either the Continuation Value or Liquidation Value of each Partnership (except for Atlanta Marquis, MHP and PHLP, where the Continuation Value is expected to be the greatest of the three values), which means that the Exchange Values of such Partnerships (other than Atlanta Marquis, MHP and PHLP) will be equal to their Adjusted Appraised Values. The Adjusted Appraised Values of the Partnerships may increase or decrease as a result of adjustments made prior to the Effective Date to reflect (i) the amount of lender and capital expenditure reserves and the amount of deferred management fees, (ii) any amounts actually expended by a Partnership after the Initial Valuation Date to perform deferred maintenance previously used in determining the estimated Exchange Value of such Partnership and (iii) any changes in the Partnership's other reserves, such as for litigation expenses and indemnification costs and for any revised estimates of transfer and recordation taxes and fees. See "Determination of Exchange Values and Allocation of OP Units."

Effective Time of the Mergers. The Effective Time will be after the merger of Host into Host REIT becomes effective and the shares of Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration are distributed to Host or Host REIT's shareholders in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, which is expected to occur during the final stage of the REIT Conversion. The Effective Time currently is expected to occur on or about December 30, 1998, subject to satisfaction or waiver of the conditions to the Mergers. There is no assurance that the Effective Time will occur before January 1, 1999, and if the Effective Time occurs on or after January 1, 1999, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election of REIT status could be delayed until January 1, 2000, which would result in Host REIT continuing to pay significant corporate-level income taxes in 1999 and could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated.

CONDITIONS TO CONSUMMATION OF THE MERGERS

Participation by each Partnership in a Merger is subject to the satisfaction or waiver of certain conditions, including, among others:

- . Limited Partner Approvals. Limited Partners holding the requisite percentage of Partnership Interests in such Partnership shall have approved the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement (as described above).
- . Host Shareholder Approval. Shareholders owning 66 2/3% of the outstanding shares of Host's common stock shall have approved the merger of Host into Host REIT and such merger shall have been consummated.
- . REIT Qualification. Host's Board of Directors shall have determined, based upon the advice of counsel, that Host REIT can elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes effective no later than the first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed (which might not be until the year commencing January 1, 2000 if the REIT Conversion is not completed until after December 31, 1998), and Host REIT shall have received an opinion of counsel substantially to such effect.

- . NYSE Listing. The Common Shares shall have been listed on the NYSE.
- . Third-Party Consents. All required governmental and other third-party consents to the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, including consents of lenders, Marriott International and certain of its subsidiaries and ground lessors and consents to transfer material operating licenses and permits and the Management Agreements, shall have been received, except for such consents as would not reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the business, financial condition or results of operations of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and their subsidiaries taken as a whole.
- . No Adverse Tax Legislation. The United States Congress shall not have enacted legislation, or proposed legislation with a reasonable possibility of being enacted, that would have the effect of (i) substantially impairing the ability of Host REIT to qualify as a REIT or the Operating Partnership to qualify as a partnership, (ii) substantially increasing the federal tax liabilities of Host REIT resulting from the REIT Conversion or (iii) substantially reducing the expected benefits to Host REIT resulting from the REIT Conversion. The determination that this condition has been satisfied will be made by Host, in its discretion.
- . Completion of Mergers by June 30, 1999. The Mergers must have been completed by June 30, 1999, unless the Operating Partnership and the General Partners have mutually agreed to extend the deadline to a date no later than December 31, 1999.

The obligation of the Operating Partnership to consummate a Merger is subject to satisfaction or waiver of the same or similar conditions.

EXTENSION, AMENDMENT AND TERMINATION OF THE MERGERS

The Operating Partnership, Host REIT and the General Partners reserve the right, subject to limitations under applicable law, to (i) amend the terms of any Merger or the REIT Conversion by giving written notice of such amendment to the Limited Partners, (ii) extend the Solicitation Period or delay consummation of any Merger, (iii) terminate the solicitation of consents pursuant to this Consent Solicitation as to any or all of the Partnerships and (iv) terminate the REIT Conversion or any Merger whether or not all of the conditions thereto have been satisfied or waived. If the terms of any Merger or the REIT Conversion are amended in a manner determined by the Operating Partnership, Host REIT and the General Partners to constitute a material adverse change with respect to any Limited Partner, they will promptly disclose such amendment in a manner reasonably calculated to inform the applicable Limited Partners of such amendment and will extend the Solicitation Period for an appropriate time period if the Solicitation Period would otherwise expire during such extension period.

If an event occurs or any matter is brought to the attention of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT that, in its judgment, materially adversely affects one or more of the Partnerships, any Merger or the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT reserve the right (but does not have the obligation) to terminate the solicitation of consents with respect to the Merger of any Partnership, decide not to consummate the REIT Conversion, modify the terms of the REIT Conversion or any Merger or take such other actions as may be in their best interests.

EFFECT OF REIT CONVERSION ON NON-PARTICIPATING PARTNERSHIPS

Each Non-Participating Partnership will continue to operate as a separate legal entity with its own assets and liabilities and with its current Limited Partners. There will be no change in its investment objectives, policies or restrictions or the fees or distributions payable to the applicable General Partner or Manager. Each Non-Participating Partnership will remain subject to the terms of its current partnership agreement. Host may contribute some or all of its ownership interest in a Non-Participating Partnership to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary.

EXPENSES

The Operating Partnership, Host REIT and the Partnerships will incur substantial costs and expenses in connection with structuring and consummating the Mergers, including legal fees, accounting fees and other costs and expenses associated with these transactions.

The Merger Expenses, whether or not the Mergers are approved by the Partnerships, will be borne as follows: If some or all of the Mergers are consummated, the Merger Expenses of the Participating Partnerships would be borne by the Operating Partnership. Transfer and recordation taxes and fees will be taken into account in determining the Exchange Value for the applicable Partnership whose Exchange Value is based upon Adjusted Appraised Value. Those Partnerships which have an Exchange Value equal to their respective estimated Continuation Values, Atlanta Marquis, MHP and PHLP, will have their transfer and recordation taxes and fees paid by the Operating Partnership. If a Merger is rejected, then the General Partner of such Partnership would pay such Partnership's share of the Merger Expenses. The REIT Conversion Expenses, other than the Merger Expenses, will be borne by Host and the Operating Partnership.

Assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the expenses of the Mergers are estimated to be as follows:

MERGER EXPENSES

Information and Tabulation Agents.....	$ 200,000
Printing, postage and brochures.....	2,500,000
Travel, public relations, graphics, etc.....	200,000

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT

The contribution by Host of its assets (other than its senior living assets and cash or other consideration to be distributed to its shareholders and certain other assets) to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units and the subsequent contributions by the Operating Partnership of certain of such assets to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries will be accounted for at Host's historical (carryover) basis. The acquisition of the Hotel Partnerships in exchange for OP Units and the Blackstone Acquisition will be accounted for as purchases.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES

BUSINESS OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP

Host REIT and the Operating Partnership have been formed primarily to continue, in an UPREIT structure, the full-service hotel ownership business currently conducted by Host. The primary business objectives of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will be to (i) achieve long-term sustainable growth in Funds From Operations and cash flow per OP Unit or Common Share, (ii) increase asset values by improving and expanding the initial Hotels, as appropriate, (iii) acquire additional existing and newly developed upscale and luxury full-service hotels in targeted markets (primarily focusing on downtown hotels in core business districts in major metropolitan markets and select airport and resort /convention locations), (iv) develop and construct upscale and luxury full-service hotels and (v) potentially pursue other real estate investments. Host REIT will operate as a self-managed and self-administered REIT and its operations will be conducted solely through the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries. Following the REIT Conversion, the Hotels are expected to consist of approximately 125 hotels, representing approximately 58,500 rooms, located throughout the United States and Canada.

The Hotels will be generally operated under the Marriott, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Swissotel and Hyatt brand names and managed by subsidiaries of Marriott International and other companies. These brand names are among the most respected and widely recognized brand names in the lodging industry. Subsequent to the REIT Conversion, the Hotels will be leased by the Operating Partnership to the Lessees and will be managed on behalf of the Lessees by subsidiaries of Marriott International and other companies (the "Managers").

Host REIT will be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership and will manage all aspects of the business of the Operating Partnership. This will include decisions with respect to (i) sales and purchases of hotels, (ii) the financing of the hotels, (iii) the leasing of the hotels and (iv) capital expenditures for the hotels (subject to the terms of the leases and the Management Agreements). Host REIT will be managed by its Board of Directors and will have no employees who are not also employees of the Operating Partnership.

Under current federal income tax law, REITs are not permitted to derive revenues directly from the operations of hotels. Therefore, the Operating Partnership will lease the Hotels, through its subsidiaries, to the Lessees under the Leases. See "--The Leases" below. The Lessees will pay rent to the Operating Partnership generally equal to a specified Minimum Rent plus, to the extent it would exceed Minimum Rent, Percentage Rent. The Lessees will operate the Hotels pursuant to the Management Agreements with the Managers. Each of the Management Agreements provides for certain base and incentive management fees, plus reimbursement of certain costs, as further described below. See "--The Management Agreements." Such fees and cost reimbursements will be the obligation of the Lessees and not the Operating Partnership (although the obligation to pay such fees could adversely affect the ability of the Lessees to pay the required rent to the Operating Partnership).

The Leases, through the Percentage Rent provisions, are designed to allow the Operating Partnership to participate in any growth in room sales at the Hotels above specified levels, which management expects can be achieved through increases in room rates and occupancies. Although the economic trends affecting the hotel industry will be the major factor in generating growth in lease revenues, the abilities of the Lessees and the Managers will also have a material impact on future sales growth.

In addition to external growth generated by new acquisitions, the Operating Partnership intends to carefully and periodically review its portfolio to identify opportunities to selectively enhance existing assets to improve operating performance through major capital improvements. The Operating Partnership's Leases will provide the Operating Partnership with the right to approve and finance major capital improvements.

GENERAL

The Company's primary focus is on the acquisition of upscale and luxury full-service hotel lodging properties. Since the beginning of 1994 through the date hereof, the Company has acquired 79 full-service hotels representing more than 36,000 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $3.9 billion. Based upon data provided by Smith Travel Research, the Company believes that its full-service hotels outperform the industry's average occupancy rate by a significant margin and averaged 78.4% occupancy for 1997 compared to a 71.1% average occupancy for competing hotels in the upscale and luxury full-service segment of the lodging industry, the segment which is most representative of the Company's full-service hotels.

The upscale and luxury full-service segments of the lodging industry are benefiting from a favorable supply and demand relationship in the United States, especially in the principal sub-markets in which the Company operates, considering hotels of similar size and quality. Management believes that demand increases have primarily resulted from a strong domestic economic environment and a corresponding increase in business travel. In spite of increased demand for rooms, the room supply growth rate in the full-service segment has not similarly increased. Management believes that this slower increase in the supply growth rate in the full-service segment is attributable to many factors, including (i) the limited availability of attractive building sites for full-service hotels, (ii) the lack of available financing for new full-service hotel construction and (iii) the availability of existing full-service properties for sale at a discount to their replacement cost. The relatively high occupancy rates of the Company's hotels, along with increased demand for full-service hotel rooms, have allowed the Managers of the Company's hotels to increase average daily room rates by selectively raising room rates and by replacing certain discounted group business with higher-rate group and transient business. As a result, on a comparable basis, room revenue per available room ("REVPAR") for the Company's full-service properties increased approximately 12.6% in 1997. The Company expects this supply/demand imbalance in the upscale and luxury full-service segments to continue, which should result in improved REVPAR at its hotel properties in the near term; however, there can be no assurance that such supply/demand imbalance will continue or that REVPAR will continue to improve.

BUSINESS OBJECTIVES

The Operating Partnership's primary business objective is to increase its "Funds from Operations" (defined as net income (or loss) computed in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), excluding gains (or losses) from debt restructuring and sales of properties, plus real estate related depreciation and amortization, and after adjustments for unconsolidated partnerships and joint ventures) per OP Unit and cash flow and enhance its value by:

- . Acquiring additional existing upscale and luxury full-service hotels, including Marriott and Ritz-Carlton hotels and other hotels operated by leading management companies such as Four Seasons, Hyatt and Swissotel, which satisfy the Operating Partnership's investment criteria, including entering into joint ventures when the Operating Partnership believes its return on investment will be maximized by doing so.
- . Developing new upscale and luxury full-service hotels, including Marriott and Ritz-Carlton hotels and other hotels operated by leading management companies such as Four Seasons, Hyatt and Swissotel, which satisfy the Operating Partnership's investment criteria, employing transaction structures which mitigate risk to the Operating Partnership.
- . Participating in the growth in sales for each of the hotels through leases which provide for the payment of rent based upon the lessees' gross hotel sales in excess of specified thresholds.
- . Enhancing existing hotel operations by completing selective capital improvements which are designed to increase gross hotel sales.

BUSINESS STRATEGY

The Company's primary business strategy is to continue to focus on maximizing the profitability of its existing full-service hotel portfolio and acquiring and, in limited cases, constructing, additional high quality, full-service hotel properties, including controlling interests in joint ventures, partnerships or other entities holding such hotel properties. Although competition for acquisitions has increased, the Company believes that the upscale and luxury full-service segments of the market offer opportunities to acquire assets at attractive multiples of cash flow and at discounts to replacement value, including underperforming hotels which can be improved by conversion to the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands. The Company believes that the upscale and luxury full-service segments are very promising because:

- . There is a limited supply of new upscale and luxury full-service hotel rooms currently under construction in the sub-markets in which the Company operates. According to Smith Travel Research, from 1988 to 1991, upscale and luxury full-service room supply for the Company's competitive set increased an average of approximately 4% annually which resulted in an oversupply of rooms in the industry. However, this growth slowed to an average of approximately 1% from 1992 through 1997. Furthermore, the lead time from conception to completion of construction of a full-service hotel is generally three to five years or more in the markets in which the Company is principally pursuing acquisitions, which management believes will contribute to the continued low growth of room supply relative to the growth of room demand in the upscale and luxury full-service segments through 2000.
- . Many desirable hotel properties continue to be held by inadvertent owners such as banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions, both domestic and international, which are motivated and willing sellers. In recent years, the Company has acquired a number of properties from inadvertent owners at significant discounts to replacement cost, including luxury hotels operating under the Ritz-Carlton brand. While in the Company's experience to date, these sellers have been primarily U.S. financial organizations, the Company believes that numerous international financial institutions are also inadvertent owners of U.S. lodging properties and have only recently begun to dispose of such properties. The Company expects that there will be increased opportunities to acquire lodging properties from international financial institutions and expects to dedicate significant resources to aggressively pursue these opportunities.
- . The Company believes that there are numerous opportunities to improve the performance of acquired hotels by replacing the existing hotel manager with Marriott International and converting the hotel to the Marriott brand. Based upon data provided by Smith Travel Research, the Company believes that Marriott-flagged properties have consistently outperformed the industry. Demonstrating the strength of the Marriott brand name, the average occupancy rate for the Company's comparable full-service properties was 79.4%, compared to the average occupancy rate of 71.1% for competing upscale and luxury full-service hotels. In addition, the Company's comparable properties generated a 29% REVPAR premium over its competitive set. Accordingly, management anticipates that any additional full-service properties acquired by the Company in the future and converted from other brands to the Marriott brand should achieve higher occupancy rates and average room rates than has previously been the case for those properties as the properties begin to benefit from Marriott's brand name recognition, reservation system and group sales organization. The Company intends to pursue additional full-service hotel acquisitions, some of which may be conversion opportunities. Sixteen of the Company's 79 acquired full-service hotels from the beginning of 1994 through the date hereof were converted to the Marriott brand following their acquisition.
- . The Company intends to increase its pool of potential acquisition candidates by considering acquisitions of select non-Marriott and non-Ritz-Carlton hotels that offer long-term growth potential and are consistent with the overall quality of its current portfolio. The Company will focus on upscale and luxury full-service properties in difficult to duplicate locations with high barriers to entry, such as hotels located in downtown, airport and resort/convention locations, which are operated by quality managers. In April 1998, the Company reached a definitive agreement with the Blackstone Entities to acquire interests in twelve upscale and luxury full-service hotels and a mortgage loan secured by a thirteenth hotel in the U.S. and certain other assets in a transaction valued at the time of the agreement, including the assumption of debt. The Company expects to pay approximately $862 million in cash and assumed debt, issue approximately 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit) and distribute up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock to the Blackstone Entities in exchange for the assets received from the Blackstone Entities. The Blackstone portfolio consists of two Ritz-Carltons, three Four Seasons (including one in which the Operating Partnership's only interest will be a mortgage loan), one Grand Hyatt, three Hyatt Regencies and four Swissotel properties. See "--Blackstone Acquisition."

The Company believes it is well qualified to pursue its acquisition and development strategy. Management has extensive experience in acquiring and financing lodging properties and believes its industry knowledge, relationships and access to market information provide a competitive advantage with respect to identifying, evaluating and acquiring hotel assets.

During 1997, the Company acquired, or purchased controlling interests in, 17 full-service hotels, containing 8,624 rooms, for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $765 million (including the assumption of approximately $418 million of debt). The Company also completed the acquisition of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center, following the acquisition of the mortgage on the hotel for $101 million in late 1996.

The Company holds minority interests and serves as a general partner or limited partner in various partnerships that own, as of the date hereof, an aggregate of 240 hotel properties, 20 of which are full-service properties, managed or franchised by Marriott International. In 1997, the Company acquired, or obtained controlling interests in, five affiliated partnerships, adding 10 hotels to its portfolio. In January, the Company acquired a controlling interest in MHP. MHP owns the 1,503-room Marriott Orlando World Center and a 50.5% interest in the 624-room Marriott Harbor Beach Resort. In April, the Company acquired a controlling interest in the 353-room Hanover Marriott. In the fourth quarter, the Company acquired the Chesapeake Hotel Limited Partnership ("CHLP"). CHLP owns the 430-room Boston Marriott Newton; the 681-room Chicago Marriott O'Hare; the 595-room Denver Marriott Southeast; the 588-room Key Bridge Marriott in Virginia; the 479-room Minnesota Airport Marriott; and the 221-room Saddle Brook Marriott in New Jersey. In December 1997, the Company obtained a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 884-room Marriott's Desert Springs Resort and Spa in California.

In 1998, the Company acquired a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the Atlanta Marriott Marquis, containing 1,671 rooms, for approximately $239 million, including the assumption of approximately $164 million of mortgage debt. The Company also acquired a controlling interest in a partnership that owns three full-service hotels, containing a total of 1,029 rooms, for approximately $50 million and the outstanding interest in the 289-room Park Ridge Marriott in New Jersey for $24 million. More recently, the Company acquired the 281-room Ritz-Carlton, Phoenix for $75 million, the 397-room Ritz-Carlton in Tysons Corner, Virginia for $96 million and the 487-room Torrance Marriott for $52 million. In the third quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 308-room Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn for approximately $65 million, the 336-room Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco for approximately $161 million and the 404-room Memphis Marriott (which was converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition) for approximately $16 million. The Company is continually engaged in discussions with respect to other potential acquisition properties.

In addition to investments in partnerships in which it already held minority interests, the Company has been successful in adding properties to its portfolio through partnership arrangements with either the seller of the property or the incoming managers (typically Marriott International or a Marriott franchisee). During 1997, the Company acquired interests in five such partnerships which owned five full-service hotels, including the 197-room Waterford Hotel in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; the 404-room Norfolk Waterside Marriott in Norfolk, Virginia; the 380-room Hartford/Farmington Marriott near Farmington, Connecticut; the 380-room former Manhattan Beach Radisson Plaza in Manhattan Beach, California; and the 299-room Ontario Airport Marriott in Ontario, California. The Waterford Hotel and the Manhattan Beach Radisson Plaza have been converted to the Marriott brand. As discussed above, in 1998, the Company acquired a controlling interest in a partnership that owns three hotels: the 359-room Albany Marriott in New York; the 350-room San Diego Marriott Mission Valley in California; and the 320-room Minneapolis Marriott Southwest in Minnesota. The Company has the financial flexibility and, due to its existing partnership investment portfolio, the administrative infrastructure in place to accommodate such arrangements. The Company views this ability as a competitive advantage and expects to enter into similar arrangements to acquire additional properties in the future.

The Company believes there is a significant opportunity to acquire additional Ritz-Carlton hotels due to the Company's relationship with Marriott International and due to the number of Ritz-Carlton brand hotels currently owned by inadvertent owners. The Company also intends to purchase upscale and luxury full-service hotels with the intention of converting them to the Ritz-Carlton brand.

The Company currently owns six international properties, with 2,550 rooms, located in Canada and Mexico. The overbuilding and economic stress currently being experienced in some European and Pacific Rim countries may eventually lead to additional international acquisition opportunities. The Company will acquire international properties only when such acquisitions achieve satisfactory returns after adjustments for currency and country risks.

In addition to acquisitions, the Company plans to selectively develop new upscale and luxury full-service hotels in major urban markets and convention/resort locations with strong growth prospects, unique or difficult to duplicate sites, high barriers to entry for other new hotels and limited new supply. The Company intends to target only development projects that show promise of providing financial returns that represent a premium to acquisitions. In 1997, the Company announced that it will develop the 717-room Tampa Convention Center Marriott for $104 million, including a $16 million subsidy provided by the City of Tampa.

The Company may also expand certain existing hotel properties where strong performance and market demand exists. Expansions to existing properties creates a lower risk to the Company as the success of the market is generally known and development time is significantly shorter than new construction. The Company recently committed to add approximately 500 rooms and an additional 15,000 square feet of meeting space to the 1,503-room Marriott Orlando World Center.

HOTEL LODGING INDUSTRY

The upscale and luxury full-service segments of the lodging industry continue to benefit from a favorable cyclical imbalance in the supply/demand relationship in which room demand growth has exceeded supply growth, which has remained fairly limited. The lodging industry posted strong gains in revenues and profits in 1997, as demand growth continued to outpace additions to supply. The Company believes that upscale and luxury full-service hotel room supply growth will remain limited through at least 1998. Accordingly, the Company believes this supply/demand imbalance will result in improving occupancy and room rates which should result in improved REVPAR and operating profit.

Following a period of significant overbuilding in the mid-to-late 1980s, the lodging industry experienced a severe downturn. Since 1991, new hotel construction, excluding casino-related construction, has been modest and largely offset by the number of rooms taken out of service each year. Due to an increase in travel and an improving economy, hotel occupancy has grown steadily over the past several years and room rates have improved. The Company believes that room demand for upscale and luxury full-service properties will continue to grow at approximately the rate of inflation. Increased room demand should result in increased hotel occupancy and room rates. According to Smith Travel Research, upscale and luxury full-service occupancy for the Company and its competitive set grew in 1997 to 72.5%, while room rate growth continued to exceed inflation. While room demand has been rising, new hotel supply growth has been minimal. Smith Travel Research data shows that upscale and luxury full-service room supply increased an average of only 1% annually from 1991 through 1997. According to Coopers & Lybrand, L.L.P., hotel supply in the upscale and luxury full-service segment is expected to grow annually at 1.8% to 1.9% through 1998. The increase in room demand and minimal growth in new hotel supply has also led to increased room rates. The Company believes that these recent trends will continue, with overall occupancy increasing slightly and room rates increasing at more than one and one-half times the rate of inflation in 1998.

As a result of the overbuilding in the mid-to-late 1980s, many full-service hotels have not performed as originally planned. Cash flow has often not covered debt service requirements, causing lenders (e.g., banks, insurance companies and savings and loans) to foreclose and become "inadvertent owners" who are motivated to sell these assets. In the Company's experience to date, these sellers have been primarily U.S. financial organizations. The Company believes that numerous international financial institutions are also inadvertent owners of lodging properties and expects there will be increased opportunities to acquire lodging properties from international financial institutions. While the interest of inadvertent owners to sell has created attractive acquisition opportunities with strong current yields, the lack of supply growth and increasing room night demand should contribute to higher long-term returns on invested capital. Given the relatively long lead time to develop urban, convention and resort hotels, as well as the lack of project financing, management believes the growth in room supply in this segment will be limited, at least until the year 2000.

HOTEL LODGING PROPERTIES

The Company's lodging portfolio consists of 104 upscale and luxury full-service hotels with over 50,000 rooms. The Company's hotel lodging properties represent quality assets in the upscale and luxury full-service lodging segments. All but three of the Company's hotel properties are currently operated under the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brand names.

The following tables set forth certain information with respect to the operations of the Hotels to be owned by the Operating Partnership following the REIT Conversion on a historical and pro forma basis for fiscal year 1997 and for the First Two Quarters 1998.

- (1) Atlanta Marquis has an 80% residual interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel. Revenues represents sales generated by the Hotel.
  - (2) Subsequent to November 25, 1997, revenues reflect gross hotel sales. Prior to that date, revenues reflected hotel rental income.
  - (3) Includes Marriott's Harbor Beach Resort, in which MHP owns a 50.5% interest.
  - (4) Includes the Santa Clara Marriott, in which MHP2 owns a 50% interest and Host owns the remaining 50% interest.
  - (5) Includes the Tampa Westshore Marriott and the Raleigh Crabtree Marriott, which are currently consolidated by Host. A subsidiary of Host provided 100% nonrecourse financing totaling approximately $35 million to PHLP, in which Host owns the sole general partner interest, for the acquisition of these two hotels.
  - (6) Includes the hotels owned by Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2 for both fiscal year 1997 and First Two Quarters 1998 and Atlanta Marquis for First Two Quarters 1998.
  - (7) Includes the hotels owned by all Hotel Partnerships and the Blackstone Hotels, assuming the Full Participation Scenario.

One commonly used indicator of market performance for hotels is room revenue per available room, or REVPAR, which measures daily room revenues generated on a per room basis. This does not include food and beverage or other ancillary revenues generated by the property. REVPAR represents the combination of the average daily room rate charged and the average daily occupancy achieved. The Company has reported annual increases in REVPAR since 1993.

To maintain the overall quality of the Company's lodging properties, each property undergoes refurbishments and capital improvements on a regularly scheduled basis. Typically, refurbishing has been provided at intervals of five years, based on an annual review of the condition of each property. For the First Two Quarters 1998, First Two Quarters 1997, fiscal years 1997, 1996 and 1995, the Company spent $79 million, $60 million, $131 million, $87 million and $56 million, respectively, on capital improvements to existing properties. As a result of these expenditures, the Company will be able to maintain high quality rooms at its properties.

The Company's hotels average nearly 500 rooms. Twelve of the Company's hotels have more than 750 rooms. Hotel facilities typically include meeting and banquet facilities, a variety of restaurants and lounges, swimming pools, gift shops and parking facilities. The Company's hotels primarily serve business and pleasure travelers and group meetings at locations in downtown and suburban areas, near airports and at resort convention locations throughout the United States. The properties are generally well situated in locations where there are significant barriers to entry by competitors including downtown areas of major metropolitan cities at airports and resort/convention locations where there are limited or no development sites. Marriott International serves as the manager for 88 of the 104 hotels owned by the Company and all but three are part of Marriott International's full-service hotel system. The average age of the properties is 15 years, although several of the properties have had substantial, more recent renovations or major additions. In 1997, for example, the Company substantially completed a two-year $30 million capital improvement program at the New York Marriott Marquis which included renovations to all guestrooms, refurbishment of ballrooms, restaurant updates and retail additions. In early 1998, the Company completed a $15 million capital improvement program at the Denver Marriott Tech Center. The program included replacement of guestroom interiors, remodeling of the lobby, ballroom, meeting rooms and corridors, as well as renovations to the exterior of the building.

- (1) Consists of the 78 properties owned by the Company for the entire First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997, respectively, and the 54 properties owned by the Company for the entire 1997 and 1996 fiscal years, respectively, except for the 85-room Sacramento property, which is operated as an independent hotel. These properties, for the respective periods, represent the "comparable properties." Properties held for less than all of the periods discussed above, respectively, are not considered comparable.

The chart below sets forth certain performance information for the Company's hotels:

(1) Excludes the information related to the 85-room Sacramento property, which is operated as an independent hotel.

Revenues in 1997 for nearly all of the Company's hotels were improved or comparable to 1996. This improvement was achieved through steady increases in customer demand, as well as yield management techniques applied by the manager to maximize REVPAR on a property-by-property basis. REVPAR for comparable properties increased 12.6% for fiscal year 1997 as average room rates increased almost 11% and average occupancy increased over one percentage point. Overall, this resulted in outstanding sales growth. Sales expanded at a 9% rate for comparable hotels and house profit margins increased by over two percentage points. REVPAR in 1997 for all of the Company's properties (including both comparable and non-comparable properties) increased 12.9% as average room rates increased over 11% and average occupancy increased over one percentage point. For the First Two Quarters 1998, REVPAR for comparable properties increased 8.2% as average room rates increased 8.5% and average occupancy decreased slightly. Sales for the First Two Quarters 1998 expanded at 9% rate for comparable hotels and the house profit margin increased by one percentage point. REVPAR for the First Two Quarters 1998 for all of the Company's properties increased 5.4% as average room rates increased nearly 7% and average occupancy decreased over one percentage point. The Company believes that its hotels consistently outperform the industry's average REVPAR growth rates. The relatively high occupancy rates of the Company's hotels, along with increased demand for upscale and luxury full-service hotel rooms, allowed the managers of the Company's hotels to increase average room rates by selectively raising room rates and replacing certain discounted group business with higher-rate group and transient business. The Company believes that these favorable REVPAR growth trends should continue due to the limited new construction of full-service properties and the expected improvements from the conversion of seven properties to the Marriott brand in 1996 and 1997.

A number of the Company's full-service hotel acquisitions were converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition--most recently the Coronado Island Marriott Resort and the Manhattan Beach Marriott were converted in the second half of 1997. The conversion of these properties to the Marriott brand is intended to increase occupancy and room rates as a result of Marriott International's nationwide marketing and reservation systems, its Marriott Rewards program, group sales force, as well as customer recognition of the Marriott brand name. The Marriott brand name has consistently delivered occupancy and REVPAR premiums over other brands. Based upon data provided by Smith Travel Research, the Company's comparable properties have an eight percentage point occupancy premium and a 29% REVPAR premium over its competitive set for 1997. The Company actively manages the conversions and, in many cases, has worked closely with the manager to selectively invest in enhancements to the physical product to make the property more attractive to guests or more efficient to operate. The invested capital with respect to these properties is primarily used for the improvement of common areas, as well as upgrading soft and hard goods (i.e., carpets, drapes, paint, furniture and additional amenities). The conversion process typically causes periods of disruption to these properties as selected rooms and common areas are temporarily taken out of service. Historically, the conversion properties have shown improvements as the benefits of Marriott International's marketing and reservation programs, group sales force and customer service initiatives take hold. In addition, these properties have generally been integrated into Marriott International's systems covering purchasing and distribution, insurance, telecommunications and payroll processing.

Following the REIT Conversion, the Lessees and the Managers will continue to focus on cost control in an attempt to ensure that hotel sales increases serve to maximize house and operating profit. While control of fixed costs serves to improve profit margins as hotel sales increase, it also results in more properties reaching financial performance levels that allow the Managers to share in the growth of profits in the form of incentive management fees. The Company believes this is a positive development as it strengthens the alignment of the Company's, the Lessees' and the Managers' interests.

During 1996, the Company completed its divestiture of limited service properties through the sale and leaseback of 16 Courtyard and 18 Residence Inn properties. These properties, along with 37 Courtyard properties sold and leased back during 1995, continue to be reflected in the Company's revenues and are managed by Marriott International under long-term management agreements. Following the REIT Conversion, these properties will be subleased to a subsidiary of Crestline. During 1997, limited service properties represented 2% of the Company's hotel EBITDA, compared to 5% in 1996, and the Company expects this percentage to continue to decrease as the Company continues to acquire primarily full-service properties.

The following table presents full-service hotel information by geographic region for fiscal year 1997:

  - (12) The Company acquired the partnership that owns this property in 1997. The Company previously owned a general partner interest in the partnership.
  - (13) Property is owned by PHLP. A subsidiary of the Company provided 100% nonrecourse financing totaling approximately $35 million to PHLP, in which the Company owns the sole general partner interest, for the acquisition of these two hotels. The Company consolidates these properties in the accompanying financial statements.
  - (14) The Company completed the acquisition of this property in early 1997. The Company previously had purchased the mortgage loan secured by the hotel in late 1996.
  - (15) Property will be transferred to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary in conjunction with the REIT Conversion and no longer consolidated by the Company.

1998 ACQUISITIONS

In January 1998, the Company acquired an additional interest in Atlanta Marquis, which owns an interest in the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel, for approximately $239 million, including the assumption of approximately $164 million of mortgage debt. The Company previously owned a 1.3% general and limited partnership interest. In March 1998, the Company acquired a controlling interest in the partnership that owns three hotels: the 359-room Albany Marriott, the 350-room San Diego Marriott Mission Valley and the 320-room Minneapolis Marriott Southwest for approximately $50 million. In the second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the partnership that owns the 289-room Park Ridge Marriott in Park Ridge, New Jersey for $24 million. The Company previously owned a 1% managing general partner interest and a note receivable interest in such partnership. In addition, the Company acquired the 281-room Ritz-Carlton, Phoenix for $75 million, the 397-room Ritz-Carlton in Tysons Corner, Virginia for $96 million and the 487-room Torrance Marriott near Los Angeles, California for $52 million. In the third quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 308-room Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn for approximately $65 million, the 336-room Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco for approximately $161 million and the 404-room Memphis Crowne Plaza (which was converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition) for approximately $16 million. In April 1998, the Company, through the Operating Partnership, entered into an agreement to acquire certain assets from various affiliates of The Blackstone Group. See "---Blackstone Acquisition."

BLACKSTONE ACQUISITION

In April 1998, the Company reached a definitive agreement with the Blackstone Entities to acquire ownership of, or controlling interests in, twelve hotels and two mortgage loans, one secured by one of the acquired hotels and one secured by an additional hotel. In addition, the Company will acquire a 25% interest in the Swissotel management company from the Blackstone Entities, which the Company will transfer to Crestline in connection with the distribution of Crestline common stock to the Company's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities. If the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, the Operating Partnership expects to issue approximately 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit), assume debt and make cash payments totaling approximately $862 million and distribute up to 18% of the shares of Crestline common stock and other consideration to the Blackstone Entities. The consideration received by the Blackstone Entities was determined through negotiations between the Company and Blackstone because the transaction could be negotiated privately and was not based upon appraisals of the assets. Each OP Unit will be exchangeable for one Common Share (or its cash equivalent, at the Company's election). Upon completion of the Blackstone Acquisition and the REIT Conversion, the Blackstone Entities will own approximately 16% of the outstanding OP Units. John G. Schreiber, co-chairman of the Blackstone Real Estate Partners' investment committee, has joined the Board of Directors of the Company.

The Blackstone portfolio is one of the premier collections of hotel real estate properties. It includes: The Ritz-Carlton, Amelia Island (449 rooms); The Ritz-Carlton, Boston (275 rooms); Hyatt Regency Burlingame at San Francisco Airport (793 rooms); Hyatt Regency Cambridge, Boston (469 rooms); Hyatt Regency Reston, Virginia (514 rooms); Grand Hyatt Atlanta (439 rooms); Four Seasons Philadelphia (365 rooms); Four Seasons Atlanta (246 rooms); The Drake (Swissotel) New York (494 rooms); Swissotel Chicago (630 rooms); Swissotel Boston (498 rooms) and Swissotel Atlanta (348 rooms). Additionally, the transaction includes: the first mortgage loan on the Four Seasons Beverly Hills (285 rooms); two office buildings in Atlanta--the offices at The Grand (97,879 sq. ft.) and the offices at the Swissotel (67,110 sq. ft.); and a 25% interest in the Swissotel U.S. management company (which will be transferred to Crestline).

At the closing of the Blackstone Acquisition, the Blackstone portfolio will be contributed to the Operating Partnership and its hotels will be leased to subsidiaries of Crestline and will continue to be managed on behalf of the Lessees under their existing management agreements. The Operating Partnership's acquisition of the Blackstone portfolio is subject to certain conditions, including the REIT Conversion being consummated by March 31, 1999 and Host REIT qualifying as a REIT for 1999 (which condition may not be satisfied if the REIT Conversion is not completed prior to January 1, 1999).

INVESTMENTS IN AFFILIATED PARTNERSHIPS

The Company and certain of its subsidiaries also manage the Company's partnership investments and conduct the partnership services business. As such, as of the date hereof, the Company and/or its subsidiaries own an investment in, and generally serve as a general partner or managing general partner for, 18 unconsolidated partnerships which collectively own 20 Marriott full-service hotels, 120 Courtyard hotels, 50 Residence Inns and 50 Fairfield Inns. In addition, the Company holds notes receivable (net of reserves) from partnerships totaling approximately $23 million at January 2, 1998. Thirteen of the 20 full-service hotels owned by the unconsolidated partnerships will be acquired by the Operating Partnership in connection with the REIT Conversion.

As the managing general partner of these partnerships, the Company and its subsidiaries are responsible for the day-to-day management of partnership operations, which includes payment of partnership obligations from partnership funds, preparation of financial reports and tax returns and communications with lenders, limited partners and regulatory bodies. The Company or its subsidiaries are usually reimbursed for the cost of providing these services.

Hotel properties owned by the unconsolidated partnerships generally were acquired from the Company or its subsidiaries in connection with limited partnership offerings. These hotel properties are currently operated under management agreements with Marriott International. As the managing general partner of such partnerships, the Company or its subsidiaries oversee and monitor Marriott International's performance pursuant to these agreements.

The Company's interests in these partnerships range from 1% to 50%. Cash distributions provided from these partnerships are tied to the overall performance of the underlying properties and the overall level of debt owed by the partnership. Partnership distributions to the Company were $1 million for the First Two Quarters 1998, $4 million for the First Two Quarters 1997, $5 million in each of 1997 and 1996 and $3 million in 1995. All partnership debt is nonrecourse to the Company and its subsidiaries, except that the Company is contingently liable under various guarantees of debt obligations of certain of these partnerships. Such commitments are limited in the aggregate to $60 million at January 2, 1998. Subsequent to year-end, such maximum commitments were reduced to $20 million in connection with the refinancing and acquisition of a controlling interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis. In most cases, fundings of such guarantees represent loans to the respective partnerships.

MARKETING

As of September 28, 1998, 88 of the Company's 104 hotel properties are managed or franchised by Marriott International as Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brand hotels. Thirteen of the 16 remaining hotels are operated as Marriott brand hotels under franchise agreements with Marriott International. The Company believes that these Marriott-managed and franchised properties will continue to enjoy competitive advantages arising from their participation in the Marriott International hotel system. Marriott International's nationwide marketing programs and reservation systems as well as the advantage of the strong customer preference for Marriott brands should also help these properties to maintain or increase their premium over competitors in both occupancy and room rates. Repeat guest business in the Marriott hotel system is enhanced by the Marriott Rewards program, which expanded the previous Marriott Honored Guest Awards program. Marriott Rewards membership includes more than 7.5 million members.

The Marriott reservation system provides Marriott reservation agents complete descriptions of the rooms available for sale and up-to-date rate information from the properties. The reservation system also features connectivity to airline reservation systems, providing travel agents with access to available rooms inventory for all Marriott and Ritz-Carlton lodging properties. In addition, software at Marriott's centralized reservations centers enables agents to immediately identify the nearest Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brand property with available rooms when a caller's first choice is fully occupied.

COMPETITION

The Company's hotels compete with several other major lodging brands in each segment in which they operate. Competition in the industry is based primarily on the level of service, quality of accommodations, convenience of locations and room rates. Although the competitive position of each of the Company's hotel properties differs from market to market, the Company believes that its properties compare favorably to their competitive set in the markets in which they operate on the basis of these factors. The following table presents key participants in segments of the lodging industry in which the Company competes:

SEGMENT	REPRESENTATIVE PARTICIPANTS
- - - - -	- - - - -
Luxury Full-Service.....	Ritz-Carlton; Four Seasons
Upscale Full-Service....	Crowne Plaza; Doubletree; Hyatt; Hilton; Marriott Hotels, Resorts and Suites; Radisson; Red Lion; Sheraton; Swissotel; Westin; Wyndham

RELATIONSHIP WITH HM SERVICES

On December 29, 1995, the Company distributed to its shareholders through a special dividend (the "Special Dividend") all of the outstanding shares of common stock of Host Marriott Services Corporation ("HM Services"), formerly a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of the Company which, as of the date of the Special Dividend, owned and operated the food, beverage and merchandise concessions at airports, on tollroads and at stadiums and arenas and other tourist attractions. The Special Dividend provided Company shareholders with one share of common stock of HM Services for every five shares of Company common stock held by such shareholders on the record date of December 22, 1995.

For the purpose of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between the Company and HM Services after the Special Dividend, and to provide an orderly transition, the Company and HM Services have entered into various agreements, including agreements to (i) allocate certain responsibilities with respect to employee compensation, benefit and labor matters; (ii) define the respective parties' rights and obligations with respect to deficiencies and refunds of federal, state and other income or franchise taxes relating to the Company's businesses for tax years prior to the Special Dividend and with respect to certain tax attributes of the Company after the Special Dividend; (iii) provide certain administrative and other support services to each other for a transitional period on an as-needed basis; and (iv) to provide for the issuance of HM Services common stock in connection with the exercise of certain outstanding warrants to purchase shares of Company common stock.

RELATIONSHIP WITH MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL; MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL DISTRIBUTION

Prior to October 8, 1993, the Company was named "Marriott Corporation." In addition to conducting its existing hotel ownership business and the business of HM Services (prior to its distribution to shareholders through the Special Dividend), Marriott Corporation engaged in lodging and senior living services management, timeshare resort development and operation, food service and facilities management and other contract services businesses (the "Management Business"). On October 8, 1993, the Company completed the Marriott International Distribution (as defined herein). Marriott International conducts the Management Business as a separate publicly traded company.

The Company and Marriott International have entered into agreements which provide, among other things, for Marriott International to (i) manage or franchise various hotel properties owned or leased by the Company, (ii) advance up to $225 million to the Company under the Marriott International line of credit, which was terminated in 1997, (iii) provide first mortgage financing of $109 million for the Philadelphia Marriott Hotel, which was repaid in December 1996, (iv) provide financing for certain Company acquisitions, (v) guarantee the Company's performance in connection with certain loans or other obligations and (vi) provide certain limited administrative services. The Company views its relationship with Marriott International as providing various advantages, including access to high quality management services, strong brand names and superior marketing and reservation systems.

Marriott International has the right to purchase up to 20% of the voting stock of the Company if certain events involving a change of control (or potential change of control) of the Company occur, subject to certain limitations (including a limitation effective after the REIT Conversion intended to help protect the qualification of Host REIT as a REIT). See "Certain Relationships and Related Transactions--Relationship Between Host and Marriott International."

EMPLOYEES

Currently, the Company and its subsidiaries collectively have approximately 225 corporate employees, and approximately 300 other employees (primarily employed at one of its non-U.S. hotels) which are covered by collective bargaining agreements that are subject to review and renewal on a regular basis. The Company believes that it has good relations with its labor unions and has not experienced any material business interruptions as a result of labor disputes. Following the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership expects to have approximately 175 employees. The balance of the Company's current employees are expected to become employees of Crestline following the REIT Conversion.

ENVIRONMENTAL AND REGULATORY MATTERS

Under various federal, state and local environmental laws, ordinances and regulations, a current or previous owner or operator of real property may be liable for the costs of removal or remediation of hazardous or toxic substances on, under or in such property. Such laws may impose liability whether or not the owner or operator knew of, or was responsible for, the presence of such hazardous or toxic substances. In addition, certain environmental laws and common law principles could be used to impose liability for release of asbestos-containing materials ("ACMs"), and third parties may seek recovery from owners or operators of real properties for personal injury associated with exposure to released ACMs. Environmental laws also may impose restrictions on the manner in which property may be used or business may be operated, and these restrictions may require expenditures. In connection with its current or prior ownership or operation of hotels, the Company may be potentially liable for any such costs or liabilities. Although the Company is currently not aware of any material environmental claims pending or threatened against it, no assurance can be given that a material environmental claim will not be asserted against the Company.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership will assume all liability arising under legal proceedings filed against Host and will indemnify Host REIT as to all such matters. Host and the other defendants believe all of the lawsuits in which Host is a defendant, including the following lawsuits, are without merit and the defendants intend to defend vigorously against such claims. However, no assurance can be given as to the outcome of any of the lawsuits.

Texas Multi-Partnership Lawsuit. On March 16, 1998, limited partners in several limited partnerships sponsored by Host filed a lawsuit, Robert M. Haas, Sr. and Irwin Randolph Joint Tenants, et al. v. Marriott International, Inc., et al., Case No. 98-CI-04092, in the 57th Judicial District Court of Bexar County, Texas, alleging that the defendants conspired to sell hotels to the partnerships for inflated prices and that they charged the partnerships excessive management fees to operate the partnerships' hotels. The plaintiffs further allege that the defendants committed fraud, breached fiduciary duties and violated the provisions of various contracts. The plaintiffs are seeking unspecified damages. Although the partnerships have not been named as defendants, their partnership agreements include provisions which require the partnerships to indemnify the general partners against losses, expenses and fees. The defendants filed answers and defenses to the petition.

Limited Service Transaction. On February 11, 1998, a group of four individuals, all of whom are limited partners in partnerships sponsored by Host, filed a putative class action lawsuit, Ruben, et al. v. Host Marriott Corporation, et al., Civil Action No. 16186, in Delaware State Chancery Court, alleging that the proposed merger of the partnerships (the "Consolidation") into an UPREIT structure constitutes a breach of the fiduciary duties owed to the limited partners of the partnerships by Host and the general partners of the partnerships. In addition, the plaintiffs allege that the Consolidation breaches various agreements relating to the partnerships. The plaintiffs are seeking, among other things, certification of a class, injunctive relief to prohibit the consummation of the Consolidation or, in the alternative, rescission of the merger and damages. Although the partnerships have not been named as defendants, their partnership agreements include provisions which require the partnerships to indemnify the general partners against losses, expenses and fees. The defendants have filed a motion to dismiss.

Atlanta Marquis. Certain limited partners of Atlanta Marriott Marquis Limited Partnership ("AMMLP"), filed a putative class action lawsuit, Hiram and Ruth Sturm v. Marriott Marquis Corporation, et al., Case No. 97-CV-3706, in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia, on December 12, 1997 against AMMLP's general partner, its directors and Host, regarding the merger of AMMLP into a new partnership (the "AMMLP Merger") as part of a refinancing of the partnership's debt. The plaintiffs allege that the defendants misled the limited partners in order to induce them to approve the AMMLP Merger, violated securities regulations and federal roll-up regulations and breached their fiduciary duties to the partners. The plaintiffs sought to enjoin, or in the alternative, rescind, the AMMLP Merger and damages. The partnership agreement includes provisions which require the partnership to indemnify the general partners against losses, expenses and fees. The defendants have filed a motion to dismiss.

Another limited partner of AAMLPP sought similar relief and filed a separate lawsuit, styled Poorvu v. Marriott Marquis Corporation, et al., Civil Action No. 16095-NC, on December 19, 1997, in Delaware State Chancery Court. The defendants have filed an answer to the complaint.

Courtyard II. A group of partners in Courtyard by Marriott II Limited Partnership ("CBM II") filed a lawsuit, Whitey Ford, et al. v. Host Marriott Corporation, et al., Case No. 96-CI-08327, on June 7, 1996, in the 285th Judicial District Court of Bexar County, Texas, against Host, Marriott International and others alleging breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, fraud, negligent misrepresentation, tortious interference, violation of the Texas Free Enterprise and Antitrust Act of 1983 and conspiracy in connection with the formation, operation and management of CBM II and its hotels. The plaintiffs are seeking unspecified damages. On January 29, 1998, two other limited partners filed a petition in intervention seeking to convert the lawsuit into a class action. The defendants have filed an answer, the class has been certified, class counsel has been appointed and discovery is underway. Trial is presently scheduled for May 1999.

MHP2. Two groups of limited partners of Marriott Hotel Properties II Limited Partnership ("MHP2") are each asserting putative class claims in lawsuits filed in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida on May 10, 1996, Leonard Rosenblum, as Trustee of the Sylvia Bernice Rosenblum Trust, et al. v. Marriott MHP Two Corporation, et al., Case No. 96-8377-CIV-HURLEY, and, on December 18, 1997, Mackenzie Patterson Special Fund 2, L.P. et al. v. Marriott MHP Two Corporation, et al., Case No. 97-8989-CIV-HURLEY respectively, against Host and certain of its affiliates alleging that the defendants violated their fiduciary duties and engaged in fraud and coercion in connection with a tender offer for MHP2 units. The District Court dismissed the Mackenzie Patterson case on August 4, 1998 and remanded the Rosenblum case to Palm Beach County Circuit Court on July 25, 1998. The defendants have moved to dismiss Rosenblum's fifth amended complaint in the case now styled Leonard Rosenblum, as Trustee of the Sylvia Bernice Rosenblum Trust, et al. v. Marriott MHP Two Corporation, et al., Case No. CL-96-4087-AD, or, in the alternative, to deny class certification.

PHLP. On July 15, 1998, one limited partner in PHLP filed a class action lawsuit styled Michael C. deBerardinis v. Host Marriott Corporation, Civil Action No. WMN 98-2263, in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland. The plaintiff alleges that Host misled the limited partners in order to induce them into approving the sale of one of the Partnership's hotels, violated the securities regulations by issuing a false and misleading consent solicitation and breached fiduciary duties and the partnership agreement. The complaint seeks unspecified damages. Host intends to vigorously defend against the claims asserted in the lawsuit.

THE LEASES

In order for Host REIT to qualify as a REIT, neither Host REIT nor the Operating Partnership may operate the Hotels or related properties. Accordingly, the Operating Partnership will lease the Hotels to the Lessees, which will be wholly owned indirect subsidiaries of Crestline. The following summary of the principal terms of the Leases is qualified in its entirety by reference to the Leases, a form of which has been filed as an exhibit to the Registration Statement of which this Consent Solicitation is a part.

Lessees. There generally will be a separate Lessee for each Hotel or group of Hotels that is owned by a separate subsidiary of Host REIT. Each Lessee will be a Delaware limited liability company, whose purpose will be limited to acting as lessee under the applicable Lease(s).

For those Hotels where it is the Manager, Marriott International or a subsidiary will have a noneconomic membership interest in the Lessee entitling it to certain voting rights but no economic rights. The operating agreements for such Lessees will provide that the Crestline member of the Lessee will have full control over the management of the business of the Lessee, except with respect to certain decisions for which the consent of both members will be required. These decisions are (i) dissolving, liquidating, consolidating, merging, selling or leasing all or substantially all of the assets of the Lessee; (ii) engaging in any other business or acquiring any assets or incurring any liabilities not reasonably related to the conduct of the Lessee's business; (iii) instituting voluntary bankruptcy or similar proceedings or consenting to involuntary bankruptcy or similar proceedings; (iv) terminating the Management Agreement relating to the Lessee's hotel, other than by reason of a breach by the Manager or upon exercise of express termination rights in the Management Agreement; (v) challenging the status or rights of the Manager or the enforceability of the membership rights; or (vi) incurring debt in excess of certain limits. Upon any termination of the applicable Management Agreement, these special voting rights of Marriott International (or its subsidiary) will cease.

Lease Terms. Each Lease will have a fixed term ranging generally from seven to ten years (depending upon the Lease), subject to earlier termination upon the occurrence of certain contingencies described in the Leases (including, particularly, the provisions described herein under "Damage or Destruction," "Termination of the Leases upon Disposition of Hotels" and "Termination of the Leases upon Changes in Tax Laws").

Minimum Rent; Percentage Rent; Additional Charges. Each Lease will require the Lessee to pay (i) Minimum Rent (as defined below) in a fixed dollar amount per annum plus (ii) to the extent it exceeds Minimum Rent, Percentage Rent based upon specified percentages of aggregate sales from the applicable Hotel, including room sales, food and beverage sales and other income ("Gross Revenues"), in excess of specified thresholds.

"Minimum Rent" will be a fixed dollar amount specified in each Lease less the FF&E Adjustment (which is described under "Personal Property Limitation" below). Any amounts other than Minimum Rent and Percentage Rent due to the Lessor under the Leases are referred to as "Additional Charges."

The amount of Minimum Rent and the Percentage Rent thresholds will be adjusted each year (the "Annual Adjustment"). The Annual Adjustment with respect to Minimum Rent shall equal a percentage of any increase in the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") during the previous twelve months. The Annual Adjustment with respect to Percentage Rent thresholds shall be a specified percentage equal to the weighted average of a percentage of any increase in CPI plus a specified percentage of any increase in a regional labor cost index agreed upon by the Lessor and the Lessee during the previous twelve months. Neither Minimum Rent nor Percentage Rent thresholds will be decreased because of the Annual Adjustment.

Rental payments will be made on a Fiscal Year basis. The "Fiscal Year" shall mean the fiscal year used by the Manager. Payments of Rent (defined herein) will be made within two business days after the required payment date under the Management Agreement for each Accounting Period. "Accounting Period" shall mean for those Hotels where Marriott International is the Manager, any of the thirteen four-week accounting periods which are used in the Manager's accounting system. Rent payable for each Accounting Period will be the sum of (i) the excess (if any) of (x) the greater of cumulative Minimum Rent year-to-date or cumulative Percentage Rent year-to-date over (y) the total amount of Minimum Rent and Percentage Rent paid year-to-date plus (ii) any Additional Charges due ("Rent"). If the total amount of Minimum Rent and Percentage Rent paid year-to-date, as of any rent payment date, is greater than both cumulative Minimum Rent year-to-date and cumulative Percentage Rent year-to-date, then the Lessor will remit the difference to the Lessee.

The Leases will generally provide for a Rent adjustment in the event of damage, destruction, partial taking, certain capital expenditures or an FF&E Adjustment.

Lessee Expenses. Each Lessee will be responsible for paying all of the expenses of operating the applicable Hotel(s), including all personnel costs, utility costs and general repair and maintenance of the Hotel(s). The Lessee also will be responsible for all fees payable to the applicable Manager, including base and incentive management fees, chain services payments and franchise or system fees, with respect to periods covered by the term of the Lease. The Lessee will not be obligated to bear the cost of any capital improvements or capital repairs to the Hotels or the other expenses borne by the Lessor, as described below.

Lessor Expenses. The Lessor will be responsible for the following expenses: real estate taxes, personal property taxes (to the extent the Lessor owns the personal property), casualty insurance on the structures, ground lease rent payments, required expenditures for FF&E (including maintaining the FF&E reserve, to the extent such is required by the applicable Management Agreement) and capital expenditures.

The consent of the Lessor will be required for any capital expenditures funded by the Lessor (except in an emergency or where the Owner's consent is not required under the Management Agreement) or a change in the amount of the FF&E Reserve payment.

Crestline Guarantee. Crestline and certain of its subsidiaries will enter into a limited guarantee of the Lease and Management Agreement obligations of each Lessee. For each of four identified "pools" of Hotels, the cumulative limit of the guarantee at any time will be 10% of the aggregate rents under all Leases in such pool paid with respect to the preceding thirteen full Accounting Periods (with an annualized amount based upon the Minimum Rent for those Leases that have not been in effect for thirteen full Accounting Periods). In the event of a payment default under any Lease or failure of Crestline to maintain certain minimum net worth or debt service coverage ratios, the obligations under the guarantees of Leases in each pool will be secured by excess cash flow of each Lessee in such pool, which will be collected, held in a cash collateral account, and disbursed in accordance with agreed cash management procedures.

Security. The obligations of the Lessee will be secured by a pledge of all personal property (tangible and intangible) of the Lessee related to or used in connection with the operation of the Hotels (including any cash and receivables from the Manager or others held by the Lessee as part of "working capital").

Working Capital. Each Lessor will sell the existing working capital (including Inventory and Fixed Asset Supplies (as defined in the Uniform System of Accounts for Hotels) and receivables due from the Manager, net of accounts payable and accrued expenses) to the applicable Lessee upon the commencement of the Lease at a price equal to the fair market value of such assets. The purchase price will be represented by a note evidencing a loan that bears interest at a rate per annum equal to the "long-term applicable federal rate" in effect on the commencement of the Lease. Interest owed on the working capital loan will be due simultaneously with each periodic Rent payment and the amount of each payment of interest will be credited against such Rent payment. The principal amount of the working capital loan will be payable upon termination of the Lease. At the termination or expiration of the Lease, the Lessee will sell to the Lessor the then existing working capital at a price equal to the value of such assets at that time. The Lessor will pay the purchase price of the working capital by offsetting the purchase price against the outstanding principal balance of the working capital loan. To the extent that the value of the working capital delivered to the Lessor exceeds the value of the working capital delivered by the Lessor to the Lessee at the commencement of the Lease, the Lessor shall pay to the Lessee an amount equal to the difference in cash. To the extent that the value of the working capital delivered to the Lessor is less than the value of the working capital delivered by the Lessor to the Lessee at the commencement of the Lease, the Lessee shall pay to the Lessor an amount equal to the difference in cash.

Termination of Leases upon Disposition of Full-Service Hotels. In the event the applicable Lessor enters into an agreement to sell or otherwise transfer any full-service Hotel free and clear of the applicable Lease, the Lessor must pay the Lessee a termination fee equal to the fair market value of the Lessee's leasehold interest in the remaining term of the Lease. For purposes of determining the fair market value, a discount rate of 12% will be assumed, and the annual income for each remaining year of the Lease will be assumed to be the average annual income generated by the Lessee during the three fiscal years preceding the termination date or if the Hotel has not been in operation for at least three fiscal years, then the average during the preceding fiscal years that have elapsed, and if the Hotel has not been in operation for at least twelve months, then the assumed annual income shall be determined on a pro forma basis. Alternatively, the Lessor will be entitled to (i) substitute a comparable Hotel or Hotels (in terms of economics and quality for the Lessor and the Lessee as agreed to by the Lessee) for any Hotel that is sold or (ii) sell the Hotel subject to the Lease (subject to the Lessee's reasonable approval if the sale is to an entity that does not have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to fulfill the "owner's" obligations under the Management Agreement and the Lessor's obligations under the Lease, or does not satisfy specified character standards) without being required to pay a termination fee. In addition, the Lessors collectively and the Lessees collectively will each have the right to terminate up to twelve Leases without being required to pay any fee or other compensation as a result of such termination, but the Lessors will be permitted to exercise such right only in connection with sales of Hotels to an unrelated third party or the transfer of a Hotel to a joint venture in which the Operating Partnership does not have a two-thirds or greater interest.

Termination of the Leases upon Changes in Tax Laws. In the event that changes in the federal income tax laws allow the Lessors, or subsidiaries or affiliates of the Lessors, to directly operate the Hotels without jeopardizing Host REIT's status as a REIT, the Lessors will have the right to terminate all, but not less than all, of the Leases (excluding Leases of Hotels that must still be leased following the tax law change) in return for paying the Lessees the fair market value of the remaining terms of the Leases, valued in the same manner as provided above under "Termination of Leases upon Disposition of Hotels." The payment will be payable in cash or, subject to certain conditions, Common Shares, at the election of the Lessor and Host REIT.

Damage or Destruction. If a Hotel is partially or totally destroyed and is no longer suitable for use as a hotel (as reasonably determined by the Lessor), the Lease of such Hotel shall automatically terminate and the insurance proceeds shall be retained by the Lessor, except for any proceeds attributable to personal property owned by the Lessee or business interruption insurance. In this event, no termination fee shall be owed to the Lessee. If a Hotel is partially destroyed, but is still suitable for use as a hotel (as reasonably determined by the Lessor), the Lessee, subject to the Lessor agreeing to release the insurance proceeds to fund any shortfall in the insurance proceeds, shall apply the insurance proceeds to restore the Hotel to its preexisting condition. The Lessor shall fund any shortfall in insurance proceeds less than or equal to five percent of the estimated cost of repair. The Lessor may fund, in its sole discretion, any shortfall in insurance proceeds greater than five percent of the estimated cost of the repair, provided that if the Lessor elects not to fund such shortfall, the Lessee may terminate the Lease and the Lessor shall pay to the Lessee a termination fee equal to the Lessee's Operating Profit for the immediately preceding Fiscal Year. The term "Lessee's Operating Profit" shall mean for any Fiscal Year an amount equal to revenues due to the Lessee from the leased property after the payment of all expenses relating to the operation of leasing of the leased property less rent paid to the Lessor. If and to the extent any damage or destruction results in a reduction of Gross Revenues which would otherwise be realizable from the operation of the Hotel, the Lessor shall receive all loss of income insurance and the Lessee shall have no obligation to pay rent, for any Accounting Period until the effects of the damage are restored, in excess of the greater of (i) one-thirteenth of the total Rent paid in the fiscal year prior to the casualty or (ii) Percentage Rent calculated for the current Accounting Period.

Events of Default. Except as otherwise provided below, and subject to the notice and, in some cases, cure periods in the Lease, the Lease may be terminated without penalty by the applicable Lessor if any of the following Events of Default (among others) occur:

- . Failure to pay Rent within ten days after the due date;
- . Failure to comply with, or observe any of, the terms of the Lease (other than the failure to pay Rent) for 30 days after notice from the Lessor, including failure to properly maintain the Hotel (other than by reason of the failure of the Lessor to perform its obligations under the Lease), such period to be extended for up to an additional 90 days if such default cannot be cured with due diligence within 30 days;
- . Acceleration of maturity of certain indebtedness of the Lessee with a principal amount in excess of $1,000,000;
- . Failure of Crestline to maintain minimum net worth or debt service coverage ratio requirements;
- . Filing of any petition for relief, bankruptcy or liquidation by or against the Lessee or any parent company of the Lessee;
- . The Lessee voluntarily ceases to operate the Hotel for 30 consecutive days, except as a result of a casualty, condemnation or emergency situation;
- . A change in control of Crestline, the Lessee or any subsidiary of Crestline that is a direct or indirect parent of the Lessee. Unless the change in control involves an "adverse party" which would include a competitor in the hotel business, a party without adequate financial resources, a party that has been convicted of a felony (or controlled by such a person), or a party who would jeopardize Host REIT's qualification as a REIT, the Lessor must pay a termination fee equal to the Lessee's Operating Profit from the Hotel for the immediately preceding Fiscal Year); or
- . The Lessee, or Crestline or Lessee's direct parent defaults under the assignment of Management Agreement, the guarantees described above, the noncompetition agreement described below and certain other related agreements between the parties or their affiliates.

Assignment of Lease. A Lessee will be permitted to sublet all or part of the Hotel or assign its interest under its Lease, without the consent of the Lessor, to any wholly owned and controlled single purpose subsidiary of Crestline, provided that Crestline continues to meet the minimum net worth test and all other requirements of the Lease. Transfers to other parties will be permitted if approved by the Lessor.

Subordination to Qualifying Mortgage Debt. The rights of each Lessee will be expressly subordinate to qualifying mortgage debt and any refinancing thereof. A default under the loan documents may result in the termination of the Lease by the lender. The lender will not be required to provide a non-disturbance agreement to the Lessee.

The Lessor will be obligated to compensate the Lessee, on a basis equal to the lease termination provision described in "Termination of Leases upon Disposition of Hotels" above, if the Lease is terminated because of a non-monetary default under the terms of a loan that occurs because of an action or omission by the Lessor (or its affiliates) or a monetary default where there is not an uncured monetary Event of Default of the Lessee. In addition, if any loan is not refinanced in a timely manner, and the loan amortization schedule is converted to a cash flow sweep structure, the Lessee has the right to terminate the Lease after a twelve-month cure period and the Lessor will owe a termination fee as provided above. During any period of time that a cash flow sweep structure is in effect, the Lessor will compensate the Lessee for any lost revenue resulting from such cash flow sweep. The Operating Partnership will guarantee these obligations.

Personal Property Limitation. If a Lessor reasonably anticipates that the average tax basis of the items of the Lessor's FF&E and other personal property that are leased to the applicable Lessee will exceed 15% of the aggregate average tax basis of the real and personal property subject to the applicable Lease, the following procedures will apply, subject to obtaining lender consent where required:

- . The Lessor will acquire any replacement FF&E that would cause the applicable limits to be exceeded (the "Excess FF&E"), and immediately thereafter the Lessee would be obligated either to acquire such Excess FF&E from the Lessor or to cause a third party to purchase such FF&E.
- . The Lessee would agree to give a right of first opportunity to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary to acquire the Excess FF&E and to lease the Excess FF&E to the Lessee at an annual rental equal to the Market Leasing Factor (as defined below) times the cost of the Excess FF&E. If such Non-Controlled Subsidiary does not agree to acquire the Excess FF&E and to enter into such lease, then the Lessee may either acquire the Excess FF&E itself or arrange for another third party to acquire such Excess FF&E and to lease the same to Lessee.
- . The annual Rent under the applicable Lease would be reduced in accordance with a formula based on Market Recovery rates.

Certain Actions under the Leases. The Leases prohibit the Lessee from taking the following actions with respect to the Management Agreement without notice to the Lessor and, if the action would have a material adverse effect on the Lessor, the consent of the Lessor: (i) terminate the Management Agreement prior to the expiration of the term thereof; (ii) amend, modify or assign the Management Agreement; (iii) waive (or fail to enforce) any right of the "Owner" under the Management Agreement; (iv) waive any breach or default by the Manager under the Management Agreement (or fail to enforce any right of the "Owner" in connection therewith); (v) agree to any change in the Manager or consent to any assignment by the Manager; or (vi) take any other action which reasonably would be expected to materially adversely affect the Lessor's rights or obligations under the Management Agreement for periods following the termination of the Lease (whether upon the expiration of its term or upon earlier termination as provided for therein).

Change in Manager. A Lessee will be permitted to change the Manager or the brand affiliation of a Hotel only with the approval of the applicable Lessor, which approval may not be unreasonably withheld. Any replacement manager must be a nationally recognized manager with substantial experience in managing hotels of comparable quality. No such replacement can extend beyond the term of the Lease without the consent of the Lessor, which consent may be withheld in the Lessor's sole discretion.

THE MANAGEMENT AGREEMENTS

General

The Lessees will lease the Hotels from the Hotel Partnerships under the Management Agreements between the Hotel Partnerships and the subsidiaries of Marriott International and other companies that currently manage the Hotels. Following the REIT Conversion and as a result of their assumptions of obligations under the Management Agreements, the Lessees will have substantially all of the rights and obligations of the "Owners" of the Hotels under the Management Agreements for the period during which the Leases are in effect (including the obligation to pay the management and other certain fees thereunder) and will hold the Operating Partnership harmless with respect thereto. See "---Management Services Provided by Marriott International and Affiliates--Assignment of Management Agreements."

Relationship with Marriott International

Subsidiaries of Marriott International will serve as Managers for a substantial majority of the Operating Partnership's Hotels which will be leased to the Lessees, pursuant to the Management Agreements. Marriott International and its subsidiaries also provide various other services to Host REIT and its affiliates and to Crestline and its affiliates. With respect to these contractual arrangements, the potential exists for disagreement as to contract compliance. Additionally, the possible desire of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership to finance, refinance or effect a sale of any of the Hotels leased to the Lessees and managed by subsidiaries of Marriott International may, depending upon the structure of such transactions, result in a need to modify the Management Agreements with respect to such Hotel. Any such modification proposed by Host REIT or the Operating Partnership may not be acceptable to Marriott International or the applicable Lessee, and the lack of consent from either Marriott International or the applicable Lessee that has assumed the Management Agreement could adversely affect the Operating Partnership's ability to consummate such financing or sale. In addition, certain situations could arise where actions taken by Marriott International in its capacity as manager of competing lodging properties would not necessarily be in the best interests of the Operating Partnership, Host REIT or the Lessees. Nevertheless, the Operating Partnership believes that there is sufficient mutuality of interest between the Operating Partnership, the Lessees and Marriott International to result in a mutually productive relationship.

Management Services Provided by Marriott International and Affiliates

General. Under each Management Agreement related to a Marriott International-managed Hotel, the Manager will provide complete management services to the applicable Lessees in connection with its management of such Lessee's Hotels following the REIT Conversion. Except where specifically noted, these relationships are substantially identical to those that exist between the applicable Manager and Host or the applicable Hotel Partnership currently, and that would exist between the Operating Partnership's subsidiaries and the Manager in the event the Leases expire or otherwise terminate while the Management Agreements remain in effect. The services provided by each Manager to each Lessee will include the following:

Assignment of Management Agreements. The Management Agreements applicable to each Hotel will be assigned to the applicable Lessee for the term of the Lease of such Hotel. The Lessee will be obligated to perform all of the obligations of the Lessor under the Management Agreement during the term of its Lease, other than certain retained obligations including, without limitation, payment of property taxes, property casualty insurance and ground rent, and maintaining a reserve fund for FF&E replacements and capital expenditures, for which the Lessor will retain responsibility. Although the Lessee will assume obligations of the Lessor under the Management Agreement, the Lessor will not be released from its obligations and, if the Lessee fails to perform any obligations, the Manager will be entitled to seek performance by or damages from the Lessor. If the Lease is terminated for any reason, any new or successor Lessee must meet certain requirements for an "Approved Lessee" or otherwise be acceptable to Marriott International. The requirements for an "Approved Lessee" includes that the entity (i) has sufficient financial resources and liquidity to fill the obligations under the Management Agreement, (ii) is not in control of or controlled by persons who have been convicted of felonies, (iii) is not engaged, or affiliated with any person or entity engaged in the business of operating a branded hotel chain having 5,000 or more guest rooms in competition with Marriott International, and (iv) must be a single purpose entity in which Marriott International has a noneconomic membership interest with the same rights as it has in Lessee. Any new lease must be in substantially the same form as the Lease or otherwise be acceptable to Marriott International.

Operational Services. The Managers will have sole responsibility and exclusive authority for all activities necessary for the day-to-day operation of the Hotels, including establishment of all room rates, the processing of reservations, procurement of inventories, supplies and services, periodic inspection and consultation visits to the Hotels by the Managers' technical and operational experts and promotion and publicity of the Hotels. The Manager will receive compensation from the Lessee in the form of a base management fee and an Incentive Management Fee, which are normally calculated as percentages of gross revenues and operating profits, respectively.

Executive Supervision and Management Services. The Managers will provide all managerial and other employees for the Hotels; review the operation and maintenance of the Hotels; prepare reports, budgets and projections; provide other administrative and accounting support services, such as planning and policy services, financial planning, divisional financial services, risk planning services, product planning and development, employee planning, corporate executive management, legislative and governmental representation and certain in-house legal services; and protect the "Marriott" trademark and other tradenames and service marks. The Manager also will provide a national reservations system.

Chain Services. The Management Agreements will require the Manager to furnish certain services (the "Chain Services") that are furnished generally on a central or regional basis to hotels in the Marriott hotel system. Such services will include the following: (i) the development and operation of computer systems and reservation services, (ii) regional management and administrative services, regional marketing and sales services, regional training services, manpower development and relocation costs of regional personnel and (iii) such additional central or regional services as may from time to time be more efficiently performed on a regional or group level. Costs and expenses incurred in providing such services are allocated among all hotels in the Marriott hotel system managed by the Manager or its affiliates and each applicable Lessee will be required to reimburse the Manager for its allocable share of such costs and expenses.

Working Capital and Fixed Asset Supplies. The Lessee will be required to maintain working capital for each Hotel and fund the cost of fixed asset supplies, which principally consist of linen and similar items. The applicable Lessee will also be responsible for providing funds to meet the cash needs for the operations of the Hotels if at any time the funds available from operations are insufficient to meet the financial requirements of the Hotels.

Use of Affiliates. The Manager employs the services of its affiliates to provide certain services under the Management Agreements. Certain of the Management Agreements provide that the terms of any such employment must be no less favorable to the applicable Lessee, in the reasonable judgment of the Manager, than those that would be available from the Manager.

FF&E Replacements. The Management Agreements generally provide that once each year the Manager will prepare a list of FF&E to be acquired and certain routine repairs that are normally capitalized to be performed in the next year ("FF&E Replacements") and an estimate of the funds necessary therefor. Under the terms of the Leases, the Operating Partnership, as lessor, is required to provide to the applicable Lessee, all necessary FF&E for the operation of the Hotels (including funding any required FF&E Replacements). For purposes of funding the FF&E Replacements, a specified percentage (generally 5%) of the gross revenues of the Hotel will be deposited by the Manager into a book entry account (the "FF&E Reserve Account"). These amounts will be treated under the Leases as paid by the Lessees to the Operating Partnership and will be credited against their rental payments. If the Manager determines that more than 5% of the gross revenues of the Hotel will be required to fund repairs for a certain period, the Manager may increase the percentage of gross revenues to be deposited into the FF&E Reserve Account for such periods. In such event, the Operating Partnership may elect to fund such increases through annual increases in the amount deposited by the Manager in the FF&E Reserve Account or to make a lump-sum contribution to the FF&E Reserve Account of the additional amounts required. If the Operating Partnership adopts the first election, the deductions will be credited against the rental obligations of the Lessee. If the Operating Partnership fails to elect either option within thirty days of the request for additional funds or fails to pay the lump-sum within 60 days of its election to do so, the Manager may terminate the Management Agreement. Under certain circumstances, the Manager may make repairs in addition to those set forth on its list, but in no event may it expend more than the amount in the FF&E Reserve Account without the consent of the Operating Partnership and the Lessee.

Under certain of the Management Agreements, the Operating Partnership must approve the FF&E Replacements, including any FF&E Replacements proposed by the Manager that are not contained on the annual list which was approved by the Operating Partnership and the Lessee. If the Manager and the Operating Partnership agree, the Operating Partnership will acquire or otherwise provide the FF&E Replacements set forth on the approved list. If the Operating Partnership and the Manager are unable to agree on the list within 60 days of its submission, the Operating Partnership will be required to make only those FF&E Replacements specified on such list that are no more extensive than the system standards for FF&E Replacements that the Manager requires for Marriott hotels. For purposes of funding the FF&E Replacements required to be paid for by the Operating Partnership, each Management Agreement and the Operating Partnership's loan agreements require the Operating Partnership to deposit a designated amount into the FF&E Reserve Account periodically. The Lessees will have no obligation to fund the FF&E Reserve Accounts (and any amounts deposited therein by the Manager from funds otherwise due the Lessee under the Management Agreement will be credited against the Lessee's rental obligation).

Under each Lease, the Operating Partnership will be responsible for the costs of FF&E Replacements and for decisions with respect thereto (subject to its obligations to the Lessee under the Lease).

Building Alterations, Improvements and Renewals. The Management Agreements require the Manager to prepare an annual estimate of the expenditures necessary for major repairs, alterations, improvements, renewals and replacements to the structural, mechanical, electrical, heating, ventilating, air conditioning, plumbing and vertical transportation elements of each Hotel. Such estimate will be submitted to the Operating Partnership and the Lessee for their approval. In addition to the foregoing, the Management Agreements generally provide that the Manager may propose such changes, alterations and improvements to the Hotel as are required, in the Manager's reasonable judgment, to keep the Hotel in a competitive, efficient and economical operating condition or in accordance with Marriott standards. The cost of the foregoing shall be paid from the FF&E Reserve Account; to the extent that there are insufficient funds in such account, the Operating Partnership is required to pay any shortfall. Under the Management Agreements (and the Leases), neither the Operating Partnership nor the Lessee may unreasonably withhold consent to repairs and other changes which are required under applicable law or any of the Manager's "life-safety" standards and, if the Operating Partnership and the Lessee fail to approve any of the other proposed repairs or other changes within 60 days of the request therefor, the Manager may terminate the Management Agreement. Under certain other of the Management Agreements, if the Operating Partnership and the Manager are unable to agree on the estimate within 60 days of its submission, the Operating Partnership will be required to make only those expenditures that are no more extensive than the Manager requires for Marriott hotels generally, as the case may be. Under the terms of the Leases, the Operating Partnership will be responsible for the costs of the foregoing items and for decisions with respect thereto (subject to its obligations to the Lessees under the Leases).

Service Marks. During the term of the Management Agreements, the service mark "Marriott" and other symbols, logos and service marks currently used by the Manager and its affiliates may be used in the operation of the Hotels. Marriott International (or its applicable affiliates) intends to retain its legal ownership of these marks. Any right to use the service marks, logo and symbols and related trademarks at a Hotel will terminate with respect to that Hotel upon termination of the Management Agreement with respect to such Hotel.

Termination Fee. Certain of the Management Agreements provide that if the Management Agreement is terminated prior to its full term due to casualty, condemnation or the sale of the Hotel, the Manager will receive a termination fee as specified in the specific Management Agreement. Under the Leases, the responsibility for the payment of any such termination fee as between the Lessee and the Operating Partnership will depend upon the cause for such termination.

Termination for Failure to Perform. Substantially all of the Management Agreements may be terminated based upon a failure to meet certain financial performance criteria, subject to the Manager's right to prevent such termination by making certain payments to the Lessee based upon the shortfall in such criteria.

Events of Default. Events of default under the Management Agreements include, among others, the following: (i) the failure of either party to make payments pursuant to the Management Agreement within ten days after written notice of such nonpayment has been made, (ii) the failure of either party to perform, keep or fulfill any of the covenants, undertakings, obligations or conditions set forth in the Management Agreement and the continuance of such default for a period of 30 days after notice of said failure or, if such default is not susceptible of being cured within 30 days, the failure to commence said cure within 30 days or thereafter fails to diligently pursue such efforts to completion, (iii) if either party files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy or insolvency or a petition for reorganization under any bankruptcy law or admits that it is unable to pay its debts as they become due, (iv) if either party consents to an involuntary petition in bankruptcy or fails to vacate, within 90 days from the date of entry thereof, any order approving an involuntary petition by such party; or (v) if an order, judgment or decree by any court of competent jurisdiction, on the application of a creditor, adjudicating either party as bankrupt or insolvent or approving a petition seeking reorganization or appointing a receiver, trustee, or liquidator or all or a substantial part of such party's assets is entered, and such order, judgment or decree continues unstayed and in effect for any period of 90 days.

As described above, all fees payable under the Management Agreements will become obligations of the Lessees, to be paid by the Lessees, as modified prior to the consummation of the REIT Conversion, for so long as the Leases remain in effect. The Lessees' obligations to pay these fees, however, could adversely affect the ability of one or more Lessees to pay Base Rent or Percentage Rent payable under the Leases, even though such amounts otherwise are due and owing to the Operating Partnership. Moreover, the Operating Partnership remains obligated to the Manager to the extent the Lessee fails to pay these fees.

NONCOMPETITION AGREEMENT

Crestline, Host and the Non-Controlled Subsidiary which will lease to Crestline any Excess FF&E existing as the commencement of the Leases (the "Initial FF&E Lessor") will enter into a noncompetition agreement in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution. Pursuant to this non-competition agreement, Crestline will agree, among other things, that until the earlier of December 31, 2008 and the date on which it is no longer a Lessee for more than 25% by number of the hotels owned by Host at the time of the Initial E&P Distribution, it will not (i) own, operate or otherwise control (as owner or franchisor) any full-service hotel brand or franchise, or purchase, finance or otherwise invest in full-service hotels, or act as an agent or consultant with respect to any of the foregoing activities, except for acquisitions of property used in hotels as to which Crestline is the Lessee, investments in full-service hotels which represent an immaterial portion of a merger or similar transaction or a minimal portfolio investment in another entity, limited investments (whether debt or equity) in full-service hotels as to which Crestline is the Lessee or activities undertaken with respect to its business of providing asset management services to hotel owners, or (ii) without the consent of Host, manage any of the hotels owned by Host, other than to provide asset management services as described in "Certain Relationships and Related Transactions--Relationship between Host REIT and Crestline Capital Corporation After the Initial E&P Distribution--Asset Management Agreement." Host and the Initial FF&E Lessor will agree, among other things, that, (i) until December 31, 2003, neither of them will purchase, finance or otherwise invest in senior living communities, or act as an agent or consultant with respect to any of the foregoing activities (except for acquisitions of communities which represent an immaterial portion of a merger or similar transaction or for minimal portfolio investments in other entities) and (ii) until the earlier of December 31, 2008 and the date on which Crestline is no longer a Lessee for more than 25% by number of the hotels owned by Host at the time of the Initial E&P Distribution, neither of them will lease, as tenant or subtenant, limited- or full-service hotel properties and act as operator or franchisee thereof, or purchase, finance or otherwise invest in persons or entities which engage in any of the foregoing activities, or act as an agent or consultant with respect to any of the foregoing activities (except for acquisitions of entities which engage in any of the foregoing activities where the prohibited activities represent an immaterial portion of a merger or similar transaction, or minimal portfolio investments in other entities which engage in any of the foregoing activities, or certain leasing arrangements existing at the time of the Initial E&P Distribution or entered into in the future between Host and the Initial FF&E Lessor or Host and certain other related parties, or the management by Host of any hotels in which Host or the Initial FF&E Lessor has an equity interest). In addition, both Crestline and Host will agree not to hire or attempt to hire any of the other company's senior employees at any time prior to December 31, 2000.

Bond Refinancing. On August 5, 1998, HMH Properties, Inc. ("HMH Properties"), a subsidiary of Host that will merge into the Operating Partnership prior to the Effective Date, issued $1.7 billion of 7 7/8% senior notes issued in two series, consisting of $500 million due 2005 and $1.2 billion due 2008 (the "New Senior Notes"). The New Senior Notes are guaranteed by Host, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties. The Operating Partnership will assume the New Senior Notes in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee by Host is expected to terminate on the Effective Date.

The indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contains covenants restricting the ability of HMH Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equityholders of HMH Properties and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership. Following the REIT Conversion, the indenture permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, in amounts equal to the greater of (i) 95% of FFO plus net proceeds of equity offerings (provided that no event of default under the indenture has occurred and is continuing and the Operating Partnership is able to incur debt under the applicable indenture covenants) or (ii) an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to maintain its status as a REIT and satisfy certain other requirements (provided that no event of default under the indenture has occurred and is continuing and the Operating Partnership has a consolidated debt to adjusted total assets ratio that is less than a specified level). The indenture also permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to Host REIT sufficient to enable Host REIT to make the E&P Distribution. The New Senior Notes also contain a financial covenant requiring the maintenance of a specified ratio of unencumbered assets to unsecured debt.

New Credit Facility. On August 5, 1998, HMM Properties entered into a $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility") provided by a syndicate of financial institutions (the "Lenders") led by Bankers Trust Company. The New Credit Facility provides the Company with (i) a $350 million term loan facility (subject to increases as provided in the succeeding paragraph) and (ii) a $900 million revolving credit facility. The New Credit Facility will have an initial term of three years with two one-year options to extend. The proceeds of the New Credit Facility, along with the proceeds from the New Senior Notes, were used to fund the purchase of $1.55 billion of senior notes of HMM Properties at the initial closing on August 5, 1998, and repay $22 million of outstanding borrowings under a line of credit provided by the Lenders to certain subsidiaries of Host and will be used (i) to acquire full-service hotels and other real estate assets including, under certain circumstances, senior living properties, (ii) under certain circumstances, to develop new full-service hotels and (iii) for general working capital purposes.

The term loan facility was funded on the closing date of the New Credit Facility. The $350 million term loan facility may be increased by up to $250 million after the initial closing and will be available, subject to terms and conditions thereof and to the commitment of sufficient Lenders, in up to two drawings to be made on or prior to the second anniversary of the closing of the New Credit Facility. The Lenders will advance funds under the revolving credit facility as requested by the Company with minimum borrowing amounts and frequency limitations to be agreed upon, subject to customary conditions including, but not limited to, (i) no existing or resulting default or event of default under the New Credit Facility and (ii) continued accuracy of representations and warranties in all material respects. As of September 28, 1998, approximately $350 million was outstanding under the New Credit Facility.

The interest rate applicable to the New Credit Facility and the unused commitment fee applicable to the revolving portion of the New Credit Facility are calculated based on a spread over LIBOR that will fluctuate based on the quarterly recalculation of a leverage ratio set forth in the New Credit Facility. The New Credit Facility provides that in the event that the Company achieves one of several investment grade long-term unsecured indebtedness ratings, the spread over LIBOR applicable to the New Credit Facility will be fixed based on the particular rating achieved. If the Company elects to exercise its one-year extensions, the Company will be required to amortize approximately 22.5% per annum of the principal amount outstanding under the New Credit Facility at the end of the initial three-year term.

The Company's obligations under the New Credit Facility are guaranteed, subject to certain conditions, on a senior basis by Host, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and certain of HMM Properties' existing and future subsidiaries. The New Credit Facility will be assumed by the Operating Partnership in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee of Host is expected to terminate on the Effective Date. In addition, certain subsidiaries of Host Marriott other than HMM Properties and its subsidiaries may, under certain circumstances, guarantee the obligations under the New Credit Facility in the future. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility will rank pari passu with the New Senior Notes and other existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company. The New Credit Facility is secured, on an equal and ratable basis, with the New Senior Notes by a pledge of the capital stock of certain direct and indirect subsidiaries of HMM Properties. In addition, the New Credit Facility may, under certain circumstances in the future, be secured by a pledge of capital stock of certain subsidiaries of Host other than HMM Properties and its subsidiaries.

The New Credit Facility includes financial and other covenants that require the maintenance of certain ratios with respect to, among other things, maximum leverage, limitations on indebtedness, minimum net worth and interest and fixed charge coverage and that restrict payment of distributions and investments, acquisitions and sales of assets by the Company. Following the REIT Conversion, the New Credit Facility permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, in an aggregate amount for every four fiscal quarters equal to the greater of (i) 85% of adjusted funds from operations plus the net proceeds of equity offerings and (ii) the minimum amount necessary to permit Host REIT to maintain its status as a REIT and to satisfy certain other requirements, provided that no specified default or event of default has occurred under the New Credit Facility and is continuing. The New Credit Facility also permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to Host REIT sufficient to enable Host REIT to make the E&P Distribution.

DISTRIBUTION AND OTHER POLICIES

The following is a discussion of the anticipated policies with respect to distributions, investments, financing, lending, conflicts of interest and certain other activities of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. Upon consummation of the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership's policies with respect to these activities will be determined by the Board of Directors of Host REIT and may be amended or revised from time to time at the discretion of the Board of Directors without notice to, or a vote of, the shareholders of Host REIT or the limited partners of the Operating Partnership, except that changes in certain policies with respect to conflicts of interest must be consistent with legal and contractual requirements.

DISTRIBUTION POLICY

Host REIT and the Operating Partnership intend to pay regular quarterly distributions to holders of Common Shares and OP Units. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership anticipate that distributions will be paid during January, April, July and October of each year, except that the first distribution in 1999 is expected to be paid at the end of February if the REIT Conversion is completed in 1998. The following discussion and the information set forth in the table and footnotes below should be read in conjunction with the Pro Forma Statements of Operations and notes thereto, "Summary--Forward Looking Statements," "Risk Factors" and "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations--Liquidity and Capital Resources."

Although the Code generally requires a REIT to distribute 95% of its taxable income for each year (within a certain period after the end of such year), the Operating Partnership will establish its initial distribution at a level that will enable Host REIT to distribute to its shareholders an amount equal to 100% of its taxable income (other than capital gains, which will be addressed on a case-by-case basis) for each year no later than the end of January of the following year. The Operating Partnership anticipates that distributions generally will be paid from cash available for distribution, but to the extent that cash available for distribution is insufficient, the Operating Partnership intends to borrow funds in order to make distributions consistent with such distribution policy. Based upon Host's preliminary estimate of Host REIT's taxable income for the twelve months ending December 31, 1999, Host and the Operating Partnership currently estimate that this policy will result in an initial annual distribution by the Operating Partnership of approximately $0.84 per OP Unit ($0.21 per quarter) during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999.

The Operating Partnership has estimated its cash available for distribution during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 based upon the Operating Partnership's pro forma cash from operations during the fifty-two weeks ended June 19, 1998 (the "Last Twelve Months"), adjusted for certain known material events and/or contractual commitments that either have occurred or will occur prior to December 31, 1999. No effect was given to any changes in working capital resulting from changes in current assets and liabilities (which changes are not expected to be material) or to any immaterial changes in the net amount of cash estimated to be used for (or provided by) investing activities or financing activities. Rental income is recognized only for leases to be executed at or prior to completion of the REIT Conversion. The estimates of cash available for distribution are not intended to be a projection or forecast of the Operating Partnership's results of operations or its liquidity. The following table describes the calculation of the Operating Partnership's pro forma cash from operations during the Last Twelve Months and its estimated cash available for distribution, cash from contingent rents and borrowings to make estimated distributions during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999:

the net effect of these two deferred items, which has the effect of applying the applicable lease rental terms to the historical gross sales from the leased Hotels for the last Twelve Months to estimate rental revenues for the calendar year 1999. Interim and annual revenues will be impacted to the extent percentage rent threshold's under the leases are not met or exceeded. If the rental revenues represented by this adjustment were not realized for the twelve months ending December 31, 1999, then the Operating Partnership would be required to borrow the amount of the shortfall under the New Credit Facility or from other sources to make estimated initial annual cash distributions during 1999.

- (9) Based on a total of 269.4 million OP Units outstanding on a pro forma basis after the Mergers (based upon the maximum price of $15.50 per OP Unit) and the preliminary estimated cash distributions during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 of $0.84 per OP Unit.
- (10) Based on a total of 269.4 million OP Units outstanding on a pro forma basis after the Mergers (based upon the maximum price of $15.50 per OP Unit).

If Host's preliminary estimate of $226 million of cash distributions by the Operating Partnership during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 proves accurate but the Operating Partnership's aggregate estimated cash available for distribution and estimated cash from contingent rents during the twelve months ending December 31, 1999 were only $217 million, then the Operating Partnership would be required to borrow approximately $9 million (or $0.04 per OP Unit) to make such distributions to enable Host REIT to distribute 100% of its estimated taxable income in accordance with its distribution policy. Moreover, if estimated cash from contingent rents were less than $54 million, then the Operating Partnership also would be required to borrow any such shortfall in order to make such distributions. While the Operating Partnership does not believe this will be necessary, it believes it would be able to borrow the necessary amounts under the New Credit Facility or from other sources (see "Business and Properties--Indebtedness") and that any such borrowing would not have a material adverse effect on its financial condition or results of operations.

The distributions to shareholders per Common Share are expected to be equal to the amount distributed by the Operating Partnership per OP Unit. However, if the REIT Conversion is not completed until after January 1, 1999, then Host REIT's distributions to shareholders in 1999 would be lower than the Operating Partnership's distributions per OP Unit (by the amount of Host REIT's 1999 corporate income tax payments) until its REIT election becomes effective, which would be no later than January 1, 2000. The Operating Partnership intends to make distributions during 1999 at the estimated level described below even if the REIT election of Host REIT were not effective until January 1, 2000.

The following table describes the calculation of Host REIT's estimated initial cash distributions and estimated cash distributions per Common Share for the twelve months ending December 31, 1999, based on the Operating Partnership's estimated cash distributions of $0.84 per OP Unit, if the REIT Conversion were to occur on January 1, 1999 but Host REIT's REIT election were not effective until January 1, 2000:

- (1) Estimated cash tax payments based on applying Host REIT's blended statutory tax rate (assumed to be a federal rate of 35%, plus a blended state rate of 5% net of the federal benefit), taking into account utilization of Host REIT's estimated alternative minimum tax ("AMT") credit carryforwards (approximately $21 million) and estimated AMT preferences (approximately $55 million), and applying the resulting effective rate (25%) to estimated taxable income for the year.
- (2) Based on a total of 204.2 million Common Shares outstanding.

Investors are cautioned that Host expects that its preliminary estimate of 1999 taxable income (and the resulting estimated distributions during 1999) may materially change as a result of issuances of additional common or preferred stock by Host either prior to or following the Mergers (which could reduce the distribution per OP Unit in accordance with its distribution policy), changes in operations, acquisitions or dispositions of assets, changes in the preliminary estimate of taxable income for 1999 and various other factors (some of which may be beyond the control of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership). Distributions will be made in the discretion of Host REIT's Board of Directors and will be affected by a number of factors, including the rental payments received by the Operating Partnership from the Lessees with respect to the Leases of the Hotels, the operating expenses of the Operating Partnership, the level of borrowings and interest expense incurred in borrowing, the Operating Partnership's financial condition and cash available for distribution, the taxable income of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, the effects of acquisitions and dispositions of assets, unanticipated capital expenditures and distributions required to be made on any preferred units issued by the Operating Partnership. Actual results may vary substantially from the estimates and no assurance can be given that the Operating Partnership's estimates will prove accurate or that any level of distributions will be made or sustained.

For a discussion of the tax treatment of distributions to holders of OP Units, see "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Holders of OP Units--Treatment of Operating Partnership Distributions." For a discussion of the annual distribution requirements applicable to REITs, see "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Taxation of Host REIT Following the REIT Conversion--Annual Distribution Requirements Applicable to REITs." #### INVESTMENT POLICIES

Investments in Real Estate or Interests in Real Estate. Host REIT is required to conduct all of its investment activities through the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership's investment objectives are to (i) achieve long-term sustainable growth in Funds From Operations per OP Unit or Common Share, (ii) increase asset values by improving and expanding the initial Hotels, as appropriate, (iii) acquire additional existing and newly developed upscale and luxury full-service hotels in targeted markets, (iv) develop and construct upscale and luxury full-service hotels and (v) potentially pursue other real estate investments. The Operating Partnership's business will be primarily focused on upscale and luxury full-service hotels. Where appropriate, and subject to REIT qualification rules and limitations contained in the Partnership Agreement, the Operating Partnership may sell certain of its hotels.

The Operating Partnership also may participate with other entities in property ownership through joint ventures or other types of co-ownership. Equity investments may be subject to existing mortgage financing and other indebtedness or such financing or indebtedness may be incurred in connection with acquiring investments. Any such financing or indebtedness will have priority over the Operating Partnership's equity interest in such property.

Investments in Real Estate Mortgages. While the Operating Partnership will emphasize equity real estate investments, it may, in its discretion, invest in mortgages and other similar interests. The Operating Partnership does not intend to invest to a significant extent in mortgages or deeds of trust, but may acquire mortgages as a strategy for acquiring ownership of a property or the economic equivalent thereof, subject to the investment restrictions applicable to REITs. See "Business and Properties--Blackstone Acquisition," "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Income Tests Applicable to REITs" and "Asset Tests Applicable to REITs." As of June 19, 1998, the Operating Partnership held two mortgages secured by hotels. In addition, the Operating Partnership may invest in mortgage-related securities and/or may seek to issue securities representing interests in such mortgage-related securities as a method of raising additional funds.

Securities of or Interests in Persons Primarily Engaged in Real Estate Activities and Other Issuers. Subject to the percentage ownership limitations and gross and asset income tests necessary for REIT qualification, the Operating Partnership also may invest in securities of other entities engaged in real estate activities or invest in securities of other issuers, including for the purpose of exercising control over such entities. The Operating Partnership may acquire all or substantially all of the securities or assets of other REITs or similar entities where such investments would be consistent with the Operating Partnership's investment policies. No such investments will be made, however, unless the Board of Directors determines that the proposed investment would not cause either Host REIT or the Operating Partnership to be an "investment company" within the meaning of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended.

FINANCING POLICIES

The Operating Partnership's and Host REIT's organizational documents currently contain no restrictions on incurring debt. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, however, will have a policy of incurring debt only if upon such incurrence the debt-to-total market capitalization of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership would be 60% or less. In addition, the New Senior Notes indenture and the New Credit Facility impose limitations on the incurrence of indebtedness. The Indenture for the Notes also limits the amount of Debt (as defined in the Indenture, see "Description of the Notes--Limitations on Incurrence of Debt") that the Operating Partnership may incur if, immediately after giving effect to the incurrence of such additional Debt, the aggregate principal amount of all outstanding Debt of the Operating Partnership and its Subsidiaries (as defined in the Indenture) on a consolidated basis is greater than 75% of the Operating Partnership's undepreciated total assets on the date of such incurrence. Indentures for debt issued to replace the public bonds may contain other restrictions. The Operating Partnership may, from time to time, reduce its outstanding indebtedness by repurchasing a portion of such outstanding indebtedness, subject to certain restrictions contained in the Partnership Agreement and the terms of its outstanding indebtedness. The Operating Partnership will from time to time reevaluate its borrowing policies in light of then current economic conditions, relative costs of debt and equity capital, market conditions, market values of properties, growth and acquisition opportunities and other factors. Consequently, the Operating Partnership's financing policy is subject to modification and change. The Operating Partnership may waive or modify its borrowing policy without any vote of the shareholders of Host REIT or the limited partners of the Operating Partnership.

To the extent that the Board of Directors determines to seek additional capital, Host REIT or the Operating Partnership may raise such capital through equity offerings, debt financing or retention of cash flow or a combination of these methods. As long as the Operating Partnership is in existence, the net proceeds of all equity capital raised by Host REIT will be contributed to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units in the Operating Partnership, which will dilute the ownership interest of limited partners of the Operating Partnership.

In the future, the Operating Partnership may seek to extend, expand, reduce or renew its New Credit Facility, or obtain new credit facilities or lines of credit, subject to its general policy relating to the ratio of debt-to-total market capitalization, for the purpose of making acquisitions or capital improvements or providing working capital or meeting the taxable income distribution requirements for REITs under the Code. In the future, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership also may determine to issue securities senior to the Common Shares or OP Units, including preferred shares and debt securities (either of which may be convertible into Common Shares or OP Units or may be accompanied by warrants to purchase Common Shares or OP Units).

The Operating Partnership has not established any limit on the number or amount of mortgages that may be placed on any single hotel or on its portfolio as a whole, although the Operating Partnership's objective is to reduce its reliance on secured indebtedness.

LENDING POLICIES

The Operating Partnership may consider offering purchase money financing in connection with the sale of a hotel where the provision of such financing will increase the value received by the Operating Partnership for the hotel sold.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST POLICIES

Under the MGCL, no contract or transaction between a Maryland corporation and any of its directors or between a Maryland corporation and any other corporation, firm, or other entity in which any of its directors is a director, or has a material financial interest, shall be void or voidable solely for this reason, or solely because the director is present at the meeting of the board or committee of the board which authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction, or solely because such director's or directors' votes are counted for such purpose, if (i) the fact of common directorship or interest is disclosed or known to the board of directors or the committee, and the board or committee authorizes, approves, or ratifies the contract or transaction by the affirmative vote of a majority of disinterested directors, even if the disinterested directors constitute less than a quorum, (ii) the fact of common directorship or interest is disclosed or known to the stockholders entitled to vote, and the contract or transaction is authorized, approved, or ratified by a majority of the votes cast by the stockholders entitled to vote other than the votes of shares owned of record or beneficially by the interested corporation, firm or other entity, or (iii) the contract or transaction is fair and reasonable to the corporation. Common or interested directors or the stock owned by them or by an interested corporation, firm, or other entity may be counted in determining the presence of a quorum at a meeting of the board of directors or a committee of the board or at a meeting of the stockholders, as the case may be, at which the contract or transaction is authorized, approved or ratified.

Host REIT's Board of Directors has also adopted a policy to address conflicts of interest. In addition, Maryland and Delaware law impose certain duties on the Board of Directors and Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership (to the extent such duties have not been eliminated pursuant to the Charter or the Partnership Agreement). There can be no assurance, however, that these policies always will be successful in eliminating the influence of such conflicts. If they are not successful, decisions could be made that may fail to reflect fully the interests of all limited partners of the Operating Partnership.

Host REIT has adopted a policy which would require that all material contracts and transactions between Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or any of its subsidiaries, on the one hand, and a director or executive officer of Host REIT or any entity in which such director or executive officer is a director or has a material financial interest, on the other hand, must be approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the disinterested directors. Where appropriate in the judgment of the disinterested directors, the Board of Directors may obtain a fairness opinion or engage independent counsel to represent the interests of nonaffiliated security holders, although the Board of Directors will have no obligation to do so.

In addition, under Delaware law (where the Operating Partnership is formed), Host REIT, as general partner, has a fiduciary duty to the Operating Partnership and, consequently, such transactions are subject to the duties of care and loyalty that Host REIT, as general partner, owes to limited partners of the Operating Partnership (to the extent such duties have not been eliminated pursuant to the terms of the Partnership Agreement). The Partnership Agreement provides that (i) in considering to dispose of any of the assets of the Operating Partnership, Host REIT shall take into account the tax consequences to it of any such disposition and shall have no liability to the Operating Partnership or the limited partners for decisions based upon or influenced by such tax consequences (and the Operating Partnership generally is obligated to pay any taxes Host REIT incurs as result of such transactions), (ii) Host REIT, as general partner, is under no obligation to consider the separate interests of the limited partners (including, without limitation, tax consequences) in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to take, or decline to take, any action and (iii) any act or omission by Host REIT, as a general partner, undertaken in the good faith belief that such action is necessary or desirable to protect the ability of Host REIT to continue to qualify as a REIT or to allow Host REIT to avoid incurring liability for taxes under Section 857 or 4981 of the Code (relating to required distributions) is deemed approved by all limited partners.

POLICIES WITH RESPECT TO OTHER ACTIVITIES

The Operating Partnership may, but does not presently intend to, make investments other than as previously described. Host REIT will make investments only through the Operating Partnership. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will have authority to offer their securities and to repurchase or otherwise reacquire their securities and may engage in such activities in the future. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership also may make loans to joint ventures in which they may participate in the future to meet working capital needs. Neither Host REIT nor the Operating Partnership will engage in trading, underwriting, agency distribution or sale of securities of other issuers. Host REIT's policies with respect to such activities may be reviewed and modified from time to time by Host REIT's directors without notice to, or the vote of, its shareholders.

SELECTED FINANCIAL DATA

The following table presents certain selected historical financial data of Host which has been derived from Host's audited Consolidated Financial Statements for the five most recent fiscal years ended January 2, 1998 and the unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements for the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997. The income statement data for fiscal year 1993 does not reflect the Marriott International Distribution and related transactions and, accordingly, the table presents data for Host for 1993 that includes amounts attributable to Marriott International. As a result of the Marriott International Distribution and related transactions, the assets, liabilities and businesses of Host have changed substantially.

The information contained in the following table is not comparable to the operations of Host or the Operating Partnership on a going-forward basis because the historical information relates to an operating entity which owns and operates its hotels, while the Company will own the Hotels but will lease them to the Lessees and receive rental payments in connection therewith.

- (1) In the First Two Quarters 1997 and fiscal year 1997, Host recognized a $5 million and a $3 million, respectively, extraordinary gain, net of taxes, on the extinguishment of certain debt. In 1994, Host recognized a $6 million extraordinary loss, net of taxes, on the required redemption of senior notes. In 1993, Host recognized a $4 million extraordinary loss, net of taxes, on the completion of an exchange offer for its then outstanding bonds.
  - (2) Fiscal year 1996 includes 53 weeks.
  - (3) Operating results for 1995 include a $10 million pre-tax charge to write down the carrying value of five limited service properties to their net realizable value and a $60 million pre-tax charge to write down an undeveloped land parcel to its estimated sales value. In 1995, Host recognized a $20 million extraordinary loss, net of taxes, on the extinguishment of debt.
  - (4) Operating results for 1993 include the operations of Marriott International through the Marriott International Distribution date of October 8, 1993. These operations had a net pre-tax effect on income of $211 million for the year ended December 31, 1993 and are recorded as "Profit from operations distributed to Marriott International" on Host's consolidated statements of operations and are, therefore, not included in sales, operating profit before corporate expenses and interest, interest expense and interest income for the same period. The net pre-tax effect of these operations is, however, included in income before income taxes, extraordinary item and cumulative effect of changes in accounting principles and in net income for the same periods. Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 109, "Accounting for Income Taxes," was adopted in the first quarter of 1993. In the second quarter of 1993, Host changed its accounting method for assets held for sale. During 1993, Host recorded a $34 million credit to reflect the adoption of SFAS No. 109 and a $32 million charge, net of taxes, to reflect the change in its accounting method for assets held for sale. Operating results in 1993 included pre-tax expenses related to the Marriott International Distribution totaling $13 million.

- (5) Host recorded a loss from discontinued operations, net of taxes, as a result of the Special Dividend (as defined herein) of $61 million in 1995, $6 million in 1994, and $4 million in 1993. The 1995 loss from discontinued operations includes a pre-tax charge of $47 million for the adoption of SFAS No. 121, "Accounting For the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and Long-Lived Assets to be Disposed Of," a pre-tax $15 million restructuring charge and an extraordinary loss of $10 million, net of taxes, on the extinguishment of debt.
- (6) Host considers Comparative Funds From Operations ("Comparative FFO," which represents Funds From Operations, as defined by the National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts, Inc. ("NAREIT"), plus deferred tax expense) a meaningful disclosure that will help the investment community to better understand the financial performance of Host, including enabling its shareholders and analysts to more easily compare Host's performance to REITs. FFO is defined by NAREIT as net income computed in accordance with GAAP, excluding gains or losses from debt restructurings and sales of properties, plus real estate related depreciation and amortization, and after adjustments for unconsolidated partnerships and joint ventures. FFO should not be considered as an alternative to net income, operating profit, cash flows from operations or any other operating or liquidity performance measure prescribed by GAAP. FFO is also not an indicator of funds available to fund the Host's cash needs, including its ability to make distributions. Host's method of calculating FFO may be different from methods used by other REITs and, accordingly, may not be comparable to such other REITs.
- (7) The ratio of earnings to fixed charges is computed by dividing net income before interest expense and other fixed charges by total fixed charges, including interest expense, amortization of debt issuance costs and the portion of rent expense that is deemed to represent interest. The deficiency of earnings to fixed charges is largely the result of depreciation and amortization of $122 million and $113 million in 1995 and 1994, respectively.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF RESULTS OF OPERATIONS AND FINANCIAL CONDITION

LACK OF COMPARABILITY FOLLOWING THE MERGERS AND THE REIT CONVERSION

Because substantially all of the Company's Hotels will be leased following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the Company does not believe that the historical results of operations of Host will be comparable to the results of operations of the Company following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. For pro forma information giving effect to the Mergers and the REIT Conversion (including the Leases), see "Unaudited Pro Forma Financial Information."

HISTORICAL RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Revenues primarily represent house profit from hotel properties and senior living communities, net gains (losses) on property transactions and equity in the earnings (losses) of affiliates. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to Host as property owner and represents gross hotel sales less property-level expenses (excluding depreciation, management fees, property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs which are classified as operating costs and expenses included in the accompanying financial statements). Other operating costs and expenses include idle land carrying costs and certain other costs.

Host's hotel operating costs and expenses are, to a great extent, fixed. Therefore, Host derives substantial operating leverage from increases in revenue. This operating leverage is somewhat diluted, however, by the impact of base management fees which are calculated as a percentage of sales, variable lease payments and incentive management fees tied to operating performance above certain established levels. Successful hotel performance resulted in certain of Host's properties reaching levels which allowed the manager to share in the growth of profits in the form of higher management fees. Host expects that this trend will continue in 1998 as the upscale and luxury full-service segments continue to strengthen. At these higher operating levels, Host's and the managers' interests are closely aligned, which helps to drive further increases in profitability, but moderates operating leverage.

For the periods discussed herein, Host's hotel properties have experienced substantial increases in room revenues generated per available room ("REVPAR"). REVPAR is a commonly used indicator of market performance for hotels which represents the combination of the average daily room rate charged and the average occupancy achieved. REVPAR does not include food and beverage or other ancillary revenues generated by the property. The REVPAR increase primarily represents strong percentage increases in room rates, while occupancy increases have been more moderate. Increases in average room rates have generally been achieved by the managers through shifting occupancies away from discounted group business to higher-rated group and transient business and by selectively increasing room rates. This has been made possible by increased travel due to improved economic conditions and by the favorable supply/demand characteristics existing in the upscale and luxury full-service segments of the lodging industry. Host expects this favorable relationship between supply growth and demand growth to continue in the upscale and luxury markets in which it operates, which should result in improved REVPAR and operating profits at its hotel properties in the near term. However, there can be no assurance that REVPAR will continue to increase in the future.

FIRST TWO QUARTERS 1998 COMPARED TO FIRST TWO QUARTERS 1997 (HISTORICAL)

Revenues. Revenues primarily represent house profit from Host's hotel properties, net gains (losses) on property transactions and equity in earnings (losses) of affiliates. Revenues increased $225 million, or 43%, to $747 million for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 ("First Two Quarters 1998") from $522 million for the twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997 ("First Two Quarters 1997"). Host's revenue and operating profit were impacted by improved lodging results for comparable full-service hotel properties, the addition of 18 full-service hotel properties during 1997 and eight full-service properties during the First Two Quarters 1998, the acquisition of 30 senior living communities in 1997 and one senior living community in 1998 and the gain on the sale of two hotel properties in the First Two Quarters 1998.

Hotel sales (gross hotel sales, including room sales, food and beverage sales, and other ancillary sales such as telephone sales) increased $317 million, or 25%, to $1,574 million in the First Two Quarters 1998, reflecting the REVPAR increases for comparable units and the addition of full-service properties in 1997 and 1998. Improved results for Host's full-service hotels were driven by strong increases in REVPAR for comparable units of 8.2% to $116.66 for the First Two Quarters 1998. Results were further enhanced by a one percentage point increase in the house profit margin for comparable full-service properties. On a comparable basis for Host's full-service hotel properties, average room rates increased over eight percent, while average occupancy decreased slightly.

Revenues generated from Host's 31 senior living communities totaled $39 million for the First Two Quarters 1998. For the First Two Quarters 1998, average occupancy was almost 92% and the average per diem rate was almost $88, which resulted in revenue per available unit ("REVPAU") of $80.65. Senior living communities' sales totaled $110 million for the First Two Quarters 1998.

Revenues were also impacted by the gains on the sales of two hotel properties. The New York East Side Marriott was sold for $191 million resulting in a pre-tax gain of approximately $40 million. The Napa Valley Marriott was sold for $21 million resulting in a pre-tax gain of approximately $10 million.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses principally consist of depreciation, management fees, property taxes, ground, building and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs. Operating costs and expenses increased $66 million to $373 million in the First Two Quarters 1998 from $307 million for the First Two Quarters 1997, primarily representing increased hotel and senior living communities' operating costs, including depreciation and management fees. Hotel operating costs increased $52 million to $343 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 primarily due to the addition of 26 full-service properties during 1997 and the First Two Quarters 1998 and increased management fees and rentals tied to improved property results. As a percentage of hotel revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 53% of revenues in the First Two Quarters 1998 from 57% of revenues in the First Two Quarters 1997 due to the significant increases in REVPAR discussed above, as well as the operating leverage as a result of a significant portion of Host's hotel operating costs and expenses being fixed. Host's senior living communities' operating costs and expenses were $20 million for the First Two Quarters 1998.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, Host's operating profit increased $159 million, or 74%, to $374 million for the First Two Quarters 1998. Hotel operating profit increased $88 million, or 40%, to $309 million, or 47% of hotel revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1998 from $221 million, or 43% of hotel revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1997. Specifically, hotels in New York City and Toronto reported significant improvements for the First Two Quarters 1998. Results in Mexico City have also improved as the Mexican economy continues to strengthen. Properties in Florida reported some minor softness in results due to exceptionally poor weather in 1998. Host's senior living communities generated $19 million of operating profit for the First Two Quarters 1998.

Minority Interest. Minority interest expense increased $6 million to $30 million for the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily reflecting the impact of the consolidation of affiliated partnerships and the acquisition of controlling interests in newly-formed partnerships during 1997 and the First Two Quarters 1998.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $3 million to $21 million for the First Two Quarters 1998. As a percentage of revenues, corporate expenses decreased to 2.8% of revenues for the First Two Quarters 1998 from 3.4% in the First Two Quarters 1997, reflecting Host's efforts to control its corporate expenses in spite of the substantial growth in revenues.

REIT Conversion Expenses. REIT Conversion Expenses reflect the professional fees and other expenses associated with the Company's conversion to a REIT.

Interest Expense. Interest expense increased 33% to $162 million in the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily due to additional debt of approximately $580 million assumed in connection with the 1997 and 1998 full-service hotel additions, approximately $300 million assumed in connection with the acquisition of senior living communities, as well as the issuance of $600 million of 8 7/8% senior notes in July 1997.

Dividends on Convertible Preferred Securities. The dividends on Convertible Preferred Securities reflect the dividends accrued on the $550 million in 6.75% Convertible Preferred Securities issued by Host in December 1996.

Interest Income. Interest income increased $3 million to $25 million for the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily reflecting interest earned on cash held for future hotel investments.

Income before Extraordinary Item. Income before extraordinary item for the First Two Quarters 1998 was $96 million, compared to $32 million for the First Two Quarters 1997.

Extraordinary Gain. In March 1997, Host purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott Hotel. Host purchased the bonds for $219 million, which was an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, Host recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount and the write-off of deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

Net Income. Host's net income for the First Two Quarters 1998 was $96 million compared to $37 million for the First Two Quarters 1997. For the First Two Quarters 1998 and 1997, basic earnings per common share were $.47 and $.18, respectively and diluted earnings per common share were $.45 and $.18, respectively.

1997 COMPARED TO 1996 (HISTORICAL)

Revenues. Revenues increased $415 million, or 57%, to $1.1 billion for 1997. Host's revenue and operating profit were impacted by:

- improved lodging results for comparable full-service hotel properties;
- the addition of 23 full-service hotel properties during 1996 and 18 full-service properties during 1997;
- the addition of 30 senior living communities in 1997;
- the 1996 sale and leaseback of 16 Courtyard properties and 18 Residence Inns; and
- the 1997 results including 52 weeks versus 53 weeks in 1996.

Hotel revenues increased $376 million, or 52%, to $1.1 billion in 1997, as all three of the Company's lodging concepts reported growth in REVPAR. Hotel sales increased $864 million, or 44%, to over $2.8 billion in 1997, reflecting the REVPAR increases for comparable units and the addition of full-service properties during 1996 and 1997. Improved results for the Company's full-service hotels were driven by strong increases in REVPAR for comparable units of 12.6% in 1997. Results were further enhanced by a more than two percentage point increase in the house profit margin for comparable full-service properties. On a comparable basis for Host's full-service properties, average room rates increased almost 11%, while average occupancy increased over one percentage point.

Revenues generated from Host's 1997 third quarter acquisition of 29 senior living communities totaled $37 million. During 1997, average occupancy of the communities was 92% and the average per diem rate was $84, which resulted in 1997 REVPAR of $77. Overall occupancies for 1997 were lower than the historical and anticipated future occupancies due to the significant number of expansion units added during the year, the overall disruption to the communities as a result of the construction and the time required to fill the expansion units. Senior living communities' sales totaled $111 million for 1997.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses increased $199 million to $698 million for 1997, primarily representing increased hotel and senior living communities' operating costs, including depreciation and management fees. Hotel operating costs increased $188 million to $649 million, primarily due to the addition of 41 full-service properties during 1996 and 1997, and increased management fees and rentals tied to improved property results. As a percentage of hotel revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 59% of revenues for 1997, from 64% of revenues for 1996, reflecting the impact of increased 1997 revenues on relatively fixed operating costs and expenses. Host's senior living communities operating costs and expenses were $20 million (54% of revenues) for 1997.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, Host's operating profit increased $216 million, or 93%, to $449 million in 1997. Hotel operating profit increased $188 million, or 73%, to $444 million, or 41% of hotel revenues, for 1997 compared to $256 million, or 36% of hotel revenues, for 1996. In nearly all markets, Host's hotels recorded improvements in comparable operating results. In particular, Host's hotels in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and Pacific coast regions benefited from the upscale and luxury full-service room supply and demand imbalance. Hotels in New York City, Philadelphia, San Francisco/Silicon Valley and in Southern California performed particularly well. In 1998, Host expects results to be strong in these markets and other gateway cities in which the Company owns hotels. In 1997, Host's suburban Atlanta properties (three properties totaling 1,022 rooms) generally reported decreased results due to higher activity in 1996 related to the Summer Olympics and the impact of the additional supply added to the suburban areas. However, the majority of Host's hotel rooms in Atlanta are in the core business districts in downtown and Buckhead where they realized strong year-over-year results and were only marginally impacted by the additional supply. Host's senior living communities generated $17 million (46% of revenues) of operating profit.

Minority Interest. Minority interest expense increased $26 million to $32 million for 1997, primarily reflecting the impact of the consolidation of affiliated partnerships and the acquisition of controlling interests in newly-formed partnerships during 1996 and 1997.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $4 million to $47 million in 1997. As a percentage of revenues, corporate expenses decreased to 4.1% of revenues in 1997 from 5.9% of revenues in 1996. This reflects Host's efforts to carefully control its corporate expenses in spite of the substantial growth in revenues.

Interest Expense. Interest expense increased $65 million to $302 million in 1997, primarily due to the additional mortgage debt of approximately $1.1 billion assumed in connection with the 1996 and 1997 full-service hotel additions, approximately $315 million in debt incurred in conjunction with the acquisition of senior living communities, as well as the issuance of $600 million of 8 7/8% senior notes in July 1997.

Dividends on Convertible Preferred Securities of Subsidiary Trust. The dividends on the Convertible Preferred Securities reflect the dividends on the $550 million in 6.75% Convertible Preferred Securities issued by Host in December 1996.

Interest Income. Interest income increased $4 million to $52 million for 1997, primarily reflecting the interest income on the available proceeds generated by the December 1996 offering of Convertible Preferred Securities and the proceeds generated by the issuance of the 8 7/8% senior notes in July 1997.

Income (Loss) Before Extraordinary Items. Income before extraordinary items for 1997 was $47 million, compared to a $13 million loss before extraordinary items for 1996 as a result of the items discussed above.

Extraordinary Gain (Loss). In March 1997, Host purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott Hotel. Host purchased the bonds for $219 million, which was an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, Host recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount less the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes. In December 1997, Host refinanced the mortgage debt secured by the Marriott's Orlando World Center. In connection with the refinancing, Host recognized an extraordinary loss of $2 million, which represents payment of a prepayment penalty and the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

Net Income (Loss). Host's net income in 1997 was $50 million, compared to a net loss of $13 million in 1996. Basic earnings per common share was $.25 for 1997, compared to a basic loss per common share of $.07 in 1996. Diluted earnings per common share was $.24 for 1997 compared to a diluted loss per common share of $.07 in 1996.

1996 COMPARED TO 1995 (HISTORICAL)

Revenues. Revenues increased $248 million, or 51%, to $732 million in 1996. Host's revenue and operating profit were impacted by:

- improved lodging results for comparable full-service hotel properties;
- the addition of nine full-service hotel properties during 1995 and 23 full-service properties during 1996;
- the 1996 and 1995 sale and leaseback of 53 of Host's Courtyard properties and 18 of Host's Residence Inns;
- the 1996 change in the estimated depreciable lives and salvage values for certain hotel properties which resulted in additional depreciation expense of $15 million;
- the 1996 results including 53 weeks versus 52 weeks in 1995;
- the $60 million pre-tax charge in 1995 to write down the carrying value of one undeveloped land parcel to its estimated sales value;
- a $10 million pre-tax charge in 1995 to write down the carrying value of certain Courtyard and Residence Inn properties held for sale to their net realizable values included in "Net gains (losses) on property transactions"; and
- the 1995 sale of four Fairfield Inns.

Hotel revenues increased $243 million, or 51%, to $717 million in 1996, as all three of Host's lodging concepts reported growth in REVPAR. Hotel sales increased $590 million, or 44%, to $1.9 billion in 1996, reflecting the REVPAR increases for comparable units and the addition of full-service properties during 1995 and 1996.

Improved results for Host's full-service hotels were driven by strong increases in REVPAR for comparable units of 11% in 1996. Results were further enhanced by an almost two percentage point increase in the house profit margin for comparable full-service properties. On a comparable basis for Host's full-service properties, average room rates increased 8%, while average occupancy increased over two percentage points.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses increased $129 million to $499 million for 1996, primarily representing increased hotel operating costs, including depreciation, partially offset by the $60 million pre-tax charge in 1995 to write down the carrying value of one undeveloped land parcel to its estimated sales value. Hotel operating costs increased $180 million to $461 million, primarily due to the addition of 32 full-service properties during 1995 and 1996, increased management fees and rentals tied to improved property results and a change in the depreciable lives and salvage values of certain large hotel properties ($15 million). As a percentage of hotel revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses increased to 64% of revenues for 1996, from 59% of revenues for 1995, reflecting the impact of the lease payments on the Courtyard and Residence Inn properties which have been sold and leased back, and the change in depreciable lives and salvage values for certain large hotel properties discussed above, as well as the shifting emphasis to full-service properties. Full-service hotel rooms accounted for 100% of Host's total hotel rooms on January 3, 1997, versus 84% on December 29, 1995.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, Host's operating profit increased $119 million, or 104%, to $233 million in 1996. Hotel operating profit increased $63 million, or 33%, to $256 million, or 36% of hotel revenues, for 1996 compared to $193 million, or 41% of hotel revenues, for 1995. Across the board, the Company's hotels recorded substantial improvements in comparable operating results. In addition, several hotels, including the New York Marriott Marquis, the New York Marriott East Side, the Philadelphia Marriott, the San Francisco Marriott and the Miami Airport Marriott posted particularly significant improvements in operating profit for the year. Host's Atlanta properties also posted outstanding results, primarily due to the 1996 Summer Olympics. Additionally, several hotels which recently converted to the Marriott brand, including the Denver Marriott Tech Center, the Marriott's Mountain Resort at Vail and the Williamsburg Marriott, recorded strong results compared to the prior year as they completed renovations and began to realize the benefit of their conversions.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $7 million to $43 million in 1996. As a percentage of revenues, corporate expenses decreased to 5.9% of revenues in 1996 from 7.4% of revenues in 1995. This reflects Host's efforts to carefully control its corporate administrative expenses in spite of the substantial growth in revenues.

Interest Expense. Interest expense increased 33% to $237 million in 1996, primarily due to the additional mortgage debt of approximately $696 million incurred in connection with the 1996 full-service hotel additions and the issuance of $350 million of notes issued by HMC Acquisition Properties, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Host, in December 1995, partially offset by the net impact of the 1995 redemptions of Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. notes ("Hospitality Notes").

Loss from Continuing Operations. The loss from continuing operations for 1996 decreased $49 million to $13 million, as a result of the changes discussed above.

Net Loss. Host's net loss in 1996 was $13 million, compared to a net loss of $143 million in 1995, which included a $61 million loss from discontinued operations and a $20 million extraordinary loss primarily representing premiums paid on bond redemptions and the write-off of deferred financing fees and discounts on the debt. The basic and diluted loss per common share was $.07 for 1996 and $.90 for 1995.

PRO FORMA RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Because substantially all of the Company's Hotels will be leased to the Lessees following the REIT Conversion, the Company does not believe that Host's historical results of operations will be comparable to the results of operations of the Company following the REIT Conversion. Accordingly, a comparison of the Company's pro forma results of operations for the First Two Quarters 1998 to the First Two Quarters 1997 and fiscal year 1997 to fiscal year 1996 have been included below. The following discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with the Company's combined consolidated financial statements and the Company's unaudited pro forma financial statements and related notes thereto included elsewhere in this Consent Solicitation. The following discussion and analysis has been prepared assuming the following two scenarios:

- . All Partnerships participate and no Notes are issued ("100% Participation with No Notes Issued").
- . All Partnerships participate and Notes are issued with respect to 100% of the OP Units allocable to each Partnership ("100% Participation with Notes Issued").

These presentations do not purport to represent what combination will result from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, but instead are designed to illustrate what the composition of the Company would have been like under the above scenarios. Furthermore, the unaudited pro forma financial statements do not purport to represent what the Company's results of operations or cash flows would actually have been if the Mergers and REIT Conversion had in fact occurred on such date or at the beginning of such period or to project the Company's results of operations or cash flows for any future date or period.

Revenues. Revenues primarily represent lease revenues, net gains (losses) on property transactions and equity in earnings (losses) of affiliates, including the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. Revenues increased $8 million, or 2%, to $345 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 from $337 million for the First Two Quarters 1997. EITF 98-9, "Accounting for Contingent Rents in Interim Financial Periods," requires a lessor to defer recognition of contingent rental income in interim periods until the specified target that triggers the contingent rental income is achieved. Based on the structure of the Company's leases, only minimum rent was recorded in the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997. On a pro forma basis, the Company would have received rental payments of $603 million and $543 million, respectively, resulting in deferred revenue of $261 million and $207 million, respectively, for the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997.

Hotel sales (gross hotel sales, including room sales, food and beverage sales, and other ancillary sales such as telephone sales) increased $136 million, or 8.1%, to over $1.9 billion in the First Two Quarters 1998, reflecting the REVPAR increases for the Company's hotels. Improved results for the Company's hotels were driven by strong increases in REVPAR of 8.3% to $113.67 for the First Two Quarters 1998. Average room rates increased 9%, while average occupancy decreased slightly to 77.8%.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses principally consist of depreciation, property taxes, ground, rent, insurance and certain other costs. Operating costs and expenses decreased $2 million to $270 million in the First Two Quarters 1998. As a percentage of rental revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 77% of rental revenues in the First Two Quarters 1998 from 79% of rental revenues in the First Two Quarters 1997 due to the increase in minimum rent under the Company's leases.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in rental revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, the Company's operating profit increased $10 million, or 15%, to $75 million for the First Two Quarters 1998. Hotel operating profit increased $7 million, or 10%, to $77 million, or 23% of rental revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1998 from $70 million, or 21% of rental revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1997. The Company's hotels recorded significant improvements in comparable operating results, however, due to EITF 98-9, only minimum rent could be recorded. Specifically, hotels in New York City, Boston, Toronto and Atlanta reported significant improvements for the First Two Quarters 1998. Properties in Florida reported some temporary declines in operating results due to exceptionally poor weather in 1998.

Minority Interest. Minority interest expense increased $4 million to $11 million for the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily reflecting improved lodging results.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $2 million to $20 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 due to increased staffing levels and the impact of inflation.

Interest Expense. Interest expense decreased $5 million to $216 million in the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily due to the impact of principal amortization on the Company's mortgage debt.

Interest Income. Interest income was unchanged at $13 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Loss before Extraordinary Items. The loss before extraordinary items for the First Two Quarters 1998 was $151 million, compared to $161 million for the First Two Quarters 1997.

100% PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED--FIRST TWO QUARTERS 1998 COMPARED TO FIRST TWO QUARTERS 1997 (PRO FORMA)

Revenues. Revenues increased $8 million, or 2%, to $345 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 from $337 million for the First Two Quarters 1997. Based on the structure of the Company's leases, only minimum rent was recorded in the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997. Average room rates increased 9%, while average occupancy decreased slightly to 77.8%.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses decreased $2 million to $269 million in the First Two Quarters 1998. As a percentage of rental revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 77% of revenues in the First Two Quarters 1998 from 79% of rental revenues in the First Two Quarters 1997 due to the increase in minimum rent under the Company's leases.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in rental revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, the Company's operating profit increased $10 million, or 15%, to $76 million for the First Two Quarters 1998. Hotel operating profit increased $7 million, or 10%, to $78 million, or 23% of rental revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1998 from $71 million, or 21% of rental revenues, for the First Two Quarters 1997. Once again, the Company's hotels recorded significant improvements in comparable operating results; however, due to EITF 98-9, only minimum rent could be recorded. Specifically, hotels in New York City, Boston, Toronto and Atlanta reported significant improvements for the First Two Quarters 1998. Properties in Florida reported some temporary declines in operating results due to exceptionally poor weather in 1998.

Minority Interest. Minority interest expense increased $4 million to $11 million for the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily reflecting improved lodging results.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $2 million to $20 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 due to increased staffing levels and the impact of inflation.

Interest Expense. Interest expense decreased $5 million to $224 million in the First Two Quarters 1998, primarily due to the impact of principal amortization on the Company's mortgage debt.

Interest Income. Interest income remained unchanged at $13 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Loss before Extraordinary Items. The loss before extraordinary items for the First Two Quarters 1998 was $158 million, compared to $167 million for the First Two Quarters 1997.

100% PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED--1997 COMPARED TO 1996 (PRO FORMA)

The following table presents the results of operations for the Company for 1997 and 1996 on a pro forma basis under the two pro forma scenarios:

Revenues. Revenues increased $90 million, or 8.7%, to $1,120 million for 1997. The Company's revenue and operating profit were principally impacted by improved lodging results for its hotel properties, which led to a substantial increase in rental revenues. The 1997 results also included 52 weeks versus 53 weeks in 1996.

Hotel sales increased $264 million, or 7.3%, to nearly $3.9 billion in 1997, reflecting the increases in REVPAR. Improved results for the Company's full-service hotels were driven by strong increases in REVPAR of 9.8% to $103.30 in 1997. Average room rates increased nearly 9%, while average occupancy increased slightly to 77.7%.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses increased $11 million to $600 million for 1997. As a percentage of rental revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 53% of rental revenues for 1997, from 56% of rental revenues for 1996, reflecting the impact of increased 1997 rental revenues on relatively fixed operating costs and expenses.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in rental revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, the Company's operating profit increased $79 million, or 18%, to $520 million in 1997. Hotel operating profit increased $71 million, or 15%, to $530 million, or 47% of rental revenues, for 1997 compared to $459 million, or 44% of rental revenues, for 1996. In nearly all markets, the Company's hotels recorded improvements in comparable operating results. In particular, the Company's hotels in the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic and Pacific coast regions benefited from the upscale and luxury full-service room supply and demand imbalance. Hotels in New York City, Philadelphia, San Francisco/Silicon Valley and in Southern California performed particularly well. In 1998, the Company expects results to be strong in these markets and other gateway cities in which the Company owns hotels. In 1997, the Company's suburban Atlanta properties (three properties totaling 1,022 rooms) generally reported decreased results due to higher activity in 1996 related to the Summer Olympics and the impact of the additional supply added to the suburban areas. However, the majority of the Company's hotel rooms in Atlanta are in the core business districts in downtown and Buckhead where they realized strong year-over-year results and were only marginally impacted by the additional supply.

Minority Interest. Minority interest expense increased $1 million to $10 million in 1997.

Corporate Expenses. Corporate expenses increased $5 million to $44 million in 1997 due to increased staffing levels and the impact of inflation.

Interest Expense. Interest expense decreased $13 million to $468 million in 1997, primarily due to the impact of principal amortization on the Company's mortgage debt.

Interest Income. Interest income remained the same at $27 million for 1997, reflecting the interest income earned on the loan to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary for its acquisition of furniture and equipment, the working capital loan to Crestline, and a mortgage note on one property.

Income (Loss) Before Extraordinary Items. Income before extraordinary items for 1997 was $24 million, compared to a $58 million loss before extraordinary items for 1996 as a result of the items discussed above.

100% PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED--1997 COMPARED TO 1996 (PRO FORMA)

Revenues. Revenues increased $90 million, or 8.7%, to $1,120 million for 1997. As a percentage of rental revenues, hotel operating costs and expenses decreased to 52% of rental revenues for 1997, from 56% of rental revenues for 1996, reflecting the impact of increased 1997 rental revenues on relatively fixed operating costs and expenses.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in rental revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, the Company's operating profit increased $79 million, or 18%, to $522 million in 1997. Income (Loss) Before Extraordinary Items. Income before extraordinary items for 1997 was $9 million, compared to a $72 million loss before extraordinary items for 1996 as a result of the items discussed above.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

Host funds its capital requirements with a combination of operating cash flow, debt and equity financing and proceeds from sales of selected properties and other assets. Host utilizes these sources of capital to acquire new properties, fund capital additions and improvements and make principal payments on debt.

Capital Transactions. Host has recently substantially changed its debt financing through the following series of transactions which were intended to facilitate the consummation of the REIT Conversion.

On April 20, 1998, Host and certain of its subsidiaries filed a shelf registration statement on Form S-3 (the "Shelf Registration") with the Securities and Exchange Commission for $2.5 billion in securities, which may include debt, equity or any combination thereof. Host anticipates that any net proceeds from the sale of offered securities will be used for refinancing of Host's indebtedness, for acquisitions and general corporate purposes.

On August 5, 1998, HMH Properties, an indirect wholly owned subsidiary of Host, which owns 61 of Host's hotels, purchased substantially all of its (i) $600 million in 9 1/2% senior notes due 2005, (ii) $350 million in 9% senior notes due 2007 and (iii) $600 million in 8 7/8% senior notes due 2007 (collectively, the "Old Senior Notes"). Concurrently with each offer to purchase, HMH Properties solicited consents (the "1998 Consent Solicitations") from registered holders of the Old Senior Notes to certain amendments to eliminate or modify substantially all of the restrictive covenants and certain other provisions contained in the indentures pursuant to which the Old Senior Notes were issued. HMH Properties simultaneously utilized the Shelf Registration to issue an aggregate of $1.7 billion in New Senior Notes. The New Senior Notes were issued in two series, $500 million of 7 7/8% Series A notes due in 2005 and $1.2 billion of 7 7/8% Series B notes due in 2008. The 1998 Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of HMC Capital Resources Holdings Corporation ("Capital Resources"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Host, with and into HMH Properties. Capital Resources, the owner of eight of Host's hotel properties, was the obligor under the $500 million revolving credit facility (the "Old Credit Facility"). The Operating Partnership will assume the New Senior Notes in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee of Host is expected to terminate on the Effective Date.

In conjunction with the issuance of the New Senior Notes, HMH Properties entered into the $1.25 billion New Credit Facility with a group of commercial banks. The New Credit Facility has an initial three-year term with two one-year extension options. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility generally bear interest at the Eurodollar rate plus 1.75%. The interest rate and commitment fee (currently 0.35%) on the unused portion of the New Credit Facility fluctuate based on certain financial ratios. The New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by Host and its wholly owned subsidiary, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc., and certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties. The New Credit Facility will be assumed by the Operating Partnership in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee of Host is expected to terminate on the Effective Date. As of September 28, 1998, approximately $350 million was outstanding under the New Credit Facility.

The New Credit Facility and the indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contain covenants restricting the ability of HMM Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, grant liens on their assets, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equityholders of HMM Properties, Host, and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. The New Credit Facility and the New Senior Notes also contain certain financial covenants relating to, among other things, maintaining certain levels of tangible net worth and certain ratios of EBITDA to interest and fixed charges, total debt to EBITDA, unencumbered assets to unsecured debt, and secured debt to total debt.

The New Credit Facility replaces Host's Old Credit Facility. The net proceeds from the offering and borrowings under the New Credit Facility were used by Host to purchase substantially all of the Existing Senior Notes, to repay amounts outstanding under the Existing Credit Facility and to make bond premium and consent payments totaling $178 million. These costs, along with the write-off of deferred financing fees of approximately $55 million related to the Existing Senior Notes and the Existing Credit Facility, will be recorded as a pre-tax extraordinary loss on the extinguishment of debt in the third quarter of 1998.

In June 1997, HMC Capital Resources Corporation ("Capital Resources"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Host, entered into the Old Credit Facility with a group of commercial banks under which it may borrow up to $500 million for certain permitted uses. As a result of this transaction, Host terminated its line of credit with Marriott International.

In July 1997, HMM Properties and HMC Acquisition Properties, Inc. ("Acquisitions"), indirect, wholly owned subsidiaries of Host, completed consent solicitations with holders of their senior notes (the "1997 Consent Solicitations") to amend certain provisions of their senior notes indentures. The 1997 Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of Acquisitions with and into HMM Properties (the "HMM Properties Merger"). The amendments to the indentures also increased the ability of HMM Properties to acquire, through certain subsidiaries, additional properties subject to nonrecourse indebtedness and controlling interests in corporations, partnerships and other entities holding attractive properties and increased the threshold for distributions to affiliates to the excess of HMM Properties' earnings before interest expense, income taxes, depreciation and amortization and other non-cash items subsequent to the 1997 Consent Solicitations over 220% of HMM Properties' interest expense. HMM Properties paid dividends to Host of $54 million, $29 million and $36 million in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively, as permitted under the indentures.

Concurrent with the 1997 Consent Solicitations and the HMM Properties Merger, HMM Properties issued an aggregate of $600 million of 8 7/8% senior notes at par with a maturity of July 2007. HMM Properties received net proceeds of approximately $570 million, net of the costs of the 1997 Consent Solicitations and the offering.

In addition to the capital resources provided by its new debt financings, Host Marriott Financial Trust (the "Issuer"), a wholly owned subsidiary trust of Host, has outstanding 11 million shares of 6 3/4% convertible quarterly income preferred securities (the "Convertible Preferred Securities"), with a liquidation preference of $50 per share (for a total liquidation amount of $550 million) issued in December 1996. The Convertible Preferred Securities represent an undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Issuer and, pursuant to various agreements entered into in connection with the transaction, are fully, irrevocably and unconditionally guaranteed by Host. Proceeds from the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities were invested in 6 3/4% Convertible Subordinated Debentures (the "Debentures") due December 2, 2026 issued by Host. The Issuer exists solely to issue the Convertible Preferred Securities and its own common securities (the "Common Securities") and invest the proceeds therefrom in the Debentures, which are its sole assets. Each of the Convertible Preferred Securities is convertible at the option of the holder into shares of Host common stock at the rate of 2.6876 shares per Convertible Preferred Security (equivalent to a conversion price of $18.604 per share of Host common stock). The Debentures are convertible at the option of the holders into shares of Company common stock at a conversion rate of 2.6876 shares for each $50 in principal amount of Debentures. The conversion rate is subject to adjustments in certain events, including (i) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock by Host in shares of Host common stock; (ii) distributions to all holders of Host common stock of rights or warrants entitling such holders (for a period not to exceed 45 days) to subscribe for or purchase Host common stock at an exercise price less than the market price of Host common stock; (iii) subdivisions and combinations of Host common stock; (iv) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock consisting of indebtedness of Host, capital stock or other securities, assets or cash (other than certain cash dividends at an annualized rate of up to 12.5% of the market price of Host common stock); (v) payments for Host common stock by Host or any of its subsidiaries in respect of a tender or exchange offer (other than an odd-lot offer) at a price per share in excess of 110% of the market price of Host common stock; (vi) consummation by Host of certain mergers, a consolidation, a sale of all or substantially all of its assets, a recapitalization or certain reclassifications of Host common stock. The distribution of the capital stock of Crestline to all holders of Host REIT common stock would, and certain other elements of the REIT Conversion (such as other distributions of Host's accumulated earnings and profits) may, result in an adjustment to the conversion price of the Debentures. The Issuer will only convert Debentures pursuant to a notice of conversion by a holder of Convertible Preferred Securities. During 1997 and 1996, no shares were converted into common stock. Holders of the Convertible Preferred Securities are entitled to receive preferential cumulative cash distributions at an annual rate of 6 3/4% accruing from the original issue date, commencing March 1, 1997, and payable quarterly in arrears thereafter. The distribution rate and the distribution and other payment dates for the Convertible Preferred Securities will correspond to the interest rate and interest and other payment dates on the Debentures. Host may defer interest payments on the Debentures for a period not to exceed 20 consecutive quarters. If interest payments on the Debentures are deferred, so too are payments on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Under this circumstance, Host will not be permitted to declare or pay any cash distributions with respect to its capital stock or debt securities that rank pari passu with or junior to the Debentures. Subject to certain restrictions, the Convertible Preferred Securities are redeemable at the Issuer's option upon any redemption by Host of the Debentures after December 2, 1999. Upon repayment at maturity or as a result of the acceleration of the Debentures upon the occurrence of a default, the Debentures shall be subject to mandatory redemption, from which the proceeds will be applied to redeem Convertible Preferred Securities and Common Securities, together with accrued and unpaid distributions.

In connection with consummation of the REIT Conversion, the Company will assume primary liability for repayment of the convertible debentures of Host underlying the Convertible Preferred Securities. Upon conversion by a Convertible Preferred Securities holder, the Company will purchase Common Shares from Host REIT in exchange for a like number of OP Units and distribute the Common Shares to the Convertible Preferred Securities holder.

In March 1996, Host completed the issuance of 31.6 million shares of common stock for net proceeds of nearly $400 million.

In December 1995, Acquisitions issued $350 million of 9% senior notes (the "Acquisitions Notes"). The Acquisitions Notes were issued at par and have a final maturity of December 2007. The net proceeds totaled $340 million and were utilized to repay in full the outstanding borrowings of $210 million under Acquisitions' $230 million revolving credit facility (the "Revolver"), which was then terminated to acquire three full-service properties and to finance future acquisitions of full-service hotel properties with the remaining proceeds.

In May 1995, two wholly owned subsidiaries of Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. ("Hospitality"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Host, issued an aggregate of $1 billion of 9.5% senior secured notes in two concurrent offerings. HMT Properties and Host Marriott Travel Plazas, Inc. ("HMTPI"), the operator/manager of HM Services' food, beverage and merchandise concessions business, issued $600 million and $400 million, respectively, of senior notes. The net proceeds of approximately $971 million were used to defease, and subsequently redeem, all of Hospitality's remaining bonds and to repay borrowings under the line of credit with Marriott International. The HMTPI senior notes were included in the HM Services' special dividend.

During 1995, Host replaced its line of credit with a line of credit from Marriott International pursuant to which Host had the right to borrow up to $225 million. The line of credit with Marriott International was terminated as a result of the Capital Resources transaction discussed above.

Asset Dispositions. Host historically has sold, and may from time to time in the future consider opportunities to sell, certain of its real estate properties at attractive prices when the proceeds could be redeployed into investments with more favorable returns. During the second quarter of 1998, Host sold the 662-room New York Marriott East Side for proceeds of $191 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $40 million and the Napa Valley Marriott for proceeds of $21 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $10 million. During 1997, Host sold the 255-room Sheraton Elk Grove Suites for proceeds of approximately $16 million. Host also sold 90% of its 174-acre parcel of undeveloped land in Germantown, Maryland, for approximately $11 million, which approximated its carrying value. During the first and second quarters of 1996, 16 of the Host's Courtyard properties and 18 of the Host's Residence Inn properties were sold (subject to a leaseback) to Hospitality Properties Trust for approximately $314 million and Host will receive approximately $35 million upon expiration of the leases. A gain on the transactions of approximately $46 million was deferred and is being amortized over the initial term of the leases. During the first and third quarters of 1995, 37 of Host's Courtyard properties were sold to and leased back from Hospitality Properties Trust for approximately $330 million. Host received net proceeds from the two 1995 transactions of approximately $297 million and will receive approximately $33 million upon expiration of the leases. A deferred gain of $14 million on the sale/leaseback transactions is being amortized over the initial term of the leases. In 1995, Host also sold its four remaining Fairfield Inns for net cash proceeds of approximately $6 million, which approximated their carrying value.

In cases where Host has made a decision to dispose of particular properties, Host assesses impairment of each individual property to be sold on the basis of expected sales price less estimated costs of disposal. Otherwise, Host assesses impairment of its real estate properties based on whether it is probable that undiscounted future cash flows from such properties will be less than their net book value. If a property is impaired, its basis is adjusted to its fair market value. In the second quarter of 1995, Host made a determination that its owned Courtyard and Residence Inn properties were held for sale and recorded a $10 million charge to write down the carrying value of five individual Courtyard and Residence Inn properties to their estimated net sales values.

Capital Acquisitions, Additions and Improvements. Host seeks to grow primarily through opportunistic acquisitions of full-service hotels. Host believes that the upscale and luxury full-service hotel segments of the market offer opportunities to acquire assets at attractive multiples of cash flow and at discounts to replacement value, including under performing hotels which can be improved by conversion to the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands. During 1997, Host acquired eight full-service hotels (3,600 rooms) and controlling interests in nine additional full-service hotels (5,024 rooms) for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $766 million (including the assumption of approximately $418 million of debt). Host also completed the acquisition of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center, after acquiring the mortgage on the hotel for $101 million in late 1996. During 1996, Host acquired six full-service hotels (1,964 rooms) for an aggregate purchase price of $189 million and controlling interests in 17 additional full-service properties (8,917 rooms) for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $1.1 billion (including the assumption of $696 million of debt). During 1995, Host acquired nine hotels totaling approximately 3,900 rooms in separate transactions for approximately $390 million ($141 million of which was financed through first mortgage financing on four of the hotels).

In the first quarter of 1998, Host acquired a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel for $239 million, including the assumption of $164 million of mortgage debt. Host also acquired a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 359-room Albany Marriott, the 350-room San Diego Marriott Mission Valley and the 320-room Minneapolis Marriott Southwest for approximately $50 million. In the second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 289-room Park Ridge Marriott for $24 million and acquired the 281-room Ritz-Carlton, Phoenix for $75 million. Host is continually engaged in discussions with respect to other potential acquisition properties. In addition, Host acquired the 397-room Ritz-Carlton, Tysons Corner, Virginia and the 487-room Torrance Marriott near Los Angeles, California. In the third quarter of 1998, Host acquired the 308-room Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn for approximately $65 million, the 336-room Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco for approximately $161 million and the 404-room Memphis Marriott (which was converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition) for approximately $16 million.

On April 17, 1998, Host announced that it had reached a definitive agreement with the Blackstone Entities to acquire interests in twelve world-class luxury hotels and certain other assets. If the Blackstone Acquisition is consummated, the Operating Partnership expects to pay approximately $862 million in cash and assumed debt and to issue approximately 43.7 million OP Units (based upon a negotiated value of $20.00 per OP Unit) and other consideration. The Blackstone portfolio consists of two Ritz-Carltons, two Four Seasons, one Grand Hyatt, three Hyatt Regencies and four Swissotel properties and the mortgage on a third Four Seasons. These hotels are located in major urban and convention/resort markets with significant barriers to new competition. The Blackstone Acquisition is expected to close as part of, and is contingent upon, the REIT Conversion. At that time, the Blackstone hotels and other assets will be acquired by the Company. The hotels will be leased to Lessees and will be managed on behalf of the Lessees under their existing management contracts.

Under the terms of its hotel management agreements, Host is generally required to spend approximately 5% of gross hotel sales to cover the capital needs of the properties, including major guest room and common area renovations which occur every five to six years.

Host completed the construction of the 1,200-room Philadelphia Marriott, which opened on January 27, 1995. The construction costs of this hotel were funded 60% through a loan from Marriott International which was repaid in the fourth quarter of 1996. In March 1997, Host obtained a $90 million mortgage which bears interest at a fixed rate of 8.49% and matures in 2009. Construction of a second hotel in Philadelphia, the 419-room Philadelphia Airport Marriott (the "Airport Hotel"), was completed and opened on November 1, 1995. The Airport Hotel was financed principally with $40 million of proceeds from an industrial development bond financing. Host also completed construction of a 300-room Residence Inn in Arlington, Virginia, which opened in March 1996. Capital expenditures for these three hotels totaled $11 million in 1996 and $64 million in 1995.

In November 1997, Host announced that it had committed to develop and construct the 717-room Tampa Convention Center Marriott for a cost estimated at approximately $88 million, net of an approximate $16 million subsidy provided by the City of Tampa.

Host may also expand certain existing hotel properties where strong performance and market demand exists. Expansions to existing properties creates a lower risk to Host as the success of the market is generally known and development time is significantly shorter than new construction. Host recently committed to add approximately 500 rooms and an additional 15,000 square feet of meeting space to the 1,503-room Marriott's Orlando World Center.

In 1997, Host acquired the outstanding common stock of the Forum Group from Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc. ("MSLS"), a subsidiary of Marriott International. Host purchased the Forum Group portfolio of 29 senior living communities for approximately $460 million, including approximately $270 million in debt. The properties will continue to be operated by MSLS. In addition, Host plans to add approximately 1,060 units to these communities for approximately $107 million through a expansion plan which will be completed in 1999. In 1997, approximately $56 million (549 units) of the expansion plan had been completed (including $33 million of debt financing provided by Marriott International). Host also acquired 49% of the remaining 50% interest in the venture which owned the 418-unit Leisure Park senior living community from Marriott International for approximately $23 million, including approximately $15 million of debt.

During the first quarter of 1998, Host acquired the Gables at Winchester in suburban Boston, a 124-unit senior living community, for $21 million and entered into conditional purchase agreements to acquire two Marriott Brighton Gardens assisted living communities from the Summit Companies of Denver, Colorado. After the anticipated completion of construction in the first quarter of 1999, Host may acquire these two 160-unit properties located in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colorado, for $35 million, if they achieve certain operating performance criteria. All three of these communities will be operated by MSLS under long-term operating agreements.

Under the terms of its senior living communities' management agreements, Host is generally required to spend an amount of gross revenues to cover certain routine repairs and maintenance and replacements and renewals to the communities' property and improvements. The amount Host is required to spend will be 2.65% through fiscal year 2002, 2.85% for fiscal years 2003 through 2007, and 3.5% thereafter. Host anticipates spending approximately $6 million in 1998.

As part of the Initial E&P Distribution, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will distribute shares of Crestline common stock (which will own the Forum Group portfolio and other senior living communities described above) to Host REIT's shareholders and the Blackstone Entities.

Debt Payments. At January 2, 1998, Host and its subsidiaries had $1,585 million of senior notes, approximately $2.0 billion of non-recourse mortgage debt secured by real estate assets and approximately $219 million of unsecured and other debt.

Scheduled maturities over the next five years were $942 million as of January 2, 1998, a significant portion of which represents the maturity of the mortgage on the New York Marriott Marquis of approximately $270 million in December 1998. Management anticipates that the mortgage will be refinanced by the end of 1998 on comparable terms. Host's interest coverage, defined as EBITDA divided by cash interest expense, improved to nearly 2.5 times in 1997 from 2.0 times in 1996.

At January 2, 1998, Host was party to an interest rate exchange agreement with a financial institution (the contracting party) with an aggregate notional amount of $100 million. Under this agreement, Host collects interest based on specified floating interest rates of one month LIBOR (rate of 6% at January 2, 1998) and pays interest at fixed rates (rate of 7.99% at January 2, 1998). This agreement expires in 1998, in conjunction with the maturity of the mortgage on the New York Marriott Marquis. Also in 1997, Host was party to two additional interest rate swap agreements with an aggregate notional amount of $400 million. These agreements expired in May 1997. Host realized a net reduction of interest expense of $1 million in 1997, $6 million in 1996 and $5 million in 1995 related to interest rate exchange agreements. Host monitors the creditworthiness of its contracting parties by evaluating credit exposure and referring to the ratings of widely accepted credit rating services. The Standard and Poors' long-term debt ratings for the contracting party is A- for its sole outstanding interest rate exchange agreement. Host is exposed to credit loss in the event of non-performance by the contracting party to the interest rate swap agreement; however, Host does not anticipate non-performance by the contracting party.

Cash Flows. Host's cash flow from continuing operations in 1997, 1996 and 1995 totaled $464 million, $205 million and $110 million, respectively. Cash flow from operations in the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997 totaled $206 million and $193 million, respectively. Cash flow from operations increased principally due to improved lodging results and the significant acquisitions of hotels.

Host's cash used in investing activities from continuing operations in 1997, 1996 and 1995 totaled $1,046 million, $504 million and $156 million, respectively. Cash used in investing activities was $49 million and $200 million for the First Two Quarters 1998 and the First Two Quarters 1997, respectively. Cash from investing activities primarily consists of net proceeds from the sales of certain assets, offset by the acquisition of hotels and other capital expenditures previously discussed, as well as the purchases and sales of short-term marketable securities. Cash used in investing activities was significantly impacted by the purchase of $354 million of short-term marketable securities in 1997 and the net sale of $308 million of short-term marketable securities in the First Two Quarters 1998.

Host's cash from financing activities from continuing operations was $389 million for 1997, $806 million for 1996 and $204 million for 1995. Cash used in financing activities was $213 million and $188 million, respectively, for the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997. Host's cash from financing activities primarily consists of the proceeds from debt and equity offerings, the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities, mortgage financing on certain acquired hotels and borrowings under the Line of Credit, offset by redemptions and payments on senior notes, prepayments on certain hotel mortgages and other scheduled principal payments.

The ratio of earnings to fixed charges was 2.0 to 1.0, 1.5 to 1.0, 1.3 to 1.0, 1.0 to 1.0 and .7 to 1.0 for the First Two Quarters 1998, the First Two Quarters 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. The deficiency of earnings to fixed charges of $70 million for 1995 is largely the result of depreciation and amortization of $122 million. In addition, the deficiency for 1995 was impacted by the $60 million pre-tax charge to write down the carrying value of one undeveloped land parcel to its estimated sales value.

Comparative FFO. Host believes that Comparative Funds From Operations ("Comparative FFO," which represents Funds From Operations, as defined by NAREIT, plus deferred tax expense) is a meaningful disclosure that will help the investment community to better understand the financial performance of Host, including enabling its shareholders and analysts to more easily compare Host's performance to REITs. FFO is defined by NAREIT as net income computed in accordance with GAAP, excluding gains or losses from debt restructurings and sales of properties, plus real estate related depreciation and amortization, and after adjustments for unconsolidated partnerships and joint ventures. FFO should not be considered as an alternative to net income, operating profit, cash flows from operations or any other operating or liquidity performance measure prescribed by GAAP. FFO is also not an indicator of funds available to fund Host's cash needs, including its ability to make distributions. Host's method of calculating FFO may be different from methods used by other REITs and, accordingly, is not comparable to such other REITs. Comparative FFO increased $61 million, or 42%, to $206 million in the First Two Quarters 1998. Comparative FFO increased $131 million, or 80%, to $295 million in 1997. The following is a reconciliation of Host's income (loss) before extraordinary items to Comparative FFO (in millions):

	FIRST TWO QUARTERS		FISCAL YEAR
	1998	1997	1997	1996
Income (loss) before extraordinary items.....	$ 96	$ 32	$ 47	$ (13)
Real estate related depreciation and amortization.....	125	101	240	168
Other real estate activities.....	(52)	2	6	7
Partnership adjustments.....	(8)	--	(13)	1
REIT Conversion expenses.....	6	--	--	--
Deferred taxes.....	39	10	15	1
Comparative FFO.....	$ 206	$ 145	$ 295	$ 164

The Company considers Comparative FFO to be an indicative measure of Host's operating performance due to the significance of Host's long-lived assets and because such data is considered useful by the investment community to better understand Host's results, and can be used to measure Host's ability to service debt, fund capital expenditures and expand its business; however, such information should not be considered as an alternative to net income, operating profit, cash from operations or any other operating or liquidity performance measure prescribed by generally accepted accounting principles. Cash expenditures for various long-term assets and income taxes have been, and will be, incurred which are not reflected in the Comparative FFO presentation.

Partnership Activities. Host has general and limited partner interests in numerous limited partnerships which own 240 hotels (including 20 full-service hotels) as of the date hereof, managed by Marriott International. Debt of the hotel limited partnerships is typically secured by first mortgages on the properties and is generally nonrecourse to the partnership and the partners. However, Host has committed to advance amounts to certain affiliated limited partnerships, if necessary, to cover certain future debt service requirements. Such commitments were limited, in the aggregate, to an additional $60 million at January 2, 1998. Subsequent to year-end, this amount was reduced to $20 million in connection with the refinancing and acquisition of a controlling interest in the partnership which owns the Atlanta Marriott Marquis. Amounts repaid to the Company under these guarantees totaled $2 million and $13 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively. Fundings by Host under these guarantees amounted to $10 million in 1997 and $8 million in 1995.

Leases. Host leases certain property and equipment under noncancelable operating leases, including the long-term ground leases for certain hotels, generally with multiple renewal options. The leases related to the 53 Courtyard properties and 18 Residence Inn properties sold during 1995 and 1996 are nonrecourse to Host and contain provisions for the payment of contingent rentals based on a percentage of sales in excess of stipulated amounts. Host remains contingently liable on certain leases related to divested non-lodging properties. Such contingent liabilities aggregated $110 million at January 2, 1998. However, management considers the likelihood of any substantial funding related to these divested properties' leases to be remote.

Inflation. Host's hotel lodging properties are impacted by inflation through its effect on increasing costs and on the managers' ability to increase room rates. Unlike other real estate, hotels have the ability to change room rates on a daily basis, so the impact of higher inflation generally can be passed on to customers.

A substantial portion of Host's debt bears interest at fixed rates. This debt structure largely mitigates the impact of changes in the rate of inflation on future interest costs. However, Host currently is exposed to variable interest rates through an interest rate exchange agreement with a financial institution with an aggregate notional amount of $100 million. Under this agreement, Host collects interest based on the specified floating rates of one month LIBOR (rate of 6% at January 2, 1998) and pays interest at fixed rates (rate of 7.99% at January 2, 1998). This agreement expires in 1998 in conjunction with the maturity of the mortgage on the New York Marriott Marquis. Host's Line of Credit and the mortgage on the San Diego Marriott Hotel and Marina ($199 million at January 2, 1998) bears interest based on variable rates. Accordingly, the amount of Host's interest expense under the interest rate swap agreements and the floating rate debt for a particular year will be affected by changes in short-term interest rates.

Year 2000 Issues. Over the last few years, Host has invested in implementing new accounting systems which are Year 2000 compliant. Accordingly, Host believes that future costs associated with Year 2000 issues will be minimal and not material to Host's consolidated financial statements.

However, Host does rely upon accounting software used by the managers and operators of its properties to obtain financial information. Management believes that the managers and operators have begun to implement changes to the property specific software to ensure that software will function properly in the Year 2000 and does not expect to incur significant costs related to these modifications.

Accounting Standards. Host adopted Statements of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 114, "Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a Loan" and SFAS No. 121, "Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to be Disposed Of" during 1995. Adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on Host's continuing operations. See the discussion below for a discussion of the impact of the adoption of SFAS No. 121 on discontinued operations.

SFAS No. 121 requires that an impairment loss be recognized when the carrying amount of an asset exceeds the sum of the undiscounted estimated future cash flows associated with the asset. Under SFAS No. 121, Host reviewed the impairment of its assets employed in its operating group business lines (airport, toll plaza and sports and entertainment) on an individual operating unit basis. For each individual operating unit determined to be impaired, an impairment loss equal to the difference between the carrying value and the fair market value of the unit's assets was recognized. Fair market value was estimated to be the present value of expected future cash flows of the individual operating unit, as determined by management, after considering such factors as future air travel and toll-pay vehicle data and inflation. As a result of the adoption of SFAS No. 121, Host recognized a non-cash, pre-tax charge against earnings during the fourth quarter of 1995 of $47 million, which was reflected in discontinued operations.

In the fourth quarter of 1996, the Company adopted SFAS No. 123, "Accounting for Stock Based Compensation." The adoption of SFAS No. 123 did not have a material effect on Host's financial statements.

During 1997, Host adopted SFAS No. 128, "Earnings Per Share," SFAS No. 129, "Disclosure of Information About Capital Structure" and SFAS No. 131, "Disclosures About Segments of an Enterprise and Related Information." The adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on Host's consolidated financial statements and the appropriate disclosures required by these statements have been incorporated herein.

In the First Quarter 1998, Host adopted SFAS No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income." SFAS No. 130 establishes standards for reporting and display of comprehensive income and its components in financial statements. The objective of SFAS No. 130 is to report a measure of all changes in equity of an enterprise that result from transactions and other economic events of the period other than transactions with owners. Comprehensive income is the total of net income and all other nonowner changes in equity.

Host's only component of other comprehensive income is the right to receive up to 1.4 million shares of Host Marriott Services Corporation's common stock or an equivalent cash value subsequent to exercise of the options held by certain former and current employees of Marriott International. For the First Two Quarters 1998 and First Two Quarters 1997, Host's other comprehensive income was $1 million and $3 million, respectively. As of June 19, 1998 and January 2, 1998, Host's accumulated other comprehensive income was approximately $11 million and $10 million, respectively.

On November 20, 1997, the Emerging Issues Task Force ("EITF") of the Financial Accounting Standards Board reached a consensus on EITF 97-2, "Application of FASB Statement No. 94 and APB Opinion No. 16 to Physician Practice Management Entities and Certain Other Entities with Contractual Management Arrangements." EITF 97-2 addresses the circumstances in which a management entity may include the revenues and expenses of a managed entity in its financial statements.

Host has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that EITF 97-2 requires the Company to include property-level sales and operating expenses of its hotels and senior living communities in its statements of operations. Host will adopt EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998, with retroactive effect in prior periods to conform to the new presentation. Application of EITF 97-2 to the consolidated financial statements for the First Two Quarters 1998, First Two Quarters 1997 and Fiscal Years 1997, 1996 and 1995 would have increased both revenues and operating expenses by approximately $922 million, $745 million, $1,713 million, $1,225 million and $878 million, respectively, and would have had no impact on operating profit, net income or earnings per share.

EITF 98-9, "Accounting for Contingent Rent in Interim Financial Periods", was issued on May 21, 1998. EITF 98-9 requires a lessor to defer recognition of contingent rental income in interim periods until the specified target that triggers the contingent rental income is achieved. EITF 98-9 has no impact on Host prior to the REIT Conversion, but will impact the revenue recognized under the Leases on a quarterly basis following the REIT Conversion.

MANAGEMENT

DIRECTORS AND EXECUTIVE OFFICERS OF HOST REIT

The following table sets forth certain information with respect to persons who will be Directors immediately after the completion of the REIT Conversion, and the executive officers of Host REIT (or the Operating Partnership), all of whom are currently directors, executive officers or key employees of Host.

(1) Richard E. Marriott and J.W. Marriott, Jr. are brothers.

The following is a biographical summary of the experience of the persons who will be Directors and executive officers of Host REIT after the REIT Conversion:

Richard E. Marriott. Mr. Richard E. Marriott has been a Director of Host since 1979 and is a Director of Marriott International, Inc., Host Marriott Services Corporation, Potomac Electric Power Company and the Polynesian Cultural Center, and he is Chairman of the Board of First Media Corporation. He also serves as a Director of certain subsidiaries of Host and is a past President of the National Restaurant Association. In addition, Mr. Marriott is the President and a Trustee of the Marriott Foundation for People with Disabilities. Mr. Marriott's term as a Director of Host REIT will commence at or prior to the REIT Conversion and will expire at the 2001 annual meeting of shareholders. Mr. Marriott joined Host in 1965 and has served in various executive capacities. In 1984, he was elected Executive Vice President, and in 1986, he was elected Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors. In 1993, Mr. Marriott was elected Chairman of the Board. Mr. Marriott also has been responsible for management of Host's government affairs functions.

J.W. Marriott, Jr. Mr. J.W. Marriott, Jr. has been a Director of Host since 1964 and is Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Marriott International, Inc., and a Director of Host Marriott Services Corporation, General Motors Corporation and the U.S.-Russia Business Council. He also serves on the Boards of Trustees of the Mayo Foundation, Georgetown University and the National Geographic Society. He is on the President's Advisory Committee of the American Red Cross, the Executive Committee of the World Travel & Tourism Council and is a member of the Business Council and the Business Roundtable. Harry L. Vincent, Jr. Mr. Vincent has been a Director of Host since 1969 and is a retired Vice Chairman of Booz-Allen & Hamilton, Inc. He also served as a Director of Signet Banking Corporation from 1973 until 1989. Mr. Vincent's term as a Director of Host REIT will commence at or prior to the REIT Conversion and will expire at the 1999 annual meeting of shareholders.

John G. Schreiber. Mr. Schreiber has been a Director of Host since 1998 and is President of Schreiber Investments, Inc. and a Senior Advisor and Partner of Blackstone Real Estate Advisors, L.P. Mr. Schreiber serves as a Trustee of AMLI Residential Properties Trust and as a Director of Urban Shopping Centers, Inc., JMB Realty Corporation and a number of mutual funds advised by T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. Prior to his retirement as an officer of JMB Realty Corporation in 1990, Mr. Schreiber was Chairman and CEO of JMB/Urban Development Company and an Executive Vice President of JMB Realty Corporation. Mr. Schreiber's term as a Director of Host REIT will commence at or prior to the REIT Conversion and will expire at the 1999 annual meeting of shareholders.

Terence C. Golden. Mr. Golden has been a Director of Host since 1995 and was named President and Chief Executive Officer of Host in 1995. Mr. Golden also serves as a Director of certain subsidiaries of Host. He also serves as Chairman of Bailey Realty Corporation and Bailey Capital Corporation and various affiliated companies. In addition, Mr. Golden is Chairman of the Washington Convention Center and a Director of Prime Retail, Inc., Cousins Properties, Inc., The Morris and Gwendolyn Cafritz Foundation and the District of Columbia Early Childhood Collaborative. He is also a member of the Executive Committee of the Federal City Council. Mr. Golden will be President and Chief Executive Officer of Host REIT commencing at or prior to the REIT Conversion and his term as a Director of Host REIT will commence at or prior to the REIT Conversion and will expire at the 2000 annual meeting of shareholders. Prior to joining Host, Mr. Golden was Chairman of Bailey Realty Corporation and prior to that had served as Chief Financial Officer of The Oliver Carr Company. Before joining The Oliver Carr Company, he served as Administrator of the General Services Administration and as Assistant Secretary of Treasury, and he was co-founder and national managing partner of Trammel Crow Residential Companies.

Robert E. Parsons, Jr. Mr. Parsons joined Host's Corporate Financial Planning staff in 1981 and was made Assistant Treasurer in 1988. In 1993, Mr. Parsons was elected Senior Vice President and Treasurer of Host, and in 1995, he was elected Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Host. Since September 1998, Mr. Parsons has been President and an initial Director of Host REIT but he will resign from such positions upon or prior to the REIT Conversion. Mr. Parsons will be Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Host REIT commencing at or prior to the REIT Conversion.

Christopher J. Nassetta. Mr. Nassetta joined Host in October 1995 as Executive Vice President and was elected Chief Operating Officer of Host in 1997. Mr. Nassetta will be Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of Host REIT commencing at or prior to the REIT Conversion. Prior to joining Host, Mr. Nassetta served as President of Bailey Realty Corporation from 1991 until 1995. He had previously served as Chief Development Officer and in various other positions with The Oliver Carr Company from 1984 through 1991.

Christopher G. Townsend. Mr. Townsend joined Host's Law Department in 1982 as a Senior Attorney. In 1984, Mr. Townsend was made Assistant Secretary of Host, and in 1986, he was made Assistant General Counsel. In 1993, Mr. Townsend was elected Senior Vice President, Corporate Secretary and Deputy General Counsel. In January 1997, he was elected General Counsel. Since September 1998, Mr. Townsend has been Vice President and an initial Director of Host REIT but he will resign from such positions upon or prior to the REIT Conversion. Mr. Townsend will be Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary of Host REIT commencing at or prior to the REIT Conversion.

Donald D. Olinger. Mr. Olinger joined Host in 1993 as Director--Corporate Accounting. Later in 1993, Mr. Olinger was promoted to Senior Director and Assistant Controller. He was promoted to Vice President-- Corporate Accounting in 1995. In 1996, he was elected Senior Vice President and Corporate Controller. Since September 1998, Mr. Olinger has been Vice President of Host REIT but he will resign from such position at or prior to the REIT Conversion. Mr. Olinger will be Senior Vice President and Corporate Controller of Host REIT commencing at or prior to the REIT Conversion. Prior to joining Host, Mr. Olinger was with the public accounting firm of Deloitte & Touche.

COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Promptly following the consummation of the REIT Conversion, the Board of Directors of Host REIT will establish the following committees:

Audit Committee. The Audit Committee will be comprised of five Directors who are not employees of Host REIT, namely, R. Theodore Ammon (Chair), Harry L. Vincent, Jr., Ann Dore McLaughlin, John G. Schreiber and Robert M. Baylis. The Audit Committee will meet at least three times a year with the independent auditors, management representatives and internal auditors; recommend to the Board of Directors appointment of independent auditors; approve the scope of audits and other services to be performed by the independent and internal auditors; consider whether the performance of any professional service by the auditors other than services provided in connection with the audit function could impair the independence of the outside auditors; and review the results of internal and external audits, the accounting principles applied in financial reporting, and financial and operational controls.

Compensation Policy Committee. The Compensation Policy Committee will be comprised of six Directors who are not employees of Host REIT, namely, Harry L. Vincent, Jr. (Chair), R. Theodore Ammon, John G. Schreiber, Robert M. Baylis, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Ann Dore McLaughlin. The Compensation Policy Committee's functions will include recommendations on policies and procedures relating to senior officers' compensation and various employee stock plans, and approval of individual salary adjustments and stock awards in those areas.

Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee. The Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee will be comprised of six Directors who are not employees of Host REIT, namely, Ann Dore McLaughlin (Chair), Harry L. Vincent, Jr., John G. Schreiber, R. Theodore Ammon, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Robert M. Baylis. It will consider candidates for election as Directors and will be responsible for keeping abreast of and making recommendations with regard to corporate governance in general. In addition, the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee will fulfill an advisory function with respect to a range of matters affecting the Board of Directors and its Committees, including the making of recommendations with respect to qualifications of Director candidates, compensation of Directors, the selection of committee chairs, committee assignments and related matters affecting the functioning of the Board.

Host REIT may from time to time form other committees as circumstances warrant. Such committees will have authority and responsibility as delegated by the Board of Directors.

COMPENSATION OF DIRECTORS

Directors who are also officers of Host REIT will receive no additional compensation for their services as Directors. Directors elected by the holders of Common Shares and who are not officers will receive an annual retainer fee of $25,000 as well as an attendance fee of $1,250 for each shareholders' meeting, meeting of the Board of Directors or meeting of a committee of the Board of Directors, regardless of the number of meetings held on a given day. The chair of each committee of the Board of Directors will receive an additional annual retainer fee of $1,000, except for the chair of the Compensation Policy Committee, Mr. Vincent, who will receive an annual retainer fee of $6,000. (The higher annual retainer fee paid to the chair of the Compensation Policy Committee relates to his additional duties which include, among other things, the annual performance appraisal of the chief executive officer on behalf of the Board, although the final appraisal is determined by the Board.) Any individual Director receiving these fees may elect to defer payment of all such fees or any portion thereof pursuant to Host REIT's Executive Deferred Compensation Plan and/or Host REIT's Non-Employee Directors' Deferred Stock Compensation Plan. Directors will also be reimbursed for travel expenses and other out-of-pocket costs incurred in attending meetings or in visiting hotels or other properties controlled by Host REIT or by Marriott International.

In 1997, the following Directors of the Company received special one-time awards of Company common stock in the amounts indicated: Mr. Ammon, 4,000 shares; Mr. Baylis, 7,000 shares; Ms. McLaughlin, 7,000 shares and Mr. Vincent, 7,000 shares. The special one-time awards of Company common stock vest at the rate of 10% per year of a Director's service on the Board, with credit given for each year of service already completed, and will also become fully vested upon the death or disability of the Directors.

EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

The table below sets forth a summary of the compensation paid by Host for the last three fiscal years to the Chief Executive Officer and the four additional most highly compensated executive officers of Host for Host's fiscal year 1997 (the "Named Executive Officers").

- -----
- (1) Fiscal year 1996 base salary earnings were for 53 weeks.
  - (2) Salary amounts include base salary earned and paid in cash during the fiscal year, the amount of base salary deferred at the election of the executive officer under the Host Marriott Corporation Executive Deferred Compensation Plan and the increase in base salary for the period October 1, 1997 through the end of the fiscal year which was paid in 1998.
  - (3) Bonus includes the amount of cash bonus earned pursuant to Host's Performance-Based Annual Incentive Bonus Plan (which was approved by the shareholders in 1996) and to the named individual's performance-based bonus plan during the fiscal year, which is either paid subsequent to the end of each fiscal year or deferred under the Deferred Compensation Plan.
  - (4) During 1997, the Compensation Policy Committee (the "Committee") of the Board of Directors approved the grant of restricted stock to certain key employees of Host, including Mr. Townsend. In 1996, the Committee approved similar grants of restricted stock to certain key employees of Host, including Messrs. Golden, Parsons and Nassetta. Mr. Golden also received grants of restricted stock on November 6, 1997 and on August 1, 1996 which were pursuant to the terms of his restricted stock agreement with Host. Messrs. Golden, Parsons and Nassetta each received awards which vest over a five-year period, and Mr. Townsend received an award which vests over a three-year period. All such awards consist of shares subject to restrictions relating primarily to continued employment ("General Restrictions") and shares subject to annual performance objectives such as financial performance of Host ("Performance Restrictions"). Performance objectives are established by the Committee and are subject to annual review and revision. Sixty percent of the shares awarded to each executive officer have annual Performance Restrictions, and forty percent of the shares awarded have General Restrictions conditioned upon continued employment. In addition, Messrs. Parsons and Nassetta each received an award of restricted stock which vests sixty percent on December 31, 1998 and forty percent on December 31, 2000, subject to the attainment of certain performance criteria and to the named individual's continued employment ("Special Team Awards"). All Special Team Awards are presented above as "Restricted Stock Awards," and the value stated above is the fair market value on the date of the grant. At Mr. Golden's request and in order to motivate the management team to enhance shareholder value, the Committee issued these Special Team Awards of the shares of restricted stock to key executives of Host in connection with Mr. Golden's joining Host. The dollar value of those awards has been reflected in the Restricted Stock Awards column of the table for the Named Executive Officers. In the event that the executives to whom restricted stock was granted do not continue in the employ of Host or do not meet the performance criteria set by the Committee, those shares will be forfeited, and the Committee has retained the right to grant any forfeited restricted shares to Mr. Golden.
  - (5) The aggregate number and value of shares of deferred stock and restricted stock subject to "General Restrictions" and "Performance Restrictions" (see footnote 4 above) held by each Named Executive Officer as of the end of fiscal year 1997 are as follows: Mr. R.E. Marriott, 264,000 shares valued at $5,071,440; Mr. Golden, 655,231 shares valued at $12,586,987; Mr. Nassetta, 240,267 shares valued at $4,615,529; Mr. Parsons, 261,531 shares valued at $5,073,335; and Mr. Townsend, 56,321 shares valued at $1,078,485. During the period in which any restrictions apply, holders of restricted stock are entitled to receive all dividends or other distributions paid with respect to such stock. Under the terms of certain restricted stock award agreements granted under the long-term incentive plan, each share of restricted stock vests upon a change in control of Host. The stock bonus awards granted by Host are generally derived based on dividing 20% of each individual's annual cash bonus award by the average of the high and low trading prices for a share of common stock on the last trading day of the fiscal year. No voting rights or dividends are attributed to award shares until such award shares are distributed. Stock bonus awards may be denominated as current awards or deferred awards. A current award is distributed in 10 annual installments commencing one year after the award is granted. A deferred award is distributed in a lump sum or in up to 10 annual installments following termination of employment. Deferred award shares contingently vest pro rata in annual installments commencing one year after the stock bonus award is granted to the employee. Awards are not subject to forfeiture once the employee reaches age 55 with 10 years of service with Host or upon (i) retirement after 20 years of service, (ii) disability or (iii) death.
  - (6) Amounts included in "All Other Compensation" represent total matching Host contribution amounts received under the Retirement and Savings Plan and the Deferred Compensation Plan. In 1997, the amounts attributable to the Retirement and Savings Plan account for each Named Executive Officer were as follows: Mr. R.E. Marriott, $9,024; Mr. Golden, $7,939; Mr. Nassetta, $9,024; Mr. Parsons, $9,500; and Mr. Townsend, $8,448. The amounts attributable to the Deferred Compensation Plan for each named executive officer were as follows: Mr. R.E. Marriott, $13,644; Mr. Golden, $58,166; Mr. Nassetta, $27,207; Mr. Parsons, $26,731; and Mr. Townsend, $9,957.
  - (7) Amount includes $92,000 in 1997, $86,700 in 1996, and $86,200 in 1995 for the allocation of Host personnel for non-Host business.
  - (8) Effective beginning in 1996, Mr. R.E. Marriott waived (i) payments due to be made to him under the Deferred Compensation Plan following his retirement and (ii) common stock due to be distributed to him under Host's 1997 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan following his retirement. In connection with this waiver, Host entered into an arrangement to purchase life insurance policies for the benefit of a trust established by Mr. R.E. Marriott. The cost of the life insurance policies to Host has been actuarially determined and will not exceed the projected after-tax cost Host expected to incur in connection with the payments under the Deferred Compensation Plan and the stock distributions under Host's 1997 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan that were waived by Mr. R.E. Marriott.

- (9) Mr. Golden joined Host as President and Chief Executive Officer on September 1, 1995. Mr. Nassetta joined Host as Executive Vice President on October 1, 1995.
- (10) Amount represents reimbursement of travel expenses of Mr. Golden's spouse when she accompanies him on Host business trips.
- (11) As part of their restricted stock agreements with Host, Messrs. Golden and Nassetta were awarded 44,910 and 8,421 shares of Host common stock, respectively, on February 1, 1996. The value of the shares was $516,465 for Mr. Golden and $96,842 for Mr. Nassetta.

For a comparison of the reimbursements and distributions currently payable to the General Partners and their affiliates and the reimbursements and distributions to be paid by Host REIT, on a pro forma basis, to the General Partners following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, see "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion-- Reimbursements and Distributions to the General Partners and Marriott International."

AGGREGATED STOCK OPTION EXERCISES AND YEAR-END VALUE

The table below sets forth, on an aggregated basis, (i) information regarding the exercise during fiscal year 1997 of options to purchase Host common stock (and shares of the common stock of other companies which Host has previously spun off) by each of the executive officers listed on the Executive Compensation table above, and (ii) the value on January 2, 1998 of all unexercised options held by such individuals. Host did not grant any options to the executive officers listed on the preceding table in fiscal year 1997. Terence C. Golden and Christopher J. Nassetta do not have any options to purchase stock in any of the companies listed in the following table.

- (1) Based on a per share price for Host common stock of $19.21, a per share price for HM Services common stock of $14.43, and a per share price for Marriott International common stock of $68.56. These prices reflect the average of the high and low trading prices on the New York Stock Exchange on January 2, 1998.
- (2) "HM" represents options to purchase Host common stock ("Host Options"). "HMS" represents options to purchase HM Services common stock. "MI" represents options to purchase Marriott International common stock. In connection with Host's issuance on December 29, 1995 of a special dividend (the "HMS Special Dividend") of HM Services common stock to Host's stockholders, and pursuant to the Host Marriott Corporation 1993 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, all Host Options held by employees of Host were adjusted to reflect the HMS Special Dividend by providing each option holder with the option to purchase one share of HM Services common stock for every option to purchase five shares of Host Common Stock held as of the close of business on December 29, 1995.

The exercise price of the HM Services options was set, and the price of Host Options was adjusted, so that the economic value of Host Options prior to the HMS Special Dividend was preserved and not increased or decreased as a result of the HMS Special Dividend. In addition, in connection with Host's issuance on October 8, 1993 of a special dividend (the "MI Special Dividend") of Marriott International common stock to Host's stockholders, and pursuant to the Host Marriott Corporation 1993 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, all Host Options held by employees of Host were adjusted to reflect the MI Special Dividend by providing each option holder with the option to purchase one share of Marriott International common stock for every option to purchase one share of Host Common Stock held as of the close of business on October 8, 1993. The exercise price of the Marriott International options was set, and the price of Host Options was adjusted, so that the economic value of Host Options prior to the MI Special Dividend was preserved and not increased or decreased as a result of the MI Special Dividend.

LONG-TERM INCENTIVE PLAN

The table below sets forth the number of shares of Host common stock awarded under a long-term incentive plan on February 1, 1996 to Messrs. Parsons and Nassetta and on January 22, 1997 to Mr. Townsend.

Richard E. Marriott and Terence C. Golden did not receive any of the type of awards reported in the following table. These awards represent the number of restricted shares of Host common stock that may vest during or at the end of a three-year period, subject to the satisfaction of certain time and performance restrictions established by the Compensation Policy Committee of the Board of Directors. The vesting provisions governing these awards are subject to review and revision by the Compensation Policy Committee. The performance criteria are set in advance of the completion of the performance year, and if the time and performance criteria are not achieved, the full number of shares will be forfeited.

The shares may be paid in full if either of the following two formulas is met:

- . Prior to November 1, 1998, the average price of Host common stock traded on the NYSE during any consecutive 60-day period shall increase to 172.8% of the price of Host common stock on November 2, 1995; or
- . The average of the high and low prices of Host common stock traded on the NYSE for each of the first five days of trading prior to November 1, 1998 is 172.8% of the price of Host common stock on November 2, 1995.

The price of Host common stock on November 2, 1995 was determined to be $11.08 (which reflects an adjustment for the distribution of the common stock of Host Marriott Services Corporation to Host's stockholders on December 29, 1995), and therefore the target price under the two formulas is $19.146 (i.e., 172.8% of $11.08). This increase represents a 20% compounded annual growth rate in the price of Host common stock.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENTS

The Operating Partnership expects to have employment agreements with certain of its executive officers but there is no assurance that this will be the case. The terms of such agreements currently are under negotiation and are not expected to be finalized until the Effective Date.

1998 EMPLOYEE BENEFITS ALLOCATION AGREEMENT

As part of the REIT Conversion, Host, the Operating Partnership and Crestline expect to enter into an Employee Benefits and Other Employment Matters Allocation Agreement ("1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement"). The 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is expected to govern the allocation of responsibilities with respect to various compensation, benefits and labor matters. Under the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement, Crestline is expected to assume from Host REIT certain liabilities relating to covered benefits and labor matters with respect to individuals who are employed by Host REIT or its affiliates before the Effective Date who will be employed by Crestline or its affiliates ("Transferred Employees") and the Operating Partnership is expected to assume from Host certain other liabilities relating to employee benefits and labor matters. The 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is also expected to govern the treatment of awards under the Host Marriott Corporation 1997 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, formerly called the Host Marriott Corporation 1993 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan (the "Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan"), as part of the REIT Conversion. The 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is expected to require Crestline to establish the Crestline Capital Corporation 1998 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan to grant awards of Crestline common stock. Additionally, the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is expected to provide that the Operating Partnership will adopt the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan.

COMPREHENSIVE STOCK INCENTIVE PLAN

Host sponsors the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan for purposes of attracting and retaining highly qualified employees. Host has reserved 44,442,911 shares of Host common stock for issuance pursuant to the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan. As part of the REIT Conversion, the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan is expected to be adopted by the Operating Partnership. Shares of Host common stock issued or reserved under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan are expected to be exchanged for Host REIT Common Shares and Crestline common stock, according to the terms of the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement.

Under the terms of the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, Host may award eligible full-time employees (i) options to purchase Host common stock, (ii) deferred shares of Host common stock, (iii) restricted shares of Host common stock, (iv) stock appreciation rights, (v) special recognition awards or (vi) other equity-based awards, including but not limited to, phantom shares of Host common stock, performance shares of Host common stock, bonus shares of Host common stock, dividend equivalent units or similar securities or rights. After the REIT Conversion, all grants under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan will be for Host REIT Common Shares.

The Company intends to continue to award options to purchase Host common stock under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan after the REIT Conversion. Options granted to officers and key employees of the Company will have an exercise price of not less than the fair market value on the date of grant. Incentive stock options granted under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan expire no later than 10 years after the date of grant and non-qualified stock options expire up to 15 years after the date of grant.

Under the terms of the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, Host may award deferred shares of Host common stock to eligible full-time employees. Deferred shares may be granted as part of a bonus award or deferred stock agreement. After the REIT Conversion, the Company intends to award deferred shares of Host REIT Common Shares under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan. Deferred shares generally vest over ten years in annual installments commencing one year after the date of grant.

The Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan also provides for the issuance of restricted shares of Host common stock to officers and key executives to be distributed over the next three or five years in annual installments based on continued employment and the attainment of certain performance criteria. The Company intends to award restricted shares of Host REIT Common Shares after the REIT Conversion.

Under the terms of the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, Host may grant bonus awards to eligible full-time employees. Bonus awards may be part of a management incentive program which pays part of the annual performance bonus awarded to managers and other key employees in shares of Host common stock. A bonus award entitles the holder to receive a distribution of Host's common stock in accordance with the underlying agreement. Holders of bonus awards vest in the shares covered by their award over ten years in annual installments commencing one year after grant. Unless the holder of a bonus award elects otherwise, vested shares are distributed in 10 consecutive, approximately equal, annual installments. After the REIT Conversion, the Company intends to award bonus awards for shares of Host REIT Common Shares.

The Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan authorizes Host to grant stock appreciation rights ("SAR") to eligible full-time employees. SARs awarded under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan give the holder the right to an amount equal to the appreciation in the value of the Host common stock over a specified price. SARs may be paid in the Host common stock, cash or other form or combination form of payout. After the REIT Conversion, the Company intends to award SARs on Host REIT Common Shares.

Under the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan, Host may award an eligible full-time employee or officer a Special Recognition Award. Special Recognition Awards may be paid in the form of Host common stock or an option to purchase Host common stock at an amount not less than fair market value on the date of grant. After the REIT Conversion, the Company intends to award Special Recognition Awards or Host REIT Common Shares to eligible full-time employees or officers.

STOCK PURCHASE PLAN

Host sponsors the Host Marriott Corporation Employee Stock Purchase Plan (the "Stock Purchase Plan"). Under the terms of the Stock Purchase Plan, an individual who is: (i) an active eligible employee on the last day of the prior plan year, (ii) working more than 20 hours per week and (iii) customarily employed more than five months in a calendar year may, on the first day of the plan year, purchase Host common stock through contributions or payroll deductions at the lower of the fair market value on the first or last day of such plan year. The Company expects to continue the Stock Purchase Plan after the REIT Conversion.

401(K) PLAN

Host sponsors the Host Marriott Corporation Retirement and Saving Plan (the "401(k) Plan"). The 401(k) Plan has received a favorable ruling from the IRS as to its tax-qualified status. The 401(k) Plan is expected to be adopted by the Operating Partnership as part of the REIT Conversion. The 401(k) Plan is available to all eligible employees immediately upon their date of hire. A participant may elect to contribute from 1% to 15% of his compensation to the 401(k) Plan. Each year, Host makes a fixed matching contribution equal to 50% of the first 6% of the compensation contributed to the 401(k) Plan by employees. In addition, Host may make a discretionary contribution, in an amount, if any, determined annually by the Board, to the 401(k) Plan for the benefit of eligible employees.

Under the terms of the 401(k) Plan, participants may elect to invest part or all of their plan benefits in Host common stock. As part of the REIT Conversion, all shares of Host common stock held under the 401(k) Plan are expected to be converted to Host REIT Common Shares and Crestline common stock. After the REIT Conversion, the Company expects to allow the 401(k) Plan's participants to elect to invest all or part of their plan benefits in Host REIT Common Shares.

DEFERRED COMPENSATION PLAN

Host sponsors the Host Marriott Corporation Non-Employee Director's Deferred Stock Compensation Plan (the "Deferred Compensation Plan") for purposes for attracting and retaining qualified non-employee Directors. Under the terms of the Deferred Compensation Plan, a non-employee Director may elect to defer payment of part or all of his Directors' fees from Host until such individual is no longer a member of the Board. In addition, the Deferred Compensation Plan provides for: (i) a special one time grant of Host common stock to participants who were directors of Host on May 1, 1997; and (ii) annual grants of 750 shares of Host common stock effective on May 14, 1997 and at each annual meeting thereafter. Currently, fees that are deferred under the Deferred Compensation Plan are converted into shares of Host common stock using the fair market value of such shares on the date of deferral. After the REIT Conversion, Host REIT intends to invest Directors' fees deferred under the Deferred Compensation Plan in Host REIT Common Shares.

Non-Employee Directors may elect to receive payment of their benefits under the Deferred Compensation Plan in cash or Host common stock. After the REIT Conversion, Host REIT expects to allow participants of the Deferred Compensation Plan to elect to receive their benefits in cash or Host REIT Common Shares.

LIMITATION OF LIABILITY AND INDEMNIFICATION

The MGCL permits a Maryland corporation to include in its Charter a provision limiting the liability of its directors and officers to the corporation and its shareholders for money damages except for liability resulting from (a) actual receipt of an improper benefit or profit in money, property or services or (b) acts committed in bad faith or active and deliberate dishonesty established by a final judgment as being material to the cause of action. The Charter of Host REIT contains such a provision which eliminates such liability to the maximum extent permitted by Maryland law.

The Charter of Host REIT authorizes it, to the maximum extent permitted by Maryland law, to obligate itself to indemnify and to pay or reimburse reasonable expenses in advance of final disposition of a proceeding to (i) any present or former director or officer or (ii) any individual who, while a director of Host REIT and at the request of Host REIT, serves or has served another corporation, real estate investment trust, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or any other enterprise from and against any claim or liability to which such person may become subject or which such person may incur by reason of his or her status as a present or former Director or officer of Host REIT. The Bylaws of Host REIT obligate it, to the maximum extent permitted by Maryland law, to indemnify and to pay or reimburse reasonable expenses in advance of final disposition of a proceeding to (a) any present or former director or officer who is made party to the proceeding by reason of his service in that capacity or (b) any individual who, while a director or officer of Host REIT and at the request of Host REIT, serves or has served another corporation, real estate investment trust, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or any other enterprise as a trustee, director, officer or partner of such corporation, real estate investment trust, partnership, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan or other enterprise and who is made a party to the proceeding by reason of his service in that capacity, against any claim or liability to which he may become subject by reason of such status. The Charter and Bylaws also permit Host REIT to indemnify and advance expenses to any person who served as a predecessor of Host REIT in any of the capacities described above and to any employee or agent of Host REIT or a predecessor of Host REIT. The Bylaws require Host REIT to indemnify a director or officer who has been successful, on the merits or otherwise, in the defense of any proceeding to which he is made a party by reason of his service in that capacity.

The MGCL permits a Maryland corporation to indemnify and advance expenses to its directors, officers, employees and agents. The MGCL permits a corporation to indemnify its present and former directors and officers, among others, against judgments, penalties, fines, settlements and reasonable expenses actually incurred by them in connection with any proceeding to which they may be made a party by reason of their service in those or other capacities unless it is established that (a) the act or omission of the director or officer was material to the matter giving rise to the proceeding and (i) was committed in bad faith or (ii) was the result of active and deliberate dishonesty, (b) the director or officer actually received an improper personal benefit in money, property or services or (c) in the case of any criminal proceeding, the director or officer had reasonable cause to believe that the act or omission was unlawful. However, under the MGCL, a Maryland corporation may not indemnify for an adverse judgment in a suit by or in the right of the corporation. In accordance with the MGCL, the Bylaws of Host REIT require it, as a condition to advancing expenses, to obtain (1) a written affirmation by the director or officer of his good faith belief that he has met the standard of conduct necessary for indemnification by Host REIT as authorized by the Bylaws and (2) a written statement by or on his behalf to repay the amount paid or reimbursed by Host REIT if it shall ultimately be determined that the standard of conduct was not met.

The Partnership Agreement also provides for indemnification of Host REIT and its officers and trustees to the same extent that indemnification is provided to officers and directors of Host REIT in its Charter, and limits the liability of Host REIT and its officers and directors to the Operating Partnership and its respective partners to the same extent that the liability of the officers and directors of Host REIT to Host REIT and its shareholders is limited under Host REIT's Charter.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers or persons controlling the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, Host REIT has been informed that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is therefore unenforceable.

INDEMNIFICATION AGREEMENTS

Host REIT intends to enter into indemnification agreements with each of its directors and officers. The indemnification agreement will require, among other things, that Host REIT indemnify its directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by law and advance to its directors and officers all related expenses, subject to reimbursement if it is subsequently determined that indemnification is not permitted.

CERTAIN RELATIONSHIPS AND RELATED TRANSACTIONS

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HOST AND MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL

Host and Marriott International, prior to October 8, 1993, were operated as a single consolidated company. On October 8, 1993 in connection with the issuance of a special dividend (the "Marriott International Distribution"), the consolidated company's businesses were split between Host and Marriott International. Thereafter, Host retained the capital intensive lodging real estate business (the "Ownership Business") and the airport/tollroad concessions business (the "Host/Travel Plazas Business"), while Marriott International took over the management of the lodging and service management businesses (the "Management Business"). (On December 29, 1995, Host distributed the Host/Travel Plazas Business to the shareholders of Host Marriott Services Corporation; see "--Relationship between Host and Host Marriott Services Corporation" below.) On the date of the Marriott International Distribution, Host and its subsidiaries and Marriott International and its subsidiaries entered into certain contractual arrangements governing their relationship following the Marriott International Distribution.

J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott beneficially own approximately 10.6%, and 10.2%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of Marriott International. By reason of their ownership of such shares of common stock of Marriott International and their positions as Chairman and a Director, respectively, of Marriott International, J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott, who will also be a Director and Chairman, respectively, of Host REIT, could be deemed in control of Marriott International within the meaning of the federal securities laws. Other members of the Marriott family might also be deemed control persons of Marriott International by reason of their ownership of shares of Marriott International and/or their relationship to other family members.

Prior to the Marriott International Distribution, Host and Marriott International entered into a Distribution Agreement (the "Marriott International Distribution Agreement"), which provided for, among other things, (i) the division between Host and Marriott International of certain liabilities and (ii) certain other agreements governing the relationship between Host and Marriott International following the Marriott International Distribution.

Subject to certain exceptions, the Marriott International Distribution Agreement provided for, among other things, assumptions of liabilities and cross-indemnities designed to allocate, effective as of the Marriott International Distribution, financial responsibility for the liabilities arising out of or in connection with the Management Business to Marriott International and its subsidiaries, and financial responsibility for the liabilities arising out of or in connection with the Ownership Business and Host/Travel Plazas Business, along with the consolidated company's liabilities under a substantial portion of its pre-existing financing and long-term debt obligations, to Host and its retained subsidiaries. The agreements executed in connection with the Marriott International Distribution Agreement also set forth certain specific allocations of liabilities between Host and Marriott International.

Under the Marriott International Distribution Agreement, Marriott International obtained the Marriott International Purchase Right, which provided Marriott International with the right, until June 2017, to purchase up to 20% of each class of Host's voting stock (determined after assuming full exercise of the right) at its then fair market value (based on an average of trading prices during a specified period), upon the occurrence of certain specified events generally involving a change in control of Host. The Marriott International Purchase Right may be exercised for a 30-day period following the date a person or group of affiliated persons has (i) become the beneficial owner of 20% or more of the total voting power of the then outstanding shares of Host's voting stock or (ii) announced a tender offer for 30% more of the total voting power of the then outstanding shares of Host's common stock. The purchase price for the common stock to be purchased upon the exercise of the Marriott International Purchase Right is determined by taking the average of the closing sale price of the common stock during the 30 consecutive trading days preceding the date the Marriott International Purchase Right becomes exercisable. The Marriott International Purchase Right will continue in effect with respect to Host REIT after the Mergers, subject to the following limitations intended to protect the REIT status of Host REIT. The Marriott International Purchase Right will be exercisable only to the extent that neither (i) Marriott International or any entity in which it has a direct or indirect interest and which would be deemed, under the applicable attribution rules, to own the shares of Host REIT owned by Marriott International or which would be deemed to own, taking into account the applicable attribution rules, more than 9.8% of Crestline, any subsidiary of Crestline or any other tenant of Host REIT nor (ii) any owners of direct or indirect interests in Marriott International would, as a result of such exercise, own, taking into account the applicable attribution rules, more than 9.8% of both Host REIT and Crestline, any subsidiary of Crestline or any other tenant of Host REIT. In addition to the foregoing limitation, the Marriott International Purchase Right will be exercisable only if such acquisition and ownership of Host REIT Common Shares would not cause the Operating Partnership to be considered to own, directly or by attribution, 10% or more of Crestline, any subsidiary of Crestline or any other tenant of Host REIT.

The Marriott International Purchase Right will have an antitakeover effect to the extent that any person considering acquiring a substantial or controlling block of Host REIT's Common Shares will face the possibility that its ability to exercise control would be impaired by the exercise of Marriott International's Purchase Right. In addition, the exercise price of the Marriott International Purchase Right could be lower than the price at which a potential acquiror might be willing to purchase a 20% block of Common Shares because the purchase price for the Marriott International Purchase Right is based on the average trading price during a 30-day period which may be prior to the announcement of a takeover event. This potential price differential might have a further antitakeover effect by discouraging potential acquirors of Host REIT.

For the purpose of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between Host and Marriott International after the Marriott International Distribution, Host and Marriott International have entered into other agreements. Host believes that the agreements are fair to both parties and contain terms which are generally comparable to those which would have been reached in arm's-length negotiations with unaffiliated parties. Among such other agreements between Host and Marriott International are:

(i) Lodging Management and Franchise Agreements. Marriott International and certain of its subsidiaries have entered into management agreements with Host and certain of its subsidiaries to manage for fees the Marriott Hotels, Resorts and Suites, Ritz-Carlton hotels, Courtyard hotels and Residence Inns owned or leased by Host and its subsidiaries. Marriott International has also entered into franchise agreements with Host and certain of its subsidiaries to allow Host to use the Marriott brand, associated trademarks, reservation systems and other related items in connection with Host's operation of ten Marriott hotels not managed by Marriott International.

Each of those management and franchise agreements reflects market terms and conditions and is substantially similar to the terms of management and franchise agreements with other third-party owners regarding lodging facilities of a similar type. In 1997, Host paid to Marriott International fees of $166 million from the managed and franchised lodging properties owned or leased by Host.

In addition, Host or one of its subsidiaries is a partner in several unconsolidated partnerships (some of which will be consolidated in connection with the REIT Conversion) that, at the end of 1997, owned 241 lodging properties operated by Marriott International or certain of its subsidiaries under long-term agreements. In such cases, Host or its subsidiary typically serves as the general partner. In 1997, these unconsolidated partnerships paid to Marriott International fees of $119 million pursuant to such agreements. The partnerships also paid $23 million in rent to Marriott International in 1997 for land leased from Marriott International upon which certain of the limited service partnerships' hotels are located.

In connection with the REIT Conversion, these management and franchise agreements will be assigned to the Lessees for the term of the applicable Leases (but the Operating Partnership will remain obligated in the event the Lessees fail to perform their obligations).

(ii) Credit Agreement. In 1995, Marriott International and a subsidiary of Host entered into a Credit Agreement pursuant to which the subsidiary had the right to borrow up to $225 million from Marriott International. In 1997, however, Host entered into a revolving line of credit agreement with third parties, and as a result, Host terminated the revolving line of credit under the Credit Agreement with Marriott International. Host remains subject to various covenants and guaranty reimbursement obligations under the Credit Agreement.

(iii) Tax Sharing Agreement. Host and Marriott International have entered into a tax sharing agreement that defines the parties' rights and obligations with respect to deficiencies and refunds of federal, state and other income or franchise taxes relating to Host's businesses for tax years prior to the Marriott International Distribution and with respect to certain tax attributes of Host after the Marriott International Distribution. Host and Marriott International have agreed to cooperate with each other and to share information in preparing tax returns and in dealing with other tax matters.

(iv) Noncompetition Agreement. Host and Marriott International entered into a noncompetition agreement that defines the parties' rights and obligations with respect to certain businesses operated by Marriott International and Host. In general, under the noncompetition agreement, Host and its subsidiaries are prohibited from entering into or acquiring any business that competes with the hotel management business as conducted by Marriott International until October 8, 2000. See "--Senior Living Communities Acquisitions."

(v) Administrative Services Agreements. Marriott International and Host have entered into a number of agreements pursuant to which Marriott International has agreed to provide certain continuing administrative services to Host and its subsidiaries. Such services are provided on market terms and conditions. In general, the administrative services agreements can be kept in place at least through the end of 1998.

(vi) Marriott International Guarantees. In connection with the Marriott International Distribution, Host and Marriott International entered into agreements pursuant to which Marriott International has agreed to guarantee Host's performance in connection with certain partnership, real estate and project loans and other Host obligations. Such guarantees are limited in an aggregate principal amount of up to $107 million at June 19, 1998. Marriott International has not been required to make any payments pursuant to the guarantees.

In addition to the foregoing agreements, Host and Marriott International have had occasion to enter into other agreements in the ordinary course of business. Host believes that such agreements are fair to both parties and contain terms which are generally comparable to those which would have been reached in arm's-length negotiations with unaffiliated parties. Among such other agreements between Host and Marriott International are:

(a) Hotel Acquisitions. Marriott International has provided, and Host expects that Marriott International in the future will provide, financing to Host for a portion of the cost of acquiring properties to be operated or franchised by Marriott International. In 1997, Marriott International did not provide any new acquisition financing, although Host remained indebted to Marriott International for acquisition financing from prior years. Marriott International provided Host with $70 million of mortgage financing in 1995 for the acquisition of three full-service hotels at an average interest rate of 8.5%. Marriott International subsequently sold one of the loans in 1996. In 1996, Marriott International and Host formed a joint venture (which will be owned by a Non-Controlled Subsidiary) and Marriott International provided Host with $29 million in debt financing at an average interest rate of 12.7% and with $28 million in preferred equity, for the acquisition of two full-service hotels in Mexico City.

(b) Senior Living Communities Acquisitions. On June 21, 1997, Host acquired the outstanding common stock of Forum Group, Inc. (the "Forum Group") from Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc., a subsidiary of Marriott International. Host purchased the Forum Group portfolio of 29 premier senior living communities for approximately $460 million, including approximately $270 million in debt ($59 million of which was provided by Marriott International). In 1997, Host had completed $56 million of the approximately $107 million expansion plan to add approximately 1,060 units to these communities. As a result, an additional $33 million of debt financing has been provided by Marriott International and Marriott International may provide additional financing as the expansion plan is completed. The properties will continue to be managed by Marriott International. From the date of acquisition through the end of 1997, Host paid to Marriott International management fees of $6 million from the senior living properties owned by Host. In connection with the acquisition, Host and Marriott International entered into a noncompetition agreement that defines the parties' rights and obligations with respect to the operation of senior living services by Marriott International and Host. In general, under the noncompetition agreement, Host and its subsidiaries are prohibited from entering into or acquiring any business that competes with the senior living management business as conducted by Marriott International until 2017. In 1997, Host also acquired all but 1% of the remaining 50% interest in the joint venture which owned the 418-unit Leisure Park senior living community from Marriott International for approximately $23 million, including approximately $15 million of mortgage debt assumed by Host. As part of the REIT Conversion, the senior living communities business will be distributed to Host's shareholders; thus, the Limited Partners whose Partnership participates in a Merger will not own an interest in this business.

(c) 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement. Host and Marriott International have entered into an Employee Benefits and Other Employment Matters Allocation Agreement ("1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement") that provides for the allocation of certain responsibilities with respect to employment compensation, benefit and labor matters. The 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement was amended as of March 27, 1998 to: (i) reflect various conversions and redenominations that were necessary as a result of the spin-off and acquisitions described in Marriott International's February 12, 1998 Proxy, and to add New Marriott MI, Inc. (renamed Marriott International, Inc.) as a party to the 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement. In general, the 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement provides that Host retained all employee liabilities for employees who on or after the Marriott International Distribution were employees of Host, and that old Marriott International, Inc., which was renamed Sodexo Marriott Services, Inc. in 1998, retained all liabilities for employees who on or after the Marriott Distribution were employees of Marriott International. Pursuant to the 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement, and in connection with the Marriott Distribution, Host also adjusted outstanding awards under the Host employee benefit plans. The 1993 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is expected to be amended as part of the REIT Conversion to add the Operating Partnership and Crestline as parties to the agreement and to reflect the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HOST AND HOST MARRIOTT SERVICES CORPORATION

On December 29, 1995, Host issued a special dividend (the "HMSC Distribution") which split Host's businesses between Host and Host Marriott Services Corporation ("HM Services"). Prior to December 29, 1995, HM Services was a wholly owned subsidiary of Host. Thereafter, Host retained the capital intensive lodging real estate business (the "Ownership Business"), while HM Services took over the airport/tollroad concessions business (the "Host/Travel Plazas Business"). Host and its subsidiaries and HM Services and its subsidiaries have entered into certain relationships following the HMSC Distribution.

Richard E. Marriott and J.W. Marriott, Jr. beneficially own approximately 6.75% and 6.88%, respectively, of the outstanding shares of common stock of HM Services. By reason of their ownership of such shares of common stock of HM Services and their positions as Directors of HM Services, Richard E. Marriott and J.W. Marriott, Jr., who are also Chairman and a Director, respectively, of Host, could be deemed in control of HM Services within the meaning of the federal securities laws. Other members of the Marriott family might also be deemed control persons of HM Services by reason of their ownership of shares of HM Services and/or their relationship to other family members.

Prior to the HMSC Distribution, Host and HM Services entered into a Distribution Agreement (the "HMSC Distribution Agreement"), which provided for, among other things, (i) certain asset transfers to occur prior to the HMSC Distribution, (ii) the HMSC Distribution, (iii) the division between Host and HM Services of certain liabilities and (iv) certain other agreements governing the relationship between Host and HM Services following the HMSC Distribution.

Subject to certain exceptions, the HMSC Distribution Agreement provides for, among other things, assumptions of liabilities and cross-indemnities designed to allocate, effective as of the HMSC Distribution, financial responsibility for the liabilities arising out of or in connection with the Host/Travel Plazas Business to HM Services and its subsidiaries and financial responsibility for the liabilities arising out of or in connection with the Ownership Business to Host and its retained subsidiaries. The agreements executed in connection with the HMSC Distribution Agreement also set forth certain specific allocations of liabilities between Host and HM Services. The HMSC Distribution Agreement also provides that HM Services will assume its proportionate share of Host's current obligation for certain employee benefit awards denominated in Host common stock currently held by employees of Marriott International.

For the purpose of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between Host and HM Services after the HMSC Distribution, Host and HM Services have entered into other agreements. Host believes that the agreements are fair to both parties and contain terms which are generally comparable to those which would have been reached in arm's-length negotiations with unaffiliated parties. Among such other agreements between Host and HM Services are:

(i) Tax Sharing Agreement. Host and HM Services have entered into a tax sharing agreement that defines the parties' rights and obligations with respect to deficiencies and refunds of federal, state and other income or franchise taxes relating to Host's businesses for tax years prior to the HMSC Distribution and with respect to certain tax attributes of Host after the HMSC Distribution. Host and HM Services have agreed to cooperate with each other and to share information in preparing tax returns and in dealing with other tax matters.

(ii) Guarantees of Concession Agreements. Host and HM Services have entered into agreements pursuant to which Host has agreed to guarantee HM Services' performance in connection with certain tollroad concessions operated by HM Services. Host has not been required to make any payment pursuant to the guarantees and does not anticipate making any such payment in 1998.

(iii) 1995 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement. Host and HM Services have entered into an Employee Benefits and Other Employment Matters Allocation Agreement (the "1995 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement") that provides for the allocation of certain responsibilities with respect to employee compensation, benefits and labor matters. In general, the 1995 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement provides that Host retain all employee liabilities for employees who on or after the HMSC Distribution were employees of Host, and that HM Services retain all employee liabilities for employees who on or after the HMSC Distribution were employees of HM Services. Pursuant to the 1995 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement, and in connection with the HMSC Distribution, Host also adjusted outstanding awards under Host employee benefit plans. The 1995 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement is expected to be amended as part of the REIT Conversion to add the Operating Partnership and Crestline as parties to the agreement and to reflect the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement.

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HOST AND CRESTLINE CAPITAL CORPORATION AFTER THE INITIAL E&P DISTRIBUTION

For the purposes of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between Crestline and Host after the Initial E&P Distribution and to provide mechanisms for an orderly transition, Crestline and Host will enter into, in addition to the Leases, various agreements, as described below.

Distribution Agreement

Prior to the Initial E&P Distribution, Crestline and Host will enter into a distribution agreement (the "Distribution Agreement"), which will provide for, among other things, (i) the distribution of shares of Crestline in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution; (ii) the division between Crestline and Host of certain assets and liabilities; (iii) the contribution to Crestline of Host's 3% general partnership interest in Boynton Beach Limited Partnership, which owns a senior living community located in Boynton Beach; and (iv) certain other agreements governing the relationship between Crestline and Host following the Initial E&P Distribution.

Subject to certain exceptions, the Distribution Agreement will provide for, among other things, assumptions of liabilities and cross-indemnities designed to allocate to Crestline, effective as of the date of the Initial E&P

Distribution, financial responsibility for liabilities arising out of or in connection with the business of the senior living communities.

The Distribution Agreement also will provide that by the date of the Initial E&P Distribution, Crestline and Host will take all necessary actions which may be required to amend Crestline's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws.

The Distribution Agreement also will provide that each of Crestline and Host will be granted access to certain records and information in the possession of the other, and will require the retention by each of Crestline and Host for a period of ten years following the Initial E&P Distribution of all such information in its possession, and thereafter will require that each party give the other prior notice of its intention to dispose of such information. The Distribution Agreement also will require the allocation of shared privileges with respect to certain information and will require each of Crestline and Host to obtain the consent of the other prior to waiving any shared privilege.

Tax Sharing Agreement

Crestline and Host will enter into a tax sharing agreement (the "Tax Sharing Agreement") which will define each party's rights and obligations with respect to deficiencies and refunds of federal, state and other income or franchise taxes relating to Crestline's business for taxable years prior to the Initial E&P Distribution and with respect to certain tax attributes of Crestline after the Initial E&P Distribution. Generally, Host will be responsible for filing consolidated returns and paying taxes for periods prior to the date of the Initial E&P Distribution, and Crestline will be responsible for filing returns and paying taxes for subsequent periods.

Asset Management Agreement

Crestline and Host will enter into an asset management agreement (the "Asset Management Agreement"), pursuant to which Crestline will agree to provide review and advice on the management and operation of the hotels in order to assist Host in making strategic decisions. Generally, Crestline will provide the following consulting services in its capacity as the Lessee of the hotels: (i) review of operating and financial results (including site visits) and meet with Host, at least quarterly, to review such results of the hotels; (ii) review of financial statements and budgets, including periodic accounting statements, annual operating budgets, FF&E budgets and management analysis reports; (iii) revenue and capital spending projections; (iv) administration of hotel mortgages; (v) advice relating to any changes to the hotel management agreements; (vi) review of market conditions and competition for each of the hotels; and (vii) monitoring and negotiating with governmental agencies in connection with any condemnation proceedings against the hotels. Crestline will be paid a fee of $4.5 million for each fiscal year for its consulting services under the Asset Management Agreement. The Asset Management Agreement will have a term of two years with an automatic one year renewal, unless terminated earlier by either party.

Corporate Transitional Services Agreement

Crestline and Host will, prior to the date of the Initial E&P Distribution, enter into a transitional services agreement (the "Corporate Transitional Services Agreement") pursuant to which Crestline and Host will provide certain limited services to each other for a fee. Among other things, Host will provide centralized administrative and computer systems services to Crestline.

Non-Competition Agreement

Crestline and Host will enter into a non-competition agreement that limits the respective parties' future business opportunities. See "Business and Properties--Non-Competition Agreement."

1998 Employee Benefits and Other Employment Matters Allocation Agreement

As part of the REIT Conversion, Host, the Operating Partnership and Crestline expect to enter into the 1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement relating to various compensation, benefits and labor matters. See "Management--1998 Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement."

Guaranty and Pooling Agreements

Crestline and certain of its subsidiaries will enter into a limited guaranty of the lease and management agreement obligations of each Lessee. For each of the four identified "pools" of hotels, the cumulative limit of the guaranty at any time will be 10% of the aggregate rents under all Leases in such pool paid with respect to the preceding twelve full calendar months (with an annualized amount based upon the Minimum Rent for those full-service Leases that have not been in effect for 12 full calendar months).

PRINCIPAL SECURITY HOLDERS

The following table sets forth, as of July 31, 1998, the beneficial ownership of OP Units and Common Shares of (i) each person who is expected to hold more than a 5% interest in the Operating Partnership or Host REIT, (ii) directors of Host REIT, (iii) the Chief Executive Officer and the four most highly compensated executive officers of Host REIT and (iv) the directors and executive officers of Host REIT as a group. Unless otherwise indicated in the footnotes, all of such interests are owned directly and the indicated person or entity has sole voting and investment power.

The "Percent of All Common Shares and OP Units" represents the number of Common Shares and OP Units the person is expected to hold immediately after the REIT Conversion, as a percentage of the total number of Common Shares and OP Units expected to be outstanding immediately after the REIT Conversion (excluding OP Units held by Host REIT and its subsidiaries). The information in this table assumes that all transactions comprising the REIT Conversion are consummated as currently expected. The address of each beneficial owner is 10400 Fernwood Road, Bethesda, Maryland 20817 unless otherwise indicated.

- (1) Represents the number of OP Units held by the person as a percentage of the total number of OP Units to be issued to persons other than Host REIT and its subsidiaries in the REIT Conversion (65.2 million OP Units), assuming a maximum value of $15.50 per OP Unit.
- (2) Consists of Common Shares received in the REIT Conversion as a result of ownership of Host.
- (3) Represents the number of Common Shares held by the person as a percentage of the total number of Common Shares expected to be outstanding immediately following the REIT Conversion (204.5 million Common Shares).
- (4) Assumes that all OP Units held by the person are redeemed for Common Shares. The total number of Common Shares and OP Units outstanding used in calculating this percentage (204.2 million Common Shares plus the number of OP Units beneficially owned by the person) assumes that none of the OP Units held by other persons are redeemed for Common Shares.
- (5) Assumes that all OP Units held by the person are redeemed for Common Shares. The total number of Common Shares and OP Units outstanding used in calculating this percentage (269.7 million) assumes that all of the OP Units held by other persons also are redeemed for Common Shares.
- (6) Includes (i) the shares of unvested restricted stock granted under Host's 1993 and 1997 Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plans, which are voted by the holder thereof and (ii) the following number of shares which could be acquired by the named persons through the exercise of stock options within 60 days of July 31, 1998: for J.W. Marriott, Jr., 810,447 shares; for Richard E. Marriott, 55,700 shares; for Mr. Parsons, 15,225 shares; for Mr. Townsend, 6,975 shares; and for all directors and executive officers as a group, 913,147 shares. Does not include any other shares reserved, contingently vested or awarded under the above-named Plan.

- (7) Common Shares includes: (i) 1,977,450 shares held in trust for which J.W. Marriott, Jr. is the trustee or a co-trustee; (ii) 68,426 shares held by the wife of J.W. Marriott, Jr.; (iii) 704,555 shares held in trust for which the wife of J.W. Marriott, Jr. is the trustee or a co-trustee; (iv) 2,451,787 shares held by the J. Willard Marriott Foundation of which J.W. Marriott, Jr. is a co-trustee; (v) 2,707,590 shares held by a limited partnership whose general partner is a corporation of which J.W. Marriott, Jr. is the controlling shareholder; and (vi) 80,000 shares held by a limited partnership whose general partner is J.W. Marriott, Jr.; does not include shares held by the adult children of J.W. Marriott, Jr., of which J.W. Marriott, Jr. disclaims beneficial ownership of all such shares.
- (8) By virtue of their ownership of shares of Host common stock and their positions as Chairman and Director, respectively, Richard E. Marriott and J.W. Marriott, Jr. could be deemed in control of Host within the meaning of the federal securities laws. Other members of the Marriott family might also be deemed control persons by reason of their ownership of shares and/or their relationship to other family members. J.W. Marriott, Jr., Richard E. Marriott, their mother Alice S. Marriott and other members of the Marriott family and various trusts established by members of the Marriott family owned beneficially an aggregate of 25,179,933 shares, or 12.31% of the total shares outstanding of Host common stock as of July 31, 1998.
- (9) Common Shares includes: (i) 1,874,709 shares held in trust for which Richard E. Marriott is the trustee or a co-trustee; (ii) 68,219 shares held by the wife of Richard E. Marriott; (iii) 603,828 shares held in trust for which the wife of Richard E. Marriott is the trustee or a co-trustee; (iv) 2,451,787 shares held by the J. Willard Marriott Foundation of which Richard E. Marriott is a co-trustee; and (v) 2,302,729 shares held by a corporation of which Richard E. Marriott is the controlling shareholder; does not include shares held by the adult children of Richard E. Marriott, of which Richard E. Marriott disclaims beneficial ownership of all such shares.
- (10) OP Units include only John G. Schreiber's proportionate share of OP Units to be received by the Blackstone Entities in the Blackstone Acquisition; John G. Schreiber disclaims beneficial ownership of all other OP Units to be acquired by the Blackstone Entities.
- (11) The Blackstone Entities constitute a series of affiliated partnerships. Initially, a majority of the OP Units received pursuant to the Blackstone Acquisition will be held by such affiliated partnerships, but eventually will be distributed by such affiliated partnerships to their partners.
- (12) Represents shares of Host common stock held by Dresdner RCM Global Investors LLC ("Dresdner RCM") and its affiliates, RCM Limited L.P. ("RCM Limited") and RCM General Corporation ("RCM General"), and by Dresdner Bank AG, of which Dresdner RCM is a wholly owned subsidiary. Dresdner RCM has reported in a Schedule 13G under the Exchange Act, filed with the Commission, sole dispositive power over 12,943,675 shares and shared dispositive power over 282,000 shares. Of these shares, Dresdner RCM has reported sole voting power over 8,854,200 shares and does not share voting power with respect to any shares. In addition, Dresdner Bank AG has reported in a separate Schedule 13G under the Exchange Act, filed with the Commission, sole dispositive and voting power over 370,300 shares of Host common stock, and such shares are included in the number reported in this table. The principal business address of Dresdner RCM, RCM Limited and RCM General is Four Embarcadero Center, San Francisco, California 94111. The principal business address of Dresdner Bank AG is Jurgen Ponto-Platz 1, 60301 Frankfurt, Germany.
- (13) Represents shares of Host common stock held by FMR Corp. ("FMR") and its subsidiaries, Fidelity Management Trust Company ("FMT") and Fidelity Management & Research Company ("FM&R"). FMR has reported in a Schedule 13G under the Exchange Act, filed with the Commission, that FMR, through its control of FM&R and certain investment funds for which FM&R acts as an investment adviser, has sole power to dispose of 22,474,835 shares of Host common stock owned by such investment funds, including the 15,610,500 shares of Host common stock (or 7.64% of the total shares outstanding of Host common stock as of July 31, 1998) held by the Fidelity Magellan Fund. FMR has no power to vote or direct the voting of the shares of Host Common Stock owned by the investment funds, which power resides with the Board of Trustees of such investment funds. FMR, through its control of FMT and certain institutional accounts for which FMT serves as investment manager, has sole dispositive power over 57,739 shares, the sole power to vote or direct the voting of 44,301 shares, and no power to vote or direct the voting of 13,438 shares of Host common stock owned by the institutional accounts. The principal business address for FMR, FMT and FM&R is 82 Devonshire Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02109.
- (14) Represents shares of Host common stock held by Southeastern Asset Management, Inc. ("SAM"). SAM has reported in a Schedule 13G under the Exchange Act, filed with the Commission, sole dispositive power over 21,730,700 shares, shared dispositive power over 14,968,300 shares and no dispositive power over 59,000 shares. Of these shares, SAM has reported sole voting power over 18,338,100 shares, shared voting power over 14,968,300 shares and no power to vote 3,451,600 shares. The principal business address of SAM is 6075 Poplar Avenue, Suite 900, Memphis, Tennessee 38119.
- (15) Common Shares includes the total number of shares held by trusts for which both J.W. Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott are co-trustees. Beneficial ownership of such shares is attributable to each of J.W.

Marriott, Jr. and Richard E. Marriott in the table above under the Director subheading, but such shares are included only once in reporting the total number of shares owned by all directors and executive officers as a group. All directors and executive officers as a group (other than members of the Marriott family) owned beneficially an aggregate of 1,757,788 shares, or 0.86%, of the total shares outstanding as of July 31, 1998. In addition, Host's Retirement and Savings Plan owned 65,257 shares, or 0.03% of the total shares outstanding as of July 31, 1998.

DESCRIPTION OF OP UNITS

Limited Partners whose Partnership participates in a Merger will receive OP Units in exchange for their Partnership Interests. Limited Partners who elect to receive Common Shares or Notes will tender (or be deemed to have tendered) all of the OP Units they receive to Host REIT in exchange for Common Shares or to the Operating Partnership in exchange for Notes. See "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--The Mergers--Issuance of OP Units," "--Right to Exchange OP Units for Common Shares" and "--Right to Exchange OP Units for Notes." Commencing one year after the Mergers, each limited partner in the Operating Partnership (other than Host REIT) will be entitled to have each of his OP Units redeemed by the Operating Partnership at any time for cash equal to the fair market value at the time of redemption of one Common Share (subject to adjustment to reflect any stock split, stock dividend or other transaction affecting the number of Common Shares outstanding but not affecting the number of OP Units outstanding), or, at the option of Host REIT, one Common Share (subject to adjustment as described herein). The material terms of the Common Shares, including a summary of certain provisions of Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws, are set forth in "Description of Capital Stock" and "Certain Provisions of Maryland Law and Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws." The material terms of the OP Units, including a summary of certain provisions of the Partnership Agreement, are set forth below. The following description of the terms and provisions of the OP Units and certain other matters does not purport to be complete and is subject to, and qualified in its entirety by, reference to applicable provisions of Delaware law and the Partnership Agreement. A copy of the Partnership Agreement in substantially the form in which it will be adopted (subject to such modifications as do not materially and adversely affect the rights of the holders of OP Units to be issued in the Mergers) is attached as Appendix A to this Consent Solicitation. Each person acquiring OP Units in the Mergers or thereafter will be deemed bound by the terms and conditions of the Partnership Agreement. For a comparison of the voting and certain other rights of Limited Partners of the Partnerships, holders of OP Units in the Operating Partnership and shareholders of Host REIT, see "Comparison of Ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares."

GENERAL

Holders of OP Units (other than Host REIT in its capacity as general partner) will hold a limited partnership interest in the Operating Partnership, and all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT in its capacity as general partner) will be entitled to share in cash distributions from, and in the profits and losses of, the Operating Partnership. Because Host REIT will hold a number of OP Units equal to the number of Common Shares outstanding, each OP Unit generally will receive distributions in the same amount paid on each Common Share. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Distribution Policy."

Holders of OP Units will have the rights to which limited partners are entitled under the Partnership Agreement and the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (the "Delaware Act"). The OP Units to be issued in the Mergers will not be listed on any exchange or quoted on any national market system. The Partnership Agreement imposes certain restrictions on the transfer of OP Units, as described below.

FORMATION

The Operating Partnership was formed as a Delaware limited partnership under the Delaware Act on April 15, 1998. Upon the consummation of the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will be admitted to the Operating Partnership as the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership. Following the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will hold a substantial number of the OP Units. Of the OP Units allocated to Host REIT, a 0.1% interest in the Operating Partnership will be held by Host REIT as the general partner of the Operating Partnership, and the remaining OP Units allocated to Host REIT will be held by Host REIT as a limited partner in the Operating Partnership.

PURPOSES, BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT

The purpose of the Operating Partnership includes the conduct of any business that may be lawfully conducted by a limited partnership formed under the Delaware Act, except that the Partnership Agreement requires the business of the Operating Partnership to be conducted in such a manner that will permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT under Section 856 of the Code, unless Host REIT ceases to qualify as a REIT for reasons other than the conduct of the business of the Operating Partnership. Subject to the foregoing limitation, the Operating Partnership may enter into partnerships, joint ventures or similar arrangements and may own interests directly or indirectly in any other entity.

Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, has the exclusive power and authority to conduct the business of the Operating Partnership subject to the consent of the limited partners in certain limited circumstances discussed below. No limited partner may take part in the operation, management or control of the business of the Operating Partnership by virtue of being a holder of OP Units.

In particular, the limited partners expressly acknowledge in the Partnership Agreement that Host REIT is acting on behalf of the Operating Partnership's limited partners and Host REIT's shareholders collectively, and is under no obligation to consider the tax consequences to limited partners when making decisions for the benefit of the Operating Partnership. Host REIT intends to make decisions in its capacity as general partner of the Operating Partnership so as to maximize the profitability of Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as a whole, independent of the tax effects on the limited partners. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers." Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will have no liability to a limited partner as a result of any liabilities or damages incurred or suffered by, or benefits not derived by, a limited partner as a result of the act or omission of Host REIT as general partner of the Operating Partnership unless Host REIT acted, or failed to act, in bad faith and the act or omission was material to the loss, liability or benefit not derived.

HOST REIT MAY NOT ENGAGE IN OTHER BUSINESSES; CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Host REIT, as general partner, may not conduct any business other than the business of the Operating Partnership without the consent of limited partners holding percentage interests in the Operating Partnership ("Percentage Interests") that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon, excluding any such interests held by Host REIT. Other persons (including officers, directors, employees, agents and other affiliates of Host REIT) will not be prohibited under the Partnership Agreement from engaging in other business activities. However, Host REIT, on behalf of the Operating Partnership, has adopted certain policies regarding noncompetition provisions and avoidance of conflicts of interest. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Conflicts of Interest Policies." In addition, the Partnership Agreement does not prevent another person or entity that acquires control of Host REIT in the future from conducting other businesses or owning other assets, even though such businesses or assets may be ones that it would be in the best interests of the limited partners for the Operating Partnership to own.

DISTRIBUTIONS; ALLOCATIONS OF INCOME AND LOSS

The Partnership Agreement provides for the quarterly distribution of Available Cash (as determined in the manner provided in the Partnership Agreement) to Host REIT and the limited partners as holders of OP Units in proportion to their percentage interests in the Operating Partnership. "Available Cash" is generally defined as net income plus depreciation and amortization and any reduction in reserves and minus interest and principal payments on debt, capital expenditures, any additions to reserves and other adjustments. At the time of the REIT Conversion, neither Host REIT nor the limited partners will be entitled to any preferential or disproportionate distributions of Available Cash (except to the extent that Host REIT receives preferred units in the Operating Partnership with economic rights that mirror the economic rights of any preferred stock that Host has outstanding at the time of the REIT Conversion). The Partnership Agreement provides for the allocation to Host REIT, as general partner, and the limited partners of items of Operating Partnership income and loss as described in "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Allocations of Operating Partnership Income, Gain, Loss and Deduction."

BORROWING BY THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP

Host REIT is authorized to cause the Operating Partnership to borrow money and to issue and guarantee debt as it deems necessary for the conduct of the activities of the Operating Partnership, including financing and refinancing the assets of the Operating Partnership. Such debt may be secured by mortgages, deeds of trust, liens or encumbrances on properties of the Operating Partnership. Host REIT also may cause the Operating Partnership to borrow money to enable the Operating Partnership to make distributions, including distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT, as long as it qualifies as a REIT, to avoid the payment of any federal income tax. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Financing Policies."

REIMBURSEMENT OF HOST REIT; TRANSACTIONS WITH HOST REIT AND ITS AFFILIATES

Host REIT will not receive any compensation for its services as general partner of the Operating Partnership. Host REIT, however, as a partner in the Operating Partnership, has the same right to allocations and distributions as other partners in the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership will pay all expenses relating to the Operating Partnership's organization, the REIT Conversion, the acquisition and ownership of its assets and its operations. The Operating Partnership will be responsible for and will pay (or reimburse) all expenses and liabilities of any nature that Host REIT may incur (including expenses and liabilities arising out of the REIT Conversion and expenses related to the ongoing operations of Host REIT and to the management and administration of any subsidiaries of Host REIT permitted under the Partnership Agreement). The Operating Partnership also will be responsible for paying any and all taxes incurred by Host REIT, except that the Operating Partnership will not be responsible for any taxes that Host REIT would not have been required to pay if it qualified as a REIT for federal income tax purposes or any taxes imposed on Host REIT by reason of its failure to distribute to its shareholders an amount equal to its taxable income. The Operating Partnership, however, will not be responsible for expenses or liabilities incurred by Host REIT that are excluded from the scope of the indemnification provisions of the Partnership Agreement.

Except as expressly permitted by the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT and its affiliates will not engage in any transactions with the Operating Partnership, except on terms that are determined in good faith by the general partner to be fair and reasonable and no less favorable to the Operating Partnership than would be obtained from an unaffiliated third party.

LIABILITY OF HOST REIT AND LIMITED PARTNERS

Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, will be liable for all general recourse obligations of the Operating Partnership to the extent not paid by the Operating Partnership. Host REIT will not be liable for the nonrecourse obligations of the Operating Partnership.

The limited partners of the Operating Partnership will not be required to make additional capital contributions to the Operating Partnership. Assuming that a limited partner does not take part in the control of the business of the Operating Partnership and otherwise acts in conformity with the provisions of the Partnership Agreement, the liability of a limited partner for obligations of the Operating Partnership under the Partnership Agreement and the Delaware Act will be limited, subject to certain exceptions, generally to the loss of such limited partner's investment in the Operating Partnership represented by his OP Units. Under the Delaware Act, a limited partner may not receive a distribution from the Operating Partnership if, at the time of the distribution and after giving effect thereto, the liabilities of the Operating Partnership, other than liabilities to parties on account of their interests in the Operating Partnership and liabilities for which recourse is limited to specified property of the Operating Partnership, exceed the fair value of the Operating Partnership's assets, other than the fair value of any property subject to nonrecourse liabilities of the Operating Partnership, but only to the extent of such liabilities. The Delaware Act provides that a limited partner who receives a distribution knowing at the time that it violates the foregoing prohibition is liable to the Operating Partnership for the amount of the distribution. Unless otherwise agreed, such a limited partner will not be liable for the return of such distribution after the expiration of three years from the date of such distribution.

The Operating Partnership expects to qualify to conduct business in various states in which the conduct of its business requires such qualification. Maintenance of limited liability may require compliance with certain legal requirements of those jurisdictions and certain other jurisdictions. Limitations on the liability of a limited partner for the obligations of a limited partnership have not been clearly established in many jurisdictions. Accordingly, if it were determined that the right, or exercise of the right by the limited partners, to make certain amendments to the Partnership Agreement or to take other action pursuant to the Partnership Agreement constituted "control" of the Operating Partnership's business for the purposes of the statutes of any relevant jurisdiction, the limited partners might be held personally liable for the Operating Partnership's obligations. The Operating Partnership will operate in a manner Host REIT deems reasonable, necessary and appropriate to preserve the limited liability of the limited partners.

EXCULPATION AND INDEMNIFICATION OF HOST REIT

The Partnership Agreement generally provides that Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, will incur no liability to the Operating Partnership or any limited partner for losses sustained, liabilities incurred or benefits not derived as a result of errors in judgment or mistakes of fact or law or of any act or omission, unless Host REIT acted, or failed to act, in bad faith and the act or omission was material to the loss, liability or benefit not derived. In addition, Host REIT is not responsible for any misconduct or negligence on the part of its agents, provided Host REIT appointed such agents in good faith. Host REIT may consult with legal counsel, accountants, appraisers, management consultants, investment bankers and other consultants and advisors, and any action it takes or omits to take in reliance upon the opinion of such persons, as to matters that Host REIT reasonably believes to be within their professional or expert competence, shall be conclusively presumed to have been done or omitted in good faith and in accordance with such opinion.

The Partnership Agreement also provides for indemnification of Host REIT, the directors and officers of Host REIT and such other persons as Host REIT may from time to time designate against any judgments, penalties, fines, settlements and reasonable expenses actually incurred by such person in connection with the proceeding unless it is established that: (i) the act or omission of the indemnified person was material to the matter giving rise to the proceeding and either was committed in bad faith or was the result of active and deliberate dishonesty; (ii) the indemnified person actually received an improper personal benefit in money, property or services; or (iii) in the case of any criminal proceeding, the indemnified person had reasonable cause to believe that the act or omission was unlawful. The Operating Partnership is obligated to advance to an indemnified person reasonable expenses incurred or expected to be incurred by such indemnified person if such indemnified person certifies to the Operating Partnership that his conduct has met the standards for indemnification and that he will repay any amounts received if it is determined subsequently that his conduct did not meet such standards.

SALES OF ASSETS

Under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT generally has the exclusive authority to determine whether, when and on what terms the assets of the Operating Partnership (including the Hotels) will be sold. In addition, Host REIT is not required to take into account the tax consequences to the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake a specific transaction. A sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Operating Partnership (or a merger of the Operating Partnership with another entity) requires an affirmative vote of limited partners holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon (including Percentage Interests held by Host REIT).

REMOVAL OR WITHDRAWAL OF HOST REIT; TRANSFER OF HOST REIT'S INTERESTS

The Partnership Agreement provides that the limited partners may not remove Host REIT as general partner of the Operating Partnership with or without cause (unless neither Host REIT nor its parent entity is a "public company," in which case Host REIT may be removed with or without cause by limited partners holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon, including any such interests held by the general partner). In addition, Host REIT may not transfer any of its interests as general or limited partner of the Operating Partnership or withdraw as a general partner, except, in each case, in connection with a merger or sale of all or substantially all of its assets, provided that (i) the limited partners of the Operating Partnership either will receive, or will have the right to receive, substantially the same consideration as holders of Common Shares, (ii) following such merger or other consolidation, substantially all of the assets of the surviving entity consist of OP Units and (iii) such transaction has been approved by partners holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding interests in the Operating Partnership entitled to vote thereon (including any such interests held by Host REIT). Host REIT initially will hold a majority of the OP Units and thus would control the outcome of this vote. See "--Sales of Assets."

Although Host REIT cannot transfer its partnership interests except in a transaction in which substantially all of the assets of the surviving entity consist of OP Units, the Partnership Agreement does not prevent a transaction in which another entity acquires control (or all of the shares of capital stock) of Host REIT and that other entity owns assets and conducts businesses outside of the Operating Partnership.

CERTAIN VOTING RIGHTS OF HOLDERS OF OP UNITS DURING THE FIRST YEAR FOLLOWING THE MERGERS

During the first year following the Mergers, if a vote of the shareholders of Host REIT is required, then (i) a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Operating Partnership, (ii) a merger involving the Operating Partnership and (iii) any issuance of OP Units in connection with an issuance of Common Shares representing 20% or more of the outstanding Common Shares which would require shareholder approval under the rules of the NYSE, would require the approval of a majority of all outstanding OP Units (or, in the case of clause (iii), a majority of the OP Units that are voted, provided that at least a majority of the OP Units are voted), including OP Units held by Host REIT, voting as a single class with Host REIT voting its OP Units in the same proportion as its shareholders vote. In addition, during the one-year period following the Mergers, any taxable sale or sales of Hotels representing more than 10% of the aggregate Appraised Value of the Hotels of any Partnership would require, in addition to any other approval requirements, the approval of a majority of all outstanding OP Units held by persons who formerly were Limited Partners of such Partnership, voting as a separate class.

RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFERS OF INTERESTS BY LIMITED PARTNERS

The Partnership Agreement provides that no limited partner shall, without the prior written consent of Host REIT (which consent may be withheld in Host REIT's sole and absolute discretion), sell, assign, distribute or otherwise transfer all or any portion of his interest in the Operating Partnership, except that a limited partner may transfer, without the consent of Host REIT, all or a portion of its limited partnership interest (i) in the case of a limited partner who is an individual, to a member of his immediate family, any trust formed for the benefit of himself and/or members of his immediate family, or any partnership, limited liability company, joint venture, corporation or other business entity comprised only of himself and/or members of his immediate family and entities the ownership interests in which are owned by or for the benefit of himself and/or members of his immediate family, (ii) in the case of a limited partner which is a trust, to the beneficiaries of such trust, (iii) in the case of a limited partner which is a partnership, limited liability company, joint venture, corporation or other business entity to which OP Units were transferred pursuant to (i) above, to its partners, owners, or stockholders, as the case may be, who are members of the immediate family of or are actually the person(s) who transferred OP Units to it pursuant to (i) above, (iv) in the case of a limited partner which acquired OP Units as of the closing of the Mergers and which is a partnership, limited liability company, joint venture, corporation or other business entity, to its partners, owners, stockholders or Affiliates thereof, as the case may be, or the Persons owning the beneficial interests in any of its partners, owners or stockholders or Affiliates thereof (it being understood that this clause (iv) will apply to all of each Person's partnership interests whether the OP Units relating thereto were acquired on the date hereof or hereafter), (v) in the case of a limited partner which is a partnership, limited liability company, joint venture, corporation or other business entity other than any of the foregoing described in clauses (iii) or (iv), in accordance with the terms of any agreement between such limited partner and the Operating Partnership pursuant to which such partnership interest was issued, (vi) pursuant to a gift or other transfer without consideration, (vii) pursuant to applicable laws of descent or distribution, (viii) to another limited partner and (ix) pursuant to a grant of security interest or other encumbrance effected in a bona fide transaction or as a result of the exercise of remedies related thereto. All of the foregoing transfers are subject to the provisions of the Partnership Agreement which require compliance with securities laws, prohibit transfers affecting the tax status of the Operating Partnership or the qualification of Host REIT as a REIT for tax purposes, prohibit transfers to holders of nonrecourse liabilities of the Operating Partnership and are also subject to the rules on substitution of limited partners. In addition, Limited Partners will be permitted to dispose of their OP Units following the first anniversary of the Mergers by exercising their Unit Redemption Right. See "--Unit Redemption Right" below.

The right of any permitted transferee of OP Units to become a substitute limited partner is subject to the consent of Host REIT, which consent Host REIT may withhold in its sole and absolute discretion. If Host REIT does not consent to the admission of a transferee of OP Units as a substitute limited partner, the transferee will succeed to all economic rights and benefits attributable to such OP Units (including the Unit Redemption Right), but will not become a limited partner or possess any other rights of limited partners (including the right to vote).

Transfers of OP Units may be effected only by means of entries in the record of the Operating Partnership, and Host REIT will require evidence satisfactory to it of compliance with all transfer restrictions prior to recording any transfer.

UNIT REDEMPTION RIGHT

Subject to certain limitations, holders of OP Units (other than Host REIT) may exercise the Unit Redemption Right by providing notice to the Operating Partnership at any time commencing one year after the Mergers. Unless Host REIT elects to assume and perform the Operating Partnership's obligation with respect to the Unit Redemption Right, as described below, the redeeming holder of OP Units will receive cash from the Operating Partnership in an amount equal to the market value of the OP Units to be redeemed. The market value of an OP Unit for this purpose will be equal to the average of the daily market price of a Common Share on the NYSE for the ten consecutive trading days before the day on which the redemption notice was given. The market price for each such trading day shall be the closing price, regular way, on such day, or if no such sales take place on such day, the average of the closing bid and asked prices on such day. In lieu of the Operating Partnership's acquiring the OP Units for cash, Host REIT will have the right (except as described below, if the Common Shares are not publicly traded) to elect to acquire the OP Units directly from a holder of OP Units exercising the Unit Redemption Right, in exchange for either cash or Common Shares, and, upon such acquisition, Host REIT will become the owner of such OP Units. In either case, acquisition of such OP Units by Host REIT will be treated as a sale of the OP Units to Host REIT for federal income tax purposes. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Unit Redemption Right." Upon exercise of the Unit Redemption Right, the right of the holder of OP Units to receive distributions for the OP Units so redeemed or exchanged will cease. At least 1,000 OP Units (or all remaining OP Units owned by the holder of OP Units if less than 1,000 OP Units) must be redeemed each time the Unit Redemption Right is exercised. The redemption generally will occur on the tenth business day after notice of the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right by a holder of OP Units is given to the Operating Partnership, except that no redemption or exchange can occur if delivery of Common Shares would be prohibited either under the provisions of Host REIT's Charter relating to restrictions on ownership and transfer of Common Shares or under applicable federal or state securities laws as long as the Common Shares are publicly traded. See "Description of Capital Stock--Restrictions on Ownership and Transfer."

In the event that the Common Shares are not publicly traded but another entity whose stock is publicly traded owns more than 50% of the shares of capital stock of Host REIT (referred to as the "Parent Entity"), the Unit Redemption Right will be determined by reference to the publicly traded shares of the Parent Entity and the general partner will have the right to elect to acquire the OP Units to be redeemed for publicly traded stock of the Parent Entity. In the event that the Common Shares are not publicly traded and there is no Parent Entity with publicly traded stock, the Unit Redemption Right would be based upon the fair market value of the Operating Partnership's assets at the time the Unit Redemption Right is exercised (as determined in good faith by Host REIT), and, unless otherwise agreed by the redeeming limited partner, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership would be obligated to satisfy the Unit Redemption Right in cash, payable on the thirtieth business day after notice to the Operating Partnership of exercise of the Unit Redemption Right.

NO WITHDRAWAL BY LIMITED PARTNERS

No limited partner has the right to withdraw from or reduce his capital contribution to the Operating Partnership, except as a result of the redemption, exchange or transfer of OP Units pursuant to the terms of the Partnership Agreement.

ISSUANCE OF LIMITED PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS

Host REIT is authorized, without the consent of the limited partners, to cause the Operating Partnership to issue additional OP Units to Host REIT, to the limited partners or to other persons for such consideration and upon such terms and conditions as Host REIT deems appropriate. The Operating Partnership also may issue to any of the foregoing persons or entities partnership interests in different series or classes, which may be senior to the OP Units, including with respect to distributions and upon liquidation. If additional OP Units or partnership interests in different series or classes of equity securities are issued to Host REIT, then Host REIT must issue additional Common Shares or securities having substantially similar rights to such partnership interests, and must contribute the proceeds received by Host REIT from such issuance to the Operating Partnership. Consideration for additional partnership interests may be cash or any property or other assets permitted by the Delaware Act. No limited partner has preemptive, preferential or similar rights with respect to capital contributions to the Operating Partnership or the issuance or sale of any partnership interests therein.

MEETINGS; VOTING

Meetings of the limited partners may be called only by Host REIT, on its own motion or upon written request of limited partners owning at least 10% of the then outstanding OP Units (including those held by Host REIT). Limited partners may vote either in person or by proxy at meetings. Any action that is required or permitted to be taken by the limited partners may be taken either at a meeting of the limited partners or without a meeting if consents in writing setting forth the action so taken are signed by limited partners holding Percentage Interests which are not less than the minimum Percentage Interest that would be necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting of the limited partners at which all limited partners entitled to vote on such action were present. On matters as to which limited partners are entitled to vote, each limited partner (including Host REIT to the extent it holds limited partnership interests) will have a vote equal to its Percentage Interest. A transferee of OP Units who has not been admitted as a substituted limited partner with respect to such OP Units will have no voting rights with respect to such OP Units, even if such transferee holds other OP Units as to which it has been admitted as a limited partner. The Partnership Agreement does not provide for annual meetings of the limited partners, and Host REIT does not anticipate calling such meetings.

AMENDMENT OF THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT

Amendments to the Partnership Agreement may be proposed by Host REIT or by limited partners owning at least 25% of the then outstanding OP Units. Generally, the Partnership Agreement may be amended with the approval of Host REIT, as general partner, and limited partners (including Host REIT) holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon. Certain provisions regarding, among other things, the rights and duties of Host REIT as general partner (e.g., restrictions on Host REIT's power to conduct businesses other than owning OP Units, the dissolution of the Operating Partnership or the rights of limited partners), may not be amended without the approval of limited partners (excluding Host REIT) holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, Host REIT, as general partner, will have the power, without the consent of the limited partners, to amend the Partnership Agreement as may be required to (i) add to the obligations of Host REIT as general partner or surrender any right or power granted to Host REIT as general partner, (ii) reflect the admission, substitution, termination or withdrawal of partners in accordance with the terms of the Partnership Agreement, (iii) establish the rights, powers, duties and preferences of any additional partnership interests issued in accordance with the terms of the Partnership Agreement, (iv) reflect a change that does not materially adversely affect any limited partner, or cure any ambiguity, correct or supplement any provisions of the Partnership Agreement not inconsistent with law or with other provisions of the Partnership Agreement, or make other changes concerning matters under the Partnership Agreement that are not otherwise inconsistent with the Partnership Agreement or applicable law or (v) satisfy any requirements of federal, state or local law.

Certain amendments that would, among other things, (i) convert a limited partner's interest into a general partner's interest, (ii) modify the limited liability of a limited partner, (iii) alter the interest of a partner in profits or losses, or the rights to receive any distributions (except as permitted under the Partnership Agreement with respect to the admission of new partners or the issuance of additional OP Units (including partnership interests in a different class or series to the extent otherwise authorized under the Partnership Agreement), which actions will have the effect of changing the percentage interests of the partners and thus altering their interests in profits, losses and distributions), (iv) amend the limited partners' right to transfer or (v) alter the Unit Redemption Right, must be approved by Host REIT and each limited partner that would be adversely affected by such amendment.

BOOKS AND REPORTS

Host REIT is required to keep the Operating Partnership's books and records at the principal office of the Operating Partnership. The books of the Operating Partnership are required to be maintained for financial and tax reporting purposes on an accrual basis. The limited partners will have the right to receive copies of the most recent Commission filings by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership, the Operating Partnership's federal, state and local income tax returns, a list of limited partners, the Partnership Agreement, the partnership certificate and all amendments thereto and certain information about the capital contributions of the partners. Host REIT may keep confidential from the limited partners any information that Host REIT believes to be in the nature of trade secrets or other information the disclosure of which Host REIT in good faith believes is not in the best interests of the Operating Partnership or which the Operating Partnership is required by law or by agreements with unaffiliated third parties to keep confidential.

Host REIT will furnish to each limited partner, no later than the date on which Host REIT mails its annual report to its shareholders, an annual report containing financial statements of the Operating Partnership (or Host REIT, if it prepares consolidated financial statements including the Operating Partnership) for each fiscal year, including a balance sheet and statements of operations, cash flow, partners' equity and changes in financial position. The financial statements will be audited by a nationally recognized firm of independent public accountants selected by Host REIT. In addition, if and to the extent that Host REIT mails quarterly reports to its shareholders, Host REIT will furnish to each limited partner, no later than the date on which Host REIT mails such reports to its shareholders, a report containing unaudited financial statements of the Operating Partnership (or Host REIT, if it prepares consolidated financial statements including the Operating Partnership) as of the last day of the calendar quarter and such other information as may be required by applicable law or regulation or as Host REIT deems appropriate.

Host REIT will use reasonable efforts to furnish to each limited partner, within 90 days after the close of each taxable year, the tax information reasonably required by the limited partners for federal and state income tax reporting purposes.

POWER OF ATTORNEY

Pursuant to the terms of the Partnership Agreement, each limited partner and each assignee appoints Host REIT, any liquidator and the authorized officers and attorneys-in-fact of each, as such limited partner's or assignee's attorney-in-fact to do the following: execute, swear to, acknowledge, deliver, file and record in the appropriate public offices various certificates, documents and other instruments (including, among other things, the Partnership Agreement and the certificate of limited partnership and all amendments or restatements thereof) that Host REIT deems appropriate or necessary to effectuate the terms or intent of the Partnership Agreement. The Partnership Agreement provides that such power of attorney is irrevocable, will survive the subsequent incapacity of any limited partner and the transfer of all or any portion of such limited partner's or assignee's OP Units and will extend to such limited partner's or assignee's heirs, successors, assigns and personal representatives.

DISSOLUTION, WINDING UP AND TERMINATION

The Operating Partnership will continue until December 31, 2098, unless sooner dissolved and terminated. The Operating Partnership will be dissolved prior to the expiration of its term and its affairs wound up upon the occurrence of the earliest of: (i) the withdrawal of Host REIT as general partner without the permitted transfer of Host REIT's interest to a successor general partner (except in certain limited circumstances); (ii) an election to dissolve the Operating Partnership prior to December 31, 2058 made by Host REIT with the consent of the limited partners who hold 90% of the OP Units (including OP Units held by Host REIT), (iii) the sale of all or substantially all of the Operating Partnership's assets and properties for cash or for marketable securities; (iv) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution of the Operating Partnership pursuant to the provisions of the Delaware Act; (v) the entry of a final non-appealable order for relief in a bankruptcy proceeding of the general partner, or the entry of a final non-appealable judgment ruling that the general partner is bankrupt or insolvent (except that, in either such case, in certain circumstances the limited partners (other than Host REIT) may vote to continue the Operating Partnership and substitute a new general partner in place of Host REIT); or (vi) an election by Host REIT in its sole and absolute discretion on or after December 31, 2058. Upon dissolution, Host REIT, as general partner, or any liquidator will proceed to liquidate the assets of the Operating Partnership and apply the proceeds therefrom in the order of priority set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

OWNERSHIP LIMITATION

In order to help the Operating Partnership avoid being treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes, the Partnership Agreement expressly provides that no person (other than Host REIT and the wholly owned subsidiaries (direct and indirect) thereof) or persons acting as a group may own, actually or constructively, more than 4.9% by value of any class of interests in the Operating Partnership. The Partnership Agreement contains self-executing mechanisms intended to enforce this prohibition. For a description of the consequences of the Operating Partnership being treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes, see "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Status of the Operating Partnership." As general partner of the Operating Partnership, Host REIT, in its sole and absolute discretion, may waive or modify this ownership limitation if it is satisfied that ownership in excess of this limit will not cause the Operating Partnership to be treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes. Host has agreed to grant The Blackstone Group an exception to this prohibition subject to the condition that neither The Blackstone Group, nor any person or entity that would be considered to own OP Units owned by The Blackstone Group, may own, directly or by attribution, 9.8% or more of the stock of Crestline or the equity of any of the Lessees.

DESCRIPTION OF CAPITAL STOCK

The summary of the terms of the capital stock of Host REIT set forth below does not purport to be complete and is subject to and qualified in its entirety by reference to the form of the Articles of Incorporation (the "Charter") and Bylaws of Host REIT to be effective upon completion of the merger of Host with and into Host REIT, copies of which have been filed as Exhibits to the Registration Statement of which this Consent Solicitation is a part.

GENERAL

Host REIT's Charter provides that the total number of shares of capital stock of all classes which Host REIT has authority to issue is 800,000,000 shares of capital stock, initially consisting of 750,000,000 shares of common stock, par value $.01 per share, and 50,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $.01 per share. The Board of Directors is authorized, without a vote of shareholders, to classify or reclassify any unissued shares of capital stock and to establish the preferences and rights of any preferred or other class or series of capital stock to be issued. At October 5, 1998, 100 Common Shares were issued and outstanding.

COMMON SHARES

Subject to the preferential rights of any other classes or series of shares of capital stock and to the provisions of the Charter regarding restrictions on transfers of shares of capital stock, holders of Common Shares are entitled to receive distributions if, as and when authorized and declared by the Board of Directors, out of assets legally available therefor and to share ratably in the assets of Host REIT legally available for distribution to its shareholders in the event of its liquidation, dissolution or winding-up after payment of, or adequate provision for, all known debts and liabilities of Host REIT. Host REIT currently intends to pay regular quarterly distributions.

Subject to the provisions of Host REIT's Charter regarding restrictions on transfer of shares of capital stock, each outstanding Common Share entitles the holder to one vote on all matters submitted to a vote of shareholders, including the election of directors, and, except as provided with respect to any other class or series of shares of Host REIT capital stock, the holders of Common Shares will possess the exclusive voting power. There is no cumulative voting in the election of directors, which means that the holders of a majority of the outstanding Common Shares can elect all of the directors then standing for election.

Holders of Common Shares have no preferences, conversion, sinking fund, redemption rights or preemptive rights to subscribe for any securities of Host REIT. Subject to the provisions of Host REIT's Charter regarding restrictions on transfer of capital stock, Common Shares have equal distribution, liquidation and other rights.

Under the MGCL, a Maryland corporation generally cannot dissolve, amend its charter, merge, consolidate, effect a share exchange or transfer its assets within the meaning of the MGCL unless approved by the Board of Directors and by shareholders holding at least two-thirds of the shares entitled to vote on the matter (unless a greater or lesser percentage (but not less than a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast) is set forth in the corporation's charter). Under Host REIT's Charter, any merger, consolidation, share exchange or transfer of its assets must be approved (i) by the Board of Directors in the manner provided in the MGCL and (ii) by shareholders to the extent required under the MGCL. Host REIT's Charter generally provides for shareholder approval of such transactions by a two-thirds vote of all the votes entitled to be cast, except that any merger of Host REIT with or into a trust organized for the purpose of changing Host REIT's form of organization from a corporation to a trust will require the approval of shareholders of Host REIT by the affirmative vote only of a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. In addition, under the MGCL, certain mergers may be accomplished without a vote of shareholders. For example, no shareholder vote is required for a merger of a subsidiary of a Maryland corporation into its parent, provided the parent owns at least 90 percent of the subsidiary. In addition, a merger need not be approved by shareholders of a Maryland successor corporation if the merger does not reclassify or change the outstanding shares or otherwise amend the charter, and the number of shares to be issued or delivered in the merger is not more than 20 percent of the number of its shares of the same class or series outstanding immediately before the merger becomes effective. A share exchange need be approved by a Maryland successor only by its Board of Directors. Any amendments to the provisions contained in Host REIT's Charter relating to restrictions on transferability of shares, the classified Board and fixing the size of the Board within the range set forth in the Charter, as well as the provisions relating to removal of directors, the filling of Board vacancies and the exclusive authority of the Board of Directors to amend the Bylaws will require the approval of the Board of Directors and shareholders by the affirmative vote of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Other amendments to the Charter may be effected by requisite action of the Board of Directors and approval by shareholders by the affirmative vote of not less than a majority of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

The Charter will authorize the Board of Directors to reclassify any unissued Common Shares into other classes or series of capital stock, including preferred shares and to establish the number of shares in each class or series and to set the preferences, conversion and other rights, voting powers, restrictions, limitations as to dividends or other distributions, qualifications or terms or conditions of redemption for each such class or series.

PREFERRED SHARES

The Charter initially will authorize the Board of Directors to issue 50 million preferred shares and to classify or reclassify any unissued preferred shares into one or more classes or series of capital stock, including Common Shares. Prior to issuance of shares of any class or series of capital stock other than Common Shares, the Board of Directors is required under the MGCL to set, subject to the provisions of the Charter regarding the restriction on transfer of capital stock, the terms, preferences, conversion or other rights, voting powers, restrictions, limitations as to dividends or other distributions, qualifications and terms or conditions of redemption for each such class or series. Thus, the Board of Directors could authorize the issuance of preferred shares or other capital stock with terms and conditions which could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a transaction or a change in control of Host REIT that might involve a premium price for holders of Common Shares or otherwise be in their best interest. As of the date hereof, no shares other than Common Shares are outstanding, but Host REIT may issue preferred shares or other capital stock in the future, including as a result of the issuance of preferred stock by Host prior to the REIT Conversion. Although the Board of Directors has no intention at the present time of doing so (other than in connection with the proposed Shareholders Rights Plan), it could authorize Host REIT to issue a class or series of shares that could, depending upon the terms of such class or series, delay, defer or prevent a transaction or a change in control of Host REIT that might involve a premium price for holders of Common Shares or otherwise be in their best interest.

POWER TO ISSUE ADDITIONAL COMMON SHARES AND PREFERRED SHARES

Host REIT believes that the power of the Board of Directors to issue additional authorized but unissued Common Shares or preferred shares and to classify or reclassify unissued Common Shares or preferred shares and thereafter to cause Host REIT to issue such classified or reclassified shares of capital stock in one or more classes or series will provide Host REIT with increased flexibility in structuring possible future financings and acquisitions and in meeting other needs which might arise. The additional classes or series, as well as the Common Shares, will be available for issuance without further action by Host REIT's shareholders, unless such action is required by applicable law or the rules of any stock exchange or automated quotation system on which Host REIT's securities may be listed or traded.

RESTRICTIONS ON OWNERSHIP AND TRANSFER

For Host REIT to qualify as a REIT under the Code, no more than 50% in value of its outstanding shares of stock may be owned, actually or constructively, by five or fewer individuals (as defined in the Code to include certain entities) during the last half of a taxable year (other than the first year for which an election to be treated as a REIT has been made) or during a proportionate part of a shorter taxable year. In addition, if Host REIT, or one or more owners (actually or constructively) of 10% or more of Host REIT, actually or constructively owns 10% or more of a tenant of Host REIT (or a tenant of any partnership in which Host REIT is a partner), the rent received by Host REIT (either directly or through any such partnership) from such tenant will not be qualifying income for purposes of the REIT gross income tests of the Code. A REIT's shares also must be beneficially owned by 100 or more persons during at least 335 days of a taxable year of twelve months or during a proportionate part of a shorter taxable year (other than the first year for which an election to be treated as a REIT has been made).

Primarily because the Board of Directors believes it is desirable for Host REIT to qualify as a REIT, the Charter, subject to certain exceptions, provides that no holder may own, or be deemed to own by virtue of the attribution provisions of the Code, more than (i) 9.8% of the lesser of the number or value of Common Shares outstanding (subject to an exception for Common Shares held prior to the REIT Conversion so long as the holder thereof would not own more than 9.9% in value of the outstanding shares of capital stock of Host REIT) or (ii) 9.8% of the lesser of the number or value of the issued and outstanding preferred or other shares of any class or series of Host REIT (the "Ownership Limit"). The Ownership Limitation prohibits Marriott International and its subsidiaries and affiliates (including members of the Marriott family) from collectively owning shares of capital stock in excess of the Ownership Limit, but Host REIT's Board of Directors intends to grant an exception (pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Charter) that would permit Marriott International to exercise its right to purchase up to 20% of each class of Host REIT's voting stock in connection with a change in control of Host REIT (but only in the event that (i) Marriott International and its subsidiaries and affiliates (including members of the Marriott family) do not own at such time or thereafter, directly and by attribution, 10% or more of Crestline or any of the Lessees and (ii) such ownership of Host REIT shares would not cause the Operating Partnership to be considered to own, directly or by attribution, 10% or more of Crestline or any of the Lessees). See "Certain Relationships and Related Transactions--Relationship Between Host and Marriott International." The ownership attribution rules under the Code are complex and may cause Common Shares owned actually or constructively by a group of related individuals and/or entities to be owned constructively by one individual or entity. As a result, the acquisition or ownership of less than 9.8% of the Common Shares (or the acquisition or ownership of an interest in an entity that owns, actually or constructively, Common Shares) by an individual or entity could, nevertheless, cause that individual or entity, or another individual or entity, to own constructively in excess of 9.8% of the outstanding Common Shares and thus subject such Common Shares to the Ownership Limit. The Board of Directors may grant an exemption from the Ownership Limit with respect to one or more persons who would not be treated as "individuals" for purposes of the Code if it is satisfied, based upon an opinion of counsel and such other evidence as is satisfactory to the Board of Directors in its sole discretion, that such ownership will not cause a person who is an individual to be treated as owning Common Shares in excess of the Ownership Limit, applying the applicable constructive ownership rules, and will not otherwise jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT (for example, by causing any tenant of the Operating Partnership or the Partnerships (including but not limited to Crestline and the Lessees) to be considered a "related party tenant" for purposes of the REIT qualification rules). As a condition of such waiver, the Board of Directors may require undertakings or representations from the applicant with respect to preserving the REIT status of Host REIT.

The Board of Directors of Host REIT has the authority to increase the Ownership Limit from time to time, but does not have the authority to do so to the extent that after giving effect to such increase, five beneficial owners of Common Shares could beneficially own in the aggregate more than 49.5% of the outstanding Common Shares.

The Charter further prohibits (i) any person from actually or constructively owning shares of beneficial interest of Host REIT that would result in Host REIT being "closely held" under Section 856(h) of the Code or otherwise cause Host REIT to fail to qualify as a REIT and (ii) any person from transferring shares of capital stock of Host REIT if such transfer would result in shares of capital stock of Host REIT being owned by fewer than 100 persons.

Any person who acquires or attempts or intends to acquire actual or constructive ownership of shares of capital stock of Host REIT that will or may violate any of the foregoing restrictions on transferability and ownership is required to give notice immediately to Host REIT and provide Host REIT with such other information as Host REIT may request in order to determine the effect of such transfer on Host REIT's status as a REIT.

If any purported transfer of shares of capital stock of Host REIT or any other event would otherwise result in any person violating the Ownership Limit or the other restrictions in the Charter, then any such purported transfer will be void and of no force or effect with respect to the purported transferee (the "Prohibited Transferee") as to that number of shares that exceeds the Ownership Limit (referred to as "excess shares") and the Prohibited Transferee shall acquire no right or interest (or, in the case of any event other than a purported transfer, the person or entity holding record title to any such shares in excess of the Ownership Limit (the "Prohibited Owner") shall cease to own any right or interest) in such excess shares. Any such excess shares described above will be transferred automatically, by operation of law, to a trust, the beneficiary of which will be a qualified charitable organization selected by Host REIT (the "Beneficiary"). Such automatic transfer shall be deemed to be effective as of the close of business on the Business Day (as defined in the Charter) prior to the date of such violating transfer. Within 20 days of receiving notice from Host REIT of the transfer of shares to the trust, the trustee of the trust (who shall be designated by Host REIT and be unaffiliated with Host REIT and any Prohibited Transferee or Prohibited Owner) will be required to sell such excess shares to a person or entity who could own such shares without violating the Ownership Limit, and distribute to the Prohibited Transferee an amount equal to the lesser of the price paid by the Prohibited Transferee for such excess shares or the sales proceeds received by the trust for such excess shares. In the case of any excess shares resulting from any event other than a transfer, or from a transfer for no consideration (such as a gift), the trustee will be required to sell such excess shares to a qualified person or entity and distribute to the Prohibited Owner an amount equal to the lesser of the fair market value of such excess shares as of the date of such event or the sales proceeds received by the trust for such excess shares. In either case, any proceeds in excess of the amount distributable to the Prohibited Transferee or Prohibited Owner, as applicable, will be distributed to the Beneficiary. Prior to a sale of any such excess shares by the trust, the trustee will be entitled to receive, in trust for the Beneficiary, all dividends and other distributions paid by Host REIT with respect to such excess shares, and also will be entitled to exercise all voting rights with respect to such excess shares. Subject to Maryland law, effective as of the date that such shares have been transferred to the trust, the trustee shall have the authority (at the trustee's sole discretion and subject to applicable law) (i) to rescind as void any vote cast by a Prohibited Transferee prior to the discovery by Host REIT that such shares have been transferred to the trust and (ii) to recast such vote in accordance with the desires of the trustee acting for the benefit of the Beneficiary. However, if Host REIT has already taken irreversible corporate action, then the trustee shall not have the authority to rescind and recast such vote. Any dividend or other distribution paid to the Prohibited Transferee or Prohibited Owner (prior to the discovery by Host REIT that such shares had been automatically transferred to a trust as described above) will be required to be repaid to the trustee upon demand for distribution to the Beneficiary. If the transfer to the trust as described above is not automatically effective (for any reason) to prevent violation of the Ownership Limit, then the Charter provides that the transfer of the excess shares will be void.

In addition, shares of capital stock of Host REIT held in the trust shall be deemed to have been offered for sale to Host REIT, or its designee, at a price per share equal to the lesser of (i) the price per share in the transaction that resulted in such transfer to the trust (or, in the case of a devise or gift, the market value at the time of such devise or gift) and (ii) the market value of such shares on the date Host REIT, or its designee, accepts such offer. Host REIT will have the right to accept such offer until the trustee has sold the shares held in the trust. Upon such a sale to Host REIT, the interest of the Beneficiary in the shares sold will terminate and the trustee will distribute the net proceeds of the sale to the Prohibited Owner.

The foregoing restrictions on transferability and ownership will not apply if the Board of Directors determines that it is no longer in the best interests of Host REIT to attempt to qualify, or to continue to qualify, as a REIT.

All certificates representing shares of capital stock will bear a legend referring to the restrictions described above.

All persons who own, directly or by virtue of the attribution provisions of the Code, more than 5% (or such other percentage between 1/2 of 1% and 5% as provided in the rules and regulations promulgated under the Code) of the lesser of the number or value of the outstanding shares of capital stock of Host REIT must give a written notice to the Operating Partnership within 30 days after the end of each taxable year. In addition, each shareholder will, upon demand, be required to disclose to Host REIT in writing such information with respect to the direct, indirect and constructive ownership of shares of capital stock as the Board of Directors deems reasonably necessary to comply with the provisions of the Code applicable to a REIT, to comply with the requirements of any taxing authority or governmental agency or to determine any such compliance.

These ownership limitations could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a takeover or other transaction in which holders of some, or a majority, of Common Shares might receive a premium for their Common Shares over the then prevailing market price or which such holders might believe to be otherwise in their best interest.

TRANSFER AGENT AND REGISTRAR

The transfer agent and registrar for the Common Shares will be First Chicago Trust Company of New York.

CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF MARYLAND LAW AND HOST REIT'S CHARTER AND BYLAWS

The following summary of certain provisions of Maryland law and of the Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT does not purport to be complete and is subject to and qualified in its entirety by reference to Maryland law and the forms of the Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT to be effective upon completion of the merger of Host with and into Host REIT.

The Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT will contain certain provisions that could make more difficult an acquisition or change in control of Host REIT by means of a tender offer, a proxy contest or otherwise. These provisions are expected to discourage certain types of coercive takeover practices and inadequate takeover bids and to encourage person seeking to acquire control of Host REIT to negotiate first with the Board of Directors. Host REIT believes that the benefits of these provisions outweigh the potential disadvantages of discouraging such proposals because, among other things, negotiation of such proposals might result in an improvement of their terms. See also "--Restrictions on Ownership and Transfer."

NUMBER OF DIRECTORS; CLASSIFICATION AND REMOVAL OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS; OTHER PROVISIONS

The Charter will provide that the Board of Directors initially will consist of eight members and may thereafter be increased or decreased in accordance with the Bylaws of Host REIT, provided that the total number of directors may not be fewer than three nor more than 13. Pursuant to Host REIT's Bylaws, the number of directors shall be fixed by the Board of Directors within the limits set forth in the Charter. Further, the Charter will provide that the Board of Directors will be divided into three classes of directors, with each class to consist as nearly as possible of an equal number of directors. The term of office of the first class of directors will expire at the 1999 annual meeting of shareholders; the term of the second class of directors will expire at the 2000 annual meeting of shareholders; and the term of the third class of directors will expire at the 2001 annual meeting of shareholders. At each annual meeting of shareholders, the class of directors to be elected at such meeting will be elected for a three-year term, and the directors in the other two classes will continue in office. Because shareholders will have no right to cumulative voting for the election of directors, at each annual meeting of shareholders the holders of a majority of the outstanding Common Shares will be able to elect all of the successors to the class of directors whose term expires at that meeting.

Host REIT's Charter also will provide that, except for any directors who may be elected by holders of a class or series of shares of capital stock other than the Common Shares, directors may be removed only for cause and only by the affirmative vote of shareholders holding at least two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast for the election of directors. Vacancies on the Board of Directors may be filled by the concurring vote of a majority of the remaining directors and, in the case of a vacancy resulting from the removal of a director by the shareholders, by the shareholders by at least two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast in the election of directors. Under Maryland law, directors may fill any vacancy only until the next annual meeting of shareholders. A vote of shareholders holding at least two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast thereon is required to amend, alter, change, repeal or adopt any provisions inconsistent with the foregoing classified board and director removal provisions. These provisions may make it more difficult and time-consuming to change majority control of the Board of Directors of Host REIT and, thus, may reduce the vulnerability of Host REIT to an unsolicited proposal for the takeover of Host REIT or the removal of incumbent management.

Because the Board of Directors will have the power, without a vote of shareholders, to classify or reclassify any unissued shares of capital stock and to establish the preferences and rights of any preferred or other class or series of shares to be issued, the Board of Directors may afford the holders of any class or series of senior shares of capital stock preferences, powers and rights, voting or otherwise, senior to the rights of holders of Common Shares. The issuance of any such senior shares of capital stock could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of Host REIT.

See "Management--Limitation on Liability and Indemnification" for a description of the limitations on liability of directors and officers of Host REIT and the provisions for indemnification of directors and officers provided for under applicable Maryland law and the Charter.

CHANGES IN CONTROL PURSUANT TO MARYLAND LAW

Maryland Business Combination Law. Under the MGCL, certain "business combinations" (including certain issuances of equity securities) between a Maryland corporation and any Interested Shareholder or an affiliate of the Interested Shareholder, are prohibited for five years after the most recent date on which the Interested Shareholder becomes an Interested Shareholder. Thereafter, any such business combination must be approved by two super-majority shareholder votes unless, among other conditions, the corporation's common shareholders receive a minimum price (as defined in the MGCL) for their shares and the consideration is received in cash or in the same form as previously paid by the Interested Shareholder for its common shares. The Board of Directors of Host REIT has not opted out of the business combination provisions of the MGCL. Consequently, the five-year prohibition and the super-majority vote requirements will apply to a business combination involving Host REIT; however, as permitted by the MGCL, Host REIT's Board of Directors may elect to opt out of these provisions in the future.

Maryland Control Share Acquisition Law. Under the MGCL, "control shares" acquired in a "control share acquisition" have no voting rights except to the extent approved by a vote of two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter, excluding shares owned by the acquiror, by officers or by directors who are employees of the corporation. "Control shares" are voting shares which, if aggregated with all other such shares previously acquired by the acquiror or in respect of which the acquiror is able to exercise or direct the exercise of voting power (except solely by virtue of a revocable proxy), would entitle the acquiror to exercise voting power in electing directors within one of the following ranges of voting power: (i) one-fifth or more but less than one-third, (ii) one-third or more but less than a majority or (iii) a majority or more of all voting power. Control shares do not include shares the acquiring person is then entitled to vote as a result of having previously obtained shareholder approval. A "control share acquisition" means the acquisition of control shares, subject to certain exceptions.

A person who has made or proposes to make a control share acquisition, upon satisfaction of certain conditions (including an undertaking to pay expenses), may compel the board of directors of the corporation to call a special meeting of shareholders to be held within 50 days of demand to consider the voting rights of the shares. If no request for a meeting is made, the corporation may itself present the question at any shareholders meeting.

If voting rights are not approved at the meeting or if the acquiring person does not deliver an acquiring person statement as required by the statute, then, subject to certain conditions and limitations, the corporation may redeem any or all of the control shares (except those for which voting rights have previously been approved) for fair value determined, without regard to the absence of voting rights for the control shares, as of the date of the last control share acquisition by the acquiror or of any meeting of shareholders at which the voting rights of such shares are considered and not approved. If voting rights for control shares are approved at a shareholders meeting and the acquiror becomes entitled to vote a majority of the shares entitled to vote, all other shareholders may exercise appraisal rights. The fair value of the shares as determined for purposes of such appraisal rights may not be less than the highest price per share paid by the acquiror in the control share acquisition.

The control share acquisition statute does not apply to (a) shares acquired in a merger, consolidation or share exchange if the corporation is a party to the transaction or (b) acquisitions approved or exempted by the charter or bylaws of the corporation. The Board of Directors of Host REIT has not opted out of the control share provisions of the MGCL but, as permitted by the MGCL, may elect to opt out of these provisions in the future.

ADVANCE NOTICE OF DIRECTOR NOMINATIONS AND NEW BUSINESS

The Bylaws of Host REIT provide that (i) with respect to an annual meeting of shareholders, nominations of persons for election to the Board of Directors and the proposal of business to be considered by shareholders may be made only (A) pursuant to Host REIT's notice of meeting, (B) by the Board of Directors or (C) by a shareholder who is entitled to vote at the meeting and has complied with the advance notice procedures set forth in the Bylaws and (ii) with respect to special meetings of the shareholders, only the business specified in Host REIT's notice of meeting may be brought before the meeting of shareholders and nominations of persons for election to the Board of Directors may be made only (A) pursuant to Host REIT's notice of the meeting, (B) by the Board of Directors or (C) provided that the Board of Directors has determined that directors shall be elected at such meeting, by a shareholder who is entitled to vote at the meeting and has complied with the advance notice provisions set forth in the Bylaws. The advance notice provisions contained in the Bylaws generally require nominations and new business proposals by shareholders to be delivered by the Secretary of Host REIT not later than the close of business on the 60th day nor earlier than the close of business on the 90th day before the date on which Host REIT first mailed its proxy materials for the prior year's annual meeting of shareholders.

MEETINGS OF SHAREHOLDERS; CALL OF SPECIAL MEETINGS; SHAREHOLDER ACTION IN LIEU OF MEETING BY UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Host REIT's Bylaws provide that annual meetings of shareholders shall be held on a date and at the time set by the Board of Directors during the month of May each year (commencing in May 1999). Special meetings of the shareholders may be called by the President or the Board of Directors. The Secretary of Host REIT also is required to call a special meeting of the shareholders on the written request of shareholders entitled to cast a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast at the meeting. Pursuant to the MGCL and Host REIT's Bylaws, any action required or permitted to be taken by the shareholders must be effected at a duly called annual or special meeting of shareholders and may not be effected by any consent in writing by shareholders, unless such consent is unanimous.

MERGER, CONSOLIDATION, SHARE EXCHANGE AND TRANSFER OF ASSETS OF HOST REIT

Pursuant to Host REIT's Charter, subject to the terms of any class or series of shares at the time outstanding, Host REIT may merge with or into another entity, may consolidate with one or more other entities, may participate in a share exchange or may transfer its assets within the meaning of the MGCL, but any such merger, consolidation, share exchange or transfer of assets must be approved (i) by the Board of Directors in the manner provided in the MGCL and (ii) by shareholders to the extent required under the MGCL. In general, such transactions by a Maryland corporation, such as Host REIT, must first be approved by a majority of the entire Board of Directors and thereafter approved by shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter (unless the charter provides for a greater or lesser shareholder vote but not less than a majority of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter). Host REIT's Charter generally provides for shareholder approval of such transactions by a two-thirds vote of all votes entitled to be cast, except that any merger of Host REIT with or into a trust organized for the purpose of changing Host REIT's form of organization from a corporation to a trust will require the approval of shareholders of Host REIT by the affirmative vote only of a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Under the MGCL, certain mergers may be accomplished without a vote of shareholders. For example, no shareholder vote is required for a merger of a subsidiary of a Maryland corporation into its parent, provided the parent owns at least 90 percent of the subsidiary. In addition, a merger need not be approved by shareholders of a Maryland successor corporation if the merger does not reclassify or change the outstanding shares or otherwise amend the charter, and the number of shares to be issued or delivered in the merger is not more than 20% of the number of its shares of the same class or series outstanding immediately before the merger becomes effective. A share exchange need be approved by a Maryland successor only by its Board of Directors. Under the MGCL, a "transfer of assets" is defined to mean any sale, lease, exchange or other transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation but does not include (i) a transfer of assets by a corporation in the ordinary course of business actually conducted by it, (ii) a mortgage, pledge or creation of any other security interest in any or all of the assets of the corporation, whether or not in the ordinary course of its business, (iii) an exchange of shares of stock through voluntary action under any agreement with the shareholders or (iv) a transfer of assets to one or more persons if all the equity interests of the person or persons are owned, directly or indirectly, by the corporation. Pursuant to the MGCL, a voluntary dissolution of Host REIT also would require the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

AMENDMENTS TO HOST REIT'S CHARTER AND BYLAWS

Under the MGCL, in order to amend the charter, the board of directors first must adopt a resolution setting forth the proposed amendment and declaring its advisability and direct that the proposed amendment be submitted to shareholders for their consideration either at an annual or special meeting of shareholders. Thereafter, the proposed amendment must be approved by shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter, unless a greater or lesser proportion of votes (but not less than a majority of all votes entitled to be cast) is specified in the charter. The provisions contained in Host REIT's Charter relating to restrictions on transferability of the Common Shares, the classified Board and fixing the size of the Board within the range set forth in the Charter, as well as the provisions relating to removal of directors and the filling of Board vacancies may be amended only by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors and approved at an annual or special meeting of the shareholders by the affirmative vote of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Other amendments to the Charter generally may be effected by requisite action of the Board of Directors and approval by shareholders by the affirmative vote of not less than a majority of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. As permitted under the MGCL, the Bylaws of Host REIT provide that directors have the exclusive right to amend the Bylaws. Amendment of this provision of the Charter also would require Board action and approval by holders of not less than two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

ANTI-TAKEOVER EFFECT OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF MARYLAND LAW AND HOST REIT'S CHARTER AND BYLAWS

The business combination and control share provisions of the MGCL, the provisions of the Charter on the classification of the Board of Directors, fixing the size of the Board of Directors within a specified range and removal of directors, the provisions authorizing the Board of Directors, without a vote of shareholders, to classify or reclassify any unissued shares into one or more classes or series, the provisions relating to mergers, consolidations, share exchanges and transfers of assets, the provisions for amending certain provisions of the Charter and for amending the Bylaws, the advance notice provisions of the Bylaws and the limitations on the ability of shareholders to call special meetings, could delay, defer or prevent a transaction or a change of control of Host REIT that might involve a premium price for holders of Common Shares or otherwise be in their best interests. The share transfer restrictions that will be contained in the Charter, which are intended to help Host REIT satisfy certain requirements under the Code to qualify as a REIT for federal income tax purposes, could also delay, defer or prevent a transaction or a change of control of Host REIT that might involve a premium price for holders of Common Shares or otherwise be in their best interests.

MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL PURCHASE RIGHT

In connection with Host's spinoff of Marriott International in 1993, Marriott International obtained the Marriott International Purchase Right which entitles Marriott to purchase up to 20% of each class of Host's outstanding voting shares at the then fair market value upon the occurrence of certain change of control events involving Host. The Marriott International Purchase Right will continue in effect after the Mergers (until June 2017), subject to certain limitations intended to help protect the REIT status of Host REIT. The Marriott International Purchase Right may have the effect of discouraging a takeover of Host REIT, because any person considering acquiring a substantial or controlling block of Host REIT Common Shares will face the possibility that its ability to obtain or exercise control would be impaired or made more expensive by the exercise of the Marriott International Purchase Right.

SHAREHOLDER RIGHTS PLAN

Host currently has in effect a stockholder rights plan, and it has preferred stock purchase rights attached to its common stock pursuant to such rights plan. Prior to the completion of the merger of Host with and into Host REIT, the Board of Directors intends to adopt a Shareholder Rights Plan ("Rights Agreement") to replace the existing Host plan and declare a dividend of one preferred share purchase right (a "Right") for each outstanding Common Share. All Common Shares issued by Host REIT between the date of adoption of the Rights Agreement and the Distribution Date (as defined below), or the date, if any, on which the Rights are redeemed would have Rights attached to them. It is expected that the Rights will expire ten years after adoption of the Rights Agreement, unless earlier redeemed or exchanged. Each Right, when exercisable, would entitle the holder to purchase a fraction of a share of a newly created series of junior participating preferred shares. Until a Right is exercised, the holder thereof, as such, would have no rights as a shareholder of Host REIT including, without limitation, the right to vote or to receive dividends.

The Rights Agreement is expected to provide that the Rights initially attach to all certificates representing Common Shares then outstanding. The Rights would separate from the Common Shares and a distribution of Rights certificates would occur (a "Distribution Date") upon the earlier to occur of (i) ten days following a public announcement that a person or group of affiliated or associated persons (an "Acquiring Person") has acquired, or obtained the right to acquire, beneficial ownership of 20% or more of the outstanding Common Shares (the "Share Acquisition Date") or (ii) ten business days (or such later date as the Board of Directors may determine) following the commencement of a tender offer or exchange offer, the consummation of which would result in the beneficial ownership by a person of 20% or more of the outstanding Common Shares. Until the Distribution Date, the Rights would be evidenced by the Common Share certificates, and would be transferred with, and only with, the Common Share certificates.

It is expected that, if a Person becomes the beneficial owner of 20% or more of the then outstanding Common Shares (except pursuant to an offer for all outstanding Common Shares which the directors by a two-thirds vote determine to be fair to and otherwise in the best interests of Host REIT and its shareholders), each holder of a Right would, after the end of a redemption period, have the right (subject to the Ownership Limit and the other ownership restrictions contained in the Charter) to exercise the Right by purchasing Common Shares (or, in certain circumstances, cash, property or other securities of Host REIT) having a value equal to two times such amount.

If at any time following the Share Acquisition Date, (i) Host REIT is acquired in a merger or other business combination transaction in which it is not the surviving corporation (other than a merger which follows an offer described in the preceding paragraph) or (ii) 50% or more of Host REIT's assets or earning power is sold or transferred, each holder of a Right would have the right to receive, upon exercise, common shares of the acquiring company having a value equal to two times the purchase price of the Right.

It is expected that, in general, the Board of Directors of Host REIT may redeem the Rights at a nominal price per Right at any time until ten days after an Acquiring Person has been identified as such. If the decision to redeem the Rights occurs after a person becomes an Acquiring Person, the decision will require the concurrence of directors by a two-thirds vote.

The Rights would have certain anti-takeover effects. The Rights would cause substantial dilution to a person or group that attempts to acquire Host REIT. The Rights, however, would not interfere with any merger or other business combination approved by the Board of Directors since the Board may, at its option, at any time prior to any person becoming an Acquiring Person, redeem all rights or amend the Rights Agreement to exempt the person from the Rights Agreement.

DESCRIPTION OF THE NOTES

The Notes will be issued under the Indenture between the Operating Partnership and Marine Midland Bank, as trustee (the "Indenture Trustee"). A copy of the form of Indenture is filed as an exhibit to the Registration Statement of which this Consent Solicitation is a part. The terms of the Notes include those provisions contained in the Indenture and those made part of the Indenture by reference to the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, as amended (the "Trust Indenture Act"). The Notes are subject to all such terms, and holders of Notes are referred to the Indenture and the Trust Indenture Act for a statement thereof. The following summary of certain provisions of the Indenture does not purport to be complete and is subject to and qualified in its entirety by reference to the Indenture. As used in this section, the term "Operating Partnership" means Host Marriott, L.P. and not any of its Subsidiaries, unless otherwise expressly stated or the context otherwise requires.

GENERAL

A separate series of Notes will be issued to Limited Partners of each Partnership who elect to receive Notes in exchange for the OP Units received in connection with the Mergers. The terms of each series of Notes will be substantially identical. The Notes will be direct, senior unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Operating Partnership and will rank pari passu with each other and with all other unsecured and unsubordinated indebtedness of the Operating Partnership from time to time outstanding. The Notes will be recourse obligations of the Operating Partnership, but the holders thereof will not have recourse against any partner of the Operating Partnership (including Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership). The Notes will be effectively subordinated to mortgages and other secured indebtedness of the Operating Partnership to the extent of the value of the property securing such indebtedness. The Notes also will be effectively subordinated to all existing and future third party indebtedness and other liabilities of the Operating Partnership's Subsidiaries (including the Partnerships). As of June 19, 1998, on a pro forma basis assuming the Full Participation Scenario, the Operating Partnership and its Subsidiaries would have had aggregate consolidated debt of approximately $5.6 billion (including $567 million of debentures relating to the Convertible Preferred Securities), to which the Notes were effectively subordinated or which ranked equal with such Notes.

The Notes will mature on December 15, 2005 (the "Maturity Date"), which is approximately seven years following the currently expected Effective Date. The Notes are not subject to any sinking fund provisions, although the Operating Partnership is required to make mandatory prepayments of principal in certain events. See "--Principal and Interest."

Except as described under "--Limitation on Incurrence of Debt" and "--Merger, Consolidation or Sale," the Indenture does not contain any other provisions that would limit the ability of the Operating Partnership or any of its Subsidiaries to incur indebtedness or that would afford Holders (as defined below) of the Notes protection in the event of (i) a highly leveraged or similar transaction involving the Operating Partnership, the management of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT, or any subsidiary of any of them, (ii) a change of control of the Operating Partnership or Host REIT or (iii) a reorganization, restructuring, merger or similar transaction involving the Operating Partnership that may adversely affect the Holders of the Notes. In addition, subject to the limitations set forth under "--Merger, Consolidation or Sale," the Operating Partnership may, in the future, enter into certain transactions such as the sale of all or substantially all of its assets or the merger or consolidation of the Operating Partnership that would increase the amount of the Operating Partnership's indebtedness or substantially reduce or eliminate the Operating Partnership's assets, which may have an adverse effect on the Operating Partnership's ability to service its indebtedness, including the Notes. The Operating Partnership and its management have no present intention of engaging in a highly leveraged or similar transaction involving the Operating Partnership.

The Notes will be issued in fully registered form.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

The principal amount of the Notes with respect to each Partnership will be equal to the Note Election Amount for such Partnership, which will be equal to the Liquidation Value or, if greater, 80% of the Exchange Value for such Partnership.

The Notes will bear interest at a fixed rate of interest equal to 6.56% per annum, which was determined based on 120% of the applicable federal rate as of the Record Date. Interest will accrue from the closing of the Mergers or from the immediately preceding Interest Payment Date (as defined below) to which interest has been paid, payable semi-annually in arrears on each June 15 and December 15, commencing June 15, 1999 (each, an "Interest Payment Date"), and on the Maturity Date, to the persons (the "Holders") in whose names the Notes are registered in the security register for the Notes at the close of business on the date 14 calendar days prior to such payment day regardless of whether such day is a Business Day, as defined in the Indenture. Interest on the Notes will be computed on the basis of a 360-day year of twelve 30-day months.

The principal of each Note payable on the Maturity Date will be paid against presentation and surrender of such Note at an office or agency maintained by the Operating Partnership in New York City (the "Paying Agent") in United States dollars. Initially, the Indenture Trustee will act as Paying Agent.

REDEMPTION

The Notes of any series may be redeemed at any time at the option of the Operating Partnership, in whole or from time to time in part, at a redemption price equal to the sum of the principal amount of the Notes being redeemed plus accrued interest thereon to the redemption date (the "Redemption Price").

In the event that, following the closing of the Mergers, any Partnership (i) sells or otherwise disposes of any Hotel owned by the Partnership immediately prior to the Merger and realizes net cash proceeds in excess of (a) the amount required to repay mortgage indebtedness (outstanding immediately prior to the Mergers) secured by such Hotel or otherwise required to be applied to the reduction of indebtedness of such Partnership and (b) the costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with such sale or other disposition or (ii) refinances (whether at maturity or otherwise) any indebtedness secured by any Hotel owned by the Partnership immediately prior to the Merger and realizes net cash proceeds in excess of (a) the amount of indebtedness secured by such Hotel at the time of the Mergers, calculated prior to any repayment or other reduction in the amount of such indebtedness in the Mergers and (b) the costs incurred by the Operating Partnership or such Partnership in connection with such refinancing (in either case, "Net Cash Proceeds"), the Operating Partnership will be required within 90 days of the receipt of the total Net Cash Proceeds to redeem at the Redemption Price an aggregate amount of principal of the particular series of the Notes which were issued to the Holders who were partners of such Partnership prior to the REIT Conversion equal to 80% of such Net Cash Proceeds.

If the paying agent (other than the Operating Partnership, any of its Subsidiaries or an affiliate thereof) holds on the redemption date of any Notes money sufficient to pay such Notes, then on and after that date such Notes will cease to be outstanding and interest on them will cease to accrue.

Notice of any optional or mandatory redemption of any Notes will be given to Holders at their addresses, as shown in the security register for the Notes, not more than 60 nor less than 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption. The notice of redemption will specify, among other items, the Redemption Price and the principal amount of the Notes held by such Holder to be redeemed.

If less than all the Notes of any series are to be redeemed, the Indenture Trustee shall select, in such manner as it shall deem fair and appropriate, the Notes to be redeemed in whole or in part.

LIMITATION ON INCURRENCE OF INDEBTEDNESS

The Operating Partnership will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, incur any indebtedness (including acquired indebtedness) other than intercompany indebtedness (representing indebtedness to which the only parties are the Operating Partnership, Host REIT and/or any of their subsidiaries, but only so long as such indebtedness is held solely by any of such parties) that is subordinate in right of payment to the Notes, if immediately after giving effect to the incurrence of such indebtedness, the aggregate principal amount of all outstanding indebtedness of the Operating Partnership and its Subsidiaries on a consolidated basis, determined in accordance with GAAP, is greater than 75% of the Operating Partnership's Total Assets.

As used in the Indenture and the description thereof herein:

"Subsidiary" means (i) a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, trust, REIT or other entity a majority of the voting power of the voting equity securities of which are owned, directly or indirectly, by the Operating Partnership or by one or more Subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership, (ii) a partnership, limited liability company, trust, REIT or other entity not treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes, a majority of the equity interests of which are owned, directly or indirectly, by the Operating Partnership or a Subsidiary of the Operating Partnership or (iii) one or more corporations which, either individually or in the aggregate, would be Significant Subsidiaries (as defined below, except that the investment, asset and equity thresholds for purposes of this definition shall be 5%), the majority of the value of the equity interests of which are owned, directly or indirectly, by the Operating Partnership or by one or more Subsidiaries.

"Total Assets" means the sum of (i) Undepreciated Real Estate Assets and (ii) all other assets (excluding intangibles) of the Operating Partnership and its Subsidiaries determined on a consolidated basis (it being understood that the accounts of Subsidiaries shall be consolidated with those of the Operating Partnership only to the extent of the Operating Partnership's proportionate interest therein).

"Undepreciated Real Estate Assets" means, as of any date, the cost (being the original cost to the Operating Partnership or any of its Subsidiaries plus capital improvements) of real estate assets of the Operating Partnership and its Subsidiaries on such date, before depreciation and amortization of such real estate assets, determined on a consolidated basis (it being understood that the accounts of Subsidiaries shall be consolidated with those of the Operating Partnership only to the extent of the Operating Partnership's proportionate interest therein).

MERGER, CONSOLIDATION OR SALE

The Operating Partnership will not merge or consolidate with or into, or sell, lease, convey, transfer or otherwise dispose of all or substantially all of its property and assets (as an entirety or substantially as an entirety in one transaction or a series of related transactions) to any individual, corporation, limited liability company, partnership, joint venture, association, joint stock company, trust, REIT, unincorporated organization or government or any agency or political subdivision thereof (any such entity, a "Person"), or permit any Person to merge with or into the Operating Partnership, unless: (i) either the Operating Partnership shall be the continuing Person or the Person (if other than the Operating Partnership) formed by such consolidation or into which the Operating Partnership is merged or that acquired such property and assets of the Operating Partnership shall be an entity organized and validly existing under the laws of the United States of America or any state or jurisdiction thereof and shall expressly assume, by a supplemental indenture, executed and delivered to the Indenture Trustee, all of the obligations of the Operating Partnership, on the Notes and under the Indenture; (ii) immediately after giving effect, on a pro forma basis, to such transaction, no Default or Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing; and (iii) the Operating Partnership will have delivered to the Indenture Trustee an officers' certificate and an opinion of counsel, in each case stating that such consolidation, merger or transfer and such supplemental indenture complies with such conditions.

EVENTS OF DEFAULT, NOTICE AND WAIVER

The following events are "Events of Default" with respect to the Notes of any series: (i) default for 30 days in the payment of any installment of interest on any Note of such series; (ii) default in the payment of the principal of any Note when due and payable at maturity, redemption, by acceleration or otherwise; (iii) default in the payment of any mandatory redemption of principal on or before the date 90 days after the receipt of the total Net Cash Proceeds from the applicable sale or other disposition or refinancing of a Hotel giving rise to the obligation to make such redemption; (iv) default in the performance of any other covenant or agreement of the Operating Partnership contained in the Indenture, such default having continued for 60 days after written notice as provided in the Indenture; and (v) certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency or reorganization, or court appointment of a receiver, liquidator, assignee or trustee of the Operating Partnership or any Significant Subsidiary or any of their respective property. The term "Significant Subsidiary" means any Subsidiary which is a "significant subsidiary" of the Operating Partnership (as defined by Regulation S-X promulgated under the Securities Act).

If an Event of Default under the Indenture occurs and is continuing, then in every such case other than a bankruptcy-related Event of Default as described in (v) above, in which case the principal amount of the Notes shall ipso facto become immediately due and payable, the Indenture Trustee or the Holders of not less than 25% in principal amount of the outstanding Notes of any series may declare the principal amount of all of the Notes of any series to be due and payable immediately by written notice thereof to the Operating Partnership (and to the Indenture Trustee if given by the Holders). However, at any time after such a declaration of acceleration with respect to any series of Notes has been made, but before a judgment or decree for payment of the money due has been obtained by the Indenture Trustee, the Holders of not less than a majority of the principal amount of outstanding Notes of any series may rescind and annul such declaration and its consequences if (i) the Operating Partnership shall have paid or deposited with the Indenture Trustee all required payments of the principal of and interest on the Notes of any series, plus certain fees, expenses, disbursements and advances of the Indenture Trustee and (ii) all Events of Default, other than the nonpayment of accelerated principal of (or specified portion thereof) and interest on the Notes have been cured or waived. The Indenture provides that the Holders of not less than a majority of the principal amount of the outstanding Notes of a series may waive any past default with respect to such series and its consequences, except a default (x) in the payment of the principal of or interest on any Note or (y) in respect of a covenant or provision contained in the Indenture that cannot be modified or amended without the consent of the Holder of each outstanding Note affected thereby.

The Indenture Trustee will be required to give notice to the Holders of Notes within 90 days of a default under the Indenture unless such default has been cured or waived; provided, however, that the Indenture Trustee may withhold notice to the Holders of any default (except a default in the payment of the principal of or interest on any Note or in the payment of any mandatory redemption installment in respect of any Note) if specified Responsible Officers (as defined in the Indenture) of the Indenture Trustee determine in good faith such withholding to be in the interest of such Holders.

The Indenture provides that no Holders of Notes may institute any proceeding, judicial or otherwise, with respect to the Indenture or for the appointment of a receiver or trustee, or for any other remedy thereunder, except in the case of failure of the Indenture Trustee, for 60 days, to act after it has received a written request to institute proceedings in respect of an Event of Default from the Holders of not less than 25% in principal amount of the outstanding Notes, as well as an offer of indemnity reasonably satisfactory to it. This provision will not prevent, however, any Holder of Notes from instituting suit for the enforcement of payment of the principal of and interest on such Notes at the respective due dates thereof.

Subject to provisions in the Indenture relating to its duties in case of default, the Indenture Trustee is under no obligation to exercise any of its rights or powers under the Indenture at the request, order or direction of any Holders of any outstanding Notes under the Indenture, unless such Holders shall have offered to the Indenture Trustee thereunder reasonable security or indemnity. The Holders of not less than a majority in principal amount of the outstanding Notes shall have the right to direct the time, method and place of conducting any proceeding for any remedy available to the Indenture Trustee, or of exercising any trust or power conferred upon the Indenture Trustee. However, the Indenture Trustee may refuse to follow any direction which is in conflict with any law or the Indenture, which may involve the Indenture Trustee if the Indenture Trustee in good faith determines that the proceeding will involve the Indenture Trustee in personal liability or which may be unduly prejudicial to the Holders of Notes of such series not joining therein.

Within 120 days after the close of each fiscal year, the Operating Partnership must deliver to the Indenture Trustee a certificate, signed by one of several specified officers of Host REIT, stating whether or not such officer has knowledge of any default under the Indenture and, if so, specifying each such default and the nature and status thereof.

MODIFICATION OF THE INDENTURE

Modifications and amendments of the Indenture will be permitted to be made by the Operating Partnership and the Indenture Trustee without the consent of any Holder of Notes for any of the following purposes: (i) to cure any ambiguity, defect or inconsistency in the Indenture; (ii) to evidence the succession of another Person to the Operating Partnership as obligor under the Indenture; (iii) to permit or facilitate the issuance of the Notes in uncertificated form; (iv) to make any change that does not adversely affect the rights of any Holder of Notes; (v) to provide for the issuance of and establish the form and terms and conditions of the Notes of any series as permitted by the Indenture; (vi) to add to the covenants of the Operating Partnership or to add Events of Default for the benefit of Holders or to surrender any right or power conferred upon the Operating Partnership in the Indenture; (vii) to evidence and provide for the acceptance of appointment by a successor Indenture Trustee or facilitate the administration of the trusts under the Indenture by more than one Indenture Trustee; (viii) to provide for guarantors or collateral for the Notes of any series; or (xi) to comply with requirements of the Commission in order to effect or maintain the qualification of the Indenture under the Trust Indenture Act.

Modifications and amendments of the Indenture, other than those described above, will be permitted to be made only with the consent of the Holders of not less than a majority in principal amount of all outstanding Notes which are affected by such modification or amendment; provided, however, that no such modification or amendment may, without the consent of each Holder of such Note affected thereby, (i) change the stated maturity of the principal of, or any installment of interest on, any such Note; (ii) reduce the principal amount of or interest on any such Note, (iii) change the place of payment, or the coin or currency, for the payment of principal of or interest on any such Note; (iv) impair the right to institute suit for the enforcement of any payment on or with respect to any such Note; (v) waive a default in the payment of principal of or interest on the Notes (other than a rescission of acceleration of the Notes of any series and a waiver of the payment default that resulted from such acceleration, as provided in the Indenture); or (vi) reduce the percentages of outstanding Notes of any series necessary to modify or amend the Indenture or to waive compliance with certain provisions thereof or certain defaults and consequences.

The Indenture provides that the Holders of not less than a majority in principal amount of outstanding Notes have the right to waive compliance by the Operating Partnership with certain covenants in the Indenture.

SATISFACTION AND DISCHARGE

The Operating Partnership may discharge certain obligations to Holders of Notes that have not already been delivered to the Indenture Trustee for cancellation and that either have become due and payable or will become due and payable within one year (or scheduled for redemption within one year) by irrevocably depositing with the Indenture Trustee, in trust, funds in an amount sufficient to pay the entire indebtedness on such Notes in respect of principal and interest to the date of such deposit (if such Notes have become due and payable) or to the stated maturity or redemption date, as the case may be, and delivering to the Indenture Trustee an officers' certificate and a legal opinion stating that the conditions precedent to such discharge have been complied with.

NO CONVERSION RIGHTS

The Notes will not be convertible into or exchangeable for any capital stock of Host REIT or equity interest in the Operating Partnership.

GOVERNING LAW

The Indenture will be governed by and shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New York.

COMPARISON OF OWNERSHIP OF PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS, OP UNITS AND COMMON SHARES

The information below highlights a number of the significant differences between the Partnerships, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT relating to, among other things, form of organization, investment objectives, policies and restrictions, asset diversification, capitalization, management structure, compensation and fees and investor rights, and compares certain legal rights associated with the ownership of Partnership Interests, OP Units and Common Shares, respectively. These comparisons are intended to assist Limited Partners in understanding how their investments will be changed if, as a result of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, their Partnership Interests are exchanged for OP Units, which are exchangeable with Host REIT for Host REIT Common Shares if timely and properly elected during the Election Period or, if retained, are redeemable at the option of the holder thereof beginning one year after the Mergers, for either Common Shares or the cash equivalent thereof, at the option of Host REIT. THIS DISCUSSION IS SUMMARY IN NATURE AND DOES NOT CONSTITUTE A COMPLETE DISCUSSION OF THESE MATTERS. LIMITED PARTNERS SHOULD CAREFULLY REVIEW THE BALANCE OF THIS CONSENT SOLICITATION FOR ADDITIONAL IMPORTANT INFORMATION.

PARTNERSHIPS	OPERATING PARTNERSHIP	HOST REIT

FORM OF ORGANIZATION AND PURPOSE

All of the Partnerships are Delaware limited partnerships, except for Chicago Suites, which is a Rhode Island limited partnership. The General Partner of each Partnership is Host or a direct or indirect wholly owned subsidiary of Host. The purpose of each Partnership, other than Atlanta Marquis, generally includes investing in, acquiring, developing, operating, selling or disposing of hotel properties or interests in hotel properties and engaging in other activities related or incidental thereto. The purpose of Atlanta Marquis is to acquire and own a general partner interest in a hotel partnership and to engage in other activities related or incidental thereto.

The Operating Partnership is a Delaware limited partnership. Following the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to the ownership of the Participating Partnerships through wholly owned subsidiaries. The sole general partner of the Operating Partnership will be Host REIT. The Participating Partnerships, as wholly owned subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership, will own the Partnership Hotels and lease them to the Lessees. Following the REIT Conversion and the Blackstone Acquisition, the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries initially is expected to own approximately 125 full-service hotels operating primarily under the Marriott, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Swissotel and Hyatt brand names. The Operating Partnership will seek to invest in a real estate portfolio primarily consisting of upscale and luxury full-service hotels. The business of the Operating Partnership will be limited to and conducted in such a manner as to permit Host REIT at all times to be qualified as a REIT under the Code. See "Distribution and Other Policies."

Host REIT is a Maryland corporation and will be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership. Host REIT will make an election to be taxed as a REIT under the Code and intends to maintain its qualification as a REIT. Host REIT's only significant asset will be its interest in the Operating Partnership and consequently an indirect investment in the Hotels owned by subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership. See "Distribution and Other Policies."

LENGTH AND TYPE OF INVESTMENT

The Partnerships are finite-life entities whose existence expires as follows: Atlanta Marquis, 2085; Chicago Suites, 2063; Desert Springs, 2087; Hanover, 2086; MDAH, 2089; MHP, 2106; MHP2, 2088 and PHLP, 2080. Other events which may cause the dissolution of certain Partnerships include: (i) the bankruptcy of the Partnership, (ii) the withdrawal or removal of the General Partner, unless a substitute general partner is elected by the Limited Partners, (iii) the dissolution or bankruptcy of the General Partner, unless a substitute general partner is elected by the Limited Partners, (iv) the sale or disposition of all or substantially all of the property of the Partnership, (v) any event that makes it unlawful for the business of the Partnership to be carried on or for the Partners to carry it on in a limited partnership or (vi) upon the agreement of the Partners. Partners are entitled to receive cash distributions out of the Partnership's net operating income, if any, and to receive cash distributions, if any, upon refinancing of a Partnership's debt or liquidation of the Partnership's real estate investments. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Background of the Partnerships."

The Operating Partnership has a stated term of approximately 100 years. Events which may cause the dissolution of the Operating Partnership prior to the expiration of the stated term include: (i) the withdrawal of Host REIT as general partner without the permitted transfer of Host REIT's interest to a successor general partner (except in certain limited circumstances), (ii) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution of the Operating Partnership pursuant to the provisions of the Delaware Act, (iii) the entry of a final non-appealable order for relief in a bankruptcy proceeding of the general partner, or the entry of a final non-appealable judgment ruling that the general partner is bankrupt or insolvent (except that, in either such case, in certain circumstances the limited partners (other than Host REIT) may vote to continue the Operating Partnership and substitute a new general partner in place of Host REIT), or (iv) on or after December 31, 2058, on election by Host REIT, in its sole and absolute discretion. The Operating Partnership has no specific plans for disposition of the assets acquired through the REIT Conversion or that may be subsequently acquired. To the extent the Operating Partnership sells or refinances its assets, the net proceeds therefrom will generally be retained by the Operating Partnership for working capital and new investments rather than being distributed to its partners (including Host REIT), except to the extent distributions thereof must be made to permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for tax purposes. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers" and "Distribution and Other Policies--Investment Policies."

Host REIT has a perpetual term and intends to continue its operations for an indefinite time period. To the extent Host REIT sells or refinances its assets, the net proceeds therefrom will generally be retained by Host REIT (through the Operating Partnership) for working capital and other general purposes, except to the extent distributions thereof must be made to permit Host REIT to qualify as a REIT for tax purposes. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Investment Policies."

The Partnerships are structured to dissolve when the assets of the Partnerships are liquidated (or after approximately 75 to 120 years, if no liquidation occurs sooner). In contrast, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT as an enterprise are intended to be infinite life entities which will constitute an operating company and will reinvest the proceeds of asset dispositions, if any, in new properties or other appropriate investments consistent with the Operating Partnership's and Host REIT's investment objectives.

LIQUIDITY

The Partnership Units in each of the Partnerships represent relatively illiquid investments with a limited resale market for such Partnership Units. The trading volume of such Partnership Units in the resale market is thin and the prices at which Partnership Units trade are generally not equal to their net asset value. No Limited Partner can require a Partnership to dispose of the Partnership's assets or redeem the Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership.

Each limited partner will have the right, beginning one year after the closing of the Mergers, to exercise his Unit Redemption Right. Upon redemption, such limited partner will receive, at the election of Host REIT, either Common Shares of Host REIT or the cash equivalent thereof in exchange for such OP Units. A limited partner may in certain circumstances transfer his OP Units. See "Description of OP Units--Restrictions on Transfers of Interests by Limited Partners."

The Common Shares of Host REIT will be freely transferable upon registration under the Securities Act, except for Common Shares held by affiliates. The Common Shares will be listed on the NYSE. A public market currently exists for Host's common stock. The breadth and strength of the market for Host REIT Common Shares will depend upon, among other things, the number of Common Shares outstanding, Host REIT's financial results and prospects and the general interest in Host REIT's dividend yield compared to that of other debt and equity securities. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reasons for the Mergers."

Partnership Units in the Partnerships have a relatively limited resale market. Beginning one year after the Mergers, limited partners of the Operating Partnership (other than Host REIT) will be able to exercise their Unit Redemption Right and receive, at the option of Host REIT, either cash or Common Shares on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment). The Common Shares of Host REIT will be freely transferable upon registration under the Securities Act, except for Common Shares held by affiliates. Shareholders of Host REIT are expected to achieve liquidity of their investment by selling the Common Shares in the open market.

NATURE OF INVESTMENT

The Partnership Interests of each Partnership constitute equity interests entitling each limited partner to his pro rata share of cash distributions made to the partners of the Partnership (except Chicago Suites, Hanover and MHP2, where the limited partners are entitled to certain preferential cash distributions, and except for Atlanta Marquis, where the General Partner is entitled to certain preferential cash distributions). The Partnerships generally maintain a policy of long-term ownership for current cash flow and long-term appreciation. The partnership agreement for each Partnership specifies how the cash available for distribution, whether arising from operation, sales or refinancing, is to be shared among the General Partner and the Limited Partners. The distributions payable to the partners are not fixed in amount and depend upon the operating results and net sale or refinancing proceeds available from the disposition of the Partnership's assets.

The OP Units constitute equity interests entitling each limited partner to his pro rata share of cash distributions made to the partners of the Operating Partnership. The Operating Partnership generally intends to retain and reinvest proceeds of the sale of property or excess refinancing proceeds in its business. See "Distribution and Other Policies."

The Common Shares constitute equity interests in Host REIT. Host REIT is entitled to receive its pro rata share of distributions made by the Operating Partnership with respect to the OP Units it holds, and each shareholder will be entitled to his pro rata share of any dividends or distributions paid with respect to the Common Shares. The dividends payable to the shareholders are not fixed in amount and are only paid if, when and as declared by the Board of Directors. In order to qualify as a REIT, Host REIT must distribute at least 95% of its taxable income (excluding capital gains), and any taxable income (including capital gains) not distributed will be subject to corporate income tax. See "Distribution and Other Policies."

The limited partner interests in the Partnerships and the Operating Partnership, and the Common Shares in Host REIT, constitute equity interests in each, respectively. Each limited partner in Desert Springs, MDAH, MHP and PHLP is entitled to his pro rata share of the cash distributions by his respective Partnership; each limited partner in Chicago Suites, Hanover and MHP2 is entitled to certain preferential cash distributions; and the general partner in Atlanta Marquis is entitled to certain preferential cash distributions. The general partner and each limited partner is entitled to his pro rata share of cash distributions by the Operating Partnership, and each shareholder is entitled to his pro rata share of any dividends or distributions by Host REIT which are paid with respect to the Common Shares.

PROPERTIES AND DIVERSIFICATION

The investment portfolio of each of the Partnerships currently consists, directly or indirectly, of one to eight Hotels and certain related assets. The small number of Hotels owned by each Partnership limits each Partnership's ability to diversify its investment risk over geographic locations, markets and economic conditions. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Background of the Partnerships."

As a result of the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership is expected initially to own a portfolio of approximately 125 Hotels. The ownership of these Hotels, along with future hotel acquisitions by the Operating Partnership, will diversify the investment risks to limited partners over a broader and more varied group of hotels and geographic locations and will reduce the dependence of an investment upon the performance of, and the exposure to the risks associated with, any one or more Hotels currently owned by a Partnership.

As a result of the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will be the sole general partner and a substantial limited partner of the Operating Partnership, which is expected initially to own a portfolio of approximately 125 Hotels.

The investment portfolio of each Partnership is currently limited to between one and eight Hotels (and certain related assets) in limited geographic locations. Through the REIT Conversion, and through additional investments that may be made from time to time, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership intend to create an investment portfolio substantially larger, more varied and more geographically diversified than the assets of any of the Partnerships individually. In addition, the larger portfolio will diversify the risks to the limited partners and shareholders over a broader group of Hotels, thereby reducing the dependence of an investment upon the performance of, and the exposure to the risks associated with, any particular Hotel or group of Hotels currently owned by an individual Partnership.

ADDITIONAL EQUITY/POTENTIAL DILUTION

Each Partnership was designed as a finite-life investment vehicle. None of the Partnerships are authorized to raise additional funds for (or reinvest net sale or refinancing proceeds in) new investments, absent amendments to their partnership agreements or approval of a majority of the outstanding limited partnership interests. Since such Partnerships were not structured to issue additional equity securities, there is little chance of dilution of the partners' share of cash available for distribution.

The Operating Partnership is authorized to issue OP Units and other partnership interests (including partnership interests of different series or classes that may be senior to OP Units) as determined by Host REIT, in its sole discretion, including in connection with acquisitions of properties. The Operating Partnership may issue OP Units and other partnership interests to Host REIT, as long as such interests are issued in connection with a comparable issuance of Common Shares or other equity interests of Host REIT and proceeds raised in connection with the issuance of such shares are contributed to the Operating Partnership. In addition, the Operating Partnership may issue additional OP Units upon exercise of the options granted pursuant to option plans or restricted shares issued under restricted share plans or other employee benefit plans adopted by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership.

Host REIT may issue additional equity securities, including shares of capital stock which may be classified as one or more classes or series of common or preferred or other shares and contain certain preferences, in the discretion of the Board of Directors. Any proceeds from the issuance of equity securities by Host REIT must be contributed to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units or corresponding equity interests in the Operating Partnership. The issuance of additional equity securities by Host REIT may result in the dilution of the interests of the shareholders, as well as interests of holders of OP Units in the Operating Partnership. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Investment Policies."

FINANCING POLICIES

The General Partner of each Partnership is generally authorized to cause the Partnership to borrow money from the General Partner or others and issue evidence of indebtedness necessary, convenient or incidental to the accomplishment of the purposes of the Partnership and to secure the same by mortgage, pledge or other lien on the assets of the Partnership.

The Operating Partnership may incur debt or enter into similar credit, guarantee, financing or refinancing arrangements for any purpose with any person upon such terms that Host REIT, as sole general partner, determines appropriate. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Financing Policies."

Host REIT is not restricted under its Charter from incurring debt. However, under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, may not incur any debts except those for which it may be liable as general partner of the Operating Partnership and certain other limited circumstances. Therefore, all indebtedness incurred by Host REIT will be through the Operating Partnership. Host REIT will have a policy of incurring debt only if immediately following such incurrence the debt-to-total market capitalization ratio would be 60% or less. The Board of Directors could waive, alter or eliminate this policy without a shareholder vote. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Financing Policies."

In conducting their business, each of the Partnerships, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership may incur indebtedness to the extent deemed appropriate by their general partner or Board of Directors, as the case may be.

OTHER INVESTMENT RESTRICTIONS

The partnership agreements of all of the Partnerships contain restrictions upon the acquisition of interests in other partnerships or hotel properties in addition to such Partnership's current assets. None of the Partnerships are authorized to raise additional funds for (or reinvest net sale or refinancing proceeds in) new investments, absent amendments to their partnership agreements or approval of a majority of the outstanding limited partnership interests.

There are no restrictions upon the Operating Partnership's authority to enter into certain transactions, including among others, making investments, lending Operating Partnership funds or reinvesting the Operating Partnership's cash flow and net sale or refinancing proceeds except (i) restrictions precluding investments by the Operating Partnership that would adversely affect Host REIT's status as a REIT, (ii) general restrictions on transactions with Affiliates and (iii) the noncompetition agreements. See "Business and Properties--Noncompetition Agreements."

Neither Host REIT's Charter nor its Bylaws impose any restrictions upon the types of investments that may be made by Host REIT. Under the MGCL, a contract or other transaction between the Company and a director or between the Company and any other corporation or other entity in which a director of the Company is a director or has a material financial interest is not void or voidable solely on the grounds of such interest, the presence of the director at the meeting at which the contract or transaction is approved or the director's vote in favor thereof if (a) the fact of the common directorship or interest is disclosed or known to (i) the board of directors or committee, and the board or committee authorizes, approves or ratifies the contract or transaction by the affirmative vote of a majority of disinterested directors, even if the disinterested directors constitute less than a quorum, or (ii) the shareholders entitled to vote, and the transaction or contract is authorized, approved or ratified by a majority of the votes cast by the shareholders entitled to vote other than the votes of shares owned of record or beneficially by the interested director or corporation, firm or other entity, or (b) the transaction or contract is fair and reasonable to the Company. Host REIT also intends to adopt a policy which requires that all material contracts and transactions between Host REIT, the Operating Partnership or any of its subsidiaries, on the one hand, and a director or executive officer of Host REIT or any entity in which such director or executive officer is a director or has a material financial interest, on the other hand, must be approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of the disinterested directors. Lastly, Host REIT must conduct its investment activities through the Operating Partnership for so long as the Operating Partnership exists. See "Distribution and Other Policies--Policies with Respect to Other Activities."

All of the partnership agreements of the Partnerships contain provisions which hinder further investment by the Partnership. The Partnership Agreement permits the Operating Partnership wide latitude in choosing the type of investments to pursue. For so long as the Operating Partnership exists, Host REIT must conduct all investment activities through the Operating Partnership.

MANAGEMENT CONTROL

Under each of the partnership agreements of the Partnerships, the General Partners control the Partnerships and, subject to certain limitations, are vested with the exclusive right and power to conduct the business and affairs of the Partnership and may appoint, contract or otherwise deal with any person, including employees of its affiliates, to perform any acts or services for the Partnership necessary or appropriate for the conduct of the business and affairs of the Partnership. A Limited Partner has no right to participate in the management and control of a Partnership and has no voice in its affairs except on certain limited matters that may be submitted to a vote of the Limited Partners under the terms of the partnership agreements of the Partnerships. Under each partnership agreement, Limited Partners have the right to remove their General Partner by a majority vote (except for Atlanta Marquis, which requires a 66 2/3% vote of its Class A limited partner interests), subject to certain conditions. Each of the partnership agreements permits removal of the general partner only for breach of certain provisions of the partnership agreement, fraud or unremedied acts of bad faith or gross negligence or breach of fiduciary duty. Furthermore, the MDAH and MHP2 partnership agreements allow removal of the General Partner only if certain favorable legal opinions concerning liability of the Limited Partners and tax status of the Partnership are obtained. In all cases of removal of the General Partner, however, the Partnership may continue only if the Limited Partners find a successor general partner.

All management powers over the business and affairs of the Operating Partnership are vested in Host REIT, as sole general partner, and no limited partner of the Operating Partnership will have any right to participate in or exercise control or management power over the business and affairs of the Operating Partnership except (i) Host REIT, as sole general partner, may not, without written consent of all the limited partners or such lower percentage of OP Units as may be specifically provided for in the Partnership Agreement or the Delaware Act, take any action in contravention of the Partnership Agreement; (ii) Host REIT, as sole general partner, may not dispose of all or substantially all of the Operating Partnership's assets without the consent of the holders of a majority of the outstanding OP Units (including OP Units held by Host REIT); and (iii) until December 31, 2058, Host REIT may not cause or permit the Operating Partnership to dissolve (except in connection with a sale of all or substantially all of the Operating Partnership's assets, with the approval described above) more than 10% of the limited partners object to such dissolution. Host REIT may not be removed as general partner by the limited partners with or without cause unless Host REIT ceases to be a "public company," and then Host REIT could be removed as general partner with or without cause by limited partners holding Percentage Interests in the Operating Partnership that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon, including any such interests held by the general partner. See "Risk Factors--Risks and Effects of the Mergers--No Control Over Major Decisions," "Description of OP Units--Purposes, Business and Management" and "--Dissolution, Winding Up and Termination."

The Board of Directors will direct the management of Host REIT's business and affairs. The Board of Directors will be classified into three classes of directors. A majority of the initial directors will be independent. At each annual meeting of the shareholders, the successors of the class of directors whose terms expire at that meeting will be elected. The policies adopted by the Board of Directors may be altered or eliminated without a vote of the shareholders. Accordingly, except for their vote in the elections of directors and their vote in certain major transactions, shareholders will have no control over the ordinary business policies of Host REIT.

Under the partnership agreements of the Partnerships and the Partnership Agreement of the Operating Partnership, the general partners control the partnerships and are vested with the exclusive right and power to conduct the business and affairs of the partnerships. In both cases, limited partners have no voice in the affairs of the partnership except on certain limited matters. All of the Partnerships permit removal of the General Partner by the Limited Partners with cause. The Partnership Agreement of the Operating Partnership does not permit removal of Host REIT as general partner by the limited partners with or without cause unless Host REIT ceases to be a "public company," and then Host REIT could be removed as general partner with or without cause. Under the Charter and Bylaws, the Board of Directors directs the management of Host REIT. Except for their vote in the elections of directors and their vote in certain major transactions, shareholders have no control over the management of Host REIT.

FIDUCIARY DUTIES

The Delaware Act and Rhode Island Act provide that the General Partners are accountable as fiduciaries to the Partnerships and are required to exercise good faith, loyalty and integrity in their dealings in conducting the affairs of the Partnerships. The duty of good faith requires that the General Partners deal fairly and with complete candor toward the Limited Partners. The duty of loyalty requires that, without the Limited Partners' consent, the General Partners may not have business or other interests that are adverse to the interests of the Partnerships. The duty of fair dealing also requires that all transactions between the General Partners and the Partnerships be fair in the manner in which the transactions are effected and in the amount of the consideration received by the General Partners.

Under the Delaware Act, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is accountable to the Operating Partnership as a fiduciary and, consequently, is required to exercise good faith and integrity in all of its dealings with respect to partnership affairs. However, under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT, as general partner, is under no obligation to consider the separate interests of the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to take (or decline to take) any actions, and Host REIT, as general partner, is not liable for monetary damages for losses sustained, liabilities incurred, or benefits not derived by limited partners in connection with such decision, provided that Host REIT, as general partner, has acted in good faith and pursuant to its authority under the Partnership Agreement.

Under Maryland law, the directors must perform their duties in good faith, in a manner that they reasonably believe to be in the best interests of Host REIT and with the care of an ordinary prudent person in a like position. Directors of Host REIT who act in such a manner generally have no liability by reason of being or having been directors.

The General Partners, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, and the Board of Directors of Host REIT, respectively, owe fiduciary duties to their constituent parties. Although some courts have interpreted the fiduciary duties of the Board of Directors in the same way as the duties of a general partner in a limited partnership, it is unclear whether, or to what extent, there are differences in such fiduciary duties. It is possible that the fiduciary duties of the directors of Host REIT to the shareholders may be less than those of the General Partners to the Limited Partners and Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, to the limited partners of the Operating Partnership.

The Partnership Agreement contains a specific provision to the effect that Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is under no obligation to consider the separate interests of the limited partners of the Operating Partnership in taking partnership action. Since the partnership agreements of the Partnerships do not contain such a provision, the fiduciary duties of Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, to the limited partners of the Operating Partnership may be less than those of the General Partners to their Limited Partners.

MANAGEMENT LIABILITY AND INDEMNIFICATION

Under the Delaware Act and the Rhode Island Act, each General Partner is liable for the payment of partnership obligations and debts, unless limitations upon such liability are expressly stated in the document or instrument evidencing the obligation (e.g., a loan structured as a nonrecourse obligation). Each partnership agreement of the Partnerships generally provides that the General Partner will not be held liable for any costs arising out of its action or inaction except that the General Partner will be liable for any costs which arise from the General Partner's own fraud, negligence, misconduct or other breach of fiduciary duty. In cases in which the General Partner is indemnified, any indemnity is payable only from the assets of the Partnership.

Under the Delaware Act, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is liable for the payment of the obligations and debts of the Operating Partnership unless limitations upon such liability are stated in the document or instrument evidencing the obligation. Under the Partnership Agreement, the Operating Partnership agrees to indemnify Host REIT or any director or officer of Host REIT from and against all losses, claims, damages, liabilities, joint or several, expenses (including legal fees), fines, settlements and other amounts incurred in connection with any actions relating to the operations of the Operating Partnership as set forth in the Partnership Agreement in which Host REIT or any such director or officer is involved, unless (i) the act or omission of Host REIT was material to the matter giving rise to the proceeding and either was committed in bad faith or was the result of active and deliberate dishonesty; (ii) Host REIT or the other person to be indemnified actually received an improper personal benefit in money, property or services or (iii) in the case of any criminal proceeding, Host REIT or the other person to be indemnified had reasonable cause to believe the act or omission was unlawful. The reasonable expenses incurred by Host REIT may be reimbursed by the Operating Partnership in advance of the final disposition of the proceeding upon receipt by the Operating Partnership of an affirmation by Host REIT or the other person to be indemnified of its good faith belief that the standard of conduct necessary for indemnification has been met and an undertaking by Host REIT to repay the amount if it is determined that such standard was not met.

The MGCL permits a Maryland corporation to include in its charter a provision limiting the liability of its directors and officers to the corporation and its shareholders for money damages except for liability resulting from (i) actual receipt of an improper benefit or profit in money, property or services or (ii) acts committed in bad faith or active and deliberate dishonesty established by a final judgment as being material to the cause of action. Host REIT's charter contains such a provision. As permitted by Maryland law, Host REIT's Charter also provides broad indemnification to directors and officers, whether serving Host REIT, or at its request, any other entity, to the fullest extent permitted under Maryland law. Host REIT will indemnify its present and former directors and officers, among others, against judgments, penalties, fines, settlements and reasonable expenses actually incurred by them in connection with any proceeding to which they may be made a party by reason of their service in those or other capacities unless it is established that (i) the act or omission of the director or officer was material to the matter giving rise to the proceeding and (a) was committed in bad faith or (b) was the result of active and deliberate dishonesty, (ii) the director or officer actually received an improper personal benefit in money, property or services or (iii) in the case of any criminal proceeding, the director or officer had reasonable cause to believe that the act or omission was unlawful. However, under Maryland law, Host REIT may not indemnify for an adverse judgment in a suit by or in the right of Host REIT. The Bylaws of Host REIT require it, as a condition to advancing expenses, to obtain (i) a written affirmation by the director or officer of his good faith belief that he has met the standard of conduct necessary for indemnification by Host REIT as authorized by the Bylaws and (ii) a written statement by or on his behalf to repay the amount paid or reimbursed by Host REIT if it shall ultimately be determined that the standard of conduct was not met. Host REIT also intends to enter into indemnification agreements indemnifying each of its directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by Maryland law and advance to its directors and officers all related expenses subject to reimbursement if it is subsequently determined that indemnification is not permitted.

In each of the Partnerships, the General Partners will only be held liable for costs which arise from the General Partners' own fraud, negligence, misconduct or other breach of fiduciary duty, and may be indemnified in certain cases. While Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is generally liable for the payment of the obligations and debts of the Operating Partnership, the Operating Partnership generally agrees to indemnify Host REIT, except regarding certain unauthorized acts of Host REIT. The liability of Host REIT's directors and officers is limited to the fullest extent permitted under Maryland law and such directors and officers are indemnified by Host REIT to the fullest extent permitted by Maryland law.

LIABILITY OF INVESTORS

Under each of the partnership agreements, the Delaware Act and the Rhode Island Act, the liability of Limited Partners for the Partnership's debts and obligations is generally limited to the amount of their investment in the Partnership, together with an interest in undistributed income, if any.

Under the Partnership Agreement and the Delaware Act, the liability of limited partners for the Operating Partnership's debts and obligations is generally limited to the amount of their investment in the Operating Partnership, together with their interest in undistributed income, if any.

Under Maryland law, shareholders are not personally liable for the obligations of Host REIT.

In the Partnerships and the Operating Partnership, a limited partner's liability is limited to the amount of his investment. Shareholders of Host REIT generally have no liability under applicable Maryland law for the debts and obligations of Host REIT.

ANTITAKEOVER PROVISIONS

For each of the Partnerships, a change in management may be effected only by removal of the General Partner. See "Management Control" above for a discussion of the ability to remove a General Partner. A transfer of limited partnership interests in a Partnership is generally restricted if (i) it is on a day other than the first day in an accounting period, (ii) it would, when combined with the total of other partnership interests transferred within past 12 consecutive months, in the opinion of counsel, result in the Partnership being deemed to have been terminated within the meaning of Section 708 of the Code (except for MHP2), (iii) it would, in the opinion of counsel for the assignee or assignor, require the filing of a registration statement under the Securities Act, or would otherwise be in violation of any federal or state securities or blue sky laws, (iv) it would result in the assignor or assignee holding a fraction of a partnership unit, (v) it would, in the opinion of counsel, result in the Partnership being treated as an association taxable as a corporation, (vi) it would, in the opinion of counsel, result in the Partnership failing to obtain or continue in effect any license permitting the service or sale of alcoholic beverages at one or more hotels or (vii) it is an assignment to a tax-exempt entity or non-U.S. person within the meaning of Section 7701(a) (30) of the Code. In addition to such restrictions, the General Partners of Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Hanover, Desert Springs and MHP may, in their sole discretion, restrict any transfer of limited partnership interests. In each of the Partnerships, an assignee of a limited partner interest may not become a substitute limited partner, entitling him to vote on matters that may be submitted to the Limited Partners for approval, unless the General Partner consents to such substitution.

Except in limited circumstances (see "Voting Rights" below) Host REIT, in its capacity as general partner of the Operating Partnership, has exclusive management power over the business and affairs of the Operating Partnership. Host REIT may not be removed as general partner of the Operating Partnership by the limited partners with or without cause (unless Host REIT is no longer a "public company," in which case the general partner may be removed with or without cause by limited partners holding Percentage Interests in the Operating Partnership that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon, including any such interests held by the general partner). Under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT may, in its sole and absolute discretion, prevent a limited partner from transferring his interest or any rights as a limited partner except in certain limited circumstances. Host REIT may exercise this right of approval to deter, delay or hamper attempts by Persons to acquire a majority interest in the Operating Partnership. In addition, Host REIT has the power to impose limits on transfers if, and to the extent, necessary to cause the Operating Partnership not to be a "publicly traded partnership" that would be taxed as a corporation, including the prohibition contained in the Partnership Agreement restricting the ownership, actually or constructively, of more than 4.9% by value of any class of interests in the Operating Partnership. See "Description of OP Units."

Applicable Maryland law and the Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT will contain a number of provisions that may have the effect of delaying or discouraging a change in control of Host REIT that might be in the best interests of shareholders. These provisions will include, among others, (i) a Board of Directors with three-year staggered terms whose size is fixed within a range; (ii) authorized capital stock that may be classified and issued as a variety of equity securities, in the discretion of the Board of Directors, including securities having superior voting rights to the Common Shares; (iii) restrictions on business combinations with persons who acquire more than a certain percentage of the outstanding voting securities of Host REIT; (iv) a requirement that shareholders approve voting rights for "Control Shares" acquired in "control share" acquisitions; (v) a provision that only the Board of Directors may amend the Bylaws; (vi) advance notice provisions for shareholders to submit new business or nominate candidates for director; (vii) limitations on the ability of shareholders to call special meetings; (viii) a requirement that directors be removed only for cause and only by a vote of shareholders holding at least two-thirds of all the shares entitled to be cast for the election of directors; (ix) a requirement of an affirmative vote of two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast to approve certain amendments to the Charter; and (x) certain ownership limitations which are designed to protect Host REIT's status as a REIT under the Code. In addition, Host REIT intends to adopt a Shareholder Rights Plan whereby shareholders will be entitled to preferred share purchase rights in certain situations. See "Certain Provisions of Maryland Law and Host REIT's Charter and Bylaws."

Certain provisions of the governing documents of the Partnerships, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT could be used to deter attempts to obtain control of the Partnerships, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT in transactions not approved by the General Partners, the general partner of the Operating Partnership or the Board of Directors, respectively.

LIMITED PARTNER VOTING RIGHTS

Generally, the General Partners have the authority to manage the affairs of the Partnerships and to approve all Partnership actions, and the Limited Partners of the Partnerships have voting rights only as to certain major partnership transactions to the extent provided in the partnership agreements of each Partnership. Such voting rights include: acquisition of interests in other properties, incurrence of certain debt, merger or consolidation with another entity, sale of all or substantially all of the assets of a Partnership, certain amendments to the partnership agreement, termination of certain agreements to which the Partnership is party, expansion of one or more hotels in certain cases, dissolution of the Partnership or removal of the General Partner.

All decisions relating to the operation and management of the Operating Partnership will be made by Host REIT, in its capacity as general partner of the Operating Partnership, and the limited partners have voting rights under the Partnership Agreement only as to the sale of substantially all of the assets of the Operating Partnership, certain consolidations and mergers and amendments of the Partnership Agreement. During the first year following the Mergers, the limited partners also have voting rights as to the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Operating Partnership, a merger involving the Operating Partnership, certain issuances of OP Units and for certain limited partners, certain sales of hotels that are held by the Operating Partnership.

Host REIT will be managed and controlled by a Board of Directors consisting of three classes having staggered terms of office. At each annual meeting of shareholders, the successors to the class of directors whose term expires at such meeting shall be elected to hold office for a term expiring at the annual meeting of shareholders in the third year following the year of their election. Maryland law requires that certain major transactions, including most amendments to Host REIT's Charter, may not be consummated without the approval of shareholders. Each Common Share will have one vote and Host REIT's Charter permits the Board of Directors to classify and issue shares of capital stock in one or more series having voting power which may differ from that of the Common Shares. See "Description of Capital Stock."

The general partners have the authority to manage the affairs of the Partnerships and the Operating Partnership and to approve all partnership actions, and the limited partners of the Partnerships and the Operating Partnership have only limited voting rights. The shareholders of Host REIT will have voting rights that permit them to elect the Board of Directors and to approve or disapprove certain major transactions. See "Risk Factors--Risks and Effects of the Mergers--No Control over Major Decisions."

Sale Other Than to an Affiliate

The Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs and Hano-ver partnership agree-ments allow the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the partnership to a buyer without the consent of the Limited Partners. The Chicago Suites part-nership agreement allows the sale of its Hotel or a material portion of its assets with the con-sent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests and the receipt of an ap-praisal from an MAI qualified appraiser. The MDAH partnership agree-ment allows the sale of the Fairview Park Hotel, or more than two other MDAH Hotels, only with the consent of a major-ity of the outstanding limited partner inter-ests including any lim-ited partner interests held by the General Partner. The MHP part-nership agreement allows the General Partner to sell or dispose of any assets of MHP, including its interest in the Har-bor Beach Partnership, to any person. The MHP2 partnership agreement allows the sale of any Hotel or the Partner-ship's interest in the Santa Clara Partnership with the consent of a majority of the out-standing limited partner interests, including any limited partner inter-ests held by the General Partner.

The PHLP partnership agreement allows the sale of an asset which has a cost basis at the time of sale in excess of 5% of the aggregate cost basis of all assets of PHLP only with the consent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests, in-cluding any limited partner interests held by the General Partner.

Under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT generally has the exclu-sive authority to deter-mine whether, when and on what terms the assets of the Operating Part-nership (including the Hotels) will be sold. See "Description of OP Units-- Sales of As-sets." However, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Part-nership, generally may not sell, exchange, transfer or otherwise dispose of all or sub-stantially all of the Operating Partnership's assets in a single transaction or a series of related transactions (including by way of merger, consolidation or other combination with any other Persons), without the consent of more than 50% of the outstanding limited partnership interests, including any limited partnership interests held by Host REIT. In addition, during the first year following the Mergers, the holders of OP Units of the Operat-ing Partnership have certain voting rights if a vote of shareholders of Host REIT is re-quired. In connection with a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Operating Partnership during this first year following the Mergers, the approval of a majority of all out-standing OP Units would be required, including the OP Units held by Host REIT, voting as a single class with Host REIT voting its OP Units in the same proportion as its shareholders vote, would be required. In addition, during the first year following the Mergers, any taxable sale or sales of Hotels representing more than 10% of the aggregate Ap-praised Value of the Ho-tels of any Partnership would require, in addi-tion to any other ap-proval requirements, the approval of a majority of all outstanding OP Units held by persons who formerly were Lim-ited Partners of such Partnership, voting as a separate class.

Pursuant to Host REIT's Charter, subject to the terms of any class or series of shares at the time outstanding, Host REIT may transfer its assets within the mean-ing of the MGCL, but any such merger, consolida-tion, share exchange or transfer of assets must be approved (i) by the Board of Directors in the manner provided in the MGCL and (ii) by shareholders to the ex-tent required under the MGCL. In general, such transactions by a Mary-land corporation, such as Host REIT, must first be approved by a major-ity of the entire Board of Directors and there-after approved by share-holders by the affirma-tive vote of two-thirds of all the votes enti-tled to be cast on the matter (unless the char-ter provides for a greater or lesser share-holder vote but not less than a majority of the number of votes entitled to be cast on the mat-ter). Host REIT's Char-ter provides for share-holder approval of such transactions by a two-thirds vote of all the votes entitled to be cast. Under the MGCL, a "transfer of assets" is defined to mean any sale, lease, exchange or other transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of the corpora-tion but does not include (i) a transfer of assets by a corpora-tion in the ordinary course of business actu-ally conducted by it, (ii) a mortgage, pledge or creation of any other security interest in any or all of the assets of the corporation, whether or not in the ordinary course of its business, (iii) an exchange of shares of stock through voluntary action under any agreement with the shareholders or (iv) a transfer of assets to one or more persons if all the equity interests of the person or persons are owned, directly or indirectly, by the cor-poration.

Under Host REIT's Charter, the Board of Directors is required to obtain approval of the shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter in order to transfer its assets within the meaning of the MGCL. No approval of the shareholders is required for a sale, lease, exchange or other transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of Host REIT in the ordinary course of business actually conducted by it; a mortgage, pledge or creation of any other security interest in any or all of the assets of Host REIT, whether or not in the ordinary course of its business; an exchange of shares of stock through voluntary action under any agreement with shareholders; or a sale, lease, exchange, or other transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of Host REIT to one or more persons if all the equity interests of the person or persons are owned, directly or indirectly, by Host REIT.

Under each of the partnership agreements, the Partnership Agreement and Host REIT's Charter, the sale of assets may be effected with various levels of limited partner or shareholder consent. Under most of the partnership agreements and the Charter, the sale of assets which do not amount to all or substantially all of the assets of the Partnerships, the Operating Partnership or Host REIT does not require any consent of the limited partners or shareholders, respectively.

Sale to the General Partner or Its Affiliates

The General Partners of MDAH and MHP2 may cause those Partnerships to sell any of their assets to its General Partner or an affiliate of the General Partner (i) with the consent of the Limited Partners holding a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests in the Partnership (with, in the case of MDAH, the General Partner being barred from voting any limited partner interests it or its affiliate holds or, in the case of MHP2, the General Partner being required to vote its or its affiliate's limited partner interests in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise)) and (ii) by complying with certain notice and independent appraisal requirements as follows: (a) the General Partner must provide to its Limited Partners at least 30 days' notice of the proposed sale, which notice must set forth the price and other material terms and conditions of the proposed transaction, (b) the Partnership must obtain three appraisals of the fair market sales value of the Hotel(s) to be sold, which appraisals must be prepared by independent, nationally recognized appraisers who have been selected by the General Partner and are experienced in the valuation of hotel properties (the cost of all such appraisals must be borne by the General Partner or its affiliate), (c) such appraisers may not have, directly or indirectly, any material interest in or material business or professional relationship with the General Partner or any of its affiliates and the compensation of each such appraiser must be determined in accordance with a written contract before such appraisal is prepared, (d) the price at which the sale is effected must not be less than the average of the three amounts determined by the three appraisers, disregarding entirely any appraisal that differs by more than 20%

The Operating Partnership shall not, directly or indirectly, sell, transfer or convey any property to any affiliate of Host REIT that is not also a subsidiary of the Operating Partnership, except as expressly permitted in the Partnership Agreement or except on terms that are fair and reasonable and no less favorable to the Operating Partnership than would be obtained from an unaffiliated third party.

Neither the Charter nor the Bylaws of Host REIT has any specified additional requirements for sales of assets to affiliates of Host REIT.

from the amount determined by the appraiser whose determination is between the highest and lowest of the amounts determined by the three appraisers, (e) the purchase price must be payable in cash, (f) no real estate commission may be paid by the Partnership in connection with such sale and (g) the General Partner must include copies of such appraisals with the notice to its Limited Partners.

The General Partners of Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover and MHP may cause those Partnerships to sell any hotels to the General Partner or any affiliate (i) with the consent of Limited Partners holding of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests in the Partnership (with the General Partners or their affiliates of Desert Springs, Hanover and MHP being required to vote any limited partner interests it holds in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise)), and (ii) by complying with certain notice and independent appraisal requirements as follows: (a) the General Partner must provide notice of the proposed sale to its Limited Partners, who thereafter have 30 days to elect a nationally recognized appraiser having the approval of the holders of a majority of the limited partner interests, (b) such appraiser has 30 days from the date of election to prepare and submit to the General Partner an appraisal of the fair market value of the Hotel in question, (c) the purchaser must submit to the General Partner an appraisal of the fair market value of the Hotel, such appraisal to be submitted within the time limit provided by clause (b) above in the case of the appraisal to be submitted by the appraiser elected by the Limited Partners and (d) the General Partner must thereafter seek the required consent and include therewith copies of the two appraisals. If the Limited Partners do not select an appraiser as provided in (a) above or such appraiser does not supply an appraisal within the time frame in (b) above, then the General Partner must submit three appraisals with its request for consent, one such appraisal prepared by an appraiser selected by the purchaser and the other two appraisals prepared by appraisers selected by the first appraiser (all of such appraisal costs to be borne by the purchaser).

The Chicago Suites and PHLP partnership agreements contain no special provisions concerning a sale of partnership assets to the General Partner or its affiliates.

Under most of the partnership agreements and the Partnership Agreement, in addition to the general restrictions on sale of assets, there are provisions which must be met when partnership assets are sold to the general partner or an affiliate of the general partner. Neither the Charter nor the Bylaws of Host REIT contain any provisions restricting the sale of assets to an affiliate of Host REIT.

 Merger

The partnership agreement of MDAH allows a merger of the Partnership with the approval of the General Partner and the consent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests, but the General Partner may not vote any of its limited partner interests. The partnership agreement of MHP2 allows a merger of the Partnership with the approval of the General Partner and the consent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests, including the limited partner interests held by the General Partner, unless the General Partner has an interest in the transaction, in which case it must vote all of its or its affiliates limited partner interests in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise). Each of the Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP partnership agreements contain no merger provision. Under the Delaware Act and the Rhode Island Act, a merger may be effected upon approval by its General Partner and the holders of a majority of the limited partner interests of each class of limited partner. In Atlanta Marquis, the General Partner may vote the limited partner interests it holds. In Chicago Suites the General Partner holds no limited partner interests and a merger may be effectuated by the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests. In Desert Springs, Hanover and MHP, the General Partner may vote its limited partner interests.

Under the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT generally may not cause a merger or consolidation of the Operating Partnership without the consent of a majority of the outstanding partnership interests (including the partnership interests held by Host REIT) and the general partner. In addition, during the one-year period following the Mergers, the holders of OP Units of the Operating Partnership have certain voting rights if a vote of shareholders of Host REIT is required in connection with a merger. In such case, approval of a majority of all outstanding OP Units, including the OP Units held by Host REIT, voting as a single class with Host REIT voting its OP Units in the same proportion as its shareholders vote, would be required.

Pursuant to the Charter, subject to the terms of any class or series of shares at the time outstanding, Host REIT may merge with or into another entity, but any such merger must be approved (i) by the Board of Directors in the manner provided in the MGCL and (ii) by shareholders to the extent required under the MGCL. Under the MGCL, mergers of a Maryland corporation, such as Host REIT, with or into another entity must first be approved by a majority of the entire Board of Directors and thereafter approved by shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter (unless the Charter provides for a lesser shareholder vote but not less than a majority of the number of votes entitled to be cast on the matter). Host REIT's Charter generally provides for shareholder approval of such transactions by a two-thirds vote of all the votes entitled to be cast, except that any merger of Host REIT with or into a trust organized for the purpose of changing Host REIT's form of organization from a corporation to a trust will require the approval of shareholders of Host REIT by the affirmative vote only of a majority of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Under the MGCL, certain mergers may be accomplished without a vote of shareholders. For example, no shareholder vote is required for a merger of a subsidiary of a Maryland corporation into its parent, provided the parent owns at least 90% of the subsidiary. In addition, a merger need not be approved by shareholders if the merger does not reclassify or change the outstanding shares or otherwise amend the Charter, and the number of shares to be issued or delivered in the merger is not more than 20% of the number of its shares of the same class or series outstanding immediately before the merger becomes effective. Subject to the terms of any class or series of shares at the time outstanding, under the Charter Host REIT also may to the extent permitted by law, consolidate Host REIT with one or more other entities into a new entity or effect a share exchange, but any such action must be approved by the Board of Directors and, after notice to all shareholders entitled to vote on the matter, by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Under the MGCL, a share exchange by a Maryland successor corporation needs to be approved only by its board of directors.

Under applicable law, the partnership agreements of the Partnerships, the Partnership Agreement, and the Charter of Host REIT, the merger of the respective partnerships and Host REIT is permitted subject to the approval of the general partner (or board of directors) and a certain level of limited partner (or shareholder) consent, respectively.

Dissolution

Upon breach of certain provisions of its partnership agreement, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud or unremedied acts of bad faith or gross negligence, each of Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, Hanover, MDAH, MHP, MHP2 and PHLP may be dissolved with the consent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests and without the consent of the General Partner. In the case of Desert Springs, Hanover and MHP, the General Partner must vote any limited partner interests it or its affiliates hold in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise). The Atlanta Marquis partnership agreement contains no provision concerning the ability of the limited partners to dissolve the Partnership. In the absence of such a provision, the Delaware Act provides that a limited partnership may be dissolved by the affirmative vote of the general partner and 66 2/3% of the limited partnership interests. The Rhode Island Act provides that a limited partnership may be dissolved by the written consent of all partners to such dissolution.

The Operating Partnership will continue until December 31, 2098, unless sooner dissolved and terminated. The Operating Partnership will be dissolved prior to the expiration of its term, and its affairs wound up, (i) until December 31, 2058 with the consent of the limited partners who hold 90% of the OP Units (including OP Units held by Host REIT) or (ii) upon a decision to dissolve the Operating Partnership made by Host REIT on or after December 31, 2058 in its sole and absolute discretion or (iii) upon a decision, with the consent of a majority of the partners holding at least a majority of the outstanding partnership interests, to sell all or substantially all of the Operating Partnership's assets and properties. Upon dissolution, Host REIT, as general partner, or any liquidator will proceed to liquidate the assets of the Operating Partnership and apply the proceeds therefrom in the order of priority set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

Under the Charter, subject to the provisions of any class or series of shares at the time outstanding, the Board of Directors must obtain approval of holders of at least two-thirds of all of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter in order to dissolve Host REIT.

Under each of the partnership agreements, the Partnership Agreement and Host REIT's Charter, the respective entities may be dissolved with the consent of a certain percentage of the outstanding interests.

Amendments

The Chicago Suites and PHLP partnership agreements allow the General Partner to amend the partnership agreement with the consent of a majority of the outstanding limited partner interests. The Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2 partnership agreements allow the General Partner to amend the partnership agreement with the consent of a majority of outstanding limited partner interests, including any such interests held by the General Partner, unless the General Partner has an interest in the vote, in which case, the General Partner must vote any limited partner interests it holds in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise). The MDAH partnership agreement allows the General Partner to amend the partnership agreement with the consent of a majority of outstanding limited partner interests, but the General Partner is prohibited from voting its limited partner interests. In the case of Desert Springs, Hanover, MDAH, MHP and MHP2, amendments may be made with the consent of a majority in interest of the Limited Partners, except certain amendments to the partnership agreements generally require the unanimous consent of the Limited Partners, including:

- (i) converting the interest of a Limited Partner into a general partner's interest;
- (ii) any act adversely affecting the liability of a Limited Partner;
- (iii) altering the interest of a Partner in net profits, net losses, gain, loss or distributions of cash available for distribution, sale proceeds or refinancing proceeds;
- (iv) reducing the percentage of Partners which is required to consent to any action in the partnership agreement;
- (v) limiting in any manner the liability of the General Partner;
- (vi) permitting the General Partner to take certain actions which are prohibited by the Partnership Agreement, Amendments to the Partnership Agreement may be proposed by Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, or any limited partner holding 25% or more of the limited partnership interests. Subject to certain exceptions, such proposed amendment must be approved by the vote of Host REIT, as general partner, and limited partners holding Percentage Interests that are more than 50% of the aggregate Percentage Interests of the outstanding limited partnership interests entitled to vote thereon including any such limited partnership interests held by Host REIT (which initially will hold approximately 76% of the OP Units, following the REIT Conversion, assuming the full Participation Scenario). In addition, with certain exceptions, Host REIT, as general partner, has broad discretion to amend the Partnership Agreement without the consent of the limited partners.

Under the MGCL, in order to amend the charter, the board of directors first must adopt a resolution setting forth the proposed amendment and declaring its advisability and direct that the proposed amendment be submitted to shareholders for their consideration either at an annual or special meeting of shareholders. Thereafter, the proposed amendment must be approved by shareholders by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast on the matter, unless a greater or lesser proportion of votes (but not less than a majority of all votes entitled to be cast) is specified in the charter. The provisions contained in Host REIT's Charter relating to restrictions on transferability of the Common Shares, the classified Board and fixing the size of the Board within the range set forth in the Charter, as well as the provisions relating to removal of directors, the filling of Board vacancies and the provisions relating to the exclusive authority of the Board to amend the Bylaws may be amended only by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors and approved at an annual or special meeting of the shareholders by the affirmative vote of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter. Other amendments to the Charter generally may be effected by requisite action of the Board of Directors and approval by shareholders by the affirmative vote of not less than a majority of the votes entitled to be cast on the matter.

As permitted under the MGCL, the Charter and Bylaws of Host REIT provide that directors have the exclusive right to amend the Bylaws.

(vii) causing the Partnership to be taxed, for federal income tax purposes, as an association taxable as a corporation or (viii) effecting any amendment or modification to clauses (i) through (vii) above.

In the case of Atlanta Marquis, amendments to the partnership agreement may be made by the General Partner with the consent of a majority of interest of the Class A Limited Partners, except certain amendments generally require the unanimous consent of all the Partners, including: (i) converting the interest of a Limited Partner into a general partner's interest; (ii) modifying the limited liability of a Limited Partner; (iii) permitting the General Partner to take certain actions which are prohibited by the Partnership Agreement (i.e., take an action which requires the consent of the Limited Partners without such consent); (iv) causing the Partnership to be taxed for federal income tax purposes as an association taxable as a corporation; or (v) affecting any amendment or modification to the requirements set forth in clauses (i) through (iv) above.

In the case of Chicago Suites and PHLP, amendments to the Partnership Agreements may be made by the General Partner with the consent of the majority of interest of the Limited Partners, except the unanimous consent of all Partners adversely affected is required for certain amendments, including (i) converting the interest of a Limited Partner into a general partner's interest; (ii) modifying the limited liability of a Limited Partner; (iii) altering the interest of a Partner in net profits, net losses, gain, loss or distributions of cash available for distribution, sale proceeds or refinancing proceeds; or (iv) reducing the percentage of Partners which is required to consent to any action in the partnership agreement.

Under both the partnership agreements and the Partnership Agreement, amendments to the respective partnership agreement may be made with the consent of the limited partners. Under the provisions of the Partnership Agreement, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, has broad discretion to make amendments without the consent of the limited partners. Amendment of Host REIT's Charter generally will require the approval of both the Board of Directors and the shareholders by either a majority or two-thirds of all votes entitled to be cast depending upon the type of charter amendment.

COMPENSATION, FEES AND DISTRIBUTIONS

Under the partnership agreements of the Partnerships, the General Partners do not receive any fees or other compensation from their Partnerships in exchange for their services as general partner. The General Partner of each Partnership is entitled, however, to reimbursement for the cost of providing any administrative or other services rendered to its Partnership. The General Partners are also entitled to distributions with respect to their respective percentage interests in the Partnerships, as well as certain additional back-end participations in cash flow and excess sale and refinancing proceeds after the Limited Partners have received certain investment returns. See "Background and Reasons for the Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Reimbursements and Distributions to the General Partners and Marriott International."

The Operating Partnership will pay (or reimburse Host REIT for) all expenses that Host REIT incurs (subject to several very limited exceptions), including expenses incurred relating to the REIT Conversion, the ongoing operation of Host REIT and any other offering of additional OP Units or Common Shares, including all expenses, damages and other payments resulting from or arising in connection with litigation related to any of the foregoing, and expenses for federal, state and local income taxes incurred by Host REIT.

The Directors of Host REIT will receive compensation for their services as described herein under "Management."

Neither the General Partners nor Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, receive compensation in exchange for their services as general partner. The Directors of Host REIT, however, do receive compensation for their services as Directors.

ERISA CONSIDERATIONS

STATUS OF HOST REIT AND THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP UNDER ERISA

This section discusses the extent to which the fiduciary requirements of ERISA and the prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA and the Code would apply to Host REIT or the Operating Partnership because one or more investors in Host REIT or the Operating Partnership is an ERISA Plan or Other Plan.

If the underlying assets of Host REIT are deemed to be assets of an investing ERISA Plan and Other Plan ("Plan Assets"), (i) the prudence standards and other provisions of Part 4 of Title I of ERISA and the prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA and the Code would be applicable to any transactions involving Host REIT's assets, and (ii) persons who exercise any authority or control over Host REIT's assets, or who provide investment advice to Host REIT for a fee or other compensation, would be (for purposes of ERISA and the Code) fiduciaries of ERISA Plans and Other Plans that acquire Common Shares of Host REIT. Similarly, if the underlying assets of the Operating Partnership are deemed to be Plan Assets, (i) the prudence standards and other provisions of Part 4 of Title I of ERISA and the prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA and the Code would be applicable to any transactions involving the Operating Partnership's assets, and (ii) persons who exercise any authority or control over the Operating Partnership's assets, or who provide investment advice to the Operating Partnership for a fee or other compensation, would be (for purposes of ERISA and the Code) fiduciaries of ERISA Plans and Other Plans that acquire Common Shares of Host REIT.

The United States Department of Labor ("DOL"), which has certain administrative responsibility over ERISA Plans and certain Other Plans, has issued a regulation defining plan assets for certain purposes ("DOL Regulation"). The DOL Regulation generally provides that when an ERISA Plan or Other Plan acquires a security that is an equity interest in an entity and that security is neither a "publicly offered security" nor a security issued by an investment company registered under the 1940 Act, the assets of the ERISA Plan or Other Plan include both the equity interest and an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the entity, unless it is established either that the entity is an "operating company" (as defined in the DOL Regulation) or that equity participation in the entity by "benefit plan investors" is not "significant."

The DOL Regulation defines a "publicly offered security" as a security that is "widely-held," "freely transferable" and either part of a class of securities registered under the Exchange Act or sold pursuant to an effective registration statement under the Securities Act (provided the securities are registered under the Exchange Act within 120 days, or such later time as may be allowed by the Commission (the "Registration Period")), after the end of the fiscal year of the issuer during which the offering occurred). Host REIT anticipates that the Common Shares will be considered "publicly offered securities," and therefore the underlying assets of Host REIT would not be deemed to be Plan Assets of any ERISA Plan or Other Plan that invests in the Common Shares.

The DOL Regulation defines "benefit plan investors" to consist of any employee benefit plan as defined in section 3(3) of ERISA, any Other Plan, or any entity whose underlying assets include Plan Assets by reason of an employee benefit plan's investment in the entity. Equity participation in an entity by "benefit plan investors" is deemed "significant" if, immediately after the most recent acquisition of any equity interest in the entity, 25% or more of the value of any class of equity interest is held by "benefit plan investors." Furthermore, for purposes of determining the percentage interest in a class of equity held by "benefit plan investors," the value of interests held by persons who either have discretionary authority or control over the entity's assets, or who provide investment advice for a fee, or are affiliates of such persons, is disregarded.

Based upon the value of the interests in the Partnerships owned by "benefit plan investors" relative to the value of the interests in the Partnerships owned by other Partnership investors, the expected Exchange Value for each of the Partnerships, and the percentage of the Operating Partnership that the Blackstone Entities will own immediately following the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership believes that immediately following the REIT Conversion "benefit plan investors" will not own a "significant" percentage of OP Units, and, thus, the underlying assets of the Operating Partnership will not constitute Plan Assets of any ERISA Plan or Other Plan that owns OP Units. Furthermore, the Partnership Agreement will restrict ownership of OP Units by benefit plan investors to less than 25%.

INTRODUCTION

The following discussion summarizes the federal income tax consequences reasonably anticipated to be material to a Limited Partner in connection with (i) the acquisition of the Partnerships by the Operating Partnership through the mergers of the Merger Partnerships into the Partnerships and the resulting distribution of OP Units to the Limited Partners; (ii) the ownership and subsequent disposition by the Limited Partners of such OP Units; (iii) the acquisition and ownership of Notes received by Limited Partners who elect to tender the OP Units received in the Mergers to the Operating Partnership in exchange for Notes; (iv) the acquisition and ownership of Common Shares received by Limited Partners who elect to exchange their OP Units received in the Mergers for Common Shares in connection with the Mergers; and (v) the ownership and disposition of Common Shares that could be issued to Limited Partners upon the exercise of their Unit Redemption Right. The following discussion is intended to address only those federal income tax consequences that are generally relevant to all Limited Partners in the Partnerships. Accordingly, it does not discuss all aspects of federal income taxation that might be relevant to a specific Limited Partner in light of his particular investment or tax circumstances. Therefore, it is imperative that a Limited Partner review the following discussion and consult with his own tax advisors to determine the interaction of his individual tax situation with the anticipated tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and the subsequent ownership and disposition of OP Units, Notes and/or Common Shares, as applicable.

The following discussion provides general information only, is not exhaustive of all possible tax considerations and is not intended to be (and should not be construed as) tax advice. For example, this summary does not give a detailed description of any state, local or foreign tax considerations. In addition, the discussion does not purport to deal with all aspects of taxation that may be relevant to Limited Partners subject to special treatment under the federal income tax laws, including, without limitation, insurance companies, financial institutions or broker-dealers, tax-exempt organizations (except to the extent discussed under the heading "Taxation of Tax-Exempt Shareholders of Host REIT") or foreign corporations and persons who are not citizens or residents of the United States (except to the extent discussed under the heading "Taxation of Non-U.S. Shareholders of Host REIT").

The information in this section is based on the Code, current, temporary and proposed Treasury Regulations thereunder, the legislative history of the Code, current administrative interpretations and practices of the IRS (including its practices and policies as endorsed in private letter rulings, which are not binding on the IRS), and court decisions, all as of the date hereof. No assurance can be given that future legislation, Treasury Regulations, administrative interpretations and court decisions will not significantly change the current law or adversely affect existing interpretations of current law. Any such change could apply retroactively to transactions preceding the date of the change. No assurance can be provided that the statements set forth herein (which do not bind the IRS or the courts) will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged. With the one exception described in the next sentence below, neither Host REIT, the Operating Partnership nor the General Partners have requested or plan to request any rulings from the IRS concerning the tax consequences of the Mergers or the treatment of either the Operating Partnership or Host REIT subsequent to the REIT Conversion. The Operating Partnership has requested from the IRS a ruling to the effect that certain indebtedness that might be incurred by the Operating Partnership that is not secured by any particular property of the Operating Partnership, the proceeds of which may be used to repay indebtedness of the Operating Partnership or one or more Hotel Partnerships after the REIT Conversion, would qualify as "nonrecourse liabilities" for purposes of Code Section 752 and as "qualified nonrecourse financing" for purposes of Code Section 465. This ruling request is discussed below, in "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities."

Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners have obtained an opinion of counsel to the effect that the discussion set forth in this section, to the extent it contains descriptions of applicable federal income tax law, is correct in all material respects. Such opinion, however, does not purport to address the tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion to any particular Limited Partner in a Partnership in light of his particular circumstances, nor does it purport to predict whether, and the extent to which, future events and transactions, only some of which may be within the control of Host REIT and/or the Operating Partnership, will have a material adverse impact on the income tax positions of Limited Partners, either in particular Partnerships or as a whole.

The following description does not address the income tax consequences of the Mergers for Host or the General Partners.

The following discussion is not intended to be, and should not be construed by a Limited Partner as, tax advice. THE SPECIFIC TAX ATTRIBUTES OF A PARTICULAR LIMITED PARTNER COULD HAVE A MATERIAL IMPACT ON THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS (INCLUDING THE DECISION WHETHER TO EXERCISE THE NOTE ELECTION OR THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION) AND THE SUBSEQUENT OWNERSHIP AND DISPOSITION OF OP UNITS, COMMON SHARES AND/OR NOTES. THEREFORE, IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT EACH LIMITED PARTNER CONSULT WITH HIS OWN TAX ADVISORS WITH REGARD TO THE APPLICATION OF THE FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S PERSONAL TAX SITUATION, AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR FOREIGN TAXING JURISDICTION. THE FOLLOWING DISCUSSION IS NOT INTENDED AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR CAREFUL TAX PLANNING.

SUMMARY OF TAX OPINIONS

Hogan & Hartson L.L.P. ("Hogan & Hartson"), counsel to Host REIT, Host and the Operating Partnership, has provided to Host REIT and the Operating Partnership an opinion letter (attached as Appendix C hereto) as to certain federal income tax consequences to the Operating Partnership and the Limited Partners resulting from the REIT Conversion and the Mergers. The opinion letter is based upon certain assumptions and certain factual representations provided by Host REIT, Host, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners. These representations generally involve factual matters relating to the organization, ownership and operations (including the income, assets, businesses, liabilities and properties) of the Partnerships and the Hotels contributed to the Operating Partnership by Host and the Blackstone Entities prior to the REIT Conversion and the Mergers and of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and the Partnerships following the REIT Conversion and the Mergers.

The specific opinions that Hogan & Hartson has provided (as they relate to the Limited Partners and the impact on them of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion) are:

1. The proposed method of operation of the Operating Partnership is such that it, each of the Partnerships and each of the Subsidiary Partnerships will be treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes and will not be subject to tax as a corporation or an association taxable as a corporation.
2. Except for any gain attributable to the sale of personal property to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion, the Mergers will not result in the recognition of taxable gain or loss at the time of the Mergers to a Limited Partner (i) who does not receive a Note upon the exercise of his right to make the Note Election or Common Shares upon the exercise of his right to make the Common Share Election; (ii) who does not exercise his Unit Redemption Right on a date sooner than the date two years after the date of the consummation of the Mergers; (iii) who does not receive a cash distribution (or a deemed cash distribution resulting from relief from liabilities, including as a result of the prepayment of certain indebtedness) in connection with the Mergers in excess of such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest at the time of the Mergers; (iv) who is not required to recognize gain by reason of the exercise by another Limited Partner in the same Partnership of his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election; and (v) whose "at risk" amount does not fall below zero as a result of the Mergers.
3. The Unit Redemption Right will not be considered "other consideration" such that its receipt in the Mergers would result in a Limited Partner being treated under the "disguised sale" rules (as set forth in Section 707 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder) as having sold all or a portion of his Partnership Interest to the Operating Partnership in the Mergers.

4. A Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right more than two years after the date of consummation of the Mergers will not cause the Mergers to constitute a taxable transaction for the Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners in the same Partnership).

5. It is more likely than not that a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right more than one year after the date of consummation of the Mergers but less than two years after such date will not cause the Mergers to constitute a taxable transaction for the Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners in the same Partnership).

6. It is more likely than not that a Limited Partner who does not exercise his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election in connection with the Mergers but retains his OP Units will not be required to recognize gain by reason of the exercise of either such right by another Limited Partner in the same Partnership.

7. A Limited Partner's relief from Partnership liabilities allocable to such Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and/or any subsequent repayment of certain indebtedness encumbering the Hotels will not cause such Limited Partner to recognize taxable gain at the time of the Mergers unless (and only to the extent that) the amount thereof exceeds such Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest at the time of the Mergers.

8. Based upon factual representations made by Host, Host REIT, and the Operating Partnership relating to the facts and circumstances surrounding each such liability, all direct or indirect liabilities of the Partnerships fall into one of the four categories of "qualified liabilities" described in Treasury Regulations Section 1.707-5(a)(6).

9. The sale by each of Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP in connection with the REIT Conversion of a portion of the personal property associated with the Hotels owned by such Partnerships to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary will be a taxable transaction. Each such sale by a Partnership will result in the recognition by the Partnership of taxable income equal to the amount by which the fair market value of the personal property at the time of the sale exceeds the Partnership's adjusted tax basis in the personal property at that time. This taxable gain will be recharacterized as recapture income pursuant to Section 1245 of the Code, and each Limited Partner will be allocated by his Partnership a portion of the recapture income, determined in the same proportions and to the same extent that such Limited Partner was allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gain as recapture income prior to the Mergers. Such recapture income allocated to a Limited Partner will be subject to tax at ordinary federal income tax rates. The sale of personal property by Hanover to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion, however, will not result in the allocation of any taxable income to the Hanover Limited Partners (even if such income is recognized by Hanover).

10. The discussion herein under the heading "Federal Income Tax Consequences," and under such heading in each of the Partnership Supplements to the Consent Solicitation, to the extent each such discussion contains descriptions of applicable federal income tax law, is correct in all material respects.

The foregoing assumes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election either is not a separate property right for federal income tax purposes or does not have any ascertainable value. The Operating Partnership believes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election is not property and, even if it were property, does not have any independent ascertainable value, given the nature and terms of the OP Units and the terms and limited duration of the election arrangements. If, however, the ability to exercise such elections were considered property and to have an ascertainable value, Limited Partners could recognize gain in amount up to the amount of such value (whether or not they exercise such elections).

In addition, prior to the Effective Date, Hogan & Hartson expects to provide to Host REIT and the Operating Partnership an opinion letter (substantially in the form of Appendix D hereto) to the effect that (i) Host REIT, beginning with its first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, will be organized in conformity with the requirements for qualification as a REIT, and its proposed method of operation will enable it to meet the requirements for qualification and taxation as a REIT under the Code; (ii) the Leases will be respected as leases for federal income tax purposes; and (iii) even if the Operating Partnership were a "publicly traded partnership" under the Code, it would qualify as a partnership for federal income tax purposes because, based upon factual representations made by Host, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as to the proposed method of operation of the Operating Partnership after the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, at least ninety percent of its income will consist of "qualifying income," as defined in the Code. The receipt of this opinion letter is a condition to the REIT Conversion and each of the Mergers. This opinion letter will be conditioned upon the completion of the REIT Conversion and upon certain assumptions and certain factual representations provided by Host REIT, Host, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners. These representations generally will involve factual matters relating to the organization, ownership and operations (including the income, assets, businesses, liabilities, properties and accumulated undistributed earnings and profits) of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the Hotel Partnerships, the Subsidiary Partnerships (as defined below), the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Host Employee Trust, Crestline and the Lessees following the REIT Conversion.

The opinions already rendered by Hogan & Hartson are based on the Code and Treasury Regulations in effect on the date hereof, current administrative interpretations and positions of the IRS and existing court decisions and the opinions to be rendered by Hogan & Hartson prior to the Effective Date will be based on the same authorities as of the date such opinions are rendered. No assurance can be given that future legislation, Treasury Regulations, administrative interpretations and court decisions will not significantly change the law or the above conclusions reached by counsel. In addition, any such change could apply retroactively to transactions preceding the date of change. Moreover, opinions of counsel merely represent counsel's best judgment with respect to the probable outcome on the merits and are not binding on the IRS or the courts. Accordingly, even if there is no change in applicable law, no assurance can be provided that such opinions (which do not bind the IRS or the courts) will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged. With the exception of the ruling request described below in "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities," neither Host REIT, the Operating Partnership nor the General Partners have requested or plan to request any rulings from the IRS concerning the tax consequences of the Mergers or the treatment of either the Operating Partnership or Host REIT subsequent to the REIT Conversion.

TAX STATUS OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP

An entity classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes generally is not itself a taxable entity and incurs no federal income tax liability. Therefore, partners are required to take into account in computing their federal income tax liability their allocable shares of income, gains, losses, deductions and credits of the partnership, regardless of whether cash distributions are made by the partnership to the partners. A distribution of money by a partnership to a partner generally is not taxable unless the amount of the distribution is in excess of the partner's adjusted basis in his partnership interest.

Pursuant to Treasury Regulations under Section 7701 of the Code, a partnership will be treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes unless it elects to be treated as a corporation or would be treated as a corporation because it is a "publicly traded partnership." Neither the Operating Partnership, any of the Hotel Partnerships, nor any of the partnerships or limited liability companies in which either the Operating Partnership or the Hotel Partnerships will have an interest following the REIT Conversion (the "Subsidiary Partnerships") will elect to be treated as a corporation, and therefore, subject to the disclosure below, each will be treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes (or if it has only one partner or member, disregarded entirely for federal income tax purposes).

Pursuant to Section 7704 of the Code, however, a partnership that does not elect to be treated as a corporation nevertheless will be treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes if it is a "publicly traded partnership," unless at least ninety percent (90%) of its income consists of "qualifying income" within the meaning of that section. A "publicly traded partnership" is any partnership (i) the interests in which are traded on an established securities market or (ii) the interests in which are readily tradable on a "secondary market (or the substantial equivalent thereof)." OP Units will not be traded on an established securities market. There is a significant risk, however, that after the Unit Redemption Right becomes exercisable, the OP Units would be considered readily tradable on the substantial equivalent of a secondary market.

Host REIT expects to receive from Hogan & Hartson prior to the Effective Date an opinion to the effect that, based upon representations by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as to the expected ownership and operations of the Operating Partnership, even if the Operating Partnership were considered to be a publicly traded partnership because OP Units were considered to be readily tradable on the substantial equivalent of a secondary market, the proposed method of operation of the Operating Partnership is such that it will qualify as a partnership for federal income tax purposes because it will have sufficient "qualifying income." In this regard, the income requirements generally applicable to REITs and the definition of "qualifying income" under Section 7704 of the Code are similar in most key respects. There is one significant difference, however, that is relevant to the Operating Partnership. For a REIT, rent from a tenant does not qualify as "rents from real property" if the REIT and/or one or more actual or constructive owners of 10% or more of the REIT actually or constructively own 10% or more of the tenant; under Section 7704 of the Code, however, rent from a tenant is not qualifying income if a partnership and/or one or more actual or constructive owners of 5% or more of the partnership actually or constructively own 10% or more of the tenant. A substantial majority of the Operating Partnership's income will come from rent payments by the Lessees, which will be indirectly controlled subsidiaries of Crestline. Accordingly, because The Blackstone Group, Host REIT and any owner of 10% or more of Host REIT will own (or be deemed to own) 5% or more of the Operating Partnership, if The Blackstone Group, Host REIT and/or any owner of 10% or more of Host REIT were to own (or be deemed to own) 10% or more of Crestline, none of the rent from the Lessees would be qualifying income for purposes of determining whether the Operating Partnership should be taxed as a corporation. In order to avoid this result, the Crestline Articles of Incorporation expressly provide that no person (or persons acting as a group), including The Blackstone Group, Host REIT and any owner of 10% or more of Host REIT, may own, actually and/or constructively, more than 9.8% by value of the interests in Crestline, and the Crestline Articles of Incorporation contain self-executing mechanisms intended to enforce this prohibition. In addition, the Partnership Agreement prohibits any person (or persons acting as a group) or entity (other than The Blackstone Group and Host REIT) from owning, actually and/or constructively, more than 4.9% of the value of the Operating Partnership, and Host REIT's Charter prohibits any person (or persons acting as a group) or entity (including The Blackstone Group and the Marriott family and their affiliated entities as a group) from owning, actually and/or constructively, more than 9.8% of the lesser of the number or value of the total outstanding shares of Host REIT. Assuming that all of these prohibitions are enforced at all times in accordance with their terms (as to which there can be no assurance), then so long as the Operating Partnership's income is such that Host REIT could meet the gross income tests applicable to REITs (see "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Income Tests Applicable to REITs" and "--Ownership of Partnership Interests by a REIT"), the Operating Partnership's "qualifying income" should be sufficient for it to avoid being classified as a corporation even if it were considered a publicly traded partnership.

If the Operating Partnership were considered a publicly traded partnership (because the OP Units were considered readily tradable on the substantial equivalent of a secondary market) but not treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes because it meets the "qualifying income" exception, a Limited Partner still could be subject to certain special rules applicable to publicly traded partnerships. In particular, if the Operating Partnership were a publicly traded partnership, a Limited Partner would be unable to apply unused passive activity losses arising in connection with his investment in the Partnership or other investments to offset his allocable share of Operating Partnership gain and income. Conversely, any Operating Partnership losses allocable to a Limited Partner could be used only as an offset against such Limited Partner's allocable share of Operating Partnership income and gains and not against income and gains from other passive activities. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners have estimated that each Limited Partner in Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, MDAH and MHP who purchased his Partnership Interest at the time of the original offering of such Partnership Interests, has held such Partnership Interest continuously since that time, and whose Partnership Interest has been his only investment in a passive activity would have a passive activity loss carryforward as of December 31, 1998.

The entire discussion of the federal income tax consequences of the Mergers and the subsequent ownership of OP Units is based on the Operating Partnership being classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. If the Operating Partnership instead were taxable as a corporation, most, if not all, of the tax consequences described below would be inapplicable. In particular, the Operating Partnership itself would be subject to federal and state income tax, thereby reducing the cash available for distribution to holders of OP Units. Under such circumstances, the Mergers should be treated for federal income tax purposes as contributions of the Partnership Interests to a corporation under Section 351 of the Code, and, accordingly, a Limited Partner would recognize gain or loss on the transaction to the extent that the Partnership liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner at the time of the Mergers (see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution" below) exceeded the Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest (i.e., the Limited Partner had a "negative capital account"). Finally, under such circumstances, Host REIT would not qualify as a REIT because the value of Host REIT's ownership interest in the Operating Partnership would exceed 5% of Host REIT's assets and Host REIT would be considered to hold more than 10% of the voting securities of another corporation (see "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Asset Tests Applicable to REITs"), which would adversely affect the value of the Common Shares (and, indirectly, the value of the OP Units) (see "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT"). However, as described above, Hogan & Hartson, counsel to the Operating Partnership, is of the opinion that the proposed method of operation of the Operating Partnership (as represented by the Operating Partnership and Host) is such that it will be treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes and will not be subject to tax as a corporation or an association taxable as a corporation. As noted previously, an opinion of counsel does not bind the courts and no assurance can be provided that such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS

Overview. As described in greater detail above (see "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion"), the Operating Partnership will acquire the Partnerships through the mergers of the Merger Partnerships into the Partnerships, resulting in the receipt of OP Units by the partners of the Partnerships. The Operating Partnership intends that the Mergers will be treated for federal income tax purposes as the transfer by the partners of their interests in the Partnerships to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units (which OP Units may be tendered for Notes or exchanged for Common Shares, at the election of the Limited Partner, in connection with the Mergers) and the discussion herein assumes that the Mergers will be so treated. There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS will not seek to recharacterize each Merger as either (i) the liquidation of a Partnership followed by the distribution by the Partnership of its assets to its partners and the subsequent transfers by such partners of such assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units (which OP Units may be tendered for Notes or exchanged for Common Shares, at the election of each Limited Partner, in connection with the Mergers) or (ii) the transfer by a Partnership of its assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units and/or Notes (and, possibly, Common Shares) and the subsequent distribution of such OP Units and/or Notes (and, possibly, Common Shares) to its partners. For a discussion of the tax consequences that would occur if the Mergers are recharacterized in either of these two alternative manners, see "--Alternative Recharacterizations of the Mergers."

Section 721 of the Code provides that no gain or loss is recognized in the case of a contribution of property to the partnership in exchange for an interest in the partnership. The nonrecognition rule of Section 721 ordinarily applies even when the property transferred is subject to liabilities (so long as the assumption of such liabilities does not result in a deemed distribution of cash in excess of a transferor's basis in the property transferred to a partnership). Accordingly, Section 721 generally would apply to prevent the recognition of gain by a Limited Partner in the Mergers. However, there are several potential exceptions to the availability of nonrecognition treatment under Section 721, including the following:

1. Any decrease in a contributing partner's liabilities (including its share of liabilities with respect to a partnership interest contributed to another partnership), if not offset by a corresponding increase in the partner's share of other partnership liabilities, could cause the partner to recognize taxable gain as a result of the partner being deemed to have received a cash distribution from the partnership. This recognition of gain could occur even if the decrease arose in connection with a contribution that would otherwise qualify for tax-free treatment under Section 721 of the Code. A decrease in a partner's liabilities (and a resulting deemed cash distribution) also might occur after a contribution upon a repayment by the partnership of all or part of such liabilities. For example, a Limited Partner would be deemed to receive a cash distribution upon the prepayment or repayment of existing indebtedness of his Partnership, unless such prepayment or repayment were accompanied by the incurrence of new debt in an equal or greater amount that would be considered to be nonrecourse liabilities properly attributable to the Hotels owned by the Partnership whose existing debt was repaid.

2. A contribution of property that is treated in whole or in part as a "disguised sale" of the contributed property under the Code.

3. A contribution of property to a partnership that is classified as an "investment company" under the Code.

4. Recapture under Section 465(e) of the Code.

The Operating Partnership, the General Partners and Hogan & Hartson believe that the foregoing exceptions, which are discussed in greater detail below, should not result in the recognition of taxable gain or loss at the time of the Mergers to a Limited Partner (i) who does not make the Common Share Election or the Note Election, (ii) who does not receive a distribution (or a deemed distribution resulting from relief from liabilities) that exceeds such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted basis in his OP Units after the Mergers and (iii) whose at risk amount does not go below zero as a result of the Mergers. See, however, "---Taxable Income Attributable to Sales of Personal Property in Connection with the REIT Conversion." The Operating Partnership and the General Partners also believe that a Limited Partner who acquired his Partnership Interests in the original offering of such interests and who has held such interests at all times since (a) should not be considered to receive, as a result of the Mergers, a distribution (or a deemed distribution resulting from relief from liabilities) that exceeds such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted basis in his OP Units at the time of the Mergers and (b) should not have his "at risk" amount fall below zero as a result of the Mergers. See "---Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers" below. The adjusted tax basis of a Limited Partner who did not acquire his Partnership Interest in the original offering of such interests, however, could vary materially from that of a Limited Partner who did so, and, thus, the Mergers could result in the receipt by such Limited Partner of a distribution (or deemed distribution) of cash in excess of such Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest and/or a reduction in his "at risk" amount below zero, either of which could result in the recognition of income or gain by such Limited Partner.

Even if a Limited Partner who retains his OP Units does not recognize gain at the time of the Mergers as a result of the foregoing exceptions to nonrecognition treatment, a variety of events and transactions subsequent to the Mergers (including a sale or other disposition of one or more Hotels owned by the Partnerships or a refinancing or repayment of indebtedness currently secured by one or more of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships) could cause a Limited Partner to recognize all or part of the gain that has been deferred through the Mergers. See "---Effect of Subsequent Events" below. Certain Hotels (including all of the Blackstone Hotels) will be covered by agreements with third parties that will restrict the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of those properties or refinance their indebtedness. In addition, if Atlanta Marquis chooses to participate in the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to an existing agreement that will restrict its ability to dispose of the Hotel owned by Atlanta Marquis or refinance the indebtedness secured by such Hotel (without compensating certain outside partners for the resulting adverse tax consequences). As for the remaining properties (including the Hotels owned by the Partnerships), the Partnership Agreement of the Operating Partnership does not impose any restrictions on the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of the Hotels or to refinance indebtedness secured by the Hotels. In addition, the Partnership Agreement provides that Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences for the Limited Partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions and the Limited Partners, as holders of OP Units, have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions owned by the Partnerships. See "Description of OP Units--Sales of Assets."

Taxable Income Attributable to Sales of Personal Property in Connection with the REIT Conversion. As discussed below in "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Income Tests Applicable to REITs," if the rent attributable to personal property leased in connection with the lease of each Hotel is greater than 15% of the total rent received under the lease of such Hotel, the portion of the rent attributable to the personal property will not constitute qualifying income to Host REIT (the "15% Personal Property Test"). The Operating Partnership and the General Partners have determined that the percentage of rent attributable to the personal property to be leased in connection with the lease of certain of the Hotels owned by Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP would not satisfy the 15% Personal Property Test. Accordingly, immediately prior to the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will require each of those Partnerships, if it chooses to participate in the Mergers, to sell to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary a portion of the personal property associated with some or all of its Hotels. This sale, which will be a taxable transaction, would result in the recognition by each such Partnership of taxable income to the extent that there is a difference between the fair market value of the personal property at the time of the sale and the adjusted tax basis of such property at that time. If any such taxable income is recognized by a Partnership, this taxable income will be allocated to the partners of each such Partnership, except that the Limited Partners of Hanover will not be allocated any portion of such taxable income. The actual amount of any such income will be determinable only at the time of the sale and will be affected by the specific personal property selected to be sold and the fair market value and adjusted basis of that personal property. Pursuant to the partnership agreement of each Partnership, such taxable gain, if any, will be recharacterized as ordinary recapture income and will be allocated to the partners in the same proportions and to the same extent that such partners were allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gains as recapture income prior to the Mergers.

Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution. A Limited Partner will be deemed to receive a cash distribution in connection with the Mergers to the extent that his share of Operating Partnership liabilities immediately after the Mergers is less than his share of Partnership liabilities immediately prior to the Mergers. A Limited Partner will recognize taxable gain as a result of this deemed cash distribution, however, only to the extent that the deemed cash distribution exceeds such Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest immediately prior to the Mergers. Whether the deemed cash distribution results in taxable gain depends upon a number of circumstances that can be determined only with full knowledge of the circumstances of both the Operating Partnership and the particular Limited Partner.

Under the applicable provisions of the Code, partners in a partnership include their share of the partnership's liabilities, as determined in accordance with the Treasury Regulations under Section 752 of the Code, in calculating the basis of their partnership interests. Partners also include in the basis of their partnership interests the adjusted tax basis of any capital contributions that they have actually made to the partnership and their allocable share of all partnership income and gains; partners reduce the basis in their partnership interests by the amount of all distributions that they receive from the partnership and their allocable share of all partnership losses. For purposes of these rules, if a partner's share of the partnership's liabilities is reduced for any reason, the partner is deemed to have received a cash distribution equal to the amount of such reduction.

In the case of the Mergers, these rules generally will be applied by reference to a Limited Partner's share of liabilities in a Partnership immediately before the Mergers and such Limited Partner's share of liabilities in the Operating Partnership immediately after the Mergers. Any deemed cash distribution resulting from a reduction in such Limited Partner's share of liabilities will be considered to be a deemed cash distribution from the Operating Partnership (rather than from the Partnership with respect to which such Limited Partner's share of liabilities would be reduced). A Limited Partner may offset his share of the liabilities of the Operating Partnership against the elimination of the Limited Partner's share of liabilities of a Partnership in determining the amount of the deemed cash distribution to the Limited Partner from the Operating Partnership; however, if a Limited Partner is deemed under these rules to receive a cash distribution from the Operating Partnership in an amount in excess of the basis of the Partnership Interest owned by that Limited Partner immediately prior to the Mergers, the Limited Partner may recognize taxable gain. If a Limited Partner owns interests in more than one Participating Partnership, then such Limited Partner should be able to aggregate his bases in such Partnership Interests in determining whether such Limited Partner is deemed to receive a taxable cash distribution from the Operating Partnership so long as the intended characterization of the Mergers is respected (i.e., the Mergers are treated as contributions by the Limited Partners of their Partnership Interests in exchange for OP Units).

Section 752 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder provide that a partner's share of partnership liabilities includes the partner's share of partnership recourse liabilities plus the partner's share of partnership nonrecourse liabilities. A partnership liability is a recourse liability to the extent that any partner (or a person related to any partner) bears the "economic risk of loss" for that liability within the meaning of the Treasury Regulations; a partnership liability is nonrecourse to the extent that no partner (or related person) bears the "economic risk of loss." No Limited Partner (other than possibly Host REIT or an affiliate of Host REIT) will have any share of any recourse liability of the Operating Partnership by reason of his status as a Limited Partner. The following paragraphs describe the manner in which a Limited Partner's share of the nonrecourse liabilities of the Operating Partnership will be determined.

Pursuant to Section 752 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder, a partner's share of partnership nonrecourse liabilities is determined under a three-tier approach. Under this approach, a partner's share of partnership nonrecourse liabilities equals the sum of (i) the partner's share of "partnership minimum gain," determined in accordance with the rules of Section 704(b) of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder ("tier one"); (ii) the amount of any taxable gain that would be allocated to the partner under Section 704(c) of the Code (or in the same manner as Section 704(c) of the Code in connection with a revaluation of partnership property) if the partnership disposed of all partnership property (in a taxable transaction) subject to one or more nonrecourse liabilities of the partnership in full satisfaction of such liabilities and for no other consideration ("Section 704(c) Minimum Gain" or "tier two"); and (iii) the partner's share of "excess nonrecourse liabilities" (i.e., those not allocated under (i) and (ii) above), which are allocated in accordance with the partner's "share of partnership profits" ("tier three"). A partner's "share of partnership profits" is determined by taking into account all facts and circumstances of the economic arrangement among the partners.

At the time of the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will not have any "partnership minimum gain," determined in accordance with the rules of Section 704(b) of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. Therefore, each nonrecourse liability of the Operating Partnership secured by a Hotel (or considered allocable to such Hotel pursuant to Section 752 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder) will be allocated to each Limited Partner in accordance with "tiers" two and three described in the Treasury Regulations under Section 752 of the Code. First, pursuant to "tier two," such liabilities will be allocated to each Limited Partner in the amount of such Limited Partner's share of any Section 704(c) Minimum Gain with respect to such Hotel, after taking into account any reduction in the liabilities occurring in connection with the Mergers. Next, pursuant to "tier three," any remaining nonrecourse liabilities will be allocated to each Limited Partner in accordance with such Limited Partner's share of Operating Partnership profits, taking into account for such purposes Host REIT's share of Operating Partnership profits.

The nonrecourse liabilities, if any, allocable to a Limited Partner by reason of Section 704(c) Minimum Gain will depend upon a number of factors, including, for example, (i) the Limited Partner's share of existing Section 704(c) Minimum Gain of the Partnerships at the time of the Mergers; (ii) the extent to which the Operating Partnership causes nonrecourse liabilities as to which there exists Section 704(c) Minimum Gain immediately prior to the Mergers to be repaid or refinanced in connection with the Mergers in a manner that reduces or eliminates that Section 704(c) Minimum Gain; and (iii) the method selected by the Operating Partnership to allocate gain under Section 704(c) of the Code. The Operating Partnership generally will elect to allocate gain under Section 704(c) of the Code under the "traditional method," with a provision for a curative allocation of gain on sale to the extent prior allocations of depreciation with respect to a specific Hotel were limited by the "ceiling rule" applicable under such method (although there may be certain exceptions). In the case of the Limited Partners of a Participating Partnership that owns a Hotel with Section 704(c) Minimum Gain, this method may not result in as great an allocation of Operating Partnership nonrecourse liabilities by reason of Section 704(c) Minimum Gain to the Limited Partners as might be allocated pursuant to another method. However, the use of this method will decrease the ordinary taxable income that will be allocated to such Limited Partners (by reason of depreciation adjustments), as compared with the amount that would be allocated had another method been selected. See "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Tax Allocations With Respect to Book-Tax Difference on Contributed Hotels."

The Operating Partnership will allocate any "excess nonrecourse liabilities" in accordance with a Limited Partner's share of Operating Partnership profits as represented by the Limited Partner's percentage ownership interest the Operating Partnership.

Host REIT and the Operating Partnership believe that immediately after the Mergers, and taking into account the election described above and the assumptions set forth below (see "--Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers"), each Limited Partner who does not exercise his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election and thus retains the OP Units received in the Mergers and whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is equal to or greater than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis (as defined below in "--Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers") for that Partnership will be allocated nonrecourse liabilities in an amount such that the Limited Partner will not be deemed for federal income tax purposes to have received a deemed cash distribution in excess of such Limited Partner's basis in his Partnership Interest as a result of the Mergers. However, a Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is less than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for that Partnership could be deemed for federal income tax purposes to have received a deemed cash distribution in excess of such Limited Partner's basis in his Partnership Interest as a result of the Mergers.

IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities. Except as described herein, the Operating Partnership has no current plan or intention to cause the prepayment of the nonrecourse liabilities encumbering the Hotels owned by the Partnerships (other than with the proceeds of indebtedness that would be considered nonrecourse liabilities allocable to those Hotels). The Operating Partnership, however, will have to repay mortgage indebtedness secured by a Hotel at the time such indebtedness matures. There can be no assurance that at such time the Operating Partnership will be able to obtain nonrecourse mortgage indebtedness secured only by such Hotel in an amount sufficient to avoid a deemed cash distribution to the former Limited Partners in the Partnership that owns the Hotel. These considerations are particularly relevant with respect to the Limited Partners in PHLP, where the existing mortgage indebtedness, which matures in December 1999, will have to be refinanced within one year following the Mergers. Moreover, the Operating Partnership's current long-term financing strategy is to have as little debt as possible that is secured by individual Hotels and to have as much debt as possible in the form of unsecured debt, held either by the public or by institutional investors, which debt may or may not be recourse to Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership. In view of these considerations and the potential adverse consequences to Limited Partners in certain Partnerships, the Operating Partnership has requested from the IRS a ruling to the effect that such unsecured indebtedness of the Operating Partnership that is issued initially to institutional investors and is not recourse to Host REIT (i) would qualify as "nonrecourse liabilities" for purposes of Code Section 752, (ii) to the extent the proceeds thereof are applied to repay existing nonrecourse mortgage indebtedness secured by one or more Hotels, would be considered to be "secured" by those Hotels for purposes of computing the Section 704(c) Minimum Gain with respect to such Hotels (and thus would be allocable under "tier two" to the former Limited Partners in the Partnership owning those Hotels) and (iii) would constitute "qualified nonrecourse financing" secured by such Hotels for purposes of Code Section 465. The IRS has recently issued a ruling to that effect to another taxpayer, and has indicated to the Operating Partnership's representatives that it is favorably inclined to issue that ruling to the Operating Partnership.

Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers. The estimated adjusted tax basis in the OP Units used by the Operating Partnership and the General Partners for purposes of this discussion has been computed based on the assumption that each of the Limited Partners acquired his Partnership Interest in the original offering of such Partnership Interests (this basis is referred to as an "Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis"). The General Partners have set forth on Appendix E to this Consent Solicitation for each Partnership (i) the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis as of December 31, 1997 and (ii) an estimate of the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis as of December 31, 1998 (computed without regard to the Mergers and based upon the assumptions set forth in Appendix E to this Consent Solicitation). The General Partners also have set forth on Appendix E to this Consent Solicitation for each Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is the same as the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis (i) the Partnership liabilities allocable to such Limited Partner as of December 31, 1997 and (ii) an estimate of the Partnership liabilities allocable to such Limited Partner as of December 31, 1998 (computed without regard to the Mergers and based upon the assumptions set forth in Appendix E to this Consent Solicitation). The actual adjusted tax basis of a Limited Partner in his Partnership Interest (and thus the Partnership liabilities allocable, and the gain, if any, to such Limited Partner resulting from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion) could vary materially from the amount set forth in Appendix E to this Consent Solicitation, depending upon a number of factors, including when, and the manner in which, such Limited Partner acquired his Partnership Interest. See "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Initial Tax Basis of OP Units."

Also, the determination of the amount of the Operating Partnership's nonrecourse liabilities that will be allocated to a Limited Partner following the Mergers assumes that the method to be used by the Operating Partnership to allocate the liabilities among the Hotels will be respected for federal income tax purposes. Finally, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners assumed that the Mergers will be treated for federal income tax purposes as the transfer by the Partners of their interests in the Partnerships to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units. There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS will not seek to recharacterize each Merger as either (i) the liquidation of a Partnership followed by the distribution by the Partnership of its assets to its Partners and the subsequent transfers by such Partners of such assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units or (ii) the transfer by a Partnership of its assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units and/or Notes (and, possibly, Common Shares) and the subsequent distribution of such OP Units and/or Notes (and, possibly, Common Shares) to its Partners. If the Mergers are recharacterized in such a manner, the tax consequences of the Mergers to the Limited Partners likely will be materially affected.

Disguised Sale Regulations. The Mergers also will not be tax free to a Limited Partner to the extent that a Merger is treated as a "disguised sale" of all or a portion of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest under the Code or Treasury Regulations. Section 707 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder (the "Disguised Sale Regulations") generally provide that, unless one of certain prescribed exceptions is applicable, a partner's contribution of property to a partnership and a simultaneous transfer of money or other consideration (other than an interest in the partnership) from the partnership to the partner will be treated as a sale, in whole or in part, of such property by the partner to the partnership. Further, the Disguised Sale Regulations provide generally that transfers of money or other consideration between a partnership and a partner that are made within two years of each other are presumed to be a sale unless the facts and circumstances clearly establish that either the transfers do not constitute a sale or an exception to disguised sale treatment applies.

For purposes of these rules, certain reductions in a partner's share of partnership liabilities are treated as a transfer of money or other property from the partnership to the partner which may give rise to a disguised sale, even if that reduction would not otherwise result in a taxable deemed cash distribution in excess of the partner's basis in his partnership interest. The method of computing the existence and amount of any such reduction under the Disguised Sale Regulations is different from, and generally more onerous than, that applied under the rules discussed at "---Relief From Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution," above. However, if a transfer of property by a partner to a partnership is not otherwise treated as part of a disguised sale, then any reduction in the partner's share of "qualified liabilities" (discussed below) also will not be treated as part of a disguised sale. Moreover, even if some or all of the transfer does otherwise constitute a disguised sale, the amount of the reduction in the partner's share of "qualified liabilities" may, in some cases, be computed under a more favorable method than the amount of the reduction in the partner's share of other liabilities.

1. Impact of Distributions of Cash Flow from the Operating Partnership. Cash distributions from a partnership to a partner may be treated as a transfer of property for purposes of the "disguised sale" rules. However, one exception to "disguised sale" treatment in the Disguised Sale Regulations relates to distributions of "operating cash flow," as such term is defined in the Disguised Sale Regulations. Operating cash flow distributions are presumed not to be a part of a sale of property to a partnership unless the facts and circumstances clearly establish that the distribution of operating cash flow is part of a sale. The Disguised Sale Regulations define operating cash flow distributions as distributions which (i) are not presumed to be guaranteed payments for capital under the Disguised Sale Regulations, (ii) are not reasonable preferred returns under the Disguised Sale Regulations and (iii) are not characterized by the parties as distributions to the partner acting in a capacity other than as a partner, to the extent of the net cash flow of the partnership from operations multiplied by the lesser of the percentage interest of the partner receiving the distribution for that year or the partner's percentage interest in overall partnership profits for the life of the partnership. The Disguised Sale Regulations contain a safe harbor for calculating a partner's interest in such operating cash flow.

Except with respect to Limited Partners who exercise the Note Election (and, possibly, with respect to Limited Partners who exercise the Common Share Election, if the Operating Partnership is treated as acquiring the exchanged Common Shares from Host REIT and distributing them to the electing Limited Partners) (see "--Disguised Sale Regulations--Impact of Limited Partners Who Exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election" and "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election"), no distribution of cash or other property will be made by the Operating Partnership to the participating Limited Partners at the time of the Mergers. Host REIT and the Operating Partnership believe that the Operating Partnership's periodic distributions of cash to holders of OP Units subsequent to the Mergers will qualify as distributions of "operating cash flow" under the Disguised Sale Regulations, and that there will be no facts or circumstances indicating that such distributions should be considered part of a sale. Immediately prior to the Mergers, the Partnerships may distribute to their partners any excess cash on hand and, following the Mergers, the Partnerships will distribute to their former partners cash flow for the period ending with the Mergers. However, because such distributions will be made by the Partnerships, rather than the Operating Partnership, the distributions should not give rise to a "disguised sale" issue so long as the distributions were not financed with debt which was incurred in anticipation of the Mergers or cash provided by the Operating Partnership.

2. Impact of Assumption of Liabilities by the Operating Partnership. As described above, a second exception to the "disguised sale" presumption relates to the assumption of "qualified liabilities" in connection with a contribution of property to a partnership. For purposes of the Disguised Sale Regulations, a "qualified liability" in connection with a transfer of property to a partnership includes (i) any liability incurred more than two years prior to the earlier of the transfer of the property or the date the partner agrees in writing to the transfer, as long as the liability has encumbered the transferred property throughout the two-year period; (ii) a liability that was not incurred in anticipation of the transfer of the property to a partnership, but that was incurred by the partner within the two-year period prior to the earlier of the date the partner agrees in writing to transfer the property or the date the partner transfers the property to a partnership and that has encumbered the transferred property since it was incurred; (iii) a liability that is traceable under the Treasury Regulations to capital expenditures with respect to the property; and (iv) a liability that was incurred in the ordinary course of the trade or business in which property transferred to the partnership was used or held, but only if all the assets related to that trade or business are transferred, other than assets that are not material to a continuation of the trade or business. However, a recourse liability is not a "qualified liability" unless the amount of the liability does not exceed the fair market value of the transferred property (less any other liabilities that are senior in priority and encumber such property or any allocable liabilities described in (iii) or (iv) above) at the time of transfer. A liability incurred within two years of the transfer is presumed to be incurred in anticipation of the transfer unless the facts and circumstances clearly establish that the liability was not incurred in anticipation of the transfer. However, to the extent that the proceeds of a partner or partnership liability are allocable under the Treasury Regulations to payments discharging all or part of any other liability of that partner or of the partnership, as the case may be, the newer liability is considered the same as the older liability for purposes of the Disguised Sale

Regulations. Finally, if a partner treats a liability described in (ii) above as a "qualified liability" because the facts clearly establish that it was not incurred in anticipation of the transfer, such treatment must be disclosed to the IRS in the manner set forth in the Disguised Sale Regulations.

Hogan & Hartson believes, based on factual representations made by Host, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership relating to the facts and circumstances surrounding each such liability, that all direct or indirect liabilities of the Partnerships fall into one of the four categories of "qualified liabilities" described above. Based on the aforementioned representations and certain numerical estimates provided by the Operating Partnership and the General Partners, however, approximately $19.3 million of Desert Springs indebtedness ($22,200 per Desert Springs Partnership Unit) and $8.8 million of MHP indebtedness ($8,800 per MHP Partnership Unit), as of December 31, 1998, may be "qualified liabilities" solely by reason of exception (ii) in the preceding paragraph (i.e., a liability incurred within two years of the Mergers but not in anticipation of the Mergers), and thus Desert Springs and its Limited Partners and MHP and its Limited Partners may be required to make disclosure with respect to the indebtedness in their tax returns for the year in which the Mergers occur. There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS will not challenge the position of either Desert Springs or MHP that this indebtedness is a "qualified liability."

3. Impact of Unit Redemption Right. For a discussion of the impact of the receipt and exercise of the Unit Redemption Right upon the potential characterization of the Mergers as disguised sales, see "--Unit Redemption Right," below.

4. Impact of Limited Partners Who Exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election. If the Mergers are recharacterized as partnership level transfers of Partnership assets, as described below in "--Alternative Recharacterizations of the Mergers--Transfer of Partnership Assets," there can be no assurance that the IRS would not assert that a Limited Partner who does not exercise his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election in connection with the Mergers but retains his OP Units must nevertheless recognize gain under the Disguised Sale Regulations if another Limited Partner in the Partnership does exercise his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election and receives a Note or Common Shares in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers. As described in such section below, however, Hogan & Hartson is of the opinion that, although the matter is not free from doubt, a Limited Partner who does not exercise his right to make the Note Election or the Common Share Election should not be required to recognize gain by reason of another Limited Partner's exercise of either of such rights. As noted previously, an opinion of counsel does not bind the courts, and no assurance can be provided that such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

5. Impact of Ability to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election. In the event that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election is considered a separate property right for federal income tax purposes and to have an ascertainable value, then a Limited Partner's receipt of such "property" in connection with the Mergers (whether or not the Limited Partner exercises such election) might be considered "other consideration" that is subject to the "disguised sale" rules. The Operating Partnership believes that the ability to exercise the Common Share Election or the Note Election is not property and, even if it were property, does not have any independent ascertainable value, given the nature and terms of the OP Units and the terms and limited duration of the election arrangements. If, however, the ability to exercise such election were considered property and to have an ascertainable value, Limited Partners could recognize gain in amount up to the amount of such value.

6. Effect of Disguised Sale Characterization. If a transfer of property to a partnership and one or more transfers of money or other consideration (including the assumption of or taking subject to a liability) by the partnership to that partner are treated as a disguised sale, then the transfers will be treated as a sale of property, in whole or in part, to the partnership by the partner acting in a capacity other than as a member of a partnership, rather than as a contribution under Section 721 of the Code followed by a partnership distribution. Accordingly, in any case in which a Limited Partner's transfer of his Partnership Interest to the Operating Partnership is found to be a "disguised sale," all or a substantial portion of the gain represented by the excess of the fair market value of such Partnership Interest (plus all liabilities attributable to such Partnership Interest) over the Limited Partner's tax basis in the Partnership Interest could be recognized by the Limited Partner.

A transfer that is treated as a sale is treated as a sale for all purposes of the Code and the sale is considered to take place on the date that, under general principles of federal income tax law, the partnership is considered to become the owner of the property. If the transfer of money or other consideration from the partnership to the partner occurs after the transfer of property to the partnership, the partner and the partnership are treated as if, on the date of the transfer of the property, the partnership transferred to the partner an obligation to transfer to the partner money or other consideration. Moreover, if a transfer of property to a partnership is treated as part of a sale without regard to the partnership's assumption of or taking subject to a "qualified liability," as defined above, then the partnership's assumption of or taking subject to that liability is treated as a transfer of additional consideration to the transferring partner. The amount of such "qualified liability" treated as additional consideration is generally the lesser of (x) the amount of the "qualified liability" and (y) an amount determined by multiplying the "qualified liability" by the partner's "net equity percentage." The "net equity percentage" is generally the amount of consideration received by such partner (other than relief from "qualified liabilities") divided by the partner's net equity in the property sold, as calculated under the Disguised Sale Regulations.

Investment Company Regulations. If a transfer of property to a partnership (such as the transfer of the Partnership Interests to the Operating Partnership, which will be deemed to occur when the Merger Partnerships merge into the Partnerships) were considered to be a transfer to an "investment company," as defined in the Treasury Regulations, gain would be recognized on such transfer under Section 721 of the Code. In the case of a transfer of property to a partnership, the Code and the Treasury Regulations provide that such transfer would be treated as having been made to an investment company if the transfer results in a diversification of the interests of two or more transferors, and the transferee is a partnership more than 80% of the value of whose assets are "stock and securities." For this purpose, the Code defines "stock and securities" to include the following: money; stocks and other equity investments in a corporation; evidences of indebtedness, options, forward or futures contracts, notional principal contracts and derivatives; foreign currency; certain interests in precious metals; interests in a regulated investment company or another REIT, common trust funds, and publicly traded partnerships; and other interests in noncorporate entities that are convertible into or exchangeable for any of the listed assets. The Treasury Regulations further provide that a transfer ordinarily will result in diversification for this purpose if two or more persons contribute non-identical assets. Although the transfers to the Operating Partnership will result in the diversification of the interests of the Partners, no significant portion of the Operating Partnership's assets will constitute "stock and securities" as defined heretofore. Accordingly, the transfers to the Operating Partnership will not constitute transfers to an "investment company," as defined in the current Treasury Regulations.

The tax consequences of the Mergers described above are based in part on the conclusion that the deemed contributions of the Partnership Interests to the Operating Partnership will not be treated as transfers to an investment company under Section 721 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations. The Operating Partnership, however, might not meet the IRS's guidelines for obtaining an advance ruling with respect to this issue. Revenue Procedure 98-3 states that the question of whether Section 721 of the Code applies to the contribution of widely held developed or undeveloped real property to a partnership in exchange for an interest in the partnership is an area under "extensive study" with respect to which the IRS will not issue rulings or determination letters when (i) the contribution is the result of solicitation by promoters, brokers or investment houses or (ii) the interest in the transferee partnership is issued in a form designed to render it readily tradable. The key terms used in this Revenue Procedure have not been defined and the IRS has not issued Treasury Regulations, proposed Treasury Regulations, rulings or other pronouncements with respect to such contributions. The IRS could take the position in the future that contributions of the sort described in the Revenue Procedure do not qualify for nonrecognition treatment under Section 721 of the Code, that such contributions should include the contributions of Partnership Interests to the Operating Partnership as part of the Mergers and that such conclusions should apply retroactively. It is by no means clear, however, that even if the IRS were to take such position, a court would sustain it.

If Section 721 of the Code were not to apply to the deemed contributions of Partnership Interests to the Operating Partnership, then such contributions would be treated as taxable exchanges for federal income tax purposes. Each Limited Partner would be treated as if he had sold, in a fully taxable transaction, his Partnership Interest to the Operating Partnership in exchange for an amount equal to (x) the value of the OP Units received and (y) the liabilities of the Partnership allocable to his Partnership Interest. Any gain or loss on such a sale would generally be treated as capital gain or loss under the Code. For a discussion of the treatment of capital gain and loss under the Code, see "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Disposition of OP Units by Limited Partners," below.

Section 465(e) Recapture. In general, the "at risk" rules of Section 465 of the Code limit the use of losses, see "--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Limitations on Deductibility of Losses," below. Under Section 465(e) of the Code, a taxpayer may be required to include in gross income (i.e., to "recapture") losses previously allowed to the taxpayer with respect to an "activity," if the amount for which the taxpayer is "at risk" in the activity is less than zero at the close of the taxable year.

The identification of a taxpayer's activities for purposes of the "at risk" rules and the determination of a taxpayer's amount at risk in an activity are complex and uncertain. However, as a general matter, a taxpayer's amount at risk in an activity is increased by the taxpayer's income, and reduced by the taxpayer's losses, from the activity. Therefore, any income taken into account by a Limited Partner as a result of a deemed cash distribution, disguised sale treatment or investment company treatment is likely to reduce the extent to which Section 465(e) of the Code would apply to that Limited Partner. In addition to the foregoing, a Limited Partner's amount at risk includes such Limited Partner's share of his Partnership's "qualified nonrecourse financing" (as defined in Section 465(b)(6) of the Code and as discussed in the next paragraph).

It is possible that the consummation of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion or the repayment of certain qualified nonrecourse financing of the Operating Partnership or the Hotel Partnerships at the time of or following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion could, singularly or in combination, cause a Limited Partner's amount at risk in relation to the OP Units received in the Mergers to be reduced below zero and could, therefore, cause an income inclusion to the Limited Partner under Section 465(e) of the Code. In this regard, the definition of "qualified nonrecourse financing" is different from, and more restrictive than, the definition of "nonrecourse liabilities" under Section 752 of the Code. Hence, it is possible that a Limited Partner could incur a reduction in his share of "qualified nonrecourse financing" that causes him to recognize income under Section 465(e) of the Code even though he has a sufficient share of "nonrecourse liabilities" under Section 752 of the Code so that he would not be deemed to have received a taxable deemed cash distribution in connection with the Mergers. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners believe, based upon and subject to the assumptions and other limitations described above in "--Assumptions Used in Determining the Tax Consequences of the Mergers," that a Limited Partner who acquired his Partnership Interest in the original offering by his Partnership of such Partnership Interests and has held the Partnership Interest at all times since will have a positive at risk amount immediately following the Mergers and the REIT Conversion. However, there can be no assurance that indebtedness incurred by the Operating Partnership in the future to refinance existing debt would qualify as "qualified nonrecourse financing" or that the repayment of obligations assumed by the Operating Partnership in connection with a refinancing of such obligations would not cause income inclusion to a Limited Partner under Section 465(e) of the Code. If, however, the Operating Partnership can obtain the requested ruling from the IRS described above (see "---IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities"), the Operating Partnership believes that most, if not all, of the indebtedness incurred by the Operating Partnership to refinance existing mortgage indebtedness of the Partnerships should constitute "qualified nonrecourse financing" for purposes of the "at risk" rules.

The "at risk" provisions of the Code generally do not apply to losses attributable to real property placed in service by the taxpayer prior to January 1, 1987, or to losses attributable to a partnership in which the taxpayer acquired its interests before that date. Pursuant to these guidelines, the "at risk" rules have not been applicable to date to those PHLP, MHP and Hanover Limited Partners who acquired their Partnership Interests at the time of the original offerings of the Partnership Interests in their Partnerships or at any time prior to January 1, 1987 and who have held those Partnership Interests since that time. These Limited Partners, however, will become subject to the "at risk" rules as a result of the Mergers and their receipt of OP Units in connection therewith (since the OP Units do not qualify for the "grandfather" rule).

Unit Redemption Right. The Partnership Agreement provides that, subject to certain limitations, a Limited Partner may, commencing one year after the consummation of the Mergers, upon notice to the Operating Partnership, require the Operating Partnership to redeem all or a portion of such Limited Partner's OP Units for an amount of cash equal to the deemed fair market value of such OP Units at the time of redemption (the "Redemption Amount"). See "Description of OP Units--Unit Redemption Right." The Redemption Amount shall equal the value on a defined valuation date of a number of Common Shares per OP Unit determined pursuant to a defined "conversion factor," which the Operating Partnership expects will be one. Thus, it is intended that the Redemption Amount will be determined by reference to a number of Common Shares equal to the number of OP Units being redeemed. In addition, Host REIT may, in its sole and absolute discretion, elect to assume and satisfy the Operating Partnership's redemption obligation by purchasing from a redeeming Limited Partner the OP Units that such Limited Partner wishes to redeem for an amount equal to the Redemption Amount, payable at the option of Host REIT in either Common Shares or cash. If Host REIT assumes the redemption obligation in the manner just described, the Partnership Agreement provides that the redemption will be treated by Host REIT, the Operating Partnership and the redeeming Limited Partner as a sale of OP Units by such Limited Partner to Host REIT at the time of such purchase. A Limited Partner's rights described in this paragraph are referred to as the "Unit Redemption Right."

Based upon certain representations of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT, Hogan & Hartson, counsel to Host REIT, has opined as follows with respect to the Unit Redemption Right: (1) the Unit Redemption Right will not be considered "other consideration" such that its receipt would result in a Limited Partner being treated under the Disguised Sale Regulations as having sold all or a portion of his Partnership Interest to the Operating Partnership in the Mergers; (2) a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right more than two years after the date of consummation of the Mergers will not cause the Mergers to constitute a taxable transaction for the Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners in the same Partnership); and (3) it is more likely than not that a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right more than one year after the date of consummation of the Mergers but less than two years after such date will not cause the Mergers to constitute a taxable transaction for the Limited Partner (or for the other Limited Partners in the same Partnership). As noted previously, however, an opinion of counsel does not bind the courts, and no assurance can be provided that such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

In the event the Disguised Sale Regulations were determined to apply to a Limited Partner who exercises his Unit Redemption Right, such Limited Partner would be treated as though he sold, in a fully taxable transaction, property to the Operating Partnership on the date of the consummation of the Mergers and received on such date an obligation of the Operating Partnership to transfer money or other consideration to him. Such disguised sale treatment might result in taxable gain being allocated only to the redeeming Limited Partner. If, however, the Mergers were recharacterized as partnership level transfers of Partnership assets as described below in "--Alternative Recharacterizations of the Mergers--Transfer of Partnership Assets," there could be no assurance that the IRS would not assert that any such gain is allocable to all partners who were partners in a Partnership with such redeeming Limited Partner on the date of consummation of the Mergers.

For a discussion of the expected federal income tax effects of a Limited Partner's exercise of his Unit Redemption Right (other than the effects of such exercise on the Mergers described in this section), see "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Tax Treatment of Exercise of Unit Redemption Right" below.

Impact of Partnership Anti-Abuse Regulations. The United States Treasury has issued a final regulation (the "Anti-Abuse Rule") under the partnership provisions of the Code (the "Partnership Provisions") that authorizes the IRS, in certain "abusive" transactions involving partnerships, to disregard the form of the transaction and recast it for federal tax purposes as the IRS deems appropriate. The Anti-Abuse Rule applies where a partnership is formed or utilized in connection with a transaction (or series of related transactions) with a principal purpose of substantially reducing the present value of the partners' aggregate federal tax liability in a manner inconsistent with the intent of the Partnership Provisions. The Anti-Abuse Rule states that the Partnership Provisions are intended to permit taxpayers to conduct joint business (including investment) activities through a flexible economic arrangement that accurately reflects the partners' economic agreement and clearly reflects the partners' income without incurring any entity-level tax. The purposes for structuring a transaction involving a partnership are determined based upon all of the facts and circumstances, including a comparison of the purported business purpose for a transaction and the claimed tax benefits resulting from the transaction. A reduction in the present value of the partner's aggregate federal tax liability through the use of a partnership does not, by itself, establish inconsistency with the intent of the Partnership Provisions.

The Anti-Abuse Rule contains an example in which a corporation that elects to be treated as a REIT contributes substantially all of the proceeds from a public offering to a partnership in exchange for a general partnership interest. The limited partners of the partnership contribute real property assets to the partnership, subject to liabilities that exceed their respective aggregate bases in such property. In addition, some of the limited partners have the right, beginning two years after the formation of the partnership, to require the redemption of their limited partnership interests in exchange for cash or REIT stock (at the REIT's option) equal to the fair market value of their respective interests in the partnership at the time of the redemption. The example concludes that the use of the partnership is not inconsistent with the intent of the Partnership Provisions and, thus, cannot be recast by the IRS.

Based upon the foregoing, Hogan & Hartson and Host REIT believe that the Anti-Abuse Rule will not have any adverse impact on either Host REIT's ability to qualify as a REIT, or the federal income tax consequences of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion with respect to the Limited Partners. However, the Unit Redemption Right does not conform in all respects to the redemption rights contained in the foregoing example. Moreover, the Anti-Abuse Rule is extraordinarily broad in scope and is applied based upon an analysis of all of the facts and circumstances. As a result, there can be no assurance that the IRS will not attempt to apply the Anti-Abuse Rule to the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. If the conditions of the Anti-Abuse Rule are met, the IRS is authorized to take appropriate enforcement action, including disregarding the Operating Partnership for federal income tax purposes or treating one or more of its partners as nonpartners (including, perhaps, as shareholders of Host REIT). If the Operating Partnership were ignored for federal income tax purposes, the Partnerships could be treated as receiving (and then distributing to the Limited Partners) Common Shares in the mergers of the Merger Partnerships into the Partnerships, instead of OP Units, which would be a fully taxable exchange for the Limited Partners.

Withholding. If a Limited Partner is not considered a U.S. resident for tax purposes, withholding (in an amount equal to 10% of the "amount realized" by such Limited Partner, which would include both the value of the OP Units received and such Limited Partner's share of the liabilities of his Partnership, as determined for federal income tax purposes) under the Foreign Investment in Real Property Tax Act of 1980 ("FIRPTA") may be required. As a condition to the receipt of OP Units in the Mergers, each Limited Partner who does not want to be subject to such withholding will have to provide to the Operating Partnership either a certification, made under penalties of perjury, that it is a United States citizen or resident (or if an entity, an entity organized under the laws of the United States) or, alternatively, a withholding certificate from the IRS providing that no withholding is required with respect to such Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers. A Limited Partner who is not a United States citizen or resident (or if an entity, not an entity organized under the laws of the United States) should consult with his U.S. tax advisor with respect to obtaining a withholding certificate from the IRS.

Alternative Recharacterizations of the Mergers. As described above, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners intend that the Mergers will be treated for federal income tax purposes as the transfer by the partners of their interests in the Partnerships to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units (which OP Units may be tendered to the Operating Partnership for Notes or to Host REIT in exchange for Common Shares, at the election of the Limited Partner), and the discussion herein assumes that the Mergers will be so treated. The IRS, however, may seek to recharacterize each Merger as either (i) the liquidation of a Partnership, followed by the distribution by the Partnership of its assets to its partners and the subsequent transfers by such partners of such assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units (which OP Units may be tendered for Notes or exchanged for Common Shares at the election of the Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers), or (ii) the transfer by a Partnership of its assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units and/or Notes (and/or, possibly, Common Shares) and the subsequent distribution of such OP Units and/or Notes (and/or, possibly, Common Shares) to its partners.

1. Liquidation of Partnerships. If each of the Mergers were treated as the liquidation of a Partnership followed by the distribution by the Partnership of its assets to its partners and the subsequent transfers by such partners of such assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units, the resulting tax consequences to a Limited Partner would be the same in all material respects as those described in "--Overview," above. Section 731 of the Code provides that a distribution by a partnership to a partner of property other than "money" (which would include a distribution of "marketable securities" in certain circumstances), does not result in taxable gain to the partner. A partner will recognize gain on a partnership distribution of money only to the extent that the money exceeds the partner's basis in his partnership interest. If the Partnerships are treated as having distributed their assets to their partners, the General Partners believe that any money (or marketable securities, where applicable) deemed distributed to a Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is equal to or greater than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for his Partnership Interest would not exceed such Limited Partner's basis in his Partnership Interest. Accordingly, Section 731 would generally apply to prevent the recognition of gain by such a Limited Partner upon the distribution to such Limited Partner of his share of the assets of the Partnership. (If a Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his Partnership is materially less than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for his Partnership, then such a Limited Partner might be required to recognize gain under Section 731 by reason of such a recharacterization.)

Pursuant to Section 732 of the Code, upon receipt of the liquidating distribution, the Limited Partner would take a basis in the assets received equal to his basis in his Partnership Interest. The contribution of such assets by such Limited Partner to the Operating Partnership would be treated under Section 721 of the Code in the same manner as the contributions by the Limited Partners of their Partnership Interests to the Operating Partnership described above in "--Overview." Accordingly, subject to the exceptions discussed above in "--Overview," Section 721 of the Code would generally apply to prevent the recognition of gain by a Limited Partner in the Mergers (i) who does not make the Note Election or the Common Share Election; (ii) who does not receive a cash distribution (or a deemed cash distribution resulting from relief from liabilities) that exceeds such Limited Partner's aggregate adjusted basis in his OP Units after the Mergers; and (iii) whose "at risk" amount does not go below zero as a result of the Mergers.

2. Transfer of Partnership Assets. The IRS also may seek to recharacterize each of the Mergers as the transfer by the Partnership of its assets to the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units (and possibly Notes, to the extent the Limited Partners in such Partnership make the Note Election, and/or Common Shares, to the extent the Limited Partners in that Partnership make the Common Share Election) and the subsequent distribution of such OP Units (and possibly Notes and/or Common Shares) to its partners. If the Mergers are treated for federal income tax purposes as partnership level transfers of Partnership assets to the Operating Partnership, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership intend to take the position that, in exchange for such assets, each Partnership would receive solely OP Units from the Operating Partnership, which the Partnership then would distribute to its partners. A Limited Partner who exercised his right to make the Note Election would then tender the OP Units to the Operating Partnership for a Note, while a Limited Partner who exercised his right to make the Common Share Election would then exchange his OP Units with Host REIT for Common Shares. For a discussion of the treatment of such Limited Partners, see "Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Exercise Their Right to Make the Common Share Election or the Note Election." If the partnership level transfer of assets were so treated, the Partnerships would not recognize gain on such transfers under Section 721 of the Code, and accordingly, the Limited Partners, subject to the exception discussed in "--Overview" above, would not recognize gain.

There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS would not assert that in exchange for its assets, each Partnership should be deemed to have received from the Operating Partnership a mixture of OP Units, Notes, and, possibly, Common Shares, to the extent the Limited Partners in such Partnership make the Note Election or the Common Share Election. If each Merger were to be treated as the exchange of the assets of a Partnership for a mixture of OP Units, Notes and/or Common Shares (to the extent that the Limited Partners of a Partnership made the Note Election and the Common Share Election), a Partnership would recognize gain equal to the difference between (x) the sum of the initial issue price (i.e., the face amount) of the Notes and/or the fair market value of the Common Shares that it would be deemed to have received from the Operating Partnership and (y) the adjusted basis of the portion of the assets considered transferred to the Operating Partnership for the Notes and the Common Shares. In that event, all Limited Partners in the Partnership would recognize their share of such gain, regardless of whether or not they exercised their right to make the Common Share Election or the Note Election. Hogan & Hartson is of the opinion, however, that although the matter is not entirely free from doubt, the Partnerships should not be treated as receiving from the Operating Partnership either the Common Shares or the Notes that are ultimately issued to the Limited Partners who exercise their right to make the Common Share Election or the Note Election. As noted previously, however, an opinion of counsel does not bind the courts, and no assurance can be provided that any such opinion will not be challenged by the IRS or will be sustained by a court if so challenged.

Under Section 731 of the Code, the deemed subsequent distribution of OP Units by each Partnership to its partners would not result in the recognition of gain by the Limited Partners, unless the distribution of the OP Units is treated as a distribution of "marketable securities" under Section 731(c) of the Code.

Section 731(c) of the Code provides that "money" includes marketable (actively traded) securities, which would include publicly traded REIT shares or equity interests in another entity that are readily convertible into or exchangeable for money or marketable securities. The Common Shares that can be issued to a Limited Partner upon the exercise of the Common Share Election or the Unit Redemption Right (and which in any event will determine the amount received by a Limited Partner upon such exercise) will be marketable securities. Accordingly, the OP Units might be considered "exchangeable for money or marketable securities" and therefore treated as "money" under Section 731(c). Regulations under Section 731(c) provide, however, that a distribution of a marketable security will not be treated as a distribution of "money" under Section 731(c) if (i) the security was acquired by the partnership in a nonrecognition transaction; (ii) the value of any marketable securities and money exchanged by the partnership (that is, by a Partnership) in the nonrecognition transaction was less than 20 percent of the value of all the assets exchanged in such transaction; and (iii) the partnership distributes the security within five years of the date the security was acquired by the partnership. The Operating Partnership and General Partners believe that, if the Mergers were characterized in this manner, the distributions of OP Units by the Partnerships would not be treated as distributions of "money" because the conditions described above will be satisfied. Hence, even if the Mergers were recharacterized in this manner, the Limited Partners should not be required to recognize gain under Section 731(c) of the Code on the deemed distributions by the Partnerships of the OP Units.

Effect of Subsequent Events. In addition to any gain that might be recognized by the Limited Partners at the time of the Mergers, a variety of future events and transactions could cause some or all of the Limited Partners holding OP Units to recognize part or all of the taxable gain that otherwise has been deferred through the Mergers, including, but not limited to, the following:

- (i) the sale or other taxable disposition of one or more of the individual Hotels (see "--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Sale of Individual Hotels" below);

- (ii) the reduction in the amount of existing nonrecourse liabilities secured by one or more of the individual Hotels as a result of a refinancing or repayment thereof, or any other refinancing or repayment of nonrecourse liabilities with the proceeds of public or private debt financing obtained by the Operating Partnership, which debt financing is not secured by individual assets of the Operating Partnership or is secured by assets of the Operating Partnership other than those that were owned by a Partnership immediately prior to the Mergers (except to the extent covered by the ruling from the IRS that the Operating Partnership is seeking, as described in "IRS Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities" above) (see "--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Refinancing of the Indebtedness Secured by Individual Hotels" below);

(iii) the issuance of additional OP Units, including in connection with either the issuance of Common Shares or other equity interests by Host REIT or the acquisition of additional properties by the Operating Partnership in exchange for OP Units or other equity interests in the Operating Partnership;

(iv) an increase to the tax basis of the Hotels resulting from capital expenditures;

(v) the elimination over time of the disparity between the current tax basis of the Hotels and the "book basis" of the Hotels based upon their fair market values at the time of the Mergers (see "--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Tax Allocations with Respect to BookTax Difference on Contributed Hotels" below), which could have the effect of reducing the amount of indebtedness allocable to the Limited Partners for basis purposes and therefore can result in deemed cash distributions; and

(vi) with respect to the MHP Limited Partners only, possibly, the transfer of MHP's interest in the Harbor Beach Resort to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary in connection with the REIT Conversion (in the event that certain third-party consents to the MHP Merger and the REIT Conversion are not obtained).

In addition, Limited Partners can expect that the aggregate adjusted tax basis in their OP Units following the Mergers will be substantially lower following the Mergers than such Limited Partners' aggregate adjusted basis in their Partnership Interests immediately before the Mergers. See "--Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers--Initial Tax Basis of OP Units" below. The Limited Partners of Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP and PHLP can expect to receive taxable distributions of cash and taxable deemed cash distributions resulting from the reduction of their share of Operating Partnership and Partnership nonrecourse liabilities sooner than would have been the case if the Mergers had not occurred. See "--Relief From Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distributions" above.

Certain Hotels (including all of the Blackstone Hotels) will be covered by agreements with third parties that will restrict the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of those properties or refinance their debt. In addition, if Atlanta Marquis chooses to participate in the Mergers, the Operating Partnership will succeed to an existing agreement that will restrict its ability to dispose of the Hotel owned by Atlanta Marquis or refinance the indebtedness secured by such Hotel without compensating certain outside partners for the resulting adverse tax consequences. As for the remaining properties (including all of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships), the Partnership Agreement does not impose any restrictions on the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of the Hotels or to refinance debt secured by the Hotels (or to direct that the Partnerships engage in such transactions). In addition, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, is not required to take into account the tax consequences to the limited partners in deciding whether to cause the Operating Partnership to undertake specific transactions, and such limited partners have no right to approve or disapprove such transactions. See "Description of OP Units--Sales of Assets."

TAX TREATMENT OF LIMITED PARTNERS WHO EXERCISE THEIR RIGHT TO MAKE THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION OR THE NOTE ELECTION

A Limited Partner who exercises his right to make the Common Share Election or the Note Election and receives Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units in connection with the Mergers will be treated as having received OP Units in the Mergers and having made a fully taxable disposition of such OP Units, which likely would be deemed to occur (i) with regard to a Limited Partner who makes the Common Share Election, at the time his right to receive the Common Shares becomes fixed (which would be January 22, 1999, if the Effective Date of the Merger is December 30, 1998), and (ii) with regard to a Limited Partner who makes the Note Election, on the Effective Date of the Mergers (which currently is expected to be December 30, 1998). The amount realized in connection with such disposition made pursuant to the exercise of the Common Share Election will equal the sum of the fair market value of the Common Shares received plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes immediately prior to the disposition of such OP Units. The amount realized in connection with such disposition made pursuant to the exercise of the Note Election will equal the sum of the "issue price" of the Note (i.e., the face amount of the Note) plus the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities allocable to the Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes immediately prior to the disposition of such OP Units. To the extent the applicable amount realized exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his OP Units, the Limited Partner will recognize gain. If a Limited Partner has a "negative capital account" with respect to his Partnership Interest (i.e., the Limited Partner's share of Partnership liabilities exceeds his adjusted tax basis in his Partnership Interest immediately prior to the Mergers), the income recognized would exceed the value of the Common Shares or the face amount of the Note by the amount of his "negative capital account." For a discussion of the federal income tax rates applicable to the net capital gain from the sale of a capital asset, see "-- Tax Treatment of Limited Partners Who Hold OP Units Following the Mergers-- Disposition of OP Units by Limited Partners."

A Limited Partner who exercises his right to make the Note Election may be eligible to defer at least a portion of that gain under the "installment sale" rules until principal on the Note is paid. Those rules, however, may not permit the Limited Partner to defer all of the gain, and to the extent that the face amount of the Note outstanding at the end of the taxable year (plus any other installment obligations received by the Limited Partner during the year) exceeds $5,000,000, will require that the Limited Partner who defers gain pay to the IRS interest on the resulting tax that has been deferred. The Limited Partner, for instance, will not be eligible to defer gain to the extent that such gain would be taxed as ordinary income under the depreciation recapture provisions of the Code. In addition, if the Limited Partner has a "negative capital account" for tax purposes, the Limited Partner will not be eligible to defer that amount of gain recognized upon the receipt of the Note (and, thus, a Limited Partner who has a "negative capital account" and makes the Note Election will recognize "phantom income" to the extent of that "negative capital account"). Lastly, if a Limited Partner disposes of his Note, any gain that had been deferred would be recognized in the year of disposition.

The gain, if any, required to be recognized by a Limited Partner in connection with the Note Election or the Common Share Election can be offset by unused passive activity losses from his Partnership and other investments. For purposes of determining the gain recognized by a Limited Partner as a result of making the Note Election or the Common Share Election, an Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis will reflect such Limited Partner's share of the syndication costs incurred by his Partnership at formation.

THE SPECIFIC TAX ATTRIBUTES OF A PARTICULAR LIMITED PARTNER WHO EXERCISES HIS RIGHT TO MAKE THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION OR THE NOTE ELECTION COULD HAVE A MATERIAL IMPACT ON THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGERS (INCLUDING THE DECISION WHETHER TO EXERCISE THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION OR THE NOTE ELECTION) AND THE SUBSEQUENT OWNERSHIP AND DISPOSITION OF COMMON SHARES OR NOTES. THEREFORE, IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT EACH LIMITED PARTNER CONSIDERING MAKING THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION OR THE NOTE ELECTION CONSULT WITH HIS OWN TAX ADVISORS WITH REGARD TO THE APPLICATION OF THE FEDERAL INCOME TAX LAWS TO SUCH PARTNER'S RESPECTIVE PERSONAL TAX SITUATION, AS WELL AS ANY TAX CONSEQUENCES ARISING UNDER THE LAWS OF ANY STATE, LOCAL OR FOREIGN TAXING JURISDICTION.

TAX TREATMENT OF LIMITED PARTNERS WHO HOLD OP UNITS FOLLOWING THE MERGERS

Income and Deductions in General. Each Limited Partner that holds OP Units following the Mergers will be required to report on his income tax return his allocable share of income, gains, losses, deductions and credits of the Operating Partnership. Such items must be included on the Limited Partner's federal income tax return without regard to whether the Operating Partnership makes a distribution of cash or other assets to the Limited Partner. No federal income tax will be payable by the Operating Partnership.

Treatment of Operating Partnership Distributions. Distributions of money (including, for such purposes, deemed distributions resulting from decreases in a Limited Partner's share of Operating Partnership liabilities) by the Operating Partnership to a Limited Partner generally will not be taxable to such Limited Partner for federal income tax purposes to the extent of the Limited Partner's aggregate basis in his OP Units immediately before the distribution. Distributions of money in excess of such basis generally will be considered to be gain in the amount of such excess, a portion of which may be ordinary income. As discussed above (see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution"), any reduction in a Limited Partner's share of the Operating Partnership's nonrecourse liabilities, either through repayment, refinancing with recourse liabilities, refinancing with nonrecourse liabilities secured by the other Hotels or otherwise, will be treated as a distribution of money to such Limited Partner. An issuance of additional OP Units by the Operating Partnership without a corresponding increase in debt, which causes a decline in the overall debt to market capitalization ratio of the Operating Partnership, will also decrease the existing Limited Partners' share of nonrecourse liabilities of the Operating Partnership thus resulting in a corresponding deemed distribution of money.

A non-pro rata distribution of money or property may result in ordinary income to a Limited Partner, regardless of his basis in his OP Units, if such distribution reduces the Limited Partner's share of the Operating Partnership's "unrealized receivables" (including depreciation recapture) and/or "substantially appreciated inventory items" (both as defined in Section 751 of the Code) (collectively, "Section 751 Assets"). To that extent, the Limited Partner will be treated as having received a distribution of his proportionate share of the Section 751 Assets and having exchanged such assets with the Operating Partnership in return for a portion of the actual distribution made equal to the fair market value of his proportionate share of the Section 751 Assets. This latter deemed exchange will generally result in the Limited Partner's realization of ordinary income under Section 751(b) of the Code. Such income will equal the excess of (i) the portion of such distribution deemed received in exchange for his proportionate share of the Section 751 Assets over (ii) the Limited Partner's basis in the share of such Section 751 Assets deemed relinquished in the exchange. Although the Operating Partnership does not currently expect to make an actual non-pro rata distribution of money or property, a deemed distribution of money resulting in connection with the Mergers and the REIT Conversion or upon the Operating Partnership's subsequent issuance of additional OP Units (as a result of a reduction in nonrecourse liabilities or the shifting of nonrecourse liabilities from existing partners to new partners or Host REIT) would constitute a non-pro rata distribution for purposes of Section 751(b).

The IRS has ruled that the change in an existing partner's share of Section 751 Assets that would normally occur upon such an issuance, when coupled with such deemed distribution of money, will cause the application of Section 751(b) of the Code. The Partnership Agreement provides, however, that recapture income will be allocated, to the extent possible, to the partners of the Operating Partnership who were allocated the deductions giving rise to the treatment of gain as recapture income (including by reason of any deductions previously allocated to the Limited Partners as holders of Partnership Interests). Such allocations, if respected, along with allocations in accordance with Section 704(c) principles, should minimize the risk of recognition of ordinary income under Section 751(b) of the Code upon an Operating Partnership offering of additional interests. The IRS may contend, however, that such a deemed exchange of Section 751 Assets has occurred and, therefore, that ordinary income must be realized under Section 751(b) of the Code by partners whose percentage interests in the Operating Partnership have decreased due to such offering of additional interests.

Initial Tax Basis of OP Units. In general, a Limited Partner will have an initial tax basis in his OP Units received in the Mergers ("Initial Basis") equal to the aggregate basis in his Partnership Interest, adjusted as set forth below to reflect the effects of the Mergers (that is, reduced to reflect any deemed cash distribution resulting from a reduction in the Limited Partner's share of Partnership liabilities and increased to reflect any income or gain required to be recognized in connection with the Mergers (including income attributable to the sale of personal property by certain Partnerships in connection with the REIT Conversion)).

If a Limited Partner's share of nonrecourse liabilities decreases as a result of the Mergers (see "--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution"), such Limited Partner may have an Initial Basis in his OP Units that is significantly lower than the basis in his Partnership Interest immediately before the Mergers. A Limited Partner whose basis is so reduced can expect to receive taxable distributions of cash and taxable deemed distributions of cash resulting from a reduction of such Limited Partner's share of Operating Partnership nonrecourse liabilities sooner than he would have if such basis reduction had not occurred. Such basis reduction also will affect the Limited Partner's ability to deduct his share of any Operating Partnership tax losses. For the effect on a Limited Partner of a reduction in basis that may result from the Mergers, see "--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution" and "--Treatment of Operating Partnership Distributions" above and "--Limitations on Deductibility of Losses" below.

A Limited Partner's Initial Basis in his OP Units generally will be increased by any capital contributions made by the Limited Partner to the Operating Partnership and by the Limited Partner's share of (a) Operating Partnership taxable income and (b) subsequent increases in nonrecourse liabilities incurred by the Operating Partnership, if any. Generally, a Limited Partner's Initial Basis in his OP Units will be decreased (but not below zero) by his share of (i) Operating Partnership distributions, (ii) subsequent decreases in liabilities of the Operating Partnership, including any decrease in his share of nonrecourse liabilities of the Operating Partnership (see "--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution"), (iii) losses of the Operating Partnership and (iv) nondeductible expenditures of the Operating Partnership that are not chargeable to capital.

Allocations of Operating Partnership Income, Gain, Loss and Deduction. The Partnership Agreement provides that if the Operating Partnership operates at a net loss, net losses shall be allocated to Host REIT and the limited partners in proportion to their respective percentage ownership interests in the Operating Partnership, provided that net losses that would have the effect of creating a deficit balance in a limited partner's capital account (as specially adjusted for such purpose) ("Excess Losses") will be reallocated to Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership. The Partnership Agreement also provides that, if the Operating Partnership operates at a net profit, net income shall be allocated first to Host REIT to the extent of Excess Losses with respect to which Host REIT has not previously been allocated net income and any remaining net income shall be allocated in proportion to the respective percentage ownership interests of Host REIT and the limited partners. Finally, the Partnership Agreement provides that if the Operating Partnership has preferred units outstanding, income will first be allocated to such preferred units to the extent necessary to reflect and preserve the economic rights associated with such preferred units.

Under Section 704(b) of the Code, a partnership's allocation of any item of income, gain, loss or deduction to a partner will be given effect for federal income tax purposes so long as it has "substantial economic effect," or is otherwise in accordance with the "partner's interest in the partnership." If an allocation of an item does not satisfy this standard, it will be reallocated among the partners on the basis of their respective interests in the partnership, taking into account all facts and circumstances. The Operating Partnership believes that the allocations of items of income, gain, loss and deduction under the Partnership Agreement, as described above, will be considered to have substantial economic effect under the applicable Treasury Regulations.

Tax Allocations with Respect to Book-Tax Difference on Contributed Hotels.
Pursuant to Section 704(c) of the Code, income, gain, loss and deduction attributable to appreciated or depreciated property that is contributed to a partnership must be allocated for federal income tax purposes in a manner such that the contributor is charged with, or benefits from, the unrealized gain or unrealized loss associated with the property at the time of contribution. The amount of such unrealized gain or unrealized loss is generally equal to the difference between the fair market value of the contributed property and the adjusted tax basis of such property at the time of contribution (referred to as "Book-Tax Difference"). It is anticipated that, at the time of the Mergers, there will exist a substantial amount of Book-Tax Difference with respect to each of the Hotels. Because of prior depreciation deductions, this will be the case even if a particular Hotel has not appreciated in value in economic terms.

The Partnership Agreement requires allocations of income, gain, loss and deduction attributable to the Hotels with respect to which there is a Book-Tax Difference be made in a manner that is consistent with Section 704(c) of the Code. The Partnership Agreement provides Host REIT, as general partner, with substantial latitude in determining how to apply the Section 704(c) requirements to the Operating Partnership. Host REIT generally intends to use the "traditional method" described in the Treasury Regulations under Section 704(c), with a provision for a curative allocation of gain on sale to the extent prior allocations of depreciation with respect to a specific Hotel were limited by the "ceiling rule" applicable under the traditional method (although there may be certain exceptions). Under the traditional method, in the case of a Hotel with respect to which there is a Book-Tax Difference, a Limited Partner who was a Limited Partner in the Partnership that is deemed to have contributed such Hotel will be allocated less depreciation (or perhaps no depreciation) with respect to such Hotel (and thus more taxable income) than would be the case if the Mergers had not occurred and the Limited Partner continued to hold his Partnership Interest. For such Limited Partner, these incremental allocations of income should be offset, at least in part, by depreciation deductions allocable to such Limited Partner with respect to (i) the Hotels held by the Operating Partnership through its ownership interests in Hotel Partnerships in which the Limited Partner was not a limited partner prior to the Mergers and (ii) the Hotels contributed by Host and the Blackstone Entities in connection with the Mergers. Nevertheless, it is possible that, as a result of these various allocations, the income allocable to a Limited Partner from the Operating Partnership (and, possibly, in the case of Limited Partners from some Partnerships, the resulting tax liability attributable to such income) could equal or exceed, perhaps by a substantial amount, the actual cash distributions to be received by the Limited Partner from the Operating Partnership.

In light of the complexity of the governing rules affecting the calculation and allocation of depreciation with respect to properties contributed to a partnership, particularly when a number of those properties are subject to the separate adjustments required in connection with a technical termination under Section 708 of the Code, the number of Hotels that the Operating Partnership will be acquiring in connection with the Mergers, the Blackstone Acquisition and the REIT Conversion and the impact on these calculations of other outside events, including equity offerings by Host or Host REIT and other acquisitions undertaken by Host, Host REIT or the Operating Partnership prior to or in connection with the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership and the General Partners believe that it is impossible to predict with any degree of precision the impact that the Mergers and the REIT Conversion will have on the future depreciation allocable by the Operating Partnership to the Limited Partners who participate in the Mergers.

If a Hotel with a Book-Tax Difference is sold, any Book-Tax Difference remaining at the time the Hotel is sold would be required to be allocated exclusively to the partners who were partners in the Partnership that owned that Hotel, even though the proceeds of such sale would be allocated proportionately among all the partners in the Operating Partnership (and likely would be retained by the Operating Partnership, rather than distributed to holders of OP Units and Common Shares of Host REIT). Under the "traditional method" of allocation that will be used by the Operating Partnership, however, the gain required to be specially allocated under these rules would generally not exceed the gain that is actually recognized by the Partnership on the sale and allocated to the Operating Partnership (although the Partnership Agreement provides that the Operating Partnership may make a curative allocation of gain on sale to the extent prior allocations of depreciation with respect to a specific Partnership Hotel were limited by the "ceiling rule" applicable under the traditional method, which may cause the gain allocated to the former partners of a Partnership that sells a Hotel after the Mergers to exceed the gain actually recognized by the Partnership and allocated to the Operating Partnership). For a discussion of the impact to the Limited Partners of the Book-Tax Difference from a sale of a Hotel, see "---Sale of Individual Hotels" below.

The Partnership Agreement also requires that any gain allocated to the Limited Partners (i) upon the sale or other taxable disposition of any Operating Partnership asset or (ii) due to the allocation of gain to the Operating Partnership from its interest in a Partnership, shall, to the extent possible, and after taking into account other required allocations of gain pursuant to the Partnership Agreement, be characterized as recapture income in the same proportions and to the same extent that such Limited Partners have been allocated any deductions directly or indirectly giving rise to the treatment of such gains as recapture income (including by reason of any deductions previously allocated to them as holders of Partnership Interests).

Sale of Individual Hotels. The current value of each of the Hotels exceeds its adjusted basis by a significant amount. Therefore, the Hotels owned by the Partnerships have significant Book-Tax Differences. In the event Host REIT were to cause a Partnership to sell a Hotel, the former Partners in that Partnership who hold OP Units would be specially allocated by the Operating Partnership an amount of taxable gain equal to the Hotel's Book-Tax Difference at the time of the sale, which will equal the Book-Tax Difference at the time of the Mergers, adjusted as described above in "Tax Allocations with Respect to Book-Tax Difference on Contributed Hotels." This special allocation will be made to the former Limited Partners in that Partnership in accordance with the manner in which gain would have been allocated under the applicable partnership agreement if the Partnership had sold all of its assets at the time of the Mergers for an amount equal to the aggregate Appraised Value of its Hotels. Such former Limited Partners would report the additional gain on their individual federal income tax returns. In addition, such former Limited Partners would not be entitled to any special distributions from the Operating Partnership in connection with such a sale, and thus they would not necessarily receive cash distributions from the Operating Partnership sufficient to pay such additional taxes. Although certain Hotels (including all of the Blackstone Hotels and the Hotel owned by Atlanta Marquis) will be covered by agreements with third parties that will restrict the Operating Partnership's ability to dispose of those properties, the Partnership Agreement does not impose any restriction upon the Operating Partnership's ability to cause a Partnership to sell any of the individual Hotels owned by the Partnerships. If a former Limited Partner is required to recognize gain from the sale of a Hotel, however, such a Limited Partner with passive losses or passive loss carryforwards may be able to use such losses to offset such gain, unless the Operating Partnership is treated as a publicly traded partnership for federal income tax purposes. See "--Tax Status of the Operating Partnership" above.

The estimated Book-Tax Difference per Partnership Unit with respect to the Hotels owned by each of the Partnerships (computed assuming that the value of the OP Units received in the Mergers equals, but does not exceed, the Exchange Value of each Partnership) is set forth below. The amount of the Book-Tax Difference could be substantially different for a Limited Partner in a Partnership who acquired his Partnership Interest subsequent to the formation of such Partnership.

Refinancing of the Indebtedness Secured by Individual Hotels. As described above under "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution," Host REIT does not expect that a participating Limited Partner whose adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is equal to or greater than the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for his Partnership Interest would recognize taxable gain at the time of the Mergers as a result of relief from liabilities resulting in a taxable deemed distribution in connection with the Mergers (based upon the assumptions set forth under the caption "--Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers" above). However, there can be no assurance that any future refinancing of the indebtedness securing the Hotels would not result in a reduction of the liabilities allocated to the Limited Partners, thus resulting in a taxable deemed distribution. Although certain Hotels will be covered by agreements with third parties which will restrict the Operating Partnership's ability to refinance the indebtedness encumbering those Hotels, the Partnership Agreement does not impose any restriction on the Operating Partnership's ability to refinance (or cause a Partnership to refinance) the indebtedness secured by any of the Hotels owned by the Partnership. Except as described herein, the Operating Partnership has no present plan to prepay any of the indebtedness secured by the Hotels owned by the Partnerships (other than with the proceeds of indebtedness that would be considered nonrecourse liabilities allocable to those Hotels). The Operating Partnership, however, will have to repay mortgage indebtedness securing the Hotels owned by the Partnerships at the time such indebtedness matures. There can be no assurance that, at such time, the Operating Partnership will be able to obtain nonrecourse mortgage indebtedness secured only by those Hotels in an amount sufficient to avoid a deemed cash distribution to the former Limited Partners in that Partnership. (These considerations are particularly relevant with respect to the PHLP Limited Partners, where the existing mortgage indebtedness, which matures in December 1999, will need to be refinanced within one year following the Mergers.) Moreover, it is important to note that the Operating Partnership's current long-term financing strategy is to have as little debt as possible that is secured by individual Hotels and to have as much of its debt as is possible in the form of unsecured debt, held either by the public or by institutional investors, which debt may or may not be recourse to Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership. Depending upon its terms, such debt may not qualify as either "nonrecourse liabilities" for purposes of the rules under Section 752 of the Code (see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution") or as "qualified nonrecourse financing" for purposes of the "at risk" rules (see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Section 465(e) Recapture"). As described above (see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers IRS--Ruling Request Regarding Allocation of Partnership Liabilities"), the Operating Partnership has requested from the IRS a ruling to the effect that such unsecured indebtedness of the Operating Partnership that is issued initially to institutional investors and is not recourse to Host REIT (i) would qualify as "nonrecourse liabilities" for purposes of Code Section 752, (ii) to the extent the proceeds thereof are applied to repay existing nonrecourse mortgage indebtedness secured by one or more Hotels, would be considered to be "secured" by those Hotels for purposes of computing the Section 704(c) Minimum Gain with respect to such Hotels (and thus would be allocable under "tier two" to the former Limited Partners in the Partnership owning those Hotels), and (iii) would constitute "qualified nonrecourse financing" secured by such Hotels for purposes of Code Section 465.

Generally, the maximum amount of gain that a Limited Partner could recognize as a result of a reduction in nonrecourse liabilities is (i) the amount by which his share of the liabilities of his Partnership (determined as set forth in "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution") immediately prior to the Mergers exceeds his adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest immediately prior to the Mergers (which amount generally should be reflected as a "negative capital account" with respect to the Partnership Interest held at the time of the Mergers), plus (ii) actual cash distributions received with respect to OP Units subsequent to the Mergers to the extent such cash distributions exceed the net taxable income allocated to the Limited Partner with respect to the OP Units. The table below sets forth the estimated "capital accounts" for the Limited Partners in each of the Partnerships (per Partnership Unit) as of the time of the Mergers (computed assuming that each Limited Partner's adjusted basis in his Partnership Interest is the same as the Original Limited Partner's Adjusted Basis for his Partnership, as described under "--Assumptions Used in Determining Tax Consequences of the Mergers" above).

Dissolution of the Operating Partnership. In the event of the dissolution of the Operating Partnership, see "Description of OP Units--Dissolution, Winding Up and Termination" above, a distribution of Operating Partnership property (other than money) will not result in taxable gain to a holder of OP Units (except to the extent provided in Sections 737, 704(c)(1)(B) and 731(c) of the Code), and a Limited Partner that holds OP Units at the time of the dissolution will hold such distributed property with a basis equal to the adjusted basis of his OP Units, reduced by any money distributed in liquidation. The liquidation of the Operating Partnership, however, will be taxable to a Limited Partner that holds OP Units to the extent that any money distributed in liquidation (including any money deemed distributed as a result of relief from liabilities) exceeds such Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in his OP Units. If Host REIT were to issue to Limited Partners Common Shares of Host REIT upon dissolution of the Operating Partnership, a Limited Partner likely would be treated as if he had exchanged his OP Units for such Common Shares and would recognize gain or loss as if such OP Units were sold in a fully taxable exchange. See " --Tax Treatment of Exercise of Unit Redemption Right" below.

Limitations on Deductibility of Losses; Treatment of Passive Activity and Portfolio Income. The passive loss limitations generally provide that individuals, estates, trusts and certain closely held corporations and personal service corporations can only deduct losses from passive activities (generally activities in which the taxpayer does not materially participate, which would include the investment in the Operating Partnership for Limited Partners) to the extent that such losses are not in excess of the taxpayer's income from passive activities or investments. A Limited Partner will be able to offset losses from other passive activities (including the Partnerships) against income from the Operating Partnership that is considered passive income (but not portfolio income) so long as the Operating Partnership is not treated as a publicly traded partnership. The Operating Partnership and the General Partners believe, however, that there is a substantial risk that the Operating Partnership will be treated as a publicly traded partnership for purposes of the passive loss rules. See " --Tax Status of the Operating Partnership" above. In the event that the Operating Partnership is classified as a publicly traded partnership, any losses or deductions of the Operating Partnership allocable to a Limited Partner could not be used to offset passive income from other passive activities. Similarly, losses from other passive activities (including losses attributable to the Partnerships for periods prior to the Mergers) could not be applied to offset income of the Operating Partnership allocated to a Limited Partner. It is estimated that each Limited Partner in Atlanta Marquis, Chicago Suites, Desert Springs, MDAH and MHP who purchased his Partnership Interest at the time of the original offering of such Interests, has held such Partnership Interest continuously since that time and whose Partnership Interest has been his only investment in a passive activity would have a passive activity loss carryforward as of December 31, 1998.

In addition to the foregoing limitations, a Limited Partner who holds OP Units may not deduct from taxable income his share of Operating Partnership losses, if any, to the extent that such losses exceed the lesser of (i) the adjusted tax basis of his OP Units at the end of the Operating Partnership's taxable year in which the loss occurs and (ii) the amount for which such holder is considered "at risk" at the end of that year. In general, a Limited Partner will initially be "at risk" to the extent of the basis in his OP Units (unless he borrowed amounts on a nonrecourse basis to acquire or carry his Partnership Interest), including for such purpose only such Limited Partner's share of the Operating Partnership's liabilities, as determined under Section 752 of the Code, that are considered "qualified nonrecourse financing" for purposes of the "at risk" rules. The Operating Partnership believes that the existing debt secured by the Hotels (to the extent not guaranteed by or loaned by Host or one of the General Partners and excluding, for these purposes, the existing debt secured by the Hotels contributed by the Blackstone Entities) will constitute qualified nonrecourse financing for this purpose, but there can be no assurance that the IRS might not contend otherwise. There can be no assurance that debt incurred by the Operating Partnership in the future to refinance existing debt would be considered qualified nonrecourse financing. After consummation of the Mergers, in general, a Limited Partner's "at risk" amount will increase or decrease as the adjusted basis in his OP Units increases or decreases. Losses disallowed to a holder of OP Units as a result of these rules can be carried forward and may be allowable to such holder to the extent that his adjusted basis or "at risk" amount (whichever was the limiting factor) is increased in a subsequent year. The "at risk" rules apply to an individual partner, an individual shareholder of a corporate partner that is an S corporation and a corporate partner if fifty percent (50%) or more of the value of stock of such corporate partner is owned directly or indirectly by five or fewer individuals at any time during the last half of the taxable year.

The "at risk" provisions of the Code generally do not apply to losses attributable to real property placed in service prior to January 1, 1987, by the taxpayer or to losses attributable to a partnership in which the taxpayer acquired its interests before that date. Pursuant to these rules, the "at risk" rules have not been applicable to date to those Hanover, MHP and PHLP Limited Partners who acquired their Partnership Interests at the time of the original offerings of the Interests in their Partnerships and who have held those Partnership Interests since that time. These Limited Partners, however, will become subject to the "at risk" rules as a result of the Mergers and their receipt of OP Units in connection therewith (since the OP Units do not qualify for the "grandfather" rule).

Section 754 Election. The Operating Partnership will make the election permitted by Section 754 of the Code effective for its first taxable year commencing immediately after the REIT Conversion. It is irrevocable unless the consent of the IRS is obtained. The election will generally permit a purchaser of OP Units in 1999 or thereafter, such as Host REIT when it acquires OP Units from Limited Partners upon a redemption of OP Units (or pursuant to the Common Share Election), to adjust its share of the basis in the Operating Partnership's properties ("inside basis") pursuant to Section 743(b) of the Code to fair market value (as reflected by the value of consideration paid for the OP Units), as if such purchaser had acquired a direct interest in the Operating Partnership's assets. The Section 743(b) adjustment is attributed solely to a purchaser of OP Units and is not added to the bases of the Operating Partnership's assets associated with all of the holders of OP Units in the Operating Partnership. An acquirer of OP Units (such as Host REIT when it acquires OP Units from Limited Partners upon a redemption of OP Units or pursuant to the Common Share Election) that obtains a Section 743(b) adjustment by reason of such acquisition will be allowed depreciation with respect to such adjustment beginning as of the date of the exchange as if the adjustment were new property placed in service as of that date. A similar basis adjustment would be permitted for the Operating Partnership when there is a distribution or a deemed distribution to a holder of OP Units that results in the recognition of gain to such holder of OP Units.

Effect of the Mergers on Depreciation. Under Section 708(b)(1)(B) of the Code, a partnership will be considered to have been terminated if, within a twelve-month period, there is a sale or exchange of 50% or more of the interests in partnership capital and profits. As a result of the Mergers, four of the Partnerships, Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, MHP and PHLP, will terminate for federal income tax purposes under Section 708(b)(1)(B) of the Code. The Operating Partnership will take certain steps intended to prevent such a termination of the remaining four partnerships, Chicago Suites, Hanover, MDAH and MHP2, but there can be no assurance that the IRS will not determine that such partnerships did not experience a termination as a result of the Mergers. Section 168(i)(7) of the Code provides, in effect, that when a partnership terminates under Section 708(b)(1)(B) of the Code, the partnership must begin new depreciation periods for its property. As a result, the remaining bases of the Hotels owned by the Partnerships acquired by the Operating Partnership in the Mergers that terminate for federal income tax purposes will be depreciated over 39 years, rather than over the remaining current life of those Hotels (which range from less than one year to 39 years). The Partnerships are presently depreciating such remaining bases over shorter, in some cases significantly shorter, periods of time. Thus, the Mergers will adversely affect the computation of depreciation deductions with respect to the Hotels owned by the Participating Partnerships that terminate for federal income tax purposes (as well as certain other Private Partnerships in which the Operating Partnership will acquire an interest in connection with the REIT Conversion), as compared to the computation of depreciation deductions with respect to the Hotels owned by such Partnerships prior to the Mergers. The effect upon the depreciation deductions to be taken with respect to the Hotels held by each such terminating Partnership will (in a majority, but not in all, of the cases) be significant.

Disposition of OP Units by Limited Partners. If OP Units are sold or otherwise disposed of, the determination of gain or loss from the sale or other disposition will be based upon the difference between the amount realized and the tax basis for such OP Units. See "--Initial Tax Basis of OP Units" above. Upon the sale of OP Units, the "amount realized" will be measured by (i) the sum of the cash and fair market value of other property received for the OP Units plus (ii) the portion of the Operating Partnership's liabilities considered allocable to the OP Units sold. Similarly, upon a gift of OP Units, a Limited Partner will be deemed to have received cash equal to the portion of the Operating Partnership's nonrecourse liabilities considered allocable to such OP Units. To the extent that the amount of cash or property received plus the allocable share of the Operating Partnership's nonrecourse liabilities exceeds the Limited Partner's basis for the OP Units, such Limited Partner will recognize gain. The tax liability resulting from such gain could exceed the amount of cash received upon such disposition.

Such gain will be capital gain if the OP Units have been held by the Limited Partner as a capital asset. However, to the extent that the amount realized upon the sale of OP Units attributable to a partner's share of the Operating Partnership's inventory items and/or "unrealized receivables" (as defined in Section 751 of the Code) exceeds the basis attributable to those assets, such excess will be treated as ordinary income. Unrealized receivables include, to the extent not previously includible in Operating Partnership income, any rights to payment for services rendered or to be rendered. Unrealized receivables also include amounts that would be subject to recapture as ordinary income if the Operating Partnership had sold its assets at their fair market value at the time of the transfer of the OP Units, such as "depreciation recapture" under Sections 1245 and 1250 of the Code.

For corporations, the maximum rate of tax on the net capital gain from a sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than twelve months is currently 35%. The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 (the "1997 Act") altered the taxation of capital gain income for non-corporate taxpayers. Pursuant to the 1997 Act, for individuals, trusts and estates, the maximum rate of tax on the net capital gain from a sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than 18 months is currently 20% and the maximum rate for capital assets held for more than one year but not more than 18 months is currently 28%. In addition, the maximum rate for net capital gains attributable to the sale of depreciable real property held for more than 18 months is currently 25% (rather than 20%) to the extent of the prior deductions for "unrecaptured Section 1250 gain" (that is, previously claimed depreciation deductions that would not be recaptured as ordinary income). The 1997 Act also provides special rules for "qualified 5-year gain" and other changes to prior law. The recently enacted Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (the "IRS Restructuring Act"), however, reduced the holding period requirement established by the 1997 Act for the application of the 20% and 25% capital gain tax rates to 12 months from 18 months for sales of capital gain assets after December 31, 1997.

The 1997 Act provides the IRS with authority to issue regulations that could, among other things, apply these rates on a look-through basis in the case of "pass-through" entities such as the Operating Partnership. The IRS has not yet issued such regulations, and if it does not issue such regulations in the future, the rate of tax that would apply to the disposition of OP Units by an individual, trust or estate likely would be determined based upon the period of time over the which such individual, trust or estate held such OP Units. No assurance, however, can be provided that the IRS will not issue regulations that would provide that the rate of tax that would apply to the disposition of OP Units by an individual, trust or estate would be determined based upon the nature of the assets of the Operating Partnership and the periods of time over which the Operating Partnership held such assets. Moreover, no assurance can be provided that such regulations would not be applied retroactively. If such regulations were to apply to the disposition of OP Units, any gain on such sale possibly could be treated partly as gain from the sale of a capital asset held for more than one year, partly as gain from the sale of a capital asset held for one year or less and partly as gain that is considered "unrecognized Section 1250 gain." Limited Partners are urged to consult with their own tax advisors with respect to the new rules contained in the 1997 Act and in the IRS Restructuring Act.

Tax Treatment of Exercise of Unit Redemption Right. In the event that a Limited Partner exercises his Unit Redemption Right (see "Description of OP Units--Unit Redemption Right"), it is generally anticipated that Host REIT will elect to exercise its right under the Partnership Agreement to acquire the redeeming Limited Partner's OP Units in exchange for cash or Common Shares; however, Host REIT will be under no obligation to exercise such right. In the event that Host REIT does so elect, such transaction will be a fully taxable sale to the redeeming Limited Partner, and such redeeming Limited Partner will be treated as realizing in connection with such sale an amount equal to the amount of the cash or the value of the Common Shares received in the exchange plus the amount of Operating Partnership liabilities allocable to the redeemed OP Units at the time of the redemption.

If Host REIT does not elect to assume the obligation to redeem a Limited Partner's OP Units, the Operating Partnership generally will be required to redeem such OP Units for cash. If the Operating Partnership redeems OP Units for cash that Host REIT contributes to the Operating Partnership to effect such redemption, the redemption likely will be treated as a sale of such OP Units to Host REIT in a fully taxable transaction, although the matter is not free from doubt. In that event, the redeeming Limited Partner will recognize taxable gain or loss to the extent that the amount he is treated as realizing (the amount of the cash received in the exchange plus the amount of Operating Partnership liabilities allocable to the redeemed OP Units at the time of the redemption) exceeds or is less than, respectively, his adjusted tax basis in his OP Units redeemed. If, instead, the Operating Partnership chooses to redeem a Limited Partner's OP Units for cash that is not contributed by Host REIT to effect the redemption, the tax consequences will be the same as described in the previous sentence, except that if the Limited Partner redeems less than all of his OP Units, the Limited Partner will not be permitted to recognize any taxable loss in connection with the redemption and will recognize taxable gain on the redemption only to the extent that the sum of cash and the share of Operating Partnership liabilities allocable to the redeemed OP Units exceeds the Limited Partner's adjusted tax basis in all of his OP Units held immediately before the redemption (rather than just the basis of the OP Units redeemed).

For a discussion of the impact of the receipt and exercise of a Limited Partner's Unit Redemption Right upon the tax consequences of the Mergers, see "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Unit Redemption Right" above.

Tax Shelter Registration. Under Section 6111 of the Code, the person principally responsible for organizing certain "tax shelters" must register the "tax shelter" with the IRS. Host REIT may be required to register the Operating Partnership with the IRS as a "tax shelter" pursuant to this provision. The following rules will apply if such registration is required. Host REIT will be required to provide each Limited Partner with the tax shelter registration number assigned to the Operating Partnership by the IRS. Each Limited Partner will then be required to include this tax shelter registration number on any tax return on which the Limited Partner claims any deduction, credit, loss or other tax benefit, or reports any income, from the Operating Partnership. Each Limited Partner must report the tax shelter registration number by preparing a Form 8271 ("Investor Reporting of Tax Shelter Registration Number") with respect to the Operating Partnership and attaching it to his return. The penalty for failure to include the tax shelter registration number in a return is $250 per failure per return.

In addition, if a Limited Partner transfers any OP Units, he is required to provide the transferee with the Operating Partnership's tax shelter registration number generally in the same manner and form in which such registration number is originally provided to the Limited Partner by Host REIT. The penalty for failure to provide the tax shelter registration number to a transferee of OP Units is $100 per occurrence.

In connection with the registration of the Operating Partnership as a tax shelter, Host REIT would be required, under Section 6112 of the Code, to maintain a list of all investors purchasing OP Units. Such list must include the name, address and taxpayer identification number of each purchaser, the number of OP Units acquired and the date of acquisition. Section 6112 requires that such list be maintained and made available for inspection upon the request of the IRS for a period of seven years.

In addition, Section 6112 requires that any Limited Partner who transfers any OP Units maintain and make available to the IRS, for seven years, a list specifying the name, address and taxpayer identification number of the transferee of such OP Units, as well as the date of transfer. As an alternative to maintaining such list for seven years, a Limited Partner may satisfy its obligation under Section 6112 by sending the information required to be included on such list to Host REIT at the time the OP Units are transferred. The penalty for failure either to maintain such a list or to send the required information to Host REIT is $50.

REGISTRATION OF THE OPERATING PARTNERSHIP WITH THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE AND THE ISSUANCE OF A REGISTRATION NUMBER DOES NOT INDICATE THAT THIS INVESTMENT OR THE CLAIMED TAX BENEFITS HAVE BEEN REVIEWED, EXAMINED OR APPROVED BY THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

Operating Partnership Income Tax Information Returns and Operating Partnership Audit Procedures. The Operating Partnership plans to furnish the holders of OP Units with the tax information reasonably required by the holders of OP Units for federal and state income tax reporting purposes within 90 days of the close of each of the Operating Partnership's taxable years.

The federal income tax information returns filed by the Operating Partnership may be audited by the IRS. The Code contains partnership audit procedures governing the manner in which IRS audit adjustments of partnership items are resolved. The Operating Partnership will be able to elect (i) to participate in the simplified pass-through system for audits that was enacted as part of the 1997 Act, which election is available to partnerships that have 100 or more partners and meet certain other requirements set forth in the 1997 Act; or (ii) to have its audits governed under the audit rules which were enacted as part of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 ("TEFRA"). The Operating Partnership has not yet made this determination, but in making the determination, Host REIT, as general partner of the Operating Partnership, will not be required (but will be expressly permitted) to take into account the tax consequences of the determination to any holder of OP Units and the holders of OP Units will have no right to approve or disapprove of such determination.

Partnerships generally are treated as separate entities for purposes of federal tax audits, judicial review of administrative adjustments by the IRS and tax settlement proceedings. The tax treatment of partnership items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit is determined at the partnership level in a unified partnership proceeding, rather than in separate proceedings with each partner. The Code provides for one person to be designated as the "Tax Matters Partner" for these purposes. The Partnership Agreement appoints Host REIT as the Tax Matters Partner for the Operating Partnership.

Under TEFRA, the Tax Matters Partner is authorized, but not required, to take certain actions on behalf of the Operating Partnership and the Limited Partners and can extend the statute of limitations for assessment of tax deficiencies against Limited Partners with respect to Operating Partnership items. The Tax Matters Partner will make a reasonable effort to keep each Limited Partner informed of administrative and judicial tax proceedings with respect to Operating Partnership items in accordance with Treasury Regulations issued under Section 6223 of the Code. In connection with adjustments to Operating Partnership tax returns proposed by the IRS, the Tax Matters Partner may bind any Limited Partner with less than a one percent (1%) profits interest in the Operating Partnership to a settlement with the IRS unless the Limited Partner elects, by filing a statement with the IRS, not to give such authority to the Tax Matters Partner. The Tax Matters Partner may seek judicial review (to which all the Limited Partners are bound) of a final Operating Partnership administrative adjustment and, if the Tax Matters Partner fails to seek judicial review, such review may be sought by any Limited Partner having at least a one percent (1%) interest in the profits of the Operating Partnership and by partners in the Operating Partnership having, in the aggregate, at least a five percent (5%) profits interest. Only one judicial proceeding will go forward, however, and each Limited Partner with an interest in the outcome may participate.

The Limited Partners will generally be required to treat Operating Partnership items on their federal income tax returns in a manner consistent with the treatment of the items on the Operating Partnership information return. In general, that consistency requirement is waived if the Limited Partner files a statement with the IRS identifying the inconsistency. Failure to satisfy the consistency requirement, if not waived, will result in an adjustment to conform the treatment of the item by the Limited Partner to the treatment on the Operating Partnership return. Even if the consistency requirement is waived, adjustments to the Limited Partner's tax liability with respect to Operating Partnership items may result from an audit of the Operating Partnership's information return or the Limited Partner's tax return. Intentional or negligent disregard of the consistency requirement may subject a Limited Partner to substantial penalties. In addition, an audit of the Operating Partnership's information return may also lead to an audit of an individual Limited Partner's tax return and such audit could result in the adjustment of nonpartnership items.

If a partnership makes an election to have the simplified audit procedure for large partnerships enacted as part of the 1997 Act apply, there would be differences in the rights of Limited Partners. For example, as under the TEFRA rules, the IRS would challenge a reporting position taken by the Operating Partnership by conducting a single administrative proceeding, the outcome under which would bind all partners. Unlike partners in a TEFRA partnership, however, partners in an electing large partnership under the 1997 Act have no individual right to notice of the adjustment proceedings and no individual right to participate in the proceedings. Like other partnerships, an electing partnership under the 1997 Act may request judicial review of a partnership adjustment. However, unlike partnerships governed by TEFRA, the individual partners in an electing large partnership have no right to file petitions for readjustment of the partnership items. Finally, a partner in an electing partnership must report all partnership items consistently with their treatment on the partnership return. Unlike the comparable TEFRA audit rule, an inconsistency cannot be excused by notifying the IRS of the differing treatment. Limited Partners who fail to report partnership items consistently with their treatment on the partnership return are subject to accuracy-related and fraud penalties.

Alternative Minimum Tax on Items of Tax Preference. The Code contains different sets of minimum tax rules applicable to corporate and non-corporate taxpayers. The discussion below relates only to the alternative minimum tax applicable to non-corporate taxpayers. LIMITED PARTNERS THAT ARE CORPORATIONS SHOULD CONSULT WITH THEIR TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE EFFECT OF THE CORPORATE MINIMUM TAX PROVISIONS FOLLOWING CONSUMMATION OF THE MERGERS.

Non-corporate taxpayers are subject to an alternative minimum tax to the extent the tentative minimum tax ("TMT") exceeds the regular income tax otherwise payable. The rate of tax imposed on alternative minimum taxable income ("AMTI") in computing TMT is 26% for AMTI under $175,000 and 28% for AMTI over $175,000. AMTI consists of the taxpayer's taxable income, as adjusted under Sections 56 and 58 of the Code, plus his items of tax preference; certain taxpayers are entitled to an exemption amount equal to $45,000 for a joint return or a return filed as a surviving spouse, $33,750 for a single return and $22,500 for married persons filing separate returns, estates and trusts. These exemption amounts will be phased out if the AMTI of a taxpayer exceeds certain thresholds.

In computing alternative minimum taxable income, for all depreciable property placed in service after May 13, 1993, an alternative cost recovery (depreciation) system is substituted for the regular tax cost recovery (depreciation) system. For example, cost recovery for real property is computed on the straight-line basis over a 40-year life, rather than the 27.5- or 39-year lives used under the regular tax system. The 1997 Act eliminates this requirement for any property placed in service after December 31, 1998. The limitation on deduction of passive activity losses (as recomputed for AMTI purposes) applies to the calculation of AMTI. The utilization of itemized deductions is also limited.

The Operating Partnership will not be subject to the alternative minimum tax, but the Limited Partners are required to take into account on their own tax returns their respective shares of the Operating Partnership's tax preference items and adjustments (and their shares of tax preference items and adjustments of the Partnerships and other Subsidiaries which are allocated to the Operating Partnership) in order to compute alternative minimum taxable income. Since the impact of this tax depends on each Limited Partner's particular situation, the Limited Partners are urged to consult their own tax advisors as to the applicability of the alternative minimum tax following consummation of the Mergers.

State and Local Taxes. In addition to the federal income tax aspects described above, a Limited Partner should consider the potential state and local tax consequences of owning OP Units. Tax returns may be required and tax liability may be imposed both in the state or local jurisdictions where a Limited Partner resides and in each state or local jurisdiction in which the Operating Partnership has assets or otherwise does business. Thus, Limited Partners holding OP Units may be subject to state and local taxation in a number of jurisdictions in which the Operating Partnership directly or indirectly holds real property and would be required to file periodic tax returns in those jurisdictions. In this regard, immediately following the Mergers, the Operating Partnership expects that it will own properties in 28 states across the United States as well as the District of Columbia. The Operating Partnership anticipates providing the Limited Partners with any information reasonably necessary to permit them to satisfy state and local return filing requirements. Furthermore, the Operating Partnership will be subject to a wide range of different state filing requirements; for example, in certain states, the Operating Partnership may elect to file composite returns on behalf of its non-resident partners, while in other states it may be required to withhold state taxes with respect to its non-resident partners. The Operating Partnership will deduct the former Limited Partners' share of any such state taxes imposed from its distributions to such partners. To the extent that a Limited Partner pays income tax with respect to the Operating Partnership to a state where it is not resident (or the Operating Partnership is required (or elects) to pay such tax on behalf of the Limited Partner), the Limited Partner may be entitled, in whole or in part, to a deduction or credit against income tax that otherwise would be owed to his state of residence with respect to the same income. A Limited Partner should consult with his personal tax advisor with respect to the state and local income tax implications for such Limited Partner of owning OP Units.

FEDERAL INCOME TAXATION OF HOST REIT FOLLOWING THE MERGERS

General. Host REIT plans to make an election to be taxed as a REIT under Sections 856 through 859 of the Code, effective for its first taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion (which Host REIT currently expects to be the year beginning January 1, 1999, but which might not be until the year beginning January 1, 2000). Host REIT intends that, commencing with such first taxable year, it will be organized and will operate in such a manner as to qualify for taxation as a REIT under the Code, and Host REIT intends to continue to operate in such a manner, but no assurance can be given that it in fact will continue to operate in such a manner so as to qualify or remain qualified.

The sections of the Code and the corresponding Treasury Regulations that govern the federal income tax treatment of a REIT and its shareholders are highly technical and complex. The following sets forth a summary of the material aspects of these rules, which summary, however, is qualified in its entirety by the applicable Code provisions, rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, and administrative and judicial interpretations thereof.

Hogan & Hartson has acted as counsel to Host REIT in connection with the REIT Conversion and Host REIT's election to be taxed as a REIT. Host REIT expects that Hogan & Hartson will provide to Host REIT prior to the Effective Date an opinion to the effect that, beginning with Host REIT's first full taxable year commencing after the REIT Conversion is completed, Host REIT will be organized in conformity with the requirements for qualification as a REIT, and its proposed method of operation will enable it to meet the requirements for qualification and taxation as a REIT under the Code. It must be emphasized that this opinion will be conditioned upon the completion of the REIT Conversion and upon certain representations made by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership as to factual matters relating to the organization and operation of Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the Hotel Partnerships, the Subsidiary Partnerships, the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, the Host Employee Trust and Crestline and the Lessees, including the structure of each Lease. In addition, this opinion will be based upon the factual representations of Host REIT concerning its business and properties as described in this Consent Solicitation and will assume that the actions described in this Consent Solicitation are completed in a timely fashion. Moreover, such qualification and taxation as a REIT depends upon Host REIT's ability to meet on an ongoing basis (through actual annual operating results, distribution levels and diversity of share ownership) the various qualification tests imposed under the Code discussed below, the results of which will not be reviewed by Hogan & Hartson. Accordingly, no assurance can be given that the actual results of Host REIT's operations for any particular taxable year will satisfy such requirements. Further, the anticipated income tax treatment described in this Consent Solicitation may be changed, perhaps retroactively, by legislative, administrative or judicial action at any time. See "---Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT" below.

If Host REIT qualifies for taxation as a REIT, it generally will not be subject to federal corporate income taxes on its net income that is currently distributed to shareholders. This treatment substantially eliminates the "double taxation" (at the corporate and shareholder levels) that generally results from investment in a regular corporation. However, Host REIT will be subject to federal income tax as follows:

1. Host REIT will be taxed at regular corporate rates on any undistributed "REIT taxable income," including undistributed net capital gains (provided, however, that properly designated undistributed capital gains will effectively avoid taxation at the shareholder level). A REIT's "REIT taxable income" is the otherwise taxable income of the REIT subject to certain adjustments, including a deduction for dividends paid.
2. Under certain circumstances, Host REIT may be subject to the "alternative minimum tax" on its items of tax preference.
3. If Host REIT has (i) net income from the sale or other disposition of "foreclosure property" which is held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business or (ii) other nonqualifying income from foreclosure property, it will be subject to tax at the highest corporate rate on such income.
4. If Host REIT has net income from "prohibited transactions" (which are, in general, certain sales or other dispositions of property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business other than foreclosure property), such income will be subject to a 100% tax.
5. If Host REIT should fail to satisfy the 75% gross income test or the 95% gross income test (as discussed below), but has nonetheless maintained its qualification as a REIT because certain other requirements have been met, it will be subject to a 100% tax on an amount equal to (a) the gross income attributable to the greater of the amount by which Host REIT fails the 75% or 95% test multiplied by (b) a fraction intended to reflect Host REIT's profitability.
6. If Host REIT should fail to distribute during each calendar year at least the sum of (i) 85% of its REIT ordinary income for such year, (ii) 95% of its REIT capital gain net income for such year and (iii) any undistributed taxable income from prior periods, Host REIT would be subject to a 4% excise tax on the excess of such required distribution over the sum of amounts actually distributed and amounts retained but with respect to which federal income tax was paid.
7. If Host REIT acquires any asset from a C corporation (i.e., generally a corporation subject to full corporate-level tax) in a transaction in which the basis of the asset in the hands of Host REIT is determined by reference to the basis of the asset in the hands of the C corporation (a "Built-In Gain Asset"), and Host REIT recognizes gain on the disposition of such asset during the ten-year period beginning on the date on which such asset was acquired by Host REIT (the "Recognition Period"), then, to the extent of the asset's "Built-In Gain" (i.e., the excess of (a) the fair market value of such asset over (b) Host REIT's adjusted basis in the asset, determined when Host REIT acquired the asset), such gain will be subject to tax at the highest regular corporate rate applicable.

Host REIT will own an indirect interest in appreciated assets that Host held before the REIT Conversion. Such appreciated assets will have a "carryover" basis and thus will be "Built-In Gain Assets" with respect to Host REIT. Under IRS Notice 88-19, unless Host REIT were to elect to be subject to corporate income tax on any Built-In Gain recognized with respect to such Built-In Gain Assets during the Recognition Period commencing on the first day of Host REIT's first taxable year as a REIT, Host would have to pay federal corporate income tax on the Built-In Gain at the time of the REIT Conversion. In connection with the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will make the election provided for in Notice 88-19 with respect to all of Host's assets that will be owned by the Operating Partnership subsequent to the REIT Conversion. As a result of this election, if such appreciated property is sold within the ten-year period following the REIT Conversion, Host REIT will generally be subject to regular corporate tax on that gain to the extent of the Built-In Gain in that property at the time of the REIT Conversion. The total amount of gain on which Host REIT can be taxed is limited to its net Built-In Gain (defined for these purposes as the excess of the aggregate fair market value of its assets at the time it became a REIT over the adjusted tax bases of those assets at that time) at the time of the REIT Conversion. This tax could be very material, however, and may result in the Operating Partnership and Host REIT seeking to avoid a taxable disposition of any significant assets owned by Host at the time of the REIT Conversion for the ten taxable years following the REIT Conversion (even though such disposition might otherwise be in the best interests of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT).

Notwithstanding Host REIT's status as a REIT, it is likely that substantial deferred liabilities of Host will be recognized over the next ten years (including, but not limited to, tax liabilities attributable to Built-in Gain Assets and deferred tax liabilities attributable to taxable income for which neither Host REIT nor the Operating Partnership will receive corresponding cash). In addition, the IRS could assert substantial additional liabilities for taxes against Host for taxable years prior to the time Host REIT qualifies as a REIT. Under the terms of the REIT Conversion and the Partnership Agreement, the Operating Partnership will be responsible for paying (or reimbursing Host REIT for the payment of) all such tax liabilities as well as any other liabilities (including contingent liabilities and liabilities attributable to litigation that Host REIT may incur), whether such liabilities are incurred by reason of Host's activities prior to the REIT Conversion or the activities of Host REIT subsequent thereto.

The Operating Partnership will pay (or reimburse Host REIT for) all taxes incurred by Host REIT (except for taxes imposed on Host REIT by reason of its failure to qualify as a REIT or to distribute to its shareholders an amount equal to its "REIT taxable income," including net capital gains). This obligation by the Operating Partnership would include any federal corporate income tax imposed on Built-In Gain.

Requirements for Qualification. The Code defines a REIT as a corporation, trust or association (i) which is managed by one or more trustees or directors; (ii) the beneficial ownership of which is evidenced by transferable shares or by transferable certificates of beneficial interest; (iii) which would be taxable as a domestic corporation, but for Sections 856 through 859 of the Code; (iv) which is neither a financial institution nor an insurance company subject to certain provisions of the Code; (v) the beneficial ownership of which is held by 100 or more persons; (vi) during the last half of each taxable year not more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of which is owned, actually or constructively, by five or fewer individuals (as defined in the Code to include certain entities) (the "not closely held" requirement); and (vii) which meets certain other tests, described below, regarding the nature of its income and assets.

The Code provides that conditions (i) to (iv), inclusive, must be met during the entire taxable year and that condition (v) must be met during at least 335 days of a taxable year of twelve months, or during a proportionate part of a taxable year of less than twelve months. Conditions (v) and (vi) will not apply until after the first taxable year for which Host REIT makes the election to be taxed as a REIT. For purposes of conditions (v) and (vi), pension funds and certain other tax-exempt entities are treated as individuals, subject to a "look-through" exception in the case of condition (vi). Compliance with condition (v) shall be determined by disregarding the ownership of Host REIT shares by any person(s) who: (1) acquired such Host REIT shares as a gift or bequest or pursuant to a legal separation or divorce; (2) is the estate of any person making such transfer to the estate; or (3) is a company established exclusively for the benefit of (or wholly-owned by) either the person making such transfer or a person described in (1) or (2). In connection with condition (vi), Host REIT is required to send annual letters to its shareholders requesting information regarding the actual ownership of its shares. If Host REIT complies with this requirement, and it does not know, or exercising reasonable diligence would not have known, whether it failed to meet condition (vi), then it will be treated as having met condition (vi). If Host REIT fails to send such annual letters, it will be required to pay either a $25,000 penalty or, if the failure is intentional, a $50,000 penalty. The IRS may require Host REIT, under those circumstances, to take further action to ascertain actual ownership of its shares, and failure to comply with such an additional requirement would result in an additional $25,000 (or $50,000) penalty. No penalty would be assessed in the first instance, however, if the failure to send the letters is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Host REIT believes that it will meet conditions (i) through (iv). In addition, Host REIT believes that it will have outstanding (commencing with its first taxable year as a REIT) Common Shares with sufficient diversity of ownership to allow it to satisfy conditions (v) and (vi). With respect to condition (vi), Host REIT intends to comply with the requirement that it send annual letters to its shareholders requesting information regarding the actual ownership of its shares. In addition, Host REIT's Charter provides for restrictions regarding the transfer and ownership of Common Shares, which restrictions are intended to assist Host REIT in continuing to satisfy the share ownership requirements described in (v) and (vi) above. Such ownership and transfer restrictions are described in "Description of Shares of Beneficial Interest--Restrictions on Ownership and Transfer." These restrictions, together with compliance with the annual shareholder letter requirement described above, however, may not ensure that Host REIT will, in all cases, be able to satisfy the share ownership requirements described above. If Host REIT fails to satisfy such share ownership requirements, Host REIT's status as a REIT will terminate. See "---Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT."

A corporation may not elect to become a REIT unless its taxable year is the calendar year. Although Host currently has adopted a 52-53 week year ending on the Friday closest to January 1, Host REIT will adopt a calendar year taxable year in connection with the REIT Conversion.

In order to qualify as a REIT, Host REIT cannot have at the end of any taxable year any undistributed "earnings and profits" that are attributable to a "C corporation" taxable year. A REIT has until the close of its first taxable year in which it has non-REIT earnings and profits to distribute such accumulated earnings and profits. In connection with the REIT Conversion, Host or Host REIT intends to make the Initial E&P Distribution. The aggregate amount of such distribution is currently expected to be in the range of approximately $525 million to $625 million and is intended to eliminate the substantial majority of Host's undistributed earnings and profits. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of accumulated earnings and profits of Host as of the last day of its taxable year in which the Host merger into Host REIT is consummated. To the extent, however, that Host has any such undistributed earnings and profits at the time of the REIT Conversion (including earnings and profits resulting from either transactions undertaken in contemplation of the REIT Conversion or the REIT Conversion itself), such earnings and profits (the "Acquired Earnings") will carry over to Host REIT and will be treated as accumulated earnings and profits of a REIT attributable to non-REIT years. Host REIT will be required to distribute these earnings and profits prior to the end of 1999 (the first taxable year for which the REIT election of Host REIT currently is expected to be effective, although such REIT election may be effective for taxable year 2000). Failure to do so would result in disqualification of Host REIT as a REIT at least for taxable year 1999. If Host REIT should be so disqualified for taxable year 1999, subject to the satisfaction by Host REIT of certain "deficiency dividend" procedures described below in "---Annual Distribution Requirements Applicable to REITs" and assuming that Host REIT otherwise satisfies the requirements for qualification as a REIT, Host REIT should qualify as a REIT for taxable year 2000 and thereafter. Host REIT believes that the Initial E&P Distribution, together with any distributions of Acquired Earnings made after the REIT Conversion but prior to December 31, 1999, will be sufficient to distribute all of the Acquired Earnings as of December 31, 1999, but there are substantial uncertainties relating to the estimate of the Acquired Earnings, as described below, and the value of noncash consideration to be distributed as part of the Initial E&P Distribution, and, thus, there can be no assurance this requirement will be met.

The estimated amount of the Acquired Earnings will be based on the consolidated earnings and profits of Host (including each of its predecessors) accumulated from 1929, the first year that the predecessor of Host was a "C" corporation, through and including Host's 1998 taxable year (and taking into account the allocation, as a matter of law, of 81% of Host's accumulated earnings and profits to Marriott International, Inc. on October 8, 1993 in connection with the Marriott International Distribution), determined based on the available tax returns and certain assumptions with respect to both such returns and other matters. The calculation of the Acquired Earnings, however, depends upon a number of factual and legal interpretations related to the activities and operations of Host and its corporate affiliates during its entire corporate existence and is subject to review and challenge by the IRS. There can be no assurance that the IRS will not examine the tax returns of Host and its affiliates for all years prior to and including the REIT Conversion and propose adjustments to increase their taxable income. The impact of such proposed adjustments, if any, may be material. If the IRS were to examine Host's calculation of its earnings and profits (and thus the amount of Acquired Earnings, if any), the IRS can consider all taxable years of Host, its affiliates and its predecessors as open for review for purposes of such determination.

Hogan & Hartson will express no opinion as to the amount of the earnings and profits of Host and its predecessors and, accordingly, for purposes of its opinion as to the qualification of Host REIT as a REIT following the REIT Conversion, Hogan & Hartson is relying upon a representation from Host REIT that by the end of Host's first taxable year as a REIT, it will have eliminated all Acquired Earnings.

Qualified REIT Subsidiary. If Host REIT owns a corporate subsidiary that is a "qualified REIT subsidiary," that subsidiary will be disregarded for federal income tax purposes, and all assets, liabilities and items of income, deduction and credit of the subsidiary will be treated as assets, liabilities and items of Host REIT itself. Generally, a qualified REIT subsidiary is a corporation all of the capital stock of which is owned by one REIT. Host REIT anticipates owning one or more qualified REIT subsidiaries for purposes of holding de minimis indirect interests in the Hotel Partnerships. A "qualified REIT subsidiary" will not be subject to federal corporate income taxation, although it may be subject to state and local taxation in certain jurisdictions.

Ownership of Partnership Interests by a REIT. In the case of a REIT which is a partner in a partnership, Treasury Regulations provide that the REIT will be deemed to own its proportionate share of the assets of the partnership and will be deemed to be entitled to the income of the partnership attributable to such share. In addition, the character of the assets and gross income of the partnership shall retain the same character in the hands of the REIT for purposes of Section 856 of the Code (including satisfying the gross income tests and the asset tests). Thus, Host REIT's proportionate share of the assets and items of income of the Operating Partnership (including the Operating Partnership's share of such items of the Hotel Partnerships and any other subsidiaries that are partnerships or LLCs) will be treated as assets and items of income of Host REIT for purposes of applying the requirements described herein. A summary of the rules governing the federal income taxation of partnerships and their partners is provided below in "---Tax Aspects of Host REIT's Ownership of OP Units." As the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership, Host REIT will have direct control over the Operating Partnership and indirect control over the Hotel Partnerships and the partnerships in which the Operating Partnership or the Hotel Partnerships have a controlling interest and intends to operate these entities consistent with the requirements for qualification of Host REIT as a REIT.

Income Tests Applicable to REITs. In order to maintain qualification as a REIT, Host REIT annually must satisfy two gross income requirements. First, at least 75% of Host REIT's gross income (excluding gross income from "prohibited transactions") for each taxable year must be derived directly or indirectly from investments relating to real property or mortgages on real property (including "rents from real property" and, in certain circumstances, interest) or from certain types of temporary investments. Second, at least 95% of Host REIT's gross income (excluding gross income from "prohibited transactions") for each taxable year must be derived from such real property investments, dividends, interest, certain hedging instruments and gain from the sale or disposition of stock or securities, including certain hedging instruments (or from any combination of the foregoing).

Rents paid pursuant to the Leases (together with dividends and interest received from the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries will constitute substantially all of the gross income of Host REIT. Several conditions must be satisfied in order for rents received by Host REIT, including the rents received pursuant to the Leases, to qualify as "rents from real property" in satisfying the gross income requirements for a REIT described in the preceding paragraph. First, the amount of rent must not be based in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person. However, an amount received or accrued generally will not be excluded from the term "rents from real property" solely by reason of being based on a fixed percentage or percentages of receipts or sales. Second, rents received from a tenant will not qualify as "rents from real property" in satisfying the gross income tests if Host REIT, or an actual or constructive owner of 10% or more of Host REIT, actually or constructively owns 10% or more of such tenant (a "Related Party Tenant"). Third, if rent attributable to personal property, leased in connection with a lease of real property, is greater than 15% of the total rent received under the lease, then the portion of rent attributable to such personal property will not qualify as "rents from real property" (as discussed above in "--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Taxable Income Attributable to Sales of Personal Property in Connection with the REIT Conversion") (the "15% Personal Property Test").

Finally, if (i) Host REIT operates or manages a property or furnishes or renders services to the tenants at the property other than through an independent contractor from whom Host REIT derives no revenue, excluding for these purposes services "usually or customarily rendered" in connection with the rental of real property and not otherwise considered "rendered to the occupant," and (ii) the greater of (a) the income derived from such services or (b) 150% of the cost of providing such services (the "Impermissible Tenant Service Income") exceeds one percent of the total amount received by Host REIT with respect to the property (or, if such services are not available to all tenants at a property, possibly with respect to each tenant to whom the services are made available), then no amount received by Host REIT with respect to the property (or, where possibly applicable, such tenant) will qualify as "rents from real property." If the Impermissible Tenant Service Income is one percent or less of the total amount received by the REIT with respect to the property (or, where possibly applicable, such tenant), then only the Impermissible Tenant Service Income will not qualify as "rents from real property." To the extent that services other than those customarily furnished or rendered in connection with the rental of real property are rendered to the tenants of the property by an independent contractor, the cost of the services must be borne by the independent contractor.

The Operating Partnership and each Hotel Partnership that owns Hotels (together with certain other subsidiaries of the Operating Partnership that may own Hotels) will enter into a Lease with a Lessee that is a Crestline subsidiary, pursuant to which the owner of such Hotels will lease the Hotels that it owns to the Lessee for a term of years (ranging generally from seven to ten years, depending upon the particular Hotel) commencing on or before January 1, 1999 (assuming the merger of Host into Host REIT occurs prior to that date; otherwise, as soon as practicable following the distribution of the Crestline common stock as part of the Initial E&P Distribution). In addition, the Operating Partnership will lease to the Lessees, on similar terms, the Hotels contributed by the Blackstone Entities. Each Lease will provide for thirteen payments per annum of the specified Base Rent plus, to the extent that it would exceed the Base Rent, Percentage Rent, which Percentage Rent will be calculated based upon the gross sales of the Hotels subject to the particular Lease, plus certain other amounts. See "Business and Properties--The Leases."

Neither Host REIT nor the Operating Partnership intends to (i) provide any services to the Lessees with respect to the operation of the Hotels; (ii) charge rent for any Hotel that is based in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person (except by reason of being based on a percentage of receipts or sales, as described above); (iii) rent any Hotel to a Related Party Tenant (unless the Board of Directors determines in its discretion that the rent received from such Related Party Tenant is not material and will not jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT); or (iv) derive rental income attributable to personal property other than personal property leased in connection with the lease of real property, the amount of which is less than 15% of the total rent received under the lease (unless the Board of Directors determines in its discretion that the amount of such rent attributable to personal property is not material and will not jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT).

In order for the rent paid pursuant to the Leases to constitute "rents from real property," (i) the Lessees must not be regarded as Related Party Tenants; and (ii) the Leases must be respected as true leases for federal income tax purposes and not treated as service contracts, joint ventures or some other type of arrangement. A Lessee will be regarded as a Related Party Tenant only if Host REIT and/or one or more actual or constructive owners of 10% or more of Host REIT, actually or constructively, own 10% or more of such Lessee through an ownership interest in Crestline. In order to help preclude the Lessees from being regarded as Related Party Tenants, (i) the Articles of Incorporation of Crestline will expressly prohibit any person (or persons acting as a group), including Host REIT (and/or any 10% or greater shareholder of Host REIT), from owning, actually or constructively, more than 9.8% of the lesser of the number or value of the shares of capital stock of Crestline; (ii) the Charter of Host REIT will expressly prohibit any person (or persons acting as a group) or entity from owning, actually or constructively, more than 9.8% of the lesser of the number or value of Host REIT's Common Shares (subject to an exception for Common Shares held prior to the REIT Conversion, so long as the holder thereof would not own more than 9.9% in value of the outstanding shares of capital stock of Host REIT) or any other class or series of shares of Host REIT; and (iii) the Partnership Agreement of the Operating Partnership will expressly prohibit any person (or persons acting as a group) or entity (other than Host REIT and the Blackstone Entities) from owning more than 4.9% by value of any class of interests in the Operating Partnership. Each of these prohibitions will contain self-executing enforcement mechanisms. Assuming that these prohibitions are enforced at all times (and no waivers thereto are granted), the Lessees should not be regarded as Related Party Tenants. However, there is no assurance that the ownership restrictions described herein will ensure, in all cases, that the Lessees will not be regarded as Related Party Tenants.

The determination of whether the Leases are true leases depends upon an analysis of all the surrounding facts and circumstances. In making such a determination, courts have considered a variety of factors, including the following: (i) the intent of the parties; (ii) the form of the agreement; (iii) the degree of control over the property that is retained by the property owner (e.g., whether the lessee has substantial control over the operation of the property or whether the lessee was required simply to use its best efforts to perform its obligations under the agreement); and (iv) the extent to which the property owner retains the risk of loss with respect to the property (e.g., whether the lessee bears the risk of increases in operating expenses or the risk of damage to the property) or the potential for economic gain (e.g., appreciation) with respect to the property.

In addition, Section 7701(e) of the Code provides that a contract that purports to be a service contract (or a partnership agreement) is treated instead as a lease of property if the contract is properly treated as such, taking into account all relevant factors, including whether or not: (i) the service recipient is in physical possession of the property; (ii) the service recipient controls the property; (iii) the service recipient has a significant economic or possessory interest in the property (e.g., the property's use is likely to be dedicated to the service recipient for a substantial portion of the useful life of the property, the recipient shares the risk that the property will decline in value, the recipient shares in any appreciation in the value of the property, the recipient shares in savings in the property's operating costs or the recipient bears the risk of damage to or loss of the property); (iv) the service provider does not bear any risk of substantially diminished receipts or substantially increased expenditures if there is nonperformance under the contract; (v) the service provider does not use the property concurrently to provide significant services to entities unrelated to the service recipient; and (vi) the total contract price does not substantially exceed the rental value of the property for the contract period. Since the determination of whether a service contract should be treated as a lease is inherently factual, the presence or absence of any single factor may not be dispositive in every case.

The Leases have been structured with the intent to qualify as true leases for federal income tax purposes. For example, with respect to each Lease (i) the Operating Partnership (or, where appropriate, the applicable Hotel Partnership or other lessor entity) and the Lessee intend for their relationship to be that of a lessor and lessee and such relationship is documented by a lease agreement, (ii) the Lessee has the right to exclusive possession and use and quiet enjoyment of the Hotels covered by the Lease during the term of the Lease, (iii) the Lessee bears the cost of, and will be responsible for, day-to-day maintenance and repair of the Hotels (other than the cost of certain capital expenditures), and will (through the Managers, who work for the Lessees during the terms of the Leases) dictate how the Hotels are operated and maintained, (iv) the Lessee bears all of the costs and expenses of operating the Hotels (including the cost of any inventory used in their operation) during the term of the Lease (other than the cost of certain furniture, fixtures and equipment, and certain capital expenditures), (v) the Lessee benefits from any savings (and bears the burdens of any increases) in the costs of operating the Hotels during the term of the Lease, (vi) in the event of damage or destruction to a Hotel, the Lessee is at economic risk because it will bear the economic burden of the loss in income from operation of the Hotels subject to the right, in certain circumstances, to terminate the Lease if lessor does not restore the Hotel to its prior condition, (vii) the Lessee has indemnified the Operating Partnership (or, where appropriate, the applicable Hotel Partnership or other lessor entity) against all liabilities imposed on the Operating Partnership (or, where appropriate, the applicable Hotel Partnership or other lessor entity) during the term of the Lease by reason of (A) injury to persons or damage to property occurring at the Hotels or (B) the Lessee's use, management, maintenance or repair of the Hotels, (viii) the Lessee is obligated to pay, at a minimum, substantial Base Rent for the period of use of the Hotels under the Lease, (ix) the Lessee stands to incur substantial losses (or reap substantial gains) depending on how successfully it (through the Managers, who work for the Lessees during the terms of the Leases) operates the Hotels, and (x) Host REIT and the Operating Partnership believe that each Lessee reasonably expects to derive a meaningful profit, after expenses and taking into account the risks associated with the Lease, from the operation of the Hotels during the term of its Leases. Moreover, upon termination of a Lease, each Hotel is expected to have a remaining useful life equal to at least 20% of its expected useful life on the date of the consummation of the REIT Conversion, and a fair market value equal to at least 20% of its fair market value on the date of the consummation of the REIT Conversion.

Based upon representations made by Host REIT and the Operating Partnership (including, but not limited to, representations as to the matters described in the previous paragraph), Hogan & Hartson, counsel to Host REIT, expects to provide to Host REIT an opinion letter to the effect that the Leases will be respected as leases for federal income tax purposes. As noted previously, however, an opinion of counsel does not bind the IRS or the courts. Moreover, Limited Partners should be aware that there are no controlling Treasury Regulations, published IRS rulings or judicial decisions involving leases with terms substantially the same as the Leases that discuss whether such leases constitute true leases for federal income tax purposes. Therefore, there can be no assurance that the IRS will not assert a contrary position or that such position will be sustained by a court if so challenged. If the Leases are recharacterized as service contracts or partnership agreements, rather than true leases, or disregarded altogether for tax purposes, all or part of the payments that the Operating Partnership receives from the Lessees would not be considered rent or would not otherwise satisfy the various requirements for qualification as "rents from real property." In that case, Host REIT very likely would not be able to satisfy either the 75% or 95% gross income tests and, as a result, would lose its REIT status.

As indicated above, "rents from real property" must not be based in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person. Payments made pursuant to the Leases should qualify as "rents from real property" since they will be based on either a fixed dollar amount (i.e., Base Rent) or specified percentages of gross sales (i.e., Percentage Rents) which percentages will be fixed at the time the Leases are entered into. The foregoing assumes that the Leases (i) are not renegotiated during their term in a manner that has the effect of basing either Percentage Rent or Base Rent on income or profits and (ii) are not in reality used as a means of basing rent on income or profits. More generally, the rent payable under the Leases would not qualify as "rents from real property" if, considering the Leases and all the surrounding circumstances, the arrangement does not conform with normal business practice, but is in reality used as a means of basing rent on income or profits. Because each of the Base Rent and the Percentage Rent will be based on fixed dollar amounts and fixed percentages of the gross sales of each Hotel that are established in the Leases, and Host REIT has represented that (i) the percentages will not be renegotiated during the terms of the Leases in a manner that has the effect of basing rent on income or profits and (ii) the Leases conform with normal business practice and were not intended to be used as a means of basing rent on income or profits, the rent payable under the Leases should not be considered based in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person. Furthermore, Host REIT has represented that, with respect to other properties that it acquires in the future, it will not charge rent for any property that is based in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person (except by reason of being based on a fixed percentage of gross revenues, as described above).

Host REIT may lease certain items of personal property to the Lessees in connection with the Leases. The 15% Personal Property Test provides that if a lease provides for the rental of both real and personal property and the portion of the rent attributable to personal property is 15% or less of the total rent due under the lease, then all rent paid pursuant to such lease qualifies as "rent from real property." If, however, a lease provides for the rental of both real and personal property, and the portion of the rent attributable to personal property exceeds 15% of the total rent due under the lease, then the portion of the rent that is attributable to personal property does not qualify as "rent from real property." The amount of rent attributable to personal property is that amount which bears the same ratio to total rent for the taxable year as the average of the adjusted tax bases of the personal property at the beginning and end of the year bears to the average of the aggregate adjusted tax bases of both the real and personal property at the beginning and end of such year. Host REIT has represented that, with respect to each Lease that includes a lease of items of personal property, the amount of rent attributable to personal property with respect to such Lease, determined as set forth above, will not exceed 15% of the total rent due under the Lease (except for several Leases where the rent attributable to personal property, which would constitute non-qualifying income for purposes of the 75% and 95% gross income tests, would not be material relative to the overall gross income of Host REIT). Each Lease permits the Operating Partnership to take certain measures, including requiring the Lessee to purchase certain furniture, fixtures and equipment or to lease such property from a third party (including a Non-Controlled Subsidiary), if necessary to ensure that all of the rent attributable to personal property with respect to such Lease will qualify as "rent from real property." In order to protect Host REIT's ability to qualify as a REIT, the Operating Partnership will require, immediately prior to the Mergers, that certain of the Hotel Partnerships (including Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP) sell a portion of the personal property associated with some or all of the Hotels owned by such Partnerships to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary. See "Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Taxable Income Attributable to Sales of Personal Property in Connection with the REIT Conversion." In connection with the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership also plans to sell to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary substantial personal property associated with a number of Hotels currently owned by Host or being acquired in connection with the REIT Conversion. The Non-Controlled Subsidiary will separately lease all such personal property directly to the applicable Lessee and will receive rental payments which Host REIT believes represents the fair rental value of such personal property directly from the Lessees.

If any of the Hotels were to be operated directly by the Operating Partnership or a Hotel Partnership as a result of a default by a Lessee under the applicable Lease, such Hotel would constitute foreclosure property until the close of the third tax year following the tax year in which it was acquired (or for up to an additional three years if an extension is granted by the IRS), provided that (i) the operating entity conducts operations through an independent contractor (which might, but would not necessarily in all circumstances, include Marriott International and its subsidiaries) within 90 days after the date the Hotel is acquired as the result of a default by a Lessee, (ii) the operating entity does not undertake any construction on the foreclosed property other than completion of improvements that were more than 10% complete before default became imminent, and (iii) foreclosure was not regarded as foreseeable at the time the applicable Hotel Partnership entered into such Leases. For as long as any of these Hotels constitute foreclosure property, the income from the Hotels would be subject to tax at the maximum corporate rates, but it would qualify under the 75% and 95% gross income tests. However, if any of these Hotels does not constitute foreclosure property at any time in the future, income earned from the disposition or operation of such property will not qualify under the 75% and 95% gross income tests.

"Interest" generally will not qualify under the 75% or 95% gross income tests if it depends in whole or in part on the income or profits of any person. However, interest will not fail to so qualify solely by reason of being based upon a fixed percentage or percentages of receipts or sales. Host REIT does not expect to derive significant amounts of interest that will not qualify under the 75% and 95% gross income tests.

The Non-Controlled Subsidiaries will hold various assets contributed by Host and its subsidiaries to the Operating Partnership, the ownership of which by the Operating Partnership might jeopardize Host REIT's status as a REIT. These assets primarily will consist of partnership or other interests in Hotels that are not leased and certain foreign hotels in which Host owns interests. In addition, as described above, the Operating Partnership and the Hotel Partnerships (including Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and PHLP, if they participate in the Mergers) will sell to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary approximately $200 million in value of personal property associated with certain Hotels, in order to facilitate Host REIT's compliance with the 15% Personal Property Test. The Operating Partnership will own 100% of the nonvoting stock of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary but none of the voting stock (or control) of that Non-Controlled Subsidiary. Each Non-Controlled Subsidiary is taxable as a regular "C" corporation. The Operating Partnership's share of any dividends received from a Non-Controlled Subsidiary should qualify for purposes of the 95% gross income test, but not for purposes of the 75% gross income test. The Operating Partnership does not anticipate that it will receive sufficient dividends from the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries to cause it to exceed the limit on non-qualifying income under the 75% gross income test.

Given the magnitude and scope of Host's existing operations, Host REIT inevitably will have some gross income from various sources (including, but not limited to, "safe harbor" leases, the operation of the Hotel in Sacramento, minority partnership interests in partnerships that own hotels that are not leased under leases that produce rents qualifying as "rents from real property" and rent attributable to personal property at a few Hotels that does not satisfy the 15% Personal Property Test) that fails to constitute qualifying income for purposes of one or both of the 75% or 95% gross income tests. Host REIT, however, believes that, even taking into account the anticipated sources of non-qualifying income, its aggregate gross income from all sources will satisfy the 75% and 95% gross income tests applicable to REITs for each taxable year commencing subsequent to the date of the REIT Conversion.

If Host REIT fails to satisfy one or both of the 75% or 95% gross income tests for any taxable year, it may nevertheless qualify as a REIT for such year if it is entitled to relief under certain provisions of the Code. These relief provisions will be generally available if Host REIT's failure to meet such tests was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, Host REIT attaches a schedule of the sources of its income to its federal income tax return and any incorrect information on the schedule was not due to fraud with intent to evade tax. It is not possible, however, to state whether in all circumstances Host REIT would be entitled to the benefit of these relief provisions. For example, if Host REIT fails to satisfy the gross income tests because nonqualifying income that Host REIT intentionally incurs exceeds the limits on such income, the IRS could conclude that Host REIT's failure to satisfy the tests was not due to reasonable cause. If these relief provisions are inapplicable to a particular set of circumstances involving Host REIT, Host REIT will not qualify as a REIT. As discussed above in "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--General," even if these relief provisions apply, a tax would be imposed with respect to the excess net income.

Any gain realized by Host REIT on the sale of any property held as inventory or other property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business (including Host REIT's share of any such gain realized by the Operating Partnership) will be treated as income from a "prohibited transaction" that is subject to a 100% penalty tax. Such prohibited transaction income may also have an adverse effect upon Host REIT's ability to satisfy the income tests for qualification as a REIT. Under existing law, whether property is held as inventory or primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of a trade or business is a question of fact that depends upon all the facts and circumstances with respect to the particular transaction. The Operating Partnership intends that both it and the Hotel Partnerships will hold the Hotels for investment with a view to long-term appreciation, to engage in the business of acquiring and owning the Hotels (and other hotels) and to make such occasional sales of the Hotels as are consistent with the Operating Partnership's investment objectives. There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS might not contend that one or more of such sales is subject to the 100% penalty tax.

Asset Tests Applicable to REITs. Host REIT, at the close of each quarter of its taxable year, must also satisfy three tests relating to the nature of its assets. First, at least 75% of the value of Host REIT's total assets must be represented by real estate assets, including for this purpose (i) its allocable share of real estate assets held by partnerships in which Host REIT owns an interest (including its allocable share of the assets held through the Operating Partnership) and (ii) stock or debt instruments held for not more than one year purchased with the proceeds of a stock offering or long-term (at least five years) debt offering of Host REIT, cash, cash items and government securities. Second, not more than 25% of Host REIT's total assets may be represented by securities other than those in the 75% asset class. Third, of the investments included in the 25% asset class, the value of any one issuer's securities owned by Host REIT may not exceed 5% of the value of Host REIT's total assets and Host REIT may not own more than 10% of any one issuer's outstanding voting securities.

The Operating Partnership does not own any of the voting stock of a Non-Controlled Subsidiary but it will own 100% of the nonvoting stock of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary. The Operating Partnership may also own nonvoting stock, representing substantially all of the equity, in other corporate entities that serve as partners or members in the various entities that hold title to the Hotels. Host REIT will represent, however, that neither Host REIT, the Operating Partnership nor any of the Hotel Partnerships or Subsidiary Partnerships will own more than 10% of the voting securities of any entity that would be treated as a corporation for federal income tax purposes. In addition, Host REIT and its senior management believe, and Host REIT will represent, that the securities of any one issuer owned by Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the Hotel Partnerships and any Subsidiary Partnerships (including Host REIT's pro rata share of the value of the securities of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary) will not exceed 5% of the total value of Host REIT's assets. There can be no assurance, however, that the IRS might not contend that the value of such securities exceeds the 5% value limitation or that nonvoting stock of a Non-Controlled Subsidiary or another corporate entity owned by the Operating Partnership should be considered "voting stock" for this purpose.

After initially meeting the asset tests at the close of any quarter, Host REIT will not lose its status as a REIT for failure to satisfy the asset tests at the end of a later quarter solely by reason of changes in asset values. If the failure to satisfy the asset tests results from an acquisition of securities or other property during a quarter (including, for example, as a result of Host REIT increasing its interest in the Operating Partnership as a result of the exercise of the Unit Redemption Right or an additional capital contribution of proceeds from an offering of Common Shares by Host REIT), the failure can be cured by disposition of sufficient nonqualifying assets within 30 days after the close of that quarter. Host REIT intends to maintain adequate records of the value of its assets to ensure compliance with the asset tests and to take such other actions within 30 days after the close of any quarter as may be required to cure any noncompliance. If Host REIT fails to cure noncompliance with the asset tests within such time period, Host REIT would cease to qualify as a REIT.

Clinton Administration's Proposed Changes to REIT Asset Test. The Clinton Administration's fiscal year 1999 budget proposal, announced on February 2, 1998, includes a proposal to amend the 10% voting securities test. The proposal would require a REIT to own no more than 10% of the vote or value of all classes of stock of any corporation (except for qualified REIT subsidiaries or corporations that qualify as REITs). Corporations (referred to herein as "subsidiary corporations") existing prior to the effective date of the proposal generally would be "grandfathered"; i.e., the REIT would be subject to the existing 10% voting securities test (described above) with respect to grandfathered subsidiary corporations. However, such grandfathered status would terminate with respect to a subsidiary corporation if the subsidiary corporation engaged in a new trade or business or acquired substantially new assets.

Because the Operating Partnership will own 100% of the nonvoting stock of each Non-Controlled Subsidiary, and Host REIT will be deemed to own an interest in each Non-Controlled Subsidiary equal to its proportionate interest in the Operating Partnership, Host REIT would not satisfy the proposed 10% value limitation with respect to any of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries. Whether any of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries would qualify as a grandfathered subsidiary corporation as the proposal is currently drafted would depend upon the effective date of the proposal (which is not yet known). If a Non-Controlled Subsidiary otherwise eligible for "grandfathered" status were to engage in a new trade or business or were to acquire substantial new assets, or if Host REIT were to make a capital contribution to a Non-Controlled Subsidiary otherwise eligible for "grandfathered" status, its grandfathered status would terminate and Host REIT would fail to qualify as a REIT. Moreover, Host REIT would not be able to own, directly or indirectly, more than 10% of the vote or value of any subsidiary corporation formed or acquired after the effective date of the proposal.

Thus, the proposal, if enacted, would materially impede Host REIT's ability to engage in new third-party management or similar activities (and, if enacted prior to the REIT Conversion, might materially impair Host's ability to complete the REIT Conversion.)

Annual Distribution Requirements Applicable to REITs. Host REIT, in order to qualify as a REIT, is required to distribute dividends (other than capital gain dividends) to its shareholders in an amount at least equal to (i) the sum of (a) 95% of Host REIT's REIT taxable income (computed without regard to the dividends paid deduction and Host REIT's net capital gain) and (b) 95% of the net income (after tax), if any, from foreclosure property, minus (ii) the sum of certain items of noncash income. In addition, if Host REIT disposes of any Built-In Gain Asset during its Recognition Period, Host REIT will be required, pursuant to Treasury Regulations which have not yet been promulgated, to distribute at least 95% of the Built-In Gain (after tax), if any, recognized on the disposition of such asset. See "--General" above for a discussion of "Built-In Gain Assets." Such distributions must be paid in the taxable year to which they relate, or in the following taxable year if declared before Host REIT timely files its tax return for such year and if paid on or before the first regular dividend payment date after such declaration. Host REIT intends to make timely distributions sufficient to satisfy these annual distribution requirements. In this regard, the Partnership Agreement authorizes Host REIT, as general partner, to take such steps as may be necessary to cause the Operating Partnership to distribute to its partners an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to meet these distribution requirements.

To the extent that Host REIT does not distribute all of its net capital gain or distributes at least 95%, but less than 100%, of its REIT taxable income, as adjusted, it will be subject to tax thereon at regular ordinary and capital gain corporate tax rates. Host REIT, however, may designate some or all of its retained net capital gain, so that, although the designated amount will not be treated as distributed for purposes of this tax, a shareholder would include its proportionate share of such amount in income, as capital gain, and would be treated as having paid its proportionate share of the tax paid by Host REIT with respect to such amount. The shareholder's basis in its Common Shares would be increased by the amount the shareholder included in income and decreased by the amount of the tax the shareholder is treated as having paid. Host REIT would make an appropriate adjustment to its earnings and profits. For a more detailed description of the tax consequences to a shareholder of such a designation, see "--Taxation of Taxable U.S. Shareholders of Host REIT Generally."

There is a significant possibility that Host REIT's REIT taxable income will exceed its cash flow due in part to certain "non-cash" or "phantom" income expected to be taken into account in computing REIT taxable income. Host REIT anticipates, however, that it will generally have sufficient cash or liquid assets to enable it to satisfy the distribution requirements described above. It is possible, however, that Host REIT, from time to time, may not have sufficient cash or other liquid assets to meet these distribution requirements. In such event, in order to meet the distribution requirements, Host REIT may find it necessary to arrange for short-term, or possibly long-term, borrowings to fund required distributions and/or to pay dividends in the form of taxable stock dividends.

Host REIT intends to calculate its REIT taxable income based upon the conclusion that the Hotel Partnerships, the Subsidiary Partnerships or the Operating Partnership, as applicable, is the owner of the Hotels for federal income tax purposes. As a result, Host REIT expects that the depreciation deductions with respect to the Hotels will reduce its REIT taxable income. This conclusion is consistent with the conclusion above that the Leases will be treated as true leases for federal income tax purposes. If the IRS were to challenge successfully this position, in addition to failing in all likelihood the 75% and 95% gross income tests described above, Host REIT also might be deemed retroactively to have failed to meet the REIT distribution requirements and would have to rely on the payment of a "deficiency dividend" in order to retain its REIT status.

Under certain circumstances, Host REIT may be able to rectify a failure to meet the distribution requirement for a year by paying "deficiency dividends" to shareholders in a later year, which may be included in Host REIT's deduction for dividends paid for the earlier year. Thus, Host REIT may be able to avoid being taxed on amounts distributed as deficiency dividends; however, Host REIT would be required to pay interest based upon the amount of any deduction taken for deficiency dividends.

Furthermore, if Host REIT should fail to distribute during each calendar year at least the sum of (i) 85% of its REIT ordinary income for such year, (ii) 95% of its REIT capital gain income for such year, and (iii) any undistributed taxable income from prior periods, Host REIT would be subject to a 4% excise tax on the excess of such required distribution over the sum of amounts actually distributed and amounts retained with respect to which the REIT pays federal income tax.

Failure of Host REIT to Qualify as a REIT. If Host REIT fails to qualify for taxation as a REIT in any taxable year, and if the relief provisions do not apply, Host REIT will be subject to tax (including any applicable alternative minimum tax) on its taxable income at regular corporate rates. Distributions to shareholders in any year in which Host REIT fails to qualify will not be deductible by Host REIT nor will they be required to be made. As a result, Host REIT's failure to qualify as a REIT would significantly reduce the cash available for distribution by Host REIT to its shareholders and could materially reduce the value of the Common Shares and, consequently, the OP Units. In addition, if Host REIT fails to qualify as a REIT, all distributions to shareholders will be taxable as ordinary income, to the extent of Host REIT's current and accumulated earnings and profits, and, subject to certain limitations of the Code, corporate distributees may be eligible for the dividends received deduction. Unless entitled to relief under specific statutory provisions, Host REIT also will be disqualified from taxation as a REIT for the four taxable years following the year during which qualification was lost. It is not possible to state whether in all circumstances Host REIT would be entitled to such statutory relief.

TAXATION OF TAXABLE U.S. SHAREHOLDERS OF HOST REIT GENERALLY

As used herein, the term "U.S. Shareholder" means a holder of Common Shares who (for United States federal income tax purposes) is (i) a citizen or resident of the United States, (ii) a corporation, partnership or other entity created or organized in or under the laws of the United States or of any political subdivision thereof, (iii) an estate or trust the income of which is subject to United States federal income taxation regardless of its source, or (iv) a trust whose administration is subject to the primary supervision of a United States court and which has one or more United States persons who have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

Distributions by Host REIT. As long as Host REIT qualifies as a REIT, distributions made by Host REIT out of its current or accumulated earnings and profits (and not designated as capital gain dividends) will constitute dividends taxable to its taxable U.S. Shareholders as ordinary income. Such distributions will not be eligible for the dividends received deduction in the case of U.S. Shareholders that are corporations. To the extent that Host REIT makes distributions (not designated as capital gain dividends) in excess of its current and accumulated earnings and profits, such distributions will be treated first as a tax-free return of capital to each U.S. Shareholder, reducing the adjusted basis which such U.S. Shareholder has in its Common Shares for tax purposes by the amount of such distribution (but not below zero), with distributions in excess of a U.S. Shareholder's adjusted basis in its Common Shares taxable as capital gains (provided that the Common Shares have been held as a capital asset). Dividends declared by Host REIT in October, November or December of any year and payable to a shareholder of record on a specified date in any such month shall be treated as both paid by Host REIT and received by the shareholder on December 31 of such year, provided that the dividend is actually paid by Host REIT on or before January 31 of the following calendar year.

Distributions made by Host REIT that are properly designated by Host REIT as capital gain dividends will be taxable to taxable non-corporate U.S. Shareholders (i.e., individuals, estates or trusts) as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset held for more than one year (to the extent that they do not exceed Host REIT's actual net capital gain for the taxable year) without regard to the period for which such non-corporate U.S. Shareholder has held his Common Shares. In the event that Host REIT designates any portion of a dividend as a "capital gain dividend," a U.S. Shareholder's share of such capital gain dividend would be an amount which bears the same ratio to the total amount of dividends paid to such U.S. Shareholder for the year as the aggregate amount designated as a capital gain dividend bears to the aggregate amount of all dividends paid on all classes of shares for the year. On November 10, 1997, the IRS issued Notice 97-64, which provides generally that Host REIT may classify portions of its designated capital gain dividend as (i) a 20% gain distribution (which would be taxable to non-corporate U.S. Shareholders at a maximum rate of 20%), (ii) an unrecaptured Section 1250 gain distribution (which would be taxable to non-corporate U.S. Shareholders at a maximum rate of 25%) or (iii) a 28% rate gain distribution (which would be taxable to non-corporate U.S. Shareholders at a maximum rate of 28%). If no designation is made, the entire designated capital gain dividend will be treated as a 28% rate gain distribution. Notice 97-64 provides that a REIT must determine the maximum amounts that it may designate as 20% and 25% rate capital gain dividends by performing the computation required by the Code as if the REIT were an individual whose ordinary income were subject to a marginal tax rate of at least 28%. Notice 97-64 further provides that designations made by the REIT only will be effective to the extent that they comply with Revenue Ruling 89-81, which requires that distributions made to different classes of shares be composed proportionately of dividends of a particular type. On July 22, 1998, as part of the IRS Restructuring Act, the holding period requirement for the application of the 20% and 25% capital gain tax rates was reduced to 12 months from 18 months for sales of capital gain assets on or after January 1, 1998. Although Notice 97-64 will apply to sales of capital gain assets after July 28, 1997 and before January 1, 1998, it is expected that the IRS will issue clarifying guidance (most likely applying the same principles set forth in Notice 97-64) regarding a REIT's designation of capital gain dividends in light of the new holding period requirements. For a discussion of the capital gain tax rates applicable to non-corporate U.S. Shareholders, see "--1997 Act and IRS Restructuring Act Changes to Capital Gain Taxation" below.

Distributions made by Host REIT that are properly designated by Host REIT as capital gain dividends will be taxable to taxable corporate U.S. Shareholders as long-term gain (to the extent that they do not exceed Host REIT's actual net capital gain for the taxable year) at a maximum rate of 35% without regard to the period for which such corporate U.S. Shareholder has held his Common Shares. Such U.S. Shareholders may, however, be required to treat up to 20% of certain capital gain dividends as ordinary income.

U.S. Shareholders may not include in their individual income tax returns any net operating losses or capital losses of Host REIT. Instead, such losses would be carried over by Host REIT for potential offset against future income (subject to certain limitations). Distributions made by Host REIT and gain arising from the sale or exchange by a U.S. Shareholder of Common Shares will not be treated as passive activity income, and, as a result, U.S. Shareholders generally will not be able to apply any "passive losses" against such income or gain. In addition, taxable distributions from Host REIT generally will be treated as investment income for purposes of the investment interest limitation. Capital gain dividends and capital gains from the disposition of shares (including distributions treated as such), however, will be treated as investment income only if the U.S. Shareholder so elects, in which case such capital gains will be taxed at ordinary income rates.

Host REIT will notify shareholders after the close of its taxable year as to the portions of distributions attributable to that year that constitute ordinary income, return of capital and capital gain. Host REIT may designate (by written notice to its shareholders) its net capital gain so that with respect to retained net capital gains, a U.S. Shareholder would include its proportionate share of such gain in income, as long-term capital gain, and would be treated as having paid its proportionate share of the tax paid by Host REIT with respect to the gain. The U.S. Shareholder's basis in its Common Shares would be increased by its share of such gain and decreased by its share of such tax. With respect to such long-term capital gain of a U.S. Shareholder that is an individual or an estate or trust, the IRS, as described above in this section, has authority to issue regulations that could apply the special tax rate applicable generally to the portion of the long-term capital gains of an individual or an estate or trust attributable to deductions for depreciation taken with respect to depreciable real property. IRS Notice 97-64, described above in this section, did not address the taxation of non-corporate REIT shareholders with respect to retained net capital gains.

Sale of Shares. Upon any sale or other disposition of Common Shares, a U.S. Shareholder will recognize gain or loss for federal income tax purposes in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the amount of cash and the fair market value of any property received on such sale or other disposition and (ii) the holder's adjusted basis in such Common Shares for tax purposes. Such gain or loss will be capital gain or loss if the Common Shares have been held by the U.S. Shareholder as a capital asset. In the case of a U.S. Shareholder who is an individual or an estate or trust, such gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if such shares have been held for more than one year (and any such long-term capital gain shall be subject to the maximum 20% capital gain rate). In the case of a U.S. Shareholder that is a corporation, such gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if such shares have been held for more than one year (and any such capital gain shall be subject to the maximum capital gain rate of 35%). In general, any loss recognized by a U.S. Shareholder upon the sale or other disposition of Common Shares that have been held for six months or less (after applying certain holding period rules) will be treated as a long-term capital loss, to the extent of distributions received by such U.S. Shareholder from Host REIT that were required to be treated as long-term capital gains.

1997 Act and IRS Restructuring Act Changes to Capital Gain Taxation. The 1997 Act altered the taxation of capital gain income. Under the 1997 Act, individuals, trusts and estates that hold certain investments for more than 18 months may be taxed at a maximum long-term capital gain rate of 20% on the sale or exchange of those investments. Individuals, trusts and estates that hold certain assets for more than one year but not more than 18 months may be taxed at a maximum long-term capital gain rate of 28% on the sale or exchange of those investments. The 1997 Act also provides a maximum rate of 25% for "unrecaptured Section 1250 gain" for individuals, trusts and estates, special rules for "qualified 5-year gain" and other changes to prior law. The recently enacted IRS Restructuring Act, however, reduced the holding period requirement established by the 1997 Act for the application of the 20% and 25% capital gain tax rates to 12 months from 18 months for sales of capital gain assets after December 31, 1997. The 1997 Act allows the IRS to prescribe regulations on how the 1997 Act's capital gain rates will apply to sales of capital assets by "pass-through entities" (including REITs, such as Host REIT) and to sales of interests in "pass-through entities." For a discussion of the rules under the 1997 Act that apply to the taxation of distributions by Host REIT to its stockholders that are designated by Host REIT as "capital gain dividends," see "---Distributions by Host REIT" above. Shareholders are urged to consult with their own tax advisors with respect to the rules contained in the 1997 Act and the IRS Restructuring Act.

BACKUP WITHHOLDING FOR HOST REIT DISTRIBUTIONS

Host REIT will report to its U.S. Shareholders and the IRS the amount of dividends paid during each calendar year and the amount of tax withheld, if any. Under the backup withholding rules, a U.S. Shareholder may be subject to backup withholding at the rate of 31% with respect to dividends paid unless such holder (a) is a corporation or comes within certain other exempt categories and, when required, demonstrates this fact or (b) provides a taxpayer identification number, certifies as to no loss of exemption from backup withholding and otherwise complies with applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. A U.S. Shareholder that does not provide Host REIT with a correct taxpayer identification number may also be subject to penalties imposed by the IRS. Any amount paid as backup withholding will be creditable against the shareholder's income tax liability. In addition, Host REIT may be required to withhold a portion of its capital gain distributions to any U.S. Shareholders who fail to certify their non-foreign status to Host REIT. See "---Taxation of Non-U.S. Shareholders of Host REIT."

TAXATION OF TAX-EXEMPT SHAREHOLDERS OF HOST REIT

The IRS has ruled that amounts distributed as dividends by a qualified REIT do not constitute unrelated business taxable income ("UBTI") when received by a tax-exempt entity. Based on that ruling, provided that a tax-exempt shareholder (except certain tax-exempt shareholders described below) has not held its Common Shares as "debt financed property" within the meaning of the Code and such Common Shares are not otherwise used in a trade or business, the dividend income from Host REIT will not be UBTI to a tax-exempt shareholder. Similarly, income from the sale of Common Shares will not constitute UBTI unless such tax-exempt shareholder has held such Common Shares as "debt financed property" within the meaning of the Code or has used the Common Shares in a trade or business.

For tax-exempt shareholders that are social clubs, voluntary employee benefit associations, supplemental unemployment benefit trusts and qualified group legal services plans exempt from federal income taxation under Code Sections 501 (c) (7), (c) (9), (c) (17) and (c) (20), respectively, income from an investment in Host REIT will constitute UBTI unless the organization is properly able to deduct amounts set aside or placed in reserve for certain purposes so as to offset the income generated by its investment in Host REIT. Such prospective shareholders should consult their own tax advisors concerning these "set aside" and reserve requirements.

Notwithstanding the above, however, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 (the "1993 Act") provides that, effective for taxable years beginning in 1994, a portion of the dividends paid by a "pension held REIT" shall be treated as UBTI as to any trust which (i) is described in Section 401(a) of the Code, (ii) is tax-exempt under Section 501(a) of the Code and (iii) holds more than 10% (by value) of the interests in the REIT. Tax-exempt pension funds that are described in Section 401(a) of the Code are referred to below as "qualified trusts."

A REIT is a "pension held REIT" if (i) it would not have qualified as a REIT but for the fact that Section 856(h)(3) of the Code (added by the 1993 Act) provides that stock owned by qualified trusts shall be treated, for purposes of the "not closely held" requirement, as owned by the beneficiaries of the trust (rather than by the trust itself) and (ii) either (a) at least one such qualified trust holds more than 25% (by value) of the interests in the REIT or (b) one or more such qualified trusts, each of which owns more than 10% (by value) of the interests in the REIT, hold in the aggregate more than 50% (by value) of the interests in the REIT. The percentage of any REIT dividend treated as UBTI is equal to the ratio of (i) the UBTI earned by the REIT (treating the REIT as if it were a qualified trust and therefore subject to tax on UBTI) to (ii) the total gross income of the REIT. A de minimis exception applies where the percentage is less than 5% for any year. The provisions requiring qualified trusts to treat a portion of REIT distributions as UBTI will not apply if the REIT is able to satisfy the "not closely held" requirement without relying upon the "look-through" exception with respect to qualified trusts.

Based on the anticipated ownership of Common Shares immediately following the REIT Conversion and as a result of certain limitations on transfer and ownership of Common Shares contained in the Charter, Host REIT does not expect to be classified as a "pension held REIT."

TAXATION OF NON-U.S. SHAREHOLDERS OF HOST REIT

The rules governing federal income taxation of the ownership and disposition of Common Shares by persons that are, for purposes of such taxation, nonresident alien individuals, foreign corporations, foreign partnerships or foreign estates or trusts (collectively, "Non-U.S. Shareholders") are complex and no attempt is made herein to provide more than a brief summary of such rules. Accordingly, the discussion does not address all aspects of federal income tax and does not address state, local or foreign tax consequences that may be relevant to a Non-U.S. Shareholder in light of its particular circumstances. In addition, this discussion is based on current law, which is subject to change, and assumes that Host REIT qualifies for taxation as a REIT. Prospective Non-U.S. Shareholders should consult with their own tax advisers to determine the impact of federal, state, local and foreign income tax laws with regard to an investment in Common Shares, including any reporting requirements.

Distributions by Host REIT. Distributions by Host REIT to a Non-U.S. Shareholder that are neither attributable to gain from sales or exchanges by Host REIT of United States real property interests nor designated by Host REIT as capital gains dividends will be treated as dividends of ordinary income to the extent that they are made out of current or accumulated earnings and profits of Host REIT. Such distributions ordinarily will be subject to withholding of United States federal income tax on a gross basis (that is, without allowance of deductions) at a 30% rate or such lower rate as may be specified by an applicable income tax treaty, unless the dividends are treated as effectively connected with the conduct by the Non-U.S. Shareholder of a United States trade or business. Under certain treaties, however, lower withholding rates generally applicable to dividends do not apply to dividends from a REIT, such as Host REIT. Certain certification and disclosure requirements must be satisfied to be exempt from withholding under the effectively connected income exemption. Dividends that are effectively connected with such a trade or business will be subject to tax on a net basis (that is, after allowance of deductions) at graduated rates, in the same manner as U.S. Shareholders are taxed with respect to such dividends and are generally not subject to withholding. Any such dividends received by a Non-U.S. Shareholder that is a corporation may also be subject to an additional branch profits tax at a 30% rate or such lower rate as may be specified by an applicable income tax treaty. Host REIT expects to withhold United States income tax at the rate of 30% on any distribution made to a Non-U.S. Shareholder unless (i) a lower treaty rate applies and any required form or certification evidencing eligibility for that lower rate is filed with Host REIT or (ii) a Non-U.S. Shareholder files an IRS Form 4224 with Host REIT claiming that the distribution is effectively connected income.

Distributions in excess of current or accumulated earnings and profits of Host REIT will not be taxable to a Non-U.S. Shareholder to the extent that they do not exceed the adjusted basis of the shareholder's Common Shares, but rather will reduce the adjusted basis of such Common Shares. To the extent that such distributions exceed the adjusted basis of a Non-U.S. Shareholder's Common Shares, they will give rise to gain from the sale or exchange of its Common Shares, the tax treatment of which is described below. As a result of a legislative change made by the Small Business Job Protection Act of 1996, it appears that Host REIT will be required to withhold 10% of any distribution in excess of Host REIT's current and accumulated earnings and profits. Consequently, although Host REIT intends to withhold at a rate of 30% on the entire amount of any distribution (or a lower applicable treaty rate), to the extent that Host REIT does not do so, any portion of a distribution not subject to withholding at a rate of 30% (or a lower applicable treaty rate) will be subject to withholding at a rate of 10%. However, the Non-U.S. Shareholder may seek a refund of such amounts from the IRS if it subsequently determined that such distribution was, in fact, in excess of current or accumulated earnings and profits of Host REIT, and the amount withheld exceeded the Non-U.S. Shareholder's United States tax liability, if any, with respect to the distribution.

Distributions to a Non-U.S. Shareholder that are designated by Host REIT at the time of distribution as capital gain dividends (other than those arising from the disposition of a United States real property interest) generally will not be subject to United States federal income taxation, unless (i) the investment in the Common Shares is effectively connected with the Non-U.S. Shareholder's United States trade or business, in which case the Non-U.S. Shareholder will be subject to the same treatment as U.S. Shareholders with respect to such gain (except that a shareholder that is a foreign corporation may also be subject to the 30% branch profits tax, as discussed above) or (ii) the Non-U.S. Shareholder is a nonresident alien individual who is present in the United States for 183 days or more during the taxable year and has a "tax home" in the United States, in which case the nonresident alien individual will be subject to a 30% tax on the individual's capital gains.

Pursuant to FIRPTA, distributions to a Non-U.S. Shareholder that are attributable to gain from sales or exchanges by Host REIT of United States real property interests (whether or not designated as capital gain dividends) will cause the Non-U.S. Shareholder to be treated as recognizing such gain as income effectively connected with a United States trade or business. Non-U.S. Shareholders would thus generally be taxed at the same rates applicable to U.S. Shareholders (subject to a special alternative minimum tax in the case of nonresident alien individuals). Also, such gain may be subject to a 30% branch profits tax in the hands of a Non-U.S. Shareholder that is a corporation, as discussed above. Host REIT is required to withhold 35% of any such distribution. That amount is creditable against the Non-U.S. Shareholder's federal income tax liability.

Although the law is not entirely clear on the matter, it appears that amounts designated by Host REIT pursuant to the 1997 Act as undistributed capital gains in respect of the Common Shares held by U.S. Shareholders (see "---Annual Distribution Requirements Applicable to REITs" above) would be treated with respect to Non-U.S. Shareholders in the manner outlined in the preceding two paragraphs for actual distributions by Host REIT of capital gain dividends. Under that approach, the Non-U.S. Shareholders would be able to offset as a credit against their United States federal income tax liability resulting therefrom their proportionate share of the tax paid by Host REIT on such undistributed capital gains (and to receive from the IRS a refund to the extent their proportionate share of such tax paid by Host REIT were to exceed their actual United States federal income tax liability).

Sale of Common Shares. Gain recognized by a Non-U.S. Shareholder upon the sale or exchange of Common Shares generally will not be subject to United States taxation unless such shares constitute a "United States real property interest" within the meaning of FIRPTA. The Common Shares will not constitute a "United States real property interest" so long as Host REIT is a "domestically controlled REIT." A "domestically controlled REIT" is a REIT in which at all times during a specified testing period less than 50% in value of its stock is held directly or indirectly by Non-U.S. Shareholders. Host REIT is unable at this time to predict whether it will be a "domestically controlled REIT," and therefore whether the sale of Common Shares will be subject to taxation under FIRPTA. Moreover, even if Host REIT initially qualifies as a "domestically controlled REIT," because the Common Shares are expected to be publicly traded, no assurance can be given that Host REIT would continue to be a "domestically controlled REIT." Notwithstanding the foregoing, gain from the sale or exchange of Common Shares not otherwise subject to FIRPTA will be taxable to a Non-U.S. Shareholder if the Non-U.S. Shareholder is a nonresident alien individual who is present in the United States for 183 days or more during the taxable year and has a "tax home" in the United States. In such case, the nonresident alien individual will be subject to a 30% United States withholding tax on the amount of such individual's gain.

Even if Host REIT does not qualify as or ceases to be a domestically-controlled REIT, gain arising from the sale or exchange by a Non-U.S. Shareholder of Common Shares would not be subject to United States taxation under FIRPTA as a sale of a "United States real property interest" if (i) the Common Shares are "regularly traded" (as defined by applicable Treasury Regulations) on an established securities market (e.g., the NYSE) and (ii) such Non-U.S. Shareholder owned 5% or less of the Common Shares throughout the five-year period ending on the date of the sale or exchange. If gain on the sale or exchange of Common Shares were subject to taxation under FIRPTA, the Non-U.S. Shareholder would be subject to regular United States income tax with respect to such gain in the same manner as a taxable U.S. Shareholder (subject to any applicable alternative minimum tax, a special alternative minimum tax in the case of nonresident alien individuals and the possible application of the 30% branch profits tax in the case of foreign corporations) and the purchaser of the Common Shares would be required to withhold and remit to the IRS 10% of the purchase price.

Backup Withholding Tax and Information Reporting. Backup withholding tax (which generally is a withholding tax imposed at the rate of 31% on certain payments to persons that fail to furnish certain information under the United States information reporting requirements) and information reporting will generally not apply to distributions paid to Non-U.S. Shareholders outside the United States that are treated as (i) dividends subject to the 30% (or lower treaty rate) withholding tax discussed above, (ii) capital gain dividends or (iii) distributions attributable to gain from the sale or exchange by Host REIT of United States real property interests. As a general matter, backup withholding and information reporting will not apply to a payment of the proceeds of a sale of Common Shares by or through a foreign office of a foreign broker. Information reporting (but not backup withholding) will apply, however, to a payment of the proceeds of a sale of Common Shares by a foreign office of a broker that (a) is a United States person, (b) derives 50% or more of its gross income for certain periods from the conduct of a trade or business in the United States or (c) is a "controlled foreign corporation" (generally, a foreign corporation controlled by United States shareholders) for United States tax purposes, unless the broker has documentary evidence in its records that the holder is a Non-U.S. Shareholder and certain other conditions are met or the shareholder otherwise establishes an exemption. Payment to or through a United States office of a broker of the proceeds of a sale of Common Shares is subject to both backup withholding and information reporting unless the shareholder certifies under penalty of perjury that the shareholder is a Non-U.S. Shareholder, or otherwise establishes an exemption. A Non-U.S. Shareholder may obtain a refund of any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules by filing the appropriate claim for refund with the IRS.

The IRS has recently finalized regulations regarding the withholding and information reporting rules discussed above. In general, these regulations do not alter the substantive withholding and information reporting requirements but unify certification procedures and forms and clarify and modify reliance standards. These regulations generally are effective for payments made after December 31, 2000, subject to certain transition rules. Valid withholding certificates that are held on December 31, 1999, will remain valid until the earlier of December 31, 2000 or the date of expiration of the certificate under rules currently in effect (unless otherwise invalidated due to changes in the circumstances of the person whose name is on such certificate). A Non-U.S. Shareholder should consult its own advisor regarding the effect of the new Treasury Regulations.

General. Substantially all of Host REIT's investments will be held through the Operating Partnership, which will hold the Hotels either directly or through the Hotel Partnerships (which, in turn, may hold Hotels through certain Subsidiary Partnerships). In general, partnerships are "pass-through" entities that are not subject to federal income tax. Rather, partners are allocated their proportionate shares of the items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit of a partnership, and are potentially subject to tax thereon, without regard to whether the partners receive a distribution from the partnership. Host REIT will include in its income its proportionate share of the foregoing partnership items for purposes of the various REIT income tests and in the computation of its REIT taxable income. Moreover, for purposes of the REIT asset tests, Host REIT will include its proportionate share of assets held through the Operating Partnership, the Hotel Partnerships and any Subsidiary Partnerships. See "--Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Ownership of Partnership Interests by a REIT."

Entity Classification. If the Operating Partnership, any of the Hotel Partnerships, any of the Subsidiary Partnerships, or any other partnership or LLC in which the Operating Partnership has a direct or indirect interest were treated as an association, the entity would be taxable as a corporation and therefore would be subject to an entity level tax on its income. In such a situation, the character of Host REIT's assets and items of gross income would change and could preclude Host REIT from qualifying as a REIT (see "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Asset Tests Applicable to REITs" and "--Income Tests Applicable to REITs").

Hogan & Hartson has delivered to Host REIT and the Operating Partnership an opinion stating that, based on certain factual assumptions and representations described in the opinion, the Operating Partnership, each of the Hotel Partnerships and each of the Subsidiary Partnerships will be treated as a partnership (or disregarded) for federal income tax purposes (and not treated as an association taxable as a corporation).

Partnership Allocations. Although a partnership agreement will generally determine the allocation of income and loss among partners, such allocations will be disregarded for tax purposes if they do not comply with the provisions of Section 704(b) of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder. Generally, Section 704(b) and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder require that partnership allocations respect the economic arrangement of the partners.

If an allocation is not recognized for federal income tax purposes, the item subject to the allocation will be reallocated in accordance with the partners' interests in the partnership, which will be determined by taking into account all of the facts and circumstances relating to the economic arrangement of the partners with respect to such item. The allocations of taxable income and loss provided for in the Partnership Agreement and the partnership agreements for the Hotel Partnerships (and any Subsidiary Partnerships) are intended to comply with the requirements of Section 704(b) of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder.

Tax Allocations with Respect to the Hotels. As described above, pursuant to Section 704(c) of the Code, income, gain, loss and deduction attributable to appreciated or depreciated property (such as the Hotels) that is contributed to a partnership in exchange for an interest in the partnership must be allocated in a manner such that the contributing partner is charged with, or benefits from, respectively, the Book-Tax Difference associated with the property at the time of the contribution. The Partnership Agreement requires that such allocations be made in a manner consistent with Section 704(c) of the Code.

In general, the partners of the Operating Partnership who contributed depreciated assets having an adjusted tax basis less than their fair market value at the time of contribution (which includes both Host REIT and all of the Limited Partners owning interests in the Partnerships) will be allocated depreciation deductions for tax purposes that are lower than such deductions would be if determined on a pro rata basis. In addition, in the event of the disposition of any of the contributed assets which have such a Book-Tax Difference, all income attributable to such Book-Tax Difference generally will be allocated to such partners. These allocations will tend to eliminate the Book-Tax Difference over the life of the Operating Partnership. However, the special allocation rules of Section 704(c) do not always entirely eliminate the Book-Tax Difference on an annual basis or with respect to a specific taxable transaction such as a sale. Thus, the carryover basis of the contributed assets in the hands of the Operating Partnership may cause Host REIT to be allocated lower depreciation and other deductions, and possibly an amount of taxable income in the event of a sale of such contributed assets in excess of the economic or book income allocated to it as a result of such sale. Such an allocation might cause Host REIT to recognize taxable income in excess of cash proceeds, which might adversely affect Host REIT's ability to comply with the REIT distribution requirements. See "Federal Income Taxation of Host REIT Following the Mergers--Annual Distribution Requirements Applicable to REITs."

As described above in "Tax Consequences of the Merger--Relief from Liabilities/Deemed Cash Distribution," the Operating Partnership and Host REIT have determined to use generally the traditional method, with a provision for a curative allocation of gain on sale to the extent prior allocations of depreciation with respect to a specific Hotel were limited by the "ceiling rule" applicable under the traditional method, to account for Book-Tax Differences with respect to the Hotels contributed to the Operating Partnership in connection with the Mergers (although there may be certain exceptions). This method is generally a more favorable method for accounting for Book-Tax Differences from the perspective of those partners (including Host REIT) receiving OP Units in exchange for property with a low basis relative to value at the time of the Mergers and is a less favorable method from the perspective of those partners contributing cash (or "high basis" assets) to the Operating Partnership (including Host REIT, to the extent it contributes cash to the Operating Partnership).

With respect to any property purchased by the Operating Partnership subsequent to the Mergers, such property will initially have a tax basis equal to its fair market value, and Section 704(c) of the Code will not apply.

OTHER TAX CONSEQUENCES FOR HOST REIT AND ITS SHAREHOLDERS

Host REIT and its shareholders may be subject to state or local taxation in various state or local jurisdictions, including those in which it (through the Operating Partnership) or they transact business or reside. The state and local tax treatment of Host REIT and its shareholders may not conform to the federal income tax consequences discussed above. Consequently, prospective shareholders of Host REIT should consult their own tax advisors regarding the effect of state and local tax laws on an investment in Host REIT.

A portion of the cash to be used by Host REIT to fund distributions is expected to come from each Non-Controlled Subsidiary through payments of dividends on the shares of such corporation held by the Operating Partnership (and, in some cases, interest on notes held by the Operating Partnership). Each Non-Controlled Subsidiary will pay federal and state income tax at the full applicable corporate rates on its taxable income, computed without regard to any deduction for dividends. To the extent that a Non-Controlled Subsidiary is required to pay federal, state or local taxes, the cash otherwise available for distribution by Host REIT to its shareholders will be reduced accordingly.

DISTRIBUTION OF SOLICITATION MATERIALS

This Consent Solicitation, together with the accompanying transmittal letter, the Limited Partner consent form (the "Consent Form") and the Q & A constitute the Solicitation Materials being distributed to the Limited Partners to obtain their votes for, against or to abstain with respect to a Merger and for, against or to abstain with respect to the related amendments to a partnership agreement. Information regarding the Mergers and the related amendments to the partnership agreements may be obtained from the General Partners or Shareholder Communications Corporation (the "Information Agent").

In order to participate in a Merger, the Limited Partners of each Partnership must approve both such participation and the amendments to the partnership agreements by a certain vote of limited partner interests as set forth in the tables below under "--Required Limited Partners Vote and Other Conditions." The General Partners already have approved the Mergers and the proposed amendments to the partnership agreements. Each Partnership that approves the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreements will effect a Merger as set forth below and in the Supplement relating to the individual Partnership. Each Limited Partner, therefore, should complete and return the Consent Form before the expiration of the Solicitation Period. The Solicitation Period is the time period during which Limited Partners may vote for or against the Mergers and for or against the amendments to the partnership agreements or abstain with respect thereto. The Solicitation Period will commence upon delivery of the Solicitation Materials to the Limited Partners (on or about October 13, 1998) and will continue until the later of (a) December 12, 1998 or (b) such later date as may be selected by the General Partners and the Operating Partnership and as to which notice is given to the Limited Partners. At their discretion, the General Partners and the Operating Partnership may elect to extend the Solicitation Period. Any Consent Form received by Gemisys/Trust Co. of America, as the tabulation agent (the "Tabulation Agent"), prior to 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the last day of the Solicitation Period will be effective provided that such Consent Form has been properly completed and signed. THE PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS OF ATLANTA MARQUIS, CHICAGO SUITES, MDAH OR PHLP LIMITED PARTNERS WHO FAIL TO RETURN A SIGNED CONSENT FORM BY THE END OF THE SOLICITATION PERIOD OR WHO ABSTAIN WITH RESPECT THERETO WILL EFFECTIVELY BE COUNTED AS VOTING AGAINST THE MERGER AND AGAINST THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. THE PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS OF DESERT SPRINGS, HANOVER, MHP OR MHP2 LIMITED PARTNERS WHO FAIL TO RETURN A SIGNED CONSENT FORM BY THE END OF THE SOLICITATION PERIOD WILL NOT BE COUNTED FOR PURPOSES OF DETERMINING WHETHER A MAJORITY OF LIMITED PARTNER PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS ARE PRESENT, WHILE THE PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS OF THOSE WHO ABSTAIN WILL BE COUNTED FOR PURPOSES OF ESTABLISHING THE NUMBER OF LIMITED PARTNER PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS REQUIRED TO RECOGNIZE THE VOTE, BUT WILL EFFECTIVELY BE COUNTED AS VOTING AGAINST THE MERGER AND AGAINST THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS. FAILURE OF A LIMITED PARTNER TO RETURN A SIGNED CONSENT FORM, WHETHER IT COUNTS AS A VOTE AGAINST THE MERGER OR THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENTS OR HINDERS THE DETERMINATION OF WHETHER A MAJORITY OF LIMITED PARTNER PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS ARE PRESENT, MAY JEOPARDIZE COMPLETION OF THE MERGERS.

The Consent Form seeks a Limited Partner's consent to the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement. If a Limited Partner has interests in more than one Partnership, he will receive a Consent Form for each Partnership. LIMITED PARTNERS WHO RETURN A PROPERLY SIGNED BUT NOT MARKED CONSENT FORM WILL BE VOTED "FOR" A MERGER AND "FOR" THE AMENDMENTS TO THE PARTNERSHIP AGREEMENT.

FORM W-9 AND FIRPTA CERTIFICATION OR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATE REQUIRED

As a condition to the receipt of OP Units in the Mergers, each Limited Partner who does not want to be subject to withholding under FIRPTA and certain other applicable withholding rules will be required to provide to the Operating Partnership an executed Form W-9 and either a certification, made under penalties of perjury, that he is a United States citizen or resident (or if an entity, an entity organized under the laws of the United States) or, alternatively, a withholding certificate from the IRS providing that no withholding is required with respect to such Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers. If such certification or withholding certificate is not provided, the Operating Partnership will be required to withhold an amount equal to 10% of the "amount realized" by such Limited Partner in connection with the Mergers, including both the value of the OP Units received and such Limited Partner's share of the liabilities of his Partnership. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Withholding."

NO SPECIAL MEETINGS

None of the Partnerships has scheduled a special meeting of its Limited Partners to discuss the Solicitation Materials or the terms of the Mergers or the related partnership agreement amendments. The General Partners, members of Host REIT's management and the Information Agent intend to solicit actively the support of the Limited Partners for the Mergers and such amendments and, subject to applicable federal and state securities laws, hold informal meetings with Limited Partners, answer questions about the Mergers, the related amendments and the Solicitation Materials and explain the reasons for the recommendation that Limited Partners vote to approve the Mergers and such related amendments. Costs of solicitation will be allocated as set forth in "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Expenses." No person will receive compensation contingent upon solicitation of a favorable vote.

REQUIRED LIMITED PARTNER VOTE AND OTHER CONDITIONS

Required Limited Partner Vote for the Mergers.

The General Partners and the Operating Partnership have conditioned participation in the Mergers by each Partnership upon the approval of the General Partner (which has been obtained) and the required votes of Limited Partners set forth in the table below. See "The Mergers and the REIT Conversion--Conditions to the Consummation of the Mergers."

PARTNERSHIP	REQUIRED VOTE
Atlanta Marquis	A majority of Class A limited partner interests must be present either in person or by proxy to establish a quorum and consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the outstanding Class A limited partner interests and the approval of the General Partner. The General Partner holds 0.28% of the outstanding Class A limited partner interests. Host will vote its Class A limited partner interests FOR the Merger.
Chicago Suites	Consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the outstanding limited partner interests and the approval of the General Partner. Host holds no limited partner interests.
Desert Springs	A majority of the limited partner interests other than the limited partner interests held by the General Partner, if any, must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the limited partner interests actually voting and the approval of the General Partner are required for approval of a Merger. Host holds no limited partner interests.
Hanover	A majority of the limited partner interests must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the limited partner interests, other than the limited partner interests held by the General Partner, actually voting and the approval of the General Partner. Host holds 47.62% of the outstanding limited partner interests. Host must vote all of its limited partner interests in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests vote so long as consents of a majority of "outside" limited partner interests held by Limited Partners are returned and not withdrawn prior to the end of the Solicitation Period.

MDAH
Consent of limited partners other than the limited partner interests held by the General Partner holding more than 50% of the outstanding limited partner interests and the approval of the General Partner. Host holds 0.60% of the limited partner interests. Host is not permitted to vote its limited partner interests.

MHP
A majority of the limited partner interests must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and consent of limited partners (other than the limited partner interests held by the General Partner) holding more than 50% of the limited partner interests actually voting and the approval of the General Partner are required for approval of a Merger. Host holds 48.33% of the outstanding limited partner interests. Host must vote all of its limited partner interests in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests vote so long as consents of a majority of limited partner interests held by Limited Partners are returned and not withdrawn prior to the end of the Solicitation Period.

MHP2
A majority of the limited partner interests must be present in person or by proxy for the vote to be recognized and consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the limited partner interests actually voting and the approval of the General Partner are required for approval of a Merger. Host holds 52.75% of the outstanding limited partner interests. Host must vote all of its limited partner interests in the same manner as the majority of "outside" limited partner interests other than those limited partner interests held by the General Partner and its affiliates actually voted (so long as a majority of the outside limited partners are present for purposes of a vote by submitting ballots or otherwise).

PHLP
Consent of limited partners holding more than 50% of the outstanding limited partner interests and the approval of the General Partner. Host holds 0.06% of the limited partner interests. Host will vote such limited partner interests FOR the Merger.

- (1) The number of Partnership Units required for approval of a Merger or the related partnership agreement amendments cannot be calculated because approval requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the number of Partnership Units actually voted by Limited Partners; provided, that, the total number of Partnership Units voted by Limited Partners constitutes a majority of the outstanding Partnership Units held by Limited Partners.

- (2) The General Partner of MDAH holds 2.5 Partnership Units and may not vote such Partnership Units. Therefore only 411.5 Partnership Units are eligible to be voted and the total number of Partnership Units required to approve the MDAH Merger is 206.

Each Limited Partner is entitled to one vote for each Partnership Unit held. Accordingly, the number of Partnership Units entitled to vote with respect to the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreement is equivalent to the number of Partnership Units held of record at the Record Date.

Investor Lists. Under Rule 14a-7 of the Exchange Act, each Partnership is required, upon the written request of a Limited Partner, to provide to the requesting Limited Partner (i) a statement of the approximate number of Limited Partners in such Limited Partner's Partnership and (ii) the estimated cost of mailing a proxy statement, form of proxy or other similar communication to such Limited Partners. In addition, a Limited Partner has the right, at his or her option, either (a) to have his Partnership mail (at such Limited Partner's expense) copies of any proxy statement, proxy form or other soliciting materials furnished by the Partnership to the Partnership's Limited Partners designated by the Limited Partner or (b) to have the Partnership deliver to the requesting Limited Partner, within five business days of the receipt of the request, a reasonably current list of the names, addresses and class of Partnership Units held by the Partnership's Limited Partners. The right to receive the list of Limited Partners is subject to the requesting Limited Partner's payment of the cost of mailing and duplication at a rate of $0.15 per page.

Tabulation of Votes. An automated system administered by the Tabulation Agent will tabulate the votes and dissents in connection with the Mergers and the amendments to the partnership agreements. The Tabulation Agent will make the tabulation available to Host REIT, the Operating Partnership, the General Partners and any Limited Partner upon request. Abstentions will be tabulated with respect to the Mergers and the amendments to the partnership agreements. The number of Partnership Units that must be voted in favor of the Merger and the amendments to the partnership agreements for the Merger to be approved by the respective Partnerships is shown in the table above.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COMMON SHARE ELECTION

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units with Host REIT for Common Shares must indicate their election on the OP Unit Exchange Election Form and deliver such form to the Operating Partnership at any time during the period beginning on the first day of the Solicitation Period and ending at 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the fifteenth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (expected to be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998) (the "Election Period") (which election may be revoked, and, if revoked, made again, at any time prior to the end of the Election Period). At their discretion, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT may elect to extend the Election Period. Even if a Limited Partner votes against the Merger, he may still choose to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares in the event the Merger is approved. A Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who fails to timely and properly return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form will receive and retain OP Units. Each Limited Partner in a Participating Partnership who timely and properly elects to exchange his OP Units for Common Shares (and who has not timely revoked such election at any time during the Election Period) will tender (or be deemed to have tendered) all of the OP Units he receives in the Merger to Host REIT for an equal number of Common Shares. The Common Shares will be issued to the Limited Partner promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Merger is December 30, 1998). The Common Shares are expected to receive quarterly cash distributions in the same amount as the cash distributions with respect to each OP Unit. See "Description of Capital Stock--Common Shares."

DESCRIPTION OF THE NOTE ELECTION

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units with the Operating Partnership for a Note must indicate their election on the OP Unit Exchange Election Form and deliver such form to the Operating Partnership at any time prior to the end of the Election Period (which election may be revoked, and, if revoked, made again, at any time prior to the end of the Election Period). Even if a Limited Partner votes against the Merger, he still may choose to exchange his OP Units for a Note in the event the Merger is approved. A Limited Partner of a Participating Partnership who fails to timely and properly return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form will receive and retain OP Units. Each Limited Partner in a Participating Partnership who timely and properly elects to exchange his OP Units for a Note (and who has not timely revoked such election at any time during the Election Period) will tender (or be deemed to have tendered) all of the OP Units he receives in the Merger to the Operating Partnership for the Note. The Note will be issued to the Limited Partner promptly following the twentieth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be promptly after January 29, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998). The Notes will (i) be unsecured obligations of the Operating Partnership, (ii) have a principal amount equal to the Note Election Amount of a Limited Partner's Partnership Interests, (iii) mature on December 15, 2005 (approximately seven years after the currently expected closing of the Mergers), (iv) bear interest at 6.56% per annum, which was determined based on 120% of the applicable federal rate as of the Record Date (which was 5.47%), payable semi-annually on June 15 and December 15 each year commencing from and after the Effective Date of the Mergers, (v) provide for optional prepayment by the Operating Partnership at any time without penalty and mandatory prepayment of principal from a ratable portion of the net proceeds (after repayment of debt, sales expenses and deferred management fees) realized from any sale of any Hotels formerly owned by the Limited Partner's Partnership and from certain excess refinancing proceeds and (vi) provide for the payment of the remaining principal balance at maturity. See "Description of the Notes."

ELECTION PROCEDURES

Limited Partners who desire to exchange their OP Units for Common Shares or a Note must timely and properly complete and return the OP Unit Exchange Election Form. A Limited Partner must make such election (or revoke any election previously made) at any time during the Election Period, which will commence on the first day of the Solicitation Period and will continue until 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the fifteenth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (which would be January 22, 1999 if the Effective Date of the Mergers is December 30, 1998), unless extended. A Limited Partner who has returned an OP Unit Exchange Election Form may withdraw or revoke such election at any time prior to the expiration of the Election Period by either submitting a later dated OP Unit Exchange Election Form or notifying the Operating Partnership in writing that he wishes to withdraw such previous election. The OP Unit Exchange Election Form must be submitted so that it is received by the Partnership (c/o the Operating Partnership) at any time prior to the end of the Election Period. This election can be revoked, or an alternative election can be made, by submitting to the Partnership, in writing, such revocation or alternative election so that it is received by the Partnership at any time prior to the end of the Election Period.

FORM W-9 AND FIRPTA CERTIFICATION OR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATE REQUIRED

As a condition to the receipt of Common Shares or a Note in exchange for OP Units if a Limited Partner exercises the Common Share Election or the Note Election, each Limited Partner who does not want to be subject to withholding under FIRPTA and certain other applicable withholding rules will be required to provide to Host REIT and the Operating Partnership an executed substitute Form W-9 and either a certification, made under penalties of perjury, that he is a United States citizen or resident (or if an entity, an entity organized under the laws of the United States) or, alternatively, a withholding certificate from the IRS providing that no withholding is required with respect to such Limited Partner in connection with the Common Share Election or the Note Election. If such certification or withholding certificate is not provided, Host REIT or the Operating Partnership will be required to withhold an amount equal to 10% of the "amount realized" by such Limited Partner in connection with the Common Share Election or the Note Election, including both the value of the securities received and such Limited Partner's share of the liabilities of the Operating Partnership. See "Federal Income Tax Consequences--Tax Consequences of the Mergers--Withholding."

LEGAL MATTERS

Certain legal matters, including certain tax matters, will be passed upon for the Operating Partnership and Host REIT by Hogan & Hartson L.L.P., Washington, D.C.

AVAILABLE INFORMATION

The Partnerships are subject to the reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), and are required to file reports and other information with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission"), 450 Fifth Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20549. In addition, the Operating Partnership and Host REIT have filed a Registration Statement on Form S-4 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), and the rules and regulations thereunder, with respect to the securities offered pursuant to this Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement. This Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, which is part of the Registration Statement, does not contain all of the information set forth in the Registration Statement and the exhibits and financial schedules thereto. For further information concerning the Mergers, please refer to the reports of the Partnerships filed under the Exchange Act and the Operating Partnership's and Host REIT's Registration Statement and such exhibits and schedules, copies of which may be examined without charge at, or obtained upon payment of prescribed fees from, the Public Reference Section of the Commission at Judiciary Plaza, 450 Fifth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20549, and which will also be available for inspection and copying at the regional offices of the Commission located at Room 1400, 75 Park Place, New York, New York 10007 and at 500 West Madison Street, Suite 1400, Chicago, Illinois 60661-2511. The Commission maintains a web site that contains reports, proxy and information statements and other information regarding registrants that file electronically with the Commission at "http: www.sec.gov".

A separate Supplement to this Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement has been prepared for each Partnership and will be delivered to each Limited Partner of the Partnership covered thereby. Upon receipt of a written request by a Limited Partner or representative so designated in writing, the General Partners will send a copy of any Supplement without charge. All requests should be directed to: Investor Relations, 10400 Fernwood Road, Bethesda, Maryland 20817, telephone number: (301) 380-2070 (between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Eastern time).

Statements contained in this Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement or any supplements hereto as to the contents of any contract or other document which is filed as an exhibit to the Registration Statement are not necessarily complete, and each such statement is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of such contract or document.

Upon consummation of the REIT Conversion, Host REIT and the Operating Partnership will be required to file reports and other information with the Commission pursuant to the Exchange Act. In addition to applicable legal or NYSE requirements, if any, holders of the OP Units and the Common Shares will receive annual reports containing audited financial statements with a report thereon by Host REIT's and the Operating Partnership's independent public accountants, and quarterly reports containing unaudited financial information for each of the first three quarters of each fiscal year. If a Partnership does not participate in the Merger, such Partnership will continue to file reports and other information with the Commission as required by law, if applicable.

"Company" means Host (to the extent of its business and assets to be contributed to the Operating Partnership) with respect to periods prior to the REIT Conversion, and Host REIT and the Operating Partnership collectively with respect to the period after the REIT Conversion.

"Consent Solicitation" means the Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement of the Operating Partnership and Host REIT dated October 8, 1998.

"Continuation Value" of a Partnership represents AAA's estimate, as adopted by the General Partners, of the discounted present value as of January 1, 1998, of the limited partners' share of estimated future cash distributions and estimated net sales proceeds (plus lender reserves), assuming that the Partnership continues as an operating business for twelve years and its assets are sold on December 31, 2009 for their then estimated market value.

"Consent Form" means the form on which the Limited Partners may vote "FOR," "AGAINST" or "ABSTAIN" with respect to the Mergers and "FOR," "AGAINST" or "ABSTAIN" with respect to the related amendments to the partnership agreements.

"Control share acquisition" means the acquisition of control shares, subject to certain exceptions.

"Control shares" means voting shares which, if aggregated with all other such shares previously acquired by the acquiror or in respect of which the acquiror is able to exercise or direct the exercise of voting power (except solely by virtue of a revocable proxy), would entitle the acquiror to exercise voting power in electing directors within one of the following ranges of voting power: (i) one-fifth or more but less than one-third, (ii) one-third or more but less than a majority or (iii) a majority or more of all voting power. Control shares do not include shares the acquiring person is then entitled to vote as a result of having previously obtained shareholder approval.

"Convertible Preferred Securities" means the 6 3/4% Convertible Quarterly Income Preferred Securities issued by Host Marriott Financial Trust, with an aggregate liquidation amount of $550 million, which are guaranteed on a subordinated basis by, and convertible into the common stock of, Host.

"CPI" means the Consumer Price Index.

"Crestline" means Crestline Capital Corporation (formerly HMC Senior Communities, Inc.), a Delaware corporation, or, as the context may require, such entity together with the Lessees and its other subsidiaries or any of them, which currently is a wholly owned subsidiary of Host but will become a separate public company when Host or Host REIT distributes the common stock of Crestline to its existing shareholders as part of the Initial E&P Distribution.

"Delaware Act" means the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act.

"Desert Springs" means Desert Springs Marriott Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership, or, as the context may require, such entity together with its subsidiaries, or any of such subsidiaries.

"Disguised Sale Regulations" means Section 707 of the Code and the Treasury Regulations thereunder.

"E&P" means Host's accumulated earnings and profits, as computed for federal income tax purposes.

"Effective Date" means the date on which the Effective Time occurs.

"Effective Time" means the time at which the Certificates of Merger with respect to the Mergers of the Merger Partnerships with the Participating Partnerships are filed with the Secretaries of State of the State of Delaware and the State of Rhode Island (or such later date or time as may be specified therein in accordance with applicable law).

"EITF" means the Emerging Issues Task Force of the Financial Accounting Standards Board.

"Election Period" means the period commencing on the first day of the Solicitation Period and ending at 5:00 p.m., Eastern time, on the fifteenth trading day after the Effective Date of the Mergers (or such later date or time as Host REIT and the Operating Partnership may extend in their sole and absolute discretion).

"Engineering Study" means a study prepared by an engineer retained by Host with respect to the deferred maintenance requirements for each of the Partnership's Hotels.

"Excess FF&E" means replacement FF&E that would cause the average tax basis of the items of the Lessor's FF&E and other personal property that are leased to the applicable Lessee to exceed 15% of the aggregate average tax basis of the real and personal property subject to the applicable Lease.

"Excess Losses" means losses that would have the effect of creating a deficit balance in a Limited Partner's capital account.

"Exchange Act" means the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.

"Exchange Value" of a Partnership or Partnership Interest means the value equal to the greatest of its Adjusted Appraised Value, Continuation Value and Liquidation Value.

"Fairness Opinion" means the fairness opinion rendered by AAA which concluded that: (i) the Exchange Value and the methodologies and underlying assumptions used to determine the Exchange Value, the Adjusted Appraised Value, the Continuation Value and the Liquidation Value of each Partnership (including, without limitation, the assumptions used to determine the various adjustments to the Appraised Values of the Hotels) are fair and reasonable, from a financial point of view, to the Limited Partners of each Partnership and (ii) the methodologies used to determine the value of an OP Unit and the allocation of the equity in the Operating Partnership to be received by the limited partners of each Partnership are fair and reasonable to the Limited Partners of each Partnership.

"FF&E" means furniture, fixtures and equipment.

"FF&E Adjustment" means the amount by which the annual Minimum Rent would be reduced in the event that the average tax basis of the items of the Lessor's FF&E and other personal property that are leased to the applicable Lessee would exceed 15% of the aggregate average tax basis of the real and personal property subject to the applicable Lease.

"FF&E Replacements" means FF&E to be acquired and certain routine repairs that are normally capitalized to be performed in the next year.

"Final Valuation Date" means the date that is the end of the four-week accounting period ending at least 20 days prior to the Effective Date and is the date when the Exchange Values will be finally determined.

"FIRPTA" means the Foreign Investment in Real Property Tax Act of 1980.

"Forum Group" means the Forum Group, Inc., which was acquired by Host on June 21, 1997 from Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc., a subsidiary of Marriott International. The Forum Group holds interests in 31 senior living communities.

"Full Participation Scenario" means the REIT Conversion, including the Blackstone Acquisition, occurs, all the Partnerships participate and no Common Shares or Notes are issued.

"Funds From Operations" or "FFO" as defined by NAREIT means net income computed in accordance with GAAP, excluding gains or losses from debt restructurings and sales of properties, plus real estate related depreciation and amortization, and after adjustments for unconsolidated partnerships and joint ventures. FFO should not be considered as an alternative to net income, operating profit, cash flows from operations or any other operating or liquidity performance measure prescribed by GAAP. FFO is also not an indicator of funds available to fund the Company's cash needs, including its ability to make distributions. The Company's method of calculating FFO may be different from methods used by other REITs and, accordingly, is not comparable to such other REITs.

"GAAP" means generally accepted accounting principles.

"General Partner" means the general partner of a Partnership, each of which is a wholly owned, direct or indirect, subsidiary of Host (except in the case of PHLP, in which Host is the General Partner).

"Gross Revenues" means proceeds from aggregate sales from a Hotel, including room sales, food and beverage sales and telephone and other sales.

"Hanover" means Hanover Marriott Limited Partnership, a Delaware limited partnership.

"Holders" means persons in whose names the Notes are registered in the security register for the Notes.

"Host Employee Trust" means the Host Marriott Employee Statutory Trust, a Delaware statutory business trust, the beneficiaries of which with respect to distributions of income are employees of Host REIT eligible to participate in the Comprehensive Stock Incentive Plan (excluding Directors of Host REIT and certain other highly compensated employees). The Host Employee Trust and possibly certain other investors will be the owners of the voting stock of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.

"Host REIT" means HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation, which will be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership and the successor to Host, or, as the context may require, HMC Merger Corporation together with its subsidiaries or any of such subsidiaries. In connection with the REIT Conversion, HMC Merger Corporation will change its name to "Host Marriott Corporation."

"Hotel Partnership" means any Partnership or Private Partnership.

"Hotels" means the approximately 125 full-service hotels operating primarily under the Marriott, Ritz-Carlton, Four Seasons, Swissotel and Hyatt brand names in which the Operating Partnership and its subsidiaries are expected initially to have controlling interests or own outright following the REIT Conversion and the Blackstone Acquisition.

"Impermissible Tenant Service Income" means any amount charged to a tenant for services rendered by Host REIT or its affiliates other than through an independent contractor from whom Host REIT derives no revenue excluding for these purposes services "usually or customarily rendered" in connection with the rental of real property and not otherwise considered "rendered to the occupant."

"Indenture" means the indenture to be entered into between the Operating Partnership and the Indenture Trustee pursuant to which the Notes will be issued.

"Indenture Trustee" means Marine Midland Bank, the trustee under the Indenture.

"Information Agent" means Shareholder Communication Corporation.

"Initial Basis" means a Limited Partner's initial tax basis in his OP Units.

"Leases" means the lease agreements under which the Lessees will lease the Hotels from the Operating Partnership.

"Lessees" means the entities to which the Operating Partnership will lease the Hotels and who will operate the Hotels under the existing Management Agreements and pay rent to the Operating Partnership.

"LIBOR" means the London Interbank Offered Rate.

"Limited Partners" means the limited partners, excluding those affiliated with Host, of the Partnerships.

"Liquidation Value" of a Partnership represents the General Partners' estimate of the net proceeds to limited partners resulting from the assumed sale as of December 31, 1998 of the Hotel(s) of the Partnership, each at its Adjusted Appraised Value (after eliminating any "mark to market" adjustment and adding back the deduction for transfer taxes and fees, if any, made in deriving the Adjusted Appraised Value) less (i) estimated liquidation costs, expenses and contingencies equal to 2.5% of Appraised Value and (ii) prepayment penalties or defeasance costs, as applicable.

"Management Agreements" means the current management agreements pursuant to which the Managers manage the Hotels. Following REIT Conversion, the Management Agreements will be assigned to and assumed by the Lessees for the term of the applicable Lease.

"Managers" means the subsidiaries of Marriott International and other companies who manage the Hotels on behalf of Host or the Hotel Partnerships (and following the REIT Conversion, on behalf of the Lessees) pursuant to the existing management agreements.

"Market Leasing Factor" means the amount used to determine the FF&E Adjustment to Minimum Rent in the event that the average tax basis of the items of the Lessor's FF&E and other personal property that are leased to the applicable Lessee would exceed 15% of the aggregate average tax basis of the real and personal property subject to the applicable Lease. The Market Leasing Factor will be determined for the first two years under a Lease at the time the Lease is executed. Each year thereafter, the Market Leasing Factor will be determined by an independent valuation expert based upon the median of the leasing rates of at least three nationally recognized companies engaged in the business of leasing similar personal property.

"Market Value" means the most probable price which a property should bring in a competitive and open market under all conditions requisite to a fair sale, the buyer and seller each acting prudently and knowledgeably and assuming the price is not affected by undue stimuli. Implicit in this definition is the consummation of a sale as of a specified date and the passing of title from seller to buyer under conditions whereby: (i) the buyer and seller are typically motivated; (ii) both parties are well informed or well advised, and each is acting in what he considers his own best interest; (iii) a reasonable time frame is allowed for exposure in the open market; (iv) payment is made in terms of cash in U.S. dollars or in terms of financial arrangements comparable thereto and (v) the price represents the normal consideration for the property sold unaffected by special or creative financing or sales concessions granted by anyone associated with the sale.

"Marriott International" means Marriott International, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

"Maturity Date" means December 15, 2005.

"MDAH" means Marriott Diversified American Hotels, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership.

"Regular Record Date" means a date 15 days prior to an Interest Payment Date, on which the Holders of the Notes are determined, regardless of whether such day is a Business Day.

"REIT" means a real estate investment trust.

"REIT Conversion" means (i) the contribution by Host of its wholly owned Hotels, its interests in the Hotel Partnerships and certain other businesses and assets to the Operating Partnership, (ii) the recently completed refinancing and amendment of the debt securities and certain credit facilities of Host substantially in the manner described herein, (iii) the Mergers (if and to the extent consummated), (iv) the acquisition (whether by merger or otherwise) by the Operating Partnership of certain Private Partnerships or interests therein (if and to the extent consummated), (v) the Blackstone Acquisition (if and to the extent consummated), (vi) the creation and capitalization of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, (vii) the merger of Host into Host REIT and the distribution by Host or Host REIT of Crestline common stock and cash or other consideration to its shareholders and the Blackstone Entities in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution, (viii) the leasing of the Hotels to subsidiaries of Crestline or others and (ix) such other related transactions and steps occurring prior to, substantially concurrent with or within a reasonable time after the Effective Date as Host may determine in its discretion to be necessary or desirable to complete or facilitate the transactions contemplated herein or otherwise to permit Host REIT to elect to be treated as a REIT for federal income tax purposes for the first full taxable year commencing after the Mergers.

"Related Party Tenant" means a tenant in which Host REIT, or an actual or constructive owner of 10% or more of Host REIT, actually or constructively owns 10% or more of the interests.

"REVPAR" means revenue per available room. REVPAR measures daily room revenues generated on a per room basis by combining the average daily room rate charged and the average daily occupancy achieved. REVPAR excludes food and beverage and other ancillary revenues generated by the hotel.

"Rhode Island Act" means the Rhode Island Uniform Limited Partnership Act.

"RIC" means a Regulated Investment Company.

"Rights Agreement" means the rights agreement to be adopted by Host REIT substantially as described herein.

"SAR" means stock appreciation rights.

"Section 704(c) Minimum Gain" means the amount of any taxable gain that would be allocated to a partner under Section 704(c) of the Code (or in the same manner as Section 704(c) of the Code in connection with a revaluation of partnership property) if the partnership disposed of all partnership property (in a taxable transaction) subject to one or more nonrecourse liabilities of the partnership in full satisfaction of such liabilities and for no other consideration.

"Section 751 Assets" means "unrealized receivables" (including depreciation recapture) and/or "substantially appreciated inventory items" as defined in Section 751 of the Code.

"Securities Act" means the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

"SFAS" means Statement of Financial Accounting Standard.

"Shareholder Rights Plan" means the Shareholder Rights Plan to be adopted by Host REIT.

"Significant Subsidiary" means each significant subsidiary (as defined in Rule 1-02(w) of Regulation S-X promulgated under the Securities Act) of the Operating Partnership.

"Single Participation with No Notes Issued" means the Partnership with the least amount of cash flow from operations in fiscal year 1997 (Chicago Suites) is the only Partnership which participates in the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and no Notes are issued.

"Single Participation with Notes Issued" means the Partnership with the least amount of cash flow from operations in fiscal year 1997 (Chicago Suites) is the only Partnership which participates in the Mergers and the REIT Conversion and every Limited Partner elects to receive Notes.

"Solicitation Materials" means the Consent Solicitation, the Consent Form and the Q&A.

"Solicitation Period" means the period of time commencing at the time the Consent Solicitation and other Solicitation Materials are first distributed to the Limited Partners and ending at the later of (i) December 12, 1998 or (ii) such later date as the General Partners and the Operating Partnership may elect, in their sole and absolute discretion.

"Subsidiary Partnerships" means partnerships or limited liability companies in which either the Operating Partnership or the Hotel Partnerships have an interest.

"Tabulation Agent" means Gemisys/Trust Co. of America, the independent tabulator of votes on the Mergers and the related partnership agreement amendments.

"Tax Matters Partner" means the Person designated at the partnership level to represent the partnership in a unified partnership proceeding to determine income, gain, loss, deduction and credit for each Partner. The Partnership Agreement appoints Host REIT as the Tax Matters Partner for the Operating Partnership.

"TEFRA" means the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982.

"TMT" means tentative minimum tax.

"Treasury Regulations" means the regulations promulgated by the IRS under the Code.

"Trust Indenture Act" means the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, as amended.

"U.S. Shareholder" means a holder of Common Shares who (for United States federal income tax purposes) is (i) a citizen or resident of the United States, (ii) a corporation, partnership, or other entity created or organized in or under the laws of the United States or any political subdivision thereof, (iii) an estate or trust the income of which is subject to United States federal income taxation regardless of its source, or (iv) a trust whose administration is subject to the primary supervision of a United States court and which has one or more United States persons who have authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

"UBTI" means unrelated business taxable income.

"Unit Redemption Right" means the right of Limited Partners who retain OP Units to redeem, beginning one year following the Effective Date, their OP Units and receive, at Host REIT's election, either Common Shares on a one-for-one basis (subject to adjustment) or cash in an amount equal to the market value of such shares.

"UPREIT" means an umbrella partnership real estate investment trust.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To Host Marriott Corporation:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Host Marriott Corporation and subsidiaries as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended January 2, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Host Marriott Corporation and subsidiaries as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended January 2, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

As discussed in Notes 1 and 2 to the consolidated financial statements, in 1995 the Company changed its method of accounting for the impairment of long-lived assets.

HOST MARRIOTT CORPORATION AND SUBSIDIARIES

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Description of Business

As of January 2, 1998, Host Marriott Corporation (the "Company") owned, or had controlling interests in, 95 upscale and luxury full-service hotel lodging properties generally located throughout the United States and operated under the Marriott and Ritz-Carlton brand names. Most of these properties are managed by Marriott International, Inc. ("Marriott International"). At that date, the Company also held minority interests in various partnerships that own 242 additional properties, including 22 full-service hotel properties, managed by Marriott International. The Company also owned a portfolio consisting of 30 premier senior living communities as of January 2, 1998, all of which are managed by Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc. ("MSLS"), a subsidiary of Marriott International.

On December 29, 1995, the Company distributed to its shareholders through a special tax-free dividend (the "Special Dividend") its food, beverage, and merchandise concessions business at airports, on tollroads, and at arenas and other attractions (the "Operating Group"). See Note 2 for a discussion of the Special Dividend. The 1995 consolidated financial statements were restated to reflect the Operating Group as discontinued operations.

The structure of the Company was substantially altered on October 8, 1993 (the "Marriott International Distribution Date") when the Company distributed the stock of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Marriott International, Inc., in a special dividend (the "Marriott International Distribution"). See Note 14 for a description of the Marriott International Distribution and related transactions.

Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its subsidiaries and controlled affiliates. Investments in affiliates over which the Company has the ability to exercise significant influence, but does not control, are accounted for using the equity method. All material intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated.

Fiscal Year

The Company's fiscal year ends on the Friday nearest to December 31. Fiscal years 1997 and 1995 included 52 weeks compared to 53 weeks for fiscal year 1996.

Revenues and Expenses

Revenues primarily represent house profit from the Company's hotel properties and senior living communities because the Company has delegated substantially all of the operating decisions related to the generation of house profit from its hotel properties and senior living communities to the manager. Revenues also include net gains (losses) on property transactions and equity in the earnings of affiliates. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to the Company as property owner and represents hotel properties' and senior living communities' operating results, less property-level expenses, excluding depreciation, management fees, real and personal property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs, which are classified as operating costs and expenses in the accompanying consolidated financial statements. See Note 18.

On November 20, 1997, the Emerging Issues Task Force ("EITF") of the Financial Accounting Standards Board reached a consensus on EITF 97-2, "Application of FASB Statement No. 94 and APB Opinion No. 16 to Physician Practice Management Entities and Certain Other Entities with Contractual Management Arrangements." EITF 97-2 addresses the circumstances in which a management entity may include the revenues and expenses of a managed entity in its financial statements.

The Company has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that EITF 97-2 requires the Company to include property-level sales and operating expenses of its hotels and senior living communities in its statements of operations (see Note 18). The Company will adopt EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998 with retroactive effect in prior periods to conform to the new presentation. Application of EITF 97-2 to the consolidated financial statements for the fiscal years ended January 2, 1998, January 3, 1997 and December 29, 1995 would have increased both revenues and operating expenses by approximately $1.7 billion, $1.2 billion and $.9 billion, respectively and would have had no impact on operating profit, net income or earnings per share.

Earnings (Loss) Per Common Share

Basic earnings per common share are computed by dividing net income by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Diluted earnings per common share are computed by dividing net income by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding plus other dilutive securities. Diluted earnings per common share has not been adjusted for the impact of the Convertible Preferred Securities for 1997 and 1996 and for the comprehensive stock plan and warrants for 1996 and 1995 as they are anti-dilutive.

A reconciliation of the number of shares utilized for the calculation of dilutive earnings per common share follows:

	----	----	----
Weighted average number of common shares outstanding.....	203.1	188.7	158.3
Assuming distribution of common shares granted under comprehensive stock plan, less shares assumed purchased at average market price.....	4.8	--	--
Assuming distribution of common shares issuable for warrants, less shares assumed purchased at average market price.....	.3	--	--
	-----	-----	-----
Shares utilized for the calculation of diluted earnings per share.....	208.2	188.7	158.3

International Operations

The consolidated statements of operations include the following amounts related to non-U.S. subsidiaries and affiliates: revenues of $39 million and $18 million and loss before income taxes of $9 million and $2 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively. International revenues and income before income taxes in 1995 were not material.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment is recorded at cost. For newly developed properties, cost includes interest, rent and real estate taxes incurred during development and construction. Replacements and improvements are capitalized.

Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, generally 40 years for buildings and three to ten years for furniture and equipment. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the shorter of the lease term or the useful lives of the related assets.

Gains on sales of properties are recognized at the time of sale or deferred to the extent required by generally accepted accounting principles. Deferred gains are recognized as income in subsequent periods as conditions requiring deferral are satisfied or expire without further cost to the Company.

In cases where management is holding for sale particular hotel properties or senior living communities, the Company assesses impairment based on whether the estimated sales price less costs of disposal of each individual property to be sold is less than the net book value. A property is considered to be held for sale when the Company has made the decision to dispose of the property. Otherwise, the Company assesses impairment of its real estate properties based on whether it is probable that undiscounted future cash flows from each individual property will be less than its net book value. If a property is impaired, its basis is adjusted to its fair market value.

Deferred Charges

Deferred financing costs related to long-term debt are deferred and amortized over the remaining life of the debt.

Cash, Cash Equivalents and Short-term Marketable Securities

The Company considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of 90 days or less at the date of purchase to be cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents includes approximately $115 million and $67 million at January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, respectively, of cash related to certain consolidated partnerships, the use of which is restricted generally for partnership purposes to the extent it is not distributed to the partners. Short-term marketable securities include investments with a maturity of 91 days to one year at the date of purchase. The Company's short-term marketable securities represent investments in U.S. government agency notes and high quality commercial paper. The short-term marketable securities are categorized as available for sale and, as a result, are stated at fair market value. Unrealized holding gains and losses are included as a separate component of shareholders' equity until realized.

Concentrations of Credit Risk

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to significant concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash, cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities. The Company maintains cash and cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities with various high credit-quality financial institutions. The Company performs periodic evaluations of the relative credit standing of these financial institutions and limits the amount of credit exposure with any institution.

Use of Estimates in the Preparation of Financial Statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Self-Insurance Programs

Prior to the Marriott International Distribution Date, the Company was self-insured for certain levels of general liability, workers' compensation and employee medical coverage. Estimated costs of these self-insurance programs were accrued at present values of projected settlements for known and anticipated claims. The Company discontinued its self-insurance programs for claims arising subsequent to the Marriott International Distribution Date.

Interest Rate Swap Agreements

The Company has entered into a limited number of interest rate swap agreements to diversify certain of its debt to a variable rate or fixed rate basis. The interest rate differential to be paid or received on interest rate swap agreements is accrued as interest rates change and is recognized as an adjustment to interest expense.

New Statements of Financial Accounting Standards

The Company adopted Statements of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 114, "Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a Loan" and SFAS No. 121, "Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to be Disposed Of" during 1995. Adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on the Company's continuing operations. See Note 2 for a discussion of the adoption of SFAS No. 121 on discontinued operations.

During 1996, the Company adopted SFAS No. 123, "Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation." The adoption of SFAS No. 123 did not have a material effect on the Company's consolidated financial statements. See Note 10.

During 1997, the Company adopted SFAS No. 128, "Earnings Per Share;" SFAS No. 129, "Disclosure of Information About Capital Structure" and SFAS No. 131, "Disclosures About Segments of an Enterprise and Related Information." The adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on the Company's consolidated financial statements and the appropriate disclosures required by these statements have been incorporated herein. The Company will adopt SFAS No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income," in 1998 and does not expect it to have a material effect on the Company's consolidated financial statements.

2. HM SERVICES SPECIAL DIVIDEND

On December 29, 1995, the Company distributed to its shareholders through the Special Dividend all of the outstanding shares of common stock of Host Marriott Services Corporation ("HM Services"), formerly a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, which, as of the date of the Special Dividend, owned and operated food, beverage and merchandise concessions at airports, on tollroads and at stadiums and arenas and other tourist attractions. The Special Dividend provided Company shareholders with one share of common stock of HM Services for every five shares of Company common stock held by such shareholders on the record date of December 22, 1995. The Company recorded approximately $9 million of expenses related to the consummation of the Special Dividend in 1995. Revenues for the Company's discontinued operations totaled $1,158 million in 1995. The provision for loss on disposal includes the operating loss from discontinued operations from August 9, 1995 (measurement date) through December 29, 1995 of $44 million, net of taxes, and estimated expenses related to the Special Dividend of $9 million.

Effective September 9, 1995, the Company adopted SFAS No. 121, which requires that an impairment loss be recognized when the carrying amount of an asset exceeds the sum of the undiscounted estimated future cash flows associated with the asset. As a result of the adoption of SFAS No. 121, the Company recognized a non-cash, pre-tax charge during the fourth quarter of 1995 of $47 million. Such charge has been reflected in discontinued operations for fiscal year 1995.

For purposes of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between the Company and HM Services after the Special Dividend and to provide for an orderly transition, the Company and HM Services entered into various agreements including a Distribution Agreement, an Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement, a Tax Sharing Agreement and a Transitional Services Agreement. Effective as of December 29, 1995, these agreements provide, among other things, for the division between the Company and HM Services of certain assets and liabilities, including but not limited to liabilities related to employee stock and other benefit plans and the establishment of certain obligations for HM Services to issue shares upon exercise of warrants (see Note 7) and to issue shares or pay cash to the Company upon exercise of stock options held by certain former employees of the Company (see Note 10).

3. PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

Property and equipment consists of the following:

Interest cost capitalized in connection with the Company's development and construction activities totaled $1 million in 1997, $3 million in 1996 and $5 million in 1995.

In 1997, the Company, through an agreement with the ground lessor of one of its properties terminated its ground lease and recorded a $15 million loss on the write-off of its investment, including certain transaction costs, which has been included in net gains (losses) on property transactions in the accompanying consolidated financial statements.

In 1996, the Company recorded additional depreciation expense of $15 million as a result of a change in the estimated depreciable lives and salvage values for certain hotel properties. Also, in 1996, the Company recorded a $4 million charge to write down an undeveloped land parcel to its net realizable value based on its expected sales value.

In 1995, the Company made a determination that its owned Courtyard and Residence Inn properties were held for sale and recorded a $10 million charge to write down the carrying value of five of these individual properties to their estimated net realizable values. In the fourth quarter of 1995, management instituted a program to liquidate certain non-income producing assets and to reinvest the proceeds in the acquisition of full-service hotels. As part of this program, management determined that a 174-acre parcel of undeveloped land in Germantown, Maryland that was to be developed into an office project over an extended period of time would no longer be developed and instead decided to attempt to sell the property. Accordingly, the Company recorded a pre-tax charge of $60 million in the fourth quarter of 1995 to reduce the asset to its estimated sales value. In 1997, the Company sold a portion of the land parcel at its approximate net book value of $11 million.

4. INVESTMENTS IN AND RECEIVABLES FROM AFFILIATES

Investments in and receivables from affiliates consist of the following:

	OWNERSHIP INTERESTS	1997	1996
	(IN MILLIONS)

Hotel properties owned by affiliates generally were acquired from the Company in connection with limited partnership offerings. The Company or one of its subsidiaries typically serve as a general partner of each partnership and the hotels are operated by Marriott International under long-term agreements.

In 1997, the Company acquired all of the outstanding interests in the Chesapeake Hotel Limited Partnership ("CHLP") that owns six hotels and acquired controlling interests in four affiliated partnerships for approximately $550 million, including the assumption of approximately $410 million of debt. These affiliated partnerships included the partnerships that own the 353-room Hanover Marriott; the 884-room Marriott's Desert Springs Resort and Spa; the Marriott Hotel Properties Limited Partnership ("MHPLP") that owns the 1,503-room Marriott Orlando World Center and a 50.5% interest in the 624-room Marriott Harbor Beach Resort; and the partnership that owns the 418-unit Leisure Park retirement community. Subsequent to year-end, the Company obtained a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis for approximately $239 million, including the assumption of $164 million of mortgage debt.

In 1996, the Company purchased controlling interests in four affiliated partnerships for $640 million, including $429 million of existing debt. These affiliated partnerships included the partnership that owns the 1,355-room San Diego Marriott Hotel and Marina; the Marriott Hotel Properties II Limited Partnership that owns the 1,290-room New Orleans Marriott, the 999-room San Antonio Marriott Rivercenter, the 368-room San Ramon Marriott, and a 50% limited partner interest in the 754-room Santa Clara Marriott; the Marriott Suites Limited Partnership that owns four hotels; and the partnership that owns the 510-room Salt Lake City Marriott.

Receivables from affiliates are reported net of reserves of $144 million at January 2, 1998 and $227 million at January 3, 1997. Receivables from affiliates at January 2, 1998 include a $10 million debt service guarantee for the partnership that owns the Atlanta Marriott Marquis, which was repaid in early 1998. Receivables from affiliates at January 3, 1997 included a $140 million mortgage note at 9% that amortizes through 2003, which was eliminated in the consolidation of CHLP in 1997. The Company has committed to advance additional amounts to affiliates, if necessary, to cover certain debt service requirements. Such commitments are limited, in the aggregate, to an additional $60 million at January 2, 1998. Subsequent to January 2, 1998, this amount was reduced to $20 million in connection with the refinancing and acquisition of a controlling interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis. Net amounts repaid to the Company under these commitments totaled $2 million and $13 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively. Net amounts funded by the Company totaled $10 million in 1997 and $8 million in 1995. There were no fundings in 1996.

The Company's pre-tax income from affiliates includes the following:

Completion of this transaction is subject to several major contingencies, including a vote by the partners in each partnership, and no assurance can be given that the transaction will be consummated.

The bonds were issued in conjunction with a concurrent $400 million offering by a subsidiary of the Company's discontinued HM Services' business at par, and have a final maturity of May 2005. The net proceeds were used to defease, and subsequently redeem, all of the senior notes issued by Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and to repay borrowings under the line of credit with Marriott International. In connection with the redemptions and defeasance, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss in 1995 of $17 million, net of taxes, related to continuing operations.

In December 1995, HMC Acquisition Properties, Inc. ("Acquisitions"), an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, issued $350 million of 9% senior notes (the "Acquisitions Notes"). The Acquisitions Notes were issued at par and have a final maturity of December 2007. A portion of the net proceeds were utilized to repay in full the outstanding borrowings under the $230 million revolving line of credit (the "Acquisition Revolver"), which was then terminated. In connection with the termination of the Acquisition Revolver, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss in 1995 of $3 million, net of taxes.

On July 10, 1997, Properties and Acquisitions completed consent solicitations (the "Consent Solicitations") with holders of their senior notes to amend certain provisions of their senior notes' indentures. The Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of Acquisitions with and into Properties (the "Merger"). The amendments to the indentures also increased the ability of Properties to acquire, through certain subsidiaries, additional properties subject to non-recourse indebtedness and controlling interests in corporations, partnerships and other entities holding attractive properties and increased the threshold required to permit Properties to make distributions to affiliates.

Concurrent with the Consent Solicitations and the Merger, Properties issued an aggregate of $600 million of 8 7/8% senior notes (the "New Properties Notes") at par with a maturity of July 2007. Properties received net proceeds of approximately $570 million, net of the costs of the Consent Solicitations and the Offering, which will be used to fund future acquisitions of, or the purchase of interests in, full-service hotels and other lodging-related properties, which may include senior living communities, as well as for general corporate purposes.

The Properties Notes, the Acquisitions Notes and the New Properties Notes are guaranteed on a joint and several basis by certain of Properties' subsidiaries and rank pari passu in right of payment with all other existing future senior indebtedness of Properties. Properties was the owner of 58 of the Company's 95 lodging properties at January 2, 1998.

The net assets of Properties at January 2, 1998 were approximately $518 million, substantially all of which were restricted. The indentures governing the Properties Notes, the Acquisitions Notes and the New Properties Notes contain covenants that, among other things, limit the ability to incur additional indebtedness and issue preferred stock, pay dividends or make other distributions, repurchase capital stock or subordinated indebtedness, create certain liens, enter into certain transactions with affiliates, sell certain assets, issue or sell stock of subsidiaries, and enter into certain mergers and consolidations.

During 1997, the Company, through a newly-created, wholly-owned subsidiary, HMC Capital Resources Corporation ("Capital Resources"), entered into a revolving line of credit agreement (the "Line of Credit") with a group of commercial banks under which it may borrow up to $500 million for the acquisition of lodging real estate and for the Company's working capital purposes. On June 19, 2000, any outstanding borrowings on the Line of Credit convert to a term loan arrangement with all unpaid advances due June 19, 2004. Borrowings under the Line of Credit bear interest at either the Eurodollar rate plus 1.7% or the Base Rate (as defined in the agreement) plus 0.7%, at the option of the Company. An annual fee of 0.35% is charged on the unused portion of the commitment. The Line of Credit was originally secured by six hotel properties contributed to Capital Resources, with a carrying value of approximately $500 million as of January 2, 1998, and is guaranteed by the Company. As a result of this transaction, the Company terminated its line of credit with Marriott International. As of January 2, 1998, outstanding borrowings on the Line of Credit were approximately $22 million as a result of a borrowing to fund the acquisition of the Ontario Airport Marriott.

The Company also purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott in 1997. The Company purchased the bonds for $219 million, an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, the Company recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount less the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

In 1997, the Company incurred approximately $418 million of mortgage debt in conjunction with the acquisition of 11 hotels. In connection with the acquisition of the outstanding common stock of Forum Group, Inc. (the "Forum Group") in June 1997 (see Note 12), the Company also assumed debt of approximately $270 million. The $270 million of debt is comprised of secured debt of approximately $198 million and unsecured debt of approximately $72 million ($59 million of which was provided by Marriott International). In 1997, the Company completed $56 million of the $107 million expansion plan for the Forum Group properties. As a result, an additional $33 million of debt financing has been provided by Marriott International, and Marriott International may provide additional financing as the expansion plan is completed. The Company also assumed approximately $15 million of debt in conjunction with the acquisition of the Leisure Park retirement community.

In conjunction with the construction of the Philadelphia Marriott, which was completed and opened in January 1995, the Company obtained first mortgage financing from Marriott International for 60% of the construction and development costs of the hotel. In the fourth quarter of 1996, the Company repaid the $109 million mortgage, prior to the rate increasing to 10% per annum with an additional 2% deferred, with the proceeds from the convertible preferred securities offering discussed in Note 6. In the first quarter of 1997, the Company obtained $90 million in first mortgage financing from two insurance companies secured by the Philadelphia Marriott. The mortgage bears interest at a fixed rate of 8.49% and matures in April 2009.

In December 1997, the Company successfully completed the refinancing of the MHPLP mortgage debt for approximately $152 million. The new mortgage bears interest at 7.48% and matures in January 2008. In connection with the refinancing, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss of $2 million, which represents payment of a prepayment penalty and the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

At January 2, 1998, the Company was party to an interest rate exchange agreement with a financial institution (the contracting party) with an aggregate notional amount of $100 million. Under this agreement, the Company collects interest based on specified floating interest rates of one month LIBOR (rate of 6% at January 2, 1998) and pays interest at fixed rates (rate of 7.99% at January 2, 1998). This agreement expires in 1998 in conjunction with the maturity of the mortgage on the New York Marriott Marquis. Also in 1997, the Company was party to two additional interest rate swap agreements with an aggregate notional amount of $400 million which expired in May 1997. The Company realized a net reduction of interest expense of $1 million in 1997, $6 million in 1996 and $5 million in 1995 related to interest rate exchange agreements. The Company monitors the creditworthiness of its contracting parties by evaluating credit exposure and referring to the ratings of widely accepted credit rating services. The Standard and Poors' long-term debt rating for the contracting party is A-. The Company is exposed to credit loss in the event of non-performance by the contracting party to the interest rate swap agreements; however, the Company does not anticipate non-performance by the contracting party.

6. COMPANY-OBLIGATED MANDATORILY REDEEMABLE CONVERTIBLE PREFERRED SECURITIES OF A SUBSIDIARY TRUST HOLDING COMPANY SUBSTANTIALLY ALL OF WHOSE ASSETS ARE THE CONVERTIBLE SUBORDINATED DEBENTURES DUE 2026

In December 1996, Host Marriott Financial Trust (the "Issuer"), a wholly-owned subsidiary trust of the Company, issued 11 million shares of 6 3/4% convertible quarterly income preferred securities (the "Convertible Preferred Securities"), with a liquidation preference of $50 per share (for a total liquidation amount of $550 million). The Convertible Preferred Securities represent an undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Issuer. The payment of distributions out of moneys held by the Issuer and payments on liquidation of the Issuer or the redemption of the Convertible Preferred Securities are guaranteed by the Company to the extent the Issuer has funds available therefor. This guarantee, when taken together with the Company's obligations under the indenture pursuant to which the Debentures were issued, the Debentures, the Company's obligations under the Trust Agreement and its obligations under the indenture to pay costs, expenses, debts and liabilities of the Issuer (other than with respect to the Convertible Preferred Securities) provides a full and unconditional guarantee of amounts due on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Proceeds from the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities were invested in 6 3/4% Convertible Subordinated Debentures (the "Debentures") due December 2, 2026 issued by the Company. The Issuer exists solely to issue the Convertible Preferred Securities and its own common securities (the "Common Securities") and invest the proceeds therefrom in the Debentures, which is its sole asset. Separate financial statements of the Issuer are not presented because of the Company's guarantee described above; the Company's management has concluded that such financial statements are not material to investors and the Issuer is wholly-owned and essentially has no independent operations.

Each of the Convertible Preferred Securities is convertible at the option of the holder into shares of Company common stock at the rate of 2.6876 shares per Convertible Preferred Security (equivalent to a conversion price of $18.604 per share of Company common stock). The Debentures are convertible at the option of the holders into shares of Company common stock at a conversion rate of 2.6876 shares for each $50 in principal amount of Debentures. The Issuer will only convert Debentures pursuant to a notice of conversion by a holder of Convertible Preferred Securities. During 1997 and 1996, no shares were converted into common stock.

Holders of the Convertible Preferred Securities are entitled to receive preferential cumulative cash distributions at an annual rate of 6 3/4% accruing from the original issue date, commencing March 1, 1997, and payable quarterly in arrears thereafter. The distribution rate and the distribution and other payment dates for the Convertible Preferred Securities will correspond to the interest rate and interest and other payment dates on the Debentures. The Company may defer interest payments on the Debentures for a period not to exceed 20 consecutive quarters. If interest payments on the Debentures are deferred, so too are payments on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Under this circumstance, the Company will not be permitted to declare or pay any cash distributions with respect to its capital stock or debt securities that rank pari passu with or junior to the Debentures.

Subject to certain restrictions, the Convertible Preferred Securities are redeemable at the Issuer's option upon any redemption by the Company of the Debentures after December 2, 1999. Upon repayment at maturity or as a result of the acceleration of the Debentures upon the occurrence of a default, the Debentures shall be subject to mandatory redemption, from which the proceeds will be applied to redeem Convertible Preferred Securities and Common Securities, together with accrued and unpaid distributions.

7. SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY

Six hundred million shares of common stock, with a par value of $1 per share, are authorized, of which 203.8 million and 202.0 million were issued and outstanding as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, respectively. One million shares of no par value preferred stock are authorized with none outstanding. During 1995, substantially all outstanding shares of such preferred stock were converted into approximately five million shares of common stock with the remainder defeased.

On March 27, 1996, the Company completed the issuance of 31.6 million shares of common stock for net proceeds of nearly $400 million.

In connection with a class action settlement, the Company issued warrants to purchase up to 7.7 million shares of the Company's common stock at $8.00 per share through October 8, 1996 and $10.00 per share thereafter. During 1996, 6.8 million warrants were exercised at $8.00 per share and an equivalent number of shares of Company common stock were issued. During 1997, approximately 60,000 warrants were exercised at $10.00 per share and an equivalent number of shares of Company common stock were issued. As of January 2, 1998, there were approximately 550,000 warrants outstanding.

In February 1989, the Board of Directors adopted a shareholder rights plan under which a dividend of one preferred stock purchase right was distributed for each outstanding share of the Company's common stock. Each right entitles the holder to buy 1/1,000th of a share of a newly issued series of junior participating preferred stock of the Company at an exercise price of $150 per share. The rights will be exercisable 10 days after a person or group acquires beneficial ownership of at least 20%, or begins a tender or exchange offer for at least 30%, of the Company's common stock. Shares owned by a person or group on February 3, 1989 and held continuously thereafter are exempt for purposes of determining beneficial ownership under the rights plan. The rights are non-voting and will expire on February 2, 1999, unless exercised or previously redeemed by the Company for $.01 each. If the Company is involved in a merger or certain other business combinations not approved by the Board of Directors, each right entitles its holder, other than the acquiring person or group, to purchase common stock of either the Company or the acquiror having a value of twice the exercise price of the right.

Through 1997, the Company settled with the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") substantially all issues for tax years 1979 through 1993. The Company expects to resolve any remaining issues with no material impact on the consolidated financial statements. The Company made net payments to the IRS of approximately $10 million and $45 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively, related to these settlements. Certain adjustments totaling approximately $2 million and $11 million in 1996 and 1995, respectively, were made to the tax provision related to those settlements.

As discussed in Note 12, the Company sold and leased back 37 of its Courtyard properties in 1995 and an additional 16 Courtyard properties in 1996 to a REIT. Additionally, in 1996, the Company sold and leased back 18 of its Residence Inns to the same REIT. These leases, which are accounted for as operating leases and are included above, have initial terms expiring through 2012 for the Courtyard properties and 2010 for the Residence Inn properties, and are renewable at the option of the Company. Minimum rent payments are $51 million annually for the Courtyard properties and $17 million annually for the Residence Inn properties, and additional rent based upon sales levels are payable to the owner under the terms of the leases.

Leases also include long-term ground leases for certain hotels, generally with multiple renewal options. Certain leases contain provision for the payment of contingent rentals based on a percentage of sales in excess of stipulated amounts.

Certain of the lease payments included in the table above relate to facilities used in the Company's former restaurant business. Most leases contain one or more renewal options, generally for five or 10-year periods. Future rentals on leases have not been reduced by aggregate minimum sublease rentals of $124 million payable to the Company under non-cancelable subleases.

The Company remains contingently liable at January 2, 1998 on certain leases relating to divested non-lodging properties. Such contingent liabilities aggregated $110 million at January 2, 1998. However, management considers the likelihood of any substantial funding related to these leases to be remote.

10. EMPLOYEE STOCK PLANS

At January 2, 1998, the Company has two stock-based compensation plans which are described below. Under the comprehensive stock plan (the "Comprehensive Plan"), the Company may award to participating employees (i) options to purchase the Company's common stock, (ii) deferred shares of the Company's common stock and (iii) restricted shares of the Company's common stock. In addition, the Company has an employee stock purchase plan (the "Employee Stock Purchase Plan"). The principal terms and conditions of the two plans are summarized below.

Total shares of common stock reserved and available for issuance under employee stock plans at January 2, 1998 are:

	(IN MILLIONS)

Employee Stock Purchase Plan.....	3

Employee stock options may be granted to officers and key employees with an exercise price not less than the fair market value of the common stock on the date of grant. Options granted before May 11, 1990 expire 10 years after the date of grant and nonqualified options granted on or after May 11, 1990 expire up to 15 years after the date of grant. Most options vest ratably over each of the first four years following the date of the grant. In connection with the Marriott International Distribution, the Company issued an equivalent number of Marriott International options and adjusted the exercise prices of its options then outstanding based on the relative trading prices of shares of the common stock of the two companies.

The Company continues to account for expense under its plans under the provisions of Accounting Principle Board Opinion 25 and related interpretations as permitted under SFAS No. 123. Accordingly, no compensation cost has been recognized for its fixed stock options under the Comprehensive Plan and its Employee Stock Purchase Plan.

For purposes of the following disclosures required by SFAS No. 123, the fair value of each option granted has been estimated on the date of grant using an option-pricing model with the following weighted average assumptions used for grants in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively: risk-free interest rate of 6.2%, 6.6% and 6.8%, respectively, volatility of 35%, 36% and 37%, respectively, expected lives of 12 years and no dividend yield. The weighted average fair value per option granted during the year was $13.13 in 1997, $8.68 in 1996 and $5.76 in 1995.

Pro forma compensation cost for 1997, 1996 and 1995 would have reduced (increased) net income (loss) by approximately $330,000, ($150,000) and ($5,000), respectively. Basic and diluted earnings per share on a pro forma basis were not impacted by the pro forma compensation cost in 1997, 1996 and 1995.

The effects of the implementation of SFAS No. 123 are not representative of the effects on reported net income in future years because only the effects of stock option awards granted in 1995, 1996 and 1997 have been considered.

In connection with the Special Dividend, the then outstanding options held by current and former employees of the Company were redenominated in both Company and HM Services stock and the exercise prices of the options were adjusted based on the relative trading prices of shares of the common stock of the two companies. For all options held by certain current and former employees of Marriott International, the number and exercise price of the options were adjusted based on the trading prices of shares of the Company's common stock immediately before and after the Special Dividend. Therefore, the options outstanding reflect these revised exercise prices. Pursuant to the Distribution Agreement between the Company and HM Services, the Company has the right to receive up to 1.4 million shares of HM Services' common stock or an equivalent cash value subsequent to exercise of the options held by certain former and current employees of Marriott International. As of January 2, 1998, the Company valued this right at approximately $20 million, which is included in other assets. A summary of the status of the Company's stock option plan for 1997, 1996 and 1995 follows:

value of the shares on the date of grant, less estimated forfeitures. In 1997, 1996 and 1995, 14,000, 13,000 and 158,000 shares were granted, respectively, under this plan. The compensation cost that has been charged against income for deferred stock was $1 million in 1995 and was not material in 1996 and 1997. The weighted average fair value per share granted during each year was $15.81 in 1997, $11.81 in 1996 and $8.49 in 1995.

In 1993, 3,537,000 restricted stock plan shares under the Comprehensive Plan were issued to officers and key executives to be distributed over the next three to 10 years in annual installments based on continued employment and the attainment of certain performance criteria. The Company recognizes compensation expense over the restriction period equal to the fair market value of the shares on the date of issuance adjusted for forfeitures, and where appropriate, the level of attainment of performance criteria and fluctuations in the fair market value of the Company's common stock. In 1997 and 1996, 198,000 and 2,511,000 shares of additional restricted stock plan shares were granted to certain key employees under terms and conditions similar to the 1993 grants. Approximately 161,000 and 500,000 shares were forfeited in 1996 and 1995, respectively. There were no shares forfeited in 1997. The Company recorded compensation expense of $13 million, $11 million and $5 million in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively, related to these awards. The weighted average fair value per share granted during each year was $16.88 in 1997 and $14.01 in 1996. There were no restricted stock plan shares granted in 1995.

Under the terms of the Employee Stock Purchase Plan, eligible employees may purchase common stock through payroll deductions at the lower of market value at the beginning or end of the plan year.

11. PROFIT SHARING AND POSTEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT PLANS

The Company contributes to profit sharing and other defined contribution plans for the benefit of employees meeting certain eligibility requirements and electing participation in the plans. The amount to be matched by the Company is determined annually by the Board of Directors. The Company provides medical benefits to a limited number of retired employees meeting restrictive eligibility requirements. Amounts for these items were not material in 1995 through 1997.

12. ACQUISITIONS AND DISPOSITIONS

In 1997, the Company acquired eight full-service hotels totaling 3,600 rooms for approximately $145 million. In addition, the Company acquired controlling interests in nine full-service hotels totaling 5,024 rooms for approximately $621 million, including the assumption of approximately $418 million of debt. The Company also completed the acquisition of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center, after acquiring the mortgage on the hotel for $101 million in late 1996.

Also in 1997, the Company acquired the outstanding common stock of the Forum Group from MSLS (29 senior living communities) for approximately $460 million, including approximately $270 million in debt, as described in Note 5. In addition, the Company plans to add approximately 1,060 units to these communities for approximately $107 million through an expansion plan which will be completed in 1999. In 1997, approximately $56 million of the expansion plan had been completed (including approximately $33 million of debt financing provided by Marriott International). The Company also acquired 49% of the remaining 50% interest in the partnership which owned the 418-unit Leisure Park retirement community for approximately $23 million, including the assumption of approximately $15 million of debt.

In 1996, the Company acquired six full-service hotels totaling 1,964 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $189 million. In addition, the Company acquired controlling interests in 17 full-service hotels totaling 8,917 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $1.1 billion, including the assumption of approximately $696 million of debt. The Company also purchased the first mortgage of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center for approximately $101 million.

In 1995, the Company acquired nine full-service hotels totaling approximately 3,900 rooms in separate transactions for approximately $390 million.

During the first and third quarters of 1995, 37 of the Company's Courtyard properties were sold and leased back from a REIT for approximately $330 million. The Company received net proceeds from the two transactions of approximately $297 million and will receive approximately $33 million upon expiration of the leases. A deferred gain of $14 million on the sale/leaseback transactions is being amortized over the initial term of the leases.

In the first and second quarters of 1996, the Company completed the sale and leaseback of 16 of its Courtyard properties and 18 of its Residence Inn properties for $349 million. The Company received net proceeds of approximately $314 million and will receive approximately $35 million upon expiration of the leases. A deferred gain of $45 million on the sale/leaseback transactions is being amortized over the initial term of the leases.

The Company's summarized, unaudited consolidated pro forma results of operations, assuming the above transactions and the refinancings and new debt activity discussed in Note 5 occurred on December 30, 1995, are as follows (in millions, except per share amounts):

Short-term marketable securities and Convertible Preferred Securities are valued based on quoted market prices. Receivables from affiliates, notes and other financial assets are valued based on the expected future cash flows discounted at risk-adjusted rates. Valuations for secured debt are determined based on the expected future payments discounted at risk-adjusted rates. The fair values of the Line of Credit and other notes are estimated to be equal to their carrying value. Senior Notes are valued based on quoted market prices.

The Company is contingently liable under various guarantees of obligations of certain affiliates (affiliate debt service commitments) with a maximum commitment of $60 million at January 2, 1998 and $117 million at January 3, 1997. A fair value is assigned to commitments with expected future fundings. The fair value of the commitments represents the net expected future payments discounted at risk-adjusted rates. Such payments are accrued on an undiscounted basis.

The fair value of interest rate swap agreements is based on the estimated amount the Company would pay or receive to terminate the swap agreements. The aggregate notional amount of the agreements was $100 million at January 2, 1998 and $525 million at January 3, 1997.

14. MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL DISTRIBUTION AND RELATIONSHIP WITH MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL

On October 8, 1993 (the "Marriott International Distribution Date"), Marriott Corporation distributed, through a special tax-free dividend (the "Marriott International Distribution"), to holders of Marriott Corporation's common stock (on a share-for-share basis), approximately 116.4 million outstanding shares of common stock of an existing wholly-owned subsidiary, Marriott International, resulting in the division of Marriott Corporation's operations into two separate companies. The distributed operations included the former Marriott Corporation's lodging management, franchising and resort timesharing operations, senior living service operations, and the institutional food service and facilities management business. The Company retained the former Marriott Corporation's airport and tollroad food, beverage and merchandise concessions operations, as well as most of its real estate properties. Effective at the Marriott International Distribution Date, Marriott Corporation changed its name to Host Marriott Corporation.

The Company and Marriott International have entered into various agreements in connection with the Marriott International Distribution and thereafter which provide, among other things, that (i) the majority of the Company's hotel lodging properties are managed by Marriott International under agreements with initial terms of 15 to 20 years and which are subject to renewal at the option of Marriott International for up to an additional 16 to 30 years (see Note 15); (ii) 10 of the Company's full-service properties are operated under franchise agreements with Marriott International with terms of 15 to 30 years; (iii) all of the Company's senior living communities are managed by MSLS under agreements with initial terms of 25 to 30 years and which are subject to renewal at the option of Marriott International for an additional five to ten years (see Note 16); (iv) Marriott International provided the Company with $92 million of financing at an average rate of 9% in 1997 (and may provide additional financing as the expansion plan is completed) in conjunction with the acquisition of senior living communities from Marriott International (see Notes 5 and 12); (v) the Company acquired 49% of Marriott International's 50% interest in the Leisure Park retirement community in 1997 for $23 million, including approximately $15 million of assumed debt; (vi) Marriott International guarantees the Company's performance in connection with certain loans and other obligations ($107 million at January 2, 1998); (vii) the Company borrowed and repaid $109 million of first mortgage financing for construction of the Philadelphia Marriott (see Note 5); (viii) Marriott International provided the Company with $70 million of mortgage financing in 1995 for the acquisition of three full-service properties by the Company at an average interest rate of 8.5% (Marriott International subsequently sold one of the loans in November 1996); (ix) Marriott International and the Company formed a joint venture and Marriott International provided the Company with $29 million in debt financing at an average interest rate of 12.7% and $28 million in preferred equity in 1996 for the acquisition of two full-service properties in Mexico City, Mexico; (x) in 1995, the

Company also acquired a full-service property from a partnership in which Marriott International owned a 50% interest; and (xi) Marriott International provides certain limited administrative services.

In 1997, 1996 and 1995, the Company paid to Marriott International $162 million, $101 million and $67 million, respectively, in hotel management fees; $13 million, $18 million and $21 million, respectively, in interest and commitment fees under the debt financing and line of credit provided by Marriott International, $3 million, $4 million and $12 million, respectively, for limited administrative services. The Company also paid Marriott International $4 million, $2 million and $1 million, respectively, of franchise fees in 1997, 1996 and 1995. In connection with the acquisition of the Forum Group, the Company paid Marriott International $6 million in senior living community management fees during 1997.

Additionally, Marriott International has the right to purchase up to 20% of the voting stock of the Company if certain events involving a change in control of the Company occur.

15. HOTEL MANAGEMENT AGREEMENTS

Most of the Company's hotels are subject to management agreements (the "Agreements") under which Marriott International manages most of the Company's hotels, generally for an initial term of 15 to 20 years with renewal terms at the option of Marriott International of up to an additional 16 to 30 years. The Agreements generally provide for payment of base management fees equal to one to four percent of sales and incentive management fees generally equal to 20% to 50% of Operating Profit (as defined in the Agreements) over a priority return (as defined) to the Company, with total incentive management fees not to exceed 20% of cumulative Operating Profit, or 20% of current year Operating Profit. In the event of early termination of the Agreements, Marriott International will receive additional fees based on the unexpired term and expected future base and incentive management fees. The Company has the option to terminate certain management agreements if specified performance thresholds are not satisfied. No agreement with respect to a single lodging facility is cross-collateralized or cross-defaulted to any other agreement and a single agreement may be canceled under certain conditions, although such cancellation will not trigger the cancellation of any other agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, Marriott International is required to furnish the hotels with certain services ("Chain Services") which are generally provided on a central or regional basis to all hotels in the Marriott International hotel system. Chain Services include central training, advertising and promotion, a national reservation system, computerized payroll and accounting services, and such additional services as needed which may be more efficiently performed on a centralized basis. Costs and expenses incurred in providing such services are allocated among all domestic hotels managed, owned or leased by Marriott International or its subsidiaries. In addition, the Company's hotels also participate in the Marriott Rewards program. The cost of this program is charged to all hotels in the Marriott hotel system.

The Company is obligated to provide the manager with sufficient funds to cover the cost of (a) certain non-routine repairs and maintenance to the hotels which are normally capitalized; and (b) replacements and renewals to the hotels' property and improvements. Under certain circumstances, the Company will be required to establish escrow accounts for such purposes under terms outlined in the Agreements.

The Company has entered into franchise agreements with Marriott International for ten hotels. Pursuant to these franchise agreements, the Company generally pays a franchise fee based on a percentage of room sales and food and beverage sales as well as certain other fees for advertising and reservations. Franchise fees for room sales vary from four to six percent of sales, while fees for food and beverage sales vary from two to three percent of sales. The terms of the franchise agreements are from 15 to 30 years.

The Company has entered into management agreements with The Ritz-Carlton Hotel Company, LLC ("Ritz-Carlton"), an affiliate of Marriott International, to manage four of the Company's hotels. These agreements have an initial term of 15 to 25 years with renewal terms at the option of Ritz-Carlton of up to an additional 10 to 40 years. Base management fees vary from two to four percent of sales and incentive management fees are generally equal to 20% of available cash flow or operating profit, as defined in the agreements.

The Company has also entered into management agreements with hotel management companies other than Marriott International and Ritz-Carlton for 12 of its hotels (10 of which are franchised under the Marriott brand). These agreements generally provide for an initial term of 10 to 20 years with renewal terms at the option of either party of up to an additional one to 15 years. The agreements generally provide for payment of base management fees equal to one to three percent of sales. Seven of the 12 agreements also provide for incentive management fees generally equal to 15 to 20 percent of available cash flow, as defined in the agreements.

At January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, $75 million and $76 million, respectively, have been advanced to the hotel managers for working capital and are included in "Due From Managers" in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

16. SENIOR LIVING COMMUNITY OPERATING AGREEMENTS

The Company's senior living communities (the "Communities") are subject to operating agreements (the "SLC Agreements") which provide for MSLS to operate the communities, generally for an initial term of 25 to 30 years with renewal terms subject to certain performance criteria at the option of MSLS of up to an additional five to ten years. The SLC Agreements provide for payment of base management fees generally equal to five to eight percent of gross revenues and incentive management fees generally equal to zero to 20% of Operating Profit (as defined in the SLC Agreements) over a priority return to the Company. In the event of early termination of the SLC Agreements, MSLS will receive additional fees based on the unexpired term and expected future base and incentive management fees. The Company has the option to terminate certain, but not all, management agreements if specified performance thresholds are not satisfied. No SLC Agreement with respect to a single community is cross-collateralized or cross-defaulted to any other SLC Agreement and any single SLC Agreement may be terminated following a default by the Company or MSLS, although such termination will not trigger the cancellation of any other SLC Agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the SLC Agreements, MSLS is required to furnish the Communities with certain services ("Central Administrative Services") which are provided on a central or regional basis to all properties in the Marriott Retirement Community System. These services include the development and operation of computer systems, computer payroll and accounting services, marketing and public relations services, and such additional services as may from time-to-time be performed more efficiently on a central or regional level. The SLC Agreements establish payment of Central Administrative Services fees generally equal to 0% of Gross Revenues for the first year and 2% thereafter.

MSLS is required under the SLC Agreements to deduct an amount from gross revenues and place the funds into an interest bearing reserve account to cover the cost of (a) certain routine repairs and maintenance to the Communities which are normally capitalized; and (b) replacements and renewals to the Communities' property and improvements. The annual payment amount (expressed as a percentage of gross revenues) generally will be 2.65% through fiscal year 2002, 2.85% for fiscal years 2003 through 2007, and 3.5% thereafter. The SLC Agreements provide that the Company shall provide MSLS with sufficient funds to cover the cost of certain major or non-routine repairs, alterations, improvements, renewals and replacements to the Communities which are required to maintain a competitive, efficient and economical operating condition in accordance with Marriott standards or for the continued safe and orderly operation of the Communities.

At January 2, 1998, approximately $6 million has been advanced to MSLS for working capital for the senior living communities.

17. LITIGATION

The Company is from time-to-time the subject of, or involved in, judicial proceedings. Management believes that any liability or loss resulting from such matters will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position or results of operations of the Company.

In the fourth quarter of 1997, the Company reached a settlement in a lawsuit against Trinity Industries and others for claims related to construction of the New York Marriott Marquis. In settlement of the lawsuit, the Company and its affiliate received a cash settlement of approximately $70 million, the majority of which was considered a recovery of construction costs and $10 million of which has been recorded as other revenues in the accompanying financial statements.

18. HOTEL AND SENIOR LIVING COMMUNITY OPERATIONS

As discussed in Note 1, revenues recorded in the consolidated financial statements reflect house profit from the Company's hotel properties and senior living communities. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to the Company as property owner and represents all gross hotel and senior living communities' operating revenues, less all gross property-level expenses, excluding depreciation, management fees, real and personal property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs, which are classified as operating costs and expenses.

Accordingly, the following table presents sales and the details of house profit for the Company's hotels for 1997, 1996 and 1995:

19. GEOGRAPHIC AND BUSINESS SEGMENT INFORMATION

The Company operates in two business segments in the lodging industry: hotels and senior living communities. The Company's hotels are primarily operated under the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands, contain an average of nearly 500 rooms, as well as supply other amenities such as meeting space and banquet facilities; a variety of restaurants and lounges; gift shops; and swimming pools. They are typically located in downtown, airport, suburban and resort areas throughout the United States. Senior living communities generally contain 100 to 300 units and offer a variety of senior care services that include independent living, assisted living and health care. The communities provide security, meals, housekeeping, linen service and 24-hour emergency health care.

The Company evaluates the performance of its segments based primarily on operating profit before depreciation, corporate expenses, and interest expense. The Company's income taxes are included in the consolidated Federal income tax return of the Company and its affiliates and is allocated based upon the relative contribution to the Company's consolidated taxable income/loss and changes in temporary differences. The allocation of taxes is not evaluated at the segment level and, therefore, the Company does not believe the information is material to the consolidated financial statements.

NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements of Host Marriott Corporation and subsidiaries (the "Company" or "Host Marriott") have been prepared by the Company without audit. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles have been condensed or omitted. The Company believes the disclosures made are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. However, the condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended January 2, 1998.

In the opinion of the Company, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements reflect all adjustments necessary to present fairly the financial position of the Company as of June 19, 1998 and January 2, 1998, and the results of operations for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997 and cash flows for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997. Interim results are not necessarily indicative of fiscal year performance because of the impact of seasonal and short-term variations.

2. In April 1998, the Company reached a definitive agreement with various affiliates of The Blackstone Group and Blackstone Real Estate Partners (collectively, "Blackstone") to acquire controlling interests in 12 luxury hotels and a first mortgage interest in another hotel in the U.S. and certain other assets. The Company expects to pay approximately $862 million in cash and assumed debt and to issue approximately 43.7 million Operating Partnership units of the new operating partnership (the "Operating Partnership"), to be formed as part of the Company's reorganization, described below. Each Operating Partnership unit will be exchangeable for one share of Host Marriott common stock (or its cash equivalent). Upon completion of the acquisition, Blackstone will own approximately 16% of the outstanding shares of Host Marriott common stock on a fully converted basis. The Blackstone portfolio consists of two Ritz-Carltons, two Four Seasons, one Grand Hyatt, three Hyatt Regencies, four Swissotel properties and a mortgage note on a third Four Seasons.

The Blackstone transaction is expected to close immediately after the REIT Conversion, as described below. At that time, Blackstone's hotels and other assets will be contributed to the Operating Partnership and the hotels leased to subsidiaries of Crestline. The hotels will continue to be managed on behalf of the lessees under the existing management contracts. Consummation of the Blackstone transaction is also subject to certain conditions, including consummation of the REIT Conversion by March 31, 1999 and Host REIT (as defined below) qualifying as a REIT for 1999.

3. The Company's board of directors (the "Board") has authorized the Company to reorganize its business operations to qualify as a real estate investment trust ("REIT"), effective as of January 1, 1999, and to spin-off its senior living communities business ("Crestline") through a taxable stock dividend to its shareholders (collectively, the "REIT Conversion"). After the REIT Conversion, which is subject to shareholder and final Board approval, the Company intends to operate as an "UPREIT," with all of its assets and operations conducted through the newly formed Operating Partnership of which Host Marriott will be the general partner ("Host REIT").

Host Marriott will distribute shares in Crestline to its shareholders at the time of the REIT Conversion and Host Marriott expects to make a distribution of cash or other consideration at that time. The projected aggregate value of these distributions to shareholders, which are expected to be treated as taxable dividends to shareholders, is currently estimated between $ million and $ million. An additional taxable distribution may be required in 1999. Crestline is expected to own Host Marriott's portfolio of senior living properties. This portfolio currently consists of 31 retirement communities, totaling 7,218 units in 13 states. The communities will continue to be managed by Marriott International. In addition, Crestline will lease substantially all of the hotels owned by the Operating Partnership. Crestline will operate independently of Host Marriott.

Following the REIT Conversion, Host Marriott and its subsidiaries will own Operating Partnership units ("OP Units") equal to the number of outstanding shares of Host Marriott common stock at the time of the REIT Conversion. The UPREIT structure will not affect the ownership by shareholders of their existing Host Marriott shares.

In June 1998, as part of the REIT Conversion, the Company filed a preliminary Prospectus/Consent Solicitation with the Securities and Exchange Commission. This Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement describes a proposal whereby the Operating Partnership will acquire by merger (the "Mergers") eight limited partnerships (the "Partnerships") that own full-service hotels in which the Company or its subsidiaries are general partners. As more fully described in the Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, limited partners of those Partnerships that participate in the Mergers will receive OP Units which they may, at their election, exchange for unsecured notes due December 15, 2005 issued by the Operating Partnership ("Notes") or common stock in the REIT.

The REIT expects to qualify as a real estate investment trust under federal income tax law, beginning January 1, 1999. However, consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including final Board approval, consent of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion will be completed or that it will be effective as of January 1, 1999.

On April 20, 1998, the Company and certain of its subsidiaries filed a shelf registration on Form S-3 (the "Shelf Registration") with the Securities and Exchange Commission for $2.5 billion in securities, which may include debt, equity or a combination thereof. The Company anticipates that any net proceeds from the sale of offered securities will be used for refinancing of the Company's indebtedness, potential future acquisitions and general corporate purposes.

On August 5, 1998, HMH Properties, Inc. ("HMH Properties"), an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott, which owned 61 of Host Marriott's hotels, purchased substantially all of its (i) $600 million in 9 1/2% senior notes due 2005, (ii) $350 million in 9% senior notes due 2007, and (iii) $600 million in 8 7/8% senior notes due 2007 (collectively, the "Old Senior Notes"). Concurrently with each offer to purchase, HMH Properties solicited consents (the "1998 Consent Solicitations") from registered holders of the Old Senior Notes to certain amendments to eliminate or modify substantially all of the restrictive covenants and certain other provisions contained in the indentures pursuant to which the Old Senior Notes were issued. HMH Properties simultaneously utilized the Shelf Registration to issue an aggregate of $1.7 billion in senior notes (the "New Senior Notes"). The New Senior Notes were issued in two series, $500 million of 7 7/8 Series A notes due in 2005 and $1.2 billion of 7 7/8 Series B notes due in 2008. The 1998 Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of HMC Capital Resources Holdings Corporation ("Capital Resources"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, with and into HMH Properties. Capital Resources, the owner of eight of Host Marriott's hotels was the obligor under the $500 million credit facility (the "Old Credit Facility").

In conjunction with the issuance of the New Senior Notes, HMH Properties entered into a $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility") with a group of commercial banks. The New Credit Facility will initially have a three-year term with two one-year extension options. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility generally bear interest at the Eurodollar rate plus 1.75%. The interest rate and commitment fee (currently 0.35% on the unused portion of the New Credit Facility) fluctuates based on certain financial ratios of HMH Properties. The New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by Host Marriott and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties.

The New Credit Facility replaces the Company's Old Credit Facility. The net proceeds from the offering and borrowings under the New Credit Facility were used by Host Marriott to purchase substantially all of the Old Senior Notes, to make repayments outstanding under the Old Credit Facility and to make bond premium and consent payments totaling approximately $178 million. These costs, along with the write-off of deferred financing fees of approximately $55 million related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility, will be recorded as a pre-tax extraordinary loss on the extinguishment of debt in the third quarter of 1998. The New Credit Facility and the indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contain covenants restricting the ability of HMH Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, grant liens on their assets, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equity holders of HMH Properties, Host Marriott, and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. The New Credit Facility and the New Senior Notes also contain certain financial covenants relating to, among other things, maintaining certain levels of tangible net worth and certain ratios of EBITDA to interest and fixed charges, total debt to EBITDA, unencumbered assets to unsecured debt, and secured debt to total debt.

4. Revenues primarily represent house profit from the Company's hotel properties and senior living communities, net gains (losses) on property transactions and equity in earnings (losses) of affiliates. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to the Company as property owner and represents gross operating revenues, less all gross property-level expenses, excluding depreciation, management fees, real and personal property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs, which are classified as operating costs and expenses.

House profit generated by the Company's hotels for 1998 and 1997 consists of:

On November 20, 1997, the Emerging Issues Task Force ("EITF") of the Financial Accounting Standards Board reached a consensus on EITF 97-2, "Application of FASB Statement No. 94 and APB Opinion No. 16 to Physician Practice Management Entities and Certain Other Entities with Contractual Management Arrangements." EITF 97-2 addresses the circumstances in which a management entity may include the revenues and expenses of a managed entity in its financial statements.

The Company has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that EITF 97-2 requires the Company to include property-level sales and operating expenses of its hotels and senior living communities in its statements of operations. The Company will adopt EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998 and with retroactive effect in prior periods to conform to the new presentation. Application of EITF 97-2 to the consolidated financial statements for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 would have increased both revenues and operating expenses by approximately $993 million and would have had no impact on operating profit, net income or earnings per share.

5. Basic earnings per common share is computed by dividing net income by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Diluted earnings per common share is computed by dividing net income plus dividends by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding plus other potentially dilutive securities. Diluted earnings per common share was not adjusted for the impact of the Convertible Preferred Securities in 1997 as they were anti-dilutive.

A reconciliation of the number of shares utilized for the calculation of diluted earnings per common share follows:

6. As of June 19, 1998, the Company had minority interests in 18 affiliates that own an aggregate of 240 properties, 20 of which are full-service properties, managed primarily by Marriott International, Inc. The Company's equity in losses of affiliates was $1 million for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998, respectively. The Company's equity in earnings of affiliates was $3 million for the twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997, respectively.

In the first quarter of 1998, the Company obtained a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis for approximately $239 million, including $164 million in assumed mortgage debt. The Company previously owned a 1.3% general and limited partnership interest.

In the second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the partnership that owns the 289-room Park Ridge Marriott in Park Ridge, New Jersey for $24 million. The Company previously owned a 1% managing general partner interest and held a note receivable interest of approximately $5 million.

7. In the first quarter of 1998, the Company acquired a controlling interest in, and became the managing general partner for, the partnership that owns the 359-room Albany Marriott, the 350-room San Diego Marriott Mission Valley and the 320-room Minneapolis Marriott Southwest for approximately $50 million. Also, during the first quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the Gables at Winchester in suburban Boston, a 124-unit senior living community, for $21 million and entered into conditional purchase agreements to acquire two Marriott Brighton Gardens assisted living communities in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colorado, for $35 million in 1999 after the anticipated completion of construction, if they achieve certain operating performance criteria. All three of these communities will be operated by Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc. ("MSLS") under long-term operating agreements.

In the second quarter of 1998, the Company sold the 662-room New York Marriott East Side for approximately $191 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $40 million. The Company also sold the 191-room Napa Valley Marriott for approximately $21 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $10 million. Also, during the second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 397-room Ritz-Carlton, Tysons Corner for $96 million and the 281-room Ritz-Carlton, Phoenix for $75 million. In addition, the Company acquired the 487-room Torrance Marriott near Los Angeles, California for $52 million.

In the third quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 308-room Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn for approximately $65 million, the 336-room Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco for approximately $161 million and the 404-room Memphis Crowne Plaza (which was converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition) for approximately $16 million.

8. In March 1997, the Company purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott. The Company purchased the bonds for $219 million, an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, the Company recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount and the write-off of deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

9. The Company operates in two business segments in the lodging industry: hotels and senior living communities. The Company's hotels are primarily operated under the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands. The Company's senior living communities are operated under Marriott brands.

The Company evaluates the performance of its segments based primarily on operating profit before depreciation, corporate expenses, and interest expense. The Company's income taxes are included in the consolidated Federal income tax return of the Company and its affiliates and is allocated based upon the relative contribution to the Company's consolidated taxable income or loss and changes in temporary differences. The allocation of income taxes is not evaluated at the segment level and, therefore, the Company does not believe the information is material to the condensed consolidated financial statements.

As of June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997, the Company's foreign operations consist of four full-service hotel properties located in Canada and two full-service hotel properties located in Mexico. There were no intercompany sales between the properties and the Company. The following table presents revenues for each of the geographical areas in which the Company operates (in millions):

10. In the first quarter of 1998, the Company adopted SFAS No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income," ("SFAS 130"). SFAS 130 establishes standards for reporting and display of comprehensive income and its components in financial statements. The objective of SFAS 130 is to report a measure of all changes in equity of an enterprise that result from transactions and other economic events of the period other than transactions with owners. Comprehensive income is the total of net income and all other non-owner changes in equity.

The Company's only component of other comprehensive income is the right to receive up to 1.4 million shares of Host Marriott Services Corporation's ("HMSC") common stock or an equivalent cash value subsequent to exercise of the options held by certain former and current employees of Marriott International. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998, other comprehensive income was $1 million and consisted of the unrealized gain on the appreciation of the HMSC common stock. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998, comprehensive income was $97 million. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997, other comprehensive income was $3 million. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997, comprehensive income was $40 million. As of June 19, 1998, the Company's accumulated other comprehensive income was approximately $11 million.

11. In the second quarter of 1998, the Company prepaid $92 million of 9% unsecured debt provided by Marriott International related to the Company's senior living communities.

12. In December 1996, Host Marriott Financial Trust (the "Issuer"), a wholly-owned subsidiary trust of the Company, issued 11 million shares of 6 3/4% convertible quarterly income preferred securities (the "Convertible Preferred Securities"), with a liquidation preference of $50 per share (for a total liquidation amount of $550 million). The Convertible Preferred Securities represent an undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Issuer. The payment of distributions out of moneys held by the Issuer and payments on liquidation of the Issuer or the redemption of the Convertible Preferred Securities are guaranteed by the Company to the extent the Issuer has funds available therefor. This guarantee, when taken together with the Company's obligations under the indenture pursuant to which the Debentures were issued, the Debentures, the Company's obligations under the Trust Agreement and its obligations under the indenture to pay costs, expenses, debts and liabilities of the Issuer (other than with respect to the Convertible Preferred Securities) provides a full and unconditional guarantee of amounts due on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Proceeds from the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities were invested in 6 3/4% Convertible Subordinated Debentures (the "Debentures") due December 2, 2026 issued by the Company. The Issuer exists solely to issue the Convertible Preferred Securities and its own common securities (the "Common Securities") and invest the proceeds therefrom in the Debentures, which is its sole asset. Separate financial statements of the Issuer are not presented because of the Company's guarantee described above; the Company's management has concluded that such financial statements are not material to investors and the Issuer is wholly-owned and essentially has no independent operations.

Each of the Convertible Preferred Securities is convertible at the option of the holder into shares of Company common stock at the rate of 2.6876 shares per Convertible Preferred Security (equivalent to a conversion price of $18.604 per share of Company common stock). The Debentures are convertible at the option of the holders into shares of Company common stock at a conversion rate of 2.6876 shares for each $50 in principal amount of Debentures. The Issuer will only convert Debentures pursuant to a notice of conversion by a holder of Convertible Preferred Securities.

Holders of the Convertible Preferred Securities are entitled to receive preferential cumulative cash distributions at an annual rate of 6 3/4% accruing from the original issue date, commencing March 1, 1997, and payable quarterly in arrears thereafter. The distribution rate and the distribution and other payment dates for the Convertible Preferred Securities will correspond to the interest rate and interest and other payment dates on the Debentures. The Company may defer interest payments on the Debentures for a period not to exceed 20 consecutive quarters. If interest payments on the Debentures are deferred, so too are payments on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Under this circumstance, the Company will not be permitted to declare or pay any cash distributions with respect to its capital stock or debt securities that rank pari passu with or junior to the Debentures.

(UNAUDITED)

Subject to certain restrictions, the Convertible Preferred Securities are redeemable at the Issuer's option upon any redemption by the Company of the Debentures after December 2, 1999. Upon repayment at maturity or as a result of the acceleration of the Debentures upon the occurrence of a default, the Debentures shall be subject to mandatory redemption, from which the proceeds will be applied to redeem Convertible Preferred Securities and Common Securities, together with accrued and unpaid distributions.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To Host Marriott Corporation:

We have audited the accompanying combined consolidated balance sheets of Host Marriott Hotels (as defined in Note 1) as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, and the related combined consolidated statements of operations and cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended January 2, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of Host Marriott Corporation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the combined consolidated financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the combined consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Host Marriott Hotels as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended January 2, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

As discussed in Notes 1 and 2 to the combined consolidated financial statements, in 1995 Host Marriott Hotels changed its method of accounting for the impairment of long-lived assets.

NOTES TO COMBINED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

BASIS OF PRESENTATION

On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations by spin-off of Host Marriott's senior living business ("Senior Living") and contribution of Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Operating Partnership") Host Marriott will merge into HMC Merger Corporation, a newly formed Maryland corporation (to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation"), which will qualify as a real estate investment trust ("REIT") and be the sole general partner of the Operating Partnership. Host Marriott's contribution of its hotels and certain assets and liabilities to the Operating Partnership (the "Contribution") in exchange for units of limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership will be accounted for at Host Marriott's historical basis.

The accompanying combined consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Host Marriott hotels and the assets and liabilities expected to be included in the Contribution by Host Marriott to the Operating Partnership upon its planned conversion to a REIT (the "REIT Conversion") . In these combined consolidated financial statements, Host Marriott Hotels is referred to as "Host Marriott Hotels" or the "Company." The combined consolidated financial statements exclude the assets, liabilities, equity, operations and cash flows related to Host Marriott's portfolio of 31 senior living communities. After the REIT Conversion, Senior Living will own these assets and lease the existing hotels from the Company.

In connection with the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership is proposing to acquire the remaining interests in eight public limited partnerships in which Host Marriott or its subsidiaries are general partners that own or control 24 full-service hotels in exchange for units in the Operating Partnership ("OP Units"), which could be exchangeable for notes of the Operating Partnership or common stock in the REIT in certain circumstances. Five of the partnerships (nine hotels) are already controlled and consolidated by Host Marriott as are two of the hotels in another of the partnerships for which a subsidiary of Host Marriott provided 100% non-recourse financing for the acquisition of these two hotels. The Operating Partnership is also proposing to acquire certain private partnerships in which Host Marriott or its subsidiaries are general partners in exchange for OP Units. Each OP Unit will be redeemable for cash in an amount equal to the market value of a share of Host Marriott common stock or, at the election of Host Marriott Corporation (the general partner), a share of Host Marriott common stock, beginning one year after the issuance of the OP Unit.

However, consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including final Board approval, consent of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders, and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion will be completed.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

As of January 2, 1998, the Company owned, or had controlling interests in, 95 upscale and luxury full-service hotel lodging properties generally located throughout the United States and operated under the Marriott and Ritz-Carlton brand names. Most of these properties are managed by Marriott International, Inc. ("Marriott International"). At that date, the Company also held minority interests in various partnerships that own 242 additional properties, including 22 full-service hotel properties, managed by Marriott International.

On December 29, 1995, Host Marriott distributed to its shareholders through a special tax-free dividend (the "Special Dividend") its food, beverage, and merchandise concessions business at airports, on tollroads, and at arenas and other attractions (the "Operating Group"). See Note 2 for a discussion of the Special Dividend. The 1995 financial statements were restated to reflect the Operating Group as discontinued operations.

The structure of Host Marriott was substantially altered on October 8, 1993 (the "Marriott International Distribution Date") when the Company distributed the stock of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Marriott International, Inc., in a special dividend (the "Marriott International Distribution"). See Note 14 for a description of the Marriott International Distribution and related transactions.

An analysis of the activity in the "Investments and Advances from Host Marriott Corporation" follows (in millions):

The average balance in the "Investment and Advances from Host Marriott Corporation" was $692 million for 1995, $893 million for 1996 and $1,034 million for 1997. The "Cash transfers to Host Marriott" reflects cash transfers to Host Marriott for the purchase of the Senior Living assets which, as contemplated, will be spun-off in conjunction with the REIT Conversion.

PRINCIPLES OF CONSOLIDATION

The combined consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its subsidiaries and controlled affiliates. Investments in affiliates over which the Company has the ability to exercise significant influence, but does not control, are accounted for using the equity method. All material intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated.

FISCAL YEAR

The Company's fiscal year ends on the Friday nearest to December 31. Fiscal years 1997 and 1995 included 52 weeks compared to 53 weeks for fiscal year 1996.

REVENUES AND EXPENSES

Revenues primarily represent sales generated by the Company's hotels. Other hotel operating costs and expenses include depreciation, management fees, real and personal property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs.

EARNINGS (LOSS) PER OP UNIT

Basic and diluted earnings per OP Unit have been calculated based on the number of Host Marriott common shares outstanding for all periods presented because it is expected that upon the REIT Conversion the Operating Partnership will issue OP Units to Host Marriott in exchange for the Contribution equal to the number of shares of outstanding Host Marriott common stock, accordingly, the following discussion of earnings (loss) per OP Unit is on a pro forma basis as if the REIT Conversion and the Contribution had occurred.

HOST MARRIOTT HOTELS

Basic earnings (loss) per OP Unit are computed by dividing net income (loss) by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding of Host Marriott. Diluted earnings (loss) per OP Unit are computed by dividing net income (loss) by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding plus other dilutive securities of Host Marriott. Diluted earnings (loss) per OP Unit has not been adjusted for the impact of the Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott Corporation for 1997 and 1996 and for the comprehensive stock plan and warrants for 1996 and 1995 as they are anti-dilutive.

Basic and diluted (loss) earnings per OP Unit on a pro forma basis are as follows:

	-----	-----	-----
Basic earnings (loss) per OP Unit:
Continuing operations.....	$ .23	$ (.07)	$ (.39)

INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS

The combined consolidated statements of operations include the following amounts related to non-U.S. subsidiaries and affiliates of Host Marriott: revenues of $39 million and $18 million and loss before income taxes of $9 million and $2 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively. International revenues and income before income taxes in 1995 were not material.

PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

Property and equipment is recorded at cost. For newly developed properties, cost includes interest, rent and real estate taxes incurred during development and construction. Replacements and improvements are capitalized.

Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, generally 40 years for buildings and three to ten years for furniture and equipment. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the shorter of the lease term or the useful lives of the related assets.

Gains on sales of properties are recognized at the time of sale or deferred to the extent required by generally accepted accounting principles. Deferred gains are recognized as income in subsequent periods as conditions requiring deferral are satisfied or expire without further cost to the Company.

In cases where management is holding for sale particular hotel properties, the Company assesses impairment based on whether the estimated sales price less costs of disposal of each individual property to be sold is less than the net book value. A property is considered to be held for sale when the Company has made the decision to dispose of the property. Otherwise, the Company assesses impairment of its real estate properties based on whether it is probable that undiscounted future cash flows from each individual property will be less than its net book value. If a property is impaired, its basis is adjusted to its fair market value.

DEFERRED CHARGES

Deferred financing costs related to long-term debt are deferred and amortized over the remaining life of the debt.

CASH, CASH EQUIVALENTS AND SHORT-TERM MARKETABLE SECURITIES

The Company considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of 90 days or less at the date of purchase to be cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents includes approximately $103 million and $67 million at January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, respectively, of cash related to certain consolidated partnerships, the use of which is restricted generally for partnership purposes to the extent it is not distributed to the partners. Short-term marketable securities include investments with a maturity of 91 days to one year at the date of purchase. The Company's short-term marketable securities represent investments in U.S. government agency notes and high quality commercial paper. The short-term marketable securities are categorized as available for sale and, as a result, are stated at fair market value.

CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to significant concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash, cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities. The Company maintains cash and cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities with various high credit-quality financial institutions. The Company performs periodic evaluations of the relative credit standing of these financial institutions and limits the amount of credit exposure with any institution.

USE OF ESTIMATES IN THE PREPARATION OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

SELF-INSURANCE PROGRAMS

Prior to the Marriott International Distribution Date, the Company was self-insured for certain levels of general liability, workers' compensation and employee medical coverage. Estimated costs of these self-insurance programs were accrued at present values of projected settlements for known and anticipated claims. The Company discontinued its self-insurance programs for claims arising subsequent to the Marriott International Distribution Date.

INTEREST RATE SWAP AGREEMENTS

The Company has entered into a limited number of interest rate swap agreements to diversify certain of its debt to a variable rate or fixed rate basis. The interest rate differential to be paid or received on interest rate swap agreements is accrued as interest rates change and is recognized as an adjustment to interest expense.

NEW STATEMENTS OF FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

The Company adopted Statements of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 114, "Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a Loan" and SFAS No. 121, "Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to be Disposed Of" during 1995. Adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on the Company's continuing operations. See Note 2 for a discussion of the adoption of SFAS No. 121 on discontinued operations.

During 1996, the Company adopted SFAS No. 123, "Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation." The adoption of SFAS No. 123 did not have a material effect on the Company's combined consolidated financial statements. (See Note 10.)

During 1997, the Company adopted SFAS No. 128, "Earnings Per Share," SFAS No. 129, "Disclosure of Information About Capital Structure" and SFAS No. 131, "Disclosures About Segments of an Enterprise and Related Information." The adoption of these statements did not have a material effect on the Company's combined consolidated financial statements and the appropriate disclosures required by these statements have been incorporated herein. The Company will adopt SFAS No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income," in 1998 and does not expect it to have a material effect on the Company's combined consolidated financial statements.

2. HM SERVICES SPECIAL DIVIDEND

On December 29, 1995, Host Marriott distributed to its shareholders through the Special Dividend all of the outstanding shares of common stock of Host Marriott Services Corporation ("HM Services"), formerly a wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott, which, as of the date of the Special Dividend, owned and operated food, beverage and merchandise concessions at airports, on tollroads and at stadiums and arenas and other tourist attractions. The Special Dividend provided Host Marriott shareholders with one share of common stock of HM Services for every five shares of Host Marriott common stock held by such shareholders on the record date of December 22, 1995. Host Marriott recorded approximately $9 million of expenses related to the consummation of the Special Dividend in 1995. Revenues for Host Marriott's discontinued operations totaled $1,158 million in 1995. The provision for loss on disposal includes the operating loss from discontinued operations from August 9, 1995 (measurement date) through December 29, 1995 of $44 million, net of taxes, and estimated expenses related to the Special Dividend of $9 million.

Effective September 9, 1995, the Company adopted SFAS No. 121, which requires that an impairment loss be recognized when the carrying amount of an asset exceeds the sum of the undiscounted estimated future cash flows associated with the asset. As a result of the adoption of SFAS No. 121, the Company recognized a non-cash, pre-tax charge during the fourth quarter of 1995 of $47 million. Such charge has been reflected in discontinued operations for fiscal year 1995.

For purposes of governing certain of the ongoing relationships between Host Marriott and HM Services after the Special Dividend and to provide for an orderly transition, Host Marriott and HM Services entered into various agreements including a Distribution Agreement, an Employee Benefits Allocation Agreement, a Tax Sharing Agreement and a Transitional Services Agreement. Effective as of December 29, 1995, these agreements provide, among other things, for the division between Host Marriott and HM Services of certain assets and liabilities, including but not limited to liabilities related to employee stock and other benefit plans and the establishment of certain obligations for HM Services to issue shares upon exercise of warrants (see Note 7) and to issue shares or pay cash to Host Marriott upon exercise of stock options held by certain former employees of Host Marriott (see Note 10).

3. PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

Property and equipment consists of the following:

	1997	1996

Land and land improvements.....	$ 418	$ 349
Buildings and leasehold improvements.....	4,325	3,507

Interest cost capitalized in connection with the Company's development and construction activities totaled $1 million in 1997, $3 million in 1996 and $5 million in 1995.

In 1997, the Company, through an agreement with the ground lessor of one of its properties terminated its ground lease and recorded a $15 million loss on the write-off of its investment, including certain transaction costs, which has been included in net gains (losses) on property transactions in the accompanying combined consolidated financial statements.

In 1996, the Company recorded additional depreciation expense of $15 million as a result of a change in the estimated depreciable lives and salvage values for certain hotel properties. Also, in 1996, the Company recorded a $4 million charge to write down an undeveloped land parcel to its net realizable value based on its expected sales value.

In 1995, the Company made a determination that its owned Courtyard and Residence Inn properties were held for sale and recorded a $10 million charge to write down the carrying value of five of these individual properties to their estimated net realizable values. In the fourth quarter of 1995, management instituted a program to liquidate certain non-income producing assets and to reinvest the proceeds in the acquisition of full-service hotels. As part of this program, management determined that a 174-acre parcel of undeveloped land in Germantown, Maryland that was to be developed into an office project over an extended period of time would no longer be developed and instead decided to attempt to sell the property. Accordingly, the Company recorded a pre-tax charge of $60 million in the fourth quarter of 1995 to reduce the asset to its estimated sales value. In 1997, the Company sold a portion of the land parcel at its approximate net book value of $11 million.

4. INVESTMENTS IN AND RECEIVABLES FROM AFFILIATES

Investments in and receivables from affiliates consist of the following:

	OWNERSHIP INTERESTS 1997 1996

Hotel properties owned by affiliates generally were acquired from the Company in connection with limited partnership offerings. The Company or one of its subsidiaries typically serve as a general partner of each partnership and the hotels are operated by Marriott International under long-term agreements.

In 1997, the Company acquired all of the outstanding interests in the Chesapeake Hotel Limited Partnership ("CHLP") that owns six hotels and acquired controlling interests in three affiliated partnerships for approximately $510 million, including the assumption of approximately $395 million of debt. These affiliated partnerships included the partnerships that own the 353-room Hanover Marriott and the 884-room Marriott's Desert Springs Resort and Spa and the Marriott Hotel Properties Limited Partnership ("MHPLP") that owns the 1,503-room Marriott Orlando World Center and a 50.5% interest in the 624-room Marriott Harbor Beach Resort. Subsequent to year-end, the Company obtained a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis for approximately $239 million, including the assumption of $164 million of mortgage debt.

In 1996, the Company purchased controlling interests in four affiliated partnerships for $640 million, including $429 million of existing debt. These affiliated partnerships included the partnership that owns the 1,355-room San Diego Marriott Hotel and Marina; the Marriott Hotel Properties II Limited Partnership that owns the 1,290-room New Orleans Marriott, the 999-room San Antonio Marriott Rivercenter, the 368-room San Ramon Marriott, and a 50% limited partner interest in the 754-room Santa Clara Marriott; the Marriott Suites Limited Partnership that owns four hotels; and the partnership that owns the 510-room Salt Lake City Marriott.

Receivables from affiliates are reported net of reserves of $144 million at January 2, 1998 and $227 million at January 3, 1997. Receivables from affiliates at January 2, 1998 include a $10 million debt service guarantee for the partnership that owns the Atlanta Marriott Marquis, which was repaid in early 1998. Receivables from affiliates at January 3, 1997 included a $140 million mortgage note at 9% that amortizes through 2003, which is eliminated in the consolidated financial statements in 1997. The Company has committed to advance additional amounts to affiliates, if necessary, to cover certain debt service requirements. Such commitments are limited, in the aggregate, to an additional $60 million at January 2, 1998. Subsequent to January 2, 1998, this amount was reduced to $20 million in connection with the refinancing and acquisition of a controlling interest in the Atlanta Marriott Marquis. Net amounts repaid to the Company under these commitments totaled $2 million and $13 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively. Net amounts funded by the Company totaled $10 million in 1997 and $8 million in 1995. There were no fundings in 1996.

In May 1995, HMH Properties, Inc. ("Properties"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. ("Hospitality"), issued an aggregate of $600 million of 9 1/2% senior secured notes (the "Properties Notes"). The bonds were issued in conjunction with a concurrent $400 million offering by a subsidiary of the discontinued HM Services' business at par, and have a final maturity of May 2005. The net proceeds were used to defease, and subsequently redeem, all of the senior notes issued by Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and to repay borrowings under the line of credit with Marriott International. In connection with the redemptions and defeasance, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss in 1995 of $17 million, net of taxes, related to continuing operations.

In December 1995, HMC Acquisition Properties, Inc. ("Acquisitions"), an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott, issued $350 million of 9% senior notes (the "Acquisitions Notes"). The Acquisitions Notes were issued at par and have a final maturity of December 2007. A portion of the net proceeds were utilized to repay in full the outstanding borrowings under the $230 million revolving line of credit (the "Acquisition Revolver"), which was then terminated. In connection with the termination of the Acquisition Revolver, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss in 1995 of $3 million, net of taxes.

Solicitations facilitated the merger of Acquisitions with and into Properties (the "Properties Merger"). The amendments to the indentures also increased the ability of Properties to acquire, through certain subsidiaries, additional properties subject to non-recourse indebtedness and controlling interests in corporations, partnerships and other entities holding attractive properties and increased the threshold required to permit Properties to make distributions to affiliates.

Concurrent with the Consent Solicitations and the Properties Merger, Properties issued an aggregate of $600 million of 8 7/8% senior notes (the "New Properties Notes") at par with a maturity of July 2007. Properties received net proceeds of approximately $570 million, net of the costs of the Consent Solicitations and the Offering, which will be used to fund future acquisitions of, or the purchase of interests in, full-service hotels and other lodging-related properties, as well as for general corporate purposes.

The Properties Notes, the Acquisitions Notes and the New Properties Notes are guaranteed on a joint and several basis by certain of Properties' subsidiaries and rank pari passu in right of payment with all other existing future senior indebtedness of Properties. Properties was the owner of 58 of the Company's 95 lodging properties at January 2, 1998.

The net assets of Properties at January 2, 1998 were approximately $518 million, substantially all of which were restricted. The indentures governing the Properties Notes, the Acquisitions Notes and the New Properties Notes contain covenants that, among other things, limit the ability to incur additional indebtedness and issue preferred stock, pay dividends or make other distributions, repurchase capital stock or subordinated indebtedness, create certain liens, enter into certain transactions with affiliates, sell certain assets, issue or sell stock of subsidiaries, and enter into certain mergers and consolidations.

During 1997, Host Marriott, through a newly-created, wholly-owned subsidiary, HMC Capital Resources Corporation ("Capital Resources"), entered into a revolving line of credit agreement (the "Line of Credit") with a group of commercial banks under which it may borrow up to $500 million for the acquisition of lodging real estate and for Host Marriott's working capital purposes. On June 19, 2000, any outstanding borrowings on the Line of Credit convert to a term loan arrangement with all unpaid advances due June 19, 2004. Borrowings under the Line of Credit bear interest at either the Eurodollar rate plus 1.7% or the Base Rate (as defined in the agreement) plus 0.7%, at the option of Host Marriott. An annual fee of 0.35% is charged on the unused portion of the commitment. The Line of Credit was originally secured by six hotel properties contributed to Capital Resources, with a carrying value of approximately $500 million as of January 2, 1998, and is guaranteed by the Company. As a result of this transaction, Host Marriott terminated its line of credit with Marriott International. As of January 2, 1998, outstanding borrowings on the Line of Credit were approximately $22 million as a result of a borrowing to fund the acquisition of the Ontario Airport Marriott.

Host Marriott also purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott in 1997. Host Marriott purchased the bonds for $219 million, an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, the Company recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount less the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

In 1997, Host Marriott incurred approximately $418 million of mortgage debt in conjunction with the acquisition of 11 hotels.

In conjunction with the construction of the Philadelphia Marriott, which was completed and opened in January 1995, the Company obtained first mortgage financing from Marriott International for 60% of the construction and development costs of the hotel. In the fourth quarter of 1996, Host Marriott repaid the $109 million mortgage, prior to the rate increasing to 10% per annum with an additional 2% deferred, with the proceeds from the convertible preferred securities offering discussed in Note 6. In the first quarter of 1997, Host Marriott obtained $90 million in first mortgage financing from two insurance companies secured by the Philadelphia Marriott. The mortgage bears interest at a fixed rate of 8.49% and matures in April 2009.

In December 1997, Host Marriott successfully completed the refinancing of the MHPLP mortgage debt for approximately $152 million. The new mortgage bears interest at 7.48% and matures in January 2008. In connection with the refinancing, the Company recognized an extraordinary loss of $2 million which represents payment of a prepayment penalty and the write-off of unamortized deferred financing fees, net of taxes.

At January 2, 1998, the Company was party to an interest rate exchange agreement with a financial institution (the contracting party) with an aggregate notional amount of $100 million. Under this agreement, the Company collects interest based on specified floating interest rates of one month LIBOR (rate of 6% at January 2, 1998) and pays interest at fixed rates (rate of 7.99% at January 2, 1998). This agreement expires in 1998 in conjunction with the maturity of the mortgage on the New York Marriott Marquis. Also in 1997, the Company was party to two additional interest rate swap agreements with an aggregate notional amount of $400 million which expired in May 1997. The Company realized a net reduction of interest expense of $1 million in 1997, $6 million in 1996 and $5 million in 1995 related to interest rate exchange agreements. The Company monitors the creditworthiness of its contracting parties by evaluating credit exposure and referring to the ratings of widely accepted credit rating services. The Standard and Poors' long-term debt rating for the contracting party is A-. The Company is exposed to credit loss in the event of non-performance by the contracting party to the interest rate swap agreements; however, the Company does not anticipate non-performance by the contracting party.

Aggregate debt maturities at January 2, 1998, excluding capital lease obligations, are (in millions):

Cash paid for interest for continuing operations, net of amounts capitalized was $316 million in 1997, $220 million in 1996 and $177 million in 1995. Deferred financing costs, which are included in other assets, amounted to $96 million and $61 million, net of accumulated amortization, as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, respectively. Amortization of deferred financing costs totaled $7 million, $5 million and $4 million in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively.

6. CONVERTIBLE DEBT OBLIGATION TO HOST MARRIOTT CORPORATION

The obligation for the $567 million of 6 3/4% Convertible Subordinated Debentures (the "Debentures") has been pushed down to these financial statements because it is expected that upon the REIT Conversion the Operating Partnership will assume primary liability for repayment of the Debentures of Host Marriott underlying the Convertible Preferred Securities of the Host Marriott Financial Trust (the "Issuer"), a wholly-owned subsidiary trust of Host Marriott. The common securities of Host Marriott Financial Trust will not be contributed to the Operating Partnership and therefore Host Marriott Financial Trust will not be consolidated by the Operating Partnership. Upon conversion by a Convertible Preferred Securities holder, the Operating Partnership will purchase common shares from Host Marriott Corporation in exchange for a like number of OP Units and distribute the common shares to the Convertible Preferred Securities holder.

In December 1996, the Issuer issued 11 million shares of 6 3/4% convertible quarterly income preferred securities (the "Convertible Preferred Securities"), with a liquidation preference of $50 per share (for a total liquidation amount of $550 million). The Convertible Preferred Securities represent an undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Issuer. The payment of distributions out of moneys held by the Issuer and payments on liquidation of the Issuer or the redemption of the Convertible Preferred Securities are guaranteed by Host Marriott to the extent the Issuer has funds available therefor. This guarantee, when taken together with Host Marriott obligations under the indenture pursuant to which the Debentures were issued, the Debentures, Host Marriott's obligations under the Trust Agreement and its obligations under the indenture to pay costs, expenses, debts and liabilities of the Issuer (other than with respect to the Convertible Preferred Securities) provides a full and unconditional guarantee of amounts due on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Proceeds from the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities were invested in the Debentures due December 2, 2026 issued by Host Marriott. The Issuer exists solely to issue the Convertible Preferred Securities and its own common securities (the "Common Securities") and invest the proceeds therefrom in the Debentures. The note receivable from Host Marriott for the Debentures is the Issuer's sole asset. Separate financial statements of the Issuer are not presented because of Host Marriott's guarantee described above; Host Marriott's management has concluded that such financial statements are not material to investors and the Issuer is wholly-owned and essentially has no independent operations.

Each of the Convertible Preferred Securities is convertible at the option of the holder into shares of Host Marriott common stock at the rate of 2.6876 shares per Convertible Preferred Security (equivalent to a conversion price of $18.604 per share of Company common stock). The Debentures are convertible at the option of the holders into shares of Host Marriott common stock at a conversion rate of 2.6876 shares for each $50 in principal amount of Debentures. The conversion rate is subject to adjustments in certain events, including (i) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock by Host in shares of Host common stock; (ii) distributions to all holders of Host common stock of rights or warrants entitling such holders (for a period not to exceed 45 days) to subscribe for or purchase Host common stock at an exercise price less than the market price of Host common stock; (iii) subdivisions and combinations of Host common stock; (iv) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock consisting of indebtedness of Host, capital stock or other securities, assets or cash (other than certain cash dividends at an annualized rate of up to 12.5% of the market price of Host common stock); (v) payments for Host common stock by Host or any of its subsidiaries in respect of a tender or exchange offer (other than an odd-lot offer) at a price per share in excess of 110% of the market price of Host common stock; (vi) consummation by Host of certain mergers, a consolidation, a sale of all or substantially all of its assets, a recapitalization or certain reclassifications of Host common stock. The distribution of the capital stock of Crestline to all holders of Host REIT common stock would, and certain other elements of the REIT Conversion (such as other distributions of Host's accumulated earnings and profits) may, result in an adjustment to the conversion price of the Debentures. The Issuer will only convert Debentures pursuant to a notice of conversion by a holder of Convertible Preferred Securities. During 1997 and 1996, no shares were converted into common stock.

Holders of the Convertible Preferred Securities are entitled to receive preferential cumulative cash distributions at an annual rate of 6 3/4% accruing from the original issue date, commencing March 1, 1997, and payable quarterly in arrears thereafter. The distribution rate and the distribution and other payment dates for the Convertible Preferred Securities will correspond to the interest rate and interest and other payment dates on the Debentures. Host Marriott may defer interest payments on the Debentures for a period not to exceed 20 consecutive quarters. If interest payments on the Debentures are deferred, so too are payments on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Under this circumstance, Host Marriott will not be permitted to declare or pay any cash distributions with respect to its capital stock or debt securities that rank pari passu with or junior to the Debentures.

Subject to certain restrictions, the Convertible Preferred Securities are redeemable at the Issuer's option upon any redemption by Host Marriott of the Debentures after December 2, 1999. Upon repayment at maturity or as a result of the acceleration of the Debentures upon the occurrence of a default, the Debentures shall be subject to mandatory redemption, from which the proceeds will be applied to redeem Convertible Preferred Securities and Common Securities, together with accrued and unpaid distributions.

7. SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY OF HOST MARRIOTT

It is expected that upon the REIT Conversion that the Company will issue OP Units to Host Marriott in exchange for the Contribution equal to the number of shares of outstanding Host Marriott common stock. Additionally, limited partnership units issued to partners of the eight public limited partnerships and five private limited partnerships will be convertible on a one for one basis into a share of stock of Host Marriott for each OP Unit owned or at the election of Host Marriott Trust, in an amount equal to the market value of such shares beginning one year after the issuance of the OP Unit.

Six hundred million shares of common stock of Host Marriott, with a par value of $1 per share, are authorized, of which 203.8 million and 202.0 million were issued and outstanding as of January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, respectively. One million shares of no par value preferred stock are authorized with none outstanding. During 1995, substantially all outstanding shares of such preferred stock were converted into approximately five million shares of Host Marriott common stock with the remainder defeased.

On March 27, 1996, Host Marriott completed the issuance of 31.6 million shares of common stock for net proceeds of nearly $400 million.

In connection with a class action settlement, Host Marriott issued warrants to purchase up to 7.7 million shares of Host Marriott's common stock at $8.00 per share through October 8, 1996 and $10.00 per share thereafter. During 1996, 6.8 million warrants were exercised at $8.00 per share and an equivalent number of shares of Host Marriott common stock were issued. During 1997, approximately 60,000 warrants were exercised at $10.00 per share and an equivalent number of shares of Host Marriott common stock were issued. As of January 2, 1998, there were approximately 550,000 warrants outstanding.

In February 1989, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott adopted a shareholder rights plan under which a dividend of one preferred stock purchase right was distributed for each outstanding share of Host Marriott's common stock. Each right entitles the holder to buy 1/1,000th of a share of a newly issued series of junior participating preferred stock of Host Marriott at an exercise price of $150 per share. The rights will be exercisable 10 days after a person or group acquires beneficial ownership of at least 20%, or begins a tender or exchange offer for at least 30%, of Host Marriott's common stock. Shares owned by a person or group on February 3, 1989 and held continuously thereafter are exempt for purposes of determining beneficial ownership under the rights plan. The rights are non-voting and will expire on February 2, 1999, unless exercised or previously redeemed by Host Marriott for $.01 each. If Host Marriott is involved in a merger or certain other business combinations not approved by the Board of Directors, each right entitles its holder, other than the acquiring person or group, to purchase common stock of either Host Marriott or the acquiror having a value of twice the exercise price of the right.

8. INCOME TAXES

The accompanying financial statements reflect the deferred income taxes related to the expected future tax consequences of those temporary differences specifically allocable to the Company based on the Contribution. Upon the REIT Conversion and the Contribution it is expected that the Company will be a limited partnership and taxable income or loss will be allocated among its partners. Further, Host Marriott expects to qualify as a REIT and will allocate its taxable income or loss to its shareholders. Accordingly, upon the REIT Conversion and the Contribution, the Company will not have a Federal tax provision or a state tax provision in many states and in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109 the Company will record an adjustment to the tax provision in the fiscal year during which the REIT Conversion takes place for the tax effect of the reversal of certain of the Company's deferred taxes.

Total deferred tax assets and liabilities at January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997 were as follows:

At January 2, 1998, Host Marriott had approximately $41 million of alternative minimum tax credit carryforwards available which do not expire.

Through 1997, Host Marriott settled with the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") substantially all issues for tax years 1979 through 1993. Host Marriott expects to resolve any remaining issues with no material impact on the combined consolidated financial statements. Host Marriott made net payments to the IRS of approximately $10 million and $45 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively, related to these settlements. Certain adjustments totaling approximately $2 million and $11 million in 1996 and 1995, respectively, were made to the tax provision related to those settlements.

Cash paid for income taxes, including IRS settlements, net of refunds received, was $56 million in 1997, $40 million in 1996 and $22 million in 1995.

As discussed in Note 12, Host Marriott sold and leased back 37 of its Courtyard properties in 1995 and an additional 16 Courtyard properties in 1996 to Hospitality Properties Trust. Additionally, in 1996, Host Marriott sold and leased back 18 of its Residence Inns to Hospitality Properties Trust. These leases, which are accounted for as operating leases and are included above, have initial terms expiring through 2012 for the Courtyard properties and 2010 for the Residence Inn properties, and are renewable at the option of the Company. Minimum rent payments are $51 million annually for the Courtyard properties and $17 million annually for the Residence Inn properties, and additional rent based upon sales levels are payable to the owner under the terms of the leases.

Leases also include long-term ground leases for certain hotels, generally with multiple renewal options. Certain leases contain provision for the payment of contingent rentals based on a percentage of sales in excess of stipulated amounts.

Certain of the lease payments included in the table above relate to facilities used in the Company's former restaurant business. Most leases contain one or more renewal options, generally for five or 10-year periods. Future rentals on leases have not been reduced by aggregate minimum sublease rentals of $124 million payable to the Company under non-cancelable subleases.

The Company remains contingently liable at January 2, 1998 on certain leases relating to divested non-lodging properties. Such contingent liabilities aggregated $110 million at January 2, 1998. However, management considers the likelihood of any substantial funding related to these leases to be remote.

10. EMPLOYEE STOCK PLANS

It is expected that upon the REIT Conversion the Company will issue OP Units to Host Marriott in exchange for the Contribution equal to the number of shares of outstanding Host Marriott common stock. Additionally, OP Units issued to partners of the eight public limited partnerships and five private limited partnerships will be convertible on a one for one basis into shares of Host Marriott stock for each OP Unit owned or, at the election of Host Marriott Trust, in an amount equal to the market value of such shares beginning one year after the issuance of the OP Unit.

At January 2, 1998, Host Marriott has two stock-based compensation plans which are described below. Under the comprehensive stock plan (the "Comprehensive Plan"), Host Marriott may award to participating employees (i) options to purchase Host Marriott common stock, (ii) deferred shares of Host Marriott's common stock and (iii) restricted shares of Host Marriott's common stock. In addition, Host Marriott has an employee stock purchase plan (the "Employee Stock Purchase Plan"). The principal terms and conditions of the two plans are summarized below.

Total shares of common stock reserved and available for issuance under employee stock plans at January 2, 1998 are:

	(IN MILLIONS)

Employee stock options may be granted to officers and key employees with an exercise price not less than the fair market value of the common stock on the date of grant. Options granted before May 11, 1990 expire 10 years after the date of grant and nonqualified options granted on or after May 11, 1990 expire up to 15 years after the date of grant. Most options vest ratably over each of the first four years following the date of the grant. In connection with the Marriott International Distribution, Host Marriott issued an equivalent number of Marriott International options and adjusted the exercise prices of its options, then outstanding, based on the relative trading prices of shares of the common stock of the two companies.

Host Marriott continues to account for expense under its plans under the provisions of Accounting Principle Board Opinion 25 and related interpretations as permitted under SFAS No. 123. Accordingly, no compensation cost has been recognized for its fixed stock options under the Comprehensive Plan and its Employee Stock Purchase Plan.

For purposes of the following disclosures required by SFAS No. 123, the fair value of each option granted has been estimated on the date of grant using an option-pricing model with the following weighted average assumptions used for grants in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively: risk-free interest rate of 6.2%, 6.6% and 6.8%, respectively, volatility of 35%, 36% and 37%, respectively, expected lives of 12 years and no dividend yield. The weighted average fair value per option granted during the year was $13.13 in 1997, $8.68 in 1996 and $5.76 in 1995.

Pro forma compensation cost for 1997, 1996 and 1995 would have reduced (increased) net income (loss) by approximately $330,000, ($150,000) and ($5,000), respectively. Basic and diluted earnings per share on a pro forma basis for Host Marriott were not impacted by the pro forma compensation cost in 1997, 1996 and 1995.

The effects of the implementation of SFAS No. 123 are not representative of the effects on reported net income in future years because only the effects of stock option awards granted in 1995, 1996 and 1997 have been considered.

In connection with the Special Dividend, the then outstanding options held by current and former employees of Host Marriott were redenominated in both Host Marriott and HM Services stock and the exercise prices of the options were adjusted based on the relative trading prices of shares of the common stock of the two companies. For all options held by certain current and former employees of Marriott International, the number and exercise price of the options were adjusted based on the trading prices of shares of the Host Marriott's common stock immediately before and after the Special Dividend. Therefore, the options outstanding reflect these revised exercise prices. Pursuant to the Distribution Agreement between the Company and HM Services, Host Marriott has the right to receive up to 1.4 million shares of HM Services' common stock or an equivalent cash value subsequent to exercise of the options held by certain former and current employees of Marriott International. As of January 2, 1998, Host Marriott valued this right at approximately $20 million, which is included in other assets. A summary of the status of Host Marriott's stock option plan for 1997, 1996 and 1995 follows:

Deferred stock incentive plan shares granted to officers and key employees after 1990 generally vest over 10 years in annual installments commencing one year after the date of grant. Certain employees may elect to defer payments until termination or retirement. Deferred stock incentive plan shares granted in 1990 and prior years generally vest in annual installments commencing one year after the date of grant and continuing for 10 years. Employees also could elect to forfeit one-fourth of their deferred stock incentive plan award in exchange for accelerated vesting over a 10-year period. Host Marriott accrues compensation expense for the fair market value of the shares on the date of grant, less estimated forfeitures. In 1997, 1996 and 1995, 14,000, 13,000 and 158,000 shares were granted, respectively, under this plan. The compensation cost that has been charged against income for deferred stock was $1 million in 1995 and was not material in 1996 and 1997. The weighted average fair value per share granted during each year was $15.81 in 1997, $11.81 in 1996 and $8.49 in 1995.

In 1993, 3,537,000 restricted stock plan shares under the Comprehensive Plan were issued to officers and key executives to be distributed over the next three to 10 years in annual installments based on continued employment and the attainment of certain performance criteria. Host Marriott recognizes compensation expense over the restriction period equal to the fair market value of the shares on the date of issuance adjusted for forfeitures, and where appropriate, the level of attainment of performance criteria and fluctuations in the fair market value of Host Marriott's common stock. In 1997 and 1996, 198,000 and 2,511,000 shares of additional restricted stock plan shares were granted to certain key employees under terms and conditions similar to the 1993 grants. Approximately 161,000 and 500,000 shares were forfeited in 1996 and 1995, respectively. There were no shares forfeited in 1997. Host Marriott recorded compensation expense of $13 million, $11 million and $5 million in 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively, related to these awards. The weighted average fair value per share granted during each year was $16.88 in 1997 and $14.01 in 1996. There were no restricted stock plan shares granted in 1995.

Under the terms of the Employee Stock Purchase Plan, eligible employees may purchase common stock through payroll deductions at the lower of market value at the beginning or end of the plan year.

11. PROFIT SHARING AND POSTEMPLOYMENT BENEFIT PLANS

Host Marriott contributes to profit sharing and other defined contribution plans for the benefit of employees meeting certain eligibility requirements and electing participation in the plans. The amount to be matched by Host Marriott is determined annually by the Board of Directors. Host Marriott provides medical benefits to a limited number of retired employees meeting restrictive eligibility requirements. Amounts for these items were not material in 1995 through 1997.

12. ACQUISITIONS AND DISPOSITIONS

In 1998, the Company acquired, or purchased controlling interests in six full-service hotels totaling 3,270 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $388 million and entered into an agreement to acquire a controlling interest in the 397-room Ritz-Carlton in Tysons Corner, Virginia.

In April 1998, Host Marriott reached a definitive agreement with various affiliates of The Blackstone Group and Blackstone Real Estate Partners (collectively, "Blackstone") to acquire interests in 12 world-class luxury hotels in the U.S. and certain other assets in a transaction valued at approximately $1.735 billion, including the assumption of two mortgages, one of which is secured by a thirteenth hotel. The Company expects to pay approximately $862 million in cash and assumed debt and to issue approximately 43.7 million Operating Partnership units. Each OP Unit will be exchangeable for one share of Host Marriott common stock (or its cash equivalent). Upon completion of the acquisition, Blackstone will own approximately 18% of the outstanding shares of Host Marriott common stock on a fully converted basis. The Blackstone portfolio consists of two Ritz-Carlton, three Four Seasons, one Grand Hyatt, three Hyatt Regencies and four Swissotel properties and a mortgage on a third Four Seasons.

In 1998, the Company sold two hotels totaling 854 rooms for approximately $212 million.

In 1997, the Company acquired eight full-service hotels totaling 3,600 rooms for approximately $145 million. In addition, the Company acquired controlling interests in nine full-service hotels totaling 5,024 rooms for approximately $621 million, including the assumption of approximately $418 million of debt. The Company also completed the acquisition of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center, after acquiring the mortgage on the hotel for $101 million in late 1996.

In 1996, the Company acquired six full-service hotels totaling 1,964 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $189 million. In addition, the Company acquired controlling interests in 17 full-service hotels totaling 8,917 rooms for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $1.1 billion, including the assumption of approximately $696 million of debt. The Company also purchased the first mortgage of the 504-room New York Marriott Financial Center for approximately $101 million.

In 1995, the Company acquired nine full-service hotels totaling approximately 3,900 rooms in separate transactions for approximately $390 million.

During the first and third quarters of 1995, 37 of the Company's Courtyard properties were sold and leased back from Hospitality Properties Trust for approximately $330 million. The Company received net proceeds from the two transactions of approximately $297 million and will receive approximately $33 million upon expiration of the leases. A deferred gain of $14 million on the sale/leaseback transactions is being amortized over the initial term of the leases.

In the first and second quarters of 1996, the Company completed the sale and leaseback of 16 of its Courtyard properties and 18 of its Residence Inn properties for $349 million. The Company received net proceeds of approximately $314 million and will receive approximately $35 million upon expiration of the leases. A deferred gain of $45 million on the sale/leaseback transactions is being amortized over the initial term of the leases.

Short-term marketable securities and the obligation to Host Marriott for Convertible Preferred Securities are valued based on quoted market prices. Receivables from affiliates, notes and other financial assets are valued based on the expected future cash flows discounted at risk-adjusted rates. Valuations for secured debt are determined based on the expected future payments discounted at risk-adjusted rates. The fair values of the Line of Credit and other notes are estimated to be equal to their carrying value. Senior Notes are valued based on quoted market prices.

The Company is contingently liable under various guarantees of obligations of certain affiliates (affiliate debt service commitments) with a maximum commitment of $60 million at January 2, 1998 and $117 million at January 3, 1997. A fair value is assigned to commitments with expected future fundings. The fair value of the commitments represents the net expected future payments discounted at risk-adjusted rates. Such payments are accrued on an undiscounted basis.

The fair value of interest rate swap agreements is based on the estimated amount the Company would pay or receive to terminate the swap agreements. The aggregate notional amount of the agreements was $100 million at January 2, 1998 and $525 million at January 3, 1997.

14. MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL DISTRIBUTION AND RELATIONSHIP WITH MARRIOTT INTERNATIONAL

On October 8, 1993 (the "Marriott International Distribution Date"), Marriott Corporation distributed, through a special tax-free dividend (the "Marriott International Distribution"), to holders of Marriott

Corporation's common stock (on a share-for-share basis), approximately 116.4 million outstanding shares of common stock of an existing wholly-owned subsidiary, Marriott International, resulting in the division of Marriott Corporation's operations into two separate companies. The distributed operations included the former Marriott Corporation's lodging management, franchising and resort timesharing operations, senior living service operations, and the institutional food service and facilities management business. Host Marriott retained the former Marriott Corporation's airport and tollroad food, beverage and merchandise concessions operations, as well as most of its real estate properties. Effective at the Marriott International Distribution Date, Marriott Corporation changed its name to Host Marriott Corporation.

Host Marriott and Marriott International have entered into various agreements in connection with the Marriott International Distribution and thereafter which provide, among other things, that (i) the majority of the Company's hotel lodging properties are managed by Marriott International under agreements with initial terms of 15 to 20 years and which are subject to renewal at the option of Marriott International for up to an additional 16 to 30 years (see Note 15); (ii) 10 of the Company's full-service properties are operated under franchise agreements with Marriott International with terms of 15 to 30 years; (iii) Marriott International guarantees the Company's performance in connection with certain loans and other obligations ($107 million at January 2, 1998); (iv) the Company borrowed and repaid $109 million of first mortgage financing for construction of the Philadelphia Marriott (see Note 5); (v) Marriott International provided the Company with $70 million of mortgage financing in 1995 for the acquisition of three full-service properties by the Company at an average interest rate of 8.5% (Marriott International subsequently sold one of the loans in November 1996); (vi) Marriott International and the Company formed a joint venture and Marriott International provided the Company with $29 million in debt financing at an average interest rate of 12.7% and $28 million in preferred equity in 1996 for the acquisition of two full-service properties in Mexico City, Mexico; (vii) in 1995, the Company also acquired a full-service property from a partnership in which Marriott International owned a 50% interest; and (viii) Marriott International provides certain limited administrative services.

In 1997, 1996 and 1995, Host Marriott paid to Marriott International $162 million, $101 million and $67 million, respectively, in hotel management fees; $19 million, $18 million and $21 million, respectively, in interest and commitment fees under the debt financing and line of credit provided by Marriott International and $3 million, $4 million and $12 million, respectively, for limited administrative services. Host Marriott also paid Marriott International $4 million, $2 million and $1 million, respectively, in franchise fees in 1997, 1996 and 1995.

Additionally, Marriott International has the right to purchase up to 20% of the voting stock of Host Marriott if certain events involving a change in control of Host Marriott occur.

15. HOTEL MANAGEMENT AGREEMENTS

Most of the Company's hotels are subject to management agreements (the "Agreements") under which Marriott International manages most of the Company's hotels, generally for an initial term of 15 to 20 years with renewal terms at the option of Marriott International of up to an additional 16 to 30 years. The Agreements generally provide for payment of base management fees equal to one to four percent of sales and incentive management fees generally equal to 20% to 50% of Operating Profit (as defined in the Agreements) over a priority return (as defined) to the Company, with total incentive management fees not to exceed 20% of cumulative Operating Profit, or 20% of current year Operating Profit. In the event of early termination of the Agreements, Marriott International will receive additional fees based on the unexpired term and expected future base and incentive management fees. The Company has the option to terminate certain management agreements if specified performance thresholds are not satisfied. No agreement with respect to a single lodging facility is cross-collateralized or cross-defaulted to any other agreement and a single agreement may be canceled under certain conditions, although such cancellation will not trigger the cancellation of any other agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, Marriott International is required to furnish the hotels with certain services ("Chain Services") which are generally provided on a central or regional basis to all hotels in the Marriott International hotel system. Chain Services include central training, advertising and promotion, a national reservation system, computerized payroll and accounting services, and such additional services as needed which may be more efficiently performed on a centralized basis. Costs and expenses incurred in providing such services are allocated among all domestic hotels managed, owned or leased by Marriott International or its subsidiaries. In addition, the Company's hotels also participate in the Marriott Rewards program. The cost of this program is charged to all hotels in the Marriott hotel system.

The Company is obligated to provide the manager with sufficient funds to cover the cost of (a) certain non-routine repairs and maintenance to the hotels which are normally capitalized; and (b) replacements and renewals to the hotels' property and improvements. Under certain circumstances, the Company will be required to establish escrow accounts for such purposes under terms outlined in the Agreements.

The Company has entered into franchise agreements with Marriott International for ten hotels. Pursuant to these franchise agreements, the Company generally pays a franchise fee based on a percentage of room sales and food and beverage sales as well as certain other fees for advertising and reservations. Franchise fees for room sales vary from four to six percent of sales, while fees for food and beverage sales vary from two to three percent of sales. The terms of the franchise agreements are from 15 to 30 years.

The Company has entered into management agreements with The Ritz-Carlton Hotel Company, LLC ("Ritz-Carlton"), an affiliate of Marriott International, to manage four of the Company's hotels. These agreements have an initial term of 15 to 25 years with renewal terms at the option of Ritz-Carlton of up to an additional 10 to 40 years. Base management fees vary from two to four percent of sales and incentive management fees are generally equal to 20% of available cash flow or operating profit, as defined in the agreements.

The Company has also entered into management agreements with hotel management companies other than Marriott International and Ritz-Carlton for 12 of its hotels (10 of which are franchised under the Marriott brand). These agreements generally provide for an initial term of 10 to 20 years with renewal terms at the option of either party of up to an additional one to 15 years. These agreements generally provide for payment of base management fees equal to one to three percent of sales. Seven of the 12 agreements also provide for incentive management fees generally equal to 15 to 20 percent of available cash flow, as defined in the agreements.

At January 2, 1998 and January 3, 1997, $75 million and $76 million, respectively, have been advanced to the hotel managers for working capital and are included in "Due From Managers" in the accompanying combined consolidated balance sheets.

16. LITIGATION

The Company is from time-to-time the subject of, or involved in, judicial proceedings. Management believes that any liability or loss resulting from such matters will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position or results of operations of the Company.

In the fourth quarter of 1997, the Company reached a settlement in a lawsuit against Trinity Industries and others for claims related to construction of the New York Marriott Marquis. In settlement of the lawsuit, the Company and its affiliate received a cash settlement of approximately $70 million, the majority of which was considered a recovery of construction costs and $10 million of which has been recorded as other revenues in the accompanying combined consolidated financial statements.

17. GEOGRAPHIC AND BUSINESS SEGMENT INFORMATION

The Company operates in the full-service hotel segment of the lodging industry. The Company's hotels are primarily operated under the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands, contain an average of nearly 500 rooms, as well as supply other amenities such as meeting space and banquet facilities; a variety of restaurants and lounges; gift shops; and swimming pools. They are typically located in downtown, airport, suburban and resort areas throughout the United States.

As of January 2, 1998, the Company's foreign operations consist of four full-service hotel properties located in Canada and two full-service hotel properties located in Mexico. There were no intercompany sales between the properties and the Company. The following table presents revenues and long-lived assets for each of the geographical areas in which the Company operates (in millions):

18. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS (UNAUDITED)

On August 5, 1998, Properties issued $1.7 billion of 7 7/8% senior notes issued in two series, consisting of $500 million due 2005 and $1.2 billion due 2008 (the "New Senior Notes"). The New Senior Notes are guaranteed by Host Marriott and Hospitality and certain subsidiaries of Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of Properties. The Operating Partnership will assume the New Senior Notes in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee by Host Marriott will terminate on the Effective Date.

The indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contains covenants restricting the ability of Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equityholders of Properties and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership. The New Senior Notes also contain a financial covenant requiring the maintenance of a specified ratio of unencumbered assets to unsecured debt.

On August 5, 1998, Properties entered into a $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility") provided by a syndicate of financial institutions (the "Lenders") led by Bankers Trust Company. The New Credit Facility provides the Company with (i) a $350 million term loan facility (subject to increases as provided in the succeeding paragraph) and (ii) a $900 million revolving credit facility. The New Credit Facility will have an initial term of three years with two one-year options to extend. The proceeds of the New Credit Facility, along with the proceeds from the New Senior Notes, were used to fund the purchase of $1.55 billion of senior notes of Properties at the initial closing on August 5, 1998, and repay $22 million of outstanding borrowings under a line of credit provided by the Lenders to certain subsidiaries of the Company.

The term loan facility was funded on the closing date of the New Credit Facility. The $350 million term loan facility may be increased by up to $250 million after the initial closing and will be available, subject to terms and conditions thereof and to the commitment of sufficient Lenders, in up to two drawings to be made on or prior to the second anniversary of the closing of the New Credit Facility. The Lenders will advance funds under the revolving credit facility as requested by the Company with minimum borrowing amounts and frequency limitations to be agreed upon, subject to customary conditions including, but not limited to, (i) no existing or resulting default or event of default under the New Credit Facility and (ii) continued accuracy of representations and warranties in all material respects.

The interest rate applicable to the New Credit Facility and the unused commitment fee applicable to the revolving portion of the New Credit Facility are calculated based on a spread over LIBOR that will fluctuate based on the quarterly recalculation of a leverage ratio set forth in the New Credit Facility. The New Credit Facility provides that in the event that the Company achieves one of several investment grade long-term unsecured indebtedness ratings, the spread over LIBOR applicable to the New Credit Facility will be fixed based on the particular rating achieved. If the Company elects to exercise its one-year extensions, the Company will be required to amortize approximately 22.5% per annum of the principal amount outstanding under the New Credit Facility at the end of the initial three-year term.

The Company's obligations under the New Credit Facility are guaranteed, subject to certain conditions, on a senior basis by Host Marriottt Hospitality and certain of Properties' existing and future subsidiaries. The New Credit Facility will be assumed by the Operating Partnership in connection with the REIT Conversion and the guarantee of Host Marriott will then terminate. In addition, certain subsidiaries of Host Marriott other than Properties and its subsidiaries may, under certain circumstances, guarantee the obligations under the New Credit Facility in the future. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility will rank pari passu with the New Senior Notes and other existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company. The New Credit Facility is secured, on an equal and ratable basis, with the New Senior Notes by a pledge of the capital stock of certain direct and indirect subsidiaries of Properties. In addition, the New Credit Facility may, under certain circumstances in the future, be secured by a pledge of capital stock of certain subsidiaries of Host Marriott other than Properties and its subsidiaries.

The New Credit Facility includes financial and other covenants that require the maintenance of certain ratios with respect to, among other things, maximum leverage, limitations on indebtedness, minimum net worth and interest and fixed charge coverage and restrict payment of distributions and investments, acquisitions and sales of assets by the Company.

NOTES TO CONDENSED COMBINED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations by the spin-off of Host Marriott's senior living business ("Crestline") and the contribution of Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Operating Partnership") whose sole general partner would be Host Marriott Trust, a newly formed Maryland real estate investment trust ("REIT") that would merge with Host Marriott Corporation, a Delaware corporation. Host Marriott subsequently determined that Host Marriott would merge into HMC Merger Corporation, a newly formed Maryland corporation (to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation"), which would qualify as a REIT and be the general partner of the Operating Partnership. Host Marriott's contribution of its hotels and certain assets and liabilities to the Operating Partnership (the "Contribution") in exchange for units of limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership will be accounted for at Host Marriott's historical basis.

The accompanying condensed combined consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Host Marriott hotels and the assets and liabilities expected to be included in the Contribution by Host Marriott to the Operating Partnership upon its planned conversion to a REIT (the "REIT Conversion") and is the predecessor to the Operating Partnership. In these condensed combined consolidated financial statements, the predecessor to the Operating Partnership is referred to as "Host Marriott Hotels" or the "Company." The condensed combined consolidated financial statements exclude the assets, liabilities, equity, operations and cash flows related to Host Marriott's portfolio of 31 senior living communities. After the REIT Conversion, Crestline will own these assets and lease the existing hotels from the Company.

In June 1998, as part of the REIT Conversion, Host Marriott and the Operating Partnership filed a preliminary Prospectus/Consent Solicitation with the Securities and Exchange Commission. This Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement describes a proposal whereby the Operating Partnership will acquire by merger (the "Mergers") eight public limited partnerships (the "Partnerships") that own or control 24 full-service hotels in which Host Marriott or its subsidiaries are general partners. As more fully described in the Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, limited partners of those Partnerships that participate in the Mergers will receive OP Units which they may, at their election, exchange for unsecured notes due December 15, 2005 issued by the Operating Partnership ("Notes") or common stock in the REIT.

However, the consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies that are outside the control of Host Marriott, including final Board of Directors approval, consents of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion will be completed.

On April 20, 1998, Host Marriott and certain of its subsidiaries filed a shelf registration on Form S-3 (the "Shelf Registration") with the Securities and Exchange Commission for $2.5 billion in securities, which may include debt, equity or a combination thereof. Host Marriott anticipates that any net proceeds from the sale of offered securities will be used for refinancing of Host Marriott's indebtedness, potential future acquisitions and general corporate purposes.

On August 5, 1998, HMM Properties, Inc. ("HMM Properties"), an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott, which owns 61 of Host Marriott's hotels, purchased substantially all of its (i) $600 million in 9 1/2% senior notes due 2005, (ii) $350 million in 9% senior notes due 2007 and (iii) $600 million in 8 7/8% senior notes due 2007 (collectively, the "Old Senior Notes"). Concurrently with each offer to purchase, HMM Properties solicited consents (the "1998 Consent Solicitations") from registered holders of the Old Senior Notes to certain amendments to eliminate or modify substantially all of the restrictive covenants and certain other provisions contained in the indentures pursuant to which the Old Senior Notes were issued. HMM Properties simultaneously utilized the Shelf Registration to issue an aggregate of $1.7 billion in senior notes (the "New Senior Notes"). The New Senior Notes were issued in two series, $500 million of 7 7/8 Series A notes due in 2005 and $1.2 billion of 7 7/8 Series B notes due in 2008. The 1998 Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of HMC Capital Resources Holdings Corporation ("Capital Resources"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, with and into HMH Properties. Capital Resources, the owner of eight of Host Marriott's hotels was the obligor under the $500 million credit facility (the "Old Credit Facility").

In conjunction with the issuance of the New Senior Notes, HMH Properties entered into a $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility") with a group of commercial banks. The New Credit Facility will initially have a three year term with two one-year extension options. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility generally bear interest at the Eurodollar rate plus 1.75%. The interest rate and commitment fee (currently 0.35% on the unused portion of the New Credit Facility) fluctuates based on certain financial ratios of HMH Properties. The New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by Host Marriott and its wholly-owned subsidiary, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties.

The New Credit Facility replaces the Company's Old Credit Facility. The net proceeds from the offering and borrowings under the New Credit Facility were used by Host Marriott to purchase substantially all of the Old Senior Notes, to make repayments outstanding under the Old Credit Facility and to make bond premium and consent payments totaling approximately $178 million. These costs, along with the write-off of deferred financing fees of approximately $55 million related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility, will be recorded as a pre-tax extraordinary loss on the extinguishment of debt in the third quarter of 1998. The New Credit Facility and the indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contain covenants restricting the ability of HMH Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, grant liens on their assets, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equityholders of HMH Properties, Host Marriott, and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. The New Credit Facility and the New Senior Notes also contain certain financial covenants relating to, among other things, maintaining certain levels of tangible net worth and certain ratios of EBITDA to interest and fixed charges, total debt to EBITDA, unencumbered assets to unsecured debt, and secured debt to total debt.

The accompanying condensed combined consolidated financial statements have been prepared by the Company without audit. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles have been condensed or omitted. The Company believes the disclosures made are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. However, the condensed combined consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in the Company's audited financial statements for the three fiscal years in the period ended January 2, 1998.

In the opinion of the Company, the accompanying unaudited condensed combined consolidated financial statements reflect all adjustments necessary to present fairly the financial position of the Company as of June 19, 1998 and the results of operations and cash flows for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997. Interim results are not necessarily indicative of fiscal year performance because of the impact of seasonal and short-term variations.

2. In April 1998, Host Marriott reached a definitive agreement with various affiliates of The Blackstone Group and Blackstone Real Estate Partners (collectively, "Blackstone") to acquire controlling interests in 12 luxury hotels and a first mortgage interest in another hotel in the U.S. and certain other assets. The Company expects to pay approximately $862 million in cash and assumed debt and to issue approximately 43.7

million Operating Partnership units ("OP Units"). Each OP Unit will be exchangeable for one share of Host Marriott common stock (or its cash equivalent). Upon completion of the acquisition, Blackstone will own approximately 16% of the outstanding shares of Host Marriott common stock on a fully converted basis. The Blackstone portfolio consists of two Ritz-Carltons, two Four Seasons, one Grand Hyatt, three Hyatt Regencies, four Swissotel properties and a mortgage note on a third Four Seasons.

The Blackstone transaction is expected to close immediately after the REIT Conversion. At that time, Blackstone's hotels and other assets will be contributed to the Operating Partnership. The hotels will continue to be managed under the existing management contracts. Consummation of the Blackstone transaction is also subject to certain conditions, including consummation of the REIT Conversion by March 31, 1999.

3. Revenues primarily represent sales generated by the Company's hotels. Other hotel operating costs and expenses include depreciation, management fees, real and personal property taxes, ground and equipment rent, insurance and certain other costs.
4. Basic and diluted earnings per OP Unit have been calculated based on the number of Host Marriott common shares outstanding for all periods presented because it is expected that upon the REIT Conversion the Operating Partnership will issue OP Units to Host Marriott in exchange for the Contribution equal to the number of shares of outstanding Host Marriott common stock. Accordingly, the following discussion of earnings per OP Unit is on a pro forma basis as if the REIT Conversion and Contribution had occurred.

Basic earnings per OP Unit is computed by dividing net income by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding of Host Marriott. Diluted earnings per OP Unit is computed by dividing net income plus dividends by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding plus other potentially dilutive securities of Host Marriott. Diluted earnings per OP Unit was not adjusted for the impact of the Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott Corporation in 1997 as they were anti-dilutive.

Basic and diluted earnings per OP Unit on a pro forma basis are as follows:

5. As of June 19, 1998, the Company had minority interests in 18 affiliates that own an aggregate of 240 properties, 20 of which are full-service properties, managed primarily by Marriott International, Inc. The Company's equity in earnings (losses) of affiliates was a $1 million loss and $3 million for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997, respectively.

In the first quarter of 1998, the Company obtained a controlling interest in the partnership that owns the 1,671-room Atlanta Marriott Marquis for approximately $239 million, including $164 million in assumed mortgage debt. The Company previously owned a 1.3% general and limited partnership interest.

In second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the partnership that owns the 289-room Park Ridge Marriott in Park Ridge, New Jersey for $24 million. The Company previously owned a 1% managing general partner interest and held a note receivable interest.

6. In the first quarter of 1998, the Company acquired a controlling interest in, and became the managing general partner for, the partnership that owns the 359-room Albany Marriott, the 350-room San Diego Marriott Mission Valley and the 320-room Minneapolis Marriott Southwest for approximately $50 million.

In the second quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 397-room Ritz-Carlton, Tysons Corner for $96 million and the 281-room Ritz-Carlton, Phoenix for $75 million. In addition, the Company acquired the 487-room Torrance Marriott near Los Angeles, California for $52 million. Also in the second quarter of 1998, the Company sold the 662-room New York Marriott East Side for approximately $191 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $40 million. The Company also sold the 191-room Napa Valley Marriott for approximately $21 million and recorded a pre-tax gain of approximately $10 million.

In the third quarter of 1998, the Company acquired the 308-room Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn for approximately $65 million, the 336-room Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco for approximately $161 million and the 404-room Memphis Marriott (which was converted to the Marriott brand upon acquisition) for approximately $16 million.

7. In March 1997, Host Marriott purchased 100% of the outstanding bonds secured by a first mortgage on the San Francisco Marriott Hotel. Host Marriott purchased the bonds for $219 million, an $11 million discount to the face value of $230 million. In connection with the redemption and defeasance of the bonds, the Company recognized an extraordinary gain of $5 million, which represents the $11 million discount and the write-off of deferred financing fees, net of taxes.
8. The Company operates in the full-service hotel segment of the lodging industry. The Company's hotels are primarily operated under the Marriott or Ritz-Carlton brands.

As of June 19, 1998 and June 20, 1997, the Company's foreign operations consist of four full-service hotel properties located in Canada and two full-service hotel properties located in Mexico. There were no intercompany sales between the properties and the Company. The following table presents revenues for each of the geographical areas in which the Company operates (in millions):

9. In the first quarter of 1998, the Company adopted SFAS No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income," ("SFAS 130"). SFAS 130 establishes standards for reporting and display of comprehensive income and its components in financial statements. The objective of SFAS 130 is to report a measure of all changes in equity of an enterprise that result from transactions and other economic events of the period other than transactions with owners. Comprehensive income is the total of net income and all other nonowner changes in equity.

The Company's only component of other comprehensive income is the right to receive up to 1.4 million shares of Host Marriott Services Corporation's ("HMSC") common stock or an equivalent cash value subsequent to exercise of the options held by certain former and current employees of Marriott International. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998, other comprehensive income was $1 million and consisted of the unrealized gain on the appreciation of the HMSC common stock. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998, comprehensive income was $94 million. For the twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997, other comprehensive income was $3 million. For twenty-four weeks ended June 20, 1997, comprehensive income $40 million. As of June 19, 1998 and January 2, 1998, the Company's accumulated other comprehensive income of approximately $11 million and $10 million, respectively, was included in Investments and Advances from Host Marriott Corporation.

10. The obligation for the Convertible Subordinated Debentures (the "Debentures") has been pushed down to these financial statements because it is expected that upon the REIT Conversion the Operating Partnership will assume primary liability for repayment of the Debentures of Host Marriott underlying the Convertible Preferred Securities of Host Marriott Financial Trust (the "Issuer"), a wholly-owned subsidiary trust of Host Marriott. The common securities of Host Marriott Financial Trust will not be contributed to the Operating Partnership and therefore Host Marriott Financial Trust will not be consolidated by the Operating Partnership. Upon conversion by a Convertible Preferred Securities holder, the Operating Partnership will purchase common shares from Host Marriott Trust in exchange for a like number of OP Units and distribute the common shares to the Convertible Preferred Securities holder.

In December 1996, the Issuer issued 11 million shares of 6 3/4% convertible quarterly income preferred securities (the "Convertible Preferred Securities"), with a liquidation preference of $50 per share (for a total liquidation amount of $550 million). The Convertible Preferred Securities represent an undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Issuer. The payment of distributions out of moneys held by the Issuer and payments on liquidation of the Issuer or the redemption of the Convertible Preferred Securities are guaranteed by Host Marriott to the extent the Issuer has funds available therefor. This guarantee, when taken together with Host Marriott obligations under the indenture pursuant to which the Debentures were issued, the Debentures, Host Marriott's obligations under the Trust Agreement and its obligations under the indenture to pay costs, expenses, debts and liabilities of the Issuer (other than with respect to the Convertible Preferred Securities) provides a full and unconditional guarantee of amounts due on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Proceeds from the issuance of the Convertible Preferred Securities were invested in the Debentures due December 2, 2026 issued by Host Marriott. The Issuer exists solely to issue the Convertible Preferred Securities and its own common securities (the "Common Securities") and invest the proceeds therefrom in the Debentures. The note receivable from Host Marriott for the Debentures is the Issuer's sole asset. Separate financial statements of the Issuer are not presented because of Host Marriott's guarantee described above; Host Marriott's management has concluded that such financial statements are not material to investors and the Issuer is wholly-owned and essentially has no independent operations.

Each of the Convertible Preferred Securities is convertible at the option of the holder into shares of Host Marriott common stock at the rate of 2.6876 shares per Convertible Preferred Security (equivalent to a conversion price of $18.604 per share of Company common stock). The Debentures are convertible at the option of the holders into shares of Host Marriott common stock at the conversion rate of 2.6876 shares for each $50 in principal amount of Debentures. The conversion rate is subject to adjustments in certain events, including (i) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock by Host in shares of Host common stock; (ii) distributions to all holders of Host common stock of rights or warrants entitling such holders (for a period not to exceed 45 days) to subscribe for or purchase Host common stock at an exercise price less than the market price of Host common stock; (iii) subdivisions and combinations of Host common stock; (iv) payment of dividends (and other distributions) on Host common stock consisting of indebtedness of Host, capital stock or other securities, assets or cash (other than certain cash dividends at an annualized rate of up to 12.5% of the market price of Host common stock); (v) payments for Host common stock by Host or any of its subsidiaries in respect of a tender or exchange offer (other than an odd-lot offer) at a price per share in excess of 110% of the market price of Host common stock; (vi) consummation by Host of certain mergers, a consolidation, a sale of all or substantially all of its assets, a recapitalization or certain reclassifications of Host common stock. The distribution of the capital stock of Crestline to all holders of Host REIT common stock would, and certain other elements of the REIT Conversion (such as other distributions of Host's accumulated earnings and profits) may, result in an adjustment to the conversion price of the Debentures. The Issuer will only convert Debentures pursuant to a notice of conversion by a holder of Convertible Preferred Securities. During 1998 and 1997, no shares were converted into common stock.

Holders of the Convertible Preferred Securities are entitled to receive preferential cumulative cash distributions at an annual rate of 6 3/4% accruing from the original issue date, commencing March 1, 1997, and payable quarterly in arrears thereafter. The distribution rate and the distribution and other payment dates for the Convertible Preferred Securities will correspond to the interest rate and interest and other payment dates on the Debentures. Host Marriott may defer interest payments on the Debentures for a period not to exceed 20 consecutive quarters. If interest payments on the Debentures are deferred, so too are payments on the Convertible Preferred Securities. Under this circumstance, Host Marriott will not be permitted to declare or pay any cash distributions with respect to its capital stock or debt securities that rank pari passu with or junior to the Debentures.

Subject to certain restrictions, the Convertible Preferred Securities are redeemable at the Issuer's option upon any redemption by Host Marriott of the Debentures after December 2, 1999. Upon repayment at maturity or as a result of the acceleration of the Debentures upon the occurrence of a default, the Debentures shall be subject to mandatory redemption, from which the proceeds will be applied to redeem Convertible Preferred Securities and Common Securities, together with accrued and unpaid distributions.

11. In the second quarter of 1998, on behalf of Crestline, Host Marriott prepaid $92 million of 9% unsecured debt provided by Marriott International. Host Marriott now holds a $92 million, 8.5% note due from Crestline. Host Marriott also holds a $14.8 million, 6.375% unsecured note due from Crestline which matures in December, 2007. Host Marriott holds a total of approximately $107 million in notes due from Crestline which are included as notes and other receivables in the accompanying condensed combined consolidated balance sheet.
12. The pro forma June 19, 1998 balance sheet reflects the $225 million earnings and profit distribution which is expected to be made by the end of the fiscal year in connection with the REIT Conversion. The amount of the earnings and profits distribution will be based upon Host Marriott's accumulated earnings and profit for tax purposes at the time of the REIT Conversion.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To Host Marriott Corporation:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheet of HMC Senior Communities, Inc. ("HMCSC"), which is the senior living communities' business of Host Marriott Corporation, as defined in Note 1 to the consolidated financial statements, as of January 2, 1998, and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholder's equity and cash flows for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of Host Marriott Corporation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of HMCSC as of January 2, 1998 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

WHICH IS THE SENIOR LIVING COMMUNITIES' BUSINESS
OF HOST MARRIOTT CORPORATION

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. BASIS OF PRESENTATION

On June 21, 1997, Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") acquired all of the outstanding stock of Forum Group Inc. ("Forum Group") from Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc. ("MSLS"), a subsidiary of Marriott International, Inc. ("Marriott International") and concurrently contributed all of the assets and liabilities of Forum Group to HMC Senior Communities, Inc. ("HMCSC"). In connection with the acquisition, Forum Group assigned to Marriott International its interest as manager under long-term operating agreements (See Note 6).

On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations by spinning-off HMCSC to the shareholders of Host Marriott, and contributing Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P., whose sole general partner would be Host Marriott Trust, a newly formed Maryland real estate investment trust. Host Marriott subsequently determined that Host Marriott would merge into HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation (to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation"), which would qualify as a REIT and be the general partner of the Operating Partnership. After the proposed reorganization, HMCSC will lease hotels from Host Marriott, L.P. and Marriott International will continue to manage the hotels under long-term management agreements.

Consummation of the reorganization is subject to significant contingencies, including final Board approval and consent of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the reorganization will be completed.

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the historical accounts of HMCSC, representing 31 senior living communities (the "Communities") located in 13 states, expected to be spun-off as part of the reorganization described above.

HMCSC operates as a unit of Host Marriott utilizing Host Marriott's employees, insurance and administrative services. HMCSC has no employees. Periodically, certain operating expenses, capital expenditures and other cash requirements of HMCSC are paid by Host Marriott and charged directly or allocated to HMCSC. Certain general and administrative costs of Host Marriott are allocated to HMCSC using a variety of methods, principally including Host Marriott's specific identification of individual cost items and otherwise through allocations based upon estimated levels of effort devoted by its general and administrative departments to individual entities or relative measures of size of the entities based on assets. In the opinion of management, the methods for allocating corporate, general and administrative expenses and other direct costs are reasonable. It is not practical to estimate the costs that would have been incurred by HMCSC if it had been operated on a stand-alone basis.

The consolidated financial statements present the financial position, results of operations and cash flows of HMCSC beginning on June 21, 1997 (the date Host Marriott acquired the stock of the Forum Group) through January 2, 1998. Host Marriott's basis in the assets and liabilities of HMCSC has been carried over to these financial statements. All material intercompany transactions and balances between HMCSC and its subsidiaries have been eliminated.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of HMCSC and its subsidiaries and controlled affiliates. Investments in affiliates over which HMCSC has the ability to exercise significant influence, but does not control, are accounted for using the equity method. All material intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated.

HMC SENIOR COMMUNITIES, INC.,

Fiscal Year

HMCSC's fiscal year ends on the Friday nearest to December 31.

Revenues

Revenues represent house profit from the Communities. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to HMCSC as property owner and represents gross community operating sales less property-level expenses excluding depreciation and amortization, real and personal property taxes, insurance, management fees and certain other costs which are classified as operating costs and expenses in the accompanying statement of operations.

Resident fees and health care service revenues are generated primarily from monthly charges for independent living units and daily charges for assisted living suites and nursing beds, and are recognized monthly based on the terms of the residents' agreements. Advance payments received for services are deferred until the services are provided. Included in resident fees revenue is ancillary revenue, which is generated on a "fee for service" basis for supplemental items requested by residents and is recognized as the services are provided.

A portion of revenues from health care services were attributable to patients whose bills are paid by Medicare or Medicaid under contractual arrangements. Reimbursements under these contractual arrangements are subject to retroactive adjustments based on agency reviews. Revenues from health care services are recorded net of estimated contractual allowances in the accompanying consolidated financial statements. Management believes that reserves recorded are adequate to cover any adjustments arising from retroactive adjustments.

HMCSC has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that it requires HMCSC to include property-level revenues and operating expenses of its senior living communities in its statements of operations. HMCSC will adopt EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998 with retroactive effect in prior periods to conform to the new presentation. The effect of this change will be to increase 1997 revenues and operating costs and expenses by approximately $74.1 million and will have no impact on operating profit or net income. See Note 3.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

All highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less at date of purchase are considered cash equivalents.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment is recorded at cost, or if contributed by Host Marriott, is recorded at Host Marriott's basis. Replacements and improvements that extend the useful life of property and equipment are capitalized.

Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, generally 40 years for buildings and three to 10 years for furniture and equipment. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the shorter of the lease term or the useful lives of the related assets.

In cases where management is holding for sale a particular Community, HMCSC assesses impairment based on whether the estimated sales price less cost of disposal of each individual property to be sold is less than the net book value. A property is considered to be held for sale when a decision is made to dispose of the Community. Otherwise, impairment is assessed based on whether it is probable that undiscounted future cash flows from each Community will be less than its net book value. If a Community is impaired, its basis is adjusted to its fair value.

Concentration of Credit Risk

Financial instruments that potentially subject HMCSC to significant concentration of credit risk consist principally of cash and cash equivalents. HMCSC maintains cash and cash equivalents with various high credit-quality financial institutions and limits the amount of credit exposure with any institution.

Working Capital

Pursuant to the terms of HMCSC's Operating Agreements (see Note 6), HMCSC is required to provide Marriott International with working capital and supplies to meet the operating needs of the Communities. Marriott International converts cash advanced by HMCSC into other forms of working capital consisting primarily of operating cash, inventories, resident deposits and trade receivables and payables which are maintained and controlled by Marriott International. Upon the termination of the Operating Agreements, Marriott International is required to convert working capital and supplies into cash and return it to HMCSC. As a result of these conditions, the individual components of working capital and supplies controlled by Marriott International are not reflected in the accompanying consolidated balance sheet.

Deferred Revenue

Monthly fees deferred for the non-refundable portion of the entry fees are included as deferred revenue in the accompanying balance sheet. These amounts are recognized as revenue as health care services are performed over the expected term of the residents' contracts.

Use of Estimates in the Preparation of Financial Statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

New Accounting Standards

In 1997, the Company adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 129 "Disclosure of Information About Capital Structure." The adoption of this statement did not have a material effect on these consolidated financial statements.

Community sales consist of routine and ancillary sales. Routine sales are generated from monthly charges for independent living units and daily charges for assisted living suites and nursing beds, and are recognized monthly based on the terms of the residents' agreements. Advance payments received for services are deferred until the services are provided. Ancillary sales are generated on a "fee for service" basis for supplementary items requested by residents, and are recognized as the services are provided.

Total sales include amounts estimated by management to be reimbursable through Medicare, Medicaid and other third party payor agreements. Medicare and Medicaid represented 11% and 3%, respectively, of sales for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998. Reimbursement arrangements are subject to audit and retroactive adjustment. Provisions are made for potential adjustments that may result. To the extent those provisions become final. Changes in the estimate of amounts reimbursable by third party payors from prior years resulted in the recognition of $1,689,000 of additional sales for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998. In management's opinion, any adjustments related to current and prior years' operations will be immaterial to current and future financial statements.

In December 1997, LTJ Senior Communities Corporation ("LTJ"), a wholly owned subsidiary of HMCSC, acquired 49% of the remaining 50% interest in Leisure Park Venture Limited Partnership (the "Partnership") which owns a 418-unit retirement community in New Jersey for approximately $23 million, including the assumption of approximately $15 million of debt. Subsequent to this acquisition, HMCSC indirectly owns a 99% interest in the Partnership. Marriott International owns the remaining 1% limited partner interest.

In the first quarter of 1998, LTJ also acquired the Gables of Winchester in suburban Boston, a 124-unit upscale senior living community, for $21 million and entered into conditional purchase agreements for two Marriott Brighton Gardens assisted living communities with the Summit Companies of Denver, Colorado. After the anticipated completion of construction in the first quarter of 1999, HMCSC may acquire these two 160-unit properties located in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colorado, for approximately $35 million, if they achieve certain operating performance criteria. All three of these communities will be operated by Marriott International under long-term operating agreements.

5. RESTRICTED CASH

Restricted cash consists of the following at January 2, 1998 (in thousands):

Debt service reserve fund.....	$ 1,528
Fixed asset reserve fund.....	4,300
Real estate tax reserve fund.....	3,590
Insurance reserve fund.....	1,268

The debt service, fixed asset, real estate tax and insurance reserve funds consist of cash transferred into segregated escrow accounts out of sales generated by the Communities, pursuant to HMCSC's secured debt agreements. These funds are periodically disbursed by the collateral agent to pay for debt service, capital expenditures, insurance premiums and real estate taxes relating to the secured properties. In some cases, to ensure prompt payment, HMCSC utilizes its unrestricted cash to pay for capital expenditures, insurance premiums and real estate taxes and is subsequently reimbursed for such payments out of funds held in the appropriate escrow account.

6. OPERATING AGREEMENTS

The Communities are subject to operating agreements (the "Operating Agreements") which provide for Marriott International to operate the Communities, generally for an initial term of 25 to 30 years with renewal terms subject to certain performance criteria at the option of Marriott International of up to an additional five to ten years. The Operating Agreements provide for payment of base management fees generally equal to five to eight percent of gross sales and incentive management fees generally equal to zero to 20% of Operating Profit (as defined in the Operating Agreements) over a priority return to HMCSC. In the event of early termination of the Operating Agreements, Marriott International will receive additional fees based on the unexpired term and expected future base and incentive management fees. HMCSC has the option to terminate certain, but not all, management agreements if specified performance thresholds are not satisfied. No Operating Agreement with respect to a single Community is cross-collateralized or cross-defaulted to any other Operating Agreement, and any single Operating Agreement may be terminated following a default by HMCSC or Marriott International, although such termination will not trigger the cancellation of any other Operating Agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the Operating Agreements, Marriott International is required to furnish the Communities with certain services ("Central Administrative Services") which are provided on a central or regional basis to all properties in the Marriott Retirement Community System. These services include the development and operation of computer systems, computer payroll and accounting services, marketing and public relations services, and such additional services as may from time-to-time be performed more efficiently on a central or regional level. The Operating Agreements require payment of Central Administrative Services fees equal to 2% of gross sales beginning in the third quarter of 1998.

Marriott International is required under the Operating Agreements to deduct an amount from gross sales and place the funds into an interest-bearing reserve account to cover the cost of (a) certain routine repairs and maintenance to the Communities which are normally capitalized and (b) replacements and renewals to the Communities' property and improvements. The annual payment amount (expressed as a percentage of gross sales) generally will be 2.65% through fiscal year 2002, 2.85% for fiscal years 2003 through 2007, and 3.5% thereafter. The amount contributed for the period June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998 was $2,025,000. The Operating Agreements provide that HMCSC shall provide Marriott International with sufficient funds to cover the cost of certain major or non-routine repairs, alterations, improvements, renewals and replacements to the Communities which are required to maintain a competitive, efficient and economical operating condition in accordance with Marriott standards or for the continued safe and orderly operation of the Communities.

In conjunction with the acquisition of Forum Group Inc., HMCSC recorded the debt assumed at its fair value, which exceeded the face value by approximately $19 million. HMCSC is amortizing this adjustment to interest expense over the remaining life of the related debt. The amortization for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998 totaled $834,000. Cash paid for interest for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998 totaled $8,183,000.

In conjunction with the June 21, 1997 acquisition of Forum Group Inc., HMCSC assumed approximately $197 million in mortgage debt, $11 million in capital lease obligations (see Note 9), as well as issued $72 million in notes payable to Marriott International. Subsequent to the acquisition, HMCSC issued additional notes payable to Marriott International for additional expansion units totaling approximately $20 million. These notes were guaranteed by Host Marriott. In the second quarter of 1998, Host Marriott repaid the $92 million in notes payable to Marriott International.

In December 1997, in connection with the acquisition of the remaining 50% interest in the Leisure Park Venture Limited Partnership (see Note 4), HMCSC assumed approximately $15 million of debt.

The net assets of seventeen of the Communities are subject to mortgage debt which places restrictions on their assets. The net assets of the Communities totaled approximately $150 million at January 2, 1998. The indentures governing these mortgages contain covenants that, among other things, require maintenance of segregated cash collection of all rents, separate cash reserves for debt service, property improvements, real estate taxes and insurance, limit the ability to incur additional indebtedness, issue stock or admit additional partners, pay dividends or make certain distributions, enter into or cancel leases, enter into certain transactions with affiliates or sell certain assets.

During the first quarter of 1998, Host Marriott prepaid $26.4 million in mortgage debt. Host Marriott's prepayment of the debt was recorded as a capital contribution to HMCSC, there was no gain or loss on the prepayment.

9. LEASES

Upon the expiration of the lease or anytime prior to lease expiration, HMCSC has the first right of refusal (the "Option") to submit a counter offer to any acceptable bona fide offer from a third party within 30 days of notice from the lessor. If HMCSC fails to exercise its Option, then the lessor may proceed with the sale of the leased property and all assets therein.

HMCSC also has one long-term operating ground lease which expires in 2013. The operating lease includes three renewal options exercisable in 5 year increments through the year 2028.

Rent expense for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998 was $141,000.

HMCSC is included in the consolidated federal income tax return of Host Marriott and its affiliates (the "Group") for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998. Tax expense is allocated to HMCSC as a member of the Group based upon the relative contribution to the Group's consolidated taxable income/loss and changes in temporary differences. This allocation method results in federal and net state tax expense allocated for all periods presented that is substantially equal to the expense that would have been recognized if HMCSC had filed separate tax returns. HMCSC reimburses Host Marriott for the allocable share of current taxes payable relating to the period that HMCSC has been included in Host Marriott's consolidated federal income tax return.

11. COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

On June 15, 1995, The Russell F. Knapp Revocable Trust (the "Plaintiff") filed a complaint in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana (the "Indiana Court") against the general partner of one of HMCSC's subsidiary partnerships, Forum Retirement Partners, L.P. alleging breach of the partnership agreement, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, insider trading and civil conspiracy/aiding and abetting. On February 4, 1998, the Plaintiff, MSLS, the general partner, Forum Group and HMCSC entered into a Settlement and Release Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), pursuant to which Host Marriott agreed to purchase, at a price of $4.50 per unit, the partnership units of each limited partner electing to join in the Settlement Agreement.

HMC SENIOR COMMUNITIES, INC.,

HMCSC held 79% of the outstanding limited partner units in the partnership at that time. HMCSC also agreed to pay as much as an additional $1.25 per unit to the settling limited partners, under certain conditions, in the event that HMCSC within three years following the date of settlement initiates a tender offer for the purchase of units not presently held by HMCSC or the settling limited partners. On February 5, 1998, the Indiana Court entered an order approving the dismissal of the Plaintiff's case.

In connection with the Settlement Agreement on March 25, 1998, HMCSC acquired 1,000,894 limited partner unit shares for approximately $4,504,000. The purchase price of the shares approximated fair value and accordingly, no portion of the purchase price has been expensed. As a result of this purchase, HMCSC's ownership interest in the partnership was increased to approximately 86%.

12. FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

HMCSC believes the carrying amount of its financial instruments (excluding property indebtedness) approximates their fair value due to the relatively short maturity of these instruments. There is no quoted market value available for any of HMCSC's financial instruments.

Valuations of debt are determined based on expected future payments discounted at risk-adjusted rates. The debt was adjusted to its fair value in conjunction with Host Marriott's acquisition of the Communities on June 21, 1997. As of January 2, 1998, the fair value of debt approximated its carrying value.

HMC SENIOR COMMUNITIES, INC.,
WHICH IS THE SENIOR LIVING COMMUNITIES' BUSINESS
OF HOST MARRIOTT CORPORATION
NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. On June 21, 1997, Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") acquired all of the outstanding stock of Forum Group Inc. ("Forum Group"), from Marriott Senior Living Services, Inc. ("MSLS"), a subsidiary of Marriott International, Inc. ("Marriott International") and concurrently contributed all of the assets and liabilities of Forum Group, Inc. to HMC Senior Communities, Inc. ("HMCSC"). In connection with the acquisition, Forum Group assigned to Marriott International its interest as manager under long-term operating agreements.

On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations by spinning-off Host Marriott's senior living business ("Senior Living") into a separate corporation, the Senior Living Communities Company and contributing Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P., whose sole general partner would be Host Marriott Trust, a newly formed Maryland real estate investment trust ("REIT"), collectively the "REIT Conversion." Host Marriott subsequently determined that Host Marriott would merge into HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation (to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation"), which would qualify as a REIT and be the general partner of the Operating Partnership. After the proposed REIT Conversion, HMCSC will lease hotels from Host Marriott, L.P. and Marriott International will continue to manage the hotels under long term management agreements.

Consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies, including final Board approval, consent of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion will be completed.

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the historical accounts of HMCSC, representing 31 senior living communities (the "Communities") located in 13 states, expected to be spun-off as part of the REIT Conversion described above.

The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared by HMCSC without audit. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles have been condensed or omitted. HMCSC believes the disclosures made are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. However, the condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in the Company's audited financial statements for the period from June 21, 1997 (inception) through January 2, 1998.

In the opinion of the Company, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements reflect all adjustments necessary to present fairly the financial position of the Company as of June 19, 1998 and the results of operations and cash flows for the twelve weeks ended June 19, 1998. Interim results are not necessarily indicative of fiscal year performance because of the impact of seasonal and short-term variations.

2. Revenues represent house profit from the Communities. House profit reflects the net revenues flowing to HMCSC as property owner and represents gross community operating sales less property-level expenses excluding depreciation and amortization, real and personal property taxes, insurance, management fees and certain other costs which are classified as operating costs and expenses.

Resident fees and health care service revenues are generated primarily from monthly charges for independent living units and daily charges for assisted living suites and nursing beds, and are recognized monthly based on the terms of the residents' agreements. Advance payments received for services are deferred until the services are provided. Included in resident fees revenue is ancillary revenue, which is generated on a "fee for service" basis for supplemental items requested by residents and is recognized as the services are provided.

A portion of revenues from health care services were attributable to patients whose bills are paid by Medicare or Medicaid under contractual arrangements. Reimbursements under these contractual arrangements are subject to retroactive adjustments based on agency reviews. Revenues and receivables from health care services are recorded net of estimated contractual allowances in the accompanying consolidated financial statements. Management believes that reserves recorded are adequate to cover any adjustments arising from retroactive adjustments.

House profit generated by the Communities consist of the following for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 (in thousands):

HMCSC has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that it requires HMCSC to include property-level revenues and operating expenses of its senior living communities in its statements of operations. HMCSC will adopt EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998 with retroactive effect in prior periods to conform to the new presentation. The effect of this change will be to increase revenues and operating costs and expenses for the twenty-four weeks ended June 19, 1998 by approximately $71 million and will have no impact on operating profit or net income.

3. In the first quarter of 1998, HMCSC also acquired the Gables of Winchester in suburban Boston, a 124-unit upscale senior living community, for $21 million and entered into conditional purchase agreements for two Marriott Brighton Gardens assisted living communities from the Summit Companies of Denver, Colorado. After the anticipated completion of construction in the first quarter of 1999, HMCSC may acquire these two 160-unit properties located in Denver and Colorado Springs, Colorado, for approximately $35 million, if they achieve certain operating performance criteria. All three of these communities will be operated by Marriott International under long-term operating agreements.

4. During the first quarter of 1998, Host Marriott prepaid $26.4 million in mortgage debt. Host Marriott's prepayment of debt was recorded as a capital contribution to HMCSC. In the second quarter of 1998, Host Marriott prepaid $92 million of 9% unsecured debt provided by Marriott International related to the Communities. Host Marriott now holds a $92 million, 9% note, which is included as debt in the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet. Combined with the 1997 $14.8 million, 6.375% notes which mature in December 2027, Host Marriott holds a total of approximately $107 million in notes due from the Senior Living Communities Business.

5. During the first quarter of 1998, Host Marriott prepaid $26.4 million in mortgage debt. Host Marriott's prepayment of debt was recorded as a capital contribution to HMCSC.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To the Partners of Host Marriott L.P.

We have audited the accompanying balance sheet of Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Partnership"), a Delaware limited partnership as of June 19, 1998. This balance sheet is the responsibility of the Partnership's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the balance sheet based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the balance sheet is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the balance sheet. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall balance sheet presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the balance sheet referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Partnership as of June 19, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

NOTES TO BALANCE SHEET
JUNE 19, 1998

NOTE 1. ORGANIZATION

On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations through the spin-off of Host Marriott's senior living business ("SLC") and the contribution of Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Operating Partnership") whose sole general partner will be Host Marriott Trust, a newly formed Maryland real estate investment trust ("REIT") that will merge with Host Marriott Corporation, a Delaware corporation. Host Marriott subsequently determined that Host Marriott would merge into HMC Merger Corporation, a Maryland corporation (to be renamed "Host Marriott Corporation"), which would qualify as a REIT and be the general partner of the Operating Partnership. Host Marriott's contribution of its hotels and certain assets and liabilities to the Operating Partnership (the "Contribution") in exchange for units of limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership will be accounted for at Host Marriott's historical basis.

The accompanying balance sheet of the Operating Partnership includes its accounts as of June 19, 1998. The assets and liabilities of the Host Marriott Hotels will be included in the Contribution by Host Marriott to the Operating Partnership in connection with its planned conversion to a REIT (the "REIT Conversion"), anticipated to become effective January 1, 1999.

In June 1998, as part of the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership filed a preliminary Prospectus/Consent Solicitation with the Securities and Exchange Commission. This Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement describes a proposal whereby the Operating Partnership will acquire by merger (the "Mergers") eight public limited partnerships (the "Partnerships") that own or control 24 full-service hotels in which Host Marriott or its subsidiaries are general partners. As more fully described in the Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, limited partners of those Partnerships that participate in the Mergers will receive OP Units, and may at their election, exchange such OP Units for unsecured notes due December 15, 2005 issued by the Operating Partnership ("Notes") or common shares of the REIT.

However, the consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies that are outside the control of Host Marriott, including final Board of Directors approval, consents of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion or the Contribution will be completed.

On April 20, 1998, Host Marriott and certain of its subsidiaries filed a shelf registration on Form S-3 (the "Shelf Registration") with the Securities and Exchange Commission for $2.5 billion in securities, which may include debt, equity or a combination thereof. Host Marriott anticipates that any net proceeds from the sale of offered securities will be used for refinancing of Host Marriott's indebtedness, potential future acquisitions and general corporate purposes.

On August 5, 1998, HMH Properties, Inc. ("HMH Properties"), an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott, which owns 61 of Host Marriott's hotels, purchased substantially all of its (i) $600 million in 9 1/2% senior notes due 2005, (ii) $350 million in 9% senior notes due 2007 and (iii) $600 million in 8 7/8% senior notes due 2007 (collectively, the "Old Senior Notes"). Concurrently with each offer to purchase, HMH Properties solicited consents (the "1998 Consent Solicitations") from registered holders of the Old Senior Notes to certain amendments to eliminate or modify substantially all of the restrictive covenants and certain other provisions contained in the indentures pursuant to which the Old Senior Notes were issued. HMH Properties simultaneously utilized the Shelf Registration to issue an aggregate of $1.7 billion in senior notes (the "New Senior Notes"). The New Senior Notes were issued in two series, $500 million of 7 7/8 Series A notes due in 2005 and $1.2 billion of 7 7/8 Series B notes due in 2008. The 1998 Consent Solicitations facilitated the merger of HMC Capital Resources Holdings Corporation ("Capital Resources"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Company, with and into HMH Properties. Capital Resources, the owner of eight of Host Marriott's hotel properties, was the obligor under the $500 million credit facility (the "Old Credit Facility").

In conjunction with the issuance of the New Senior Notes, HMH Properties entered into a $1.25 billion credit facility (the "New Credit Facility") with a group of commercial banks. The New Credit Facility will initially have a three year term with two one year extension options. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility generally bear interest at the Eurodollar rate plus 1.75%. The interest rate and commitment fee (currently 0.35% on the unused portion of the New Credit Facility) fluctuate based on certain financial ratios.

The New Credit Facility and the indenture under which the New Senior Notes were issued contain covenants restricting the ability of HMH Properties and certain of its subsidiaries to incur indebtedness, grant liens on their assets, acquire or sell assets or make investments in other entities, and make distributions to equityholders of HMH Properties, Host Marriott, and (following the REIT Conversion) the Operating Partnership and Host REIT.

Following the REIT Conversion, the New Credit Facility permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, in an aggregate amount for every four fiscal quarters equal to the greater of (i) 85% of adjusted funds from operations plus the net proceeds of equity offerings and (ii) the minimum amount necessary to permit Host REIT to maintain its status as a REIT and to satisfy certain other requirements, provided that no specified default or event of default has occurred under the New Credit Facility and is continuing. The New Credit Facility also permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to Host REIT sufficient to enable Host REIT to make the E&P Distribution.

Following the REIT Conversion, the indenture permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to holders of OP Units, including Host REIT, in amounts equal to the greater of (i) 95% of FFO plus net proceeds of equity offerings (provided that no event of default under the indenture has occurred and is continuing and the Operating Partnership is able to incur debt under the applicable indenture covenants) or (ii) an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to maintain its status as a REIT and satisfy certain other requirements (provided that no event of default under the indenture has occurred and is continuing and the Operating Partnership has a consolidated debt to adjusted total assets ratio that is less than a specified level). The indenture also permits the Operating Partnership to make distributions to Host REIT sufficient to enable Host REIT to make the E&P Distribution.

The New Credit Facility and the New Senior Notes also contain certain financial covenants relating to, among other things, maintaining certain levels of tangible net worth and certain ratios of EBITDA to interest and fixed charges, total debt to EBITDA, unencumbered assets to unsecured debt, and secured debt to total debt.

The New Credit Facility replaces the Company's Old Credit Facility. The net proceeds from the offering and borrowings under the New Credit Facility were used by Host Marriott to purchase substantially all of the Old Senior Notes to repay amounts outstanding under the Old Credit Facility and to make bond premium and consent payments totaling approximately $178 million. These costs, along with the write-off of deferred financing fees of approximately $55 million related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility, will be recorded as a pre-tax extraordinary loss on the extinguishment of debt in the third quarter of 1998. The New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by Host Marriott and its wholly owned subsidiary, Host Marriott Hospitality, Inc. and certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties and are secured by pledges of equity interests in certain subsidiaries of HMH Properties.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To the Board of Directors of Host Marriott Corporation

We have audited the accompanying balance sheet of HMC Merger Corporation (the "Company"), a Maryland corporation, as of September 28, 1998. This balance sheet is the responsibility of the Company's officers. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the balance sheet based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the balance sheet is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the balance sheet. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall balance sheet presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the balance sheet referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as of September 28, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

HMC MERGER CORPORATION

NOTES TO BALANCE SHEET
SEPTEMBER 28, 1998

NOTE 1. ORGANIZATION

On April 16, 1998, the Board of Directors of Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") approved a plan to reorganize Host Marriott's current business operations through the spin-off of Host Marriott's senior living business ("Crestline") and the contribution of Host Marriott's hotels and certain other assets and liabilities to a newly formed Delaware limited partnership, Host Marriott, L.P. (the "Operating Partnership") whose sole general partner will be HMC Merger Corporation (the "Company"), a newly formed Maryland corporation that will merge with Host Marriott Corporation, a Delaware corporation subsequent to the Contribution. Host Marriott's contribution of its hotels and certain assets and liabilities to the Operating Partnership (the "Contribution") in exchange for units of limited partnership interests in the Operating Partnership will be accounted for at Host Marriott's historical basis. The accompanying balance sheet of the Company includes its accounts as of September 28, 1998, its formation date. Subsequent to the REIT Conversion, it is expected that the sole asset of the Company will be its 76% ownership of the Operating Partnership.

In June 1998, as part of the REIT Conversion, the Operating Partnership filed a preliminary Prospectus/Consent Solicitation with the Securities and Exchange Commission. This Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement describes a proposal whereby the Operating Partnership will acquire by merger (the "Mergers") eight public limited partnerships (the "Partnerships") that own or control 24 full-service hotels in which Host Marriott or its subsidiaries are general partners. As more fully described in the Prospectus/Consent Solicitation Statement, limited partners of those Partnerships that participate in the Mergers will receive OP Units and may, at their election, exchange such OP Units received for unsecured notes due December 15, 2005 issued by the Operating Partnership ("Notes") or common shares of the Company.

The consummation of the REIT Conversion is subject to significant contingencies that are outside the control of Host Marriott, including final Board of Directors approval, consents of shareholders, partners, bondholders, lenders and ground lessors of Host Marriott, its affiliates and other third parties. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the REIT Conversion or the Contribution will be completed.

PRO FORMA FINANCIAL INFORMATION OF THE COMPANY

Given the structure of Host Marriott's Consent Solicitation, the Mergers and the REIT Conversion may take a variety of different forms. The variations are dependent in part on the number and identity of the Partnerships that elect to merge and whether limited partners elect to tender their Partnership Interests for OP Units or Notes in connection with the REIT Conversion.

In light of the number of possible variations, the General Partners are not able to describe all possible combinations of Hotel Partnerships that could compose the Company. However, to assist Limited Partners in analyzing the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, the General Partners have prepared four separate sets of unaudited pro forma financial statements to show the impact of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion assuming the following four scenarios:

- . All Partnerships participate and no Notes are issued ("100% Participation with No Notes Issued")
- . All Partnerships participate with Notes issued with respect to 100% of the OP Units allocable to each Partnership ("100% Participation with Notes Issued")
- . A single Partnership participates and no Notes are issued ("Single Partnership Participation with No Notes Issued")
- . A single Partnership participates with Notes issued with respect to 100% of the OP Units allocable to the Partnership ("Single Partnership Participation with Notes Issued")

There is no minimum condition to participation in the Mergers and the Company does not believe that the presentation of additional scenarios is relevant to investors or required. The Single Partnership scenario represents the Merger of Chicago Suites as this partnership had the least amount of cash from operations for fiscal year 1997, the last audited period. These presentations do not purport to represent what combination will result from the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, but instead are designed to illustrate what the composition would have been under the above scenarios. Furthermore, the unaudited pro forma financial statements do not purport to represent what the results of operations or cash flows would actually have been if the Mergers and the REIT Conversion had in fact occurred on such date or at the beginning of such period or to project the results of operations or cash flows for any future date or period.

Host intends to cause the REIT Conversion to be completed as soon as possible, but there is no assurance that it will be completed during 1998 in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in 1998, the effectiveness of Host REIT's election could be delayed to January 1, 2000, which could cause the Blackstone Acquisition not to be consummated. Accordingly, a separate column (the "REIT 2000 Pro Forma") has been included for each presentation that assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements are based upon available information and upon certain assumptions, as set forth in the notes to the unaudited pro forma financial statements, that the Company believes are reasonable under the circumstances. Rental revenue is recognized only for Leases to be entered at or prior to completion of the REIT Conversion.

The unaudited pro forma statements of operations of the Company reflect the following transactions for the First Two Quarters 1998 and the fiscal year ended January 2, 1998 as if such transactions had been completed at the beginning of the fiscal year:

Acquisitions, Dispositions and Other Activities

- . Blackstone Acquisition
- . 1998 Bond Refinancing
- . 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, eleven full-service properties
- . 1998 purchase of minority interests in two full-service hotels
- . 1998 disposition of two full-service properties
- . 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties
- . 1997 refinancing or repayment of mortgage debt for three full-service properties

REIT Conversion Activities

- . 1998 deconsolidation of the assets and liabilities contributed to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, including the sale of certain furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary
- . 1998 Mergers
- . 1998 acquisition of minority interests in four private Partnerships in exchange for OP Units
- . 1998 lease of certain hotel properties to Crestline and conversion of revenues and certain operating expenses to rental income
- . 1998 adjustment to remove deferred taxes resulting from the change in tax status related to the REIT Conversion
- . 1998 earnings and profits cash distribution
- . 1998 contribution of notes receivable to Crestline

The unaudited pro forma balance sheet as of June 19, 1998 reflects all of the above 1998 transactions except for the acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, eight full-service properties and the disposition of two full-service properties which occurred prior to June 19, 1998, and were already reflected in the historical balance sheet.

Limited partners should bear in mind that the assumptions regarding the number and identity of participating Partnerships, the number of OP Units to be issued and price per OP Unit are outside the control of Host Marriott and have been made for illustrative purposes only. The unaudited pro forma financial statements and accompanying notes should be read in conjunction with the historical consolidated financial statements of the Company and "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" contained elsewhere herein.

The Emerging Issues Task Force (EITF) reached a consensus in May 1998 on Issue 98-9, "Accounting for Contingent Rents in Interim Financial Periods" ("EITF 98-9"). EITF 98-9 requires a lessor to defer recognition of contingent rental income in interim periods until the specified target that triggers the contingent rental income is achieved. The accompanying pro forma financial statements reflect the application of EITF 98-9 to the interim periods. EITF 98-9 will have no impact on the full-year rental income recorded by the Company.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA BALANCE SHEET
100% PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to record the spin-off of Crestline and:

- . Reduce property and equipment by $644 million
- . Record receivables of $104 million related to certain Crestline debt held by the Company
- . Reduce due from managers by $10 million
- . Reduce other assets by $2 million
- . Reduce cash, cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities by $19 million
- . Reduce debt by $214 million
- . Reduce accounts payable and accrued expenses by $2 million
- . Reduce deferred income taxes by $62 million
- . Reduce other liabilities by $11 million
- . Reduce equity by $299 million
- . Eliminate the $550 million Convertible Preferred Securities of Host Marriott which remain an obligation of Host REIT
- . Record the $567 million of Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott which is eliminated in consolidation on the historical financial statements of Host Marriott Corporation

B. Represents the adjustment to record the Blackstone Acquisition of 12 full-service properties (5,520 rooms) and a mortgage note secured by a thirteenth full-service property including the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units as determined through negotiations between the Company and Blackstone:

- . Record property and equipment of $1,450 million
- . Record mortgage note receivable of $63 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $5 million
- . Record the use of cash of $262 million
- . Record the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million
- . Record the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15.00 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units)

The purchase price of the Blackstone properties and mortgage note was determined based on the estimated fair value of the 43.7 million OP Units to be issued. The number of units to be issued will not increase or decrease depending on the stock price of Host Marriott at the time of closing of the acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the 1998 purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Norfolk Waterside Marriott and the Calgary Marriott, and the acquisition of The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn, The Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco and the Memphis Crowne Plaza:

- . Record property and equipment of $243 million
- . Record the use of cash of $250 million
- . Record a decrease in other liabilities of $7 million related to the purchase of minority interests

D. Represents the adjustment to record the Bond Refinancing:

- . Record the repayment of the $1,550 million in Old Senior Notes
- . Record the issuance of $1,700 million in New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million
- . Record the write-off of $55 million in deferred financing fees related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility
- . Record the deferred financing fees of $47 million related to the New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility
- . Record a draw of $350 million on the New Credit Facility

. Record the net cash activity of the above items as follows:

Repayment of the Old Senior Notes.....	$ (1,550)
Issuance of the New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million.....	1,692

	----	-----	----
	$288	23,022	$560

The number of OP Units was determined based on the purchase price and an estimated price of an OP Unit of $12.50 which is based upon the recent trading range of Host Marriott Corporation's stock as adjusted for the proposed dividend of Crestline to its shareholders. The purchase price was determined based on the fair market value of the net assets to be acquired.

The purchase price for minority interests (Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2) was allocated to property to the extent that the purchase price exceeded the minority interest liability recorded. The purchase price for the other three partnerships that are presently not consolidated was allocated in accordance with APB Opinion No. 16 with the debt of each partnership recorded at estimated fair value, all assets and liabilities, except for property being recorded at historical carrying values of each partnership with the residual allocated to property. The amounts allocated to property are in all cases less than estimated current replacement cost.

G. Represents the adjustment to record the purchase of the remaining minority interests in four Private Partnerships:

- . Record property and equipment of $61 million
- . Record decrease in other assets of $11 million
- . Record use of cash of $11 million
- . Record decrease in minority interest liabilities of $6 million
- . Record the issuance of 3.6 million OP Units totaling approximately $45 million

H. Represents the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million./(1)/

I. Represents the adjustment to record the transfer of working capital to Crestline related to the leasing of the Operating Partnership's hotels by decreasing working capital and recording a receivable from the lessee of $100 million and the adjustment to record deferred revenue of $261 million in connection with the application of EITF 98-9 to the Company's rental income.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the effect on deferred taxes for the change in tax status resulting from the REIT Conversion by decreasing deferred taxes and increasing equity by $181 million.

K. The Company's pro forma aggregate debt maturities at June 19, 1998, excluding $8 million of capital lease obligations and the $8 million debt discount recorded in conjunction with the Bond Refinancing, are (in millions):

1998.....	$ 476
1999.....	134
2000.....	139
2001.....	1,104
2002.....	155
Thereafter.....	3,584
	-----
	$5,592

L. The number of OP Units includes the following (in millions):

Limited Partner interests of Host REIT.....	204.0
General Partner interests of Host REIT.....	0.2
Limited Partner interests of each Partnership.....	23.0
Limited Partner interests of Private Partnerships.....	3.6
Limited Partner interests of Blackstone Group.....	43.7

M. Represents the adjustment to record the contribution of the $92 million note receivable and $15 million in cash to Crestline as a reduction in equity and to record the contribution of an investment of $7 million in a joint venture which holds a mortgage note from a consolidated subsidiary of Host.

N. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000. The amounts reflect the "Pro Forma" column less the amounts in column B--"Blackstone Acquisition" and the reduction in other liabilities and increase in equity for the deferred revenue of $31 million related to the application of EITF 98-9 to the Blackstone properties.

- -----

- (1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA STATEMENTS OF OPERATIONS
ASSUMING 100% PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to reduce revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, interest expense, interest income and income taxes for the spin-off of Crestline.

B. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the acquisition of the equity and debt interests for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in 11 full-service properties.

D. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties.

E. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income for the 1998 sale of the New York Marriott East Side and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totalling $50 million and related taxes of $20 million in 1998.

F. Represents the adjustment to reduce the interest expense, interest income and to record income taxes associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott's Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott and the San Francisco Marriott).

G. Represents the adjustment to record interest expense and related amortization of deferred financing fees, reduce interest income, and to record income taxes as a result of the Bond Refinancing. The adjustment excludes the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing resulting from the write-off of deferred financing fees and the payment of bond tender and consent fees.

H. Represents the adjustment for revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, corporate expenses, income taxes and to reduce interest income to deconsolidate the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and reflect the Company's share of income as equity in earnings of affiliate.

I. Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense of $13 million and $29 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 related to certain furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, record interest income of $6 million and $14 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 7%, $200 million in notes from the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries and reduce the lease payment to the Company from the Lessee.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, interest income and income taxes associated with the Mergers, including three partnerships not previously consolidated by the Company.

K. Represents the adjustment to record additional depreciation expense and the decrease in minority interest expense related to the purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Private Partnerships.

L. Represents the adjustment to reduce interest income, record interest expense and income taxes for the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million.(1)

M. Represents the adjustment to remove hotel revenues, management fees and other expenses of $148 million and $267 million, respectively, for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997, and to record rental revenues associated with the leasing of certain hotel properties to Crestline and other lessees and interest income of $3 million and $6 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 6%, $100 million in notes from Crestline. First Two Quarters 1998 included a $261 million reduction to rental income to record deferred revenue for percentage rents in accordance with EITF 98-9. Management believes the change to the lease structure described above will not impact hotel operating results because the hotel manager and asset management function will remain unchanged. Rental revenues under the Leases are based on the greater of Percentage Rent or Minimum Rent. Total rent in the pro forma statement of operations is calculated based on the historical gross sales of the property and the negotiated rental rates and thresholds by property as if the leases were entered into on the first day of fiscal year 1997. There are generally three sales categories utilized in the rent calculation: rooms, food and beverage and other. For rooms and food and beverage, there are three tiers of rent with two thresholds, while the other category generally has two tiers of rent and one threshold. The percentage rent thresholds are increased annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year based on a blended increase of the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and a wage and benefit index. For purposes of the pro formas, 1997 is the assumed initial lease year and the blended increase applied to the thresholds at January 3, 1998 is assumed to be 3%. Minimum rent is expressed as a fixed dollar amount that increases annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year as 50% of the CPI increase. Accordingly, the 1998 rent thresholds and minimum rent included in the pro formas were adjusted as of January 3, 1998 for the 1997 increases in the indices. Rental revenues is recognized only for leases to be executed with Crestline at or prior to completion of the REIT Conversion. The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases. The table below details gross sales, minimum rent and total rent for all full-service properties to be leased and summarized amounts for the limited-service properties to be subleased:

N. Represents the adjustment to eliminate interest income recorded for the $92 million note receivable contributed to Crestline for the First Two Quarters 1998.

O. Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.

P. Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion. Management expects that the total estimated non-recurring expenses to be incurred will be approximately $50 million.

Q. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" reflects the adjustment to eliminate the revenues, operating expenses, interest expense and interest income which assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become REIT until January 1, 2000.

(1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

- A) Represents the adjustment for cash flow amounts related to Crestline.
- B) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the Blackstone Acquisition.
- C) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 11 full-service properties.
- D) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures for the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties. Cash from investing activities has also been adjusted as if the period's historical acquisitions occurred immediately prior to the period presented.
- E) Represent the adjustment to record the decrease in depreciation expense, capital expenditures and other investing activities for the sale of the New York East Side Marriott and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totaling $50 million.
- F) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest expense associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott, and the San Francisco Marriott). Cash from financing activities has also been adjusted as if the period's historical prepayments and issuances of debt occurred immediately prior to the period presented.
- G) Represents the adjustment to reflect the issuance of the $1.7 billion of New Senior Notes net of the discount of $8 million, the retirement of the Old Senior Notes of $1.55 billion and the initial draw on the New Credit Facility of $372 million, including interest expense and commitment fees.
- H) Represents the adjustment to record the removal of depreciation, capital expenditures, the sale of certain assets and the scheduled principal amortization of notes to reflect the deconsolidation of the Non-Controlled Subsidiary.
- I) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures related to the Mergers, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.
- J) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense related to the acquisition of the Private Partnerships.
- K) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest income, net of tax, as a result of the estimated $225 million earnings and profits distribution and interest expense for the $75 million draw on the New Credit Facility.
- L) Represents the adjustment to revenues to reflect lease income and remove hotel revenues and management fees.
- M) Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense related to the sale of certain furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.
- N) Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.
- O) Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion.

- . Reduce deferred income taxes by $62 million
- . Reduce other liabilities by $11 million
- . Reduce equity by $299 million
- . Eliminate the $550 million Convertible Preferred Securities of Host Marriott which remain an obligation of Host REIT
- . Record the $567 million of Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott which is eliminated in consolidation on the historical financial statements of Host Marriott Corporation

B. Represents the adjustment to record the Blackstone Acquisition of 12 full-service properties (5,520 rooms) and a mortgage note secured by a thirteenth full-service property including the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units as determined through negotiations between the Company and Blackstone:

- . Record property and equipment of $1,450 million
- . Record mortgage note receivable of $63 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $5 million
- . Record the use of cash of $262 million
- . Record the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million
- . Record the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15.00 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units).

The purchase price of the Blackstone properties and mortgage note was determined based on the estimated fair value of the 43.7 million OP Units to be issued. The number of units to be issued will not increase or decrease depending on the stock price of Host Marriott at the time of closing of the acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the 1998 purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Norfolk Waterside Marriott and the Calgary Marriott and the acquisitions of The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn, The Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco and the Memphis Crowne Plaza.

- . Record property and equipment of $243 million
- . Record the use of cash of $250 million
- . Record a decrease in other liabilities of $7 million related to the purchase of minority interests

D. Represents the adjustment to record the Bond Refinancing:

- . Record the repayment of the $1,550 million in Old Senior Notes
- . Record the issuance of $1,700 million in New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million
- . Record the write-off of $55 million in deferred financing fees related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility
- . Record the deferred financing fees of $47 million related to the New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility
- . Record a draw of $350 million on the New Credit Facility
- . Record the net cash activity of the above items as follows:

Repayment of the Old Senior Notes.....	$(1,550)
Issuance of the New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million.....	1,692
Net draw on the New Credit Facility.....	350
Deferred financing fees related to the New Senior Notes and New Credit Facility.....	(47)
Bond tender and consent fees and other offering expenses.....	(178)
	-----
Net cash adjustment.....	$ 267

- . Record the federal and state tax benefit of $82 million related to above activity
- . Record the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing

E. Represents the adjustment to deconsolidate the assets and liabilities of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries and to reflect the sale of certain hotel furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary:

- . Record decrease in property and equipment of $342 million, including $200 million of hotel furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary
- . Record receivable from Non-Controlled Subsidiary for the furniture and equipment loan of $200 million and other notes totaling $4 million
- . Record decrease in due from managers of $2 million
- . Record investment in subsidiary of $67 million
- . Record increase in other assets of $4 million
- . Record decrease in cash of $13 million
- . Record decrease in debt of $39 million of debt transferred to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.
- . Record decrease in accounts payable and accrued expenses of $5 million
- . Record decrease in deferred taxes of $8 million
- . Record decrease in other liabilities of $38 million

F. Represents the adjustment to record the Mergers and issuance of Notes at the Note Election Amount (the greater of Liquidation Value or 80% of Exchange Value) to the Limited Partners:

- . Record property and equipment of $519 million
- . Record decrease in notes receivable of $3 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $15 million
- . Record other assets of $32 million
- . Record cash of $3 million
- . Record debt of $575 million including $248 million of Notes to the Limited Partners at the Note Election Amount
- . Record accounts payable and accrued expenses of $12 million
- . Record decrease in other liabilities of $21 million

The value of 6.56% Notes expected to be issued to the limited partners of each Partnership is (in millions):

The purchase price for minority interests (Atlanta Marquis, Desert Springs, Hanover, MHP and MHP2) was allocated to property to the extent that the purchase price exceeded the minority interest liability recorded. The purchase price for the three partnerships that are presently not consolidated was allocated in accordance with APB Opinion Number 16 with the debt of each partnership recorded at estimated fair value, all assets and liabilities, except for property being recorded at historical carrying values of each partnership with the residual allocated to property. The amounts allocated to property are in all cases less than estimated current replacement cost.

G. Represents the adjustment to record the purchase of the remaining minority interests in four Private Partnerships:

- . Record property and equipment of $61 million
- . Record decrease in other assets of $11 million
- . Record use of cash of $11 million
- . Record decrease in minority interest liabilities of $6 million
- . Record the issuance of 3.6 million OP Units totaling approximately $45 million

H. Represents the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million./(1)/

I. Represents the adjustment to record the transfer of working capital to Crestline related to the leasing of the Operating Partnership's hotels by decreasing working capital and recording a receivable from the lessee of $100 million and the adjustment to record $261 million in deferred revenue in connection with the application of EITF 98-9 to the Company's rental revenue.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the effect on deferred taxes for the change in tax status resulting from the REIT Conversion by decreasing deferred taxes and increasing equity by $181 million.

K. The Company's pro forma aggregate debt maturities at June 19, 1998, excluding $8 million of capital lease obligations and the $8 million debt discount recorded in conjunction with the Bond Refinancing, are (in millions):

1998.....	$ 476

L. The number of OP Units includes the following (in millions):

General Partner interests of Host REIT.....	0.2
Limited Partner interests of Host REIT.....	204.0
Limited Partner interests of Private Partnerships.....	3.6
Limited Partner interests of Blackstone Group.....	43.7
Total OP Units.....	251.5

M. Represents the adjustment to record the contribution of the $92 million note receivable and $15 million in cash to Crestline as a reduction in equity and to record the contribution of an investment in a mortgage note of $7 million in a joint venture which holds a mortgage note from a consolidated subsidiary of Host.

N. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000. The amounts reflect the "Pro Forma" column less the amounts in column B--"Blackstone Acquisition" and the reduction in other liabilities and increase in equity related to the deferred revenue of $31 million related to the application of EITF 98-9 to the Blackstone properties.

 (1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA STATEMENTS OF OPERATIONS
ASSUMING 100% PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to reduce revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, interest expense, interest income and income taxes for the spin-off of Crestline.

B. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the acquisition of the equity and debt interests for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 11 full-service properties.

D. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties.

E. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income for the 1998 sale of the New York Marriott East Side and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totalling $50 million and related taxes of $20 million in 1998.

F. Represents the adjustment to reduce the interest expense, interest income and income taxes associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott's Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott and the San Francisco Marriott).

G. Represents the adjustment to record interest expense and related amortization of deferred financing fees and reduce interest income and income taxes as a result of the Bond Refinancing. The adjustment excludes the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing resulting from the write-off of deferred financing fees and the payment of bond tender and consent fees.

H. Represents the adjustment for revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, corporate expenses, income taxes and to reduce interest income to deconsolidate the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries and reflect the Company's share of income as equity in earnings of affiliate.

I. Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense of $13 million and $29 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 related to certain furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, record interest income of $6 million and $14 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 7%, $200 million in notes from the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and reduce the lease payment to the Company from the Lessee.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, interest income and income taxes associated with the Mergers, including three partnerships not previously consolidated by the Company. Interest expense reflects interest on various mortgage notes and the estimated $248 million in 6.56% Notes issued in lieu of OP Units.

K. Represents the adjustment to record additional depreciation expense and the decrease in minority interest expense related to the purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Private Partnerships.

L. Represents the adjustment to reduce interest income, income taxes and record interest expense for the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million. (/1/)

M. Represents the adjustment to remove hotel revenues and management fees of $148 million and $267 million, respectively, for First Two Quarters 1998 and Fiscal 1997 and record rental revenues associated with the leasing of certain hotel properties to Crestline and other lessees and interest income of $3 million and $6 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 6%, $100 million in notes from Crestline. First Two Quarters 1998 included a $261 million reduction to rental income to record deferred revenue for percentage rents in accordance with EITF 98-9. Management believes the change to the lease structure described above will not impact hotel operating results because the hotel manager and asset management function will remain unchanged. Rental revenues under the Leases are based on the greater of Percentage Rent or Minimum Rent. Total Rent in the pro forma statement of operations is calculated based on the historical gross sales of the property and the negotiated pay rates and thresholds by property as if the leases were entered into on the first day of fiscal year 1997. There are generally three sales categories utilized in the rent calculation: rooms, food and beverage and other. For rooms and food and beverage, there are three tiers of rent with two thresholds, while the other category generally has two tiers of rent and one threshold. The percentage rent thresholds are increased annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year based on a blended increase of the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and a wage and benefit index. For purposes of the pro formas, 1997 is the assumed initial lease year and the blended increase applied to the thresholds at January 3, 1998 is assumed to be 3%. Minimum rent is expressed as a fixed dollar amount that increases annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year as 50% of the CPI increase. Accordingly, the 1998 rent thresholds and minimum rent included in the pro formas were adjusted as of January 3, 1998 for the 1997 increases in the indices. Rental revenue is recognized only for leases to be executed with Crestline at or prior to the completion of the REIT Conversion. The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases. See page F-120 for a table detailing gross sales, minimum rent and total rent for all full-service properties to be leased and summarized amounts for the limited-service properties to be subleased.

N. Represents the adjustment to eliminate interest income recorded for the $92 million note receivable contributed to Crestline for First Two Quarters 1998.

O. Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.

P. Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion. Management expects that the total estimated nonrecurring expenses to be incurred will be approximately $50 million.

Q. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" reflects the adjustment to eliminate the revenues, operating expenses, interest expense and interest income which assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000.

- - - - -

(1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED CASH FLOW STATEMENTS
100% PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED

A) Represents the adjustment for cash flow amounts related to the distribution of Crestline.

B) Represents the adjustment to record the depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 11 full-service properties.

D) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures for the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full service properties. Cash flows from investing activities has also been adjusted as if the period's historical acquisitions occurred immediately prior to the period presented.

E) Represent the adjustment to record the decrease in depreciation expense, capital expenditures and other investing activities for the sale of the New York East Side Marriott and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totaling $50 million.

F) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest expense associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott, and the San Francisco Marriott). Cash from financing activities has also been adjusted as if the periods historical prepayments and issuances of debt occurred immediately prior to the period presented.

G) Represents the adjustment to reflect the issuance of the $1.7 billion of New Senior Notes net of the discount of $8 million, the retirement of the Old Senior Notes of $1.55 billion and the initial draw on the New Credit Facility of $372 million, including interest expense and commitment fees.

H) Represents the adjustment to record the removal of depreciation, capital expenditures, the sale of certain assets and the scheduled principal amortization of notes to reflect the deconsolidation of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.

I) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures related to the Merger, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.

J) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense related to the acquisition of the Private Partnerships.

K) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest income, net of tax, as a result of the estimated $225 million earnings and profits distribution and the interest expense for the $75 million draw on the New Credit Facility.

L) Represent the adjustment to revenues to reflect lease income and remove hotel revenues and management fees. (/1/)

M) Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense related to the sale of certain furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.

N) Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.

O) Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion.

- -----

(1) The amount of the earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA BALANCE SHEET
SINGLE PARTNERSHIP PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to record the spin-off of Crestline and:

- . Reduce property and equipment by $644 million
- . Record receivables of $104 million related to certain Crestline debt held by the Company
- . Reduce due from managers by $10 million
- . Reduce other assets by $2 million
- . Reduce cash, cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities by $19 million
- . Reduce debt by $214 million
- . Reduce accounts payable and accrued expenses by $2 million
- . Reduce deferred income taxes by $62 million
- . Reduce other liabilities by $11 million
- . Reduce equity by $299 million
- . Eliminate the $550 million Convertible Preferred Securities of Host Marriott which remain an obligation of Host REIT
- . Record the $567 million of Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott which is eliminated in consolidation on the historical financial statements of Host Marriott Corporation

B. Represents the adjustment to record the Blackstone Acquisition of 12 full-service properties (5,520 rooms) and a mortgage note secured by a thirteenth full-service property including the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units as determined through negotiations between the Company and Blackstone:

- . Record property and equipment of $1,450 million
- . Record mortgage note receivable of $63 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $5 million
- . Record the use of cash of $262 million
- . Record the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million
- . Record the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units)

The purchase price of the Blackstone properties and mortgage note was determined based on the estimated fair value of the 43.7 million OP Units to be issued. The number of units to be issued will not increase or decrease depending on the stock price of Host Marriott at the time of closing of the acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the 1998 purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Norfolk Waterside Marriott and the Calgary Marriott, and the acquisition of The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn, The Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco and the Memphis Crowne Plaza:

- . Record property and equipment of $243 million
- . Record the use of cash of $250 million
- . Record a decrease in other liabilities of $7 million related to the purchase of minority interests

D. Represents the adjustment to record the Bond Refinancing:

- . Record the repayment of the $1,550 million in Old Senior Notes
- . Record the issuance of $1,700 million in New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million
- . Record the write-off of $55 million in deferred financing fees related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility
- . Record the deferred financing fees of $47 million related to the New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility
- . Record a draw of $350 million on the New Credit Facility

- . Record the net cash activity of the above items as follows:

Repayment of the Old Senior Notes.....	$ (1,550)
Issuance of the New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million.....	1,692
Net draw on the New Credit Facility.....	350
Deferred financing fees related to the New Senior Notes and New Credit Facility.....	(47)
Bond tender and consent fees and other expenses.....	(178)
	-----
Net cash adjustment.....	$ 267

- . Record the federal and state tax benefit of $82 million related to the above activity
- . Record the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing

E. Represents the adjustment to record the investment in the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, to reflect the sale of certain hotel furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and the transfer of the Company's limited partner investment in the seven Partnerships not participating in this scenario to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary:

- . Record decrease in property and equipment of $342 million, including $200 million of hotel furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries
- . Record receivable from Non-Controlled Subsidiaries for the furniture and equipment loan of $200 million, and transfer of other notes totaling $4 million
- . Record decrease in due from managers of $2 million
- . Record investment in the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries of $161 million
- . Record increase in other assets of $4 million
- . Record decrease in cash of $13 million
- . Record decrease in debt of $39 million of debt transferred to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.
- . Record decrease in accounts payable and accrued expenses of $5 million
- . Record decrease in deferred taxes of $8 million
- . Record an increase in other liabilities of $56 million, which primarily represents minority interest liability

F. Represents the adjustment to record the Merger and issuance of 0.9 million OP Units to the Limited Partners of the Partnership (Chicago Suites) with the least cash from operations for fiscal year 1997, the last audited period:

- . Record property and equipment of $38 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $1 million
- . Record cash of $1 million
- . Record debt of $25 million
- . Record accounts payable and accrued expenses of $4 million
- . Record the issuance of 0.9 million OP Units totaling approximately $11 million

The number of OP Units was determined based on the purchase price and an estimated price of an OP Unit of $12.50 which is based upon the recent trading range of Host Marriott Corporation's Stock as adjusted for the proposed dividend of Crestline to its shareholders. The purchase price was determined based on the fair market value of the net assets to be acquired.

The purchase price for Chicago Suites was allocated in accordance with APB Opinion No. 16 with the debt of the partnership recorded at estimated fair value, all assets and liabilities, except for property being recorded at historical carrying values of the partnership with the residual allocated to property. The amount allocated to property is less than estimated current replacement cost.

G. Represents the adjustment to record the purchase of the remaining minority interests in four Private Partnerships:

- . Record property and equipment of $61 million
- . Record decrease in other assets of $11 million
- . Record use of cash of $11 million
- . Record decrease in minority interest liabilities of $6 million
- . Record the issuance of 3.6 million OP Units totaling approximately $45 million

H. Represents the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million. (/1/)

I. Represents the adjustment to record the transfer of working capital to Crestline related to the leasing of the Operating Partnership's hotels by decreasing working capital and recording a receivable from the lessee of $75 million and the adjustment to record deferred revenue of $207 million in connection with the application of EITF 98-9 to the Company's rental income.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the effect on deferred taxes for the change in tax status resulting from the REIT Conversion by decreasing deferred taxes and increasing equity by $181 million.

K. The Company's pro forma aggregate debt maturities at June 19, 1998, excluding $8 million of capital lease obligations and the $8 million debt discount recorded in conjunction with the Bond Refinancing, are (in millions):

1998.....	$ 475

2002.....	155
Thereafter.....	3,417
	-----
	$5,290

L. The number of OP Units includes the following (in millions):

Limited Partner interests of Host REIT.....	204.0
General Partner interests of Host REIT.....	0.2
Limited Partner interests of each Partnership.....	0.9
Limited Partner interests of Private Partnerships.....	3.6
Limited Partner interests of Blackstone Group.....	43.7

M. Represents the adjustment to record the contribution of the $92 million note receivable and $15 million in cash to Crestline as a reduction in equity and to record the contribution of an investment of $7 million in a joint venture which holds a mortgage note from a consolidated subsidiary of Host.

N. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000. The amounts reflect the "Pro Forma" column less the amounts in column B--"Blackstone Acquisition" and the reduction in other liabilities and increase in equity related to the deferred revenue of $31 million related to the application of EITF 98-9 to the Blackstone properties.

- -----
- (1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA STATEMENTS OF OPERATIONS
SINGLE PARTNERSHIP PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to reduce revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, interest expense, interest income and income taxes for the spin-off of Crestline.

B. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the acquisition of the equity and debt interests for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in 11 full-service properties.

D. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties.

E. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense and income taxes for the 1998 sale of the New York Marriott East Side and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totalling $50 million and related taxes of $20 million in 1998.

F. Represents the adjustment to reduce the interest expense and interest income associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott's Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott and the San Francisco Marriott).

G. Represents the adjustment to record interest expense and related amortization of deferred financing fees and reduce interest income as a result of the Bond Refinancing. The adjustment excludes the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing resulting from the write-off of deferred financing fees and the payment of bond tender and consent fees.

H. Represents the adjustment for revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, corporate expenses and income taxes to deconsolidate the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and reflect the Company's share of income as equity in earnings of affiliate.

I. Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense of $13 million and $29 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 related to certain furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, record interest income of $6 million and $14 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 7%, $200 million in notes from the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries and reduce the lease payment to the Company from the Lessee.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, interest income and income taxes associated with the Merger of Chicago Suites.

K. Represents the adjustment to record additional depreciation expense and the decrease in minority interest expense related to the purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Private Partnerships.

L. Represents the adjustment to reduce interest income and record interest expense for the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million.(1)

M. Represents the adjustment to remove hotel revenues, management fees and other expenses of $109 million and $227 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997, and to record rental revenues associated with the leasing of certain hotel properties to Crestline and other lessees and interest income of $2 million and $5 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 6%, $75 million in notes from Crestline. First Two Quarters 1998 included a $207 million reduction to rental income to record deferred revenue for percentage rents in accordance with EITF 98-9. Management believes the change to the lease structure described above will not impact hotel operating results because the hotel manager and asset management function will remain unchanged. Rental revenues under the Leases are based on the greater of Percentage Rent or Minimum Rent. Total rent in the pro forma statement of operations is calculated based on the historical gross sales of the property and the negotiated rental rates and thresholds by property as if the leases were entered into on the first day of fiscal year 1997. There are generally three sales categories utilized in the rent calculation: rooms, food and beverage and other. For rooms and food and beverage, there are three tiers of rent with two thresholds, while the other category generally has two tiers of rent and one threshold. The percentage rent thresholds are increased annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year based on a blended increase of the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and a wage and benefit index. For purposes of the pro formas, 1997 is the assumed initial lease year and the blended increase applied to the thresholds at January 3, 1998 is assumed to be 3%. Minimum rent is expressed as a fixed dollar amount that increases annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year as 50% of the CPI increase. Accordingly, the 1998 rent thresholds and minimum rent included in the pro formas were adjusted as of January 3, 1998 for the 1997 increases in the indices. Rental revenues is recognized only for leases to be executed with Crestline at or prior to completion of the REIT Conversion. The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases.

N. Represents the adjustment to eliminate interest income recorded for the $92 million note receivable contributed to Crestline for the First Two Quarters 1998.

O. Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.

P. Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion. Management expects that the total estimated non-recurring expenses to be incurred will be approximately $50 million.

Q. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" reflects the adjustment to eliminate the revenues, operating expenses, interest expense and interest income which assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become REIT until January 1, 2000.

- -----

(1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the REIT Conversion are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA BALANCE SHEET
SINGLE PARTNERSHIP PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the adjustment to record the spin-off of Crestline:

- . Reduce property and equipment by $644 million
- . Record receivables of $104 million related to certain Crestline debt held by the Company
- . Reduce due from managers by $10 million
- . Reduce other assets by $2 million
- . Reduce cash, cash equivalents and short-term marketable securities by $19 million
- . Reduce debt by $214 million
- . Reduce accounts payable and accrued expenses by $2 million
- . Reduce deferred income taxes by $62 million
- . Reduce other liabilities by $11 million
- . Reduce equity by $299 million
- . Eliminate the $550 million Convertible Preferred Securities of Host Marriott which remain an obligation of Host REIT
- . Record the $567 million of Convertible Debt Obligation to Host Marriott which is eliminated in consolidation on the historical financial statements of Host Marriott Corporation

B. Represents the adjustment to record the Blackstone Acquisition of 12 full-service properties (5,520 rooms) and a mortgage note secured by a thirteenth full-service property including the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units as determined through negotiations between the Company and Blackstone:

- . Record property and equipment of $1,450 million
- . Record mortgage note receivable of $63 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $5 million
- . Record the use of cash of $262 million
- . Record the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million
- . Record the issuance of 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units).

The purchase price of the Blackstone properties and mortgage note was determined based on the estimated fair value of the 43.7 million OP Units to be issued. The number of units to be issued will not increase or decrease depending on the stock price of Host Marriott at the time of closing of the acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the 1998 purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Norfolk Waterside Marriott and the Calgary Marriott and the acquisitions of The Ritz-Carlton, Dearborn, The Ritz-Carlton, San Francisco and the Memphis Crowne Plaza.

- . Record property and equipment of $243 million
- . Record the use of cash of $250 million
- . Record a decrease in other liabilities of $7 million related to the purchase of minority interests

D. Represents the adjustment to record the Bond Refinancing:

- . Record the repayment of the $1,550 million in Old Senior Notes
- . Record the issuance of $1,700 million in New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million
- . Record the write-off of $55 million in deferred financing fees related to the Old Senior Notes and the Old Credit Facility
- . Record the deferred financing fees of $47 million related to the New Senior Notes and the New Credit Facility
- . Record a draw of $350 million on the New Credit Facility
- . Record the net cash activity of the above items as follows:

Repayment of the Old Senior Notes.....	$(1,550)
Issuance of the New Senior Notes, net of the discount of $8 million.....	1,692
Net draw on the New Credit Facility.....	350
Deferred financing fees related to the New Senior Notes and New Credit Facility.....	(47)
Bond tender and consent fees and other offering expenses.....	(178)
	-----

- . Record the federal and state tax benefit of $82 million related to above activity
- . Record the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing

E. Represents the adjustment to deconsolidate the assets and liabilities of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries, to reflect the sale of certain hotel furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and to transfer the Company's limited partner investment in the seven Partnerships not participating under the scenario to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary:

- . Record decrease in property and equipment of $342 million, including $200 million of hotel furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary
- . Record receivable from Non-Controlled Subsidiary for the furniture and equipment loan of $200 million and other notes totaling $4 million
- . Record decrease in due from managers of $2 million
- . Record investment in subsidiary of $161 million
- . Record increase in other assets of $4 million
- . Record decrease in cash of $13 million
- . Record decrease in debt of $39 million of debt transferred to the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.
- . Record decrease in accounts payable and accrued expenses of $5 million
- . Record decrease in deferred taxes of $8 million
- . Record increase in other liabilities of $56 million, which primarily represents minority interest liability

F. Represents the adjustment to record the Merger and issuance of 6.56% Notes at the Note Election Amount (the greater of Liquidation Value or 80% of Exchange Value) to the Limited Partners of the Partnership (Chicago Suites) with the least cash from operations for fiscal year 1997, the last audited period:

- . Record property and equipment of $37 million
- . Record increase in due from managers of $1 million
- . Record cash of $1 million
- . Record debt of $35 million including $11 million of Notes to the Limited Partners at the Note Election Amount
- . Record accounts payable and accrued expenses of $4 million

The purchase price for the Chicago Suites was allocated in accordance with APB Opinion Number 16 with the debt of the partnership recorded at estimated fair value, all assets and liabilities, except for property being recorded at historical carrying values of the partnership with the residual allocated to property. The amount allocated to property is less than estimated current replacement cost.

G. Represents the adjustment to record the purchase of the remaining minority interests in four Private Partnerships:

- . Record property and equipment of $61 million
- . Record decrease in other assets of $11 million
- . Record use of cash of $11 million
- . Record decrease in minority interest liabilities of $6 million
- . Record the issuance of 3.6 million OP Units totaling approximately $45 million

H. Represents the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million./(1)/

I. Represents the adjustment to record the transfer of working capital to Crestline related to the leasing of the Operating Partnership's hotels by decreasing working capital and recording a receivable from the lessee of $75 million and the adjustment to record $207 million in deferred revenue in connection with the application of EITF 98-9 to the Company's rental revenue.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the effect on deferred taxes for the change in tax status resulting from the REIT Conversion by decreasing deferred taxes and increasing equity by $181 million.

K. The Company's pro forma aggregate debt maturities at June 19, 1998, excluding $8 million of capital lease obligations and the $8 million debt discount recorded in conjunction with the Bond Refinancing, are (in millions):

1998.....	$ 475

L. The number of OP Units includes the following (in millions):

General Partner interests of Host REIT.....	0.2
Limited Partner interests of Host REIT.....	204.0
Limited Partner interests of Private Partnerships.....	3.6
Limited Partner interests of Blackstone Group.....	43.7

M. Represents the adjustment to record the contribution of the $92 million note receivable and $15 million in cash to Crestline as a reduction in equity and to record the contribution of an investment in a mortgage note of $7 million in a joint venture which holds a mortgage note from a consolidated subsidiary of Host.

N. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become a REIT until January 1, 2000. The amounts reflect the "Pro Forma" column less the amounts in column B--"Blackstone Acquisition" and the reduction in other liabilities and increase in equity related to the deferred revenue of $31 million related to the application of EITF 98-9 to the Blackstone properties.

(1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA STATEMENTS OF OPERATIONS

A. Represents the adjustment to reduce revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, interest expense, interest income and income taxes for the spin-off of Crestline.

B. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the acquisition of the equity and debt interests for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 11 full-service properties.

D. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, income taxes and to reduce interest income associated with the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full-service properties.

E. Represents the adjustment to record historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense and income taxes for the 1998 sale of the New York Marriott East Side and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totalling $50 million and related taxes of $20 million in 1998.

F. Represents the adjustment to reduce the interest expense and interest income associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott's Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott and the San Francisco Marriott).

G. Represents the adjustment to record interest expense and related amortization of deferred financing fees and reduce interest income as a result of the Bond Refinancing. The adjustment excludes the estimated extraordinary loss of $151 million, net of taxes, related to the Bond Refinancing resulting from the write-off of deferred financing fees and the payment of bond tender and consent fees.

H. Represents the adjustment for revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, corporate expenses and income taxes to deconsolidate the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries and reflect the Company's share of income as equity in earnings of affiliate.

I. Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense of $13 million and $29 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 related to certain furniture and equipment sold to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, record interest income of $6 million and $14 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 7%, $200 million in notes from the Non-Controlled Subsidiary and reduce the lease payment to the Company from the Lessee.

J. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, minority interest, interest expense, interest income and income taxes associated with the Mergers, including three partnerships not previously consolidated by the Company. Interest expense reflects interest on various mortgage notes and the estimated $11 million in 6.56% Notes issued in lieu of OP Units.

K. Represents the adjustment to record additional depreciation expense and the decrease in minority interest expense related to the purchase of the remaining minority interests in the Private Partnerships.

L. Represents the adjustment to reduce interest income and record interest expense for the estimated $225 million cash payment of the earnings and profits distribution to shareholders of Host Marriott including a draw on the New Credit Facility of $75 million. (/1/)

M. Represents the adjustment to remove hotel revenues, management fees and other expenses of $109 million and $227 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and Fiscal 1997 and record rental revenues associated with the leasing of certain hotel properties to Crestline and other lessees and interest income of $2 million and $5 million for First Two Quarters 1998 and fiscal year 1997 earned on the 6%, $75 million in notes from Crestline. First Two Quarters 1998 included a $207 million reduction to rental income to record deferred revenue for percentage rents in accordance with EITF 98-9. Management believes the change to the lease structure described above will not impact hotel operating results because the hotel manager and asset management function will remain unchanged. Rental revenues under the Leases are based on the greater of Percentage Rent or Minimum Rent. Total rent in the pro forma statement of operations is calculated based on the historical gross sales of the property and the negotiated rental rates and thresholds by property as if the leases were entered into on the first day of fiscal year 1997. There are generally three sales categories utilized in the rent calculation: rooms, food and beverage and other. For rooms and food and beverage, there are three tiers of rent with two thresholds, while the other category generally has two tiers of rent and one threshold. The percentage rent thresholds are increased annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year based on a blended increase of the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and a wage and benefit index. For purposes of the pro formas, 1997 is the assumed initial lease year and the blended increase applied to the thresholds at January 3, 1998 is assumed to be 3%. Minimum is expressed as a fixed dollar amount that increases annually on the first day of each year after the initial lease year as a 50% of the CPI increase. Accordingly, the 1998 rent thresholds and minimum rent included in the pro formas were adjusted as of January 3, 1998 for the 1997 increases in the indices. Rental revenues is recognized only for leases to be executed at or prior to completion to the REIT Conversion. The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases.

N. Represents the adjustment to eliminate interest income recorded for the $92 million note receivable contributed to Crestline for First Two Quarters 1998.

O. Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT Conversion.

P. Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion. Management expects that the total estimated nonrecurring expenses to be incurred will be approximately $50 million.

Q. The "REIT 2000 Pro Forma" reflects the adjustment to eliminate the revenues, operating expenses, interest expense and interest income which assumes that the REIT Conversion occurs on January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition does not occur and Host does not become REIT until January 1, 2000.

- -----

(1) The amount of earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED CASH FLOW STATEMENTS
SINGLE PARTNERSHIP PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED

A) Represents the adjustment for cash flow amounts related to the distribution of Crestline.

B) Represents the adjustment to record the depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the Blackstone Acquisition.

C) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and estimated capital expenditures for the 1998 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 11 full-service properties.

D) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures for the 1997 acquisition of, or purchase of controlling interests in, 18 full service properties. Cash flows from investing activities has also been adjusted as if the period's historical acquisitions occurred immediately prior to the period presented.

E) Represent the adjustment to record the decrease in depreciation expense, capital expenditures and other investing activities for the sale of the New York East Side Marriott and the Napa Valley Marriott, including the elimination of the non-recurring gains on the sales totaling $50 million.

F) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest expense associated with the refinancing or payoff of mortgage debt for three full-service properties (Marriott Orlando World Center, the Philadelphia Marriott, and the San Francisco Marriott). Cash from financing activities has also been adjusted as if the periods historical prepayments and issuances of debt occurred immediately prior to the period presented.

G) Represents the adjustment to reflect the issuance of the $1.7 billion of New Senior Notes net of the discount of $8 million, the retirement of the Old Senior Notes of $1.55 billion and the initial draw on the New Credit Facility of $372 million, including interest expense and commitment fees.

H) Represents the adjustment to record the removal of depreciation, capital expenditures, the sale of certain assets and the scheduled principal amortization of notes to reflect the deconsolidation of the Non-Controlled Subsidiaries.

I) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense and capital expenditures related to the Merger, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.

J) Represents the adjustment to record depreciation expense related to the acquisition of the Private Partnerships.

K) Represents the adjustment to reflect the decrease in interest income, net of tax, as a result of the estimated $225 million earnings and profits distribution and the interest expense for the $75 million draw on the New Credit Facility. (1)

L) Represent the adjustment to revenues to reflect lease income and remove hotel revenues and management fees.

M) Represents the adjustment to reduce depreciation expense related to the sale of certain furniture and equipment to the Non-Controlled Subsidiary, including the scheduled principal amortization of notes.

N) Represents the adjustment to the income tax provision to reflect the REIT conversion.

O) Represents the adjustment to eliminate non-recurring expenses incurred in connection with the REIT Conversion.

- -----

(1) The amount of the earnings and profit distribution shown reflects only the estimated distribution to be made in connection with the REIT Conversion, and could consist of a combination of cash and other consideration, including possibly securities of Host REIT. The actual amount of the distribution will be based in part upon the estimated amount of Host's accumulated earnings and profits for tax purposes. To the extent that the distributions made in connection with the Initial E&P Distribution are not sufficient to eliminate Host's estimated accumulated earnings and profits, Host REIT will make one or more additional taxable distributions to its shareholders (in the form of cash or securities) prior to the last day of its first full taxable year as a REIT (currently expected to be December 31, 1999) in an amount intended to be sufficient to eliminate such earnings and profits, and the Operating Partnership will make corresponding distributions to all holders of OP Units (including Host REIT) in an amount sufficient to permit Host REIT to make such additional distributions.

PRO FORMA FINANCIAL INFORMATION OF HOST REIT

Given the structure of Host Marriott's Consent Solicitation, the Mergers and the REIT Conversion may take a variety of different forms. The variations are dependent in part on the number and identity of the Partnerships that elect to merge and whether limited partners elect to tender their Partnership Interests for OP Units, REIT shares, or Notes in connection with the REIT Conversion.

In light of the number of possible variations, Host REIT and the General Partners are not able to describe all possible combinations of Hotel Partnerships that could compose Host REIT. However, to assist Limited Partners and current Host shareholders in analyzing the Mergers and the REIT Conversion, Host REIT and the General Partners have prepared unaudited pro forma financial statements of the Operating Partnership to show the impact of the Mergers and the REIT Conversion under various scenarios (see pro forma financial information of the company--F-110).

Additionally, Host REIT and the General Partners have prepared pro forma financial statements of Host REIT in order to present the differences between the Operating Partnership and Host REIT. See pro forma financial information of the company--F-110 for the adjustments to Host's historical financial statements necessary to arrive at Operating Partnership--Pro Forma in the accompanying pro forma financial statements of Host REIT.

The unaudited pro forma balance sheet and statements of operations of Host REIT reflect the following adjustments to the pro forma financial statements of the Operating Partnership.

- . The elimination in consolidation of the convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott of the Operating Partnership and the presentation of Company-obligated Mandatorily Redeemable Convertible Preferred Securities of a Subsidiary Trust Holding Company Substantially All of Whose Assets are the Convertible Subordinated Debentures Due 2026 ("Convertible Preferred Securities") on the balance sheet of Host REIT. Interest expense paid by the Operating Partnership related to the convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott (on a pro forma basis) is eliminated and dividend expense for the Convertible Preferred Securities is reflected on the pro forma statement of operations of Host REIT.
- . The presentation of the Limited Partner interests of third parties in the Operating Partnership as minority interest in Host REIT and the reflection of Operating Partnership income allocable to the third party Limited Partners as minority interest expense of Host REIT.

In addition, the Host REIT pro forma financial information has been adjusted to the "REIT 2000" scenario. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, Host REIT would be subject to federal income taxes and the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The adjustments between Host REIT Pro Forma and REIT 2000 Pro Forma reflect adjustments to:

- . Record the tax provision (benefit) and related deferred tax amounts eliminated in the Company Pro Forma.
- . Remove amounts related to the Blackstone Acquisition.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements are based upon available information and upon certain assumptions as set forth in the notes to the unaudited pro forma financial statements, that the Company believes are reasonable under the circumstances and should be read in conjunction with the unaudited pro forma financial statements of the Operating Partnership and the consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for Host.

The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases.

HOST REIT

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

100% PARTICIPATION WITH NO NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the following adjustments:

- . Adjustment to remove $567 million of convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott which eliminates in consolidation.
- . Record the $550 million of convertible preferred securities held by Host REIT.
- . Record $17 million adjustment to equity for the elimination in consolidation of the convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott.
- . Remove interest of $18 million and $38 million, respectively, on $567 million of convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott.
- . Record dividends of $17 million and $37 million, respectively, on the $550 million of convertible preferred securities.

B. Represents the adjustment to present the Limited Partner interests of third parties in the Operating Partnership as minority interest in Host REIT and the reflection of Operating Partnership income allocable to the third party Limited Partners as minority interest expense of Host REIT as follows:

- . Record $363 million minority interest liability representing Limited Partner interests of third parties (70.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 274.5 million) pro rata share of total combined Operating Partnership equity and Limited Partner interests of third parties at redemption value.
- . Record adjustment to shareholders' equity of $363 million to record the Limited Partner interests of third parties as minority interest.
- . Record minority expense based on the Limited Partner interests of third parties pro rata share of Operating Partnership net income (70.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 274.5 million).

C. Represents the adjustment to eliminate the Partner's Capital of the Operating Partnership and record the Common Stock, Additional Paid-in Capital, and Retained Earnings of Host REIT.

D. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, Host REIT would be subject to federal income taxes. This adjustment records Host REIT's tax (benefit) provision assuming the REIT Conversion did not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status.

E. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove property and equipment of $1,450 million.
- . Remove mortgage note receivable of $63 million.
- . Remove due from managers of $5 million.
- . Add back $262 million of cash used to make the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million.
- . Remove the 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15.00 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units).
- . Remove minority interest liability of $286 million associated with the Blackstone limited partner interest (43.7 million OP Units) in the Operating Partnership.

- . Net effect on equity of the removal of the minority interest liability, Blackstone assets and liabilities, and recording of deferred income taxes.

F. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove rental revenues and hotel operating expenses applicable to the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the minority interest associated with the 43.7 million OP units owned by the Blackstone limited partners.
- . Remove the interest expense on the $600 million of debt assumed in the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Record interest income that was eliminated in connection with the Blackstone Acquisition.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

100% PARTICIPATION WITH NOTES ISSUED

A. Represents the following adjustments:

- . Adjustment to remove $567 million of convertible debt obligations to Host Marriott which eliminates in consolidation.
- . Record the $550 million of convertible preferred securities held by Host REIT.
- . Record $17 million adjustment to equity for the elimination in consolidation of the convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott.
- . Remove Interest of $18 million and $38 million, respectively, on $567 million of convertible debt obligation to Host Marriott.
- . Record dividends of $17 million and $37 million, respectively, on the $550 million of convertible preferred securities.

B. Represents the adjustment to present the Limited Partner interests of third parties in the Operating Partnership as minority interest in Host REIT and the reflection of Operating Partnership income allocable to the third party Limited Partners as minority interest expense of Host REIT as follows:

- . Record $213 million minority interest liability representing Limited Partner interests of third parties (47.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 251.5 million) pro rata share of total combined Operating Partnership equity and Limited Partner interests of third parties at redemption value.
- . Record adjustment to shareholders' equity of $213 million to record the Limited Partner interests of third parties as minority interest.
- . Record minority expense based on the Limited Partners interests of third parties pro rata share of Operating Partnership net income (47.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 251.5 million).

C. Represents the adjustment to eliminate the Partner's Capital of the Operating Partnership and record the Common Stock, Additional Paid-in Capital, and Retained Earnings of Host REIT.

D. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, Host REIT would be subject to federal income taxes. This adjustment records Host REIT's tax (benefit) provision, assuming the REIT Conversion did not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status.

E. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove property and equipment of $1,450 million.
- . Remove mortgage note receivable of $63 million.
- . Remove due from managers of $5 million.
- . Add back $262 million of cash used to make the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million.
- . Remove the 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15.00 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units).
- . Remove minority interest liability of $205 million associated with the Blackstone limited partner interest (43.7 million OP Units) in the Operating Partnership.
- . Net effect on equity on the removal of the minority interest liability, Blackstone assets and liabilities, and recording of deferred income taxes.

F. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove rental revenues and hotel operation expenses applicable to the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the minority interest associated with the 43.7 million OP Units owned by the Blackstone limited partners.
- . Remove the interest expense on the $600 million of debt assumed in the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Record interest income that was eliminated in connection with the Blackstone Acquisition.

Record $213 million minority interest liability representing Limited Partner interests of third parties (47.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 251.5 million) pro rata share of total combined Operating Partnership equity and Limited Partner interests of third parties at redemption value.
- . Record adjustment to shareholders' equity of $213 million to record the Limited Partner interests of third parties as minority interest.
- . Record minority expense based on the Limited Partners interests of third parties pro rata share of Operating Partnership net income (47.3 million OP Units out of total OP Units of 251.5 million).

C. Represents the adjustment to eliminate the Partner's Capital of the Operating Partnership and record the Common Stock, Additional Paid-in Capital, and Retained Earnings of Host REIT.

D. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, Host REIT would be subject to federal income taxes. This adjustment records Host REIT's tax (benefit) provision, assuming the REIT Conversion did not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status.

E. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove property and equipment of $1,450 million.
- . Remove mortgage note receivable of $63 million.
- . Remove due from managers of $5 million.
- . Add back $262 million of cash used to make the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the assumption of mortgage debt of $600 million.
- . Remove the 43.7 million OP Units with an estimated fair value of $656 million using an assumed Host Marriott stock price of $15.00 (which includes the value of Crestline since Blackstone will receive shares of Crestline in addition to OP Units).
- . Remove minority interest liability of $205 million associated with the Blackstone limited partner interest (43.7 million OP Units) in the Operating Partnership.
- . Net effect on equity on the removal of the minority interest liability, Blackstone assets and liabilities, and recording of deferred income taxes.

F. If the REIT Conversion does not occur in time for Host REIT to elect REIT status effective January 1, 1999, the Blackstone Acquisition may not occur. The following adjustments remove the Blackstone Acquisition from the REIT pro forma financial information:

- . Remove rental revenues and hotel operation expenses applicable to the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Remove the minority interest associated with the 43.7 million OP Units owned by the Blackstone limited partners.
- . Remove the interest expense on the $600 million of debt assumed in the Blackstone Acquisition.
- . Record interest income that was eliminated in connection with the Blackstone Acquisition.

PRO FORMA FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF CRESTLINE

The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statements of operations of Crestline reflect the following transactions for the First Two Quarters 1998 and for the fiscal year ended January 2, 1998, as if such transactions had been completed at the beginning of each of the periods:

- . 1997 acquisition of Forum Group, Inc. (the "Forum Acquisition") and one additional senior living community
- . 1998 refinancing of a $92 million note payable to Marriott International with a $92 million note payable to Host Marriott, which will be contributed capital in connection with the REIT Conversion
- . 1998 retirement of $26 million of debt through a capital contribution from Host Marriott
- . 1998 acquisition of one senior living community
- . 1998 acquisition of minority interests in certain consolidated subsidiaries of Crestline through contributions from Host Marriott
- . 1998 spin off of Crestline by Host Marriott and the concurrent lease or sublease of hotels from Host REIT
- . 1998 adoption of EITF 97-2 to reflect the change in presentation to present property-level sales and operating expenses
- . Contribution of $14.8 million of unsecured intercompany debt by Host to Crestline in connection with the REIT Conversion.
- . Contribution to Crestline from Host of a 5% interest in a joint venture which holds an approximate $130 million mortgage note from a consolidated subsidiary of Host in connection with the REIT Conversion.
- . Adjustment to corporate expenses as if Crestline were operated on a stand alone basis, partially offset by the asset management fee charged to Host REIT.

The adjustments to the unaudited pro forma balance sheet of Crestline reflect the lease and sublease of substantially all of Host Marriott's owned or leased hotels and certain other transactions as described herein in conjunction with the REIT Conversion.

In 1998, Crestline acquired one senior living community for $21 million. Also, during 1998, Host Marriott prepaid approximately $26 million of Crestline's mortgage debt and repaid $92 million of unsecured debt to Marriott International. The prepayment was recorded as a capital contribution to Crestline and the $92 million was repaid in exchange for a $92 million note due to Host Marriott with similar terms. The $92 million note will be contributed capital in connection with the REIT Conversion.

In 1997, Host Marriott Corporation acquired 29 senior living communities from Marriott International and concurrently contributed all of the assets and liabilities obtained in the Forum Acquisition to Crestline. In addition, during 1997, Crestline acquired 49% of the remaining 50% interest in Leisure Park Venture Limited Partnership which owns a 418-unit retirement community in New Jersey for approximately $23 million, including the assumption of approximately $15 million in debt. Crestline currently owns 99% of the partnership.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements present the financial position and the results of operations of Crestline as if the transactions described above were completed. These presentations do not purport to represent what Crestline's results of operations would actually have been if the transactions described above had in fact occurred on such date or at the beginning of such period or to project Crestline's results of operations for any future date or period.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements are based upon certain assumptions, as set forth in the notes to the unaudited pro forma financial statements, that Crestline believes are reasonable under the circumstances and should be read in conjunction with the Consolidated Financial Statements and Notes thereto for HMC Senior Communities, Inc included elsewhere herein.

NOTES TO UNAUDITED PRO FORMA FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF CRESTLINE

A. Represents the adjustment to record the transfer of hotel working capital to Crestline related to the leasing of the Company's hotels by increasing working capital and recording a loan from the Company of $100 million.

B. Represents the following transactions in connection with the REIT Conversion:

- . Company's contribution of capital of $92 million and $14.8 million intercompany loans between Host Marriott and Crestline.
- . Host's contribution of $15 million of cash to Crestline.
- . Host's contribution of a 5% limited partner interest in a joint venture with Host that owns an approximate $130 million note receivable from a consolidated subsidiary of Host.

C. Represents the adjustment to reflect the historical revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, interest expense and interest income for the Forum Acquisition as if such acquisition occurred at the beginning of 1997 (actual acquisition date was June 21, 1997).

D. Represents the adjustment to eliminate the interest expense on $92 million and $14.8 million of intercompany loans which will be contributed to capital by Host upon the REIT Conversion. The adjustment also includes the elimination of interest expense on $26.4 million of debt repaid by Crestline during 1998 through a capital contribution by Host.

E. Represents the adjustment to record the historical revenues, operating expenses, corporate expenses, and interest income related to the acquisition of one senior living community in 1998 and the acquisition of one senior living community in 1997. The adjustment also includes the elimination of $745,000 of minority interest expense included in corporate expenses related to the purchase of minority interests in certain consolidated subsidiaries of Crestline in 1997.

F. Represents the adjustment to record additional corporate expenses anticipated to be incurred when Crestline is operated as a stand alone company subsequent to the REIT Conversion, net of the asset management contract of $4.5 million per annum. The adjustment includes the following (in thousands):

	-----	-----
Payroll costs.....	$ 5,103	$ 6,894
Rent and insurance.....	740	1,267
Other general and administrative costs.....	2,541	3,165
	-----	-----
	8,384	11,326
Less: asset management fee .....	(2,077)	(4,500)
	-----	-----
Net corporate expense adjustment.....	$ 6,307	$ 6,826

G. Represents the adjustment to record the historical hotel revenues and hotel expenses and pro forma lease expense associated with the leasing of certain hotel properties from the Company, interest expense on the $100 million working capital loan at 6%, and dividend income from the 5% investment in the joint venture with Host that owns a $130 million note receivable from a consolidated subsidiary of Host. The execution of the leases is dependent upon the successful consummation of the REIT Conversion which is subject to contingencies that are outside the control of the Company, including consent of shareholders, lenders, debt holders, partners and ground lessors of Host. The Company believes that negotiations with third parties to complete the REIT Conversion will not result in any material change to the leases.

H. Represents the adjustment to reflect Crestline's anticipated adoption of EITF 97-2 in the fourth quarter of 1998 by recording property-level sales and operating expenses. The adjustment has no impact on operating profit or net income.

(1) Revenues represent sales generated by the Partnership's hotel.

(2) During the First Two Quarters 1998, AMMLP recorded an extraordinary gain of $4,174,000 from the forgiveness of deferred incentive management fees and early extinguishment of debt recorded in conjunction with the refinancing of the mortgage debt of AMMLP.

(3) The Class B Limited Partner is Host Marriott Corporation, which does not own Units, but is entitled to a preferred return.

(4) A Partnership Unit represents a $100,000 original investment in Atlanta Marquis.

(5) The ratio of earnings to fixed charges is computed by dividing net income (loss) before interest expense and other fixed charges by total fixed charges, including interest expense, amortization of debt issuance costs and the portion of rent expense that is deemed to represent interest. The deficiency of earnings to fixed charges is largely the result of depreciation and amortization of $5,250,000, $6,608,000, $7,464,000 and

- $7,406,000 as of December 31, 1997, 1995, 1994 and 1993, respectively.
- (6) Total debt includes amounts due to Host Marriott under the Term Loan of $20,134,000 as of June 19, 1998 and $30,524,000, $23,634,000 and $26,334,000 as of December 31, 1997, 1994 and 1993, respectively, and $20,134,000 as of December 31, 1996 and 1995 under the Original Debt Service, Commitment and Interest Guarantees.

THE AMMLP MERGER

On December 31, 1997 limited partners holding a majority of the limited partner Units in AMMLP consented to the merger of AMMLP with and into Atlanta Marquis. The merger was part of a series of transactions. On December 31, 1997, AMMLP merged with and into Atlanta Marquis pursuant to an agreement and plan of merger (the "AMMLP Merger"). The requisite number of AMMLP limited partners approved the AMMLP Merger in accordance with the applicable provisions of the partnership agreement and the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act.

In conjunction with the AMMLP Merger and the refinancing of the mortgage debt, the following transactions occurred:

- . AMMLP was merged with and into Atlanta Marquis. With the AMMLP Merger, the separate existence of AMMLP ceased and AMMLP limited partnership units ("Units") were converted on a one-for-one basis into Class A limited partnership new units ("Partnership Units"). AMMLP limited partners who held fractional interests in Units received the same interest in the Partnership Units.
- . On December 31, 1997, the General Partner made an initial capital contribution of $6 million to the Partnership. On January 30, 1998 the General Partner contributed an additional $69 million. In return for such additional capital contributions, the General Partner received a new Class B limited partnership interest in Atlanta Marquis entitling the General Partner to a 13.5% cumulative, compounding annual preferred return and priority return of such capital. The General Partner also surrendered its then existing Class B interest on distributions.
- . Partnership Class A limited partners will receive an annual return of 5% on their initial investment in AMMLP, ratably with a 5% return to the General Partner on its initial investment in AMMLP, after payment of the preferred return on the Class B interest. To the extent unpaid in any year, such return will accumulate and compound and be payable from sale or refinancing proceeds.
- . The General Partner caused the Partnership to contribute the Land to a subsidiary of Ivy Street Hotel Limited Partnership ("Ivy"), in return for a credit to the Partnership's capital account of $26.5 million (represented by a Class C limited partnership interest in Ivy) and a 10% cumulative, compounding annual preferred return and a priority return. The General Partner also caused the Partnership to reinvest the capital contributions received from the General Partner in Ivy (represented by a Class B partnership interest in Ivy) for a 13.5% cumulative, compounding annual preferred return and priority return of such capital.
- . To facilitate the refinancing of Ivy's mortgage debt, the Hotel and the Land were conveyed to a special purpose, bankruptcy remote entity, HMA Realty Limited Partnership ("HMA"). The sole general partner of HMA, with a 1% interest, is HMA-GP, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ivy. The sole limited partner, with a 99% interest, is Ivy. Accordingly, the new mortgage debt agreements were entered into by HMA.
- . Host Marriott waived its existing right to priority repayment of the $20.1 million in prior non-interest bearing Interest Guarantee advances to Ivy and restructured such advances as a loan with a 15-year term (interest only for the first five years) bearing interest at a rate of 9% per annum (the "Term Loan"). Payments are due monthly in arrears from cash available after payment of debt service on the New Mortgage Debt. Upon a sale of the Hotel, the Term Loan will accelerate and become due and payable.
- . The outstanding amount of the Interest Guarantee of $10.4 million and related interest was repaid to Host Marriott.
- . The $30 million Principal Guarantee provided by Host Marriott was eliminated.
- . The Partnership distributed funds to Class A limited partners of approximately $5,000 per Partnership Unit. This distribution represented the excess of the Partnership's reserve after payment of a majority of the transaction costs related to the Mortgage Debt refinancing.

AMMLP's partnership agreement was amended (the "AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement") as a result of the AMMLP Merger to incorporate the following revisions: (i) a revised provision regarding a sale of the Hotel to permit Atlanta Marquis to sell the Hotel to an unaffiliated third party without the consent of the limited partners; (ii) a revised provision limiting the voting rights of the General Partner and its affiliates to permit the General Partner and its affiliates to have full voting rights with respect to all Partnership Units currently held by or acquired by the General Partner and its affiliates; (iii) extinguishment of the original Class B limited partner interest held by the General Partner and replacement of it with a new Class B interest which is entitled to a 13.5% cumulative, compounded annual return; (iv) addition of a mechanism that allows the Class B limited partner to contribute up to an additional $20 million should the Hotel require additional funding (such contribution would also be entitled to the 13.5% return discussed above); (v) a revised right of removal of the General Partner clause so that an affirmative vote of 66 2/3% would be needed to effect a removal of the General Partner and; (vi) revisions to the provisions for allocations and distributions (see Item 8 "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data" below). As a result of the approval of the AMMLP Merger, the AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement became effective December 31, 1997.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Revenues represent sales generated by the Partnership's hotel. Total hotel revenues less hotel property-level costs and expenses equals house profit which reflects the net revenues flowing to the Partnership as property owner. As discussed below, the Partnership previously recorded only the house profit generated by the Partnership's hotel as revenues.

The Partnership adopted EITF 97-2 which requires that the Partnership include property-level revenues and operating costs and expenses in the statement of operations. The Partnership has given retroactive effect to the adoption of EITF 97-2 in the accompanying statement of operations.

First Two Quarters 1998 Compared to First Two Quarters 1997

Revenues. Partnership revenues for the first two quarters 1998 decreased 4%, or $1.8 million, to $42.0 million, when compared to the same period in 1997 due to decreases in room and food and beverage sales. Room sales decreased 3%, or $801,000, to $27.0 million for the first two quarters 1998, when compared to the same period in 1997. Food and beverage sales decreased 7%, or $1.0 million, to $12.3 million for the first two quarters 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997. The decrease in food and beverage sales is primarily due to lower occupancy levels at the Hotel for the first two quarters 1998 as compared to the same period in 1997. Room sales decreased due to a 3% decrease in REVPAR for the first two quarters 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997. REVPAR, or revenue per available room, represents the combination of the average daily room rate charged and the average daily occupancy achieved and is a commonly used indicator of hotel performance. (although it is not a GAAP, or generally accepted accounting principles, measure of revenue). REVPAR decreased for the first two quarters 1998 due to a 5.4 percentage point decrease in average occupancy to 69%, respectively, when compared to the same period in 1997. The decrease in occupancy was partially offset by a 5%, or $6, increase in average room rate to $139 for the first two quarters 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997. The increase in average room rate is due to a shift in group mix to higher-rated group business. The decrease in average occupancy is primarily due to a decrease in the number of city-wide conventions in the first two quarters of 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997. Additional supply added to the Atlanta suburbs has also impacted 1998 occupancy levels.

Operating Costs and Expenses. For first two quarters 1998, operating costs and expenses decreased 6%, or $1.9 million, to $29.1 million when compared to the same periods in 1997, primarily due to decreases in hotel property-level costs and expenses and incentive management fees. For the first two quarters 1998 hotel property-level costs and expenses decreased 3%, or $694,000, to $22.9 million when compared to the same period in 1997 primarily because of lower occupancy levels and lower sales at the hotel. For the first two quarters 1998, $90,000 of incentive management fees were earned as compared to $2.0 million for 1997. Incentive management fees decreased due to an increase in Owner's Priority. Pursuant to the new management agreement, effective January 3, 1998, no incentive management fees are payable to the Manager with respect to the first $29.7 million of operating profit. Thereafter, the Manager will receive 20% of the profit in excess of such figure. As a percentage of revenues, operating costs and expenses represented 69% and 71% of revenues for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and expenses discussed above, operating profit increased 1%, or $89,000, to $12.9 million for the first two quarters 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997.

Interest Expense. Interest expense decreased 27%, or $2.9 million, to $8.0 million for the first two quarters 1998, when compared to the same period in 1997. The decrease is primarily due to the refinancing of the mortgage debt on February 2, 1998. On that date, HMA obtained new 12-year first mortgage financing of $164 million (the "Mortgage Debt") which, together with $35 million from the additional $69 million capital contributed by the General Partner, was used to pay the $199 million maturing mortgage debt. The Mortgage Debt bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.4% and required monthly principal and interest payments based on a 25-year amortization schedule. The prior mortgage debt bore interest at a fixed rate of 10.3%.

Net Income Before Extraordinary Items. Net income before extraordinary items increased 119%, or $2.8 million, to $5.1 million for the first two quarters 1998 when compared to the same period in 1997. The increase is primarily due to decreases in incentive management fees and interest expense.

Extraordinary Items. Pursuant to the terms of the new management agreement, all unpaid incentive management fees accrued through December 31, 1997 amounting to $4.2 million were forgiven by the Manager. During the first two quarters 1998, the Partnership recorded an extraordinary gain in conjunction with the write off. In addition, the Partnership recorded a $19,000 extraordinary gain on extinguishment of debt during the first two quarters 1998.

1997 Compared to 1996:

Revenues. Partnership revenues for 1997 decreased 4% to $85.4 million from $88.5 million in 1996. The decrease in revenues is primarily due to a 2% decrease in REVPAR or revenue per available room. REVPAR decreased due to a 3% decrease in average room rate to approximately $127 partially offset by a 1.2 percentage point increase in average occupancy to 69.8. These results are primarily due to the impact of the 1996 summer Olympic Games. In 1996, the Hotel was able to drive up the average room rate throughout the year as room rates throughout the Atlanta market were high. Occupancy levels, however, were more directly tied to the timing of the Olympic Games. While occupancy levels were high during the course of the Olympic Games, there was a significant decline in demand in the months immediately prior to and subsequent to the Olympic Games.

No new full-service hotels opened in the Atlanta market in 1997 and none are expected to open in 1998. However, during 1997, 38 new limited service hotels opened thus adding 3,422 new rooms and 13 more properties containing a total of 1,498 rooms are expected to open in 1998 in the Atlanta suburbs. These additions did not have and are not expected to have a significant impact on the Hotel's revenues as these hotels target a significantly different market segment. Construction has been started on a 320-room Doubletree guest suite hotel which is expected to open in mid-1999. The number of city-wide conventions is expected to be down only slightly, however, roomnights associated with these conventions are expected to be down by 80,000. The Hotel's strategy to mitigate the impact of this will be to continue to focus on customer service, to work closely with the Atlanta Convention and Visitors Bureau to generate short term business for 1998 and to put into effect the marketing plan developed with the other Atlanta Marriott products targeting leisure weekend and summer customers.

Operating Costs and Expenses. In 1997, operating costs and expenses decreased $2.2 million to $61.5 million primarily due to decreases in hotel property-level costs and expenses and in incentive management fees.

In 1997, hotel property-level costs and expenses decreased by $884,000 when compared to 1996, primarily due to decreased costs associated with the decreases in revenues discussed above. In 1997, $1.2 million of incentive management fees were earned as compared to $2.0 million earned in 1996. The decrease in incentive management fees earned was the result of decreased Hotel operating results. As a percentage of revenues, operating costs and expenses represented 34% of revenues for 1997 and 36% in 1996.

Operating Profit. In 1997, operating profit decreased $849,000 to $23.9 million primarily due to the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above. As a percentage of total revenues, operating profit represented 66% in 1997 and 64% in 1996.

Interest Expense. In 1997, interest expense increased $2.5 million to $25.4 million primarily due to a 2.0 percentage point increase in the interest rate charged on the mortgage debt for the period from the Maturity Date through the New Maturity Date coupled with financing costs of $900,000 incurred in connection with the extension of the maturity date of the Mortgage Debt.

Net Income (Loss). In 1997, the Partnership had a net loss of $569,000, a decrease of $3.1 million over 1996's net income of $2.5 million. This decrease was primarily due to lower Hotel revenues and an increase in the Partnership's interest expense, partially offset by a decrease in incentive management fees.

1996 Compared to 1995:

Revenues. Partnership revenues for 1996 increased 9% to $88.5 million from $81.2 million in 1995. The increase in revenues is the result of a 9% increase in REVPAR. REVPAR increased due to a 14% increase in average room rate to approximately $132 partially offset by a 3.0 percentage point decrease in average occupancy to the high-60's. These changes in average room rate and average occupancy are primarily due to the impact on the city of the 17-day Centennial Olympic Games. The increase in average room rate was due to an increase in room rates throughout the Atlanta market. The decline in average occupancy was due to a decline in city-wide demand for the months prior to and immediately after the Olympics. During the Olympic Games, the Hotel hosted the "Olympic Family" which was comprised of the International Olympic Committee, the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games and federations from each of the participating countries.

Operating Costs and Expenses. In 1996, operating costs and expenses increased $4.3 million to $63.7 million. The increase was primarily due to the changes in the following:

Total Hotel Property-Level Costs and Expenses. In 1996, total hotel property level costs and expenses increased $3.5 million, or 8%, when compared to 1995 due to higher costs associated with the increased revenues discussed above.

Depreciation. Depreciation decreased $1.1 million, or 16%, in 1996 when compared to 1995 due to a portion of the Hotel's furniture and equipment becoming fully depreciated in 1995.

Incentive Management Fees. In 1996, $2.0 million of incentive management fees were earned as compared to $1.0 million earned in 1995. The increase in incentive management fees earned was the result of improved Hotel operating results resulting in certain cash flow priorities having been met.

Equipment Rent and Other. Equipment rent and other increased $460,000 due to the inclusion of a property tax credit in 1995 results which did not occur in 1996.

As a percentage of revenues, operating costs and expenses represented 36% of revenues for 1996 and 38% in 1995.

Operating Profit. In 1996, operating profit increased $3.0 million to $24.8 million primarily due to the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above. As a percentage of total revenues, operating profit represented 64% in 1996 and 63% in 1995.

Net Income (Loss). In 1996, the Partnership had a net income of $2.5 million, an increase of $3.0 million over 1995's net loss of $413,000. This increase was primarily due to higher Hotel revenues.

Inflation

The rate of inflation has been relatively low and accordingly has not had a significant impact on the Partnership's operating results. However, the Hotel's room rates and occupancy levels are sensitive to inflation. The Manager is generally able to pass through increased costs to customers through higher room rates.

CAPITAL RESOURCES AND LIQUIDITY

AMMLP's financing needs have been historically funded through loan agreements with independent financial institutions. As a result of the successful refinancing of the Partnership's Mortgage Debt, the General Partner believes that the Partnership will have sufficient capital resources and liquidity to conduct its operations in the ordinary course of business.

Mortgage Debt

On February 2, 1998, the mortgage debt was successfully refinanced with a third party lender. The Partnership's debt now consists of a $164 million mortgage loan, which is nonrecourse to HMA, which bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.4% for a 12-year term. The mortgage loan requires payments of principal and interest based upon a 25-year amortization schedule. As part of the refinancing, HMA was required to establish certain reserves which are held by an agent of the lender including:

- . $3.6 million debt service reserve--This reserve is equal to three months of debt service.
- . $10.1 million deferred maintenance and capital expenditure reserve--This reserve will be expended for capital expenditures for repairs to the facade of the Hotel as well as various renewals and replacements and site improvements.
- . $7.5 million rooms refurbishment reserve--This reserve will be expended to refurbish the remaining 711 rooms and 16 suites at the Hotel which have not already been refurbished.
- . $1.3 million tax and insurance reserve--This reserve will be used to pay real estate tax and insurance premiums for the Hotel.

In addition, HMA advanced an additional $2.6 million to the Manager for working capital needs and used the remaining cash to pay transaction costs associated with the refinancing.

PRINCIPAL SOURCES AND USES OF CASH

General

The Partnership's principal source of cash is cash from Hotel operations. Its principal uses of cash are to pay debt service payments on the Partnership's mortgage debt, to make guarantee repayments, to fund the property improvement fund and to make cash distributions to the partners. Additionally, in 1998 the Partnership received cash through an equity infusion by the General Partner and utilized cash to pay financing costs incurred in connection with the refinancing of the Partnership's mortgage debt and to establish reserves required by the lender.

First Two Quarters 1998 Compared to First Two Quarters 1997

Total cash used in operating activities was $4.9 million for the first two quarters 1998 as compared to total cash provided by operations of $15.1 million for the first two quarters of 1997. In 1998, cash was used to pay accrued interest on the Partnership's debt. In addition, pursuant to the terms of the Mortgage Debt, the Partnership was required to establish with the lender a separate reserve account for payments of insurance premiums and real estate taxes for the mortgaged property as a result of the credit rating of Marriott International, Inc. Thus, the Partnership has transferred $2.2 million into the reserve through June 19, 1998. The reserve is included in restricted cash reserves and the resulting tax and insurance liability is included in accounts payable and accrued expenses in the accompanying balance sheet.

Cash used in investing activities was $4.8 million for the first two quarters 1998 as compared to $2.3 million for the first two quarters 1997. The increase in cash used in investing activities is primarily due to an advance of $2.6 million to the Manager for working capital needs.

Cash used in financing activities was $5.6 million for the first two quarters 1998. For the first two quarters 1997, no cash was provided by or used in financing activities. The increase in cash used in financing activities is primarily the result of the restructuring and refinancing transactions. During 1998, the Partnership acquired new mortgage debt financing of $164 million and received the remaining $69 million of the $75 million equity infusion from the General Partner. These proceeds were used as follows: to repay the $199.8 million of mortgage debt; to repay $10.4 million of the debt service guarantee and related interest outstanding under the Host Marriott interest guarantee; to establish $22.5 million of reserves required by the lender; and, to pay financing costs of $3.0 million. The Partnership made a cash distribution in February 1998 to the Class A limited partners of $2.7 million, or $5,000 per limited partner unit, from 1997 operations.

The General Partner believes that cash from Hotel operations and the reserves established in conjunction with the refinancing will continue to meet the short and long-term operational needs of the partnership.

Cash used in investing activities was $4.4 million, $4.5 million and $3.7 million for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. Contributions to the property improvement fund for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996, and 1995, were $3.9 million, $4.1 million, and $3.3 million, respectively. Property and equipment additions increased in 1997 due to increased expenditures at the Hotel associated with the first half of the rooms refurbishment completed in 1997.

Cash used in financing activities was $1.3 million, $1.0 million and $5.8 million for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. In 1997, the Partnership drew $10.4 million pursuant to the Interest Guarantee and received $6 million of the $75 million total equity infusion from the General Partner. The Partnership paid $28.5 million, $20.4 million and $20.4 million of interest on the mortgage debt for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. On the Maturity Date, the Partnership was required to pay $17.6 million representing the Deferred Interest on the Mortgage Debt. No guarantee repayments to Host Marriott were made in 1997 and 1996. The Partnership made a guarantee repayment of $3.5 million in 1995. No distributions to partners were made in 1997 as all cash flow was being reserved in anticipation of the Mortgage Debt maturity. Distributions to partners were $819,000 in 1996 and $2.3 million in 1995. Subsequent to year end, the Partnership made a cash distribution to the Class A limited partners of $2,648,562 ($5,000 per Partnership Unit).

Total cash provided from operations was $21.6 million, $9.9 million and $10.1 million for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. Partnership did not pay the interest payment of the Mortgage Debt which was due on January 10, 1998 until January 9, 1998. In both 1996 and 1995, the majority of the January interest payment was paid in December of the preceding year. This difference in the timing of the interest payments accounts for the difference in the total cash provided from operations.

The General Partner believes that cash from Hotel operations and the reserves established in conjunction with the refinancing will continue to meet the short and long-term operational needs of the Partnership. In addition, the General Partner believes the property improvement fund and the capital reserves established in conjunction with the refinancing will be adequate for the future capital repairs and replacement needs of the Hotel.

Capital Expenditures

The Partnership is required to maintain the Hotel in good repair and condition. The new management agreement provides for the establishment of a property improvement fund to cover the cost of non-routine repairs and maintenance and renewals and replacements to the Hotel's property and equipment. Contributions to the fund are 5% of Hotel gross sales. Annual contributions to the fund equaled 4% of gross Hotel sales through June 1995 and are 5% thereafter. Per the terms of the New Management Agreement, contributions to the property improvement fund will remain at 5%.

In 1997, the Hotel completed a $7.0 million refurbishment of approximately half its guest rooms which included the replacement of the carpeting, bedspreads, upholstery, drapes and other similar items and also the dressers, chairs, beds and other furniture. The refurbishment of the remaining 711 rooms and 16 suites began in mid-1998. This portion of the refurbishment will be funded from a reserve which was established by the Partnership with the lender on February 2, 1998. The facade repair project which entails a repair of the entire facade of the building is underway. The project is expected to cost $9.0 million and will be funded by the Partnership from a reserve which was also established with the lender in conjunction with the refinancing on the Maturity Date. The project is expected to be completed by mid-1999.

INFLATION

For the three fiscal years ended December 31, 1997 and the First Two Quarters 1998, the rate of inflation has been relatively low and, accordingly, has not had a significant impact to the Partnership's revenues and net income. The manager is generally able to pass through increased costs to customers through higher room rates. In 1997, the increase in average room rates at the Hotel exceeded those of direct competitors as well as the general level of inflation. The amount of the Partnership's interest expense under floating rate debt for a particular year will be affected by changes in short-term interest rates.

YEAR 2000 ISSUES

Over the last few years, Host Marriott Corporation, the parent company of the General Partner, has invested in implementing new accounting systems which are Year 2000 compliant. Accordingly, the General Partner believes that future costs associated with Year 2000 issues will be minimal and not material to the Partnership's financial statements.

However, the Partnership does rely upon accounting software used by the Manager of its property to obtain financial information. The General Partner believes that the manager has begun to implement changes to the property specific software to ensure the software will function properly in the Year 2000 and does not expect to incur significant costs related to these modifications.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

TO THE PARTNERS OF ATLANTA MARRIOTT MARQUIS II LIMITED PARTNERSHIP:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheet of Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership (a Delaware limited partnership) and Ivy Street Hotel Limited Partnership, its majority-owned subsidiary partnership, as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and the related consolidated statements of operations, changes in partners' deficit and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997. These financial statements are the responsibility of the General Partner's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership and subsidiary as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

As explained in Note 2 to the financial statements, the Partnership has given retroactive effect to the adoption of EITF 97-2 which required the Partnership to report gross hotel sales and operating expenses in its statement of operations.

ATLANTA MARRIOTT MARQUIS II LIMITED PARTNERSHIP AND SUBSIDIARY

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 1997 AND 1996

NOTE 1. THE PARTNERSHIP

Description of the Partnership

Atlanta Marriott Marquis Limited Partnership ("AMMLP"), a Delaware limited partnership, was formed on May 28, 1985 (the "Closing Date"), to (i) acquire an 80% general partnership interest in the Ivy Street Hotel Limited Partnership ("Ivy"), a partnership between John C. Portman, Jr. ("Portman") and Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott") that was formed to develop, own and operate the 1,671 room Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel (the "Hotel"), and (ii) purchase from Ivy the parcel of land (the "Land") on which the Hotel is located. The sole general partner of the Partnership, with a 1% interest, is Marriott Marquis Corporation (the "General Partner"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott. Marriott International, Inc. serves as the manager of the Hotel ("Marriott International" or the "Manager").

On the Closing Date, 530 Class A limited partnership interests of $100,000 per Unit ("Unit") were sold in a private placement. The General Partner made a capital contribution of $536,000 on May 28, 1985 for its 1% general partnership interest. In addition, the General Partner acquired a Class B limited partnership interest without making any additional capital contribution.

The Partnership purchased its 80% general partnership interest in Ivy from Host Marriott for a total price of $28.8 million. The Partnership also acquired the Land from Ivy for $10 million in a separate transaction. The Partnership subsequently leased the Land to Ivy under a 99-year lease with rentals based primarily on Hotel sales.

On July 9, 1997, Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership (the "Partnership") was formed in anticipation of the merger discussed below. The general partner of the Partnership is also Marriott Marquis Corporation. Prior to December 31, 1997, the Partnership did not engage in any active business and was organized solely to succeed AMMLP's interest in Ivy. Effective December 31, 1997, the Partnership succeeded AMMLP as the managing general partner of Ivy.

On December 31, 1997, AMMLP merged with and into the Partnership (the "Merger"). The Merger of AMMLP and AMMLP-II was treated as a reorganization of affiliated entities and AMMLP's basis in its assets and liabilities were carried over. In conjunction with the Merger, the following transactions occurred:

- . AMMLP was merged with and into the Partnership. With the Merger, the separate existence of AMMLP ceased and AMMLP limited partner units ("Units") were converted on a one-for-one basis into Partnership Class A limited partnership units ("Partnership Units"). AMMLP limited partners who held fractional interests in Units received the same interest in Partnership Units.
- . On December 31, 1997, the General Partner made an initial capital contribution of $6 million to the Partnership. Subsequent to year end, on January 30, 1998, the General Partner contributed an additional $69 million. In return for such additional capital contributions, the General Partner received a new Class B limited partnership interest in the Partnership entitling the General Partner to a 13.5% cumulative, compounding annual preferred return and priority return of such capital. The General Partner also surrendered its then existing Class B interest on distributions.
- . The Partnership Class A limited partners will receive an annual return of 5% on their initial investment in AMMLP, ratably with a 5% return to the General Partner on its initial investment in AMMLP, after payment of the preferred return on the Class B interest. To the extent unpaid in any year, such return will accumulate and compound and be payable from sale or refinancing proceeds.

AMMLP's partnership agreement was amended (the "AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement") as a result of the Merger to incorporate the following revisions:
(i) a revised provision regarding a sale of the Hotel to permit the Partnership to sell the Hotel to an unaffiliated third party without the consent of the limited partners; (ii) a revised provision limiting the voting rights of the General Partner and its affiliates to permit the General Partner and its affiliates to have full voting rights with respect to all Partnership Units currently held by or acquired by the General Partner and its affiliates; (iii) extinguishment of the original Class B limited partner interest held by the General Partner and replacement of it with a new Class B interest which is entitled to a 13.5% cumulative, compounded annual return; (iv) addition of a mechanism that allows the Class B limited partner to contribute up to an additional $20 million should the Hotel require additional funding (such contribution would also be entitled to the 13.5% return discussed above); (v) a revision of the right of removal of the General Partner clause so that an affirmative vote of 66 2/3% would be needed to effect a removal of the General Partner and; (v) revised provisions for allocations and distributions (see Note 8). As a result of the approval of the Merger, the AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement became effective December 31, 1997.

Partnership Allocations and Distributions

Ivy generally allocates operating income, gains and losses, deductions and cash available for distribution 80% to the Partnership and 20% to Portman. However, the first $1 million plus 5% of annual gross room sales of annual cash available for distribution from Ivy was paid to AMMLP unless Ivy exercised its option to repurchase the Land.

During 1990, AMMLP determined that the probability of collecting the minority interest receivable from Portman was remote. Thus, AMMLP wrote off this receivable which totaled $3,542,000 and began recording 100% of the losses of Ivy. In future years, if AMMLP-II records income, 100% of the income will be allocated to AMMLP-II until such excess income allocated to AMMLP-II equals the excess losses previously recorded by AMMLP. Thereafter, any income would be allocated 80% to AMMLP-II and 20% to Portman. As of December 31, 1997 and 1996, excess losses recognized by AMMLP and the Partnership were $621,000 and $50,000, respectively. AMMLP net losses, as defined, were generally allocated as follows:

(i) beginning in 1991 and continuing until the Class A limited partners and the General Partner had received sale or refinancing proceeds ("Capital Receipts") equal to their total cumulative capital contributions ("Original Capital"), 1% to the General Partner, 80% to the Class A limited partners and 19% to the Class B limited partner; and

(ii) thereafter, 1% to the General Partner, 65% to the Class A Limited Partners and 34% to the Class B Limited Partner.

These allocations could have been subject to certain special allocations of net profit or net loss to the General Partner required by Federal income tax regulations.

Cash Available for Distribution, as defined, generally was distributed as follows:

(i) beginning in 1991, and continuing until the Class A Limited Partners and the General Partner had received distributions of Capital Receipts equal to their Original Capital, 1% to the General Partner, 80% to the Class A Limited Partners and 19% to the Class B Limited Partner; and

(ii) thereafter, 1% to the General Partner, 65% to the Class A Limited Partners and 34% to the Class B Limited Partner. However, until the General Partner and the Class A Limited Partners had received a return of their Original Capital through distributions of Capital Receipts, the Class B Limited Partner will subordinate its cash distributions to an annual non-cumulative 10% return on Original Capital to the General Partner and the Class A Limited Partners.

Net profits, as defined, generally were allocated in the same ratio as Cash Available for Distribution. Excess net profits were then to be applied to offset prior net losses in excess of the partners' remaining invested capital. Notwithstanding the above allocations, the Partnership Agreement provided for specific allocation to the partners of gain realized and proceeds received by the Partnership upon sale, condemnation or other disposition of the Hotel or assets of the Partnership. In addition, the Partnership Agreement provided for specific allocations of any excess refinancing or land sale proceeds.

As discussed above, on December 31, 1997, the Partnership executed the AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement which provides for a change in the above allocations (see Note 8).

For financial reporting purposes, profits and losses are allocated among the partners based upon their stated interests in cash available for distribution.

NOTE 2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Accounting

The Partnership's records are maintained on the accrual basis of accounting, and its fiscal year coincides with the calendar year. The Partnership's financial statements consolidate the financial statements of Ivy, its majority-owned subsidiary partnership. All material intercompany transactions, including the land lease between the Partnership and Ivy described in Note 7, have been eliminated. All assets and liabilities of AMMLP have been carried over to the Partnership at their historical basis.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Revenues and Expenses

Revenues represent sales generated by the Partnership's hotel. Total hotel sales less hotel property-level costs and expenses equals house profit which reflects the net revenues flowing to the Partnership as property owner. As discussed below, the Partnership previously recorded only the house profit generated by the Partnership's hotel as revenues.

On November 20, 1997, the Emerging Issues Task Force ("EITF") of the Financial Accounting Standards Board reached a consensus on EITF 97-2 "Application of FASB Statement No. 94 and APB Opinion No. 16 to Physician Practice Management Entities and Certain Other Entities with Contractual Management Arrangements." EITF 97-2 addresses the circumstances in which a management entity may include the revenues and expenses of a managed entity in its financial statements.

The Partnership has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that EITF 97-2 requires that the Partnership include property-level revenues and operating costs and expenses in its statement of operations. The Partnership has given retroactive effect to the adoption of EITF 97-2 in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations. The adoption of EITF 97-2 increased both revenues and operating costs and expenses by $48.9 million in 1997, $49.8 million in 1996 and $46.3 million in 1995. There was no impact on operating profit or net income related to the adoption of EITF 97-2.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment is recorded at cost which includes interest, rent and real estate taxes incurred during development. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the following estimated useful lives of the assets:

Building and improvements.....	50 years
Furniture and equipment.....	3 to 20 years

All land, property and equipment is pledged as security for the mortgage debt described in Note 5.

The Partnership assesses impairment of its real estate property based on whether estimated undiscounted future cash flows for the property will be less than its net book value. If the property is impaired, its basis is adjusted to fair market value.

Deferred Financing Costs

Financing costs incurred in connection with obtaining the mortgage debt have been deferred and are being amortized using the straight-line method, which approximates the effective interest rate method, over three to ten years. A portion of the deferred financing costs totaling $4,249,000 were fully amortized as of July 10, 1997. Additional financing costs of $104,000 were incurred in 1997 in connection with the refinancing of the Partnership's mortgage debt. Accumulated amortization of the deferred financing costs totaled $4,413,000 and $4,090,000 at December 31, 1997 and 1996, respectively. This amount includes amortization of deferred financing costs for both Ivy and the Partnership. Of the total, the Partnership has accumulated amortization of $164,000 and $151,000 at December 31, 1997 and 1996, respectively.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Partnership considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less at date of purchase to be cash equivalents.

Income Taxes

Provision for Federal and state income taxes has not been made in the accompanying financial statements since the Partnership does not pay income taxes but rather allocates its profits and losses to the individual partners. There are significant differences between the net income/loss reported in these financial statements and the net income/loss determined for income tax purposes. These differences are due primarily to the use, for tax purposes, of accelerated depreciation methods and shorter depreciable lives for the assets, the timing of the recognition of incentive management fee expense and the treatment of the minority interest receivable. As a result of these differences, the (deficit)/excess of the tax basis in net Partnership liabilities and the net liabilities reported in the accompanying financial statements is $(90,642,000) and $72,111,000 as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, respectively. For tax purposes, the assets of the Partnership were stepped up to fair market value on December 31, 1997 when the General Partner made an initial capital contribution of $6.0 million to the Partnership for a Class B limited partnership interest in the Partnership.

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards

In 1996, AMMLP adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 121 "Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to Be Disposed Of." Adoption of SFAS No. 121 did not have an effect on its financial statements.

NOTE 3. PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENT

Property and equipment consists of the following as of December 31 (in thousands):

	1997	1996
	-----	-----
Leased land acquisition costs and land.....	$ 12,617	$ 12,617
Building and improvements.....	182,629	182,597
Furniture and equipment.....	42,621	34,142
	-----	-----
	237,867	229,356
Less accumulated depreciation.....	(72,495)	(67,245)
	-----	-----
	$165,372	$162,111
	=====	=====

For financial reporting purposes the Land is carried at its historical purchase cost of $10 million as required by generally accepted accounting principles.

NOTE 4. ESTIMATED FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The estimated fair values of financial instruments are shown below. The fair values of financial instruments not included in this table are estimated to be equal to their carrying amounts (in thousands):

	AS OF DECEMBER 31, 1997		AS OF DECEMBER 31, 1996
	ESTIMATED CARRYING AMOUNT	FAIR VALUE	ESTIMATED CARRYING AMOUNT	FAIR VALUE
Mortgage debt.....	$ 199,019	$ 199,019	$ 215,574	$ 215,574
Due to Host Marriott under Original Debt Service Guarantee and Commitment and Interest Guarantee...	30,524	30,524	20,134	14,300
Incentive management fees due to Marriott International, Inc.....	4,155	--	2,987	--

The 1997 and 1996 estimated fair value of the mortgage debt is stated at its carrying value as it was repaid on February 2, 1998. The amounts held in Due to Host Marriott under original debt service and commitment consist of the interest guarantee in the amount of $10,390,000 and the original debt service commitment in the amount of $20,134,000. The estimated fair value of the interest guarantee is the carrying value as it was also repaid on February 2, 1998. The estimated fair value of the original debt service commitment is its carrying value as the obligation earns interest at 9% as of February 2, 1998. The estimated fair value of incentive management fees due to Marriott International is zero. As part of the new management agreement effective January 3, 1998, all accrued incentive management fees were waived by the Manager and the Partnership's accrued liability was written off to income in 1998.

NOTE 5. MORTGAGE DEBT

As of December 31, 1996, the AMMLP's mortgage debt consisted of a total of $215,574,000 in nonrecourse mortgage notes (the "Mortgage Debt"). Through July 10, 1997 (the "Maturity Date"), interest accrued on the Mortgage Debt at a fixed rate of 10.3%. Interest only was payable semiannually in arrears. The cash payment rate was 10.17%. The difference between the cash payment rate and the accrual rate (the "Deferred Interest") was added to the balance of the Mortgage Debt. The cumulative Deferred Interest added to the Mortgage Debt balance amounted to $17.6 million and $16.5 million at July 10, 1997 and December 31, 1996, respectively. On the Maturity Date, the Mortgage Debt matured, at which time AMMLP and Ivy entered into a letter agreement (the "Letter Agreement") with the lender which effectively extended the maturity of the Mortgage Debt until February 2, 1998 (the "New Maturity Date"). On the Maturity Date, AMMLP and Ivy were required to pay $17.6 million representing the Deferred Interest on the Mortgage Debt in addition to the scheduled interest payment of $ 10.1 million. As a result, the Mortgage Debt balance outstanding was reduced to $ 199,019,000.

The payment of Deferred Interest was funded from $7.2 million of Ivy cash reserves established by the General Partner in anticipation of the Mortgage Debt maturity and $10.4 million drawn pursuant to the Host Marriott interest guarantee (the "Interest Guarantee"). Host Marriott had agreed to advance up to $50 million to cover interest and principal shortfalls. Had cash flow from operations been insufficient to fully fund interest due, $20 million was available under the Interest Guarantee through the Maturity Date. The remaining $30 million was available under the Principal Guarantee. Prior to the payment of Deferred Interest in the amount of $10.4 million on the Maturity Date, there were no amounts outstanding under either the Principal Guarantee or the Interest Guarantee. In conjunction with the extension, Host Marriott reaffirmed its obligations pursuant to these guarantees through the New Maturity Date. The Principal Guarantee was available in case of a sale, refinancing or acceleration of the principal amount of the underlying notes resulting from an Event of Default, as defined. To the extent the Interest Guarantee was not used, it became available as a Principal Guarantee.

During the term of the Letter Agreement, the Mortgage Debt continued to be nonrecourse, and accrued interest at 12.3% with interest payments due on January 10 and February 2, 1998. Additionally, all funds remitted by the Manager during the term of the extension were held for the benefit of the lender. In conjunction with the Letter Agreement, Ivy paid an extension fee of $500,000 as well as approximately $410,000 representing costs and expenses related to the transaction.

Host Marriott had guaranteed up to $33 million of the original debt (the "Original Debt Service Guarantee" and the "Commitment") under which Host Marriott was obligated to make certain required debt service payments and restore any cash flow deficits to the extent that Partnership cash flow, as defined, was insufficient. Pursuant to the terms of the Mortgage Debt, the Commitment was modified to fund only certain furniture, fixtures and equipment expenditures and ground rent shortfalls. Any interest, principal or guarantee loans made at a time when the Commitment was not fully funded reduced, dollar for dollar, but not below zero, the remaining unfunded amount of the Commitment. Advances under the Principal Guarantee, Interest Guarantee and Original Debt Service Guarantee and Commitment up to cumulative fundings of $33 million did not bear interest. Amounts advanced in excess of $33 million accrued interest at 1% over the prime rate. As of December 31, 1997, cumulative fundings equaled $41.6 million, exceeding the $33 million by $8.6 million. The excess fundings accrued interest until they were repaid subsequent to year-end. Total accrued interest on the cumulative advances for the period from the Maturity Date through December 31, 1997 equaled $398,000. As of December 31, 1997 and 1996, Ivy had $20.1 million due to Host Marriott under the Commitment.

On March 24, 1994, the note holders of the Mortgage Debt voted to accept the Manager as a back-up guarantor and on December 21, 1994, the agreement was finalized. The Manager, as back-up guarantor, was required to perform the obligations under the guarantees in the event that Host Marriott failed to do so. In conjunction with the extension, the Manager reaffirmed its obligations pursuant to these guarantees through the New Maturity Date.

Subsequent to year-end, the Mortgage Debt was refinanced (see Note 8).

NOTE 6. HOTEL MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT

Ivy entered into a hotel management agreement (the "Management Agreement") with the Manager to manage the Hotel for a term of 25 years, renewable at Ivy's or the Manager's option for five additional 10-year terms. The Manager was entitled to compensation for its services in the form of a base management fee equal to 3% of gross sales. Base management fees paid in 1997, 1996 and 1995 were $2,562,000, $2,654,000 and $2,435,000, respectively.

In addition, the Manager earned an incentive management fee equal to 50% of assumed net cash flow of the Hotel, as defined. However, once total cumulative incentive management fees reached an amount equal to or greater than 20% of total cumulative Hotel profit, as defined, the Manager earned an incentive management fee equal to the average of (i) 50% of assumed net cash flow and (ii) 20% of Hotel profit. The incentive management fee was paid out of cash flow available for incentive management fees, as defined, and was subordinated to the Mortgage Debt, guarantee repayments and rent under the Land lease. Any incentive management fees earned but not paid were deferred without interest and paid out of the first cash flow available for the incentive management fee. During 1997 and 1996, $1,167,000 and $2,018,000, respectively, in incentive management fees had been earned. Through December 31, 1997, no incentive management fees had ever been paid. Deferred incentive management fees as of December 31, 1997 and 1996 were $4,154,000 and $2,987,000, respectively, and are included in Due to Marriott International, Inc. in the accompanying consolidated balance sheet. Subsequent to year-end, a new management agreement was entered into. As part of this new agreement, all accrued incentive management fees were waived by the Manager (see Note 8) and the Partnership's accrued liability was written off in 1998 (see Note 8).

Pursuant to the terms of the Management Agreement, the Manager is required to furnish the Hotel with certain services ("Chain Services") which are generally provided on a central or regional basis to all domestic full-service hotels managed, owned or leased by the Manager or its subsidiaries. Chain Services include central training, advertising and promotion, a national reservation system, computerized payroll and accounting services and such additional services as needed which may be more efficiently performed on a centralized basis. Costs and expenses incurred in providing such services are allocated among all hotels in the Manager's full-service hotel system. In addition, the Hotel also participates in the Manager's Marriott Rewards Program ("MRP"). This program succeeded the Honored Guest Awards Program. The cost of this program is charged to all hotels in the Manager's hotel system. The total amount of Chain Services and MRP costs allocated to the Hotel were $2,685,000 in 1997, $1,968,000 in 1996 and $2,431,000 in 1995.

Pursuant to the terms of the Management Agreement, the Partnership is required to provide the Manager with working capital and supplies to meet the operating needs of the Hotel. The Manager converts cash advanced by the Partnership into other forms of working capital consisting primarily of operating cash, inventories, and trade receivables and payables which are maintained and controlled by the Manager. Upon termination of the Management Agreement, the working capital and supplies will be returned to the Partnership. As of December 31, 1997 and 1996, $3,077,000 has been advanced to the Manager for working capital and supplies which is included in Due from Marriott International, Inc. in the accompanying consolidated balance sheet. The supplies advanced to the Manager are recorded at their estimated net realizable value. At December 31, 1997 and 1996, accumulated amortization related to the revaluation of these supplies totaled $177,000. Subsequent to year-end, an additional $2,639,000 was advanced to the Manager for working capital needs at the Hotel (see Note 8).

The Partnership is required to maintain the Hotel in good repair and condition. Pursuant to the Agreement, annual contributions to a property improvement fund provide for the replacement of furniture, fixtures and equipment. Annual contributions to the fund equaled 4% of gross Hotel sales through June 1995 and 5% thereafter. Total contributions to the property improvement fund for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996, and 1995 were $3,929,000, $4,122,000 and $3,302,000, respectively.

NOTE 7. LAND LEASE

On the Closing Date, AMMLP acquired the Land on which the Hotel is located from Ivy for $10 million. AMMLP has leased the Land to Ivy for a period of 99 years. Annual rent was equal to 5% of annual gross room sales from the Hotel. Ivy had an option to repurchase the Land at any time through 1999. Through 1995, the option price was $25 million and for the ensuing four years the option price will be adjusted for changes in the Consumer Price Index. At December 31, 1997 and 1996, the option price was $26,500,000 and $25,825,000, respectively. Total rentals under the lease, which were eliminated in consolidation, were $2,705,000 in 1997, $2,806,000 in 1996 and $2,526,000 in 1995.

Subsequent to year-end, the Land lease was terminated (see Note 8) because the Land was contributed to a subsidiary of Ivy.

NOTE 8. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Bankruptcy Remote Entity

To facilitate the refinancing of AMMLP's Mortgage Debt, on January 29, 1998 the Hotel and the Land were conveyed to a special purpose, bankruptcy remote entity, HMA Realty Limited Partnership ("HMA"). The sole general partner of HMA with a 1% interest, is HMA-GP, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ivy. The sole limited partner, with a 99% interest, is Ivy.

Mortgage Debt

On the New Maturity Date, the following transactions occurred:

- . HMA obtained new 12-year first mortgage financing of $164 million (the "New Mortgage Debt") which, together with $35 million from the additional $69 million capital contributed by the General Partner were used to pay the maturing Mortgage Debt. The New Mortgage Debt is nonrecourse to HMA, bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.4% and will require monthly payments of principal and interest calculated to fully amortize the loan over 25 years resulting in annual debt service of $14.1 million for 1998 and $14.4 million annually until the end of the 12-year term.

- . Host Marriott waived its existing right to priority repayment of the $20.1 million in prior non-interest bearing Interest Guarantee advances to Ivy and restructured such advances as a loan with a 15 year term (interest only for the first five years) bearing interest at a rate of 9% per annum (the "Term Loan"). Payments are due monthly in arrears from cash available after payment of debt service on the New Mortgage Debt. Upon a sale of the Hotel, the Term Loan will accelerate and become due and payable.
- . The outstanding amount of the Interest Guarantee of $10.4 million and related interest was repaid to Host Marriott.
- . The $30 million Principal Guarantee provided by Host Marriott was eliminated.
- . The Partnership distributed funds to Class A limited partners of approximately $5,000 per Partnership Unit. This distribution represented the excess of the Partnership's reserve after payment of a majority of the transaction costs related to the Mortgage Debt refinancing.

As part of the refinancing, HMA was required to establish certain reserves which are held by an agent of the lender including:

- . $3.6 million debt service reserve--This reserve is equal to three months of debt service.
- . $10.1 million deferred maintenance and capital expenditure reserve--This reserve will be expended for capital expenditures for repairs to the facade of the Hotel as well as various renewals and replacements and site improvements.
- . $7.5 million rooms refurbishment reserve--This reserve will be expended to refurbish the remaining 711 rooms and 16 suites at the Hotel which have not already been refurbished.
- . $1.3 million tax and insurance reserve--This reserve will be used to pay real estate tax and insurance premiums for the Hotel.

In addition, HMA advanced an additional $2,639,000 to the Manager for working capital needs and used the remaining cash to pay transaction costs associated with the refinancing.

New Management Agreement

To facilitate the refinancing effective January 3, 1998, a new management agreement (the "New Management Agreement") was entered into by HMA and the Manager. The New Agreement expires on July 1, 2010 and is renewable at the Manager's option for five additional 10-year terms. Pursuant to the terms of the New Management Agreement, no incentive management fees are payable to the Manager with respect to the first $29.7 million of operating profit (the "Owner's Priority"). Thereafter, the Manager will receive 20% of the profit in excess of such Owner's Priority. The amount of the Owner's Priority will not be reduced but may be increased to take into account additional capital contributions by the General Partner or its affiliates. As part of the New Management Agreement, all accrued incentive management fees amounting to $4.5 million were waived by the Manager and the Partnership's accrued liability was written off in 1998.

Land Lease

As part of the Merger transactions, the Partnership contributed the Land to a subsidiary of Ivy. This transaction terminated the Land lease and resulted in cessation of Land lease payments from Ivy to the Partnership. The Partnership received a credit to its capital account in Ivy of $26.5 million in consideration of the Land contribution. For financial reporting purposes the Land will continue to be carried at its historical purchase cost of $10 million as required by generally accepted accounting principles.

New Partnership Agreement

AMMLP's partnership agreement was amended (the "AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement") as a result of the Merger to incorporate the following revisions:

(i) a revised provision regarding a sale of the Hotel to permit the Partnership to sell the Hotel to an unaffiliated third party without the consent of the limited partners;

(ii) a revised provision limiting the voting rights of the General Partner and its affiliates to permit the General Partner and its affiliates to have full voting rights with respect to all Partnership Units currently held by or acquired by the General Partner and its affiliates;

(iii) extinguishment of the original Class B limited partner interest held by the General Partner and replacement of it with a new Class B interest which is entitled to a 13.5% cumulative, compounded annual return;

(iv) addition of a mechanism that allows the Class B limited partner to contribute up to an additional $20 million should the Hotel require additional funding (such contribution would also be entitled to the 13.5% return discussed above);

(v) a revised right of removal of the General Partner clause so that an affirmative vote of 66 2/3% would be needed to effect a removal of the General Partner and;

(vi) a revision of AMMLP's allocations and distributions such that Partnership cash available for distribution is generally allocated as follows:

(a) to the General Partner, until the General Partner has received a 13.5% cumulative compounded annual return on its Class B invested capital,

(b) to the General Partner and Class A limited partners, until the General Partner and the Class A limited partners have received a non-cumulative, non-compounded annual return of 5% on their initial investment in AMMLP-II, and

(c) thereafter, in proportion to total invested capital through completion of the Restructuring Transactions of approximately 41% to limited partners and 59% to the General Partner; and

(vii) a revision of AMMLP's allocations and distributions such that Partnership sale or refinancing proceeds are generally allocated as follows:

(a) to the General Partner, until the General Partner has received a 13.5% cumulative compounded annual return on its Class B invested capital,

(b) to the General Partner and Class A limited partners, until the General Partner and the Class A limited partners have received a non-cumulative, non-compounded annual return of 5% on their initial investment in AMMLP-II,

(c) to the General Partner, until its Class B invested capital of up to $75 million has been fully returned, taking into account all distributions to such Partners following the effective date of the Restructuring Transactions (other than the approximately $5,000 per Partnership Unit distributed as part of the Restructuring Transactions),

(d) to the General Partner and Class A limited partners until they have received a cumulative, compounded return on their original invested capital of 5% per annum from the effective date of the Restructuring Transactions,

(e) to the General Partner and Class A limited partners, until such partners' original invested capital of $536,000 and $53,000,000, respectively, has been fully returned, and

(f) thereafter, in proportion to total invested capital through completion of the Restructuring Transactions of approximately 41% to limited partners and 59% to the General Partner.

As a result of the approval of the Merger, the AMMLP-II Partnership Agreement became effective December 31, 1997.

Ivy Partnership Agreement

In conjunction with the Merger transactions, the Ivy partnership agreement was amended to incorporate the following revisions: (i) provide that the $75 million contributed by the General Partner of the Partnership to Ivy will be entitled to receive an annual preferred return equal to 13.5% compounding to the extent unpaid; (ii) provide that the Land, after contribution by the Partnership to Ivy at an agreed upon value of $26.5 million, will be entitled to receive an annual compounding preferred return equal to 10%, after payment of the 13.5% return described above; and (iii) allows the Partnership the unilateral right, as managing general partner of Ivy, to make most major decisions on behalf of Ivy, including, without limitation, the sale or other disposition of the Hotel, except where such disposition is to a party related to Host Marriott or an affiliate of Host Marriott.

ATLANTA MARRIOTT MARQUIS II LIMITED PARTNERSHIP AND SUBSIDIARIES

1. The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared by the Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership (the "Partnership" and "AMMLP-II") without audit. Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles have been condensed or omitted from the accompanying statements. The Partnership believes the disclosures made are adequate to make the information presented not misleading. However, the condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the Partnership's consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in the Partnership's Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 1997.

In the opinion of the Partnership, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements reflect all adjustments (which include only normal recurring adjustments) necessary to present fairly the financial position of the Partnership as of June 19, 1998, the results of operations and cash flows for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997. Interim results are not necessarily indicative of fiscal year performance because of seasonal and short-term variations.

Through December 31, 1997, for financial reporting purposes the net income/(loss) of the Partnership was allocated 99% to the limited partners and 1% to Marriott Marquis Corporation (the "General Partner"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Host Marriott Corporation ("Host Marriott"). As reported in the Partnership's Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1997, Atlanta Marriott Marquis Limited Partnership's ("AMMLP") partnership agreement was amended as a result of the Merger to incorporate a revision of AMMLP's allocations and distributions such that Partnership net income is generally allocated (i) to the General Partner, until the General Partner has received a 13.5% cumulative compounded annual return on its Class B invested capital, (ii) to the General Partner and Class A limited partners, until the General Partner and the Class A limited partners have received a non-cumulative, non-compounded annual return of 5% on their initial investment in the Partnership, and (iii) thereafter, in proportion to total invested capital through completion of the merger transactions of approximately 41% to limited partners and 59% to the General Partner. Net losses are generally allocated in proportion to the partners capital accounts. Significant differences exist between the net income/(loss) for financial reporting purposes and the net income/(loss) reported for Federal income tax purposes. These differences are due primarily to the use, for income tax purposes, of accelerated depreciation methods, shorter depreciable lives for the assets, and differences in the timing of the recognition of 1997 incentive management fee expense.

Through December 31, 1997, AMMLP owned an 80% general partnership interest in Ivy Street Hotel Limited Partnership ("Ivy") which owned the Atlanta Marriott Marquis Hotel (the "Hotel"). The Partnership also owned the land (the "Land") on which the Hotel is located. On December 31, 1997 AMMLP merged (the "Merger") with and into the Partnership. The Merger of AMMLP and the Partnership was treated as a reorganization of affiliated entities and AMMLP's basis in its assets and liabilities were carried over. On January 29, 1998, the Hotel and the Land were conveyed to a special purpose, bankruptcy remote entity, HMA Realty Limited Partnership ("HMA"). The sole general partner of HMA with a 1% interest, is HMA-GP, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Ivy. The sole limited partner, with a 99% interest, is Ivy. The Partnership consolidates Ivy and HMA, and all significant intercompany transactions and balances between the Partnership, Ivy and HMA have been eliminated. In 1990, the Partnership determined that the probability of collecting the receivable from the minority partner in Ivy was remote. Thus, the Partnership wrote off this receivable and is now recording 100% of the income/(loss) of Ivy until excess income allocated to the Partnership equals the excess losses previously recorded by the Partnership.

2. Certain reclassifications were made to the prior year financial statements to conform to the 1998 presentation.

3. The Partnership's revenues represent gross sales generated by the Partnership's hotel. Total hotel sales less hotel property-level costs and expenses equals house profit which reflects the net revenues flowing to the Partnership as property owner. As discussed below, the Partnership previously recorded only the house profit generated by the Partnership's hotel properties as revenues,

On November 20, 1997, the Emerging Issues Task Force ("EITF") of the Financial Accounting Standards Board reached a consensus on EITF 97-2 "Application of FASB Statement No. 94 and APB Opinion No. 16 to Physician Practice Management Entities and Certain Other Entities with Contractual Management Arrangements." EITF 97-2 addresses the circumstances in which a management entity may include the revenues and expenses of a managed entity in its financial statements.

The Partnership has considered the impact of EITF 97-2 on its financial statements and has determined that EITF 97-2 requires that the Partnership include property-level revenues and operating costs and expenses in its statement of operations. The Partnership was required to apply EITF 97-2 on January 3, 1998 to the modified management agreement with Marriott International, Inc. The Partnership has given retroactive effect to the adoption of EITF 97-2 in the accompanying consolidated statement of operations. The adoption of EITF 97-2 increased both revenues and operating costs and expenses by $22.9 million and $23.6 million in first two quarters 1998 and 1997, respectively and will have no impact on operating profit or net income.

The statements of operations for the first and second quarter of 1998 included in the Partnership Form 10-Q filings did not reflect hotel sale and property-level expenses. These financial statements have been amended to conform to the presentation of sales and expenses in the financial statements included herein.

4. On February 2, 1998, HMA obtained new 12-year first mortgage financing of $164 million which, together with $35 million from the additional $69 million capital contributed by the General Partner, was used to pay the mortgage debt. The mortgage debt is nonrecourse to HMA, bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.4% and requires monthly payments of principal and interest calculated to fully amortize the loan over 25 years. Annual debt service on the new mortgage debt is $14.1 million for 1998 and $14.4 million annually until the end of the 12-year term.

5. To facilitate the refinancing, effective January 3, 1998, a new management agreement was entered into by HMA and the Manager. The new management agreement expires on July 1, 2010 and is renewable at the Manager's option for five additional 10-year terms. Pursuant to the terms of the new management agreement, no incentive management fees are payable to the Manager with respect to the first $29.7 million of operating profit (the "Owner's Priority"). Thereafter, the Manager will receive 20% of the profit in excess of such Owner's Priority. As part of the new management agreement, all accrued incentive management fees totaling $4.2 million were forgiven by the Manager. The Partnership recorded an extraordinary gain in conjunction with the forgiveness in the accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements.

6. Pursuant to the terms of the Mortgage Debt, HMA was required to establish with the lender a separate reserve account for payments of insurance premiums and real estate taxes for the mortgaged property as a result of the credit rating of Marriott International, Inc. Thus, the Partnership has transferred $2.2 million into the reserve through June 19, 1998. The reserve is included in restricted cash reserves and the resulting tax and insurance liability is included in accounts payable and accrued expenses in the accompanying balance sheet.

Additionally, HMA was required to establish the following reserves which are classified as restricted cash reserves in the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet and are held by the agent of the lender including:

- . $3.6 million debt service reserve--This reserve is equal to three months of debt service.
- . $10.1 million deferred maintenance and capital expenditure reserve--This reserve will be expended for capital expenditures for repairs to the facade of the Hotel as well as various renewals and replacements and site improvements.

ATLANTA MARRIOTT MARQUIS II LIMITED PARTNERSHIP AND SUBSIDIARIES

- . $7.5 million rooms refurbishment reserve--This reserve will be expended to refurbish the remaining 711 rooms and 16 suites at the Hotel which have not already been refurbished.

7. On April 17, 1998, Host Marriott, parent company of the General Partner of the Partnership, announced that its Board of Directors authorized Host Marriott to reorganize its business operations to qualify as a real estate investment trust ("REIT") to become effective as of January 1, 1999. As part of the REIT conversion, Host Marriott formed a new operating Partnership (the "Operating Partnership") and limited partners in certain Host Marriott full-service hotel partnerships and joint ventures, including the Atlanta Marriott Marquis II Limited Partnership, are expected to be given an opportunity to receive, on a tax-deferred basis, Operating Partnership units in the Operating Partnership in exchange for their current Partnership interests. The Operating Partnership units would be redeemable by the limited partner for freely traded Host Marriott shares (or the cash equivalent thereof) at any time after one year from the closing of the merger. In connection with the REIT conversion, the Operating Partnership filed a Registration Statement on Form S-4 with the Securities and Exchange Commission on June 2, 1998. Limited Partners will be able to vote on this Partnership's participation in the merger later this year through a consent solicitation.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

GENERAL

The following discussion and analysis addresses the results of operations of the Partnership for the First Two Quarters 1998 and the fiscal years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995.

Growth in the Partnership's total Hotel room sales, and thus rental income and hotel revenue, is primarily a function of average occupancy and average room rates, as well as control of hotel operating costs. In addition, due to the amount of meeting/convention business at the Hotel, food and beverage and golf and spa operations have a direct effect on the Partnership's rental income and hotel revenue. REVPAR, or revenue per available room, represents the combination of the average daily room rate charged and the average daily occupancy achieved and is a commonly used indicator of hotel performance. REVPAR does not include food and beverage or other ancillary revenues generated by the Hotel. REVPAR for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995 was $124, $113 and $104, respectively. Food and beverage sales increased to $40.4 million in 1997 from $38.4 million in 1996 from $33.5 million in 1995 due to increased group sales.

Hotel revenue for the period of November 25 through December 31, 1997 and net rental income from the Hotel rental and the airline equipment lease with Trans World Airline, Inc. (the "Equipment") are applied to debt service, property taxes, partnership administrative costs, Partnership funded capital expenditures and cash distributions to the partners.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

First Two Quarters 1998 Compared to First Two Quarters 1997

Hotel revenues. As discussed in Note 3 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, the Partnership converted its operating lease to a management agreement in connection with its debt refinancing. Revenues reflect hotel sales in 1998. Revenues reported for the first two quarters 1998 are not comparable to the Hotel Rentals reported for the first two quarters 1997. Prior to the Conversion, the Partnership recognized estimated annual hotel rental income on a straight-line basis throughout the year. The profits from the Hotel are seasonal and first and second quarter results are generally higher than the last two quarters of the year. Lease payments in excess of the income recognized by the Partnership were deferred and, to the extent not subject to possible future repayment to the Hotel lessee, were recognized as income during the remainder of the year. Pursuant to the terms of the Operating Lease, Annual Rental, as defined, was equal to the greater of Basic Rental (80% of Operating Profit, as defined) and Owner's Priority, as defined. Additionally, the Hotel tenant was required to pay taxes, make contributions equal to a percentage of Hotel sales to a property improvement fund (4.5% in 1997 and 5.5% thereafter) and pay rental on the second golf course.

Subsequent to the Conversion, the Partnership records revenues which represent sales generated by the Partnership's hotel. Hotel property-level costs and expenses reflect all property-level costs and expenses. To enhance comparability, revenues for the first two quarters of 1997 are discussed on a "pro forma" basis which assumes the Conversion occurred at the beginning of this period.

For the first two quarters 1998, compared to pro forma results, revenues increased $5.7 million or 9.6% from $59.4 million in first two quarters 1997 to $65.1 million in the first two quarters 1998 primarily due to increases in rooms revenues. For the year, REVPAR increased 10% over the same period of the prior year to approximately $171 due primarily to a 9% increase in the average room rate to approximately $214 coupled with a 1.1 percentage point increase in average occupancy to approximately 80%. Room sales and profit increased 10% and 9% respectively, due to strong demand in the leisure transient segment and improvements in the Hotel's rooms amenity package and guest services. With the increase in transient demand, the hotel increased its group average room rate by approximately 12% on a year-to-date basis compared to prior year.

Operating Costs and Expenses. Operating costs and expenses for the first two quarters of 1997 are discussed on a "pro forma" basis which assumes the Conversion occurred at the beginning of this period. Compared to pro forma results, operating costs and expenses increased $3.7 million from $42.8 million for the first two quarters 1997 to $46.5 million for the first two quarters 1998. The increase is primarily due to increases in hotel property-level costs and expenses. Prior to the Conversion, hotel property-level costs and expenses and incentive management fee expense was not a component of operating expense. Rather, hotel property-level costs and expenses was a deduction to arrive at hotel rental and accrued incentive management fee expense was deducted from the additional lease payments in excess of rental income that were deferred by the Partnership. Additionally, base management fees, though a component in the calculation of Operating Profit prior to the Conversion, were not a component of the Partnership's operating costs.

Compared to pro forma results, on a second quarter year-to-date basis, incentive management fees increased $179,000, or 10.8% from $1.7 million in 1997 to $1.8 million in 1998 due to the increase in hotel operations discussed above.

Compared to pro forma results, on a second quarter year-to-date basis, base management fees increased $171,000, or 9.6% from $1.8 million in 1997 to almost $2.0 million in 1998 due to the increase in hotel operations discussed above.

Depreciation. For the first two quarters 1998, depreciation decreased $254,000, or 7%, when compared to the same quarters in 1997 as the Partnership's original 10-year equipment became fully depreciated during 1997.

Interest Expense. On November 25, 1997 the Partnership refinanced its $160 million mortgage debt with $182.7 million of debt. The increase in debt along with an increase in the weighted average interest rate from 8.3% in the first two quarters 1997 to 9.8% in the first two quarters 1998 resulted in an increase in interest expense of approximately $2.0 million, or 30%, from $6.8 million to $8.8 million. For the first two quarters 1998, the weighted average interest rate increased from 8.3% in 1997 to 9.8% in 1998.

Interest Income and Other. Interest income and other includes $132,000 for the first two quarters which represents payments made to the Partnership by Marriott Vacation Club International ("MVCI") for the rental of a gallery and marketing desk in the Hotel's lobby. For the first two quarters 1997, $140,000 was recognized and included in the $12.5 million of Hotel rental income.

Net Income. Net income increased $9.0 million for the first two quarters 1998 to $10.2 million for the first two quarters 1997 as a result of the changes discussed above, primarily the Conversion, and improved hotel operating results.

1997 Compared to 1996

Hotel Rental Income. On November 25, 1997, in connection with the refinancing, the General Partner and the Tenant/Manager converted the Operating Lease to a management agreement (the "Management Agreement"). As a result of this conversion, full year 1997 hotel rental income is not comparable to full year 1996 hotel rental income. Hotel rental income for the period January 1 through November 25, 1997 was $24 million. For the year, total Hotel sales increased 6% due primarily to a 7.6% increase in rooms revenue. REVPAR improved 10% to $124 due to a 7% increase in average room rate to approximately $170 and a 2.0 percentage point increase in average daily occupancy to approximately 73%.

Hotel Revenues. Effective November 25, 1997, the Partnership records hotel operations as revenues. As a result of the conversion from an Operating Lease to a Management Agreement, Partnership hotel revenues were $9.4 million. This consists of the Hotel's operating results for the period of November 25 through December 31, 1997.

Airline Equipment Rental Income. Airline equipment rental income was $1.2 million in 1996. The airline equipment lease was terminated in April 1996. On April 24, 1996, Trans World Airlines, Inc. ("TWA"), the lessee, terminated the lease and purchased the equipment, as permitted under the lease agreement.

Depreciation. Depreciation and amortization decreased by $550,000 due to the retirement of $7 million of equipment in 1997.

Property Taxes. Property taxes were unchanged at $2.0 million for both 1997 and 1996.

Partnership Administration and Other. Partnership administration and other decreased from $474,000 in 1996 to $445,000 in 1997 due to a slight decrease in administrative costs related to the refinancing.

Base Management Fee. As a result of the conversion to a management agreement, the Partnership recorded base management fees from November 26 through December 31, 1997. Base management fees are calculated as 3% of sales or $281,000 for 1997.

Insurance and Other. As a result of the conversion to a management agreement, insurance and other expense was $256,000. This expense includes a loss of $163,000 on the retirement of fixed assets, $65,000 of insurance expense and $28,000 in equipment rental and permits and licenses.

Incentive Management Fee. As a result of the conversion to a management agreement, the Partnership's incentive management fee expense from November 26 through December 31, 1997 was $123,000. As further explained in Note 7 to the financial statements, Marriott International is entitled to a total of $2 million in fees for 1997, $123,000 of which is incentive management fee expense.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, operating profit increased $1.9 million or 13% to $16.4 million for 1997 when compared to 1996.

Interest Expense. Interest expense decreased 5% from $15.5 million in 1996 to $14.8 million in 1997 due to a decrease in the Partnership's weighted average interest rate from 9.0% to 8.4%. The Partnership's $160 million Bridge Loan accrued interest at LIBOR plus 2.75 percentage points from January 1 through November 25, 1997, the closing date of the Bridge Loan refinancing. The weighted average interest rate for the Bridge Loan (see "--Debt financing") for this period was 8.4% compared to 9.0% in 1996. The refinancing of the Bridge Loan consists of three tiers of debt: a senior loan which bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.8%; a mezzanine loan, which bears interest at a fixed rate of 10.365%; and a Host Marriott junior loan which bears interest at a fixed rate of 13%.

Interest Income and Other. Interest income and other decreased 45% from $1.1 million in 1996 to $607,000 in 1997. The decrease is primarily due to the Partnership utilizing $8.2 million of cash and cash equivalents to reduce the balance of its outstanding mortgage debt combined with paying $2.7 million in refinancing costs which decreased the cash balance on which interest income is earned.

Extraordinary Items. The Partnership recognized an extraordinary gain in 1997 of $27.5 million representing the forgiveness of additional rental by the Tenant/Manager.

1996 Compared to 1995

Hotel Rental Income. Hotel rental income for 1996 increased 18% from $19.9 million in 1995 to $23.4 million in 1996. For the year, total Hotel revenues increased 15% due to increases in all areas of the Hotel including rooms, food and beverage, golf and spa and other ancillary revenues. REVPAR improved 9% to $113 due to a 5% increase in average room rate to approximately $158 and a 2.5 percentage point increase in average daily occupancy to approximately 71%. Food and beverage revenues increased 15% from $33.5 million in 1995 to $38.4 million in 1996.

Airline Equipment Rental Income. Airline equipment rental income decreased 56% from $2.8 million in 1995 to $1.2 million in 1996 due to the termination of the airline equipment lease in April 1996. On April 24, 1996, TWA, the lessee, terminated the lease and purchased the equipment, as permitted under the lease agreement.

Depreciation. Depreciation and amortization decreased by $91,000 due to the write-off in 1995 of the airline equipment partially offset by an increase in building and equipment depreciation due to the $9.1 million rooms renovation.

Property Taxes. Property tax expense increased 61% to $2.0 million in 1996 from $1.2 million in 1995 primarily due to a nonrecurring $600,000 refund received in 1995 related to property taxes paid in prior years.

Partnership administration and other. Partnership administration and other increased 34% primarily due to an increase in administrative costs due to the refinancing of the mortgage debt.

Operating Profit. As a result of the changes in revenues and operating costs and expenses discussed above, operating profit increased $1.2 million or 9.2%, to $14.5 million for 1996 when compared to 1995.

Interest Expense. Interest expense increased 16% from $13.4 million in 1995 to $15.5 million in 1996 due to an increase in the weighted average interest rate. The mortgage debt matured on July 27, 1996 and went into default on the maturity date. Pursuant to the loan documents, the mortgage debt accrued interest at the default rate of 10.75% until the refinancing on December 23, 1996. The weighted average interest rate on the first mortgage debt was 9.0% in 1996 and 7.8% in 1995.

Interest Income and Other. Interest income and other decreased 34% from $1.6 million in 1995 to $1.1 million in 1996. The decrease is primarily due to $692,000 of income recognized in 1995 on the funding of the pool expansion by Marriott Vacation Club International ("MVCI") offset by a $108,000 increase in interest income earned in 1996 on the Partnership's cash held for refinancing.

CAPITAL RESOURCES AND LIQUIDITY

The Partnership's financing needs have historically been funded primarily through loan agreements with independent financial institutions. The General Partner believes that the Partnership will have sufficient capital resources and liquidity to continue to conduct its operations in the ordinary course of business.

Principal Sources and Uses of Cash

The Partnership's principal source of cash is from Hotel operations. Its principal uses of cash are to make debt service payments, fund the Hotel's property improvement fund and establish reserves required by the lender.

Cash provided by operating activities for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997 was $14.9 million. Cash provided by operating activities increased $19,000 primarily due to the Conversion, as discussed in Note 3, combined with improved hotel operations. Prior to the Conversion, the Partnership recognized estimated annual hotel rental income on a straight-line basis throughout the year. This change combined with an overall improvement in hotel operations, an increase in accounts payable of $2.8 million due to increased accrued interest liability, offset by the payment of $2.0 million of accrued incentive management fees to MHS in second quarter 1998 resulted in the increase in cash from operations. Additionally, through June 19, 1998, an additional $1.5 million was transferred into the tax and insurance reserve account and $984,000 was disbursed to pay accrued real estate taxes. The tax and insurance reserve is included in restricted cash reserves and the resulting tax and insurance liability is included in accounts payable and accrued expenses in the accompanying balance sheet.

Cash used in investing activities for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997 was $3.9 million and $1.8 million, respectively. The Partnership's cash used in investing activities consists primarily of contributions to the property improvement fund and capital expenditures for improvements at the hotel. Contributions to the property improvement fund for the first two quarters 1998 were $3.6 million and $2.7 million for the first two quarters 1997. Contributions in 1998 increased due to a $5.7 million increase in gross hotel sales and an increase in the contribution rate from 4.5% in 1997 to 5.5% in 1998. Capital expenditures from the property improvement fund were $2.3 million and $1.3 million for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997, respectively.

Cash used in financing activities for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997 was $1.8 million and $11.9 million, respectively. The Partnership's cash used in financing activities consists primarily of payments of the mortgage debt, contributions to the restricted cash reserves and cash distributions. Contributions for the first two quarters 1998 to the restricted cash reserves consist of $500,000 for the replacement of the Hotel's air conditioning system and interest income earned for the first two quarters 1998 of $153,000. Disbursements from the reserves include $270,000 for the air conditioning work and $2.0 million for accrued incentive management fees payable to MHS. Contributions for the first two quarters 1998 to the restricted cash reserves in 1997 consisted of $10.9 million of excess cash from Hotel operations held for future debt service. During the second quarter of 1998, the Partnership distributed $2.3 million to the partners ($2,500 per limited partner unit) from 1997 operations. Additionally, for the first two quarters 1998 and 1997, the Partnership made $900,000 of loan repayments from the property improvement fund on the rooms refurbishment loan from Marriott International, Inc.

The Partnership's principal source of cash was from the Hotel Operating Lease up until November 25, 1997, at which time the Operating Lease was converted to the Management Agreement. Prior to the Equipment Lease termination, the Partnership's principal sources of cash included rents received under the Equipment Lease and proceeds from Equipment sales. Its principal uses of cash are to fund the property improvement fund, pay debt service and cash distributions to the partners. Additionally, during 1996 and 1997, the Partnership utilized cash to pay financing costs incurred in connection with the refinancing of the mortgage debt.

The Hotel Operating Lease provided for the payment of the greater of Basic Rental or Owner's Priority. Basic Rental equaled 80% of Operating Profit, as defined in the Hotel Operating Lease. Owner's Priority equaled the greater of (i) $20 million plus debt service on certain additional debt to expand the Hotel or (ii) Debt Service, as defined.

Pursuant to an agreement reached with Marriott International, for fiscal year 1997, the $20 million Owner's Priority was increased to $20.5 million. Marriott International was entitled only to the next $2 million of Operating Profit. Any additional Operating Profit in excess of $22.5 million was remitted entirely to the Partnership. For 1997, Operating Profit was $23.7 million, Marriott International earned $2.0 million and the remaining $1.2 million was remitted to the Partnership. In connection with the long-term financing, Marriott International agreed to waive any and all claims to Additional Rental (as defined in the Operating Lease) that accrued prior to the consummation of the loan ($27.5 million).

On November 25, 1997, in connection with the refinancing, the General Partner also negotiated with the Tenant/Manager to convert the Operating Lease to a management agreement (the "Management Agreement"). The Tenant/Manager would become manager of the Hotel (the "Manager"). The initial term of the Management Agreement continues through 2022 with four successive renewal options of ten years each.

Beginning with fiscal year 1998 forward, the Management Agreement provides that no incentive fee will be paid to the Manager with respect to the first $21.5 million of Operating Profit (the "Owner's Priority"). Thereafter the Manager will receive the next $1.8 million of Operating Profit as an incentive management fee and any Operating Profit in excess of the $23.3 million will be divided 75% to the Partnership and 25% to the Manager. Any such payments will be made annually after completion of the audit of the Partnership's books.

Total cash provided by operations of the Hotel was $12.4 million, $7.0 million and $6.7 million for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. Proceeds from the sale of airline equipment were $2.5 million for the year ended December 31, 1996, and $4.0 million for the year ended December 31, 1995 due to the sale of the equipment in 1996. Cash contributed to the property improvement fund of the Hotel was $4.6

million, $4.4 million and $3.8 million for the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. Cash distributed to the partners was $22.7 million, $1.5 million and $5.1 million during the years ended December 31, 1997, 1996 and 1995, respectively. Financing costs related to refinancing the mortgage debt were $1.2 million in 1997 and $2.7 million in 1996. There were no refinancing costs in 1995.

The General Partner expects that contributions to the property improvement fund will be a sufficient reserve for the future capital repair and replacement needs of the Hotel's property and equipment.

Pursuant to the terms of the Hotel Operating Lease and Management Agreement, the Partnership is obligated to fund major improvements for the Hotel's mechanical and heating systems. During 1998, the Partnership expects to fund approximately $2.0 million for improvements to the Hotel's HVAC system (heating, ventilating and air conditioning). Also, during 1998, the Partnership expects to fund approximately $350,000 on roof repair projects. The Partnership has established a reserve to pay for these improvements which is expected to be sufficient. This reserve is being held by the mortgage loan lender. There are currently no additional Partnership funded capital expenditure items expected for 1998.

DEBT FINANCING

On December 23, 1996, pursuant to an agreement with the Partnership, GMAC Commercial Mortgage Corporation ("GMAC") purchased the existing mortgage debt of the Partnership and amended and restated certain terms thereof (as amended and restated, the "Bridge Loan"). The Bridge Loan consisted of a $160 million nonrecourse mortgage loan. The Partnership utilized $8.2 million from its refinancing reserve to reduce the outstanding principal balance of the existing mortgage debt to the $160 million outstanding under the Bridge Loan. In addition, the Partnership utilized $2.6 million from the refinancing reserve to pay costs associated with the financing including lender's fees, property appraisals, environmental studies and legal fees. Approximately half of the $2.6 million was for fees related to the long-term financing. The Bridge Loan was originated by Goldman Sachs Mortgage Company ("GSMC"), matured on October 31, 1997 and bore interest at the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") plus 2.75 percentage points and required that all excess cash from Hotel operations, if any, be held in a debt service reserve for future debt service or to reduce the outstanding principal balance of the Bridge Loan upon maturity. For the year ended December 31, 1996, the weighted-average interest rate on the Partnership's mortgage debt was 9.0%. For the period of January 1 through November 25, 1997 the weighted average interest rate was 8.4%.

The Bridge Loan was secured by the Partnership's fee interest in the Hotel, a security interest in certain personal property associated with the Hotel including furniture and equipment, contracts and other general intangibles and a security interest in the Partnership's rights under the Hotel operating lease, the Hotel purchase agreement and other related agreements.

Pursuant to the terms of the debt refinancing, there are no continuing requirements for a debt service guarantee. Host and the General Partner were released from their obligations to the Partnership under their original debt service guarantee with the refinancing of the Partnership's mortgage debt.

In conjunction with the refinancing of the mortgage debt, the General Partner reaffirmed a foreclosure guarantee to the lender in the amount of $50 million. Pursuant to the terms of the foreclosure guarantee, amounts would be payable only upon a foreclosure of the Hotel and only to the extent that the gross proceeds from a foreclosure sale were less than $50 million. The foreclosure guarantee was not reaffirmed with the refinancing of the Bridge Loan.

On September 26, 1997, the General Partner received unrevoked consents approving a new loan structure and certain amendments to the Partnership Agreement which were necessary to refinancing negotiations of the Bridge Loan. An extension agreement was signed with the current lender on October 30, 1997, extending the maturity date and loan terms of the Bridge Loan from October 31, 1997 until December 31, 1997, without penalty.

On November 25, 1997, the Partnership secured long-term refinancing for its $160 million Bridge Loan. The new financing consists of three tranches: 1) a $103 million senior loan, 2) a $20 million loan and 3) a $59.7 million junior loan. The $103 million senior loan (the "Senior Loan") is from GMAC Commercial Mortgage Company ("GMAC") to a newly formed bankruptcy remote subsidiary of the Partnership, DS Hotel LLC, which owns the Hotel and related assets. The Senior Loan matures in December, 2022 and is secured by a first mortgage lien on the Hotel. The loan bears interest at a fixed rate of 7.8% and requires monthly payments of interest and principal with amortization over its twenty-five year term. On June 11, 2010 the interest rate increases to 200 basis points over the then current yield on 12 year U.S. treasuries and also additional principal payments will be required as defined in the loan agreement.

The second tranche of debt consists of a $20 million loan (the "Mezzanine Loan") from Goldman Sachs Mortgage Company ("GSMC") to a newly formed bankruptcy remote subsidiary of the Partnership, Marriott DSM LLC, which secures the loan. Marriott DSM LLC owns a 100% interest in DS Hotel LLC. The Mezzanine Loan consists of a fully amortizing $20 million loan maturing in December, 2010. The loan bears interest at a fixed rate of 10.365% and requires monthly payments of interest and principal with amortization over a twelve and one-half year term.

The third tranche of debt consists of a junior loan, (the "HM Junior Loan") to the Partnership from MDSM Finance LLC ("MDSM"), a wholly owned subsidiary of the General Partner. The HM Junior Loan has a term of thirty years and requires no principal amortization for the first twelve and one-half years with a seventeen and one-half year amortization schedule thereafter. Security for the HM Junior Loan is the Partnership's 100% interest in Marriott DSM LLC. If remaining cash flow is insufficient to pay interest on the HM Junior Loan, interest is deferred and will accrue and compound and be payable from future cash flow. The HM Junior Loan also entitles MDSM to receive 30% of any excess cash flow, as defined, available annually, plus 30% of any net capital/residual proceeds after full repayment of the Senior Loan, the Mezzanine Loan and the HM Junior Loan.

In conjunction with the refinancing of the mortgage debt, the Partnership was required to establish cash reserves which are held by an agent of the lender including:

- . $6.2 million debt service reserve
- . $1.5 million reserve for capital expenditures
- . $2.0 million reserve for payment of fees to the Tenant/Manager

The reserves were established from the Partnership's restricted cash related to the Bridge Loan in addition to Partnership operating cash.

In addition, the Partnership is required to establish with the lender a separate escrow account for payments of insurance premiums and real estate taxes for the Hotel if the credit rating of Marriott International is downgraded by Standard and Poor's Rating Services. The Manager is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Marriott International. In March 1997, Marriott International acquired the Renaissance Hotel Group N.V., adding greater geographic diversity and growth potential to its lodging portfolio. The assumption of additional debt associated with this transaction resulted in a single downgrade of Marriott International's long-term senior unsecured debt effective April, 1997. Therefore, the Partnership was required to establish a reserve account for insurance and real estate tax. As of December 31, 1997, $581,000 remains available to pay insurance and real estate taxes. The escrow reserve is included in restricted cash and the resulting tax and insurance liability is included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities in the accompanying balance sheet.

The Partnership utilized $1.2 million from the refinancing reserve to pay costs associated with the financing including lender or subsidiary fees, property appraisals, environmental studies and legal fees.

Debt to Marriott International

On April 30, 1996, the Partnership entered into a short-term loan with Marriott International in the amount of $1,700,000 to fund a portion of the Hotel's rooms refurbishment project. The loan's stated maturity was June 13, 1997, bore interest at 8.5% and was to be repaid from the property improvement fund as contributions were made during the year. At December 31, 1996, the loan balance was $900,000. The loan was fully repaid on March 28, 1997.

Property Improvement Fund

The Partnership is required to maintain the Hotel in good repair and condition. The Hotel Operating Lease agreement and Management Agreement require the Tenant/Manager to make annual contributions to the property improvement fund for the Hotel on behalf of the Partnership. Contributions to the fund are equal to 4.5% of Hotel gross revenues through 1997 increasing to 5.5% thereafter. Total contributions to the fund were $3.8 million in 1995, $4.4 million in 1996 and $4.6 million in 1997. The balance of the Hotel's property improvement fund was $1.6 million as of December 31, 1997.

During the summer of 1996, a $9.1 million rooms refurbishment was completed at the Hotel. The property improvement fund was not sufficient to fund the refurbishment. The Partnership arranged a short-term loan from Marriott International of up to $1.7 million at a fixed rate of 8.5% to finance the anticipated shortfall. The loan was repaid from the property improvement fund prior to its maturity on June 13, 1997. The General Partner believes that funds available from the property improvement fund will be adequate for anticipated renewal and replacement expenditures.

During 1995, the Hotel's main swimming pool was expanded. This $2.1 million expansion was funded partially with $692,000 in proceeds received from Marriott Vacation Club International ("MVCI") pursuant to an agreement between the Partnership and MVCI for the development of additional time share units on land adjacent to the Hotel. The Partnership funded the remaining $1.4 million from cash reserves.

Equipment Lease

The Partnership leased airline equipment to TWA under an operating lease which expired in April 1995. On April 20, 1995, the Partnership reached an agreement with TWA whereby TWA was obligated to pay quarterly payments of $780,000 plus interest in arrears at 17%. At the end of the lease in July 1996 (or earlier if a termination option was exercised), TWA had the option to purchase the equipment for one dollar ($1). The lease generated $5.4 million in cash flow during the 1995 fiscal year. As a result of the lease renewal terms, the Partnership recorded a receivable for the future lease payments due from TWA and deferred the gain on the transaction. The deferred gain was recognized as income as lease payments were received. Total rental income recognized in 1995 and 1996 on the lease was $2.8 million and $1.2 million, respectively. The original cost of the airline equipment was depreciated over the life of the operating lease. Depreciation expense on the airline equipment was $526,000 for the year ended December 31, 1995.

On April 24, 1996, TWA exercised its early termination option under the airline equipment lease and paid the rent due on that date of $847,000 along with the termination value of $780,000 plus the $1 purchase option. Rental income of $1,248,000 was generated by the lease in 1996.
